OVERVIEW

ALL NATIONS
INTERNATIONAL
reaching the neglected globally - the least, the best, and the last

The Sundanese in West Java, Indonesia, are the largest unreached people group in Indonesia. Even though there has been a Christian presence among this group for years, it is estimated that only about 0.5 percent are Christians. Being Muslim is deeply rooted in their hearts and identity. Devout in prayer, they practice their religion outwardly and legalistically, as one of good works. They have not yet received the good gift of God's grace.

All Nations' fieldworkers, the Sari* family, have lived in Bandung for five years. There, they actively reach out to the Sundanese, distributing staple foods to the poor and praying for the sick. Recently, they have witnessed healings. They are grateful for the seeds being planted through prayer and are awaiting the opening of hearts to receive the Good News. Their vision is raise up local leaders and intentionally build relationships among believers with Muslim backgrounds who desire to be disciplined.
