THE UN SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS
The European Pact for Sustainable Industry provides a common direction for leaders with the same mindset, who want to care for their people and generate value for society.

CEOs and their companies are ready to build a Sustainable Europe 2030, but they cannot tackle this on their own. Therefore, we call on business leaders, industry federations, civil society organisations, and policymakers, to launch an overarching strategy for a Sustainable Europe 2030, which includes trust-building dialogues, collaborative platforms and inclusive finance models.

The European Pact for Sustainable Industry will offer a valid support to implement a comprehensive, inclusive, and transparent SDG monitoring and reporting process via the Sustainable Industry Barometer. This instrument will provide data on the sustainability level and maturity of European industry federations, demonstrating where progress has been made and where additional effort is needed.

The barometer is currently being developed by CSR Europe in collaboration with Moody’s Vigeo Eiris and will be officially launched at the European SDG Summit 2021.

"We have no choice but to act. We put out the Green Deal to change the direction of growth in the long term and are setting out how we will build our new future, whether it regards energy, industry, farming, food, or biodiversity. While we fight the health and economic crises that have taken over our daily lives, we cannot forget that the climate crisis already has one foot in the door. The cost of climate action may seem high, but it is dwarfed by the cost of inaction."

Frans Timmermans, Executive Vice-President, European Commission
