Join the conference!

This virtual conference is targeted towards members of the international civil society concerned of chemicals management. It involves participants from leading civil society organizations and social movements around the world, intergovernmental organizations and governmental representatives, like the ICCM5 President, to discuss challenges to international policies and regulations on chemicals. The conference offers daily high-level panels and space for information sharing, debate, and learning. Participants will be able to draft and discuss demands, targeting different stakeholder groups. Each day will have a different focal topic. Linkages to other policy areas, such as circular economy and health care, will be made.
