RE: The FY 2023 Omnibus and the Mainstreaming Addiction Treatment Act (“MAT Act”, H.R. 1384 / S. 445)

Dear Speaker Pelosi, Majority Leader Schumer, Leader McConnell, and Leader McCarthy:

Thank you for including the bipartisan *Mainstreaming Addiction Treatment Act (“MAT Act”, S. 445, H.R. 1384) in the Fiscal Year 2023 omnibus bill introduced this week. On behalf of the nearly 200 organizations that have called for Congress to enact the MAT Act by the end of the year, we urge you to pass the omnibus with due speed to prevent overdoses, increase access to treatment, and reduce stigma. See Letter to U.S. Senate and House Leadership dated November 29, 2022, attached as Exhibit A.

We applaud you for ensuring that the omnibus addresses the deadly and accelerating overdose crisis. The MAT Act, which is one of the most broadly supported pieces of overdose prevention legislation this session, will remove outdated barriers that prevent health care providers from prescribing a safe and effective treatment for opioid use disorder, known as buprenorphine. Buprenorphine is considered a gold standard of care for opioid use disorder because it saves lives and helps individuals secure long-term recovery.ⁱ The MAT Act will help integrate substance use treatment into primary care practices, emergency departments, behavioral health care practices, and other health care settings.

With nearly 300 loved ones dying from overdoses every day,ⁱⁱ Congress must act now to expand access to lifesaving treatment that can prevent overdoses and support recovery. The MAT Act will equip states and local communities with one of the best treatments available to save lives.

Thank you for your prompt action. Please contact Erin Schanning, president of End Substance Use Disorder, with questions at erin@endsud.org.

RE: The Mainstreaming Addiction Treatment Act (“MAT Act”, S. 445 / H.R. 1384)

Dear Speaker Pelosi, Majority Leader Schumer, Leader McConnell, and Leader McCarthy:

The nearly 200 undersigned organizations urge you to pass the bipartisan Mainstreaming Addiction Treatment Act (“MAT Act”, S. 445, H.R. 1384) by the end of the session. In the midst of a deadly and accelerating overdose crisis, the MAT Act is a common-sense solution that will prevent overdoses, increase access to treatment, and reduce stigma.

The MAT Act has strong bipartisan support. The House passed the MAT Act by an overwhelming bipartisan majority as part of the Restoring Hope for Mental Health and Well-Being Act of 2022 (H.R. 7666). With more than 260 Democratic, Republican, and Independent co-sponsors – including the Chairs of the Democratic Caucus and the Republican Conference and Senators from all parties, the MAT Act is among the most broadly supported pieces of overdose prevention legislation introduced in Congress this session. Both President Biden’s and President Trump’s former Directors of the Office of National Drug Control Policy have called for Congress to pass the MAT Act.ⁱ They join the bipartisan U.S. Commission on Combating Synthetic Opioid Trafficking in urging Congress to pass the policy.ⁱⁱ

Together, our organizations represent and serve millions on the front lines of the overdose crisis. Our organizations include people and families personally affected by the overdose crisis, law enforcement professionals and first responders, health care and behavioral health providers, Veterans, faith-based leaders, recovery and harm reduction specialists, social justice advocates, payers, and public health experts. We have come together to ask you to act on the overdose crisis now. By passing the MAT Act, you have the opportunity to increase access to a treatment that can open the doors of healing and recovery to millions.

The MAT Act removes outdated barriers that prevent health care providers from prescribing a safe and effective treatment for opioid use disorder, known as buprenorphine. Buprenorphine and medications like it cut the risk of overdose death in half and reduce fentanyl use by preventing painful withdrawal symptoms and stemming opioid cravings. The medication has been FDA-approved for opioid use disorder for twenty years and is available in generic. Buprenorphine is considered a gold standard of care for opioid use disorder because it saves lives and helps individuals secure long-term recovery.ⁱⁱⁱ

But due to outdated federal rules that prevent health care providers from prescribing buprenorphine (known as the “X-waiver”), only about 1 in 10 people with opioid use disorder receive medications for the condition.^{iv} Fully 40% of U.S. counties lack a single health care provider who can prescribe buprenorphine for opioid use disorder.^v This lack of access to buprenorphine is devastating our families and causing tens of thousands of preventable overdose deaths each year.^{vi}

The MAT Act will help integrate substance use treatment into primary care practices, emergency departments, behavioral health care practices, and other health care settings. The bill will allow all health care providers with a standard controlled medication license to prescribe buprenorphine for opioid use disorder, subject to state licensure requirements. The bill will also expand access to training by launching a national education campaign on best practices for treating substance use disorder. The MAT Act will equip states and local governments with a key tool to address the unique treatment needs of their communities.

We have witnessed the profound suffering that overdoses have wrought on our families and communities. More than 108,000 loved ones now lose their lives to an overdose in a year, with 2021 marking the deadliest year yet. Two-thirds of those deaths involved synthetic opioids, including fentanyl.^{vii} If we fail to act, a million more families will bury parents and children due to overdoses over the next decade.^{viii}

We look forward to working together to help ensure that treatment that can prevent overdoses and support long-term recovery from opioid use disorder is accessible to everyone in need. We urge you to pass the MAT Act by the end of the session to save lives and to extend the hope of healing to communities across the country. With overdose deaths rising at alarming rates, the time to destigmatize and expand access to safe and effective treatment is now.

Thank you for your consideration. Please reach out to Erin Schanning at End Substance Use Disorder (erin@endsud.org) for more information.
