From the President

In the news...

I hope all of you and your families are well in this trying time. With schools closed and many folks working from home at least there’s no traffic.

The great news is we have launched our new website at http://leaguecityhistory.org/. Be sure to look over the section on the One Room School. I want to thank Richard Lewis and Katie Benoit for their work with the web development. There are still a few things being tweaked so be sure to come back and visit again soon.

Due to the current issue with Corona Virus we are cancelling our March 26th monthly meeting. We are doing this as we think an abundance of caution is more important at this time than exposing ourselves to any opportunity to get ill. At this time our April 23rd meeting is still planned and we will let you know of any changes.

March Message from the Marm

March “comes in like a Lion and out like a Lamb.” Catherine Gill and I were making plans just last Thursday for Spring Cleaning at the Schoolhouse, which made for a great photo and article calling for volunteers that is sadly no longer relevant for this newsletter. Things changed so quickly. But, my opening still resonates. That Lion will give way to the Lamb. Even with recent closures, social distancing, and general uncertainty, it goes without saying that the wonder of Spring itself will not be cancelled, reminding us to take this unlooked for time to tidy up at home, remember what’s important, and finally maybe even get some gardening in.

Good friends help you to find important things when you have lost them; your smile, your hope, and your courage. Doe Zantamata

March 26   Deeply Rooted in Texas. The Groce family history. We will notify members and friends of the new date for this interesting program.
April 30  Crisis Response Therapy Dogs. Their training and handling and use in emergency situations by Sally Farley from Crisis Response Team, Houston.

Fun and Unique Ideas For Things to Do While at Home

Events today are a serious matter; one that has caused us all to take drastic measures to keep ourselves and our loved ones safe. Since we cannot gather together due to a new phenomenon called “social distancing” let us bring our historical society meeting to YOU. Below you will find two historical video slideshows. One on Prohibition from our January meeting (if you missed it) and another interesting one looking at the decade of the Roaring 20’s (to compare to life today.)

Other Unique Ideas For Things to Do

• Look Up Genealogical History of Your Family.
• Begin a Family Tree Online to Share.
• Clean Out Closets (and Donate To LCHS Yard Sale).
• Read A Great Book From A Past Era. (Short list below)
• Plant A Heirloom, Heritage Vegetable Garden.
• Take A Walk In The Woods to Smell the Roses.
• Refinish A Piece of Furniture That Really Needs It.
• Wash Your Windows.
• Write A Letter/Email To A Friend or Relative.
• Write a Note/Send a Card to Someone in a Nursing Home

The story of Truman’s death is a historical one. The Houston Post: Thursday, April 17, 1947: “Two small planes blown to pieces; Flyers Missing” was the headline. One of those flyers was Roy Truman Hatfield. The other man was John S. Morris, Jr., a friend of Truman’s. Truman’s obit in the Galveston News, April 19, 1947, p. 6 did not hint at the severity of the plane or what happened. It read:

HATFIELD: Roy Truman Hatfield of Texas City, died Wednesday. He was 26 years of age and was employed as an operator at the Carbide & Carbon Chemical Corporation. He was a victim of a plane crash. He was a lifelong resident of League City, and is survived by his wife, Mrs. R. T. Hatfield; his mother, Mrs. Emma Hatfield, a sister, Mrs. Marie Bartholow, and an uncle, J. W. Hatfield of League City.

Funeral Services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday from the Methodist Church of League City with Rev. W. R. Wratton of League City officiating. Burial will be in League City Cemetery under the direction of Broadway funeral home of Galveston. What the obituary fails to tell us is that April 16, 1947 was that infamous day that is now known as the Texas City Disaster. It occurred at the Port of Texas City on Galveston Bay. It was the deadliest industrial accident in U. S. history. A mid-morning fire started on board the French-registered vessel SS Grandcamp (docked in the port) and detonated her cargo of approximately 2,200 tons of ammonium nitrate. This started a chain reaction of additional fires and explosions in other ships. The events killed a total of at least 581 people, including all but one member of the Texas City fire department.

When I started doing research on the WWII veterans interred in Fairview, I was able to contact a daughter of Hazel Marie Hood, the widow of Truman Hatfield. Truman and Hazel Hood became man and wife on October 17, 1942 in Harris County. They lived in Texas City because Truman worked for Carbide & Carbon Chemical Corporation. Their home was just one block from a small airport where Truman learned to fly. Beverly Bailey, Hazel’s daughter with her second husband shared memories from her mother of the day of the event. She said that Hazel remembered eating breakfast in Texas City and Truman walked to the airport to see his buddy off. That buddy was John S. Morris, Jr. who was all packed and ready to move his family to California, but 2 reporters showed up at the airport and offered to pay them to take them over the explosion. That was a fatal mistake for all involved. While flying 2 different planes over the explosion, another explosion occurred, and the planes were blown from the sky.
Truman Hatfield was the son of William Roy Hatfield and Emma Franks who are also buried in Fairview Cemetery. William Hatfield met a tragic death of his own in July of 1940 while changing a tire on Highway 146, he was struck by a vehicle and died on July 21st. Mr. William R. Hatfield was born in West Virginia so I was curious if he was one of those Hatfields, you know, “Hatfields and McCoys” fame. The answer is “yes”. Truman was the 1st cousin, 3 times removed of the infamous Anderson “Devil Anse” Hatfield.

Hazel remembered going to search for Truman and then being contacted by the Red cross of her husband’s death. Ms. Baily shared that her mother said that Truman liked to hunt, loved to dance, and played the bass fiddle. He was also a Mason. Texas City Lodge No. 1118 sent Hazel Truman a check for $100 to help with her adjustment as a widow. They also offered to help with finding companies to repair their home.

Truman had been a WWII veteran of the U. S. Navy. He was stationed onboard the USS Indiana in the Pacific Theatre. One of Hazel’s nicest memories was of her visiting husband in Seattle when the USS Indiana was in for repairs. Hazel and Truman Hatfield didn’t have any children. Hazel remarried on November 22, 1947 in Harris County to Wallace L. Rairigh. They had 3 children. Mrs. Hazel Truman Rairigh passed away on September 1, 2010.

Above: Student council picture in the 1939 Clear Creek High School yearbook. Truman Hatfield is the 1st boy on 3rd row at the top. Deborah Gammon did the research for this herself as she also attended CCHS.

President Ronnie Richards opened the meeting and introduced Mr. Nick Cimino, a writer, well-known genealogist who is President of the Bay Area Genealogical Society and is on the Board of Directors for the Clayton Library. Mr. Cimino passed out his “Ancestor Puzzle” business cards, a brochure from the Association of Professional Genealogists, information regarding the Bay Area Genealogical Society programming and a brochure from the Clayton Library Center for Genealogical Research.

Mr. Cimino asked how many attendees are working on research of their families? Many responded and gave interesting details. He said it is important to know the steps in the genealogy research process:

Gather What you have: (Search for documents at home and ask family for research or documents they may have.)

Organize: (Identify your vital information, such as birth, death and marriage certificates. Then identify vital information for your parents, grandparents and other generations in your family. Then fill out a pedigree chart.)

Decide what you want to know: (Who are you researching? What do you want to know about them? Where and what time period are you researching?)

Once you have completed these steps you can then review various sources that can help learn more about your family history.

Mr. Cimino talked about the various places we can search and gave examples. He said you can make genealogy history fun! You can study places close to home, study heirlooms, antiques, travel to family sites, research the history of your ancestors and find out so many things such as who they are and if there are any heroes and/or scoundrels in your family.

He said there are so many places you can do family search that are free. He discussed how you can record the names and information you find.

When you are looking for names, dates, marriages, children, deaths residences, occupations, military service and immigration dates you can use free sites such as familysearch.org or join an online groups which charge a small monthly fee such as Ancestors.com .

Mr. Cimino went on to say that after we do the research you can Record, Analyze and Publish the information.

He also said that sometimes you just get stalled when making progress and need help and there are trained genealogists who can do the research needed because they know where to search and it may save you money and time in the long run.

Mr. Cimino said to really think about preserving your family history before it is too late. He finished by saying you can publish “the story of YOU”.

Ronnie Richards thanked Nick Cimino for his wonderful talk on genealogy. Katie Benoit Hake mentioned our next meeting which will be a workshop on making sugar Easter eggs on March 16 at 7pm at the WBCS Children’s Museum meeting space and our next regular meeting will be Thursday, March 26th.

The meeting was adjourned.
