Primary Leather: Choose Color and Texture

The primary leather is on the skirts of the saddle. Your choice will affect the look of the saddle, and will have an impact on the way the saddle feels when you get it. Memal and buffalo will feel soft immediately; padded calf may take a few rides to soften.

All of our choices are durable; we've known our saddles to hold up for more than 20 years (and counting!), so feel confident in making your choice based on your preference for the look of your saddle, or possibly the cost.

If you have a vision that isn't presented here, let us know. Our design team can often find a solution!

Primary Skirt Leather Option: Wrapped Calf

The skirts are wrapped with a thin foam layer which softly cushions the leather. You may choose your stitch color and, within reason, customize the stitching pattern.

You may order matching flaps with matching stitch pattern and color, or opt for the Skinny Flaps which are included with every saddle.

Standard colors are black, dark brown, or nut brown. Other options provided upon request.

Primary Leather Option: Memal in “Buffalo Print”

Memal is a durable leather available in a dotted print, or in a streaky buffalo print.

Note: this is cow leather, with the print rolled onto the leather during the tanning process.

Primary Skirt Leather Option: Memal in Dotted Print

Memal is leather that is softened and oiled in the tanning process so that it is grippy and feels broken-in from the very first ride.

This durable leather is the most common option for our saddles.

Primary Skirt Leather Option: Memal

Memal is available in black, dark brown, and nut brown, and in a dotted pattern (left) or a streaky mock buffalo pattern (right).

Primary Skirt Leather Option: Real Buffalo

Real Buffalo Leather is thicker, softer, and heavier than cow leather. The grain varies widely depending on the hide, from extremely streaky to very little grain. Specify your preference when you order.

Detachable Skinny Flaps™ in matching buffalo require a dual tab attachment due to the weight of the flaps.

Buffalo is available in black or brown.
