ABOUT US

Who We Are

We are Pangea Educational Development, but you can call us Pangea for short. We are a social enterprise based in Uganda that is working to change the narrative in education.

What We Do

Our mission is to create culturally relevant products and programs that help children learn to read and inspire them to read more often. We have a vision to reach a 100% literate world in our lifetime. Literacy skills not only equip students to read, but empower them to continue learning on their own.

What We Value

Our values not only inform our mission, but how we accomplish it:

Diversity & Inclusion: Everyone has a story. We value and amplify the many identities, abilities, cultures, and perspectives around the world as the strength of our community.

Human-Centered: We place people at the center of our work - working together in collaboration and with humility.

Sustainability: We thoughtfully invest in local leadership and practices that lead to durable systemic transformation.

When a child can read, she can write her own future.
Our Books

Beautiful Color Illustrations

Each of our storybooks features beautiful, full-color images with leveled texts integrated on the pages. Each story includes background information to create and place the story in its geographic and cultural context, allowing for rich and deep learning opportunities in the classroom.

Aligned For A Sustainable Future

All of our books are aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). Critical to literacy is also what content children are reading about. Introducing children to these themes at early grades is critical to establishing mindsets that learners will take into adulthood.

Aligned To Build The Nation

Pangea Publishing aligns all of our books with the Ugandan thematic curriculum. Memory is the residue of thought. If we want students to remember subject information, we must integrate it into their reading materials.

Featured Around The World

We do not compromise on quality
Leveling

We level our books based on the Lexile Framework for Reading. Lexile Levels are one of the most commonly used leveling systems in the world and we find them as a helpful reference point.

- Leveling based on a carefully sequenced scale of difficulty to ensure student-to-text match
- Step by step teacher support targeting comprehension, vocabulary, but rooted in curiosity
- Leveling based on a carefully sequenced scale of difficulty to ensure student-to-text match

However, it is important to keep in mind the unique experiences individual students bring into the classroom. Like all students, all readers are unique. Please use this chart below as a reference but keep in mind that your students interests will be the greatest guide in selecting the right books for your classroom.
