

My child feels increasingly competent & empowered to solve problems on their own!

My child is visually referencing their environment & taking initiative more often.

I am pausing to create more problem solving opportunities for my child.

My child is becoming more open.

I have less power struggles with my child. Our relationship is changing.

My communication is changing from negative (demanding) to positive (inviting).

Here is one path you may observe as you get comfortable with

Declarative Language!

@declarativelanguage

