Sonia recently led a masterclass on communication for my class at Pepperdine University. Her innovative approach and practical insights on speaking and negotiating were highly impactful. As an educator, it's rare to encounter professionals who can profoundly influence and motivate a diverse group of learners. Sonia captivated our students and empowered them with essential tools to speak with confidence, persuasion, and poise.

Sonia hosted the Forbes Coaches Council TEDx event as a moderator. Her organizational skills were impeccable - she created a well-structured and digestible format, allowing seamless navigation through complex topics of multiple speakers. Her talent for sustaining audience engagement was remarkable. I strongly recommend following her guidance as a moderator of the event.

After taking Sonia's course to enhance my public speaking skills, I was asked to fill in at work last minute as a webinar host. The storytelling and grounding techniques Sonia taught helped me immensely as I shared sensory details of a travel experience with nearly 900 industry attendees. We received wonderful feedback from participants and our executives were so pleased with my performance I have been told this definitely will not be my last webinar as a host!
