Designed by Black Educators for Black Educators, Allies, Student Teachers, Veteran Classroom Teachers, School Administrators, Instructors of Students Teachers and Nonprofit Organizations.

Hone your skills with educators on the vanguard of culturally responsive, affirming and sustaining teaching. Learn from leading experts in anti-racist educational pedagogy and practices proven to help all students, especially Black students, achieve in school.

E-Learning Courses

We will work with you to design the right mix of remote lessons and micro-learnings to create on-demand, self-paced e-learning courses to build the skills, will and mindsets that support anti-racist teaching. Sign up for yearly access to particular lessons or the full e-learning suite.

Lessons (45 to 90 minutes)
Includes interactive videos, educator perspectives, case studies, practical tips and learning assessments.

- Cultural Identity
- Implicit Bias
- Microaggression Nuances
- Culturally-Proficient Relationships with Students
- Culturally-Proficient Collaborations with Families

Micro-Learnings (5 to 15 minutes)

- How to Identify and Stop Using Ableist Language
- Addressing Biases that Impact Learning
- Tips for Making Academic Language Instruction Culturally-Proficient
- Difference Between Individualist and Collectivist Cultures
- How to Identify Cognitive Bias
- Five Culturally-Proficient Writing Activities
- Six Culturally-Proficient Read Aloud Strategies
- Validating and Affirming Cultural Behavior
- Five Tips for a Culturally-Proficient Do Now/Class Starters
- Grading with Equity

Interested in more information about e-learning courses?
Contact Victoria McCall, Director of E-learning: victoria.mccall@thecenterblacked.org
Affinity Spaces
We help create safe spaces to welcome, validate and support groups of Black educators, student teachers and others interested in anti-racist pedagogy. For each group, we structure ways to reflect on our experiences, discuss mutual concerns and explore how we can help one another fulfill our educator-activist roles within white-centric work environments.

Consultation Services
We can help provide tailored consultation services to support the recruitment, retention and promotion of Black educators. We want to hear from you to see how we can co-create professional learning experiences and affinity spaces that advance anti-racist teaching.

Cultural Proficiency Workshops
We offer both online and in-person workshops through a mix of instructional presentations, dynamic discussions, activation exercises and real-time feedback. The standard run time is 2.5 hours and the number of workshops can be tailored.

- Reflecting on One’s Cultural Identity
- Redressing Bias
- Microaggressions Impact on Diverse Learners
- Collaborating with Families
- Building Culturally-Proficient Relationships with Students
- Modeling High Expectations
- Drawing on Student’s Cultural Knowledge to Inform Instruction
- Formulating an Anti-Racist, Anti-Bias and Equity Driven Leadership Approach
- Engaging in Difficult Conversations on Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, Justice and Belonging

Interested in learning more about workshops, affinity spaces and consultation services?
Contact Taylor Howard, Director of Professional Development: taylor.howard@thecenterblacked.org

Truly appreciate you did not shy away from intersectionality within the Black community. I feel seen!
Black Male Engagement

We create affinity spaces and provide mentorship uniquely tailored for Black male educators. We also support schools, districts and organizations to energize their recruitment of Black men in teaching careers.

Each year, we host Black Men In Education Convening (BMEC), the largest gathering of Black men in education.

SAVE THE DATE
November 16-18, 2023
Loews Philadelphia Hotel
#BMEC2023

2022 BMEC Attendees reported statistically significant increases in:

- Culturally-proficient practices and teaching to uplift and restore students’ racial identities
- Historical contributions of Black people in education
- Emotional/mental condition and self-care support

Interested in learning more about BMEC 2023?
Contact Dr. M. Louis Robinson III, Director of Black Male Engagement: m.louis.robinson@thecenterblacked.org

HERE’S HOW:
Address implicit bias and microaggressions.
Foster culturally-proficient connections with families.
 Understand the intersectionality of the human experience.
Lead equity-driven transformations.

Contact us today.

thecenterblacked.org

info@thecenterblacked.org