Eau Claire Family Medicine Residency

Frequently Asked Questions

Are residents involved in teaching medical students?
There are regularly scheduled opportunities for residents to teach medical students. Most medical students are from the Medical College of Wisconsin or osteopathic schools.

What will most residents do when they graduate?
Residents train for full-spectrum family medicine practice and prepare for a wide variety of career options. The flexibility of our program allows residents to choose their second and third year electives to meet the expected needs of their future employers. Recent graduates have entered the following types of practice:
- Full spectrum with OB including C-sections
- Hospitalist
- ER/Urgent care
- Outpatient only practices in solo, large multi-group specialty clinics, Indian Health Services, FQHC, fellowships and academic practice

Are there moonlighting opportunities available?
Yes. Many second and third year residents choose to moonlight.

Are there rural medicine opportunities?
Residents may choose electives in one of many rural clinic sites in the area, including Prevea Augusta Health Center.

As a resident, will I have a voice in decision-making?
Yes. Residents contribute to program evaluation and improvement formally and informally through:
- Completion of rotation evaluations
- Res/Fac Rap monthly meetings
- Semi-annual advisor/advisee meetings
- Annual Program Evaluation committee
- Annual Program evaluation survey
- Quality Improvement projects
- Informal interactions with program director, faculty and chief residents

Does the residency have a “night float” system?
We have experimented with this system and did not find it beneficial for all residents. We do not have night float.
