REPORT FROM THE DIRECTOR AND PRESIDENT

The Association of Marshall Scholars (AMS) continued to advance its core strategic objectives over the past year working to strengthen the Marshall Scholarship, to build US-UK ties, and to increase Marshall alumni community engagement and visibility. The AMS has focused on building engagement, strengthening the Scholarship and AMS programming, communications, development, and UK relations.

ENGAGEMENT

In 2023, the AMS benefited from strong alumni engagement. One hundred ninety members volunteered their time, expertise, and support in leadership roles, including serving on the AMS Advisory Board, the AMS Board of Directors, and as officers, regional events coordinators, outreach volunteers, program speakers, and as members of Marshall Scholarship application Reading and Selection Committees.

The AMS began work to establish an informal advisory group of leaders and former government officials in the United Kingdom who are committed to the Marshall Scholarship and who serve as trusted advisors to the AMS. The friendship between the United States of America and the United Kingdom draws strength from a shared commitment to liberty, democracy, free markets, the rule of law, and international cooperation and peace. Marshall Scholars have helped to strengthen the transatlantic relationship for seven decades, deepening understanding between the two nations. The UK Friends of Marshall advisors will help the Association continue to strengthen the transatlantic relationship through the Marshall Scholarship and other ongoing AMS initiatives.
On June 7, 2023, 10 Downing Street announced, as part of the Atlantic Declaration, an increase of 25% of the number of Marshall Scholarships awarded annually, with a commensurate increase in funding by the British Government. As a result, the British Government announced 51 new winners of the Marshall Scholarship in December 2023. The 2024 class will be the 70th class in the program’s history and includes aspiring diplomats, fighter pilots, and scientists. Half of the 2024 class intends to pursue stem-related degrees, including several who will study issues relating to the ethics and advancements of Artificial Intelligence.

The AMS continues to work closely with the Marshall Aid Commemoration Commission, UK Consulates, and UK Embassy on outreach efforts to potential applicants, development of regular Marshall Forums focused on key issues affecting the transatlantic relationship, and strategic efforts to strengthen the visibility and vitality of the Marshall Scholarship and community. AMS Board member Anna Quider (2007) has assumed the role of Chair of the Outreach and Diversity Standing Committee, and the AMS is supporting a pilot effort run by alumni Jessica Audrey Lee (2005) to link alumni with Fellowship Advisors.

In 2023, the AMS hosted approximately 1,600 program attendees. Events included 25 regional, virtual, and partnership programs with a range of program partners that included the UK Foreign, Commonwealth, and Development Offices, the German Marshall Fund, Rotary International, Planet Word Museum, the Rhodes Trust, Mitchell Scholarship, the Hertz Foundation, the Brown University Arts Institute, and the NYU John Brademas Center, among others.

Additional class reunions and collaborations with British Consulate Generals and the British Embassy took place throughout the year.

AMS regional events and partner programming in 2023 included:

- Biomedical innovations’ Boston-based dinner hosted by Bruce Booth (1996), Elizabeth Harmer Dionne (1992), and Keith Harmer Dionne, featuring distinguished guest speaker and AMS Advisory Board member Doug Melton (1975)

- Bay Area gathering for Marshall Scholars and Schmidt Science Fellows hosted CEO & Co-Founder Mark DePristo (2000), CSO & Co-Founder Peyton Greenside (2019 Schmidt Science Fellow), and Tom Lupfer (1979) CEO of Clarity Design

- NASA Ames Research Center private tour organized by Bianca Mulaney (2016) and NASA Research Scientist Jessica Lee (2005) – featuring speakers: Joe Sacco (NASA’s acting director of the National Full-Scale Aerodynamics Complex (NFAC), Jon Galazka (GeneLab Project Scientist NASA), Eduardo Almeida (Senior Scientist at Space Biosciences Research Branch NASA), Jonathan Barlow (Astrobee Lead Engineer)

- “AI and Poetry” program hosted at Oxford University by Olivia Holder (2020) at the Gardens Libraries and Museums Community Connector, University of Oxford with Associate Professor Eben Kirksey (2000)
• RAND Europe HQ policy dialogue for Rising Policy Leaders hosted by Hans Pung (1995)
• Open-air Sting Concert at Wolf Trap Center for the Performing Art with a stop-by from CEO Arvind Manocha (1994)
• Exhibition viewing of Varying Shades of Brown by Carrie Mae Weems and dialogue with Deshawn McKinney (2017) and Brian Ferguson (2019), hosted by Avery Willis Hoffman (2000)

SCHOLARSHIP ORIENTATION PROGRAMMING

The AMS was pleased to collaborate with the British Embassy in Washington, D.C., to support the 2023 Marshall Scholars US-based orientation program.

Highlights for this orientation program included

- Remarks by AMS Board Directors Bob Kyle (1977), Nathan Fagre (1977) and Rebecca Peterson (2016);
- A panel with Nick Schwartz (2018), Graduate Research Assistant, University of Maryland; Jeremy Ratcliff (2019), Senior Scientist at the Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory; and Victoria Maloch (2018), Special Advisor for Strategic Communications, Office of Communications, USDA;
- A panel discussion at the White House with several members of the National Security Council, including AMS Advisory Board member and Coordinator for Indo-Pacific Affairs, NSC, Kurt Cambell (1972); Director, Science & Technology, NSC, Tarun Chhabra (2005), Assistant Director, White House Office of Science and Technology Policy, Ben Buchanan (2013), Special Assistant to the President and Senior Director for the White House Situation Room, NSC, Marc Gustafson (2007), Deputy Assistant to the President and Deputy Homeland Security Advisor, Josh Geltzer (2005), Principal Deputy Legal Advisor & Special Assistant to the President, Jennifer Daskal (1994), and Assistant Director for Technology Strategy, NSC, Tantum Collins (2014); and

The program also included guided tours of the National Smithsonian African American History Museum, NASA’s Goddard Space Flight Center, and the Pentagon led by Principal Cyber Advisor to the US Secretary of the Army, US Department of Defense, Michael Sulmeyer (2004).

A reception was hosted by UK Deputy Ambassador James Roscoe with alumni and the newest class of Marshall Scholars congratulating them on their award.

In London and Oxford, alumni were able to support the MACC’s 2023 Marshall Scholar orientation program organized by Francis Crick Institute Post-Doctoral Researcher Benjamin Heineike (2002), as well as UK-based alumni: Colleen Loynachan (2014), Kyra Kocis (2020), and Eben Kirksey (2000).
The Marshall Forum on Arts and Creativity was co-hosted by Ann and Tom Friedman (1975) on September 18, 2023, at the Planet Word Museum. Slightly more than one hundred guests attended.

The Marshall Forum opened the 2023/2024 Marshall Arts Festival, celebrating 70 years of the Scholarship and featuring reflections from writers, journalists, musicians, and leaders in several creative fields. Speakers at the 2023 Marshall Forum included:

- Ann Friedman, Planet Word Museum Founder and CEO (host)
- Andrew Robison (1962) Former Senior Curator of Prints and Drawings, National Gallery of Art
- Jon Galassi (1971) Author & Chairman, Farrar, Straus & Giroux
- Mark Whitaker (1979) Author & Media Executive. Former Editor, Newsweek
- Avery Willis Hoffman (2000) Artistic Director, Brown Arts Initiative

COMMUNICATIONS

SOCIAL / DIGITAL MEDIA AND MARSHALL COMMUNICATIONS

Visibility for the Association’s work has grown over the past year. The AMS has seen approximately 64% growth; the AMS website – http://marshallscholars.org – has had a year-over-year increase of 38% in visitors since its June 2020 launch.

The AMS Newsletter Fall 2023 edition was released on October 21, 2023, and the print edition in late November. This issue featured reflections from Charles Whaley (Marshall Scholar, 1954) on his first days in the UK, the role Josh Goldman (Marshall Scholar, 2002) is playing in helping us move more quickly toward a clean energy future, and the ways Praveena K. Fernes (Marshall Scholar, 2020) finds people’s stories to create awareness.

Additionally, the AMS issued two community-wide announcements in our new initiative to recognize scholar’s achievements:

- NOVEMBER 1, 2023: The White House announced today that President Biden has nominated Kurt Campbell, a Marshall Scholar from the class of 1980 and a former member of the Association of Marshall Scholars’ Advisory Board, for the role of the United States Deputy Secretary of State, the second-highest diplomatic office within the United States Department of State.

- NOVEMBER 8, 2023: Gabe Amo, a Marshall Scholar from the class of 2010, won the special election to represent Rhode Island’s First District in the US House of Representatives.

PRINT & NATIONAL MEDIA

For the fifth consecutive year, the AMS commissioned a national poll by Emerson College with the purpose of (1) probing current US perceptions of transatlantic ties and (2) assessing Marshall Scholarship brand awareness by the US public.

The AMS press release with results from the national poll was picked up by 451 outlets/news sources, including the Associated Press, with a potential audience of 267.2 million. For comparison, the 2022 poll received 342 pickups with a potential audience size of 215 million.

Additionally, the AMS issued a press release congratulating the newly selected 2024 class of Marshall Scholars for the second consecutive year. The press release was picked up by 471 outlets/news sources, including the Associated Press, with a potential audience of 250 million.

As in previous years, our national poll also included questions to assess public brand awareness of the Marshall Scholarship in relation to comparable Scholarship schemes. In 2023, 43% of Americans polled had never heard of the Marshall Scholarship, the same percentage of the respondents who had not heard of the Scholarship in 2022.

The Marshall Scholarship is still significantly less well known than the Rhodes (27% had not heard of the Rhodes in 2023) and the Fulbright (34% had not heard of the Fulbright in 2023). As compared with previous years, the net positive (“somewhat” and “very positive”) views of the Marshall Scholarship have also gone down to 28% positive, with positive sentiment peaking in 2021 with a 49% net positive view of the Marshall Scholarship.

The year-on-year research continues to underscore a significant challenge for the Scholarship: how to build more awareness of the program and understanding of the impact of its alumni.

The AMS issued a press release congratulating the newly selected 2024 class of Marshall Scholars for the second consecutive year. The press release was picked up by 471 outlets/news sources, including the Associated Press, with a potential audience of 250 million.
2023 ANNUAL GIVING

In 2023, the AMS received donations from individual private donors, foundations, and corporations, including 29 new donors. Over 90% of AMS contributions came from donors participating with gifts of less than $10,000 – many of whom have committed multi-year pledges. The AMS was pleased to note that donations came from 97% of all Marshall classes (seventy years of classes since the program’s inception), with several of these classes giving at a participation rate of 20% or higher – including participation by members of the very first class of Marshall Scholars from 1954.

STRENGTHENING THE MARSHALL SCHOLARSHIP

The AMS directed approximately $220,000 of funding in 2023 toward strengthening the Scholarship program in several ways. A Marshall Scholar was funded through the AMS Marshall Scholarship endowment of $1.6 million created through contributions from 200+ Marshall alumni and a matching grant from Reid Hoffman CBE (1990). The AMS also matched a British Schools and University Foundation donation to support a Marshall Scholarship for a total of $60,000. The AMS–BSUF grant has occurred annually since 2016. In addition, alumni and other donors supporting Marshall Scholarships at their respective alma maters have committed additional funding for when Scholarship positions are secured at Sussex University and Magdalen College, Oxford.

Through the generosity of alumni, the AMS continues to offer three grants to all current scholars. First, the Marshall Xtra grant (of 1,000 GBP per scholar) enables each of the eighty-five enrolled scholars in 2023 to further enhance their experience of British life and culture during their Marshall Scholarship program. Second, the AMS Marshall Plus grant supports class camaraderie-building activities, such as Thanksgiving dinner together, hiking trips, or theater excursions. Third, AMS offers an Emergency Fund to support scholars during unforeseen emergencies that may seriously affect scholars’ ability to conduct their research overseas. In total, in addition to establishing the AMS Marshall Scholarship endowment, alumni have committed ~ $2.2M over the past 7 years towards directly strengthening the Marshall Scholarship program at their respective UK alma maters.

LELAND FOUNDATION AMS TRANSATLANTIC ACADEMY FELLOWSHIP AT CHATHAM HOUSE

The AMS offered its third 10-month fellowship opportunity: the Leland Foundation Association of Marshall Scholars Transatlantic Academy fellowship at Chatham House, The Royal Institute of International Affairs. The paid fellowship is geared toward emerging leaders with experiences from government, the broader policy community, the private sector, media and civil society, as well as with expertise in science, technology, engineering and other fields that help further understanding of global governance challenges. The fellowship was awarded to Rebecca Peters (2014) from 1/2021 - 4/2022 for research on climate policy and governance with a focus on Asia-Pacific. The second fellowship was awarded to Gabriella Cook Frances (2019) from 10/2021 - 9/2022, for research on US foreign policy and America’s role in international geopolitics. The third fellowship was awarded to Sam Boland (2016) from 10/2022 - 7/2023 for research on universal health reforms in sub-Saharan Africa.
