MARKET CENTER MERCHANTS ASSOCIATION ANNOUNCES STOREFRONT COMPETITION

Two Howard Street storefronts to be awarded to local small businesses ready to grow

BALTIMORE, Maryland – December 3, 2019 – Baltimore small businesses are in for a treat this season: The inaugural Howard Row Small Business Storefront Competition kicks off today. Local developer Poverni Sheikh Group (PSG) is sponsoring the contest in partnership with Market Center Merchants Association and Charles Street Development in an effort to increase foot traffic, attract new businesses, and increase awareness in the burgeoning Market Center district of Downtown Baltimore. The commercial spaces are part of the new Howard Row project at 407-415 N. Howard Street and include large storefront windows.

Contest winners will receive one year of free rent, though they will need to contribute financially to tenant improvements, put down a security deposit, and pay insurance and utilities. Each space will be delivered as a shell and includes one customer bathroom, one HVAC unit, and vinyl flooring. PSG anticipates allocating two of the following three addresses for the selected businesses: 409, 411, or 413 N. Howard Street. Each unit measures between 664 and 779 square feet.

The application process includes an information session in early January, with a deadline of January 31, 2020. Selected finalists will interview with a panel of judges, including community stakeholders, in February. Winners will be announced before the beginning of March. The application is online at http://marketcenterbaltimore.org/competition/.

Application criteria for businesses include how well they can meet the needs and desires of neighborhood residents and employees, increase foot traffic in Market Center, and offer goods or services that do not currently exist in the area—or bring a unique twist to an existing concept.

“We’re proud to be at the forefront of Market Center’s revival,” stated PSG CEO Eugene Poverni. “The upcoming Lexington Market renovation offers an opportunity for businesses and developers to get in on the ground floor—and we want to do as much as we can to provide opportunities to some of Baltimore’s most driven and creative entrepreneurs.”

In a recent survey, neighborhood residents were most interested in bars and restaurants, grocery and specialty food offerings, small boutiques, and arts & entertainment spaces. Over 275 businesses currently reside on the ground floor of buildings in the neighborhood surrounding Lexington Market, but many empty storefronts exist, rife with opportunity for new businesses.
The competition is focused on providing opportunities to creative-sector projects, small scale “makers”, and businesses rooted in cultures from around the world. Minority, women, immigrant, city resident, and/or veteran-owned businesses that offer accessibly priced options are especially encouraged to apply.

The Howard Street Storefront Competition is open until January 31, 2020. Learn more and apply here: http://marketcenterbaltimore.org/competition/.
