COMPREHENSIVE TRANSITION PROJECT (CTP)

The CTP is an opportunity for students with intellectual disabilities (ID) to make use of the Coppin State University (CSU) campus as a means to:

- Increase their level of independence
- Improve social and communication skills in authentic environments
- Develop friendships with people of similar ages
- Improve self-determination skills
- Obtain career exploration experiences and employment
- Participate in college workshops and classes
- Increase mobility in the community
- Develop age-appropriate leisure and recreational interest

WHO IS ELIGIBLE FOR PARTICIPATION IN THE CTP?

Students will be recruited through teacher referral from local school districts, the Maryland Division of Rehabilitation Services (DORS), families, friends, medical service providers, etc., and should meet the following criteria:

- Meet the American Association of Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities (AAIDD) definition of ID:
- Intellectual disability is a disability characterized by significant limitations in both intellectual functioning and in adaptive behavior, which covers many everyday social and practical skills. This disability originates before the age of 18.
- Have completed high school
- Have community, work, and independent living transition goals
- Are no longer receiving services under the Individuals with Disabilities Act

COPPIN STATE UNIVERSITY CTP OVERVIEW

- CTP is a two-year certificate program for students with ID.
- Provides integrated academic, career, and independent living instruction in preparation for gainful employment.
- Students attend classes, participate in internships and work experiences, and engage in all aspects of campus life.
- Includes on-going person-centered planning, through which students develop goals that they work toward while at CSU.
- CTP students will be assigned a mentor, and receive other individualized supports as identified through person-centered planning.
- Mentors support students through instruction, encouragement, information, resources, and guidance in all areas of the program, including academics, employment, internships, and campus life.
- The three major curricular areas are: Academics, Career, and Independent Living.
