July 19, 2022 – NIVA ‘22, the first annual conference of the National Independent Venue Association took place July 11–12 featuring two eventful days of panels, workshops, networking, and entertainment across Cleveland venues including Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum, Pickwick & Frolic, Music Box, Happy Dog, Beachland Ballroom, and Grog Shop. Those participating included artists Big Freedia and Meshell Ndegeocello, Senators Cornyn, Klobuchar and Schumer, and more than 100 industry experts to discuss the current state of the industry, safety, technology, maximizing revenue, inclusion, diversity, equity, accessibility, booking, ticketing, and marketing, among other topics. Cleveland Mayor Bibb kicked-off the conference by welcoming NIVA ‘22 to the host city and the National Independent Venue Foundation provided an update on grants it provided to venues that were affected by floods, fires and other business-threatening events.

More than 600 registrants including NIVA members who are part of the independent music and comedy venue, festival, and promoter community, were joined by affiliate members, and talent agents and managers from National Independent Talent Organization (NITO). This was the first time NIVA members and those who support them came together in person. NIVA formed in the early days of the pandemic when gathering places were shuttered and the independent industry was at risk of mass collapse. NIVA spearheaded the Save Our Stages Act, which became the $16 billion Shuttered Venue Operator Grant.

“What an honor to be part of such an impactful two days,” said NIVA Executive Director, Rev. Moose. “Not only did we exceed our attendance goals, we managed to create an even stronger sense of community within our industry focused on fostering authentic connections, sharing impactful knowledge, and empowering our peers, our friends, and our industry to overcome the enormous challenges the pandemic has placed on us.”

During the conference, NIVA held its first-ever Awards Formal at the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and Museum. Awards were honored in seven categories to individuals who have done outstanding work to further NIVA’s mission to preserve and nurture the community of independent live entertainment:
