WORLDWIDE DISASTER RELIEF

Ira Luts was born in Ukraine and completed her master's degree in Biology Education at the National University in the city of Zaporizhya in Ukraine. For six years Ira taught microbiology at the Medical University in Ukraine, until her decision to immigrate to Israel. After immigrating to Israel, Ira completed her certificate studies in leading groups in intercultural transition at the Kibbutz Seminary College and has since been engaged in the field of immigrant absorption. Ira has worked on a number of aid projects in the field of immigration and integration in Israel, including the exercise of rights, running educational projects and accompanying families facing the difficulties of integrating into the country. To this day, she conducts workshops on the topic of intercultural transition for new immigrants. At NATAN Ira manages projects that the organization operates in Ukraine, including the ongoing Ukraine Resilience Training Program, run in cooperation with the municipality of Yavoriv, Ukraine and NATAN partner, Folkowisko Foundation.
