I don't know about the idea or suggestion to start another religion ...gosh, don't we have enough already? I personally don't feel any desire to be a part of any particular denomination. I don't feel the need to regularly attend a religious facility of any kind. I've come to the point where I don't believe that any religion has all the right answers. I will never again put my trust in what I'm told is the Truth from the Bible. Everyone has so many various interpretations about every single subject/doctrine that I get myself dizzy thinking about it! I have lived my life as a good person, and doing good things for others as I can, and pretty much follow Do Unto Others As You'd Have Done To You. Linda Thoman

USATODAY.com - States add clergy to sex-abuse laws States add clergy to sex-abuse laws By Fred Bayles, USA TODAY A growing number of state legislatures are responding to the sexual abuse scandal in the Catholic Church by changing laws to make it a crime when church officials don’t report allegations of sexual abuse of minors. Since January, four states - Massachusetts, Illinois, Missouri and Colorado - have passed laws that add clergy to the list of professions specifically required to report abuse to law enforcement authorities. Eleven others already had listed clergy, while 18 had required everyone to report sexual abuse. Bills are moving forward in several states, and more legislatures are expected to take up the subject when they convene this fall or next year. "The scandal is so far-reaching it was important to make a stand," says state Rep. Rosemary Mulligan, a sponsor of Illinois' new legislation. "We have to put in safeguards for the welfare of children." All states have some form of mandatory reporting laws for hospital workers, teachers and other professionals who come in contact with children. Often they were established to provide a broad web of surveillance designed to spot signs of abuse. The new laws are more a response to accusations that Catholic Church officials across the nation have covered up abuse by priests. An estimated 250 priests nationwide have resigned or been suspended since January, when the conviction of a notorious pedophile priest in Boston drew national attention. Many states with reporting laws offer some form of exemption for clergy. Catholic priests are prohibited by church law from revealing information learned in confessions, and other clergy often have confidentiality rules for pastoral counseling. Much of the new legislation has faced little opposition. The Massachusetts bill passed in April after Boston’s Cardinal Bernard Law said the Church would drop its long-standing opposition. Law is a defendant in a number of lawsuits that accuse him of covering up or ignoring sexual abuse of minors by several priests over many years. But there has been opposition by clergy in Connecticut and Minnesota, who say the laws could infringe on religious freedoms. John Garvey, dean of the Boston College Law School, says the legislative efforts are understandable given public concern over the issue. "The issue has shown we need more reporting and enforcement," he says

QUOTED FROM ANOTHER SOURCE -- Merely FYI -- Top WTS Leader in Japan DF'd --- Hi, friends: Thought you might be interested: I have it on reliable source that one of the founding JWs in Japan, who has been serving as a branch coordinator, was recently disfellowshipped. According to the sources, Toshio Honma is a top-ranking JW at the Japanese branch. He may be highest ranking JW who has ever been disfellowshipped in Japan, except for Junzo Akashi who was DF’ed shortly after the World War II ended. We’re trying to find out the reason for his DFing. It is noteworthy because Japan has been one of the WTS’s stronghold’s in the world in recent years. Numbers were soaring in Japan (and Russia) while they were dwindling elsewhere in the world. The question now is, will this former high-ranking JW speak out in Japan as Ray Franz did here and abroad? Quote from the 1998 Yearbook with reference to Toshio Honma’s WT organization servitude in Japan; ==========================  yb98 112-3 Japan  Native Brothers Take Heavier Responsibility In April 1975, Lloyd Barry, who had been the branch overseer since 1952, left Japan to serve as a member of the Governing Body of Jehovah’s Witnesses. He had zealously shared in the work during the time that the theocratic organization grew from 8 publishers in 1949 to over 30,000 zealous Kingdom proclaimers. At his departure the oversight of the branch was entrusted to Toshio Honma, a native Japanese brother who was then serving as the factory overseer. Regarding Brother Honma’s abilities, his assistant in the factory said: “Toshio wasn’t one to sit back and wait for someone to tell him what to do every step along the way. You could give him a job and tell him, ‘This is the direction we’re going,’ and then he could take the ball and run. He was a good organizer and got people motivated.” Another organizational change took place in February 1976. In unison with all the other branches throughout the world, the branch oversight in Japan was put under a committee of brothers rather than under a single branch overseer. The five initially appointed were Toshio Honma, the coordinator, Masataro Oda, Shigeo Ikehata, Kiichiro Tanaka, and James Mantz. This new arrangement was readily accepted by the Japanese brothers, as they were very familiar with the concept of group approach and consensus seeking in the decision-making process. One of the committee members later observed: “With the Branch Committee arrangement, the brothers look to a group of mature brothers as the representatives of the organization. This has the effect of directing the brothers’ attention to God’s organization rather than to an individual.” When a weighty decision must be made, this arrangement provides a group of spiritual men with varied backgrounds and abilities to consider it and to seek the direction of the holy spirit and of God’s Word. In January 1983, Masataro Oda, who had served at Bethel since February 1960, became the coordinator. He replaced Brother Honma, who by this time had a two-year-old son to provide for. Others who have since served on the Branch Committee for varying periods of time include Ryosuke Fujimoto, Percy Iszlaub, Isamu Sugiuara, Yoshihiro Nagasaki, Makoto Nakajima, Kenji Mimura, and Richard Bailey. Currently seven brothers serve on the Branch Committee. As the work has expanded, each of these brothers has humbly contributed his talents to the advancement of the interests of God’s Kingdom in this part of the world field.

================================ End Yearbook quote. --- And another person replied to the above post as follows: Dear xxx, This is huge! I personally know Toshio Honma as he and I organized a xxx in Japan five years ago. In fact, it was that xxx which led to my official Disfellowshipped. The “brother” with whom I had an agreement for x amount of dollars for five xxxx in Japan robbed me out of my money when it was pay time. Mr. Honma was totally honest and upright in the entire debacle and even took money out of is own pocket to reimburse me some funds. I was contracted the year after directly by Mr. Honma for a xxx, but had to pull out a week before my plane left for Japan due to my having been disfellowshipped. I wrote Mr. Honma and told him I would not insist on his respecting the contract and simply left off amicably - something which he appreciated immensely. He is a dear man to whom I mailed many letters and even a transcript of my judicial hearings. I’m overjoyed by this news. Do you know how I can contact him? Cordially, xxxx END OF QUOTED POSTS.
My deepest respect and christian love goes out to you. Jehovah is using you to clean up this organization! My husband and I are still JW's (well let's just say we are not DF but refuse to attend because of all the injustices we have witnessed, we are labeled inactive) not just toward our family but of course to Jehovah God. I just called my husband on his mobile to tell him about the Sept. March on the WT. We are so excited! We are going to try to be there. My husband has wanted to March on the local KH because of some pedophile activity that was not handled. It's clean up time and Jehovah is on our side. Woe to the Scribes & Pharisees!! Thank you for having such great love for your brothers and sisters and, of course, our innocent children!

Greetings to ManiRus (good name!) Thank you for sharing your story. So sorry to hear of your experiences, and I definitely believe you, and I would probably end up doing as you describe (keeping it to yourself), though it should NOT have to be that way. People are still way too ignorant about these things. Jehovah loves you and knows your suffering and how his so-called shepherds have not cared for you tenderly. --- In Bill Bowen's email about the MARCH in September (above), you see he is asking for EYE WITNESSES of such experiences as yours to go to NY for the march. It's too bad more persons who have experienced or know of actual incidents cannot all go to NY. --- Hang in there ManiRus and keep in touch. Love/SLC

Thanks to everybody for the info on the new book. Please keep us informed! -- To Texas: As for the subscriptions by mail: In my situation, it is a FACT that my mags for several months came with Red Lettering on the white covers stating that when my 1-year subs expired, I would no longer be able to get them via mail. My subs expired in June, and therefore, no more mags have been forthcoming via mail. The Red Lettering/Message on the covers for several months stated that once my subs expired, I would have to get the mags from a K.Hall. Therefore, either your sub has not yet expired; or they are not allowing DF'd persons (like me) to get the mags via sub/mail any longer. --- Agree with Jesika's comment that Bill's letter to the GB was profound to say the least! I bet the GB is already expecting that the ground will open up in front of 25 Columbia Heights and swallow up all the lambs on 9/27 (and/or fire will rain down from heaven and wipe them out - a.k.a Korah, etc.). --- Thanks to (?) who told us what the latest 8/15/02 WT is all about (Loyalty, etc.). Good Timing via Holy Spirit or A Mad Dash by the Writing Dept. after Dateline/Newsweek?? ; ) (Seems I used to hear in my JW-days that the mags are printed so far in advance, that if they appeared "timely" that that was an obvious manifestation of Jah's spirit on whatever subject matter-???) --- Oh, just a thought: I notice some people are writing notes to Bill Bowen via this Guestbook. Now, I have no idea how often he actually has time to read the Guestbook, but I would think if you want/need to get a message to him or ask specific questions about the March, or make requests, etc., you should email him directly (via the Email Button on the Home

I am so overwhelmed by this website I can scarcely believe what I have read so far. But as we all have been witness to by TV and News accounts the Catholic Church was recently accused and admitted under fire that it's Priests had been quietly sequestered away in some small diocese either out here in New Mexico, or back east in seclusion and still allowed contact with minors. Now the very same sick attitude has been discovered within the Jehovah's Witness Congregations. My Lord in Heaven what is happening to this world? THE GARBAGE MAN COMETH ... --- JC wrote: "I am a little tired of hearing brothers saying "Leave it to Jehovah!!" I don't recall this frais (phrase) being made by the early Christians!!" --- REPLY: Hi JC! The Witnesses are probably thinking of scriptures like Ps. 37:7, where it says to "Keep silent before Jehovah, and WAIT longingly for him." However, I believe, from the entire chapter, that it pertains to waiting for God's final judgment over the entire earth. I doubt seriously Jehovah would be looking down from heaven, watching a child being brutally raped, and thinking to himself, "Child, KEEP SILENT BEFORE ME while you are BEING RAPED. WAIT LONGINGLY FOR ME until the New Earth, and KEEP SILENT until then." --- If we were to apply Ps. 37:7 (wait for Jehovah) to instances where we see "our neighbor" being tormented, how would that be "loving your neighbor as yourself"? It wouldn't. It would be more like all of us, sitting in our homes with our trash cans overflowing, and REFUSING TO TAKE OUT THE GARBAGE, but instead, we sit back in our Lazy Boy and defiantly say, "I'm NOT budging from my chair to take out the trash. I'll WAIT until the garbage collector COMES IN MY HOUSE HIMSELF to get my garbage." --- So I sat and sat decade after decade, one trash can full, then two, then three, etc., and the smelly trash and garbage was piled all the way to the ceiling, and the smell was horrendous. Finally my neighbors complained about my stinking garbage to Channel 2, and they, in turn, told the "superior authorities," The County HEALTH Dept., because my garbage was smelling up the ENTIRE neighborhood. The STENCH was more than anyone could bear any longer. (Me, well, I just wore a GAS-MASK in MY house ALL the time so I would be able to endure it, even though it WAS very UNpleasant, and I sometimes felt I SHOULD take out my garbage, but aren't we SUPPOSED to "hide" our garbage from the neighbors when it gets this bad?) --- So then the HEALTH Dept. shows up and CONDEMNS my ENTIRE HOUSE, and they HAUL OUT my Garbage RIGHT IN FRONT of ALL the neighbors, with Channel 2 recording the entire event! HOW EMBARRASSING! Why is this happening to me, I wondered? Surely, the DEVIL IS PERSECUTING ME! So I raised Cain and cursed all my neighbors and Channel 2 as LIARS telling them there really was NO garbage in my house! But it was too late. By that time NOBODY would believe my house was NOT full of garbage because the EVIDENCE was TOO GREAT. --- Previously, when my neighbors had lovingly asked if I would like them to wash me down with the hose to get the STENCH off me, I refused (pride, you know). So I was thereafter forcefully taken away and washed down by the superior authorities, and my house was condemned. And all of this shame and humiliation came about due to my not wanting to take out the trash a long long time ago, because I expected the Garbage Man would come in and get it himself. --- /SLC

THIS is just one of MANY experiences which belong in the "RIPLEY'S BELIEVE IT OR NOT MUSEUM": Cynthia had written: "I did spend two years married to a JW who used to batter and beat me. The elders never did speak to him about it because since beating your wife was not a DFing offense, they could not get involved." --- Dear Cyn: So Sorry! Take care of yourself and come back often, if you like. Love/SLC --- Emma had written: "My name is Emma and i went through exactly the same thing. I took my father to court July 2001 and he was sentenced to 4 Yrs imprisonment. The elders in our local congregation tried to cover it up and it took until i was 27 to build up the courage to go to the police. I watched the program and sobbed all the way through. SM: I was saddened to hear about your brother with epilepsy who is forgotten by his "friends" in the congregation. --- "We EXHORT YOU, brothers ... SUPPORT THE WEAK ..." [1 Th.5:14] --- Of course, most JWs would take that to mean only help "spiritually weak" persons to go out in field service. I can say that because I used to be a JW who thought the same way. There was so much pressure to get in "time," that with work and meetings and service, who had time or energy left for caring for the PHYSICAL NEEDS of the weak? Hi Barb at bnafts@cs.com: I REALLY LIKED your stuffed lambs with mouths-sewn-shut idea. That is excellent! (I'm thinking Oprah again ... whatever she asks for, she gets from the retail world!) ;) A simple search on the net for "stuffed animals - lambs" might do the trick to get a source. To All Lambs who Post Here: I just got a little adrenaline rush from seeing all the missing posts ... I was going to bed. This, of course, is NOT TO SAY we would take ANYTHING AWAY from the Silent Lambs SITE, but only if we want to "chat" via email in more detail, then we would have a "private place" to do it, and everyone who signed up for the group would receive the emails. We could make it a "restricted" group which means members would have to be approved. It's just an idea. I will gladly set it up if you like. I know how, 'cuz I've done it before, piece of cake. Give it some thought, and give your vote for (1) Whether you ladies (and gents) would like such an email group? and (2) If you would, then what name would you like to call it? Debradolls wrote: "As a legal student I am interested in legal recourse available for sexual crimes committed 29 yrs ago. Their laws when the sex crime was committed, AND any more recent legislation that may have been passed in your state since then. Go to one of the law sites online to find the statues for your state. Or do a search like so: Statutes - Colorado (or whichever state). Or, you could email your governor's office and/or your local congressional representatives (all of them have websites, and ask them to direct you to the statues online for your state re: sex crimes). Or, you could visit your local LAW library in person, usually found in the local courthouse (look up Law Library in your blue pages of your phone book, under your county). Other than that, I'm fresh out of ideas. Anyone else? /SLC REPOSTING: --- Hi LORIS!!! So SORRY for not replying yet. I had every intention of answering you yesterday, but pooped out and never got to finish. You're welcome about the "Ezekiel pep talk." What you say is so true. The WTS tries to "scare us" against speaking up, like in the dramas and articles of Korah and Abiram (sp?), and believe me, those dramas really put the "fear" into me (I remember the Korah drama was also done years ago in the '80s, and my heart was just a pounding!). -- Yet, like you say, when we look at scriptures like the man with the inkhorn, and also about Eel and his sons, then it would make sense to NOT be on the side of the WT. Whew! It's really some HEAVY stuff. I liked how you mentioned we are being allowed to "see through the hole in the temple wall." I feel PRIVILEGED to be allowed to rally up on the side of Silent Lambs, and be allowed to SEE thru that hole, yes; as apparently many who are still JWs can't even SEE IT themselves, which is heartbreaking. --- Yeah, once in awhile ol' SLC here can get on a roll. I'm glad you gave me a name of what to call it (i.e., "tongue in cheek") re: Daniel Ch. 5. I wasn't sure how to describe it, short of saying I was "altering scripture" which that thought in itself scares me a little, too. In all sincerity I wanted to see "if the shoe would fit," so to speak, after I "filled in the blanks." And I know what you mean about wanting to laugh and cry at the same time. I tend to wake up feeling "fired up" about this sex abuse scandal, but I tend to go to bed feeling very sad about it all. --- I relayed my Daniel "exercise" to a friend over the phone, who has little Bible knowledge, but knows about JWs from and the GB and other things I've explained over the years. Once he got the parallels straight in his head, he was filling in the blanks of the story himself as I was describing that chapter in Daniel. It surprised me that he "caught on" to the parallels. At the end, he said "very very interesting ..." and also chuckled at the 62 years too late. ;) --- Thanks for going to all the trouble with the PDF. To be continued next post ...

Love/SCL --- LORIS had written:  Thanks SLC for the Ezekiel pep talk. I have been thinking about him lately. About how he was allowed to look through a hole in Jehovah's house. We are being allowed to see inside the modern temple and it is disgusting. I think I need to get out of the way of the men with the weapons of smashing. I would not want to be mistaken for a supporter of the filth.  But you seemed to be on a roll. That tongue in cheek rendition of Daniel 5 was a hoot. Actually it is delicious. There was no way I could explain why I suddenly burst out laughing and had tears running down my cheeks. My co-workers would just not get the punch line. It is definitely an inside joke.  I am going to work on the converting the PDF to text. I will post it when I succeed.  Love, Loris REPOSTING --- #2 to LORIS --- Hi Again LORIS!!! Wow, that sounds like a complicated project with the PDF BOE letter. So many "steps" to go thru. Is there an icon in the Adobe Acrobat Reader which "converts PDF to text"? I couldn't find it when I was looking at that letter earlier last week, or whenever it was. THANK YOU for going to all that effort. I will have to read the letter again to remember which points "got my goat." I will email you and at your convenience you can zap me the whole thing via email and I will "study" it again and pick out whichever portions irked me. Yes, I remember it was Very Long. Thanks for your email addy. (I guess I need to get a web-mail, which I've had zillions of those since getting online, but I never keep them because I like working out of my real ISP email, but I don't want to put that one in the Guestbook. I have another idea, but haven’t had time to work on it, but will let you guys know when I do it.) ;} THANKS AGAIN LORIS!!! Love/SLC --- LORIS had written: To SLC.  I opened the BOE letter in Adobe Acrobat. There is a way to convert the .pdf into text that can be copy and pasted. But it was apparently created in another format then made into a .pdf I e-mailed it to myself at home (I am at work now,) I will scan it at home. My scanner will recognize text and convert it. I will let you know how it works out. Loris --- and --- to SLC I have the text of the BOE letter that was a pdf file. I scanned it and converted it to text. I can e-mail it or else tell me which section you want posted for discussion. It is seven pages long so maybe you don’t want the whole thing posted here. Let me know. Loris ljmatheny@emteca.com --- and ---  Sorry SLC I gave an incorrect e-mail it is ljmatheny@emteca.com I inserted my middle initial in there my middle name is JOY isn’t that a laugh. I haven’t had much of that. My mother gave me that one (you know the woman who made me marry the man who raped me at 14.) Life’s little jokes are not funny I love you guys.  Loris SCATTERED the peoples THAT TAKE DELIGHT IN FIGHTS (the JWs who mock, disgrace, dehumanize, insult and curse the lambs, their supporters and the media who cover the cause of the lambs) ...God is fear-inspiring OUT OF your grand sanctuary (Heaven), The God of Israel he is, GIVING STRENGTH, EVEN MIGHT to the PEOPLE (the PEOPLE, not the GB). Blessed be God." (Psalms 68:10,11,12,18,19,21,24,25,30,35) --- Hang in there, LORIS! If you are handed the "A" on a silver platter, see above "tongue in cheek" scripture. You will be in good company! ;) I'll back channel you soon. Love/SLC

REPOSTING --- THIS COMMENT IS TO LORIS' "friend" AND ALL OTHER JWs who have the mind set that JWs themselves (such as Bill Bowen and other elders and publishers) should NOT be speaking up publicly about the sex abuse, the coverup, the policy, etc., and who STILL feel everyone should just "sit back" and "WAIT ON JEHOVAH" --- WAIT for Jehovah TO DO WHAT? Send Angels to the GB's office? Does not Jehovah ALWAYS USE HUMANS TO GET HIS WILL DONE? Read These Lips :-O In the above 68th Chapter of Psalms, while reading it, a few verses jumped out at me. I did not include them above because I wanted to make them a separate post. Read the whole chapter to get the entire picture, or read at least the few several verses (Ps.68:22-26) leading up to the ones I am going to type out: --- "There is LITTLE Benjamin SUBDUING THEM, the princes of Judah WITH THEIR SHOUTING CROWD, the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali. YOUR GOD has laid command UPON YOUR STRENGTH. (pay attention to this NEXT verse): DO SHOW STRENGTH, O God, YOU who have ACTED FOR US." (Ps.68:27,28). --- (I WISH I could make BOLD and UNDERLINE! <frustration>) --- Did you NOTICE the point? Verse 28 says that it is GOD who is "ACTING FOR US." Yet was it REALLY JEHOVAH HIMSELF who "materialized himself" and came down out of heaven and took up the battle with Israel's enemies? NO NO NO!!!! He used LITTLE BENJAMIN and Judah's SHOUTING CROWD. In other words, he USED HUMANS TO GET THINGS DONE. So does it really make sense to expect every JW should keep sitting on their "duff" and "wait on Jehovah" and keep DOING NOTHING? Jehovah uses PEOPLE to get things accomplished. But you ALREADY know that, don't you? You just never THOUGHT of it in THIS (sex abuse) context, i.e., that you should SPEAK UP re: the silencing of the lambs, and the covering over of their abusers. --- Scenario: If you had worldly neighbors, friendly people who you sometimes chatted with across the fence. And you learned their child had been abused by the neighborhood gardener or whoever, and the child confided in you. WOULD YOU DO ANYTHING ABOUT IT? WOULD YOU HELP THAT "WORLDLY" CHILD? OR WOULD YOU SIT ON YOUR DUFF AND LET THE ABUSE CONTINUE? WHAT IF IT WAS THE CHILD'S FATHER ABUSING THEM? WOULD YOU CONFRONT THE FATHER? WHAT IF HE TELLS YOU TO KEEP IT QUIET? WOULD YOU SAY, "OK. Sorry. I'll mind my own business." ????. OR WOULD YOU GO TO POLICE, THE CPS, THE OTHER NEIGHBORS, AND KEEP SPEAKING OUT UNTIL SOMEONE HELPED THE CHILD? DO YOU THINK JEHOVAH HIMSELF WOULD WANT YOU TO HELP THAT "WORLDLY" CHILD? OF COURSE, HE WOULD!! THEN HOW MUCH MORE SO THOSE WHO ARE 'RELATED TO YOU IN THE FAITH'? (Galatians 6:10) --- That bears repeating: "So let us NOT GIVE UP in doing what is FINE, for in due season we shall reap if we DO NOT TIRE OUT. REALLY THEN, as long as we have TIME FAVORABLE for it, LET US WORK what is GOOD toward ALL, but ESPECIALLY toward THOSE RELATED TO US IN THE FAITH." (Gal. 6:9,10). That scripture ALONE should -- SHOULD -- prevent ANY CHILD's abuse from EVER being SILENCED EVER AGAIN, be they JW or otherwise. It should also, I hope, make ALL JWs STOP and THINK before they sputter out anymore words about waiting on Jehovah, and heaping insults at their brothers and sisters who ARE DOING SOMETHING ABOUT silent lambs. Thank you. /SLC

REPOSTING --- Loris wrote in her letter to Bill: "I need to do this in order to heal from my own pain. And at the same time to save others from having to go through the pain at all." --- Encouraging Reminder for you and the others: THIS work you and everyone is doing, the work on behalf of the Silent Lambs is your "SACRIFICE OF PRAISE, the FRUIT of LIPS which make PUBLIC DECLARATION to his name." NO? "Blasphemy!!" say the JWs and the DFing committees. They feel that scripture applies ONLY to field service or meetings/songs or informal witnessing or conventions? Well, read the verse right AFTER that one: "Moreover, DO NOT FORGET the DOING OF GOOD and the SHARING of things with OTHERS, for WITH SUCH SACRIFICES God is WELL PLEASED." (Hebrews 13:15,16). By SHARING our child abuse experiences, it not only heals ourselves, as you wrote, but also (like you wrote), we can DO GOOD TO OTHERS with similar circumstances and stop the underhanded way things have been handled for DECADES. This IS a sacrifice for which GOD IS WELL PLEASED! Have no doubts about it. Like that man, Peter, wrote from the UK, we cannot stop ALL the child abuse in the world -- otherwise we would have to get OUT of the world, as the Apostle Paul wrote (1 Cor.5:10) -- but we can DO SOMETHING ABOUT IT IN OUR MIDST, RIGHT UNDER OUR NOSES. --- And it is a OUR 'GIFT' that we can OFFER because we have "been there ourselves." Who better to UNDERSTAND what it is like? Can an elder (man) possibly UNDERSTAND? (If you received a copy of Bro. Anderson's letter sent out by SL, you'll know what I mean). No, even the best-hearted person cannot really UNDERSTAND UNLESS they have experienced it themselves. Therefore, what a SPECIAL GIFT it is for Silent Lambs to help other Silent Lambs. To be continued in another posts re: GIFTS... Love/SLC (yes, looks like I'm on a roll here... the thoughts keep coming.) ;)

REPOSTING THIS ONE, TOO --- SILENT LAMBS' GIFTS (& How Utilizing Them Will Cause GROWING PAINS in the Org): Back to Psalm Chapter 68 mentioned further above. I left out another verse I'd like to share. It is verse 18, very familiar to JWs: "You have ascended on high; You have CARRIED AWAY CAPTIVES; You have TAKEN GIFTS in the form of men, Yes, EVEN THE STUBBORN ONES, to RESIDE [AMONG THEM], O Jah God." --- GIFTS in the form of men (and women, that us!). CAPTIVES! What better word to describe CHILDREN WHO HAVE BEEN SILENCED! Talk about CAPTIVITY! Yet these RESIDE RIGHT AMONG YOU IN THE CONGS! And STUBBORN? Wow Boy! Bro. Bowen gets the "MOST STUBBORN JW OF THE CENTURY AWARD!" And Praise Jah for that! --- Now let's go look at Ephesians Chapter 4 where the apostle Paul requoted Psalms 68:18 in Verse 8 of Ephesians, (he expounded on Ps.68:18 throughout Ephesians 4:8 thru 16). Here's a few points about GIFTS -- if we HAVE THEM ("Gifts of Experience of Sex Abuse/Being Silenced, etc.") this is WHY we should SPEAK UP and USE THIS GIFT -- Vs. 11: "He gave some as apostles, some as PROPHETS (B. Bowen and B. Anderson and others who speak up, who are NEVER popular in their own "town," BTW), some as evangelizers, some as SHEPHERDS and TEACHERS (women like us who can shepherd the silenced and abused lambs and who can TEACH, FROM EXPERIENCE, THE UNINFORMED PUBLIC & UNINFORMED JWs about this!) with a VIEW TO the READJUSTMENT of the (GB/anointed) HOLY ONES, for MINISTERIAL WORK for the BUILDING UP of the BODY of the Christ (the ENTIRE BODY, including ALL abuse survivors) ... in order that we should NO LONGER BE BABES, TOSSSED ABOUT as by WAVES and CARRIED HITHER and THITHER by EVERY WIND OF TEACHING by means of the TRICKERY of MEN (bad-boy elders and WTS attorneyes who try to silence lambs and DF their supporters), by means of CUNNING in CONTRIVING ERROR (sex abuse policy of the GB). But SPEAKING the TRUTH (about abuse/coverup), let us BY LOVE GROW UP in ALL THINGS (including abuse/coverup) into him who is the head, Christ..." --- THESE ARE 'GROWING PAINS,' PEOPLE!! A NECESSARY THING! --- Lastly, and coincidentally, further down in vs.17,18,19 are those very familiar scriptures about the world being in darkness MENTALLY, and which also would be extremely appropriate for this subject as food for thought for publishers/elders/JC/CO/DO/GB who still are fighting the Silent Lambs: "This, therefore, I say and bear witness to in the Lord, that YOU NO LONGER GO ON WALKING JUST AS THE NATIONS ALSO WALK in the UNPROFITABLENESS of their MINDS (not thinking STRAIGHT about this entire issue), WHILE THEY ARE IN DARKNESS MENTALLY and ALIENATED from the life that belongs to God, BECAUSE of the IGNORANCE THAT IS IN THEM, because of the INSSENSIBILITY OF THEIR HEARTS. Having come to be PAST ALL MORAL SENSE (of what is REALLY right and wrong re: sex abuse/coverup), they gave themselves over to LOOSE CONDUCT to WORK UNCLEANNESS of EVERY SORT (child sex abuse/rape and/or it's coverup) WITH GREEDINESS.* --- Thank you for reading. /SLC

And Barb: I replied to your brainstorming post, too, but I didn't keep a copy of that, nor of many others I replied to last night. (Cry a bucket of tears!) --- I loved your lambs-with-mouts-sewn-shut idea! --- Ideas: Maybe a search on the net would turn up a retail outlet for stuffed animals/lambs, and maybe with a well-worded letter to the owner, they might DONATE a big bunch of stuffed lambs for the cause-? It never hurts to ask! --- And how about little lapel pins of little lambs? --- Or bumper stickers that say: www.silentlambs.org - ? Love/SLC

The knowledge of "good and evil" is the necessary component for "love and forgiveness". Mankind is as prone to do evil as sparks are to fly upward so say the scriptures. When evil is covered up and not dealt with, it encourages more evil. More evil requires more love and forgiveness. When there are no consequences for criminal behavior, the evil doer assumes that God is not interested in human events. Nothing could be further from reality. God notices when a sparrow falls! After the criminal is forgiven, then comes the righteous judgment of execution or restitution. But since man refuses to apply righteous judgment, God sends more evil for man to deal with. It's all plain as day in Deut.28. Anyone interested in a work at home project, email mlf1070@yahoo.com(put "Work at Home/sl" in subject.

From THE WATCHTOWER of November 15, 1962, page 693 --- w62 11/15, 693 --- The Benefits of Subjection to Authorities --- 9 Worldly authorities render a judgment and punish persons, whether they are inside the congregation or outside, if they violate the laws of decency and good order. The violators have no right to complain at such punishment, as Paul showed by his words before Caesar's judgment seat. (Acts 25:11) Hence the Christian congregation cannot protect any of its members if they steal, smuggle, commit bigamy, murder, libel, defraud, and so forth. The congregation must release such guilty members to punishment by worldly authorities. Since the guilty break the laws of the land and thus oppose the "authority," they are taking a stand against God's arrangement. --- 10
The Christian congregation has no orders from God and has no right to protect such opposers and lawbreakers from the due punishment by the "authority" of the land. We cannot hinder, oppose or condemn the execution of the krima or judgment by aiding or shielding lawbreakers. To do so would put the Christian congregation also in opposition to God's arrangement. Besides letting the krima or "judgment" take its course upon offending members who bring reproach upon God's people, the congregation may disfellowship such lawbreakers. The congregation does not want to deserve a krima or "judgment" with the lawbreakers by siding or cooperating with them and opposing the worldly "authority." It also wants no reproach. --- This was originally posted by Loris who got it from a friend in Alaska. SLC is

The UK WT letter said --- Later, this requirement to consider testimony of two or three witnesses was confirmed by Jesus. (Matthew 18:16) --- The little girl sees Jesus sitting over on the rock, in among the crowd... --- She saw him here last week. --- She wanted to get to him then, but she lost her nerve. --- "Shall I try today to reach him?" she wonders to herself. (She'd been thinking about it all week, trying to work up the courage...) --- Before she realizes it, she is walking towards Jesus sitting on the rock. --- Her pedophile uncle, and disciple of Jesus, tries to stop her in her tracks... --- Jesus rebuked the man saying, "Let the little child come to me, and do not try to stop her..." --- So the little girl makes it up to Jesus' lap and he puts his arms around her and hugs her. She feels safe now. She thinks she has enough courage. It's now or never. So she leans up and whispers in Jesus' ear that her uncle, who brought her there, has been touching her in ways that he should not. --- Jesus gets a perplexed look all over his face, and sets her back down, and pointing to the uncle says: "Come with me over here behind this tree." --- The uncle follows Jesus to the tree, but he's not the least bit worried. He knows Jesus would NEVER go against Deut. 19:15... --- Jesus looks the uncle straight in the eye and asks him, "Did you do as this child says?" The uncle exclaims, "NO LORD! I would NEVER do any such thing. The girl is making up fantasies." --- Jesus says, "Okay then Brother. Good enough.
That's all I needed to know. Continue following me as my disciple..." --- Jesus goes back to the little girl, kneels down to her level, and says, "I'm sorry child, but because there is no one else to back up what you say, I cannot believe you, nor can I do anything about what you have told me. I cannot get myself in a jam without another witness to what you described. However, I do hope you will come and see me again, because you KNOW I love you and care about you. Look, here's your uncle now... run along so your uncle can take you home, and be a good little girl and don't ever tell anyone else what you told me... ESPECIALLY don't tell any of the Roman soldiers... because you know how they hate me and my disciples already, and you wouldn't want to make any trouble for us, now would you?" --- The little girl is trembling, frozen on the spot, she cannot even speak a word as one last tear trickles down her cheek... all hope has vanished, and the look of death covers her face like a veil... --- Jesus calls his disciples to him and they travel along the road a few miles where another crowd has assembled. He rests himself on a hillside and begins to teach the crowd: --- "Moreover, if your brother commits a sin, go lay bare his fault between you and him alone. If he listens to you, you have gained your brother. But if he does not listen, take along with you one or two more, in order that at the mouth of two or three witnesses every matter may be established." --- And at that moment the uncle, hiding the wicked smirk on his face, bent down and kissed Jesus' feet, mouthing, "Praise You Lord, Praise You...
God has numbered the days of your (WTS) kingdom and has finished it. TE'KEL, you have been weighed in the (District Attorneys') hand, and this very writing that was inscribed: ME'NE, ME'NE, TE'KEL and PAR'SIN. REPOSTING --- From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Fri, 5 Jul 2002 22:11:24 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Distribute Freely Questions to Ask Jehovah's Witnesses When They Call at your Door Recently the Public Information Department for Jehovah's Witnesses has made certain comments to the media. Each remark confirms a certain aspect of Watchtower Policy regarding child molestation that most members of Jehovah's Witnesses are not aware of. To encourage Jehovah's Witnesses to educate themselves regarding how their church handles molestation issues we suggest asking them the following questions when they call at your door.

1. Why do elders in your church only report child molesters in States where it is legally required?
Tennessean/Nashville-05/11/02-Brown said, "If parents come to congregation leaders with concerns that their child is being abused, the leaders follow state law. If state law requires parents to report the abuse, congregation leaders tell them that." Paducah Sun-Paducah KY-1-28-01-"Brown said the church does not necessarily equate reporting the matter to law enforcement to protecting the child because "not all the time does government authority provide the protection the child needs." LOUISVILLE-COURIER-Louisville, KY-May 8, 2002-"Leaders of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, 'say that in States that do not require reporting of abuse, they prefer taking steps to protect children while not breaching what they see as confidential communications between elders and members." 2. Do you support your church policy of requiring pedophile's to call at my home?
AP/CNN-May 9, 2002-"J.R. Brown, a spokesman for the denomination, said that anyone found guilty of molestation by a church judicial committee is removed from all positions of responsibility and cannot evangelize door-to-door without being accompanied by a fellow Jehovah's Witness." Asbury Park Press-New Jersey-5/14/02-"Semonian said anyone convicted of child molestation cannot hold a position of authority in the church and cannot perform church work alone." Watchtower Media Website Statement-Brooklyn, NY-"In a few instances, individuals guilty of an act of child abuse have been appointed to positions within the congregation if their conduct has been otherwise exemplary for decades. All the factors are considered carefully...'Let us say that 20 years have passed... 'the man could possibly be appointed to a responsible position within the congregation." 3. Do you know how many child molesters are in your local Kingdom Hall? If so what are their names? Paducah Sun-Paducah, KY 1-28-01-"Moreno of Watchtower Legal, agreed with Bowen's charge that a congregation would also not be told if a pedophile had joined the flock." News Channel 6-Paducah, KY-5-15-02-"Members at Bowen's old Kingdom Hall in Drafvenville admit discouraging members from telling just anybody. "The difference between needless gossip, let's say, and withholding information from those who have a right to know is two different things completely," says Jehovah's Witness Bruce Waite." Help Jehovah's Witnesses to understand Watchtower Policy by sharing statements their leaders have made to media, encourage them to write home office and demand proper changes be made to protect all children who come in contact with Jehovah's Witnesses.

Repost from webmaster@antijehovahswitness.com go to: http://www.jw-media.org/releases/default.htm?content=020714.htm where Paul Gillies has this to say about UK witnesses position on abuse and the victim: Jehovah's Witnesses further believe that it is the absolute right of the victim, his or her family, or any others to report the matter to the authorities if they so choose. There are certainly no sanctions against any congregation member who reports an allegation of child abuse to the authorities. “A phone number is given. So i guess there will be a lot of phone calls being made and elders being made look stupid. I don’t know when this was posted as i don’t usually look on the official sites anymore, because its hard to believe any thing they say after the Child abuse, UN affiliation and New, old light that keeps changing. I was just getting an idea of how many official sites the JWs have, considering they admonish their followers for using it. Hope the Guestbook doesn’t get wiped again.

My wife and I did everything within our ability to perform our God mandated responsibilities. We endeavored to train them to be persons who someday could stand before the True God Jehovah on their own two feet – apart from us – and be found approved. We taught them that we all stand accountable. No one here on planet earth is free from accountability. Jehovah will judge all of us and none of us are above any others. You are not following your own recommendations in the manner you are dealing with child rape policy. You are belying the very principles that you insist that the flock live up to. You have disregarded every principle that we hold dear by your stonewalling of cries for assistance. I ask you – WHY? Why won't you change! Is it because there are those on the GB and/or high organizational station that have been guilty of pedophilia? I can think of NO other reason why you would not help the flock be protected other than that you are covering over the sins of ones amongst yourselves! If so, you will not succeed in this mission. You may get a few more loyal JW's DF'd. You may mangle and malign a few more reputations. But as with the wicked kings of ancient Israel – you will not succeed. Jehovah will expose you and will hold you accountable. I pray that you will repent of your stubborn Balaam-like course. You have in this matter become like high priest Eli. You should re-read the story since you've apparently forgotten it. Eli allowed his sons to go unpunished in the matter of defiling the young ladies in the temple and being drunk while on priestly duty. As did Eli and his sons, you will come to your end if you do not immediately cease supporting and ignoring the type of loose conduct that they were guilty of. As a parent I will tell you that you have NO RIGHT to mandate the kind of useless "policy" that elder bodies are forced to follow. I am outraged and disgusted by the kind of meddling and manipulation that causes concerned parents to be removed from congregations while allowing our children to be raped. I fully trust in Jehovah the True God to remedy this matter. I only hope that you will collectively be able to be the ones to head up that remedy - before Jehovah kicks you out of office and gets someone else to do it. You are grossly out of line here brothers. I recommend that you meet together and fall upon your collective faces and beg Jehovah for his forgiveness and direction in fixing not only the child rape policy but the sullied reputations of those having at heart the best interests of our congregations. Sincerely, Your brother

"Imagine, as I am there ironing my clothes and doing the dishes, this young man is in my daughter's room, reading stories to her and abusing her in the next room." Ursel Wagner: "In some way, I knew that it was not right what he did to me. But I was confused, because that was something that did not exist among Jehovah's Witnesses. At that time, Ursel's parents were Jehovah's Witnesses also. When her daughter told them about the molestation, they proceeded the way they were required: they reported the incident to the elders in their congregation. But the elders told them not to make trouble and keep it quiet. Cornelia Wagner: "I was shocked. I could not believe what the elders demanded for me to do: remain silent. They gave some flimsy reasons and said that this would also protect our daughter." The family got no support by their spiritual leaders, instead the opposite was true: the perpetrator was protected, fellow congregation members are not warned. Ursel Wagner: "It still makes my angry how these people dealt with it back then. I am sure we could have saved some other girls from being molested. But nothing happened, nothing at all." Cornelia Wagner, Mother: "They made us feel that the roles had switched, we had become the perpetrators. It was as if we were accusing them and that did not fit their perfect picture." Jehovah's Witnesses view themselves as a chosen group that lives rigidly by Bible principles. Jehovah's Witnesses believe in a soon-to-come doomsday called Armageddon that is survived by their members only. Their ultimate earthly authority is the worldwide operating Watchtower Society. 210,000 Jehovah's Witnesses live in Germany. They spread their teachings via the magazines "Watchtower" and "Awake". The obedience to the organization is obligatory for all members. Stephan Wolf was a Jehovah's Witness for 20 years. Today he supports others leaving. More and more victims of child abuse contact him. Stephan E. Wolf, Ausstieg e.V. (Exit Inc.) "The woman's attitude is to be in submission and follow the principle of headship, this also applies towards children that are required to be obedient - if necessary violently. I think this prevailing attitude promotes an environment in which child abuse is more likely than in other parts of society." Ruth Schiegel was born into a Jehovah's Witnesses environment. Her family lived strictly to the rules of the organization. Her father was an elder. Ruth Schiegel: "My father started to molest me when I was 9 years old. It began with touching me. It developed into sexual intercourse. That last time was when I was 15 or 16 or so when I was raped." Ruth's mother reported the molestation to the highest leaders in the congregation, the Elders. But yet again nothing was done and the perpetrator was not reported to the authorities. For years after, Ruth's fathers abused other girls. Ruth Schiegel: "In the elders opinion they had done enough. They had a meeting. They had spoken to him and had demanded that he had to apologize to me. They had done everything the Watchtower Society says and so the case was closed. That was their opinion, from the religious point of view because everything from outside i.e. the law, reporting to the police did not matter because the Society says they are above law, they deal with it internally." Protecting the perpetrator and silencing victims - normal procedure of Jehovah's Witnesses? Dr. Andreas Fincke, Protestant Church expert on cults: "They have a closed society. When wrongdoings occurs they appoint judicial committees to deal with conflicts and moral transgressions. The idea behind this attitude is that you don't go to court with Brothers and Sisters but to deal with those things internally first. That sounds good but in reality it often results with those in authority the elders, always men, judging matters they have no business getting involved with." Do elders actually judge in cases of child abuse? We asked Jehovah's Witnesses: Uwe W. Herrmann, Speaker of Jehovah's Witnesses: "Because of our Biblical understanding we believe that there are some specific sins for which the local elders are responsible." PAY ATTENTION TO YOURSELF AND TO ALL THE FLOCK is the title of the elders' manual. And it is there the Elders are told how to proceed: "Some disputes should not be dealt with at secular courts." And: "...it is the Elders decision if the statements are trustworthy." Dr. Andreas Fincke, Protestant Church expert on cults: "For a Jehovah's Witnesses who has become the victim of child abuse, it is impossible to get justice within the organization. The simple reason is that you need two witnesses that confirm the incident and that is almost always impossible when it comes to child abuse because there are of course no witnesses." The Watchtower Society has built a wall of silence around the perpetrators called confidentiality. Having pedophiles in their midst does not fit that image, let alone the fact that the public gets to know that they are being protected in the movement. So, they are trying everything they can, to prevent the facts form coming out to the public." But this perfect image is also intended to help Jehovah's Witnesses to get the recognition as a church. For 11 years, they have been going to court through all channels to get the same religious status as the Catholic and the Protestant Church. Recognition would result in several cost saving privileges i.e. to raise a church tax to create revenue. Thus, the accusations of child abuse does not fit the image presented, yet more and more cases are coming out to the open while the organization keeps on denying there is a problem. Uwe W. Herrmann, Speaker of Jehovah's Witnesses: "We, the Religious Community of Jehovah's Witnesses in Germany, don't know of any cases of child molestation here in Germany." Stephan E. Wolf, Ausstieg e.V. (Exit Inc.) "I think the time has come that the public sees there is something going on in the Jehovah's Witnesses organization, pedophiles within have a perfect environment where nothing is being done and they do not have to be afraid." Uwe W. Herrmann, Speaker of Jehovah's Witnesses: "Basically, we don't punish at all. Only God can punish. The Elders of a congregation can only check if someone is repentant or not. If he repentant then the sinner gets further help to get over that sin." It seems that only the victims get punished. Ruth Schlegel has been expelled from the Witnesses because of smoking and adultery. She still fights with the aftermaths of the abuse.

REPOSTING --- From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Fri, 19 Jul 2002 15:53:16 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Joe Anderson speaks out A. J. Anderson June 5, 2002 Christian Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses Service Department 2821 Route 22 Patterson, NY 12563-2237 Re: Letter of resignation Dear Brothers, This letter pertains to my wish to no longer serve as an elder in the Manchester, Tennessee Congregation. Knowing what I do about our organization's child molestation problem and other matters here in the Manchester Congregation, I find it difficult to keep serving as an elder. Undoubtedly, how we as elders handle allegations of molestation in our organization has troubled me for quite some time. I was pleased to note from J. R. Brown's February 7, 2002 letter to Dateline NBC that our organization would hear views and opinions from individuals within the framework of the congregation, so I take this time to ask that you resolve some of my differences of opinion according to Scriptural principals. Since I have been in close proximity to the child molestation issue because of my wife Barbara, I have come to know of hundreds of molestation cases mismanaged by elders. Without a doubt, many elders are incapable of correctly dealing with molestation allegations, but others followed verbal and written directions from headquarters that caused immeasurable sorrow and lifelong unhappiness to the victims and their families. Almost every day for the last several years, I've read accounts sent to my wife from victims describing their disagreeable encounters with elders and the Society, which, in effect, has punished them and protected their molesters. I know that Jehovah's Witnesses as a whole, plus those outside of our organization say that they hate child molesters even more than murderers, but whether they really do or not is shown by their feelings and actions. Inasmuch as child molestation is an act done in secret, and since we the elders and the Society compound this by keeping such acts committed within our group a secret, the Witnesses are under the illusion that our organization doesn't have a problem with molestation. Of course, each elder knows if there are any accused or confessed molesters within his congregation, but elders don't know if there are molesters in other congregations. Consequently, because elders are unable to gage the scope of this situation because of the secrecy, most think there isn't a problem. Now, due to media coverage of many distressing cases of molestation within our organization, many elders are very disturbed. Without question, I'm sure that you are also. Here's one example of why keeping molestation a secret from the congregation does not work: I'm personally acquainted with a woman who was divorced, and when her little girl was molested she went straight to the elders. They did not report the accused to the police, although Tennessee requires ministers to report child abuse. It took a sister in the congregation, who found out about the rape years later, to go to the police. This resulted in the molester being sentenced to eight years in prison. As far as I know, this man was previously accused of molesting three girls in another state and when he moved to Tennessee, the elders were notified of his past, yet they warned no one in the congregation as per the Society's instructions. Before he was arrested, he molested two girls in Tennessee. So who was right? The sister who reported him or the elders who kept the secret? In our congregation, one elder told the other elders that if anyone molested his child, he would call the police first and elders later. Are you aware of how many elders feel this way? I personally know that many elders feel that they really can do nothing to help in these cases. Yet you instruct that an accusation of molestation within the congregation be reported first to the elders. The October 8, 1993 Awake! states that child molesters want something else from their victims—"SILENCE." Are we not sharers in guilt with the molester when we don't encourage victims to go to the authorities where they will get help? Wouldn't this be the Christian thing to do? Are we not sharers in guilt with a molester, who silences the victim with threats, when we silence members in the congregation with threats if they warn others? In the May 24, 2002 letter to all the congregations in the United States, you stated that "...even one abused child is one too many." This same letter says, "At least since 1981, articles have been published in our journals..., with a view to educating Jehovah's people... on the need to protect children from child abuse." How can you educate Jehovah's people by keeping such secrets? To be able to protect their children, Jehovah's Witnesses have a right to know as part of their education if there are any people within the congregation accused of molestation. Incidentally, it seems to me that if concerned people had not gone to the media about the child abuse problems in our organization, this subject would not have been addressed at the elder's school last year. It was obvious that there was a change of attitude by the statement made that "Child abuse is a crime." Now elders no longer treat molestation as a sin like adultery or fornication, but as something far more serious, a crime. This was a welcome change. Recently, a woman who used to be a Witness told me, after she read an article in our local newspaper about Jehovah's Witnesses and allegations of child abuse, that she was molested by someone who attended the Manchester Congregation many years ago. I've known her family for over twenty-five years and remembered her as a young girl. The man she accused is a very good friend of mine for over thirty years. If I go to my friend with another elder confronting him and he denies the allegation, I'm in a dilemma because I want him not to be guilty. How can I provide justice when I'm partial? Of course, I could remove myself from this situation, but why should we even be put in a position to judge our brothers in such matters where it takes the wisdom of Solomon to sort it out. According to the October 8, 1993 Awake! it is improbable that a child who accuses a person of molestation is lying. However, I believe it is better to err in behalf of a child than the accused. But the question arises, why are we as elders even investigating this crime of child abuse? Can we as elders really identify a person as a molester when an accusation is made? Of course, something has to be done when accusations are made but can't be proved, but most Witnesses want to leave situations like this in Jehovah's hands. To me this is shifting responsibility. Our organization has guides to settle disputes and discover truth, but in the above case, if the accused denied the allegation, the investigation is over until someone else comes forward accusing the same person (something that happens infrequently). Since elders have been told that molestation is a crime, why can't our brothers go first to the authorities with an accusation and then inform the elders. We expect our brothers to go first to the authorities with an accusation of murder. Moreover, it is inconceivable to think elders would investigate an allegation of murder to determine guilt or innocence, so why would we investigate an allegation of child abuse to determine guilt or innocence? <SO TRUE!!!> This is just not our field of expertise. We are ministers of God, not police. The authorities and their child abuse experts sometimes make mistakes, but nothing like the mistake of just asking the accused "Did you do it?" and the reply is "No." If there is not another witness to the act, consequently, all charges are dropped, the matter is closed, and the victim is warned not to talk about it or else. This brings me to the subject of victims having to provide another witness to his/her molestation. There are contradictions associated with this rule. In the past, Watchtower literature stated that two witnesses to each act must be provided before judicial action could be taken. Now there's something new: "...two persons as witnesses to separate incidents of the same kind of wrongdoing can be deemed sufficient to take action." Which is it? Also, just what kind of action is to be taken? Judicial action which could lead to disfellowshipping? Or investigative action leading to the determination of guilt and then reporting the allegation to the authorities? If our teachings mean we must meet the above criteria before we report to the authorities, as many elders think we do, I say, "NO!" We shouldn't invoke the two-witness rule when it comes to whether elders should report an accusation to authorities. In fact, let me reiterate, I believe that elders should not be investigating an accusation of child abuse before the authorities are called in. The flock is told that elders are loving, kind and sensitive. Yet, time and again, I have heard of extremely ignorant or worst behavior on the part of elders when involved in sexual abuse cases. For instance, a child in our circuit accused her grandfather of molestation. Her mother went to the police and the man (a brother) admitted his guilt. I was told that the case was handled satisfactorily by all concerned except when the mother was approached by the presiding overseer of the congregation and he said, "If it's any consolation to you, your daughter enjoyed the act!" <BG wants to STRANGLE that guy!> The mother left the organization because she couldn't handle the idea that this man was her spiritual shepherd! <who can blame her?>(bg) Another case comes to mind: A sister told of being molested when she was eight years old. The man...
confessed, but one of the elders asked her then, "What kind of clothes were you wearing?" <BG is FUMING!> She was advised to make peace with the perpetrator, and her family was counseled to invite him over for a meal. <Arrgggh!> It's obvious that a question and advice like this proves that elders are not qualified and shouldn't be involved. If I know of hundreds of cases like these, you must know of thousands. Children and women are very vulnerable in this male-dominated world, and this is true also in our organization. I have quoted James 1:27 many times and have heard it quoted from the platform an equal number of times. Of course, you well know this scripture where James said, "The form of worship that is clean and undefiled from the standpoint of our God and Father is this: to look after orphans and widows in their tribulation, and to keep oneself with out spot from the world." Generally, we emphasized the end of this scripture and rarely analyzed the situation orphans and widows found themselves in when the husband and father died. Primarily they were without a protector, which made them extremely vulnerable. Although the situation has changed somewhat today, there are many areas where orphans and widows need help and elders should give special care to their needs. And especially is this so with regard to those who are sexually abused. Who are their protectors, if not those who can be likened to spiritual fathers—the elders. God puts them under our care and yours too. <I am SO GLAD he discussed this!> Whatever it takes, we should go the extra mile to help abused ones. However, it appears that our organization will sacrifice a child to keep the person who denies an allegation of molestation. <Hurray for Joel!> In your letter to All Bodies of Elders, February 15, 2002, you instruct us to, "Never suggest to anyone that they should not report an allegation of child abuse to the police or other authorities." Why should elders be put in a position to suggest or not to suggest reporting an allegation? The victim or caregivers and the rest of Jehovah's Witnesses should be informed by elders to always call the police if a crime has occurred, no buts or ifs about it. <Yeah, why is everything the WTS writes on this subject always in the NEGATIVE rather than the POSITIVE, i.e., "NEVER suggest to anyone that they should NOT report...." vs. "ALWAYS encourage them TO report..."> Also, in this same February 15, 2002 letter, you say, "If you are asked, make it clear that whether to report the matter to the authorities or not is a personal decision for each individual to make..." This is inaccurate information and illegal in seventeen states. In these seventeen reporting states, everybody is obligated to report even suspicion of child abuse. <Again, Hurray Joe for pointing that out!!!> In Tennessee this has been the law since 1972. In Kentucky the law is the same. And why would Kentucky resident, Bill Bowen, as seen on Dateline, be told by someone in the Legal Department to not report a case of molestation? What is the Society's Legal Department doing giving us wrong information such as the above? <Way to go, Joel!> In the January 1, 1997 Watchtower, a policy statement is found that a man known to have been a molester can not hold a position of authority within the congregation. This policy is certainly appreciated and shows your concern for protecting the flock. However, the word “known” appears to be a confusing problem. Who is he “known” to, the elders—is the determination of his guilt or innocence in their hands? What if the victim can't prove to the elders that he/she was molested because of being unable to produce another witness to the act, does this mean the accused remains in his position? I believe this is so because he is then “known” or considered by the elders to be not guilty. (He is then not “known” to be a molester.) Elders should never be given the power to determine who is to be a “known” molester or not because they are untrained and unqualified. This policy puts children in the congregation at risk and should be reevaluated. <Besides, the abuser is “known” by the victim to be a molester, so why hasn't THAT fact counted?> In your statement in the May 24, 2002 letter to all congregations you say, "We have long instructed elders to report allegations of child abuse to the authorities where it is required by law to do so..." <How cowardly and self-serving that statement was!!! Arrggghh!!> Where God is concerned, if this is a crime, it's a crime everywhere. If wrong in one state, why not in others? Also, if it's wrong we should do the right thing whether the laws of the land require it or not. <DITTO!> Aren't we supposed to be morally better than the world? Do we not go an extra step or two because of conscience? Another point taken from the same statement as quoted above is this: You say, "We have long instructed elders to report allegations of child abuse to the authorities..." Where is it written as policy that elders are instructed to report allegations of child abuse to the authorities? Your statement as quoted above is a half-truth and misleads the reader. <SO TRUE! Yes, MISLEADING!> What is not understood is that elders have written instructions to call the Legal Department where they will be told that if their state requires a minister to report the allegation, they should report it. That's a far different manner than "...long instructed elders to report allegations of child abuse to the authorities..." <This letter is SO GOOD!> Another point I want to discuss with you is the recent disfellowshipping of my wife, Barbara. The scriptures used for disfellowshipping her are found in 1 Corinthians 5:1-12. The letter from L. Seely, presiding overseer of the Manchester Congregation, said that Barbara was disfellowshipped for causing divisions, not for committing any of the wicked acts Paul described in 1 Corinthians 5:1-12, i.e., gross wickedness, sexual immorality, etc. It was the Society's spokesman, J. R. Brown, who accused my wife of committing some unspecified “spiritual violations” or “sins” for which she was being called before a judicial committee. This most certainly blemished my wife’s character before the whole world, especially since no proof was offered then or ever. <A lynch mob is what they are acting like!> It was the Watchtower Society that forced Barbara to go to the media about the judicial hearing convened by the local congregation at orders of the Watchtower's Legal Department. It is obvious that because she went to the media about the sexual abuse issue that she caused divisions among the flock. Why didn't J. R. Brown just say so instead of accusing her of "sins" and blacken her character? It was because headquarters knew there was absolutely no proof she caused divisions by propagating her views about child abuse before she went to the media. If Barbara was disfellowshipped because of causing divisions, the Apostle Paul should have been disfellowshipped for causing divisions among the flock because he publicized sensational sexual immorality in the Corinthian congregation. <Wow! Good point. I never thought of that!> Not only did he discuss with the Corinthian Congregation how he felt about the congregation hiding fornication in their midst, he recorded his accusations for millions of people to read in the Bible during the past 2,000 years. Why is it okay for Paul to have gone public revealing disgraceful conduct that was being condoned in the congregation, but when my wife goes public about the organization condoning and protecting immoral people by bad policies, she is punished? Moreover, wicked and immoral acts have been equated to her by applying 1 Cor. 5 as the reason for her disfellowshipping. I believe this to be unchristian. I also believe that disfellowshipping my wife violated the Apostle Paul's command to each one of us to work to keep the congregation clean no matter what the cost. Furthermore, disfellowshipping her for causing divisions because she publicly spoke out about uncleanness in our organization is a violation of the freedom of speech Christ brought us. Inasmuch as I cannot be guided by your polices on child molestation, it is difficult for me to remain an elder. I'm not expecting a response to this letter. If any changes in your policies occur, I'm sure they will appear in our publications. Thank you for considering this letter and I hope nothing less than the Christian thing will be done in behalf of the victims and those speaking out. Sincerely, A. J. Anderson

Judicial Committee is back Well it appears the Watchtower is back at their executions. The appeal committee has demanded to meet with Barb Anderson at a Motel. After JR Brown besmirched her moral character by saying she was being disfellowshipped for "other sins" unrelated to the Dateline program, now three men want to meet her at a motel? Why not the Kingdom Hall? Is Anderson not worthy to walk into the building? Is this funny or what. Anderson is going to request the meet at her home instead. Now the question is, will the committee give in to fear of "woman" and refuse to meet? Or are they too consumed with this opportunity to "beat their sister" that they will meet at all costs. Would anyone like to appear as a character witness for what Barbara Anderson has done? If so please email me and I will be glad to let you know how to get there. I plan to be there on Barbara's behalf and I welcome anyone who would like to stand with her husband and I in her behalf. Regards, bill we corresponded with you in response to your letter of May 30, 2002 in which you appeal the decision made by a judicial committee from the Manchester congregation. A meeting was arranged to hear the appeal. However, we were informed that you could not be at the scheduled meeting due to the short notification period. We are please to arrange another meeting in accordance with your request. Meeting has been set for 3:00 pm Sunday, July 21, 2002

Please read the first two chapters of 'Babylon the Great has fallen-God's Kingdom rules' cicu 1963. This highlights the root cause of the problem in Witnessworld and indeed the rest of the world. It would seem from personal experience of surviving abuse as a witness, along with others, that masonic Satanism is the problem. Or as they see it, Lucifer is right! The murders, sexual abuse and every other crime committed in the name of God is their way of undermining faith on this earth. They think they are untouchable, try exposing masonic hierarchy and see. Jesus talked of them in Matthew 13. He will destroy their empire as 2nd Thessalonians 2 states. See 'man of Lawlessness' in the Insight book re 'composite man' i.e. not Babylon as such (a woman)but 'mystic Babylon' (a man). This class are identified as show denial of basic human rights? According to our own guidebook it is described as “unjust and violates the law of love.” How in any sense am I being made to feel that you want to make me “well again” if by your actions you represent the Watchtower, have you treated me with “due respect” and given any hope of a “fair and impartial hearing”? I Tim. 5:21; Jas. 2:1-9, 15; w77 3/1 pp. 146-52”. By the actions committed to date by you and other representatives of the congregation, it is obvious that these actions violate the law of love. They must treat every person with impartiality at all times and desire that the spiritually ill become well again, since a failure in this regard is unjust and violates the law of love. A New World Order. Sound familiar? Where Hitler and whatever was controlling and manipulating him left off. Were the ‘ovens’ for Molech? The power of good over-ruled them as it will now. 2nd Peter 3:17,18. Isaiah 9:6,7. Isaiah 65:16,17,18. Rev 21:3-5. 1st Corinthians 13. Luke 10:18-24. Is this site true? http://www.apfn.org/apfn/camps.htm The best source for everyone to build or rebuild their faith primarily with the bible is in Bro’ Russell’s 7 volumes of ‘Insight on the Scriptures’. After his tour of masonic halls sincerely giving them the truth, talks they were amazed at, he was soon ‘got rid of’. He was not a mason or Knights Templar as those who would detract/poison you from the truth try to imply. Probably the masonic/KT hierarchy itself, they started tampering then. Subject: My letter 7-18-02 Draffenville Body of Elders Ron Carey-chairman Dear brothers, This letter is to acknowledge your letter of July 15, and your renewed interest in establishing a new judicial hearing. As you may recall my attorney sent you a letter on June 6, 2002 with clear and concise requests for information. In not answering the June 6, letter you canceled a second arranged meeting on June 28, which I readily agreed to, but you failed to confirm in anyway. Due to circumstances beyond my control I am unable to meet on July 24th. I will be happy to reschedule a date acceptable to all concerned. I noted with interest that Ron Cary from Central City has now been appointed to serve as chairman, has he moved to Draffenville? Does he represent the Draffenville Congregation for the Watchtower home office? This needs to be clarified as I am confused why Ron Cary would be involved as he lives over one and one half hours away from Draffenville. The reason for my concern in this regard is the stated instructions in the elder handbook “Pay Attention to Yourself and all the Flock” it makes this comment in that regard on page 109: “If a judicial committee is needed, elders who are present at the Kingdom Hall should determine which elders will serve on the committee and which one will be chairman. The elders will take into consideration which elders are best qualified to handle the particular type of case that has arisen. (km 9/77 pp. 5-6)” Why does Draffenville Congregation need an Assembly Overseer, Ron Cary, when they already have five elders on the “local” elder body? Did the local body of elders call Ron Cary and request him to make the long road trip from Central City? If so I would appreciate an explanation as to why this is needed or who requested Brother Cary. In the July 15, letter Ron mentioned that he wished to be treated with, “due respect… accorded to the elder who is chairing the meeting.” If find this noteworthy as a fellow elder I make the same request on my behalf. The question is, have I been treated with “due respect” since you brothers at the direction of home office have chosen to press these false allegations against me? To explain, let me share a few examples: Failing to appear or give notice for the first prearranged judicial hearing “in writing” when at great expense I was there in good faith to meet with the committee. Totally ignoring all questions asked since January of 2001 about serious actions committed against my good name in the congregation and local community. Attempting to arrange a judicial hearing with a twenty-four hour notice in an attempt to prevent my witnesses from appearing in my behalf. Attempting to arrange a judicial hearing on Wednesdays in an attempt to impede my witnesses from appearing on my behalf. Failing to appear for a second judicial hearing that my attorney notified you in writing that I was willing to appear for, but once again you failed to confirm or communicate in anyway. Harassing my family and myself, by trespassing on my property, making harassing phone calls, sending correspondence, after repeated requests for all communication to go only to my attorney. In the handbook you use to decide these matters a comment is made in this regard on page 107: “They must treat every person with impartiality at all times and desire that the spiritually ill become well again, since a failure in this regard is unjust and violates the law of love.” I Tim. 5:21; Jas. 2:1-9, 5:14, 15; w77 3/1 pp. 146-52”. By the actions committed to date by you and other representatives of the congregation, you have treated me with “due respect” and given any hope of a “fair and impartial hearing”? How in any sense am I being made to feel that you want to make me “well again” if by your actions you show denial of basic human rights? According to our own guidebook it is described as “unjust and violates the law of love”. I would like a specific answer to that question. Now it appears you want to establish a new hearing with a third chairman officiating. Since you have failed to appear on two previous meetings that were arranged in writing, what reason do I have to believe you will appear for this one? Your actions to date have proven otherwise. Therefore due to the inconvenience you have caused my witnesses and myself by your gross negligence in these matters I must request the following in accordance with “due respect”. What are the charges against me, please be specific as I am unclear what this new hearing is about. For any hearing that you wish to arrange I will require at least a two week notice from the date I receive the letter so as to arrange my schedule to be able to meet. I request than you not set the meeting for any weekday as this imposes a hardship for my witnesses to be able to appear in my behalf. Therefore I request a Saturday or Sunday meeting only. As you are aware the “Flock” book on page 110 states: “Suitable arrangements should be made as to the time and place of the hearing.” Would that not mean arrangements that are kind to the accused and his witnesses? I request that the meeting be arranged on a time table after “noon.” I request that you use no recording devices in the course of the hearing. I request that no attorneys may be present in your behalf or Watchtower. I request a basic committee of three with no observers present. According to the “Flock” book on page 109 it makes this statement: “In a complex case, a judicial committee need not be limited to three members; it may warrant having four or even five experienced elders serve.” As this is a simple case of false allegations it would not appear to be to complex for three elders to handle. If you plan to have more than three elders present, I wish to be informed in advance and the basis for that decision. If you fail to do this and upon my arrival, there are more than three on the committee, I will certainly consider that a lack of “due respect” for not informing me ahead of time what to expect. My witnesses have asked that I act as an agent on their behalf, therefore I request a check in the amount of $2,945.25 to be sent to silentlams to assist with travel expenses for my witnesses to return for the new hearing to bear testimony in my behalf. I request that ALL COMMUNICATION go through my attorney. It is no doubt at the advice of Watchtower Legal you have chosen to ignore my repeated demands in this regard, but regardless you must STOP HARASSING me. If you do not I will be forced to look to “Caesar” for redress in this regard. I am saddened to have to make the above requests but your actions have had the affect of “beating your brothers” by harassing my family, arranging judicial meetings which are stressful to face, and not making appearance, inconveniencing survivors of abuse who traveled great distances to meet with you and provide testimony. In his February 7, 2002 letter to Richard Greenberg of Dateline, JR Brown made this statement: “We therefore do not view them as adversaries, but as individuals whose views and opinions should be heard within the framework of the congregation, or church, and not in front of a nationwide television audience. Our Governing Body is willing to resolve differences of opinion within the framework of the congregation and according to scriptural principles.” So is this the way “our Governing Body resolves differences of opinion”? They send out-of-town elders to establish a judicial committee with false allegations and disfellowship all who appeared on the program? Does this not confirm exactly the allegation I have made since day one, that is, when victims of abuse speak up they are silenced with the threat of disfellowshipping? Is it not the cowardly course to disfellowship brothers and sisters in back rooms rather than face legitimate allegations in a public forum? It seems “our Governing Body” is perfectly willing to authorize JR Brown of Watchtower Public Information to slander those who appeared on Dateline by stating they were being disfellowshipping for “other sins” not related to speaking out on child abuse to nationwide newspapers. Could it be that “our Governing Body” lied to JR Brown and Richard Greenberg? Could they be lying to you? I know the questions above are troubling as they have troubled me greatly over the course of the last year. It is for that reason I have requested to have a meeting with the Governing Body “within the framework of the congregation and according to scriptural principles” on September 27th of this year. Since they and the Service Committee are well aware of my request to meet with them in a FED-Xed letter dated June 6, 2002, why are they authorizing you to have a judicial hearing? You might want to ask them that question. Would it not make better sense to resolve our differences at that time? On the other hand if you are aware of my meeting with the Governing Body, then I would welcome an explanation for the inconsistency of your actions. I realize you brothers are “caught in the middle” so to speak, but I would encourage you to think seriously about pressing this matter at this time. I am willing to meet and am traveling to Brooklyn, New York as an evidence of my sincerity in wanting these matters settled. I will be glad to meet with you, I simply request “due respect” as you have failed miserably in that regard up to this point. Think about these things brothers as many children will either benefit or suffer from the actions you choose to take. As the “Flock” book states: Elders called upon to care for this responsibility must exercise heavenly wisdom, have good judgment, and be impartial. (Deut. 1:13, 16-18) A sound knowledge of Jehovah’s righteous laws and principles is necessary. (Ps. 19:7-11) They must weigh matters carefully, realizing that certain factors make situations differ from one another. Instead of looking for rigid rules for guidance, elders should think in terms of principles; judge each case on its own merits. Before handling a judicial case, elders should carefully review Units 5(a), 5(b), and 5(c). They may also need to do research in the Society’s publications and recent correspondence from the Society to find information that may apply or be helpful. Elders can be confident that with accurate knowledge, with experience and discernment, and with the help of God’s spirit, they can judge in righteousness, wisdom, and mercy. I encourage you brothers to consider these matters carefully and make a decision that will benefit the flock. As fellow elders is that not what we are required to do? I await your quick response to this letter and send my warm Christian love. Very Truly Yours, William H. Bowen

CLAIRE STEWART 09:00 - 15 July 2002 The Jehovah's Witness Church in Scotland has vehemently denied allegations that it shelters Pedophiles. A Panorama programme screened last night on BBC TV claimed the church had records of known Pedophiles within the faith that it refused to share with police. The programme profiled an Ayrshire teenager who allegedly told elders at her church she was being abused by her father. She claimed to have been told not to go to police, despite the fact that the man had already confessed to elders that he had abused her. A spokesman for the British branch of Jehovah's Witnesses condemned pedophilia as "abhorrent" and stated the programme had failed to examine cases in which the church had approached the police. The investigative programme claimed that the Watch Tower Society kept a worldwide database of members accused of child abuse. The list, which is claimed to contain more than 20,000 names, is based on details held by each Jehovah's Witness congregation and has many names that have never been reported to police. Panorama claimed a code of silence existed within the faith based on Biblical teachings that members should turn to elders and not the police, and that members believed a crime had not taken place unless two members of the faith could give evidence of it. Spokesman Paul Gilles yesterday denied that any Jehovah's Witness congregation would shelter a PAEDOPHILE from the police. "Sexual abuse of children is not just a terrible sin but also a crime that can leave lasting emotional scars on its victims," he said. "Jehovah's Witnesses everywhere abhor the sexual abuse of children and will not protect any perpetrator of such repugnant acts from the consequences of his gross sin." Explaining why the church had chosen to snub the programme, Mr Gilles said: "We decided not to take part for two reasons. "One is Jehovah's Witnesses are featured in the programme. We follow the Bible in everything we do and the way to resolve difficulties between spiritual brothers and sisters is not in the public. "Our views are based on deeply held convictions which can't be expressed just in a few sound bytes which might be edited. That's why we have chosen to address the allegations on our own website so we can give detailed answers in context." However, the church did provide the programme with information on its policies towards child abuse. Mr Gilles, speaking before the programme was aired, said he did not expect it to give an even-handed view. "I don't expect it to be a balanced programme from what I have seen so far," he said. "They have highlighted cases which could have been handled better. We told them we can't discuss specific cases. "They have trawled newspapers to find cases where things had gone wrong, but they didn't trawl newspapers to find cases where we had gone to the police." The spokesman did accept there were cases of child abuse within the faith that could have been dealt with better and expressed regret at them. Explaining the Jehovah's Witness process for reporting such matters, Mr Gilles said: "When a report is received, elders contact our national office in London for guidance to ensure that, firstly, the alleged victim and other potential victims are protected from possible abuse, and secondly that counsel is given to report crime to the proper authorities and to comply with any additional legal requirements. "Jehovah's Witnesses further believe that it is the absolute right of the victim, his or her family or anyone else to report the matter to the authorities if they so choose. There are certainly no sanctions against any congregation member who reports an allegation of child abuse to the authorities." About 8,600 Jehovah's Witnesses made the trip to Perth yesterday for the final day of the Zealous Kingdom Proclaimers Convention. The conference attracted visitors from throughout the UK and as far afield as the US. Organizer Bill Reid said: "The people of Perth have responded very well to us being here, from taxi drivers right the way through."

http://news.bbc.co.uk/hi/english/audiovideo/programmes/panorama/live_forums/newsid_2124000/2124808.stm When child abuse is suspected within a congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, "elders" in the church have a "child protection policy" to follow. This involves reporting the matter to the church's own legal desk - but not necessarily to the police. The organization's strict biblical interpretation means not only that the matter often remains a secret within the organization, but also that victims can be sent back home to the abusive relationship which they have complained of. A former elder, Bill Bowen, has spoken out to Panorama about these policies. He's now leading a campaign to change the church's attitude to child abuse within its ranks. Proclaimers" District Conventions. What a happy prospect! Yes, there is no doubt about it: "Happy is the people whose God is Jehovah!"-Psalm 144:15. We see the truthfulness of this inspired statement when we associate with our brothers and sisters at conventions, assemblies, and congregation meetings. We enjoy a warm atmosphere of peace while we benefit from fine spiritual encouragement from Jehovah and his organization. (Psalm 29:11) What a contrast to those of the world who lack true spiritual guidance and a solid hope for the future! --Isaiah 65:13. What enables us to maintain our happy spirit? For one thing, we fear Jehovah and we deeply respect the admonition in His Word, including what the Bible says on sexual matters. (1 Corinthians 6:9,10; Hebrews 13:4) At first, it was not easy for some of us to bring our lives into harmony with Jehovah's elevated standards. We had to make significant changes in our lifestyle before we could qualify for membership in Jehovah's clean, spirit-directed organization. Was it worth the effort? Absolutely! How happy we are to be living in harmony with God's righteous requirements! In recent weeks, the press in this country has focused attention on the way accusations of child abuse are handled by various religious organizations. Such reports may cause some sincere individuals to ask about the procedures followed by Jehovah's Witnesses, Therefore, we believe that it will be beneficial to review with you our Bible-based position, so that you will "know how you ought to give an answer" to any who may inquire.--Colossians 4:6. Simply stated, we abhor the sexual abuse of children and will not protect any perpetrator of such repugnant acts from the consequences of his gross sin. (Romans 12:9) We expect the elders to investigate every allegation of child abuse. Even one abused child is one too many. However, in evaluating the evidence, they must bear in mind the Bible's clear direction: "No single witness should rise up against a man respecting any error or any sin ... At the mouth of two witnesses or at the mouth of three witnesses the matter should stand good." (Deuteronomy 19:15) Later, this requirement to consider testimony of two or three witnesses was confirmed by Jesus. (Matthew 18:16) Thus, although they investigate every allegation, the elders in not authorized by the Scriptures to take congregational action unless there is a confession or there are two credible wit-nesses, However, if two persons are witnesses to separate incidents of the same kind of wrongdoing, their testimony can be deemed sufficient to take action.--1 Timothy 5:19, 24, 25. What if someone is a proven child molester? The article "Let Us Abhor What is Wicked!" published in the Jan 1st 1997, issue of The Watchtower had this to say on page 29: "For the protection of our children, a man known to have been a child molester does not qualify for a responsible position in the congregation. Moreover, he cannot be a pioneer or serve in any other special, full-time service." We take such decisive action because we are concerned with maintaining Bible standards and protecting our children. (1 Timothy 3:2, 9, 10) Everyone in the organization is expected to meet the same requirements, namely, to be clean physically, mentally, morally, and spiri-tually.2nd Corinthians 7:1; Ephesians 4:17-19; 1 Thessalonians 2:4. Our position is that the secular authorities deal with crime while elders deal with sin. To avoid a miscarriage of justice elders must not interfere with, prevent, or impede any secular investigation into child abuse. They must ensure that secular laws are adhered to (Romans 13:1) To that end they are instructed to contact the legal dept at Bethel whenever they receive information from even one person who alleges that child abuse has occurred. When a report is received guidance is given by the legal dept to ensure that: 1. The alleged victim and other potential victims are protected from possible abuse. 2. The council is given to report crime to the proper authorities and to comply with any additional legal requirements. The elders know that it is the absolute right of the victim, his or her family or anyone else to report the matter to the authorities, if they so wish. (Galatians 6:5) At least since 1981, articles have been published in our journals, The Watchtower and Awake!, with a view to educating Jehovah's people and the public on the need to protect children from child abuse. Besides the above-quoted article, there was the article, "Help For the Victims of Incest," which appeared in the , Watchtower. Awake! has featured such articles as "Your Child is in Danger! "How Can We Protect Our Children?" and "Prevention in the Home" (October 8, 1993) as well as "Child Molesting-Every Mother's Nightmare," in its Jan 22nd 1985 issue. We believe that we have a strong, Bible-based policy on child abuse. Over the years, as we have noted areas where our policy could be strengthened, we have not hesitated to follow through. At Kingdom Ministry Schools the elders receive ongoing reminders regarding this policy and related matters. And we continue to urge the elders to follow closely the procedures that we have established. The moral cleanliness of the congregation continues to be of vital concern to the "faithful and discreet slave." (Matthew 24:45) As we keep applying Scriptural principles in our lives, our haps-pines will increase. We trust that these reminders will be helpful to you as you share the Kingdom hope with right-hearted ones. We have much to be grateful for in the way of spiritual refreshment as a result of attending the "Zealous Kingdom Proclaimers" District Conventions. What a happy prospect! Yes, there is no doubt about it: "Happy is the people whose God is Jehovah!"-Psalm 144:15. Your brothers, Watch Tower B. & T. Society of Pennsylvania

With every good wish, I am, Very truly yours,

You do not apologize for keeping such records here in the United States. Apart from being legally needed, they have been very helpful to us in our efforts to protect the flock from harm. (Isaiah 32:2) Christian parents can rightly feel secure in the knowledge that such efforts are made to screen out possible child abusers from appointment to responsible positions within the congregation. (My comment: Who CARES about responsible positions? We care that they are in the cong, period!) Ms. Powys, please do not conclude that we believe that our system is perfect. No human organization is perfect. But we do believe that we have a strong, Bible-based policy on child abuse. Anyone in a responsible position who is guilty of child abuse would be removed from his responsibilities without hesitation. (My comment: Again, why do they harp on having positions? THAT IS NOT THE POINT!) We certainly would not knowingly transfer him to serve elsewhere. Child abuse is abhorrent to us. Even one abused child is one too many. At least since 1981, our journals, The Watchtower and Awake!, have featured articles to educate both Witnesses and the public regarding the importance and need to protect children from child abuse. Among others, there was the article "Let Us Abhor What Is Wicked!" published in the January 1, 1997, issue of The Watchtower, "Help For the Victims of Incest" in the October 1, 1983, Watchtower; "Your Child Is in Danger!", "How Can We Protect Our Children?", and "Prevention in the Home," all in the October 8, 1993, Awake!, as well as "Child Molesting Every Mothers Nightmare" in the January 22, 1985, Awake! (My comment: Again, why are they leaving out the ENTIRE Awake! of 10/8/91, "Healing the Wounds of Child Abuse," which the front cover was about child abuse, as were pages 3-11 of the mag.) Over the years, as we have noted areas where our policies could be strengthened, we have followed through. We are continuing to refine them. We trust that you will find the information in this letter to be helpful. As you will note, we have responded to the broad issues you raise rather than providing specific answers to your detailed list of questions. We note that you sent a similar list of questions to our offices in London. We understand they are answering your questions in accordance with their procedures and adherence to British law. With every good wish, I am, Very truly yours, understood to be preparing to bring a further case to court in the northeast. The Jehovah’s Witnesses church, which has six million members around the world, has been convulsed by revelations that its elders have protected sex offenders, failed to report accusations to the police and even punished children and families making accusations. The Watch Tower, the church’s worldwide headquarters in Brooklyn, is struggling to regain its battered authority after a string of child abuse cases stretching from the US to Scotland. An investigation by the BBC’s Panorama programme has discovered that the Watch Tower Society keeps a worldwide database of members accused of child abuse. The list, which is claimed to contain more than 20,000 names, is based on details held by each Jehovah’s Witness congregation and many of the names on that list have never been reported to the police. Allegations of child abuse within the church first emerged in Scotland in the quiet seaside town of Stevenson in Ayrshire when 19-year-old Alison Cousins went to the police after being branded a liar by church elders to whom she had turned for help. Cousins, who was brought up in the Jehovah’s Witnesses, went to her church elders three years ago with the shocking allegation that her father, a respected member of the congregation, had been sexually abusing her. The same levels of stipulation that there must be two witnesses before any action is taken has prevented thousands of prosecutions, according to US police. Jack Zeller, a US police officer who dealt with several child abuse cases, sees the irony. ‘Unfortunately, most kids don’t have several witnesses observing them get raped,’ he said. ‘The same levels of protection policy and defends the database of self-confessed offenders as part of its strategy of dealing with abuse without referring to the judicial system. The church keeps the existence of the list a closely guarded secret. Watch Tower states that it uses the list to monitor the activities of the men who stand accused of raping and molesting children. But former members of the church claim that keeping the list secret effectively shields abusers and allows abuse to continue. In the American Bible belt of Kentucky, Bill Bowen, who has spent his lifetime as a Jehovah’s Witness and more than 20 years as an elder, claims the organization covers up abuse by keeping this database secret. According to Bowen, who has become a thorn in the flesh of the organization, his sources inside Watch Tower indicate there are 23,720 abusers on the secret list -- who are protected by the system. ‘Every detail is written down about what happened,’ said Bowen. ‘If this man moves anywhere, then if any allegation surfaces again, this is the way they monitor these people.’ The church in the UK and the US refuses to discuss the list or its details with anyone, critics of the church say the guidelines amount to a ‘PAEDOPHILE paradise’. Eventually, because she didn’t have corroborating witness statements for the elders, Cousins went to the police last year and as their investigation began, she made a shocking discovery. Church elders had known for three years that her father had been abusing her older sister, that he had confessed to the church but that no action had been taken. Her father, Ian Cousins, who has since been prosecuted and sentenced to five years in jail, had merely been reprimanded by the elders and sent home where his abuse simply shifted from one sister to the other. The way Cousins’s case was dealt with by the church is not an isolated incident. The Jehovah’s Witnesses are now reeling from a series of scandals worldwide and allegations that its self-styled Child Protection Policy does nothing but protect abusers and fails to ensure allegations of abuse are reported to the authorities. According to its critics, child abusers within the organization are protected by its strict biblical laws and the threat that any member disregarding the advice of elders by going to the police faces the prospect of being denounced and cast out of the congregation. The organization insists that it has a strict child protection policy and defends the database of self-confessed offenders as part of its strategy of dealing with abuse without referring to the judicial system. The church keeps the existence of the list a closely guarded secret. Watch Tower states that it uses the list to monitor the activities of the men who stand accused of raping and molesting children. But former members of the church claim that keeping the list secret effectively shields abusers and allows abuse to continue. In the American Bible belt of Kentucky, Bill Bowen, who has spent his lifetime as a Jehovah’s Witness and more than 20 years as an elder, claims the organization covers up abuse by keeping this database secret. According to Bowen, who has become a thorn in the flesh of the organization, his sources inside Watch Tower indicate there are 23,720 abusers on the secret list -- who are protected by the system. ‘Every detail is written down about what happened,’ said Bowen. ‘If this man moves anywhere, then if any allegation surfaces again, this is the way they monitor these people.’ The church in the UK and the US refuses to discuss the list or its details with anyone not personally involved in a case. It was that wall of anonymity that allowed Cousins’s father to remain at home and unchecked with his daughters at risk. Bowen began his campaign to expose the church after having to handle an abuse case in his own congregation and becoming disturbed by the pressure it puts on the victim. ‘When an allegation of abuse happens, parents are required to go to the elders first,’ said Bowen. ‘If the abuser denies the charge, they will turn back to the child and say, ‘Do you have two eye witnesses to what happened?’ That means the child and one other witness.’ According to Bowen, if there is not a basis to establish the allegation with two witnesses, the pressure is then turned on the accuser. If there is no corroborating evidence, the members making the allegations are warned not to repeat them against an ‘innocent’ or cause division in the church on pain of being ‘disfellowshipped’ -- effective lifetime exile. ‘They’re told if they don’t obey these elders that God will kill them, and how God kills them is that when you’re disfellowshipped, you’re viewed as being dead,’ said Bowen. ‘It’s like the biblical edict of stoning. Your own mother and father will not acknowledge you in public. Your own children will not speak to you. ‘And they have a choice, they can be silent and retain their family and every friend they’ve known for the last 40 years, or, if they speak out, they will lose all that overnight.’ The wall of silence around abuse cases and the stipulation that there must be two witnesses before any action is taken has prevented thousands of prosecutions, according to US police. Jack Zeller, a US police officer who dealt with several child abuse cases sees the irony. ‘Unfortunately, most kids don’t have several witnesses observing them get raped,’ he said. ‘The same levels of obstruction and unco-operativeness have been encountered by police in the UK tackling allegations of child abuse within the church. Police investigations into allegations of sexual abuse within the Jehovah’s Witnesses community in Birmingham were frustrated for a long time by elders in the church. Steve Colley, an investigating officer with West Midlands police, was shocked by the determination of elders not to co-operate with his inquiries into allegations of abuse in a Birmingham congregation. 'I was surprised,' said Colley. 'They actually said to me unless I could provide two Jehovah's Witnesses who'd actually seen the offence, then as far as they were concerned the offence hadn't taken place.' Despite this, each congregation keeps copious records regarding any spiritual infraction or wrongdoing committed within the church. Records of Ian Cousins's abuse of his eldest daughter were lodged but were only obtained by Cousins under data protection legislation. The papers show that the Jehovah's Witnesses in Ayrshire and in the organization's headquarters knew for three years before she asked them for help that her father was a self-confessed PAEDOPHILE. Instead of enabling elders to monitor him, the records showed they twice turned a blind eye to his abuse of his daughters. 'It is a PAEDOPHILE paradise created by Jehovah's Witnesses,' said Bill Bowen.
'An abuser can go into any congregation, remain anonymous, have access to more children through activities in the church, and all he has to do is just keep denying it and he will have the confidentiality clause in Watch Tower policy to enable him to continue.' Panorama's Suffer Little Children is on BBC1 tonight at 10.15pm

WELCOME ALLISON COUSINS!!!! Thank you for your courage and bravery to appear on the Panorama show and tell your story! This cover-up of sex crimes was a blistering boil that needed to be popped wide open so the Toxins could come out in view of everyone. You have done a WONDERFUL THING and we THANK YOU. Love/SLC

UK SEEKS INVESTIGATION OF WTS (REPOST) --- From: "silentlamb" <info@silentlamb.org> Date: Wed, 17 Jul 2002 15:15:00 -0500 To: <info@silentlamb.org> Subject: UK Press release --- Helen Clark Member of Parliament for Peterborough --- FOR IMMEDIATE USE 15.07.02 --- HOUSE OF COMMONS --- London SW1A 0AA --- Press Release --- JEHOVAH'S WITNESS CHILD SEX ABUSE --- MP CALLS FOR INQUIRY --- Helen Clark MP has tabled an Early Day Motion in the House of Commons calling for an immediate inquiry into the allegations of child sexual abuse amongst members of Jehovah's Witness congregations. This follows the BBC Panorama expose of past and present cases, which have never been adequately investigated due to the organization's policy of requiring two witnesses to an alleged offence. Mrs Clarke has been pursuing the matter for nearly two years since being contacted by a constituent, himself a victim as a child, but three successive Ministers have refused to take any action. --- "Panorama contacted me when they were preparing this programme and I was able to put them in touch with my constituent and the police who were also aware of the allegations" said Mrs Clarke "I'm delighted that the matter is at last receiving the public scrutiny it deserves, having written on a number of occasions to the Home Office without success. In my opinion, Government Ministers have all been too anxious not to offend a religious minority group and therefore too ready to accept outward assurances that the proper procedures were in effect. The Children of members of Jehovah's Witnesses must be afforded the same protection against sexual abuse as any other children in our society. I hope this EDM will receive sufficient support to put additional pressure on the Government to take action. I would be very surprised if I am the only Member of Parliament to have been approached on these issues. --- ENDS --- Text of EDM --- EARLY DAY MOTION --- JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES AND CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE --- That this house congratulates the BBC on its showing of the Panorama programme, which exposes the lack of an appropriate child protection policy amongst Jehovah's Witnesses, since it is the organization's policy to consider congregation members accused of child sexual abuse innocent unless there are two witnesses, even in the case of listed Pedophiles; notes that previous attempts on the part of victims of this abuse to obtain official recognition of the issues involved have been unsuccessful and calls upon the Government to institute an immediate enquiry into the circumstances of past and present cases of such abuse. --- CONTACTS: Mrs Helen Clark MP 020 7219 6062 --- . Helen Clark Member of Parliament for Peterborough --- HRC/IAJM 15th July, 2002 --- HOUSE OF COMMONS --- London SW1A 0AA --- Mr. Hilary Benn, M.P., Parliamentary Under Secretary of State, Home Office. --- Dear Hillary, --- Jehovah's Witnesses --- Thank you for your letter of 26 June, which I have already forwarded to my constituent Mr. XXXXXX. --- However, last night's "Panorama" programme on this subject showed that this is an extremely serious problem. From my own correspondence with your office, it seems to be one which successive Ministers have not fully addressed. It is important to be able to have a more simplified guidelines, issued by the Jehovah's Witnesses, as read. --- Mr. XXXX particularly mentions that the "Letters to Elders" sent from the headquarters of the Jehovah's Witnesses are normally kept under lock and key, so that ordinary members do not see them. He asked why this process is so secretive. --- The spokesman from headquarters (in the United States) said on the programme that the Witnesses had their own register of Pedophiles -- with 23,720 names on it (in Europe, Canada and the U. S.). As this is an international organization, their policy stems from the U.S.; they are a corporate body whose representatives in England are not independent. --- One of the police officers interviewed on the programme, Sgt. Steve Colley of the West Midlands Police, said of the Simon Brady case with which he had been involved, that it was "criminally negligent" that the Witnesses had not passed on details to the police when they first learned them. --- I should like you to know that I am today tabling an EDM on the subject (copy enclosed). I hope that you will institute an urgent inquiry into this whole question. --- Yours Helen (signature)

Contradictory messages in 8/1/02 WT re: SOCCER: <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=31467&site=3&page=1> Check out the August 1st issue and see the article "The Word of God Exerts Power", an experience from Jamaica which tells of a man named Cleveland who gave up a number of things to become one of JWs. Among the things he gave up was playing soccer: "Cleveland was deeply involved in his community's soccer team, and its games were interfering with his meeting attendance. What would he do? In spite of intense pressure from his teammates, coach, and friends, Cleveland decided to quit the soccer team. Yes, God's Word was beginning to exert power, influencing him for good!" So what "signal" does this give out? Why, that there is something 'un-Christian' about playing soccer and that a true Christian wouldn't do it. Right?...Wrong! Check out the article "Yoga - Just an Exercise or Something More?" in the same issue of The Watchtower! On page 22 it describes (and provides illustrations) of three activities approved for Christians. What are they? Walking, Gym workouts, and...guess what?...SOCCER! Are these guys confused, or what? It's true what Jesus said of those who lived by rules in his day, the Pharisees: "They bind up heavy loads and put them upon the shoulders of men, but they themselves are not willing to budge them with their finger." - Matt 23:4

DAVID LETTERMAN comments on the JW sex abuse scandal in his monologues on Monday and Tuesday nights, July 15 and 16. To learn more, you can listen at Letterman's website here: <http://www.cbs.com/late night/late show/> and click on "Dave's Monolog" in the DAVE-TV box. --- If you want to tell Letterman thanks for helping to expose this non-funny issue to the public's attention, since a lot of people get their "news" from Dave and Jay rather than the nightly news, you can write Letterman here: <http://www.cbs.com/late night/late show/show_info/ls_show_info_pop_feedback.shtml> --- On Monday, Letterman said this: "Did you hear there's a big sex abuse scandal concerning Jehovah's Witnesses in Minnesota? (no response from audience so he asks again) Did you hear about that? (audience now groans, Nooooooooooo) Yeah, well, uh, I sure hope this isn't true... I really hope it is not true because, uh, we would really hate to see people START avoiding Jehovah's Witnesses... We wouldn't want THAT to happen." (laughter from audience). <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=32252&site=3> --- Here is a summary of what Letterman said on Tuesday night: David lettermen just crushed the jws again in tonights monolog. He asked, "Are you tired of all the religious sex scandals? Now the Jehovah's Witnesses have a sex scandal. They group you then they leave you a pamphlet. Then you go to court today but no one answered the door." <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=32348&page=1&site=3#425664> --- and --- For the second night in a row, David Letterman included a jab at the Witnesses in reference to their sex abuse scandal. Tonight in his monolog, he said (something like): "Those Jehovah's Witnesses, they're something else. First they grope you, then they leave you a pamphlet!" Then he mimicked a JW saying "Here" while handing you a piece of literature. <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=32347&site=3>

LOL Good 'ole Douglas Montgomery wrote = you would think Jehovah's Witnesses were synonymous with pedophilia. There are 6.5 million of us, would Panorama have been interested in any CHILD ABUSE CASES that HAVE BEEN dealt with responsibly? Any interest in the positive EXPERIENCES of the VAST MAJORITY of us? HUMMM? You mean that there are even MORE cases that were handled right? Just how many cases does that make all together, the ones handled responsibly and the ones that were NOT HANDLED RESPONSIBLY? And, are you stating that the survivor of the ones NOT handled responsibly should just bow down, keep quiet and be grateful for the ones that were handled responsibly? If we all sat down to tea and tallied ALL the cases, just how many would there be?! Sir, were you a survivor of a case that was handled responsibly? As the lambs cheerleader put it so well DUUHHHHHHHHH! LOL And this little piggy went to town! BLM --- (Thanks BLM, but now I can't even remember what post you were referring to about the Duuuuhhhh! The facts stated are terrifying. Having had sexual molestation occur in my family, we are not JW, the anguish is horrible. It is hard enough when there is support. But when the victim is treated with such contempt, it makes them assaulted that many times over. It is apparent that the 'elders' are not concerned with the GOD's love, but are using the bible as a means to excuse their immoral conduct. It appears the 'elders' that know about the molesters conduct are themselves molesters, therefore they are each covering up for the other. The only way this can be fought is to go very public. 20/20, 60 Minutes, Oprah and all the rest of the docu shows. I know JW watch TV. Apparently the mothers and the victims are going to have to go to public. You are going to need some kind of support group in place ready to aid these people. The support group is going to have to sound like JW, while changing some of the slavery mentality concepts. And be ready for verbal assault. The children need to be saved. The molester removed from the streets. When several cases go public, more of the victims will come forward. Courage like fear is contagious.

Thank you for bringing to everyone's attention the fact that so called Christians abuse - whether it is sexually, physically or mentally. I am not disfellowshipped or disassociated I left due to extensive beatings from my father. As one of six children the youngest two still at home, I worry for my siblings. My father is still a witness, the social services watch him when they can He flits from congregation to congregation so they can never keep up with him for long. I hope that one day the elders see him for what he is and also my mother as she could have removed us from the situation long ago. If anyone wants to email me to chat- please do. I have gotten thru this you can too. Ruth Bryers Dunfermline, Scotland. ruthcub01@hotmail.com

http://jwzone.org/ Daily Text for Saturday, July 20 In a mighty way the word of Jehovah kept growing and prevailing.-- Acts 19:20. Friday, July 19 | Sunday, July 21 The original Greek word that is translated "prevailing" conveys the idea of "exerting strength." The preceding verses relate that many in Ephesus became believers, and a number who practiced magical arts burned their books before everybody. Thus, God's word prevailed over false religious beliefs. The good news also prevailed over other obstacles, such as persecution. Nothing could stop it. In this we find a striking parallel to true Christianity in our time. The early Christians recognized that the success of their ministry did not depend on their efforts alone. They had a divine commission to carry on their work, and they had divine support to accomplish it. Spiritual growth comes from God. Acknowledging this, Paul wrote: "I planted, Apollos watered, but God kept making it grow. For we are God's fellow workers."--1 Cor. 3:6, 9. w 4/1/01 14, 15 Excerpt from "Examining the Scriptures Daily 2002". © 2001 WatchTower Bible & Tract Society of PA

Please believe me you I understand your anger having been abused many years ago. Yet I can't help but wonder if the (I'm going to use guns here only as metaphors for methods) shotgun blasts from this website will matter to the WB&TS. Methinks a rifle with a scope would work better at taking out pedophiles. Better yet would be many "Under Cover Brothers" equipped with hand guns with silencers. (Silence is not always a bad thing as in anonymity) If you need a "License to Kill" just ask yourself what would Jesus do? What do you think Jesus is going to do with all the perverts at Armageddon? Every one who has a healthy conscience will go to the proper secular authorities and allow these to use their God ordained sword to met out temporal punishment to the evil doers. But shot gun blasts a the JW Org juggernaut will do little but get yourselves...

Thank-you for airing the Panorama on JWs and sexual abuse. My prayers are with all of those too frightened to speak out. I pray that you put your trust in God, not an organization. If you are unsure of what to do, ask yourself, What would Jesus do? He said that anyone who harmed a child (surely that includes those who turn a blind eye to the harm) have NO PLACE IN GODS KINGDOM. So speak out. Jehovah loves children. He would not want them to be harmed.

Hi Xxxxxxx: You said: "WHAT HAPPENED TO THE WATCHTOWER? ...Jehovah has allowed circumstances to develop that have heaped reproach upon his people and in turn upon his name. In ancient Israel when Jehovah allowed his name people to be disgraced to such an extent that reproach was brought upon his name as a result, it was because Israel had sinned greatly and Jehovah had withdrawn his support leaving them exposed to their enemies...This is what has happened today to the Watchtower!!...Why Jehovah has withdrawn his support from them is for them to determine."

< My reply: --- Xxxxxxx, I couldn't agree more with what you have said. But sadly, we don't see JWs trying to "determine" anything. No "outcry" from them because of the "lawlessness" practiced among them. Truly the "love of the greater number has cooled off" because of the "increase in lawlessness" from their leadership. In fact, with all of the bad press, still JWs don't have the faintest idea, not even a clue that something is wrong. So who is got the really bigger problem here, the greater problem -- The WTS or 6 million blind followers that will do anything they say without question. (Matthew 24:12) What I mean is this: Its one thing for the Watchtower Society, say 12 men on the Governing Body, get off the track. But entirely another when 6 million people from over 200 different lands and islands can't discern when twisted Watchtower Policy serves to harm and victimize defenseless children, while protecting the predator. And the brothers can't see the real issue, for the life of them. And that's with all of the bad press and they still can't see it. Instead they would call the Press all "liars", and mercilessly execute Bill Bowen's and associates for bringing this problem out to the light. And then they have the unmitigated gall, the nerve to feel that this is "Jehovah's will" to carry on this way?!? But didn't Jesus say, wicked "men will expel you from synagogues [Jehovah's House of worship in Jesus' time] and will even kill you and imagine he has rendered a sacred service to God"? Jesus said it. Does not this profile actually fit the Governing Body & Jehovah's Witnesses en mass today? And yet, its truly disgusting, pathetic I know...to really see it in action before your very eyes! People that call themselves "christian". Arrrgggghhh! (John 16:2)...But are they really "christian", I ask? And further, why do people act this way?
Isn’t it true, they act this way, because in their minds, the WTS must be right, at all cost. Always right, in all situations. Case closed. This is the way they think. And wasn’t the Pharisees of Jesus’ day, viewed the same way? Jesus said: “Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because you resemble whitewashed graves, which outwardly indeed appear beautiful but inside are full of dead men’s bones and of every sort of uncleanness. In that way you also, outwardly indeed, appear righteous to men, but inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.” (Matthew 23:27, 28)...Full of “hypocrisy and lawlessness”!...And that's what we see in the Governing Body and all of those who support them as JWs, high official and rank and file member...And if they are truly viewed that way before God, rest assured, they are not just “guilty” on child abuse, but guilty on many other acts of “hypocrisy and lawlessness” too. They didn't just turn wicked, yesterday, by no means!... But your work and your vigilance has forced their overwhelming wickedness to the fore, for everyone to see...the press, the world, and all conscientious JWs who abhor wickedness!...Nevertheless, JWs as a whole, with few exceptions, will continue to excuse ANY action on the part of the WTS, as having some divine justification before God. But Paul said, "...Happy is the man that does not put himself on judgment by the things he approves." (Romans 14:22) Blind faith in the WTS/GB makes them willing tools for Satan and all of his "evil" means and ends. They are "tools" for Satan, when they continue in this course, and press for the disfellowship and excommunication of the righteous, who wish to protect the innocent, defenseless children in our midst. JWs in en mass, will standby, or turn their heads, when all of these executions are carried out. They will adopt the attitude, the WTS "can do no wrong," -- this is how the vast majority of our spiritual "brothers" see it. Six million of them. They fell the WTS is actually beyond "correction". The say, the "WTS is our mother". Which means Jehovah God is really their not in the picture at all. He is in this case, the absentee father. But God has a solution. A profound one. --- Ezekiel 20 (American Standard) 35 and I will bring you into the wilderness of the peoples, and there I will enter into judgment with you face to face. 36 "As I entered into judgment with your fathers in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so I will enter into judgment with you," declares the Lord GOD. 37 "I will make you pass under the rod, and I will bring you into the bond of the covenant; 38 and I will purge from you the rebels and those who transgress against Me; I will bring them out of the land where they sojourn, but they will not enter the land of Israel. Thus you will know that I am the LORD [Jehovah]. Why? Ezekiel 20 (American Standard) 9 "But I acted for the sake of My name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations among whom they lived, in whose sight I made Myself known to them by bringing them out of the land of Egypt. 14 "But I acted for the sake of My name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations, before whose sight I had brought them out. 22 "But I withdrew My hand and acted for the sake of My name, that it should not be profaned in the sight of the nations in whose sight I had brought them out. 44 "Then you will know that I am the LORD [Jehovah] when I have dealt with you for My name's sake, not according to your evil ways or according to your corrupt deeds, O house of Israel," declares the Lord GOD."

I think your post makes complete sense. But I'm afraid approximately 6 million JWs, both high officials and rank and file alike, ... don't. That's why, upon close examination in light of the recent "UN/GB" Scandal, and the more recent "Silentlamb Child-Abuse" Scandal, I believe God's Holy Heavenly Host of angels can all judge this organization truthfully as being disgusting spiritual "traitors of God" and "betrayers of Christ" as the Head of the Christian Congregation. Which of course certainly makes them, much to Satan the Devil's delight, totally unworthy of the name of "christian" at all. In short, no visible support of Bill Bowen's and the "silentlamb" movement by September 27, 2002 actually means, they are not "christian" at all and do not recognize Jesus Christ as the true "Head of the Congregation", but instead the WTS as such: So, instead of helping Bill, they wish for his execution (and all of his associates) and brand him a "traitor" before God. Thus by their either non-support, indifference or inaction toward Bill Bowen and the "Silentlamb" movement, they show Almighty God, Jesus Christ and all interested parties (heavenly or earthly) for the very FIRST TIME, why they really are: loyal, devoted worshipers of the Watchtower Society. --- Idolatry! --- Therefore, since the vast majority are this way, the only hope for any who are not inclined toward this "idolatrous" viewpoint, must as you say above, leave the WTS...immediately. Since their "fate" is sealed, and "judgment" imminent and righteously forthcoming. (Compare Ezekiel 36:3, 12-14 with Child Abuse Scandal; also compare Mark 13:14 with UN/GB Scandal) --- Hmm...Now, how's that for a finale, Xxxxxxx?(smile) --- end of comments. --- NOTE: To "Silentlamb"s & Associates --- In carrying out your most commendable fight for righteousness, something very sinister is going to surface. Something that has been known for many years by only a handful of keen students of scripture worldwide...but nevertheless known. As you approach your date with JW "martyrdom", it will be come increasingly plain for yourself, and in fact all observers and interested parties to see, the real WTS emerge. A wicked entity will emerge, that will mirror the wicked "Sanhedrin" of Jesus’ day. One led by no less, the nefarious, "man of lawlessness", aka Governing Body...one who presides within "THE TEMPLE OF THE GOD". Someone, unrevealed fully, but shortly to become revealed by Jesus Christ himself. Someone so vile, words cannot describe...the foretold "man of lawlessness" who in shameless fashion, "publicly shows himself to be a god". One who openly "shows himself to be a god," before the general public. The Governing Body. (2 Thess. 2:3-12) They disfellowship the righteous, and no one among JWs says anything about it. No protest. The proverbial "sheep led to the slaughter". Today, "Silentlamb"s & Associates, we are experiencing the very precise things described in bible prophecy...the "man of lawlessness"...also prophecies such as Ezekiel 34:1-12?...Ezekiel 34 (Amplified Bible) ...

"AND THE word of the Lord [Jehovah] came to me, saying, Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel; prophesy and say to them, even to the [spiritual] shepherds, Thus says the Lord God: Woe to the [spiritual] shepherds of Israel who feed themselves! Should not the shepherds feed the sheep? You eat the fat, you clothe yourselves with the wool, you kill the fatlings, but you do not feed the sheep. The diseased and weak you have not... strengthened, the sick you have not healed, the hurt and crippled you have not bandaged, those gone astray you have not brought back, the lost you have not sought to find, but with FORCE AND HARDHEARTED HARSHNESS YOU HAVE RULED THEM. And they were scattered because there was no shepherd, and when they were scattered they became food for all the wild beasts of the field. My sheep wandered through all the mountains and upon every high hill; yes, My sheep were scattered upon all the face of the earth and no one searched or sought for them. Therefore, you [spiritual] shepherds, hear the word of the Lord [Jehovah]: As I live, says the Lord God, surely because My sheep became a prey, and My sheep became food for every beast of the field because there was no shepherd--neither did My shepherds search for My sheep, but the shepherds fed themselves and fed not My sheep--therefore, O you [spiritual] shepherds, hear the word of the Lord: Thus says the Lord God: Behold, I am against the shepherds, and I will require My sheep at their hand and cause them to cease feeding the sheep, neither shall the shepherds feed themselves any more. I will rescue My sheep from their mouths, that they may not be food for them. For thus says the Lord [Jehovah] God: Behold, I, I Myself, will search for My sheep and will seek them out. As a shepherd seeks out his sheep in the day that he is among his flock that are scattered, so will I seek out My sheep; and I will rescue them out of all places where they have been scattered in the day of clouds and thick darkness." --- "Silentlambs" and Associates...ask yourselves: Have we perhaps, reached the "day of clouds and thick darkness"...Jehovah's Day...the great day in which he "seeks out his lost sheep" that the wicked spiritual shepherds have brutalized and scattered throughout the entire earth?...Hmmm...something to think about I'd say.

NEWSPAPER REPORT --- From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Sat, 20 Jul 2002 17:55:45 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Local News --- Bowen wants hearing delayed --- Former Jehovah's Witness elder Bill Bowen said he is unable to attend Wednesday's rescheduled hearing. --- Paducah Sun, July 20, 2002 --- Staff and wire reports --- DRAFFENVILLE, Ky. --- A former Jehovah's Witness elder is asking that an excommunication hearing rescheduled for Wednesday be pushed back again because of the short notice. --- Bill Bowen, 44, of Draffenville faces expulsion from the church for publicly criticizing the church's handling of sexual abuse allegations. In a letter to the elder who will chair his judicial hearing, Bowen said he is unable to meet Wednesday and hoped to reschedule on "a date acceptable to all concerned." --- Bowen had a hearing scheduled in May, but it did not take place, because the elders scheduled to hear the case did not show up, Bowen said. --- Bowen resigned as a church elder in December 2000 to protest the church's policy on handling sexual abuse cases. He has complained that child-sex allegations are generally not reported to secular authorities by the Jehovah's Witnesses because of the church's closed nature and insistence on handling problems internally. --- Church leaders have denied wrongdoing. J. R. Brown, a spokesman for the denomination, has said that parents are not punished by the church for going to the police first in cases of child molestation. --- He also said if the church judicial committee finds a member guilty of molestation the member is removed from all positions of responsibility and may not evangelize door-to-door without being accompanied by a fellow Jehovah's Witness. --- Members of the church, even family members, are required to shun those who are excommunicated or disfellowshipped. Three others who have spoken out against the church's policies have been disfellowshipped in recent months. They are Barbara Anderson of Normandy Tenn. and Carl and Barbara Pandello, of Belmar, N.J.

Thanks to the visitor who offered this link <http://preventchildabuse.org/> --- I visited that site, and here's some of the info which could be helpful --- It has STATE and LOCAL OFFICES --- <http://preventchildabuse.org/get_local/index.html> --- "Our network of nearly 40 state chapters in 38 states and the District of Columbia are critical to our prevention mission. -- While united in their shared dedication to the prevention of child abuse and neglect, our chapters are unique in the programs and services they offer in order to meet local community needs." --- It has a US Map and you click on your state to find your local office/chapter. --- Example: For FLORIDA it gives this info below. Barbara was brainstorming the other day about getting more public awareness. Maybe this would be a good source to write to about that. --- Florida: PREVENT CHILD ABUSE AMERICA, Tracey Rajack, President, Florida Chapter, PCA America, The Family Source, 433 N. Magnolia Dr., Tallahassee, FL 32308, Phone: (850) 488-5437, Fax: (850) 921-0322, Send an E-Mail www.familysource.org

This same website has a "STAY INFORMED" link --- http://www.preventchildabuse.org/stay_informed/index.cfm --- Here is what they can PROVIDE you if you fill out their online form: "Yes! I would like to learn more about how I can help prevent child abuse and neglect. I am interested in the following (check all that apply): -- *Materials for promoting prevention efforts in my community -- *General information about Prevent Child Abuse America -- *How to become a member or donor of Prevent Child Abuse America -- *Send me your Lookin' Up newsletter (Please include your email address) -- *Keep me updated on your legislative efforts (Please include your email address) -- *Effective discipline techniques -- *How to be a better parent -- *A catalog of publications -- (Then fill out their online form and submit). They also have a webpage re: "I WANT TO GET ACTIVE" -- <http://preventchildabuse.org/get_active/index.html> -- and here is what that page says: "Prevent Child Abuse America's Advocacy Program --- Prevent Child Abuse America is committed to promoting legislation, policies and programs that help to prevent child abuse and neglect, support healthy childhood development, and strengthen families. -- The Advocacy Program operates on the national, state and local levels. We monitor critical legislation that impacts children and families; work to obtain and maintain funding for prevention programs; and collaborate with organizations, community leaders and public policy makers. -- Prevent Child Abuse America believes we can be most effective for children and families through collaboration. To this end, we work closely with our state chapters and Healthy Families America® sites across the country to address issues on state and local levels. On the national level, our efforts are combined with over thirty professional organizations through the National Child Abuse Coalition. This coalition was formed in 1981 to coordinate federal advocacy efforts on behalf of abused and neglected children and is based in Washington, D.C. --- Sounds like a good outfit to hook up with! --- /SLC

REPOST from 7-12 or 13-02: Jazzbug wrote: “He said it is not so much the abuse that is hard to recover from although that does take some work and time but it is the way it is handled that causes the long term distress.” --- Yes, Jazz, thanks for putting that out there, and I have heard the same thing from professionals. People need to hear this because I do not think most people understand that IS where the "damage" comes from. Your physical body will heal, but the imbedded trauma in your psyche, not having been validated/cared for AT THE TIME OF THE ABUSE, is what causes the long-term torment. If people only UNDERSTOOD that BASIC/SIMPLE FACT, NOBODY WOULD EVER suggest "keep it quiet"! --- Jazz continued: "... a JW, I thought this was one place that this type of evil did not exist. But my blinders have been destroyed..." --- Yes, JB, I know exactly how you feel. The blinders were ripped off (from all of us JWs and/or former JWs) in an instant of time and we were blinded from the shocking revelations. It IS very painful to have to learn it/then absorb it/process it/grieve over it/come to terms with it. I'll never forget the first time I saw this site last fall/winter and could not stop crying and reading for days and days all re: all of the stories/accounts of abuse. --- And I agree with you, "the truth is the truth and the truth will prevail." Always better to know the truth, no matter how painful, than stay in the dark, imho! --- Jazz closed with: "I have come out of a month of depression over this enlightenment..." Dearest JB, I promise it does get easier...I think I was depressed for months and months, but I kept reading 'cuz I couldn't stop. And I really was struck by your use of the words depression and enlightenment in the same sentence. I like that! That is Growth! Hang in there. Love/Silent Lambs Cheerleader (a/k/a SLC)

REPOST from 7-12 or 13-02: To the person who wrote this: "The people who sat there feeling sorry for themselves or the people who continued serving God despite the adversity? After all, its not what others do - its what YOU do." --- I understand where you are coming from and what you are trying to say. I am sure it has not yet occurred to you we could say the same thing and apply it to you, i.e., "YOU are one of the people (in total denial) sitting there feeling sorry for YOURself (because the truth of abuse by JWs has been exposed)" -- let that sink in for a minute. --- Then you say and you are thinking that YOU continue serving God despite all adversities in YOUR life (and maybe you do), but how can YOU (a mere human) make a judgment call upon US by "ASSuming" we are "NOT" serving God DESPITE OUR ADVERSITIES? Think about it, ol' wise one! Shall not Jehovah call us "to serve where the Need Is Great" (among abuse survivors)? --- You continued by saying, and this is the best part. "After all, it's not what others do - it's what YOU do." May I again apply this back to you, i.e., We say to you: "It's not what others (like yourself) are doing (which is doing nothing), it's about what WE ARE DOING FOR OURSELVES by healing, encouraging, supporting, exposing, etc. -- Is it sinking in YET? I hope so. Thank you for considering ANOTHER way to look at things, from OUR side of the fence. We already KNOW YOUR side of the fence because we were all THERE at ONE TIME (and some still ARE there). Have you ever been on OUR SIDE of the fence? I think not. Regards/SLC

REPOSTING from 7-12 or 13-02: I am sad for the person who wrote this: "Please will you stop causing our religion trouble. Not all of us are Pedophiles. you were once one of us." --- Yes, 'Hurting One'... and I am sure you are hurting or you wouldn't speak like that. I am sad to have to enlighten you (in all sincerity) that it is NOT US nor Bill Bowen who are "causing your (our former) religion trouble." The truth is it is YOUR (our former) brothers/sisters/abusers and YOUR (our former) VERY OWN LEADERS, from the top down, GB, their Legal Beagles, the Elders, etc., WHO ARE CAUSING YOUR RELIGION TROUBLE. (I use caps for Emphasis, not Hollering). When we are hurting, it's easy to pass the buck, as you are so doing in blaming us and/or this website, etc. Surely you must know this, or maybe you are a young person without experience. It hurts to "see the light," but the light must come, and the light is here regarding sex abuse/pedophiles in the JWs and everywhere. How do you know it is not Jehovah's TIME FRAME for it to be exposed in all the earth and in ALL the religions? How do you know it is NOT? --- And yes, we KNOW not all JWs are pedophiles. And yes, we were once one of you, and maybe we still are in the sense we are always for Jehovah God and his son, Jesus Christ. --- Please try to expand your mind (yes, it can be painful to do so). But keeping it closed will stunt your growth and blind your heart to truth. And remember, Truth comes in all shapes/sizes/color/flavors, i.e., some truth feels "good" and some truth feels very bad, like sex abuse and its cover up, but it IS TRUTH just the same. Respectfully/SLC

REPOSTING from 7-12 or 13-02: To the person who wrote: "Michael Jackson is an XJW and his mom can associate with him - WHY?" --- Probably the only way to get answers like that is to write the WTS and ask them and/or write his Mom and ask her or write her elders and ask them! --- You said: "Also, the Williams Sisters (tennis pros) are JW's..." -- I was under the impression they were merely studying. Anybody else know for sure? And as for worldly sports, well if these girls were raised in the sport-world of tennis, and then later began to study, so what of it? Not everyone has the same conscience. All of those "suggestions" you hear in the mags and at meetings about sports, etc., are just that, Suggestions, but in the end you can decide for yourself, remember? You do have your own conscience, right?

REPOSTING from 7-12 or 13-02: Loris, thanks for the well-expressed feelings. I think if anyone were NOT depressed about it, there would be something terribly wrong with us as human beings. When grieving I would always like to remember the scripture at Ezekiel 9:4, and know I was not alone in my grief: "Pass thru the midst of the city, thru the midst of Jerusalem, and you must put a mark on the foreheads of the men that are sighing and groaning over all the detestable things that are being done in the midst of it." And don't stop at verse 4, read ALL of it, right now get your Bibles, gang, and read it, thru to the end of Chapter 9 (11 total verses)... does it not strike you in the heart or what? Especially, oh shoot, I should type out the whole chapter because it is SO GOOD to read it and feel comforted (and for any visitors who may not be familiar with it) --- Here goes, and as the other scripture says in Hebrews, "The word of God IS ALIVE" so fill in your current/LIVE interpretation here: "Pass thru the midst of the city (JWs worldwide), thru the midst of Jerusalem, and you must put a mark on the foreheads of the men (JWs) that ARE sighing and groaning over all the detestable (sex abuse) things that are being done in the midst of it. And to those [others] (others who think nothing of it/who deny it/who cover it up) he said in my ears: "Pass thru the city after him and strike. Let not your eye feel sorry, and do not feel any compassion. THEIR WAY I shall certainly bring upon THEIR OWN HEAD." And, look! the man clothed with the linen, at whose hips there was the inkhorn, was bringing back word, saying: "I have done just as you have commanded me." (Ezekiel 9:4-11). -- Whew! Heavy stuff, but isn't it a great reminder of how Jehovah loves RIGHTEOUSNESS and IS WATCHING and taking care of things NOW. -- Love/SLC

REPOSTING --- July 12 If anyone thinks he is something when he is nothing, he is deceiving his own mind.-- Gal. 6:3. http://jwzone.org/ Thursday, July 11 | Saturday, July 13 No matter what responsibilities have been entrusted to us, none of us should feel that we are superior to others. Why? Because "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." (Rom. 3:23; 5:12) Yes, we should never forget that all of us have inherited sin and death from Adam. REPOSTING --- NEWSPAPER ARTICLE --- From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Thu, 11 Jul 2002 22:00:12 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Elder sent to prison BBCi
21:28 UK Jehovah's Witness jailed for abusing boys James Barratt is led away to begin his sentence An elder in the Jehovah's Witness church has been jailed for child abuse. James Barratt, 45, of Rugby, Warwickshire, a married man with two children, was found guilty of indecently assaulting two teenagers entrusted to him for Bible studies and counseling. The court heard that Barratt, a church elder, had "systematically" abused two former members of his congregation over a 10-year period. Warwick Crown Court heard that Barratt, a trusted friend of the boys' families, had used Bible lessons and counseling sessions as an opportunity to indecently assault the teenagers. Victim Gordon Grant Throughout the four-day trial Barratt maintained that he had tried to be a father figure to the boys. Sentencing him, Judge James Pike said he had been entrusted with vulnerable young people. He was, he said, an arch-hypocrite. Barratt was jailed for two years with 12 months suspended. He will be put on the sex offenders' register for 10 years. Detective Inspector Jim Hill of Warwickshire Police: "I consider him to be an extremely dangerous individual. His approach to the victims was via the parents. Go straight to police and get it dealt with by people who are experienced Victim Gordon Grant "He formed a very strong bond with the families and clearly he has gone on to abuse that trust." One of his victims, Gordon Grant, now 23, said he had been disappointed by the church's reaction to the allegations. "If people have got this problem don't go to the elders or the leaders of the church. Don't bother with them. "Go straight to police and get it dealt with by people who are experienced and know what they are doing." Breaking News Jehovah's Witness found guilty of child abuse An elder in the Jehovah's Witness church is tonight beginning a jail sentence for child abuse. James Barratt, a married man with two children, was accused in court of being an arch hypocrite. A jury at Warwick Crown Court found 45-year-old James Barratt guilty of indecently assaulting two teenagers trusted to him for bible studies and counseling at a church in Rugby. He has been jailed for two years with 12 months suspended, after denying eight charges of indecent assault dating back to the 1980s. He will be put on the sex offenders register for 10 years.

REPOSTING from 7-11-02: From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Thu, 11 Jul 2002 16:56:55 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Guardian Article Sect demands biblical proof http://www.guardian.co.uk/Archive/Article/0,4273,4430293,00.html Stephen Bates, religious affairs correspondent Guardian Monday June 10, 2002 Elders of the Jehovah's Witnesses in the US have been given instructions to deal with pedophiles after a series of damaging revelations. But its critics say that the sect's decision to accept accusations only if the abuse has two independent witnesses is unlikely to solve the problem. The Watch Tower, its headquarters in Brooklyn, is used to implicit obedience and is struggling to regain its battered authority. In a letter to be read at services, it says: "We abhor the sexual abuse of children and will not protect any perpetrator of such repugnant acts ... "However, we must bear in mind the Bible's clear direction: 'No single witness should rise up against a man respecting any error or any sin. At the mouth of two witnesses or at the mouth of three witnesses the matter should stand good (Deuteronomy 19:15)." The church, which has 6 million members around the world, has been convulsed by the revelation that its elders have protected sex offenders, refused to report accusations to the police, and even punished children and families making accusations. Two members have been charged with “disrupting the unity of the congregation” and “undermining confidence in Jehovah’s arrangement” for repeating their accusations on an NBC television program. Barbara Anderson, a former headquarters employee who claimed to have seen hundreds of suppressed files of accusations, was expelled after a private hearing held in her absence. The case against the second, Bill Bowen, a Kentucky elder, has been postponed. Mr. Bowen was so alarmed by the suppression of allegations that he created a website, silentlambs.org, to investigate the scale of the problem. He told NBC: “It’s a pedophile’s paradise within the organization. I believe that. I believe it with all my heart.”

REPOSTING from 7-11-02: From: “silentlambs” <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Thu, 11 Jul 2002 14:58:43 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Another letter This letter was sent to me from a person who has written several letters to the GB and is an active witness. Bill Governing Body of JW’s 25 Columbia Heights Brooklyn, New York 11201-2483 Fax: (718) 560-5619 RE: Child sacrifice in ancient Israel: Restoring the faith of persons adversely affected by child rape case policies. Dear Brothers: Jehovah’s loving words to the ancient nation of Israel makes it clear: regardless of what adverse spiritual situation worshippers are in, its realistic for them to successfully repent, turn around, and again regain Jehovah’s favor. What a wonderful thing! How wonderful for ones who for whatever reason have wound up in adverse spiritual situations! “Though the sins of you people should prove to be as scarlet, they will be made white just like snow,” (Isaiah 1:18) Questions for us all Can persons adversely affected physically, mentally, emotionally, and spiritually by the nightmare of child rape be restored to full faith? Is there anything extra we can consider doing to “go the extra mile” toward assisting such ones? How should those of us never personally exposed to child rape view/treat/understand such ones? Israelite leadership’s adverse role Israel’s leadership definitely contributed to the climate of the nation. “Remiss” and/or outwardly wicked kings, priests, and prophets set the stage for the nation’s break from their commitment to the Law Covenant. It seems then as now that basically three camps get formed – those who stick with true worship, those who go with the national tide into unclean worship, and those who because of personal outrages over seeing the horrors of false worship go inactive toward true worship - yet do not go into false worship. Those who desired to stick with right principles faced a crisis of conscience. Many were likely stumbled by the inaction of leadership toward making obvious changes. Affect on honest hearted ones No doubt there were ones who, because of total outrage over the regular child sacrifices going on, were stumbled away from true worship. Any reasonable Israelite, trained in the Holy writings, would wonder: ? How can Jehovah be looking down on this awful situation and not fix it? How can I just stand by and watch babies being pitched into the fires of Molech? Is there a way to work within the “organization” against this - yet not get removed? A local Israelite brother working for a food preparation company handling the refreshments at the high place event every week quits because his conscience is bothering him so badly. While at work, he can see the little babies being brought up for the sacrifices (“They seem drugged?” “How can this be happening?”, “I think I saw my wife’s little niece being brought in!”). His nightmares are becoming severe. On days of the “ceremonies” he can hear the awful shrieks of agony each baby cries out as it is lowered into the fire. Now out of work, his family is under financial stress. His former workmates and connections in the food prep business have blackballed him because of his “bad attitude” and risking the work contract with his complaints. He moves his family to Egypt to find work - to get away from the harassment from former friends and family. Having been severely stumbled, they become inactive. A high court official of many years is removed from his administration position. Despite fervent and repeated admonitions at convincing leadership that child sacrifices are wrong according to the Law – he’d finally slipped leadership for non-action in the matter. He is removed totally from service to the king’s court. His family, once respected and loved by all, are now treated like vermin by relatives, former friends, business associates. They are so outraged by the complicity being shown that they cease worship at the temple. Besides, the officiating priest is the man’s uncle and is involved in arranging the child sacrifices. They’ve had many heated arguments and they no longer can be in the same room with each other. Once they were very close. Changes from the top Josiah’s search for Truth culminated in a public, honest, and top down repentance action. After ripping his garments and repenting for himself and for the sins of the nation, Josiah went on a nationwide campaign of change. Remove unrepentant priests, prophets, and national officials. Tear down the high places and sacred poles. Restore worship services and sacrifices at the temple. A heartfelt, “no holds barred” action of rectifying past misdeeds – this was an open and straightforward admission for mistakes of the past. How heartrending for right hearted but stumbled ones to witness the very king of Israel making a public break from the traditions of his forefathers! Josiah’s father Amon and his grandfather Manasseh had ruled for 57 years. They’d shed innocent blood “in very great quantity” with child sacrifices (2 Kings 21:22). But now honest hearted ones are stunned! Jehovah is now fixing this horrible matter in a wonderful way! (2 Kings 22-23). The cook and the former...

about the going door to door? I always thought two or more did that anyway! and even if a 'found guilty' perv is not allowed any responsible positions doesn't mean the he/she isn't sitting next to an unsuspecting family! AND I would not appreciate a perv knocking on my door telling me that I am a sinner and need to find GOD! Who is he/she to come to my door and tell me that! P-L-E-A-S-E! bonnielynn

OK, kids. That's the best I can do. Don't mean to be hogging the Guestbook here last night and today. (Really, Visitors, OTHER PEOPLE besides SLC do post here!) :) I have gone thru all my stuff and reposted whatever I could find, but still SO MUCH IS MISSING from ELEVEN DAYS! I only keep a little here, a little there... If anyone else has anything in their file folders, feel free to repost and re-construct! :) Since I will be out of commission in the early part of the week, last night I was doing my best to catch up with quite a few replies, and most are now history into cyberspace. Oh well. Hope all are having a nice weekend, and take care! Love/SLC

Is this just 'silly talk'? I heard that the Pope is planning to visit NY and wants to visit Bethel. This is a little hard to imagine, but has anyone else heard this? Or was it just put out there for amusement? Thanks.
A study by the World Wildlife Fund (WWF), to be released on Tuesday, warns that the human race is plundering the planet at a pace that outstrips its capacity to support life. In a damning condemnation of Western society's high consumption levels, it adds that the extra planets (the equivalent size of Earth) will be required by the year 2050 as existing resources are exhausted. The report, based on scientific data from across the world, reveals that more than a third of the natural world has been destroyed by humans over the past three decades.

BRILLIANT SUMMATION!!!! --- (Someone wrote: 'Always in pairs'...you know, that means you could have TWO pedophiles at your door. (And both of them unaware that they are on each other's 'turf')

I think whoever though of this web was a very good person because so many people can be helped I know it helped me to see that I am not the only one that went through this. Theresa

I have a question how does one find if they have been disfellowshipped? We had stopped attending as I said after my husband was in a serious wreck and NO witnesses were to be found until of course the elders started hounding him for not attending, I mean so what that he had ruptured disks and couldn't sit that long. Then when we went and he had to sit and stand and walk they said he was a "disruption". When he asked for a phone link or them to tape the meetings he was ignored LOL So do they tell you if you are disfellowshipped, I'm just curious as if they did it on the sly ya know. Sheila Madonia

Sheila, I'm not as I have not been involved with the KH in many years and then only as an alien, so to speak, but...
I think they probably have you and your husband listed as ‘inactive’. I have read a few posts here that pretty much have said the same, being ignored, not getting visits, not show of support by THEM in your time of need, etc... From what I have determined to put it bluntly, is that they are there there there, when its up to getting you ‘IN’ and once you are, and not a part of the ‘clicky group’ it’s ‘everyone for himself and hope your not drowning seeking one of them to cast out the life preserver I do not think this on my own, if the posts are still here, early in the month of June there is a heartbreaking story regarding this very thing! In fact it’s a letter to the GB or elders. Please tell your husband that "I HAVE BEEN THERE" with the back, it's very painful! I do know! I have termed it my 'constant pain in the butt'! I will also testify that even though I was taught that faith healing isn't 'to be done' in this time, I did ask for relief and it hasn't been so bad since, be it the mind over matter working or whatever, I give all the credit to our FATHER! Bless you and your family always! bonnielynn

I've debated whether to REPOST my story, deciding instead to REPOST this one, for this is very important so, HERE IS A REPOST, I forget which day it was first posted...with some typo fixes... I recently read that the jws teach that our Father does not hear the prayers of ones that have not been baptized! I was raised being taught that their 'truth' is the only 'truth' and it is embedded in my brain so strongly that when I read this I believed it! How stupid can an intelligent person really be!! I should have known better! ANYWAY, I found this scripture, (in a lot of bibles it says children instead of boys,) but for the sake of their 'truth' I am quoting these following scriptures from their bible, New World Translation, Ezekiel 20 30, 31 says: Therefore say to the house of Israel, ‘this is what the Sovereign Lord Jehovah has said: “In the way of your forefathers are YOU people defiling yourselves, and after their disgusting things are YOU going in immoral intercourse? And in lifting up YOUR gifts by making YOUR sons pass through the fire, are YOU defiling yourselves for all YOUR dungy idols down till today? At the same time I myself be inquired of by YOU people, O house of Israel?"... As I am alive,’ is the utterance of the Sovereign Lord Jehovah, ‘I will NOT be inquired of you... It clearly states here that the ones sacrificing the 'boys' of Israel are not heard by our Father!! That is the jws bible saying this! I don't think that the sacrifice has to be by literal fire, it can also be through spiritual fire! AND if not sticking up for the victims, abusing the victims body and spirit is not spiritual fire I don't' know what else could be! Following is another scripture that clearly says how our FATHER viewed this abomination in the old testament, Leviticus 20 1-5 And Jehovah went on speaking to Moses, saying: "You are to say to the sons of Israel, ‘Any man of the sons of Israel, and any alien resident who resides as an alien in Israel, who gives any of his offspring to Molech, should be put to death without fail. The people of the land should pelt him to death with stones. And as for me, I shall set my face against that man, and I will cut him off from among his people, because he has given some of his offspring to Molech for the purpose of defiling my holy place and to profane my holy name. And if the people of the land should deliberately hide their eyes from that man when he gives any of his offspring to Molech by not putting him to death, then I, for my part, shall certainly fix my face against that man and his family, and I shall indeed cut him and all those who have immoral intercourse along with him in having immoral intercourse with Molech off from among their people. FYI when looking for scriptures regarding this, search many translations. I could not find the scripture through the JW concordance, or whatever they call it. They are hidden, except to those searching. bonnielynn/BLM
Happy to Admit Mistakes

As the examples of Saul and David illustrate, the way we handle our mistakes can affect our lives. Saul stubbornly resisted counsel, and his mistakes multiplied, eventually culminating in his death in God's disfavor. Despite David's mistakes and sins, however, he repentantly accepted correction and remained faithful to Jehovah. (Compare Psalm 32:3-5.) Is that not our desire? The greatest reward for admitting and rectifying a mistake or repenting of sin is knowing that it has been forgiven by God. "Happy is the one . . . whose sin is covered," said David. "Happy is the man to whose account Jehovah does not put error." (Psalm 32:1, 2) How wise it is, then, to admit a mistake! IT'S ABOUT TIME THE SOCIETY STARTED TO PRACTICE WHAT THEY PREACH! a concerned JW

FROM A POST ABOVE: If State laws require reporting, conscientious elders report to the authorities. Because most elders are not current on local law as well as for other reasons, elders are to report abuse to the Watchtower's Legal Department for review and advice. Please keep in mind that only 16 states require this. Other states require that we do not report, citing "ecclesiastical privilege." AT THE RISK OF REPEATING MYSELF - A JW will not follow a man's law if it interferes with our FATHERS law, that being said, If reporting abuse in the states that have the man's law, obviously this must not interfere with our FATHERS LAW so, since it is not interfering with our FATHERS law, then reporting it in the states that do not REQUIRE it must not interfere with our FATHERS law! Simple, common sense stuff here! You cannot use a 'man's law' loophole to protect a perv! If you hear of an abuse YOU the ELDERS and YOU the LEGAL Department are REQUIRED by our FATHER to insist that the suspicion is brought to Caesar! If there is a man's law forbidding you to do this then it is your OBLIGATION to insist the abused one or even the abuser calls Caesar! Give to Caesar's what belongs to Caesar and give to our FATHER what belongs to HIM, I would like just one of you to verbally state that a child molester is one who belongs to our FATHER! Just one of you say this to yourself out loud and see how stupid the saying of it sounds, let alone making us outsiders, aliens, possible recruits, believe that is what your thinking and teaching! Golly, I wonder if it's just the scarecrow who needs a brain, and the tin man who needs a heart! Maybe that show is full of this that and the others that we are not supposed to be apart of BUT it does also teaches compassion, understanding, love, and what it means to have courage! TELL ME not to be apart of this world and YOU belonged to the UN the whole time! TELL ME not to be apart of this world and YOU own stock in company's that have contracts with the Navy! TELL ME not to be apart of this world and my little children's bible story book I got from YOU have pictures taken from an older bible story book NOT Belonging to YOU! Shame on YOU! TELL ME not to be part of this world and NOW I can't even open my door to one of YOU for fear of one of YOU being a perv out to get my daughter! SHAME ON YOU! SHAME SHAME SHAME! Read YOUR bible with an open heart! YOU BUSINESS PR MEN, LEGAL DEPARTMENT, TELL ME NOT TO BE A PART OF THIS WORLD AND YOU HAVE A PR MAN AND A LEGAL DEPARTMENT – I DON'T! move over soapbox!!! Just for a sec! SLC – will miss you this week! ALL MY LOVE TO EVERYONE ESPECIALLY THE LEGAL DEPARTMENT AND THE PR DEPARTMENT bonnielynn

In response to ruthcub01: Thanks for the response to the "other" abuses in the organization. It has been hard to deal with and finding out we weren't alone has helped tremendously in an emotional way. I'm sorry to hear that it is the same all over, almost was more livable to think that they were just protecting one set of child abusers, how sad for so many victims. Best of wishes Sheila (I tried to e-mail this but it came back as a bad address?)

In response to BonnieLynn: Yes we were baptized witnesses my husband grew up in the "deceit" and I got involved in 1984. We were always treated weird by them for example one time although I had a four month old baby boy and a daughter just two (and my kids were GOOD kids they didn't cry or scream anyways), I decided to go out in service arrived ON TIME they overseer put everyone in ONE CAR I MEAN LIKE PEOPLE and left me and my children to go out ALONE. I was so hurt, I'll never forget watching them pull away and walking my territory with two babies BY MYSELF. I was all of 21 and still can feel the hurt and pain they caused from just this one incident. Making me feel that I wasn't GOOD enough WHY? I was so wonderful when I was studying they even used me as an example in an assembly program but once I hit that water that was it. So anyways (can you believe writing this is making me CRY after something that happened 17 years ago) I just was wondering if they secretly disfellowshipped us or if they are to scared since we really never had any scriptural ground for being disfellowshipped? Just an overall disdain for a group that damage the heart and souls of Gods children be they young or old. Nuff of my soap box for today, if anyone would like more wonderful stories on physical emotional or spiritual abuse, I have enough for two or three lifetimes. Thanks for listening somehow it helps Sheila Madonia

To Sheila...the general procedure is for a committee to send you at least 2 letters requesting a meeting with you if they feel you are doing something meriting DFing. If you do not reply to the letters, then they will assume you are guilty and will DF'd you but will send a letter to you stating that. I think it has to be certified. But as we have learned recently, they do not always follow procedure. It is most likely that you are considered inactive as the other person stated. Hope this helps to answer your question. jazbug55

Sheila Madonia I used to travel thirty miles to my nearest Kingdom Hall (in Barry South Wales) for every meeting... However. I was completely ignored by everyone in the congregation. Not one single person would even say Hello!!! While they spouted off about how many magazines they had placed and new contacts they had made,... I was screaming in my mind "What about me!!? I'm here! Un-baptized, believe it is the truth, travel a round trip of thirty miles to get here only to be completely ignored!!!... it went on for several years, I forced myself to go for the sake of my wife who needed something to cling too with having a very serious ongoing illness and a handicapped child... although I am a man in the true sense of the word, I used to come out of the meetings crying my eyes out!! Saying to myself... "Where is this Identification sign of love that Christ spoke about his true followers?"... In the end I had a virtual breakdown over it and developed a phobia about JW's and religion as a whole... Slowly over the years I have returned to meetings at other Kingdom Halls in the heart of England were I have been treated with overwhelming love... and everyone at least says "Hello!" My feeling is that there are some congregations were there are definitely serious problems, were they have CLANNEY OR CLICKY CIRCLES and outside those circles you don't exist... but on the other hand there are a great number where there are Brothers and Sisters who practice the truth with their whole sole... After 35 years being an interested person, and being put off by experiences like that above, I did become baptized in the fall of 1998... Again my faith is being tested with the exposure of pedophiles within the congregation... I can cope with that but I feel there should be stronger guidelines by the Society for the victims of these crimes and I understand that there is no objection by the Society for victims to report the matter to the police which is a step forward... My feeling now is... Show me a religion that is closer to the early Christians and Apostles and I will look into it... But I feel at this stage there is no religion closer to true Christianity than JW's Regards JC

The Moonies have no USE for anyone that is not healthy and able to endure long days of "working for the master" and go without.  It appears that this is the same the WTS regarding people like Sheila's husband with ruptured discs.  I too have suffered cruelty from the JWs, very inappropriate, rude, thoughtless, and many times outright cruel behavior and never could I get it that they were the "ones lacking Love" I just thought I was unlovable. I was an earnest, "perfect" bible study and was treated like "bird Poop!!!!!!" (that's for bonnielynn...LOL) Why is it we always think we are the Only Ones? I have to get over this - I am I am, I am.  Has anyone gone to fatherstouch.com yet? It is very good. love to all, Claudine

Copied from Just JW's @ msn, this comment, dated 7/21/02: "I was just looking at the Watchtower's website and the sentence that says "Disfellowshipping Does Not Split Up Families" has been taken out. There is also a new video there and a harder line is taken on Disfellowshipped ones. I suppose all this is in harmony with the August 2002 Kingdom." Ministry.

Adultery and Marriage to a JW Grounds for Excommunication --- http://story.news.yahoo.com/news?tmpl=story&u=/ap/20020719/ap_wo_en_po/egypt_copts_1 --- AP World Politics: Pope Shenouda warns Copts that marriage with Jehovah's Witnesses is ground for excommunication, divorce --- Fri Jul 19, 9:17 AM ET --- CAIRO, Egypt - The head of the Coptic Orthodox Church criticized the Jehovah's Witness faith and said a Copt's conversion to the sect was a ground for divorce, Egypt's Middle East News Agency reported on Friday. --- Pope Shenouda III said conversion to the Jehovah's Witness faith was a ground for divorce within his church. The only other ground for divorce is adultery. --- The Coptic church allows people of other Christian denominations to intermarry, but disapproves of their divorce, which still can be achieved if taken to the courts. --- Copts marrying Muslims, who make up most of Egypt's 68 million population, are also excommunicated. --- Speaking in his weekly lecture, the 78-year old patriarch said Jehovah’s Witnesses have been active in Egypt for years and have grown more active recently. The faith is “independent and unrelated to all the monotheistic religions,” MENA reported him as saying. --- "Jehovah's Witnesses have been rejected by all Christian groups," he added. --- Church officials and Shenouda’s office staff were unavailable for comment Friday. The church is hosting a regular retreat outside Cairo. --- Shenouda has been waging a campaign against dissident groups within the church. On July 4, he excommunicated 13 clerics for contesting his authority. (sounds familiar?) The pope accused the clerics, including Deacon Atef Mikhail and a monk, of making claims they were in direct contact with God. (also sounds familiar!!!) --- The Jehovah's Witnesses, who have 6 million practicing members worldwide, is a millennialist sect that began in the United States in the 19th century. The sect mandates doorstep proselytizing and its followers routinely knock on doors and ask to talk about religion. They often offer biblical tracts and say they accept donations but do not ask for them. --- Shenouda, speaking on Wednesday, said Orthodox Copts should obey the religious leadership and principles of the 2,000-year-old church. --- Copts make up less than 10 percent of the population in Egypt, where Islam is the state religion, but the Coptic community worldwide is estimated at 27 million.

Subject: Scottish news The Scottish News of the World July 21, 2002 Church 'harbouring fiends' JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES STORM By Ken Adams SCOTS Jehovah's Witnesses are harbouring dozens of sex beasts within their ranks, the News of the World can reveal. Campaigner Bill Bowen claims that at least 40 perverts across Scotland have been allowed to evade justice because of a church cover up. The 44-year-old has been swamped with e-mails after a BBC documentary lifted the lid on the Christian fundamentalists. He said: "Concerned parents tell me the abuse is happening right now and is being covered up by church elders." "These children need to be protected fast, yet the authorities have not been involved." Attacked Bill, a former Jehovah's Witness elder, founded the US victim support group silentlambs, after a member of his own congregation was attacked. He told us: “I got a call from one Scot whose wife had been sexually abused as a child. Her abuser has since moved to another congregation. He has not been convicted and is free to keep abusing.” Bill, from Benton, Kentucky, added: “I urged the couple to go to the police.” The News of the World was shown some of the e-mails sent by Scots victims. One revealed: “At the age of 10 I was molested by the son of an elder.” Another victim wrote, “I was abused by my brother.” The church's sordid secrets were exposed when Alison Cousins told how she was molested by her father. The 19-year-old, of Stevenston, Ayrshire, went to cops after elders ignored her claims. Her father Ian, 43, was later jailed for five years.

Subject: Revised Letter 7-18-02 Draffenville Body of Elders Ron Carey-chairman Dear brothers, This letter is to acknowledge your letter of July15, and your renewed interest in establishing a new judicial hearing. As you may recall my attorney sent you a letter on June 6, 2002 with clear and concise requests for information. In not answering the June 6, letter you canceled a second arranged meeting on June 28, which I readily agreed to, but you failed to confirm in anyway. Due to circumstances beyond my control I am unable to meet on July 24th. I will be happy to reschedule a date acceptable to all concerned. I noted with interest that Ron Cary from Central City has now been appointed to serve as chairman, has he moved to Draffenville? Does he represent the Draffenville Congregation for the Watchtower home office? This needs to be clarified as I am confused why Ron Cary would be involved as he lives over one and one half hours away from Draffenville. The reason for my concern in this regard is the stated instructions in the elder handbook “Pay Attention to Yourself and all the Flock” it makes this comment in that regard on page 109: “If a judicial committee is needed, elders who are present at the Kingdom Hall should determine which elders will serve on the committee and which one will be chairman. The elders will take into consideration which elders are best qualified to handle the particular type of case that has arisen. (km 9/77 pp. 5-6)” Why does Draffenville Congregation need an Assembly Overseer, Ron Cary, when they already have five elders on the “local"
elder body? Did the local body of elders call Ron Cary and request him to make the long road trip from Central City? If so I would appreciate an explanation as to why this is needed or who requested Brother Cary. In the July 15, letter Ron mentioned that he wished to be treated with, “due respect...accorded to the elder who is chairing the meeting.” If find this noteworthy as a fellow elder I make the same request on my behalf. The question is, have I been treated with “due respect” since you brothers at the direction of home office have chosen to press these false allegations against me? To explain, let me share a few examples: Failing to appear or give notice for the first prearranged judicial hearing “in writing” when at great expense I was there in good faith to meet with the committee. Totally ignoring all questions asked since January of 2001 about serious actions committed against my good name in the congregation and local community. Attempting to arrange a judicial hearing with a twenty-four hour notice in an attempt to prevent my witnesses from appearing in my behalf. Attempting to arrange a judicial hearing on Wednesdays in an attempt to impede my witnesses from appearing on my behalf. Failing to appear for a second judicial hearing that my attorney notified you in writing that I was willing to appear for, but once again you failed to confirm or communicate in anyway. Harassing my family and myself, by trespassing on my property, making harassing phone calls, sending correspondence, after repeated requests for all communication to go only to my attorney. In the handbook you use to decide these matters a comment is made in this regard on page 107: “They must treat every person with impartiality at all times and desire that the spiritually ill become well again, since a failure in this regard is unjust and violates the law of love. J Tim. 5:21; Jas. 2:1-9; 5:14, 15; w77 3/1 pp. 146-52”. By the actions committed to date by you and other representatives of Watchtower, have you treated me with “due respect” and given any hope of a “fair and impartial hearing”? How in any sense am I being made to feel that you want to make me “well again” if by your actions you show denial of basic human rights? According to our own guidebook it is described as “unjust and violates the law of love”. I would like a specific answer to that question. Now it appears you want to establish a new hearing with a third chairman officiating. Since you have failed to appear on two previous meetings that were arranged in writing, what reason do I have to believe you will appear for this one? Your actions to date have proven otherwise. Therefore due to the inconvenience you have caused my witnesses and myself by your gross negligence in these matters I must request the following in accordance with “due respect”: What are the charges against me, please be specific as I am unclear what this new hearing is about. For any hearing that you wish to arrange I will require at least a two week notice from the date I receive the letter so as to arrange my schedule to be able to meet. I request than you not set the meeting for any weekday as this imposes a hardship for my witnesses to be able to appear in my behalf. Therefore I request a Saturday or Sunday meeting only. As you are aware the “Flock” book on page 110 states: “Suitable arrangements should be made as to the time and place of the hearing.” Would that not mean arrangements that are kind to the accused and his witnesses? I request that the meeting be arranged on a time table after “noon.” I request that you use no recording devices in the course of the hearing. I request that no attorneys may be present in your behalf or Watchtower. I request a basic committee of three with no observers present. According to the “Flock” book on page 109 it makes this statement: “In a complex case, a judicial committee need not be limited to three members; it may warrant having four or even five experienced elders serve.” As this is a simple case of false allegations it would not appear to be too complex for three elders to handle. If you plan to have more than three elders present, I wish to be informed in advance and the basis for that decision. If you fail to do this and upon my arrival, there are more than three on the committee, I will certainly consider that a lack of “due respect” for not informing me ahead of time what to expect. My witnesses have asked that I act as an agent on their behalf, therefore I request a check in the amount of $2,945.25 to be sent to silentlams to assist with travel expenses for my witnesses to return for the new hearing to bear testimony in my behalf. I am sure you brothers understand the difference between “witnesses” and “observers” at a judicial hearing. The “Flock” Book on page 110 states: “If the accused wishes to bring witnesses who can speak in his defense regarding the matter, he may do so.” Page 119: “The accused may also present witnesses whose testimony would have a bearing on the case.” To this point you have denied my witnesses their right to testify according to instructions in our procedural manual by your actions of not appearing at two “arranged” hearings in writing. In addition, your repeated attempt to create a schedule that makes it impossible for them to appear certainly puts forth the appearance of being partial, “unjust and violating the law of love.” I request that ALL COMMUNICATION go through my attorney. It is no doubt at the advice of Watchtower Legal you have chosen to ignore my repeated demands in this regard, but regardless you must STOP HARASSING me. If you do not I will be forced to look to “Caesar” for redress in this regard. I am saddened to have to make the above requests but your actions have had the affect of “beating your brothers” by harassing my family, arranging judicial meetings which are stressful to face, and not making appearance, inconveniencing survivors of abuse who traveled great distances to meet with you and provide testimony. In his February 7, 2002 letter to Richard Greenberg of Dateline, JR Brown made this statement: “We therefore do not view them as adversaries, but as individuals whose views and opinions should be heard within the framework of the congregation, or church, and not in front of a nationwide television audience. Our Governing Body is willing to resolve differences of opinion within the framework of the congregation and according to scriptural principles.” So is this the way “our Governing Body resolves differences of opinion”? They send out-of-town elders to establish a judicial committee with false allegations and disfellowship all who appeared on the program? Does this not confirm exactly the allegation I have made since day one, that is, when victims of abuse speak up they are silenced with the threat of disfellowshipping? Is it not the cowardly course to disfellowship brothers and sisters in back rooms rather than face legitimate allegations in a public forum? It seems “our Governing Body” is perfectly willing to authorize JR Brown of Watchtower Public Information to slander those who appeared on Dateline by stating they were being disfellowshipped for “other sins” not related to speaking out on child abuse to nationwide newspapers. Could it be that “our Governing Body” lied to JR Brown and Richard Greenberg? Could they be lying to you? I know the questions above are troubling as they have troubled me greatly over the course of the last year. It is for that reason I have requested to have a meeting with the Governing Body “within the framework of the congregation and according to scriptural principles” on September 27th of this year. Since they and the Service Committee are well aware of my request to meet with them in a FED-Xed letter dated June 6, 2002, why are they authorizing you to have a judicial hearing? You might want to ask them that question. Would it not make better sense to resolve our differences at that time? On the other hand if you are aware of my meeting with the Governing Body, then I would welcome an explanation for the inconsistency of your actions. According to instructions in the “Flock” book, on page 110: “If the accused repeatedly fails to come to the hearing the committee will proceed with the hearing but will not make a decision until evidence and any testimony by witnesses have been considered.” To date you have refused to meet with me with conduct unkind and unloving to my “witnesses”. In your last letter you failed to inform me of what the “new” charges were since a “new” committee has been formed with a “new” chairman. How can I appear before a judicial committee when I am not informed of the charges against me? The “Flock” book also states on page 118 under the heading, “Before forming a judicial committee”: “A person who becomes a witness to a serious sin should encourage the wrongdoer to report the matter to the elders. He may encourage the wrongdoer to seek help from the elders and confess; and if the wrongdoer does not do so, the witness will then inform the elders. (w85 11/15 pp.19-21) If there is no response from the accused, two elders would attempt to discuss the matter with him. If he denies wrongdoing, so that it is only one brother's word against another's, leave the matter in Jehovah's hands. (1 Tim. 5:19, 24, 25)” To date, no person has confronted me with any actions of “wrongdoing” or even suggested in anyway I have broken God's Laws, no elders have spoken to me about any so called “witness” who is bringing charges against me. I deny ANY wrongdoing, faced no witness, faced no accusation, according to procedural guidelines, why has a judicial committee been established without following directives of the “Flock” book? It is also started in the “Flock” book on page 109: “Before forming a judicial committee, elders determine if the accusation has substance...There must be either two eye-witnesses or a confession of wrongdoing.” As I am totally unaware of ANY law of Jehovah that I may have broken, are you brothers going to provide eye-witnesses to establish my supposed wrongdoing? Are you brothers going to serve as eye-witnesses against me? If so, how can you be an impartial judge and testify against the accused? If there are no additional eye-witnesses and I am denying all allegations, why are we not “leaving the matter in Jehovah's hands?” Are you brothers willing to “wait on Jehovah” or could you presumptuously be moving ahead of God's arrangement? Or does the directive to “wait on Jehovah” only apply in the case of child molesters? I realize you brothers are “caught in the middle” so to speak, but I would encourage you to think seriously about pressing this matter at this time. I am willing to meet and am traveling to Brooklyn, New York as an evidence of my sincerity in wanting these matters settled. I will be glad to meet with you, I simply request “due respect” as you have failed miserably in that regard up to this point. Think about these things brothers as many children will either benefit or suffer from the actions you choose to take. As the “Flock” book states: Elders called upon to care for this responsibility must exercise heavenly wisdom, have good judgment, and be impartial. (Deut. 1:13, 16-18) A sound knowledge of Jehovah's righteous laws and principles is necessary. (Ps. 19:7- 11) They must weigh matters carefully, realizing that certain factors make situations differ from one another. Instead of looking for rigid rules for guidance, elders should think in terms of principles; judge each case on its own merits. Before handling a judicial case, elders should carefully review Units 5(a), 5(b), and 5(c). They may also need to do research in the Society's publications and recent correspondence from the Society to find information that may apply or be helpful. Elders can be confident that with accurate knowledge, with experience and discernment, and with the help of God's spirit, they can judge in righteousness, wisdom, and mercy. I encourage you brothers to consider these matters carefully and make a decision that will benefit the flock. As fellow elders is that not what we are required to do? I await your quick response to this letter and send my warm Christian love. Very Truly Yours, William H. Bowen Kostelniuk. Compelled to write the book as an expression of sorrow and love for the family so cruelly taken from him, Kostelniuk also had a deep need to arrive at some understanding of why these senseless murders took place. This question led him to expose the influence of the Jehovah's Witness organization that wielded total control over Kim's life, as it had over himself until he found the resolve to break with the organization. In making that break, Kostelniuk knew he would be forever shunned by the Witness community and, according to its laws, forbidden contact with his own wife and children. The convicted killer, Jeff Anderson, was also a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses. In a bizarre turn of events, Anderson began to correspond with Kostelniuk from prison, and his correspondence provides a chilling look into the mind of a murderer who held back a terrible secret from the world. The Canadian criminal justice system will offer Jeff Anderson the opportunity of a faint-hope hearing for early parole from his 25-year prison sentence. Where, James Kostelniuk asks, is the justice for Juri, Lindsay and Kim? Jeff Anderson confesses in the book that he molested the little girl. If Watchtower had a policy of reporting abuse (the earlier spousal abuse) they would still be alive today.

< http://www.aim.org/publications/media_monitor/2002/07/11.html> --- Another Pedophile Scandal By Reed Irvine and Cliff Kincaid July 11, 2002 --- Coverage continues of pedophile allegations and cover-ups by Catholic priests and bishops. But what if the founder of a major religion was a pedophile? Baptist preacher Jerry Vines, a former president of the Southern Baptist Convention, ignited a firestorm in the media with his claim that, "Islam was founded by Muhammad, a demon-possessed pedophile who had 12 wives, the last one of which was a 9-year-old girl." American Muslim groups have cried foul, and the Anti-Defamation League, a Jewish group, issued a protest. Commentator William Rivers Pitt has said, "Imagine if someone called Jesus Christ a Demon-possessed, individual who consort ed with known whores." At the very end of a long story about this controversy, the Washington Post noted that an Islamic holy book says that, "The Prophet [Muhammad] married [Aisha] when she was six years old and he consummated his marriage when she was nine years old." The literal words say that he had sex with a nine year old girl. The Post quoted Ibrahim Hooper, spokesman for the Council on American-Islamic Relations, as saying that many Islamic scholars interpret that passage to mean Aisha was 16 when she was betrothed to Muhammad and 19 when they wed. By contrast, Myles Kantor, a columnist for FrontPage Magazine, says that Vines, description "is theologically and historically grounded." Regarding the charge of pedophilia, he said, "one of Muhammad,s wives was betrothed to him at six years old. The marriage was consummated when she was nine. Enough said." Demons were frequently cited as the cause of mental or physical afflictions in the days when people didn't understand science or medicine. But in regard to the counter-claim of Jesus consort ing with prostitutes, such a statement ignores his condemnation of prostitution and his attempts to convert them. On the other hand, the statement about Muhammad having sex with a nine year old girl can only be re-interpreted by completely changing the words and their meaning. "We don't understand why this is a controversy," Dr. Ergun Caner told the Dallas Morning News. He claimed the statement is "in Islam's teaching " something we were taught as children." Dr. Caner, who was born a Muslim, is the co-author of the book, "Unveiling Islam: An Insider's Look at Muslim Life and Beliefs." On CNN's Crossfire, Tucker Carlson asked Hussein Ibish of the American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee, "Did Muhammad have a nine-year-old wife?" Ibish replied, "I have no idea and neither does anybody else. To be honest with you, that happened 1,500 years ago. Much of this is mythological ... It's not the point." Carlson asked, "Do Muslim scholars believe it to be true?" Ibish replied, "Actually, I have no idea about whom the prophet married, and when, and why -- and it doesn't matter. The point is that this is part and parcel of a generalized attack on Islam and Muslims<sum>."> It may be part of an attack on Muslims but that begs the question of whether the statement is true or not. If the Catholics should be held accountable for pedophiles in their midst, the Muslims should too, even if it is their founder. Reed Irvine can be reached at ri@aim.org

Hi again, I received the e-mail about James K book "Wolves among Sheep." It so excellently portrays the way the Society and local congregation treats wife abuse, child abuse and the way James K was treated. It is so honest. It was a tragedy that could have been avoided had the WTS had supported the victims... My deepest sympathy go out to him and his second, for their loss. I have read the his book. I recommend it others. DJB

From "Traditional Values Coalition" Weekly News: Vol. 5, Issue 29, July 19, 2002 -- Secret Jehovah's Witnesses File Protects Pedophiles -- The British Broadcasting Company (BBC) reported this week that the Jehovah's Witnesses maintain a confidential list of child molesters but do not report these molestations to police. Bill Bowen, a former JW for 20 years, says the church has 23,720 abusers on the list—and that they're being protected by the system. -- According to JW policy, allegations of child molestation must be reported to the JW's legal desk. Action can be taken only if there are two witnesses to the crime or if the perpetrator confesses. Bowen, resigned as an elder in Kentucky in 2000 to protest the church's cover up. According to Bowen, "These men remain anonymous to anyone outside the organization and anyone really inside the organization unless you are personally reporting the matter." -- For more on this controversial policy, go to Bill Bowen's web site <http://www.silentlambs.org> at: http://www.silentlambs.org You can also access Survivors and Victims Empowered <http://child-abuse.com/SAVE/home.html> , a ministry to child molestation victims

To SLC, Thanks for the encouragement. Also, there is a program called Paltalk, it is a free download, we could all meet in there one night and brainstorm some campaign ideas, if you would like. It is a voice chat program. I really like the lambs idea too, still trying to figure out what to attach to it though. You have any ideas? Let me know about the Paltalk thing, if you do download it, look for me under the name Missy1225 Again thanks for the encouragement. I am not going to sit on this one. It has to be stopped. Love, Barb

OK, let me tell you something here. My x husband was a murderer, OK? All I know is that it was advised that he turn his self in & settle the matter before taking steps toward the truth. There was no question about it. For that matter, I don't believe that ANYONE of Jehovah's witnesses would condone the sexual molestation of a child. I mean, you've got to be kidding ... and what if this did happen? Take your case up with the individual that is accused. I mean are you guys trying to say that this is a common practice amongst the witnesses or something? I realize what a horrible, horrible thing this for a child & a betrayal at that, but please this is not the custom of the witnesses ... unlike the Catholics. I know that for a FACT because as an UNBAPTIZED person I was disassociated more that once for fornication. Sexual immorality is SO not tolerated. COME ON! The witnesses are an not some evil sect! It's the act of an individual we are talking about here & it is a very serious matter. However I defend the society & condemn the loathsome act of the individual.

I co/host an ex JW room, and have found that the JW's who do come in are in complete denial and blinkered to exactly what the organization is. My heart goes out to the elderly ones who have given all or most their lives to what they think is Gods organization on earth...also the little ones who haven't any choice as they are being bought up by JW parents who are being brainwashed by a publishing consortium>> WT, who profess to be mediator to God thus taking away the deity from Christ, 1 Timothy 2:5. This site is doing a wonderful job, exposing this CULT for what it is (Truth shall prevail) no matter how they try to cover up, its out now!! and the world will see the WT bought to its knees, if Bill Bowen scores a success in the courts of law it will open the flood gates for all the other abused victims to demand recompense for the pain they have suffered at the hands of these so called chosen ones LOLO. I LOOK FORWARD TO THAT DAY...when the very wealthy WT has to open its purse strings. We will see how Jehovah looks after them then. Until that day arrives, keep the pressure on these criminals, who send unpaid slaves door to door, by dangling the carrot of salvation in front of their noses>>"as if its theirs to give or take away" gal 2:16...well done Bill
Bowen and all concerned with this site..PinkCloud

RE: The ritual abuse site. Makes me wonder if 'playing around' with very young children mentally is purposeful. Like perhaps, some (monstrous) people are fascinated with their own ability to induce dissociation and other 'intriguing' mental results (that have the added benefit of leaving them 'blameless')...I, for one, often felt like a 'science experiment'. Like my abuser 'just wanted to see what would happen' if he did this and this and this.

This whole coverup situation is not any different than anything else the Watchtower does. They have presented themselves as being so much above everything and everyone else (right down to adopting the name "Truth" for themselves). They do not and will not accept publicly that they are wrong unless it is so blatant. This is why to acknowledge perverts can be Jehovah's Witness in good standing would look bad on them. They do coverups about their teachings that don't come true, their bible translation that doesn't have even one qualified person behind it and coverups with half truths when they are caught being a NGO (Non government organization) upholding the values of the United Nations. Well you old farts, you can fool some of the people some of the time.

Hi Sheila, This is the site to 'vent' it seems! All of us have at one time or another, it is nice to know that their are people out in the cold cruel world that have lived the lives we have! I do know that at times my 'spirit' seems to have been around forever, and it gets so tired. We all need 'us' to share hurts, ideas, and pain. To allow others, even faceless others to 'get to know us' the real us is a wonderful thing. It not only helps us but also allows others to show compassion! I know that I appreciate that! And from the posts that I have read a lot of others appreciate giving and receiving! You are NOT alone! Never have been really, but at least you and I can see that there are a lot of 'us'es out there! :-) bonnielynn

Regarding the comment Take your case up with the individual that is accused. Please, I am sure that the families and even the child that is abused is in 'the frame of mind' to take the case up with the accused. I will say that if it happened to my child, I would NOT be able to face the accuser except in a court of law. You must not ever been in the 'victims' shoes or you would understand. Some of these victim survivors are forced to stay in the abused home, stay married to the abuser, sit next to the abuser in the congregation, sit there and listen to the abuser spouting off bible scriptures and teaching 'how to be righteous'! GOD forbid you ever have to deal with this yourself, I would never want that to happen. But, until you do... Keep in mind that the abuser is NOT only abusing their 'victims' bodies, they are also 'beating down' their spirits WITH THE HELP OF YOUR SUPPORTED ORG! Who gives ANYONE that right? treat your neighbor as you would want to be treated. Would YOU want to actually 'face' a person who has touched YOUR child as a perv does? Would YOU want to let the org. tell you that it's best to 'leave it in Jehovah's name' and explain to YOUR child why they have to even look at their abuser since that child didn't have the required two or more witnesses? WOULD YOU BE ABLE TO LIVE WITH THAT? Think carefully before answering, in case later on YOU have NEW LIGHT and have to change YOUR thinking. Go ahead and support anything, be it made of wood or stone as you wish, you do have that right, man gave you that. BLM

Regarding "Wolves among Sheep" - I have been saying that the good men need to take back their families from the elders and WTS. People cannot let Elders, or the WTS be the head of household- especially a woman alone.  This looking to the WTS for direction has opened the door to much wickedness. The shunning ruins families - and family is the foundation of human civilization. This "crap" about two witnesses has ruined families. This tolerance for abuse has ruined families. ALL THE WHILE YOU GET "stories" in the AWAKE how the "truth" saves and mends families. The holding out of this fantasy of a healed family like a carrot while the reality is different.  So you have WTS destroying families from both ends - with their tolerance for wicked abuse and on the other hand they control the heads of household of the weak but good men and women. And God Bless a strong good man who says no more WTS - he looses his family. But they portray a "family" lifestyle -on the surface while undermining the head of household at every turn. We are all to be pilled - including me for being so "tossed about" by the world and then when you think you have found refuge from the world, you only find it was an illusion to cling to out of despair. It is nothing different than the "world" offers. Confusion, hypocrisy, back biting, one-up-manship, class distinction, competition, bullies, hidden agendas, manipulation, deceit, guilt trips, lack of character, courage and conscience in the name of God or not what is the difference?  What does this have to do with God the Almighty and me worshipping Him? Every thought that is devoted to chaos is a thought that should have been given to God. There is a lot of energy (spirit?) that is being taken away what rightfully belongs to our Father in Heaven. If the burden is heavy than it is not of God. Remember that song that said if you can't run your own life...I will be damned if you'll run (ruin) mine? God does not ruin families, people, or children lives - only the wicked do that. Love from Soap Box

Hey bonnielynn -exactly! I would not even want a pedophile to look at a picture of my babies!!! Not to mention be in the same room...let alone worship with them. May God forgive me, but I would hope that a repentant pedophile would not expect me to "embrace" him/her in any way, shape or form. I owe this to my children, and my grandchildren to all children. Our "love" for our neighbor is that we keep the 10 commands - so I don't murder the pervert and that is as much "love" as they are going to get from me!!!! Love, Claudine

THE MADNESS AND FILTH AMONG JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES: BECAUSE THEY REMOVED THE "RESTRainers". In their madness, now plain for all to see (2 Tim 3:9 NWT), the organization calling themselves Jehovah's Witnesses has been sheltering thousands of incestuous men. Inside sources reveal that there are 23,732 cases of child molestation on file at JW headquarters in Patterson, New York. And yet, they disfellowship faithful men for obeying the Holy Scriptures; ostracizing some for revealing the incestuous filth among JWs, or disassociating themselves from them over trivial matters. But repeatedly, they refuse to help the suffering children being physically tormented by their sexually abusive fathers, many of whom are still acting as elders. Some of these Pedophiles have been caught and are serving long prison sentences. Why aren't those that conceal these abusers also being put in prison? (in accordance with the JW claim that they obey the "superior authorities" of Romans 13:1 NWT). Concerning this matter, what did The Christ teach the apostle Paul: "I actually hear reports of sexual immorality among you, immorality such as even pagans do not tolerate: the union of a man with his father's wife. And you can still be proud of yourselves! You ought to have gone into mourning; a man who has done such a deed should have been rooted out of your company." (1Corinthians 5:1,2 NEB). How much worse is it, for a man to fornicate with his own child, or the child of another family? When asked about this, a member of the governing body of JWs, Ted Jarrett, replied: "We do not go beyond the things written". May The Lord God punish that man. Some elders of the governing body of JWs officiating over thousands in congregations worldwide are confessed homosexuals. (Romans 1:26,27,32). They even adopt the policy of sending their homosexual and incestuous men to serve in other congregations! As was revealed in an instructive letter from the governing body to their elders: 'If it is known you are a PAEDOPHILE, you can't serve as an elder; ministerial servant or pioneer!!! SHOCKING! They should be locked up! After reading reams of information written by ex-JWs about how the governing body of JWs shelter child molesters, and the sexual abuse perpetrated by their JW elders, I have not found one true explanation for the wickedness among JW elders. So, I will reveal the real reason why this madness has come about: During the period designated by our Lord as the "appointed times of the nations" during the "time of the end" (the end of the "good news" of salvation by means of The Christ. See Rev 10:7), the mysterious "man of lawlessness" (2 Thess 2:3 NWT) or "wickedness in human form" (NEB) began to be "revealed", and was when they quickly removed the "restraint". (2 Thess 2:6-8). According to the 1975 Yearbook of Jehovah's Witnesses, their "shifting" and "trampling" of anointed ones (their "restrainers") worldwide began in 1971, and was completed by 1982. Their revealing is described in detail 2 Thessalonians 2:1-12. The removal of anointed ones was carried out by this composite "man of lawlessness" made up of many self-appointed wicked men "in human form"; namely, the so-called elders of the sect of Jehovah's Witnesses, who should not now be considered mysterious to anyone. The Lord's "restrainers" (and some of us are still living) are those whom God anointed and sealed with the Holy Spirit. When we were removed, God let an "operation of error go to them"; namely, to these self-appointed elders of JWs who had usurped the congregations of anointed ones, so that the usurpers would get to "believing THE LIE". (2 Thess 2:11,12 NWT). THE LIE was their excuse for usurping God's anointed ones, and is the way they lifted themselves up above the authority of God. All those who "trampled" upon anointed ones are now abandoned souls. Nothing can be done for them. As to those who still search houses for converts, they are looking for those they can make like themselves: Ruined ones, according to Satan's disposition. (Matthew 23:15). For a more comprehensive explanation, go to the website of The Opened "Little Scroll" at: www.littlescroll.supanet.com under the headings: 'Jehovah's Witnesses' and 'Man of Lawlessness' in the Subject Index.

To everyone that wrote regarding my "venting", thanks. We have always felt "alone" unless of course they needed my husband to work on their car or something. We had two small babies and NEVER received help at all, there were so many times we at Lentils (beans) and sauce but if someone came into the congregation professing to be pioneers. They would open the storehouses, I remember one "con" family that took the congregation in Cabool for everything clothes, a place to live and one of the ELDERS gave YES GAVE them a car. They were strangers and received more love in the few short months they took them for everything than we did in the four years we stayed after marrying (1984). My husband and lived there since 1977 or so and he was shunned, I actually think because he was so "good" always striving to do the "right" thing. We barely even kissed as I've said before we married and yet they acted as if we were fornicking in their midst. LOL We later found EVERYONE else that threw stones were the guilty ones LOL So yes I have a lot of pain and self doubt I was just cleaning my family room and saw and old "greatest Man" book and I got nauseated, sad isn't it. My son is now a Presbyterian at 17 and he is such a kind hearted little monster LOL Teenager ya know LOL He still hates the way we were treated, both of my children are scarred from the looks and words of their supposed brothers. Some brothers we dressed and acted as they did, but the cliques are many and the pain is immense. For those that claim it's just ONE or TWO congregations WE HAVE BEEN in FOUR in 18 years and visited some all over the country they are all the same. The blind leading the blind... Thanks again sorry I got off on venting again but I feel so much better knowing we aren't alone. I feel so guilty raising my children in such a judgmental environment, funny that we have been out of the "TRUTH" since 1996 and my kids have done so much better the families that looked down on them. We never had problems with drugs, sex or alcohol hmmm maybe LOVE is the reason, we LOVE our children and that has made all the difference. Nufff venting for now love to everyone, even those still stumbling in the dark Sheila Madonia

Hi Barb! What could we attach to Silent Lambs? The WT Society deceived all of us intentionally. They spent our lives on worthless pursuits. They tricked us into slavery. We should demand compensation for loss of income. Broken pro misses False prophecy Alienation of affection from our families, Lost Properties Broken marriages Murder There is nothing that the WT does that is not deadly for all involved! Why don't we call it: WATCHTOWER CULT VICTIMS. That's all of us so all can sue! Thousands will participate and the WT will die!Our loved ones will be freed! We should sue the WT Governing Body in a United Way as Group.It would be easier financially if we do it together. We should try that first together Canada and USA. Let's find another Bill Bowen among us. There are some Bill Bowen out there and they will come forward when God's Spirit prompts them to do so. But we must make the call. This is God's will. This will be done. As a group we would be able to launch effective attack on these dishonest leaders of the WT the enemies of our Lord Jesus Christ and us personally. To Bill: You will be rewarded with total success and God's blessing and should be emulated by all of us. RMNK

Ohh the stories... On a brighter note, ten years after separating myself from the Witnesses I can finally see what control they had over me. I was raised as a Witness so I can't relate to how emotionally needy a person must be to willingly become associated with such a bunch of losers. Fortunately, my parents left the "truth" about the same time I did- and they are embarrassed to admit they ever got involved with the cult(not to mention exposing their children to a bunch of known alcoholic pedophiles). -Conk

I am not a witness or religious in any way. I have never been abused. I am married to a wonderful lady who left the 'TRUTH' a long time ago. It has been a struggle because of her family's prejudices and that of my own family.
However I do understand the power of the truth and why its members feel they cannot talk to outsiders. I just hope they can find the courage to do what they feel is right.

Hi Barb! You asked what could we put besides Silent Lambs? How about WATCHTOWER VICTIMS? We could all participate in that because we were all hurt by the WT. We should sue them for compensation as a group which would be easier than alone. We need another Bill Bowen to come forward to lead us. Let us ask the Holy Spirit to prompt such person to come forward and speed up the work of liberation of our loved ones that are still in the clutches of the WT’s False Prophet! RMNK We could sue the WT for: Broken promises Broken marriages Alienation of love of family members Slavery Murder etc. Basically all that the WT is harmful. We should try that first in North America. I feel that the Lord wants that to happen and we will meet with success. We want compensation. This will devastate the Wise and Discrete Slaves and their fortunes. And, don't they deserve that?

RE: - the notice that Parliament's Helen Clark has 'tabled the motion' for the MP to investigate JW child abuse (following the BBC's Panorama program)...The term 'table' means that she has set it aside, postponed it. She put it in her 'to-do' pile (which sometimes they get to and sometimes they don't). But she decided to not deal with it at that time (on the day of the latest press release you read). --- I don't know what this means about what IS happening there, but I just wanted to clarify the terminology for you so that you would understand what it does and does not mean. --- I hope Helen receives a LOT of support and encouragement to get in there and deal with this issue and not just 'let it slide'. Speak up! And stand by her. JWs have a long internal history of just 'not getting involved', standing back 'blameless' and letting everything work itself out - without our efforts, support or 'involvement'. Didn't the WTS give us good training in how to guiltlessly reap the 'goodies' while taking none of the responsibility. --- I know we all want to get past that and stand up for some things. Well...the time is here.

Reading about the dying teen from Canada (who has now 'escaped' with her mother) brings back miserable memories of when my own brother was dying from leukemia. --- EVERYTHING was about the 'blood issue'. There was no love, no family support, no 'normal' behavior associated with a terrible family tragedy. He died in a horrible, lonely place where his parents and doctors and nurses could not stop fighting for one single moment to actually NOTICE him. And the rest of the family? Our job, I guess, was to 'choose sides'. The only love and support he encountered was from the hospital staff. God bless them for being there. His family sure wasn't. I feel so sad for this Canadian teen. I wish there was something I could do. Pass it on, if you get the chance...I'm praying for her.

To Barb. Hi Maybe we should add WATCHTOWER VICTIMS to Silentlambs. Most of us are wt victims. In this section we could post all our grievances with the WT and sue the GB and the local Elders for what they have done to us. For example: Unfulfilled Promises Slavery Murder Broken families just to mention a few. We should organize and take a CLASS ACTION SUIT against the Society. We need a leader as W. Bowen. Is there somebody to step forward? This is a mission where the Lord is revealing His own enemies. This is the outcry of hundred of thousands. I am one of those that lost his family and all I owned. I slaved for the WT for 25 years and than they kicked me out on false accusation of my wife! I want to be compensated. Why should we just forget? The WT has gotten very fat on our backs. RMNK RMNK

Regards, bill Dear Mr Bowen, My name is Kirstine Lumb and I work for the Sunday Program, Channel Nine, in Sydney Australia. Our program is one of the top public affairs programs in Australia. I have been interested by the recent program done by the BBC on child abuse within the Jehovah's Witness Church. I would like to follow up with some research into the JW Church in Australia and whether similar instances have occurred. I was hoping you may be able to assist me in getting in touch with some disaffected church elders or perhaps victims or victim support groups in Australia. If you have any information you feel I would find valuable, I would be greatly appreciative. Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you. Kirstine Lumb

Thank you to whoever gave us the link to the letter from Helen Clark - I had not seen it before. Sister Cousins appearance on Panorama is to be commended for her courage and strength, and also the other young woman who came forward. This program would have had no impact without them!!!!CLAP CLAP CLAP...the rights of children in the KH's have been taken away for years in "free" countries and now maybe Helen Clark can change this situation to paraphrase her words " to afford the witness children the same protection as any other child in society." Amen...love lifting their kilts before battle, made me laugh and laugh. When I think about it I laugh out loud. I sort of think of silentlamsbs standing before the battle lines, lifting their skirts/kilts with this web site and getting ready to do battle with the unjust & oppressive enemy. It is symbolic and exposing the most vulnerable parts of the being with bravery and courage, and a sense of humor. Love, Claudine

Is it pathetic to have a leader? I don't think so. No Orchestra can exist without a capable Conductor. No instrument can be played without a player. Do you want a chaotic mass of individuals crying for help everywhere? Next time you have something to say sound your horn in the end please so we can honk back to you. We must become well coordinated if we want to be effective against these Watchtower criminals that seem to know all the tricks of the trade. But God is going to defeat you and we will all rejoice at loss of the WT fortunes. They stopped laughing already and I wouldn't want to be in their shoes as it is. By the way I won something against them in Court yesterday. Thank you for reading sir. It is not too late even for you to come to the Lord and join those who want to see justice done.

ARRESTED AND DEMAND A LAWYER BEFORE ANSWERING ANY QUESTIONS! IT IS MY RIGHT!!!! he said (after less than 5 minutes of talking to me) bipolar – take her away! The next morning, ‘they’ tell me that I HAVE to give blood! I SAY, I cannot do that, for you see, I am dehydrated, and I need to put fluids and food into my body before I can give any blood. THEY SAY you cannot eat or drink until you give blood. I SAY, I taught nutrition, I KNOW that I have to put in before you take out! I DID NOT GET FED AND WAS ALLOWED NO DRINK FOR 24 HOURS! THE NEXT DAY I WENT OUTSIDE, BAREFOOTED BECAUSE THE SHOES I WAS WEARING WHEN THEY TOOK ME AWAY WAS MY HALF-SISTERS AND THEY HURT MY FEET. I STARTED TO PICK UP CIGARETTE BUTTS THAT WERE ON THE GROUND. TWO MAINTENANCE MEN LAUGHED AT ME AND SAID LOOK AT HER, GOING TO SMOKE THEM!!!! I THREW THEM AWAY, PICKED UP SOME MORE, THREW THEM AWAY, AND SO ON. I ASKED THEM IF THEY WOULD LOAN ME A RAKE TO MAKE THIS JOB EASIER, NO, THEY SAY, WE CAN’T DO THAT. TWO NURSES CAME THEN, ONE TOOK ONE ARM, THE OTHER TOOK MY OTHER ARM AND THEY ‘WALKED’ ME TO GET MY BLOOD TAKEN. The whole time they were walking me I was calmly stating ‘MY RIGHTS ARE BEING TAKEN AWAY! IT IS MY RIGHT NOT TO BE FORCED THIS WAY AND THEY ARE TAKING MY RIGHTS AWAY BY DRAGGING ME. They took me in, since it is my right to REFUSE ANYTHING I refused to get undressed. SO THEY UNDRESSED ME, HOLDING ME DOWN. They took my blood; the doctor did make sure I got something to eat. They the two nurses took me to get my picture taken. IT IS MY RIGHT TO REFUSE ANYTHING so I lowered my head, hair hanging down. One of the women there pulled my hair back forced my chin up, held my head up by my hair and chin and they took the picture (GOT HER ON CLASS 2 ABUSE) still got the pic too!!!! To make a very very long story short, I was there, not of my will, but of my Fathers. I was able to expose the abuses that were going on, with others and me! I was told that, that part of the hospital no longer existed, not sure, afraid to find out. Through me, my Father helped so many, especially this one woman, racked with pain, and drugs that THEY GAVE HER. Inspired I said the Lords prayer to her and her eyes cleared of the drugs and pain and she said OH MY GOD, THEY ALMOST MADE ME FORGET ABOUT JESUS!!!! THEY DID THIS TO ME!!!!!! For one tiny bit of time, she remembered! The good, the hope, the LOVE! Oh, by the way, my doc ‘sikes’ was the name. When I jumped him for THEM having an s at the end of my last name (my half-sister KNEW ME SO WELL, SHE COULDN’T EVEN SPELL MY NAME RIGHT!) he asked, why so upset about that? I SAY, ‘how would you like it DR. if someone put a ‘U’ in your name instead of an ‘I’? He said, see, bipolar, quick witted! OH YEAH, HERE ARE THE SYMPTOMS THAT HE SAID I HAD TO PROVE I AM BIPOLAR… QUICK WITTED, EXCESSIVE TALKING, WHICH I SAID ‘MY MOM ALWAYS TOLD ME I HAD A GIFT FOR GAB, NOW YOUR TELLING ME IT’S PART OF AN ILLNESS!’, INTELLIGENCE THAT DOES NOT BELONG SINCE I DIDN’T HAVE THE EDUCATION SOCIETY STATES I NEED TO BE INTELLIGENT (quit school in the tenth, took a couple of college classes, and a course in teaching nutrition for a job). When he told me that excessive talking was a symptom, I took a vow of silence! Showed him who can shut up when she wants lol! He snuck me the pic, so I could help... Did I forget to tell you, returning back from the bloodsuckers, and the one who class 2 abused me, the two men, the ones laughing at me for picking up the butts, they were raking! As I passed by I heard one say to the other ‘I HOPE SHE REMEMBERS US DOING THIS WHEN SHE GETS OUT!!!! I DID!! Who do I blame? Who can I blame? My brother, he was abused way more than he abused me, (I remembered then, the memories started coming back.) blame my half-sister? She MADE ME SLEEP WITH HIM, SHE KNEW WHAT HE WOULD DO, HE HAD, OR TRIED TO DO IT TO HER. Can't blame her, she was abused way way more than I was. YES SHE IS THE ONE WHO PUT ME AWAY, but that only helped me remember, and allowed my father to help those suffering in there, how can I blame her for that? There is no one to forgive or not to forgive. NO ONE WHO SHOULD HAVE SEEN MY PAIN FOR SHE (MOM) HASN’T EVEN FACED HER OWN FROM WHAT HER FATHER DID. OR SO I WAS TOLD. There were still questions, I had them answered when my half-brother was told of what I was saying, he denied it and told my mom that if I didn’t shut up he would come down there and make me!!!! HE DID, AFTER TRYING TO SIT FIRE TO HIMSELF, SOUGHT HELP, AND TOLD MY HALF SISTER THAT SHE WOULD START TO REMEMBER THINGS TOO, THAT SHE NEEDED TO GET HELP NOW BEFORE THE MEMORIES COME BACK. I just wanted to tell him that I DIDN’T TELL ON HIM FOR HITTING ME WITH A ROCK, TATTLE TALE THAT I WAS, I DIDN’T TELL FOR 25 YEARS! It is all ‘put away’ now, not talked about, only the pain remains, and the understanding that there is NO ONE I can forgive, for there is no one to NOT forgive. My father has kept me safe, first taking the memories away until the ‘right time’ and then giving me the memories back at the ‘right hour’ To not feel blessed that I was used to help others in such a way is impossible for me. I still feel humbled for that. I AM I. I AM WHAT MY FATHER HAS MADE ME, BY PROTECTING ME, AND CARRYING ME! I AM I, AND I WANT TO BE NO OTHER!!!! FOR MY FATHER MADE ME! AND HE LOVES ME!!!! If all of this, and much much more (husband letting me eat food that he found maggots on, without telling me) etc... just to give a clue... If all of this didn’t happen I would not be me. I can’t say that I like myself all of the time, BUT I like that I was used, and the healing began, by my Father, through my brother Jesus!!!! No I was never a ‘real JW’ I was nursed on the doctrine, or what I believed to be the doctrine. My mom has always believed. She is now in bible study...my grandma...she died because she refused blood...in the 70’s...totally devout witness, funny she never acknowledged my pain, if she saw it I don’t know. Had a step dad who did, he saved my life, when I was 8 (I think) he drilled into my head... 9x6=54 and 1st John 4-8 See, my Father used him to save me!!!!! I opened the word and I clung to it for life!!!!! I had found love!!!! I Did lose custody of my two boys. Hence the following ‘poem?’ As I stare at the wall, dimensions began to appear, allowing me the memory that you are still there, to comfort me in my despair. Because, as the vision became clear, it was you watching over mother and child, though neither are here. When earlier today, I said that there was no one in my pain to share, I had not forgotten you, only that you would lend an ear. Thank you for showing me, in this small way, that any pain is ours to share, and for reminding me that you would never allow a burden my shoulders could not bare. Also, thank you for again teaching me that the answers I seek will be given through prayer. Bonnielynn Sorry this is so long, (here I go, feeling guilty...again!!!! STOP!... I NEEDED THIS. EVEN IN Its LENGTH. THANK YOU!!!! BLM

The assaults included Berry hanging the girl by her wrists from hooks on a barn wall and, on another occasion, tying her to a tree, according to court records. The girl testified that Berry, a Jehovah's Witness, quoted Scriptures while forcing her to perform sex acts. She also said he struck her and threatened her so she would not tell her mother.

 Requiem of a Jehovah's's witness family  In the past years it has come to a boiling point for all our family of certain things that exist and will permeate all facets of our lives even more so than now. As things progress our family has digressed to a nature that cannot be labeled but only explained. As the years pass and the Matriarch of the family grows older our families last and only adhesive will soon be gone. It is my fear as one of the only two in our family who can pass on our legacy, will dissipate as soon as our beloved mother and my Grandma leaves us. I grieve everyday of what I see as a so called family especially labeled as a True Christian family to come to so much defiance and lying that it can only be described as sickening. Many complain and has chosen sides of a battle field no one knows the boundaries or the war. Is what I say wrong or do we as people, family, and true Christians see the glass walls we have chosen? As the oldest grandson but also the last son of Grandma as she feels, She has nothing to offer me such as material things only the wealth of loving me for whom I am as a person and to give counsel in her own loving way. Whether I take it or not she tells me it's my free choice and using the wisdom she has taught me to make my way while all along all of you have lived your lives and ignored her going against the very scripture you preach door to door. But what I have seen of the family has grieved me so, to the point to right this letter to all members of our family. I shall try to stay objective and stay true, so forgive me if I have offend you but all must know and read what I have to say and make your own conclusion. First the taking of sides not knowing the whole facts, Little Mikey's wedding the most important day of his life, NOT one of our family MEMBERS ever used their free choice of conscience of will. Was it not Aunt Carmen and Uncle Mike who suggested to everyone not to show and made such a scandal of it to embarrass the family itself? Why were members in her family who are Jehovah's Witnesses attend and give gifts and excepted Little Mikey as a brother and family member? Even I was under threat and was accused of being rebellious if I attend. What is interesting is that Mikey was not disfellowshipped? So why where told not to attend his wedding because his wife was worldly? I thought if you borrowed some money you paid it back whether or not you're worldly or a Jehovah's Witness. Any worldly person knows that, yet we posses the mental capabilities to forget so quickly and ask for money only to give the song and dance of why you cant pay yet in your same breath you accuse those in the Kingdom Hall spiritual weak if they use the same excuses not to pay back. My dad has the power to take away a home and yet he holds back in fear of only one thing, keeping his family and friends close. So why deprive of him his friends and family. Once an agreement is signed that's it, right? I have always liked Ashley and felt some mutual bond with him so its nothing personal, but the fact is the fact, if you owe and signed the dotted lines your ass is in the sling. Now here is the kicker. We have an elder in our mist that was seen with another woman and was drunk at a bar. This elder asks an individual who walked in hours later to cover his story or get an ass kicking. Is it true? I was threatened when he came to my home. I want to know does this elder and so-called brother of the faith have the love to pay back the $2,000.00 loan for his bail for the D.U.I. or can he say not? But he can accuse and point a finger to wrong doers within his eyesight and no one will question his motives for doing so. Is it the boy who cried wolf in Uncle Dan's case when he yells apostate to his brother? Should we keep the pitchforks and torches ready each night for the crucifixion? We are civilized, yet we act no better then Spanish inquisitors of 1600's. Uncle your words and actions are your own damnation. Keep your accusation for your own grave none of the living care. Another thing, I was told that my daughter is being corrupted for using E-net and E-mail and it is the work of Satan. Yes, this is what I was told and headhunters came to my home investigating such allegations. Are we now to cower when something new comes out? Fear of the new brings questionings, to be labeled apostate if your small minds don't understand. Do I live in Salem in fear of being accused of a witch? Uncle could send his minions to do his bidding to search out guilt, so then it must be that we are guilty first? Is it not we are innocent first? Well, what can we say, get the stake and nails, we will moan after the fact, right? Your actions as a family for doing nothing are proof enough of the vile and septic mentality in which we glory ourselves as Jehovah's slaves. My family is the a good example of being a false Lover of Christ teachings. Family unity now is further away than before. Can we say in 10 or 20 years from now that any of us or family members will even now each other, or are we condemning to walk past each other not knowing who the other is. Are we to drive away our blood for strangers who come and go throughout our lives? All we have is but us, Jehovah blessed families who where unified not divided. Uncle Sammy and I are the only ones to pass on our names. I have begged the family at the gatherings I attended and subtly asked where did Grandpa's stuff go. What hurts the most is that those who have it won't share it. Even one of our family members evicted from his home didn't call anyone to come and get grandpa's yard tools. Yet it was left to go to the dump. This was the family love that our organization taught then it would be better to be a catholic, what's the difference from one liar to another? Sam and me have but our stories to tell and nothing to show. While all of you where gone, it was Sammy, Grandpa and me who would go together and do things. Yet family members took stuff not thinking of that proud legacy he left for our name. None of you appreciated his love, sweat and blood he put into his land or you would have seen it as an investment not a rattrap. Telling grandma to burn down the house and get the insurance money. Shame on you for the words told to Grandma during her grief. I remember it all or has all of you purposely hidden it deep within. Another example of christian honesty and love isn't it? When Grandma dies we will all drift away, I have Aunt Rose's strong will and Uncle Dan's power to fight and won many victories, but I miss my Aunt Margie, she was compassionate and understanding. She would be so disappointed in all of you for she strived in family unity not the chaos we have now. She may not have approved of my life's past but she would have not judged me either knowing that it is up to a much higher power to do, not Danny or some unknown elder. When Grandma goes, are you so sure you will see her again? Is it loud public praises that will save you? Is it that you got 100 hours in service or that you never missed a talk? Is it not love that Christ commanded that supersedes any law? Now already Lines have been drawn for the next wedding or family event, on who's coming and who is not speaking with whom? Can we as a family maintain some unity no matter what differences each of us has? We are so small that we cannot even get together to find out how the other is doing or are regulations of men much deeper than love of your sister or brother because a member is on public reproof or married to a worldly woman? Is it really so hard to come down from your mountain to visit your mother, give a kind gesture, a simple visit to a forgotten family member? Attempts to cheat one another are the most humorist act I've seen yet, and we are family. I sometimes think it's better to deal with a worldly person. We have used have in our family cheaters that would probably put car salesmen out of business. Jeez, no one gets a break. I love my God Jehovah and praise only him and his son so I speak not against him but only of those who cannot fulfill the simplest of deeds, respect of your mother. If you are bad then I dare you to hold any position in the organization whether you are female or male, in this way you can say I'm better than the stranger and the Jew. Can you be honest or love without conditions and regulation of men? Who of you ignore Christ teachings and Jehovah's examples of loving your parent, because if you do you have already failed. The organization has so much power to control even the one Christ commanded to love, " love your father and mother and show them respect." I have no intention to hurt anyone so I apologize. In a hundred years whose going to care anyway, so this letter will probably be thrown into the trash, but at the least I said something. So if my own cousins can be tossed away like refuse, family members lie to keep their position to judge and excuses on why you cannot love Grandma then don't criticize anyone or a group, which includes me. Please my family; pull the rafter out of your own eye. Gossip is worse than any cut of the sword. I have great pride in all of Grandpa's achievements, they show character in which none of us have; yet I will strive to be like him and persevere. I have no shame to speak of him as a great man and I remember him walking with Sarge down the long back driveway. I will always think of him under the grapes peeling the cactus on his old brown stool. I only hope to live as long as he. Remember when he cried alone and many walked in on him and laughed at the old man? I sat with him in those days. Now I watch grandma and my son sits next to me. Sadly to say my only family is no more than bickering strangers and haters using the name of Jehovah to achieve their own selfish desire, Not even making the effort to see Grandma and drive down the hill and stay for even a day is what I see and this for goes for those cousins out there also. None of you even make the effort to come down and see her, not even once in a while. She is too old to drive and many have driven her up to the hills but should it not be the son or daughter to visit the mother? Is it so much to stay the day with her, in her own home? Don't write your hate mail or send headhunters to neither my home, nor a call. Love Grandma now! That is your commandment not from any man but from God himself, she is to be looked after and come first in your busy lives. Crocodile tears won't mean a thing when she has past on. It's the tears and laughs you share with her now are what mean the most. Your actions speak louder than any word you can tell me. Just do...your nephew... This letter is true and shows what real problems exist in a divided family who are all members of the same organization...it is of my opinion as long member that the organization is losing its power of us and many now seek their own way...The MOLE... I hope all of you understand the true problems facing our religion. It not worth debating with someone who doesn't understand or someone just babbling nonsense...as i wrote and stated I cannot tell anyone why Ray Franz told me personally but a police state is what he likened my organization now, its true, my own family are out to get their own living in the ranks of something like a Fascist political group,... what good for the goose may not be good for the gander in our religious thinking...This letter was mailed to all twenty family members which are Witnesses...Ray is doing well...good luck to you all in seeking for the truth...THE MOLE

&lt;/U&gt;&lt;/STRONG&gt;&lt;/EM&gt;&lt;/P&gt; re the origins of masonry then research elsewhere (wherever Jehovah's spirit guides you for the truth). Christians were thrown to the lions,burned at stakes,hung-drawn and quartered, why are we surprised at abuse now? Albeit more insidious,subtle,sly. Is this Satan's system or not? &lt;P&gt;&lt;P&gt;Read the first two chapters of &lt;STRONG&gt;&lt;EM&gt;&lt;U&gt;'Babylon the great has fallen-God's kingdom rules'&lt;/U&gt;&lt;/EM&gt;&lt;/STRONG&gt;re the origins of masonry then research elsewhere (wherever Jehovah's spirit guides you for the truth). Christians were thrown to the lions,burned at stakes,hung-drawn and quartered, why are we surprised at abuse now? Albeit more insidious,subtle,sly. Is this Satan's system or not? &lt;P&gt; &lt;P&gt;As one brother said "the witnesses were too near the truth and too good to leave alone". How best to sabotage truth than from inside the last fragile vestige trying to do what they can with imperfect men. As another brother said when I complained of what's going on "don't you realize you're in the middle of a war?"&lt;/P&gt; &lt;P&gt;A more covert,'civilised' war, so no-one knows what's really going on except the perpetrators. See http://hardtruth.topcities.com/silentweaponsforquietwars.htm re the secular aspect, you may recognize your financial problems. &lt;/P&gt; &lt;P&gt;Then see &lt;A href="http://www.apfn.org/apfn/camps.htm"&gt;http://www.apfn.org/apfn/camps.htm&lt;/A&gt; for the masonic agenda. They follow their own version of Jehovah as all Masonic lodges link up to Solomon's temple and John the Baptist ('Templars favorite guy...as one said to me "who's Jesus, he just came along and stole the limelight after all Johns hard work" I replied "John the Baptist didn't feel like that or say that")&lt;nbsp;&lt;They also ironically worship&lt;nbsp;&lt;deities etc. see 'Shriners' for the Arabic cover-up-version. As one brother told me "they place bets on your faith and gamble on your lives". Sounds like the tactics of fallen angels who for centuries have been entertaining themselves at our expense. They think they are on the winning side, which may seem so if as cowards, they work from the shadows. Why do you all think Jesus did what he did? So we can all live in a happy social club now? Isaiah 55:6-13.&lt;/P&gt;
Dear Mole: Thank you for sharing your letter to your family and revealing the hypocrisy that you hate so much. You are a lover of justice, and you see the fake and the phony love all around you. I have observed that witnesses do not "love" anyone that isn't interested in "the truth." They wipe their feet of them and on them. For you to see with such open eyes is a blessing from God. He has put it into your heart to see everything for what it is. There is no difference between a "worldly" person or a witness. There is only a difference between those that love God and do not. Witnesses are so busy dividing, judging, watching everyone they do not have Love for God or their families. There are very few people anywhere that love God and His righteousness. The WTS society proclaims that JW's do not fight in wars and kill people but they allowed the Malawi's to be killed, raped and loose everything - they are guilty of killing brothers and sisters as surely as if they did it themselves. There is NO LOVE coming from the top down and I cannot believe that Jehovah or Jesus backs this atrocity. All of us have to make choices. When I read about the Malawi's that was it for me - I do not want to be associated with such wickedness not by association or otherwise. To me it is pure evil. I have always been a lover of truth and righteousness, and I cannot let the WTS take that away from me. As a father you have an obligation to your children. As a son and grandson you have an obligation also. To anyone else - NO. Love, Claudine aka Soap Box realsimple@mchsi.com ...see real simple!

About the age of the girl Russell molested. False Prophecy; Claiming to be a prophet, promoting occultic pyramidology, fraud, perjury, racketeering, child molestation, sending untold millions to a Christ-less eternity Charles Taze Russell is being sought in connection with the printing and publishing false doctrine, founding a world wide criminal syndicate, promoting the occult, slandering God and claiming to be a prophet. He is also wanted for fraud for advertising and selling "Miracle Wheat," and for child abuse for molesting one, Rose Ball (10 yrs.old) Christ. (Case in point, the abusive treatment toward the "Silentlambs" movement and the strong hand methods of known to them by God Himself, individually and as a group, any conduct or action that was displeasing to God and conduct, before His anger rages against them as lawless ones. So, the truly "spirit-begotten" would have it made make such a disturbing course known to the Governing Body and all presumed "anointed" among JWs earth wide. THEM KNOW! God's active holy spirit and its powerful operation upon the "anointed" son would without a doubt, impossible for them to pursue a course of sin and wrongdoing (as we've seen practiced by the WTS and company) "umbilical cord" tie-in with God and the individual, to let them know exactly how God feels about their questionable conduct. The special "tie-in" with God stays with the "anointed" till their death. (Romans 8:14-16; Ephesians 1:13, 14)

This being the case then, there is no way possible for the truly spirit "anointed" of God of the first century, would get off track of his christian course at any time, God's spirit, which "bears witness with their spirit", immediately acts as an "umbilical cord" tie-in with God and the individual, to let them know exactly how God feels about their questionable conduct. The special "tie-in" with God stays with the "anointed" till their death. (Romans 8:14-16; Ephesians 1:13, 14)

This being the case then, there is no way possible for the truly spirit "anointed" to get confused or innocently misled away from the path of righteousness, as you have suggested above. This is because God's "spirit" is placed within each genuinely "anointed" person as a "reproductive seed" that positively KEEPS HIM ON TRACK! As God's Word says, the spiritual "son" of God then, properly "cannot practice sin" at all. He does not "practice sin" because God's spirit "leads" him, continually. (1 John 3:9) Therefore, with the spirit "leading them" as anointed "sons", it would be impossible for them to pursue a course of sin and wrongdoing (as we've seen practiced by the WTS and company) over a prolonged period time, and NOT COME TO KNOW IT. God's powerful Holy Spirit would unquestionably, LET THEM KNOW! God's active holy spirit and its powerful operation upon the "anointed" son would without a doubt, make such a disturbing course known to the Governing Body and all presumed "anointed" among JWs earth wide. God's spirit would let them know that this particular course they were pursuing, was completely displeasing to Himself and Jesus Christ, who is the head of the christian congregation. God's spirit would act, so that they must stop this conduct, before His anger rages against them as lawless ones. So, the truly "spirit-begotten" would have it made known to them by God Himself, individually and as a group, any conduct or action that was displeasing to God and Christ. (Case in point, the abusive treatment toward the "Silentlambs" movement and the strong hand methods of disfellowshipping to "stem the tide" and effectively silence the "whistle-blowers" who expose "the hidden" wicked pedophile situation among the JW organization earth wide. -- Luke 8:17) The "anointed" christian would know, by way of the "spirit", God's holy spirit, that God was thoroughly displeased. (Romans 8:14-16; 1 Peter 1:23; 1 John 3:9) The Bible shows when the truly "anointed" get off track, this spiritual "tie-in" of the holy spirit, immediately begins to be "grieved", and to such an extent, that they would know immediately something is wrong and "out of order" with God and that definite action must be taken to remedy the situation. If they did not heed the "witness of the spirit" in such critical cases, they would run the risk of "blaspheming" God's spirit by a prolonged "practice of sin WITH KNOWLEDGE". Complete disaster! He would lose his "heavenly hope" because he has not remained "pure" in God's eyes, just as "that One is pure". Therefore, the truly "anointed" must then always follow the "leadings of the spirit", as true sons of God till their death to gain Jehovah's and Jesus' approval. (Ephesians 4:30; Hebrews 6:4-6; 10:26-31) "And you have an anointing from the holy one; all of you have knowledge...And as for you, the anointing that you received from him remains in you and you do not need anyone to be teaching you; but, as the anointing from him is teaching you about all things, and is true and is no lie, and just as it has taught you, remain in union with him." (1 John 2:20, 27) "And everyone who has this hope set upon him purifies himself just as that one is pure...Everyone who has been born from God does not carry on sin, because His [reproductive] seed remains in such one, and he cannot practice sin, because he has been born from God." I am sort of loath to join in what has in many ways all the symptoms of becoming a free for all bashing session. However, I have been attending Kingdom halls, District conventions and circuit assemblies for a full ten years mostly here in the UK. Firstly though I disapprove of peoples erroneous comments, here in the Guest-book that conclude with 'I am an ex-witness' when my intuition tells me and I can derive from the ignorance with which they speak, that they have probably never even visited a Kingdom Hall (KH) in their entire lives. That is pointless. I admire Bill for speaking out for he most certainly is trying to 'change the organization from the inside'. Here is my story for what it's worth. In the seclusion of the KH, Witnesses can afford to see themselves as the true 'Israel of God' and it may be some of their opinions that the elders of the CULT, SECT or CHURCH; 'can do no wrong'. However, once some Witnesses leave the insularity of the congregational meeting they may and often do make allegiances with Worldly groups or Individuals as a means to shore up their personal, secular or more unfortunately sometimes congregational peer groups. They may fall into the old habit of forming assumptions about how they will relate to other more 'thinking' type individuals. These other people, may either be within or outside of the congregational group. For instance I am a dedicated vegetarian and have been for 27 years, probably at a guess, longer than perhaps 50% of the Witnesses have been ordained or baptized ministers. So I have a firm conviction or belief. This I attempt to keep in line with the reality of the food supply and demand issue worldwide. That is, in present conditions veggies have to see the difficulties of farming in many areas...even here in Scotland where the land is not suitable for arable crops in many areas. So, I have a patient and balanced view. However, when in recent times I have attempted to hint upon the ethical, sensible even 'Christian' value of being a vegetarian in these times of World starvation and bad eating habits I have been silenced by the elders. That is, I have actually been shut up by decree of the elders and banned from contributing any input at 'Tuesday Book class' meetings or indeed at any other meeting. I can guarantee that my previous attempts at input were very humble, low key and fitted in with the vein of the discussion. However, because that upsets the predominant attitude in the congregation peer group of "just go along with it, don't question anything and stay quiet on so-called 'controversial issues', and you'll be alright." I have been from behind my back without explanation, simply SHUT-UP. Following a huge Foot and Mouth disease outbreak in 2001 here in UK, one brother expressed belief that vegetarians were behind it all! That is insulting. A circuit overseer at a French congregation I was attending once referred to the Environmentalist organization Greenpeace as 'PARASITES'. This was just a couple of years after the French secret services sank a GP boat and killed a photographer. I had personally once served as radio-technician on that very boat. Again, Gross insensibility and very bad timing for I was there to take him aside after and give him a sensible rebuking, for I am slow to burst into rage. But once I get going... There in no call nor use for these sort of outbursts by senior serving congregational overseers or elders who are supposed to be looking after the 'spiritual welfare' of the congregations. The Witness public speakers will from time to time at a public talk be heard to make comments like "We are not interested in human rights; We are a theocracy". This is all typical of the proud and open show of bigotry you find from time-to-time within any self-appointed patriarchal or indeed feminist (if you want equality) power structure. From Eastern European Oligarchies to The White house; they all from time to time, whilst waiting for God to show his face and end it all, demonstrate a blatant disrespect for basic human individual growth, dignity and the resultant seeding of change this causes in Society. This is imperfection. Yes, Witnesses can become self-appointed holders of the golden chalice and exhibit such carelessness you wouldn't trust them to feed your pet cat. Example: A serving Ministerial servant associate of mine, who is a professional electrician and a closer friend (a pioneer) I had known from before either of us were associated with the JW's, went mountaineering in Cumbria UK. It was about February 1996 and they didn't take ropes. My friend Jim Cullen fell 1000 feet in snow and after air-lift to hospital, died of thermal shock. How two men one in his late 40's and working for the electricity board couldn't realize the importance of using the correct safety gear has always escaped me. Later he may have once made reference in partial joke to the reputation he had gained from this episode as: 'there is no-one more treacherous than me' Anyway, coming back to the real issues of Bill's site all I can say as a Childless single man is, it is strange to me that BETHEL has allowed things to get so far gone as the PANORAMA documentary exposed. Bethel is opening up to some of my ideas on future diet if recent AWAKE articles are anything to go by...although I have always been one for action in the HERE & NOW. It's an inevitability for authorities that can't act immediately and positively in response to people's legitimate complaints as regards child-molestation that one day they will find themselves up in court...especially if you happen to have your HQ in NYC. Brooklyn So to sum up folks: Yes, you definitely need a strategy to survive your religion if you have one. I have just thought of this to describe some of it: "Those that work hard to help others will know, through long suffering what obstinacy means; Those that sit on their backsides and hatch plots against the innocent, will know what ostracism means." I have a personal website if anyone wants to learn a bit about me: http://www.all-yellow.co.uk e-mail: gram@all-yellow.co.uk

IT'S ABOUT CHILD ABUSE  In response to the recent letter written to Betsan Powys (BBC Panorama) by J R Brown currently on display on the JW-media.org website. The intro to the letter reads in part, "Parents can feel secure in the knowledge that much effort is put forth to screen out possible child abusers from appointment to responsible positions in the congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses." The body of the letter gives a false sense of security to Jehovah's Witnesses, and to parents of children who may associate with Jehovah's Witnesses. It gives the idea that the policy in place has scriptural backing. The scripture quoted there is describing actions to be done for “errors or sin” Child rape is not just an error. It is a deliberate EVIL act. It is a crime in every civilized nation of the world. Romans 13 is the scripture that should be applied to this criminal act. This is not a simple dispute between two people that can be resolved by the two parties meeting with two elders and being able to come to some amiable agreement. THIS IS AN EVIL CRIME COMMITTED AGAINST A CHILD.  I am disputing this letter and the intro on the website because it is factually wrong. Let me repeat that: factually wrong. Factually wrong is very serious. How can we fight for a change of policy by mobilizing people to oppose something that is not happening? Especially when something much worse "is" happening. The Watchtower Society wants people to believe that child abuse is not a problem within their 'spiritual paradise'. They want people to be lullied to sleep believing that IF a case of child abuse ever happens within the Jehovah's Witness community it will be handled with love, compassion and with protection of the child as the main focus. We the abused want to shout from the mountain top, "IT HAPPENS" "WE WERE NOT TREATED WITH LOVE"  We need accuracy, accuracy and more accuracy. And that's especially true because we are dealing with an Empire that specializes in smoke and mirrors. So we need to pose the truth as an alternative for those who care, and from that we can build a mighty force for change. Because the people "need" to know the truth about this Empire and because people hate liars worse than murderers. And because people hate child abusers worse than liars. As a smoke screen the Watchtower Society tells the faithful at the congregation level, "It is all about Apostasy. All the news stories are lies propagated by disaffected ex- Jehovah's Witnesses and hard-line Apostates. Don't listen to them or else you will share in their sins."  Those leading the fight for the "it's-about-Apostasy" argument have relied on falsehood and sophistry. They present speculation as fact. They accept statements such as those made by the Watchtower public relations spokesmen, J.R. Brown and Mr. Gilles, as true, even though with a little research one can see that Brown and Gilles are con men, or worse.  The 'it's-about-Apostasy' spokespeople prove their case by repetition, presenting gobbledygook as credible argument. This has disastrous effects, especially on those most precious human beings, young people.  The very good and very large Silentlambs movement is under attack by the willingness of trusted leaders to argue for positions they know to be false. Will it succeed? If I know the guys providing the 'evidence' for the 'it's-about-Apostasy' argument are repeating lies - and I do know they are repeating lies - and I remain silent, aren't I a liar? I refuse to make that stupid mistake. (Although afterwards to absolve guilt, I could always say, "I didn't oppose the 'it's-about-Apostasy' argument because I didn't know.") Not!  It's-about-Apostasy isn't the only nonsense argument currently being promoted on 'our side' (i.e., the exposure of the 10 year affiliation of the WTS with the U.N.). There are other arguments supported by demagoguery and dubious documentation. They also produce harmful effects. But one thing at a time.  Right now, today, it is about child abuse among Jehovah's Witnesses. It is about hiding the ugly truth. It is about sanctioning all those who dare to defend the children and speak out in their defense.  To call those who expose the hidden truth about child abuse within the Jehovah's Witnesses 'spiritual paradise' apostates is a travesty of justice. To label the whistle blowers as apostates in an effort to keep the truth hidden exposes who truly is apostate.  Just a few thoughts ON TOPIC. I was stunned by MOLE's letter to his family. How touching, how sad. How can the WTS destroy entire families in the name of Jehovah!!!! I am very fortunate that all of my children have assured me that if I go down they will all go down with me. I spoke to a reporter with the St Petersburg Times today. She has several people she has interviewed about how the WTS disfellowships people and how it rips families apart. I gave her a copy of the August KM that deals hard-line with how relatives are to shun their own family members even to the point of perhaps refusing to eat with a disfellowshipped family member living in the same house. "Mom you eat in the kitchen. The rest of us will eat in the dining room." SICK HATEFUL CRUEL It so bizarre. I can't think about this any more. I have to get some sleep. Love Y'all, Loris

I like the website, but I'm wondering WHY THE FBI does not know of the "secret files" at WTBTS? This should be reported. Dateline investigated and they do a very thorough job. Send FBI a tape with the number of pedophiles...THEN... Let them know that 15,374,986 people were at our Memorial. That increases the POTENTIAL OF MORE PEDOPHILES considerably! To Laura Hubbard, or Torrence, Ca. the only recourse you have that will end your misery is to SUE THE SOCIETY. If you cannot afford it, either, A. start looking for class-action people who can go in together. B. Look for an Attorney who will take a BIG HUNK of your money...what do you care, if he gets the job done (that will motivate him and you will "get" the WTBTS the only place it hurts them...in the checkbook! DO IT.

To Jessica Toman, I did not get Bill's email...another press conf. YAHOOOOOOOO. If they will give up the fear and come forward, we have a chance. The lambs have been so mistreated and their families, they live in fear. Jehovah does not expect that...COME OUT AND TELL...TELL...TELL...TELL. It is the ONLY way we can clean up the Pedophiles and those who help them. Spokane

TRASHBAGS COVER WINDOWS @ Bill BOWEN'S JC'S MEETING EARLIER TONIGHT --- HOW STRANGE!!!
SLC --- From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Wed, 24 Jul 2002 22:23:17 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Elders Afraid-redone --- After my specific request in writing of not being able to attend unless my witnesses could appear, the judicial committee informed a reporter for the Paducah Sun they were going to convene a hearing anyway at 7 pm Wednesday evening. I decided to go down to the Kingdom Hall and make an appearance. I arrived at five after 7 pm. The Paducah Sun reporter was there, but I noted there was only one vehicle in the parking lot. Now as you may recall, to convict a child molester in the face of a denial there must be two eye-witnesses before a disfellowshipment can take place. Since I have flatly denied the charge of "causing divisions" I chose to wait for any witnesses to appear to testify against me. None showed up. After the reporter left the elders peeked out the window and saw me setting out side, then the strangest thing happened, they taped trash bags over the windows and it appears they locked the front door. I took a picture as elder Jeff Stein stepped outside to do so. (You have to lock the door from the outside)I waited for another thirty minutes and then all three came outside, Ron Cary, George Bandarra, and Jeff Stein. Jeff waved and they got in their SUV and drove off. George Bandarra informed the Paducah Sun reporter they were going to call me with their decision Thursday. I do not understand how they made a decision for the following reasons: 1. They produced no eye-witnesses in the face of my flat denial. 2. They ignored my request in writing for my right to produce eye-witnesses as to my innocence. (this is according to organizational protocol) 3. They did not invite me in to appear, but instead covered the windows and locked the door even though I was sitting in plain sight. 4. They refuse to acknowledge or answer any correspondence I send to them but act on their letters without any consideration for my defense. Included you will find a link to pictures of what is described above. IN this photo if you look closely you will see the windows are open on each side of the door and a reporter from the sun is inside talking to the elders.

http://community.webshots.com/photo/44722558/44722843MBprWy There you have it windows taped completely shut and door locked. I guess this will really help them to meditate on making a fair and impartial decision.

ERICA'S CONVICTED CHILD ABUSER GETS POETIC JUSTICE: <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=32768&page=1&site=3#434621> Posted by Sunsplot: Got this info from a reliable source this evening: Manuel Beliz, convicted in the Erica Rodriguez case, was sentenced to prison at the Walla Walla state penitentiary. Apparently, the prisoners were allowed to watch the airing of Dateline. Well, it seems that Mr. Beliz's fellow inmates didn't have a very good opinion of him after viewing the program. According to my source, he suffered a very severe beating following the airing. His family went to the penitentiary and requested a transfer for him. The request was denied. Thought some of you might be interested in that bit of information." --- How about that, gang? Evidently, "Brother" Sleeze-Beliz is not winning any popularity contests at the jail house. /SLC

BRO JOE ANDERSON INFO from J-W.com forum, posted by Littlebit. --- FYI/SLC. <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=32862&amp;site=3> --- Joe Anderson thought you'd like to know what caused him to be invited to attend a judicial hearing held in his honor. He said he received a phone call from Larry Seely, the presiding overseer of the Manchester, TN Congregation on July 19th. Another elder was listening to the conversation and identified himself. The reason for the judicial hearing, Larry said, was because Joe gave each elder a personal copy of his resignation letter. By sending the Watchtower Society the letter and then giving a copy to the elders was, in effect, "Undermining the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah's organization." Joe said he told Larry how foolish this whole charge was, that the elders always are read a letter of resignation, so what's the difference if they each received a copy? Larry couldn't answer this question and hardly tried, Joe said. Joe also told Larry that he abided by J. R. Brown's recent statement that the Society welcomed in-house discussion and what he did was definitely in-house. Joe asked Larry who put him up to convening a judicial hearing? He told me he knew that the local guys wouldn't do such a thing, Larry replied that it didn't matter. That was enough for Joe to know it was the Watchtower Society and he told Larry so. Joe also said that he told the two elders how sad this all was, this control of the Witnesses and the loss of freedom of speech. FYI, Joe sent a copy of his resignation letter to two Governing Body members, Dan Sydlik and Jack Barr, men who Joe and Barbara were quite friendly with. He thought that since so much time had passed since Barbara's appeal letter was given to the local elders and nothing was happening to Bill
Bowen or Barbara, that maybe these GB members were holding things up because of receiving his letter and giving more thought to the whole issue. When both Barbara and Bill received notice of judicial hearings last week, plus Joe was invited to a judicial hearing himself, he decided that there was no hope that things had changed, so he asked Bill Bowen to post his resignation letter on this forum. Joe spent nearly 50 years in a position of authority in the WT organization, also 25 years in full-time service, which includes 13 1/2 at Brooklyn Bethel. He knows most of the top administrative men at headquarters, many since 1956 when they were all young men working together in the Adams Street Watchtower Factory. Joe was invited back to Bethel in 1982 because of his extraordinary reputation as an older man and for his skills. As a skilled plumber and builder, he was given oversight of plumbing installation in most of the new high rise buildings that the Society built in Brooklyn during the 80s and early 90s. Joe loved working side by side with young JW men and women who he called the plumbing trade, along with giving them fatherly advice. He and Barbara assisted nearly 80 people to become JW's before they went to Bethel. Their son was in Bethel for 16 years arriving there in 1981. They were a happy family who enjoyed a high reputation. But, it's all gone now, he said. All the years of hard work spent in behalf of the 'theocracy.' All because of trying to help and protect "widows and orphans" [women and children] and begging for a change to policies that protect pedophiles and hurt children. By confronting these issues in a letter that disagreed with Watchtower policies sent to WT leaders, men who, by their actions, show they don't really give a fig for either women or children, Joe will probably be disfellowshipped. Joe said that he agrees with one British active JW, who recently wrote that "...sadly, it seems that the Watchtower Society is a only concerned with its image protection policies." Joe hopes that someday as their life force ebbs, each man at Watchtower will realize how empty his life came to be because he lived only to protect a corporation's image. There can be no self-respect for such a life, only loathing. Joe and Barbara believe that there is no love of God in a religion and in its members if they do not practice love of neighbor, in many of its definable aspects or facets, as Jesus commanded. Joe and Barbara send their regards to you all and thank you for your support and loving words. Littlebit WASN'T THIS BRILLIANT SCRIPTURAL REASONING in Joe Anderson's original letter? /SLC. --- "If Barbara [Anderson] was disfellowshipped because of causing divisions, the Apostle Paul should have been disfellowshipped for causing divisions among the flock because he publicized sensational sexual immorality in the Corinthian congregation. Not only did he discuss with the Corinthian Congregation how he felt about the congregation hiding fornication in their midst, he recorded his accusations for millions of people to read in the Bible during the past 2,000 years. Why is it okay for Paul to have gone public revealing disgraceful conduct that was being condoned in the congregation, but when my wife goes public about the [WTBTS] organization condoning and protecting immoral people by bad policies, she is punished?"

Relatives Mourn Texas Crash Deaths --- .c The Associated Press --- SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) - The 62-year-old woman killed with five relatives in a Texas traffic wreck was a generous woman who often gave food from her freezer to people in need, a niece said. --- Even when her own house burned down, Ira J. Salone remained concerned about other people, said Vonetta Salone, 26. "I never saw her break down," Salone said. --- Ira Salone, who had custody of her great-grandchildren - 3-year-old triplets, a 10-year-old and a 14-year-old - died with four of them and the children's grandmother. The children's mother lives in California, Salone said. --- The family was driving home Sunday after visiting one of Ira Salone's sisters in the Dallas area when a Ford Explorer slammed head-on into their minivan on Interstate 20, about 60 miles west of Shreveport. --- The crash killed the other driver and everyone in the minivan except one of the triplets. Tatyana Jackson was in critical condition with head and chest injuries, said family members and the Texas Department of Public Safety. --- Tevin and Tyler Jackson, also 3, their sisters, Shanae Jackson, 10, and Marisha Jackson, 14, and their grandmother, Belinda L. Jackson, 48, were killed, as was Kyong Leingang, 54, of Addison, a Dallas suburb. --- A son told investigators Leingang was returning from a gambling trip to Shreveport's casino riverboats, state Trooper Carl Davis said. --- He said witnesses believed Leingang was driving more than 90 mph. The legal limit is 70 mph. Leingang had a clean driving record, and relatives said they did not know of any medical problems, Davis said. --- State investigators planned to diagram the scene and compute speeds Thursday, he said. --- Vonetta Salone described her aunt as a Jehovah's Witness who shared but didn't force her beliefs on others, and who cared for the youngsters full-time. --- She said Ira Salone would line the triplets up on stools and feed them assembly-line style. --- "She was really good with them," Salone said. "She seemed like she enjoyed it."

Hi again, "Brother Sleeze Beliz" the creep who abused Erica is receiving the consequences of his lifestyle... Other criminals absolutely hate Pedophiles and when put in the general prison population the pedophile does not always last very long ... My X used to worry if and when put in jail he would not live very long and he would be killed by other prisoners. That is one reason why he threatened everyone so they would not talk...My thought is their is only one type of prisoner that other prisoners hate and do not identify with and that is pedophiles... He (my X when I was with him)gave me an example of this black doctor who examined his daughter and accused him of sexually abusing her. He said to me "Do you know where she the doctor is now?" ...Pause... I didn't answer him. Then he said "She is dead." The message to us if we talked he would kill us. As he told me before he can't go to Jail because they (other prisoners)would kill him...The way I look at it is that would be the consequences of his lifestyle choose but it doesn't change the facts that he doesn't want me or my kids to talk. For the past 6 years he has tampered with my car... then last summer he went to the elders and gave them a big long...long confession and even his daughter came up after from NFLD. The elders gave me a letter saying I am scripturally free...Then my X he marries this woman "Debbie" from Nevada... He was never publicly reproved so everyone thinks and comments to me or my parents that I am the wrong doer...When I ask the elders about this they refuse to basically do anything that would clear my name... He is a sex offender and sex offenders can do anything in the organization. This example proves this... How can Jehovah be with this organization right now with all the injustices going on?... I am so glad to see that the governing body and their policies on child abuse are being exposed. NO MATTER HOW MANY TIMES THEY SAY THEY ARE BIBLE BASED IT JUST DOESN'T MAKE THEM BIBLE BASED ... Just taking one or two scriptures out of context with their application does not make it from the bible. All the scriptures and context of the bible must be considered if these scriptures are to be applied correctly. THE GB DID NOT DO THIS, THE GB APPLICATION OF THEIR ONE OR TWO SCRIPTURES PROMOTES ABUSE OF CHILDREN AND THE CONTINUATION OF PEDOPHILES IN THE CONGREGATION ... THIS IS APOSTATE TEACHING...IN THE HIGHEST DEGREE AND THEY ARE ARROGANTLY REFUSING TO SEE THE ERROR OF THEIR WAYS...NOW IT IS BEING EXPOSED FOR ALL THE WORLD TO SEE...The scriptures say "what is secret will not remain hid." Their secrets are out...DJB

Hi my name is Raquel and I live in Boston Massachusetts. I recently got baptized in May 25,2002. This was my dream come true, because i definitely want to serve God as the only true God. As I've seen all of the comments I well, I don't know what they are going through but personally I count in Jehovah always. I trust him with all of my heart. According to Psalms 3:5. I trust in Jehovah, I stand tall with a firm conviction. Many people laugh in the name of Jehovah, and all I do is have patients Jehovah. Jehovah is patient, but there is a day in which his patience will run out. I have that faith and hope that all these scandals will be over. We are living in the last days, and the ones that are laughing now won't be laughing when Jehovah's's day arrive, with the help of his son Jesus Christ, and angels. Satan the devil is attacking so many people so that they won't get saved. Anyhow Jehovah's is Love and he wouldn't want to harm nobody. I have faith in god and i believe that he does heal in a matter of time because he has helped me. I go to him always and all those times he has helped me. I thank you Jehovah. I am a 17 yr. old witness of his message and i will certainly defend his words. Those that laugh and take this as a joke, you don't know who you are messing with. well i hope for all the one's that are having problems I hope that you can resolve it with someone and with god. Have faith and have that trust with and in him. trust me it works!!! God loves you and he wants the best for everybody!!!

It is insanity for the WTS/Elders/congregations to support and encourage a woman to stay with her "husband the pedophile" while encouraging other families to shun disfellowshipped family members!!!!! It is crazy-making to the highest degree.  It is crazy and dangerous, it is absolutely wicked. It is so twisted backwards I want to scream.  This is not Jehovah's "order" or orderliness.  So, if a wife has a pedophile for a husband, she has to be a better wife. If another wife whose husband smokes or just says NO TO THE WTS, she and her kids can treat him with disrespect...mmmmm...SUBMIT TO THE PEDOPHILE in one case AND disrespect the man who is a good husband, but not a "good" JW in the other case.  Bill Bowen gets no witnesses while the pedophile has to have two.  How does anyone see this as just imperfect rather than the wickedness it really is?  Bill Bowen had the character to stand up and say NO, and how many men went with him? A handful? How many who have not been personally effected, have said no more? Few.  Very good scripture Cheerleader - Isaiah 10:2 finishes with...for the widows to become their spoil, and that they may plunder even the fatherless boys.  I would not want to be part of this wickedness when Jesus and His mighty Angels come. The Golden Calf - is the WTS being worshipped as if it had some real power to save when in fact is shows itself to be destructive to the most innocent, defenseless - the widows and the fatherless boys.  WHAT KIND OF SPIRIT DOES IT TAKE TO WRITE AN ARTICLE IN THE KM TO ENCOURAGE SHUNNING IN THE HOME? Is that a loving, peaceful, merciful, joyful, spirit? or a hateful spirit - can you imagine Jesus doing such a thing? Can you imagine Jesus treating Bill or Loris or the Andersens with such contempt because they want "widows and fatherless boys" cared for and protected?  I do not want to be near the JW's when Jesus comes!!! Feeding on their food is dangerous.  Anyone who sits in a KH and listens and feeds on this does it by choice. Jehovah does not force us to say yes or no, to do right or wrong - He presents the truth and we make the choice as to what we want to do with it. The truth is children have the right to be protected, and that the Malawi's had the right to be protected and were not.  on my soap box again! C.E.

Raquel, That is wonderful that you are full of conviction. Just remember to keep your trust in Jehovah and not the elders. My husband is from the Methuen Congregation in Massachusetts and the wrong doing that is allowed I could write a novel about, they have a firm clique there and nitpick the ones that are trying but turning a blind eye to fraud, brothers filing bankruptcy right and left on rental properties just untold corruption. Keep your faith in Jehovah and not man Been there done that and never going back Sheila Madonia

I would like to congratulate you for your ability to speak the truth about child abuse. I have an Aunt who is a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses(convert) and she has two daughters who have both been victims of molestation by her second husband. One of her daughter's is her husband's own biological child. My aunt refuses to acknowledge fully the abuse...and remains married to this man because she says she cannot divorce him because of her faith. Her husband is not a baptized Witness...but has studied. My Aunt makes the majority of her decisions about her life based on what "Brother so and so" says is appropriate including her marriage. As a result of the sexual abuse...my Aunt's youngest children were taken by SRS. A non-Witness baby sitter reported that my Aunt's 3 year old had blood on her underwear. SRS refused to return custody of the children until her husband had vacated the premises. He is currently in jail serving time for rape and other crimes. But my Aunt still remains his legal wife. She said that the elders of her congregation said that she can only divorce on the grounds of adultery and that "even if" she feels he's been unfaithful..."she must" have physical proof or the "two witnesses" rule I guess. When her husband was taken to court to answer for the rape of his own daughter...my Aunt was called to testify by the District Attorney...she consulted with the elders first and informed me that she would refuse to testify "if" the elders said no. I was awestruck by this. How could a mother hesitate to protect her own children!!!! I studied with my Aunt for a year and a half with the Live For Ever in Paradise book. I never felt comfortable with the concept of being submissive or with the idea of turning my back on people who had treated me with kindness just because they are considered "worldly". I thought Jesus walked amongst and talked with everyone...including the wicked. When I refused to be baptized in the "truth" my Aunt didn't speak to me for almost two years. I'm a person who has never harmed a child, I don't smoke, I don't use illegal drugs, I don't have illicit sex, I don't use profanity and I've never committed any crimes...unlike my Aunt's husband...and I'm the one she doesn't associate with because I'm not in the "TRUTH." May you stay strong in your "TRUTH" to protect children from abuse!!! -Ranita Wilks ILS/Peer Counseling Specialist Lawrence, Kansas.

Ranita: The wicked are the Elders and your aunt - that is wicked. A baby raped is wicked, no one coming to the aid of the child is wicked, a woman staying married to a "thing" that would do this to a baby let alone one of her own is wicked. Jesus doesn't walk with these kinds of wicked people - worldly people are not wicked per se. But JW's think they are special and that Jehovah loves them and no one else. Can you imagine what Jesus thinks and feels about what happen to that baby? If we as humans feel so much grief, can you imagine how much grief Jesus must feel?  Thank you for taking the time to write your post. It means a lot to all of us. Have you emailed Bill Bowen? I will copy your letter and email it if you don't mind.  you are correct that this sick "love" is wrong and harmful, backwards and makes no sense. To be submissive to wickedness is exactly what the adversary wants - Jesus does not want that. He wants us to be submissive to what is right and good - just like you are already.  Aren't you happy you had enough sense to see the hypocrisy and you are submissive to what is right and good? Jehovah hates hypocrisy - and there is always the element of deception in hypocrisy. God hates a liar, Satan is the father of the lie- and you and me hate deception, hate lies and hypocrisy because our father is Jehovah. Amen, Soap Box aka Claudine Raping a baby is not considered enough grounds for divorce...but "adultery" is? The Elders need to go to jail and are as sick as the thing that did this to the baby and the mother is as sick as the thing that did this to her baby...I am extremely upset by this story. Extremely. And you could not pay me to associate with a JW, go to a KH or read anything they print...This is not God's organization. I don't like Hilary Clinton but she said that it takes a community to raise a child - and WTS slogan should be it takes a community to RAPE AND RUIN a child- it took a teenage babysitter to call the authorities because the "Christians" are too busy being submissive to their god to bother themselves with a baby. Even animals have the instinct to protect. These people are less than animals - with their two witnesses. They are not welcomed at my door anymore. I am so upset, angry...you know low life doesn't get any lower than this...it just doesn't. I am so ashamed that I was ever associated with them - yuck. Bill as always thank you for silentlamb - it is amazing how many there are. I really appreciate how noble you are and I know that not many are like you. >>> Claudine <<<

A few years back when I was still a JW an elder Wally Drurry gave a talk about child molestation in Fairview Congregation and warned us that there is a sexual predator among us. He scared us all and played havoc on us that had children because he did not reveal who the molester was. I worried a lot about my 4 children and eventually asked him who that molester is. He would not say. The elders are guilty and must be sued as well. My children enjoyed having friends over night and staying with others overnight in their homes. And inadvertently sometimes in the house of that molester as I found out later . RMNK

After reading the email regarding this = I'd be grateful if you can put us in touch with any support groups in Australia or individuals who may not be abuse victims themselves but have a grasp of the problem here. I thought that if all of us could go into websites, post this in them, go into Christian chat rooms let them know what's going on, it may help. It's really all I can think of that I can do to assist! I went in a Christian chat room this morning, one based in Australia; they were very nice and perceptive! They welcomed me and said bravo for the stand that Mr. Bowen and Mrs. Anderson took. One person told me not to gossip and I told them "I am not gossiping, this is a call to stop child abuse!" They immediately said they were sorry and said that I was right! This may not bear fruit, BUT IT MIGHT HELP! When I get home I'm going to find as many message boards as I can, as many chat rooms as I can and I am going to do what I can to get this public at least over the internet! If all of us did this no telling how far we can go! This might have been suggested before, sorry if I didn't see it, I JUST HAVE TO DO SOMETHING! If anyone thinks this is a bad idea please let me know, I don't want to hinder this battle in anyway! bonnielynn

Hi this is in fact the first time i ever heard of this website. i discovered it while i was on the web. there are some things that i liked and some things that i thought was disturbing based on my knowledge about Jehovah's. i recently got baptized in the circuit convention this past may 25, 2002. that was the happiest day of my life. what really shocked me was when my cousin called me and informed me that there was elders sexually abusing girls. i never thought that Jehovah's servants would actually do such things. anyhow that in fact gave more faith in Jehovah's because he is now illuminating his light to the world and proving that not everybody will be saved and not everybody will be with Jehovah's, instead they lie with Satan's the devil. although i feel that people that are studying with the Jehovah's witnesses could weaken their faith with Jehovah's, but at the same time it is not Jehovah's's fault that all these event are taken place. as we know the governor of this world is Satan's the devil, and he is trying to trap as many people he could so that they won't be on Jehovah's's side. anyhow i sure know that Satan's will not win this battle. Jehovah's god will win this battle definitely. i have high hopes for that. i am glad that discovering this event with such elders has strengthen my faith, now i have more reason to want to get to know Jehovah's and want to teach others about the truth. not everybody is perfect, but if we want to please god and be saved we have to make an effort to do things right for oneself and for god. we live for him. and to survive in this world. these men that are so called molesting these girls will get their punishment, either with the police or Jehovah's. but everybody has a choice in life and they are entitled to do what fits best. as for the victims they should go to the authorities because it is against the law for men or women to do such things to minors. for those that do know god set forth these authorities and we need to obey the laws. so personally we have to follow the rules. the victims that are in a stage of fright and there no doubt that they are going to stay shut instead speak up. meanwhile this is not Jehovah's's fault so don't turn against him instead trust in him with all of your heart. he is here for us . if you want to believe it or not. i don't want ever want to be against the only true creator Jehovah's. god forbid. he is my friend and i will defend his name any time, place day, and hour. remember JEHOVAH'S LOVES EACH AND EVERYONE OF YOU'S, DON'T BE AGAINST HIM INSTEAD BE HIS FRIEND AND LOVE HIM...  BOSTON, RAQCKY(17) JULY 26, 2002

What the heck is going on here? Why are there so many questions that child molesters should be turned in to the police? Once a person has suspected that a child is molested, why is there a QUESTION, in God's green earth, that he/she should be turned in to the police? I cannot UNDERSTAND this. Whether you are prompted by the law, or not, you should, by your own Christian conduct turn a suspected child molester in to the police. What is the problem with that?

It's nice that you are all happy on your throne of judgment... but what about all who have professed here? What of all the silent lambs? Do you think Jehovah would want for them to always be quiet and accept what happens to them? No.. he wouldn't. You know why? Because Jehovah is just the example we look to. Do you think, as a loving God, he would want us to just wait when we have the opportunity of Caesar's laws to protect us? No. Do you think that he would want for children to suffer needlessly? No, not as a loving God he wouldn't. He wants us to use our God given knowledge to protect ourselves and our children. He wants us to be just like him: just. So that is what is happening now.

Dear Bill, I'm grateful for what you've done on behalf of those suffering for Watch Tower policy on dealing with pedophiles. I too tried to help other victims of other wrong policies within the organization and for this reason I'm going to be removed as an elder. Berto from Italy oregon-2002@libero.it

There's more than one way to 'skin a cat'! Another way to get the response needed here is to have a public outcry in the greatest proportions! I know that this is a “battle” to fight for the lambs, another way though to make this public is to make sure the public is aware that this policy will also have detrimental affects on them. If the average non-JW is faced with the possibility that the org's policies could hurt them and theirs you will have the outcry needed to help the lambs. To do this is to stress that the policy allows for these child monsters into the average home! Door-to-Door ministry, allowing a known offender to continue with this “non-responsible” position is putting the public in harms way. Could it not have positive affects if this is made known to the general public? Would this not hinder door-to-door success, thereby causing the ‘discreet slaves’ to question just “What is going on”? I think so. If it is made known to the public that when they open the door to a witness they may be opening the door to a pervert, sent with blessings from their congregation they would CRY OUT LOUDLY! Who cares if they are with another witness? At this point I would have to ask a witness who approached me, "Which one of you are the perv?" I sincerely feel that I am not alone in this, BUT in order for other people to know this it has to brought to their attention. Most people will read in the paper, Oh, another child molested, or oh, look the jws are having some problems. BUT if they read in the papers, PERV JWS KNOCKING ON YOUR DOOR?, or, JWS ALLOW KNOWN MOLESTERS TO MINISTER TO YOU! That would get some much-needed attention. Then all the innocent unknowing jws will wonder why their ministry is down, why the hours that they used to put in with bible studies is getting lower and lower! That would get their attention, which would make them ask questions to their elders, which in turn would make the wrong policies 'New Light' for the discreet slaves. I was in a JW chat room and no one had heard of the march in September! Not one single person (JW) was aware of what was happening! LOL they kicked me out for not answering a question that I wasn't even sure was directed at me! But I was able to let them know that there is a march against the org in September! That cannot hurt! I bet if they had to report all time lows with 'time served' they would take a second look. MAKE THE PUBLIC AWARE WORLD WIDE THAT THEY ARE OPENING THE DOORS AND LETTING POTENTIAL DANGER INTO THEIR HOMES! Then the lamb fight will be just a little easier. What do you all think?

This is all about an organization that is most concerned about appearing like "The only true religion". This is only the tip of the iceberg. They have made themselves look foolish over the years by predicting the end of the system. They can't back up their bible translation with qualified people. Their Good News is not Christ died for our sins. The Watchtowers good news is the world is so bad. It is a different gospel that replaces salvation through Christ with jumping on board ship with the Watchtower organization. So the Organization must appear Christ like. The problem is it is not. That is why I feel they must cover up. It's bad for their image. It's bad for the religion business.

Hi Rachel, My name is Mike and I too am from Boston. I've been a witness for 25 years. Your comments lead me to believe that you never suffered from the hands of an abuser. My wife was repeatedly raped by her father who is in good standing. The rapes occurred when she was 10 years old till she was 16. She was told by the elders to wait on Jehovah and not go to the authorities. This man continued to rape her for 2 more years after the elders were told. He could have been sitting right next to you at the meeting but you wouldn't have known it. So you tell me, Do you blame the elders for what happened or do you blame Jehovah for waiting so long before he used the good elders to expose this problem? It has been suggested that this problem has been allowed to exist in the congregation so that Jehovah can clean out his organization. That is sick thinking!! Anyone who has been raped and went to the elders for help, deserves to get help. A crime was committed and reported to the elders but the elders just filed it away. Don't you think that in order to keep the congregation clean, the elders should have gotten rid of the criminal!!!!!

The former Jehovah’s Witness elder said he will appeal the decision, but he expects his appeal to be denied. By C.D. Bradley cdbradley@paducahsun.com—270.575.8650. Bowen (pic) DRAFFENVILLE, Ky.—Former Jehovah’s Witness elder Bill Bowen, who resigned the leadership position in December 2000 to protest the church’s handling of child molestation cases, was disfellowshipped after a brief hearing Wednesday night, he said Thursday. Bowen said Jeff Steen of Murray, one of three elders on the committee, called him Thursday morning, but Bowen told the elders to communicate with his attorney, Rush Hunt of Madisonville, and hung up. Bowen said Steen then called Hunt and said Bowen had been disfellowshipped but provided no other information. Neither Steen, nor the other elders on the panel — George Bandarra of Murray and Ron Carey of Central City — returned phone messages Thursday. Bowen has said the church protects pedophiles by not reporting accusations to police and encouraging victims not to go to authorities to discuss the matter with anyone in the congregation. The church has denied any wrongdoing and claims it follows the law. Bowen said he plans to appeal the decision, made at a hearing that Bowen had asked be rescheduled and was held without him. Bowen said he was across the street from the Kingdom Hall and the elders locked the door and blocked the windows. He added that the three elders appeared to be the only people present. “The thing they have nailed to the wall is that they require two eyewitnesses before a child molester may be convicted” in the church, Bowen said. “I have flatly denied these charges against me, and they brought no witnesses against me. It’s a vast inconsistency in the organization. If I was a child molester, they wouldn’t have had a hearing. Because I’m a person who spoke out to protect children, they disfellowship me in 30 minutes.” Bowen said he received the return receipt from a letter Hunt mailed asking that the meeting be rescheduled so that his witnesses, coming from all over the country, could attend. “They’ve stepped over about all their protocols, so I think they’ll ignore my request for an appeal,” Bowen said. Bowen said being disfellowshipped — which requires Witnesses, including family members, to shun him — is the religion’s equivalent of death. “From my standpoint, the real crime is not disfellowshipping me,” Bowen said. “The real crime is, now they’re going to silence anyone in the organization who needs help or support. They will face disfellowshipping for logging onto the Web site.” Bowen, who started a support group for Witness abuse victims at www.silentlambs.org, said visitors to the site are split about evenly between current and former Witnesses. Bowen becomes the fourth Witness disfellowshipped this year for speaking out on the issue, following Barbara Anderson, of Normandy, Tenn., and Carl and Barbara Pandello, of Belmar, N.J.
DRAFFENVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A lifelong Jehovah's Witness said he was expelled from the tight-knit religious group after publicly criticizing the church's handling of allegations of child sex abuse. William Bowen, a former church elder, said he was excommunicated -- or disfellowshipped, as the denomination calls it -- after a brief hearing Wednesday. A judicial committee member contacted Bowen's lawyer on Thursday to relay the judgment but provided no further information, Bowen said. Committee members did not return calls seeking comment. Bowen complains that child-sex allegations are generally not reported to secular authorities by the Jehovah's Witnesses because of the church's closed nature and its insistence on handling problems internally. Bowen said he plans to appeal the decision, which was made at a closed hearing where he was not present. "From my standpoint, the real crime is not disfellowshipping me," Bowen said. "The real crime is, now they're going to silence anyone in the organization who needs help or support." Being disfellowshipped requires members to shun the person who has been expelled. Bowen is the fourth Jehovah's Witness disfellowshipped this year for speaking out on the issue. http://www.nytimes.com/aponline/national/AP-Jehovahs-Witnesses.html On the Net: Abuse victims:

Hi Bonnielynn! Thanks for the greeting. Glad to see you've been holding down the fort! Lots of new visitors it looks like. And I say "Go For It" as far as posting in every chat room and forum you can find. It's not only an educational work, but also a plea for justice, and a public service announcement, too! One lady made up index cards saying www.silentlams.org and the words "STOP CHILD ABUSE", and then went to the District Convention in her town and dropped the index cards into the money boxes, and bathrooms, and anywhere she could think of! --- I forget, did your post say Australia? You could also post those two emails from SilentLambs about those two reporters looking for abuse survivors in Australia (see previous Guestbook posts in July). And for anyone else visiting/reading, on the HOME PAGE under "How can I help?" or "Assistance" (I forget which) is a list of how people can help, possibly taking out a little Pennysaver ad with a short message like the above index card. There are also bulletin boards for most City websites around the country, etc. Keep up the good work!!! --- Claudine! You expressed it perfectly re: that post about the 3 year old being raped by the perv married to the JW lady. That woman has BIG PROBLEMS. That story right there just made my adrenaline shoot right back to the sky! The fact that the woman is so BRAINWASHED she would even THINK to NOT testify against her pervert husband ON BEHALF OF HER CHILD, nor to get her kids AWAY from the perv, etc. SICKENING! Arrggghhhhh! That example is ENOUGH to keep the lambs ROARING. That woman should be put in jail herself for NEGLECT and CHILD ENDANGERMENT! --- Hi Linda! Yes, good idea to put any posts you read and/or write which you like in an email or document and save. I think the former Guestbook page got TOO BIG. I'm not sure if that is what caused the problem or not, but maybe. Parts of July 9th, then all of July 10-19th, and parts of July 20th were wiped out. It was soooo sad as that was the time period right before and after PANORAMA show. Bummer! I only had like a few posts from two different days that I was able to repost, ones I was going to reply to or whatever. And your Drumroll Please! comment cracked me up! --- Loris! How's it going? Great post you wrote the other day! And Thanks again for the BOE letter in text! Still working on it! --- Penny! Are you still out there? How are you? --- Jesika! Congrats on going to college! --- Mr. MOLE! Thanks for your family story! :-< (But Glad to hear from you!!! --- Mike! Thanks for that earlier post EXPLAINING what kinds of things REALLY HAPPEN! --- DJB! Glad to read your post! --- Jazzbug, thanks for that UPDATE on Andrew Vacchs!!! I love that guy! --- Welcome to "From The Battlefield" and "Anointed One" and "Spokane," as I don't recall seeing those names before. --- Spokane mentioned a press conference? I guess we will hear about it soon enough! --- Greetings to Italian Momma! - -- Also, brave to the Italian (I think) brother who wrote that he was speaking up on behalf of these issues and is now in trouble with the ORG. --- That Paul Berry - what a despicable human being!!! --- To Social Club: Thanks for your comments! Who are these elders telling you these things? Are they "in" or "out"? --- Greetings to Sheila and RMNK also!!! --- Also Veggie Man, I loved your story! I need to go visit your site and see whaaas up! --- Later/SLC

BOWEN DF'D IN ABSENTIA! I'm sure everyone received the newspaper articles and emails by now that the judicial committee met anyway on Wed. night (having ignored B.Bowen's request to reschedule it on a weekend so HIS witnesses would have time to appear on his behalf; the JC never replying to it at all) and DF'd Bro Bowen without him even being present and without them presenting two witnesses to Bowen's "spiritual crimes." That is SOME JUSTICE! (I'm sure when Bro Bowen was baptized years ago, they had not yet perverted the baptismal vows with the LEGALISTIC-CATCH-ALL-SCAPE-GOAT-PHRASE & INCLUSION in 1985 of "baptism in the name of the Father, the Son and Jehovah's Spirit-Directed Organization." So what is his spiritual crime? Speaking up and against the WTS Pedophile Policy? Woe to those who are saying bad is good and good is bad! --- From all the survivors and advocates on the side of the Lambs, we hope Bro Bowen & Family are doing OK! -- /SLC

LETTER WRITING CAMPAIGN: Some of the folks at Jehovahs-Witnesses.com are organizing letter writing campaigns. I posted the links a little further up. Go check them out, Visitors TOO! Everyone can write & say something, to your Letters to the Editor of your local paper, to national news & TV websites, to radio personalities, and last but not least, the GB of the WTBTS themselves! Their names and addresses will be posted on Monday at those links above. Also, someone posted a list of about 10-15 EMAIL ADDY'S for the WTBTS! You can send EMAIL and someone at Bethel WILL read them! --- And, as mentioned above/prior post, there is a great list of WT quotes re: the Catholic Church that is such a blatant GLARING condemnation of the WTS themselves! REAL REASON WHY ELDERS WON'T REPORT [CHILD ABUSE & OTHER CRIMES] --- A FORUM POST BY "AMAZING":

What has been said up to now about the JW Elders taking direction from the Governing Body to not be the worlds police and also protecting the image of the organization is all true, but only part of the root cause of the problem ... until the root cause is cured, child molesters and other criminals among Jehovah's Witnesses will go unreported ... and this will lead to their demise as an organization. --- The root cause of the problem is this: JWs, and no less the Elders, believe that they are: Jehovah's Organization Jehovah's Covenant People Jehovah's Servants Jehovah's Congregation Jehovah's Nation Jehovah's Channel of Communication Jehovah's Source of Truth Jehovah's Agency -- And, they have Jehovah's Spirit, Direction, Guidance, Approval, Blessing, Love, and ... THE ONLY CURE FOR ALL THE ILLS OF ALL HUMANITY !!! --- Just where else could a JW Pedophile ever get True Help, Jehovah's Spirit, and have any hope of being CURED? ... and what will truly help a JW Pedophile in these last days, more than anything the WORLD under Satan's Direction could do? When I tried to first report a JW pedophile, this is what I was told, that by reporting it would not help the JW Pedophile, but isolate him from the only source of real help ... and then added that we are not the world's police, etc. and the CO said not to report. --- The All-Important Cure for JW Pedophiles to get Jehovah's Spirit is to: --- Attend Meetings, Assemblies, and Conventions regularly Study the publications of the FDS (GB) Associate with Jehovah's People Prepare for the Meetings, especially the Watchtower Study Comment at Meetings Share in Preaching the Good News of Jehovah's Kingdom Pray to Jehovah the True
God for His Spirit and Help --- If the Society, through its Elders were to really take the time and energy to report JW Pedophiles to the Worldly Authorities, this would be a MOST SERIOUS ADMISSION ... that is: --- It would be an admission that Jehovah and His organization and Jehovah's Spirit were all inadequate to really help a JW Pedophile. And, while having an effect on their IMAGE ... It would have a FAR GREATER AFFECT ON THEIR CORE BELIEFS ABOUT THEIR ROLE IN HUMAN AFFAIRS AND THEIR STANDING BEFORE THEIR GOD JEHOVAH'S ... it would also be an Admission that in order to get real help, the WORLD, whom they view as directly under Satan's control is BETTER EQUIPPED to deal with Pedophiles, and has a better understanding of the problem. When a person or their group CORE BELIEFS are seriously attacked, they tend to circle the wagons of denial and fight rather then admit they are in error and accept defeat. --- This is the reason that the WTS, its GB, and Elders, and JW members cannot report JW Pedophiles to the authorities, because the ultimate risk to their beliefs is at stake... and with that may also be the fear of civil lawsuits, which if successful, could bring financial ruin to Jehovah's Organization. While the leadership may be more concerned with the money, however, the average JW and local Elders would see this as Jehovah's punishment and maybe withdrawal of his support for their Organization, or possibly they would go deeper into denial and see this as Satan persecuting them. --- Either way, they lose ... and the only thing that will get them out of this rut will be to either wise up and see the Organization and its core beliefs as the problem, or for the Organization to lead them to a better, more moderate place in their spiritual journey.

Did God approve of the kidnapping and raping of girls, the heartless separating of families, and the cruel beatings that were part and parcel of the slave trade of McCaine's day? And what of the millions who are forced to live and work as slaves under brutal conditions today? Does God condone such inhumane treatment? The Bible tells us that the Egyptians "kept making their life bitter with hard slavery at clay mortar and bricks and with every form of slavery in the field, yes, every form of slavery of theirs in which they used them as slaves under tyranny." THEN WHO MUST BE THE EGYPTIANS TODAY? THE ONES WHO HIDE THE ABUSERS, WHO MAKE SLAVES OF THEIR CONGREGATION? "God heard their groaning and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob." Furthermore, Jehovah told his people: "I shall certainly bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians and deliver you from their slavery YEAH!!! Clearly, Jehovah did not approve of 'man dominating man' through abusive slavery THEN WHY DO THE JWS DO IT? The Bible gives no indication that the enslavement of humans by other humans was part of God's original purpose for mankind. Furthermore, no Bible prophecies allude to humans owning fellow humans through slavery in God's new world AGAIN, WHY DO THE JWS DO IT NOW? Clearly, the Bible does not condone the ill-treatment of others in any form. On the contrary, it encourages respect and equality among men. (Acts 10:34, 35) It exhorts humans to treat others the way that they would like to be treated. (Luke 6:31) SO WHERE IS THE RESPECT, THE EQUALITY WITHIN THE ORG? Some people talk the talk but don't walk the walk! Shame Shame Shame!!

Hi Xxx: You said:...you couldn't pay me enough money to stay in the Wt organization. It would be torture to the tenth degree! LOL ...My response: ...I'm responding because you struck a powerful chord with me. First of all, let me say I agree. This is the way I feel about the WTS and all of their lies and cut-throat tactics. Actually what you have said has been on my mind for my years now. I've wondered, why, oh why would anybody WANT to stay in, after learning about the real WTS. To me, it would be real "torture to the tenth degree", just as you've said. But indulge me for one moment. For I think this thing really goes deeper, much deeper, as to why, so many stay in. You see, when pondering your thought above, I began to think of all of the Circuit Overseers, Districts Overseers, Missionaries in foreign lands - trapped in the WTS organization. I thought of all of Bethel Branch personnel and other Bethellites of high standing, trapped. As you know, many WTS "high officials" are actually secret-supporters of what Bill Bowen stands for. They know the WTS policies on child abuse as well as many other things, are flat wrong and harm many innocent ones. These brothers know this. They also know many other things, such bible dogma like 1914, is completely wrong too. (As I recall, these "high officials" were the real creators of "AJWR" and "H2O" discussion boards 6-7 years ago. They used to meet in the "chatrooms" at H2O and discuss reform "strategy" for the organization years ago.) And I'm told that many are still staunch reformers and want to see change in the organization. I know this might sound baffling, but this true. "So what's the problem", many may wonder. Actually, when you think about it, we see the WTS has a powerful tool, holding these people back -- FINANCES! Money. These pitiful people are monetarily completely dependent upon the WTS for their every need. Virtually, they are "owned" lock, stock & barrel by the WTS/G.B. They all are. We must ask ourselves in the wake of all of things we see going on within the walls of "Borg", what are these people thinking? What are they to do? How are these "high officials" of the WTS, in whom almost all of them aged and yet are married and have a wife to care for, and are COMPLETELY DEPENDENT upon the WTS for financial resources, if they get d'fd/da, how are they going to make a living and provide for themselves? That's after giving over 40 years of your life to a worthless entity as the WTS is. We remember, many of these men are up in age, and have paid nothing into Social Security. And like a puff of smoke, 40 years down-the-drain to the WTS empire. They are left with nothing! They are completely helpless in this cold, cold world. No doubt, many of these high officials who want change, but have lost faith in Jehovah completely to remedy the situation. So, if they leave the organization, they don't feel they will get help "from on high", if you know what I mean. After all, the WTS doesn't have God, do they? That's the whole point of leaving in the first place. So it must real, reeeeeeaaaaaalllll torture to them, to feel like, they have to stay in, even they we know, they really HATE what they see happening to Bill Bowen and the "silentlambs" movement. And many many other things too, they hate. But they have to endure it. Whereas you and I, if we hate something, we don't have to take it, do we? No but we can simply decide to leave. And go about making our personal "recovery" and whatever that entails. We are still relatively young, most of us have gained a "trade" or professional skill that pays well, in our modern day society, if you are over 25 years or so. That should be the case. And if we are even younger than that, we can go back to school learn something. We'd be stupid not to do so. We are still relatively young. We can recover. But what do these pitiful Circuit/ District Overseers, lamentable Bethellites and Missionaries who have given all of their lives to this "preaching" work of falsehood, what do they have? Even now, they are talking about getting rid of over 1,000 of them in Brooklyn real soon. That's 1,000, overnight. And when the announcement was made, we noticed nobody volunteered to go home. Hardly no volunteered because they know what it means for them, financially. Total disaster. So the WTS is going to have to "throw" some of them out, 1,000 of them. "Kick them to the curb" out in the cold, cold world. So imagine what it would be like, it they were d'fd/da to go with that. Nobody in the world knows you. Your spiritual brothers would not help. In some cases, family can't help because if they are of the world, you've already ostracized them totally. And if they are JWs, they will shun you complete and let you die on the streets. So, you are on your own, in the cold, cold world with no help in sight. These "high officials" must reason, after all, if Jehovah God had nothing to do with their 40 year "ministry", or Bethel life in the first place, so then what's the rush. Might as well stay at Bethel and continue the "charade", keep up the farce, keep "living the lie". Nobody else has the "truth" anymore than we have it. So what's the point. Now maybe, you and I would say, ...no, no. Even if I was in "their" shoes, my family financially dependent upon the WTS, I'd still leave and drop the WTS like a hot potato. And remarkably, some few have done this. But when a person in "special services" is d'df or da, it is completely a different matter. Much more severe than anything we might experience. Actually in most cases when when we leave, if we strong enough and stable emotionally, usually we can handle the "heat". And when we do this, then we are home-free. Because after leaving the organization, most of us still have our secular jobs, our work, our careers. If we've spent 20 or more years in the secular work, working we are liked by our fellow man. We serve a useful purpose in the community. Being a JW was to me, ALWAYS a liability, so far as the world was concerned. The people around me, rejoiced that I dropped the JWs. They thought I was crazy to be in it in the first place. Things get better then, on the job. Plus, you still have your homes. In may cases, ex-JWs own their homes. Own land, property, boats, cars, etc, etc. So, there is life after the WTS, at least for us. We can still "pick up the pieces" and go on with the rest of our lives for the most part. And even in the more, shall we say "severe" cases -- like those which end in divorce, or complete loss of immediate family, or in some rare cases a person loses his job (because he works for a brother) or home (rents from a brother and so on) because of leaving the organization voluntarily or being "thrown out", usually even in these cases, the d'df/da person and pull himself up, and recover after diligent effort. (I know this since my leaving resulted in a breakup in my marriage. I lost everything from a material standpoint. Financially, I was in shambles. -- But I recovered, in time.) But, think, I'm still a relatively young man. I have my career, my work. I'm not SEARCHING for a job, am I? No, I have good work, and I make "good money" too. So, I can recover. I will make it. And my career in the world, actually "saved me", in a sense. So all I work in is the "emotional" damage. And I can even repair that, through "therapy" sessions, that I can pay for, with my money. Because I make good money and so on. But in their cases, ex-Circuit Overseers, ex-District Overseers, ex-Bethelites (who've spent a lifetime in Bethel, like E. Dunlap, R. Franz) its not the same at all. We are in a different boat. We simply don't really know what we'd do if we were say, 65 years old or more, and had spent over 40 years in JW "special services" and "full-time work", and we were faced with trying to make a living in this cold, cold world. We are now searching for a job, but acutely aware that we possess hardly no specialized training or marketable skills that are in demand in our computerized, modernized society. We face "age discrimination" too. Because we are considered "old" by the world's standards, and no one will want to even interview us for a job. They say, we have no education (and we don't since the WTS told us not go to college and Armageddon was just around the corner), we have no marketable skills to speak of, and we find ourselves suddenly thrust out into the world trying to provide for ourselves and our aged wives who of course, now has severe health problems since she is also up in age like ourselves. We face all of this, if we decide at this late stage of the game, to get d'df or da. We'd have to face all of this, just on principle alone. The principle that we know the WTS is wrong. But if they are, that means we are wrong too. And being wrong means God is not with us. And reasoning on that line, we think to ourselves, we have no guarantee that God will be with us, when we get d'df/da? All of this is on our minds. We'd have to give this real consideration before leaving. Because all our health needs, our dental needs, transportation needs, food, clothing, housing are presently all cared for by Brooklyn Bethel or the congregations so far. And has been for the past 40 years for your family. Even all of your free spending money to buy simple toiletries for your wife and yourself, comes from WTS. -- But now, its all gone! Because you and your wife are d'df/da. So, when we think about it, when you or I, or even Bill Bowen should get d'df -- so what. Outside of a few family discomforts perhaps, if still we have family within the organization (and some of us don't), which may bring some pain. And maybe we lose a few close friends here or there, but that's it. That's the extent of our troubles. We can still recover and get on with our lives. We can become even philosophical about life and the WTS and all. To stay in would be "torture to the 10th degree". But for some, like the high officials within the organization, to leave, would be like the 20th degree in torture, I think. I did appreciate all that you have said above. I'd like to believe that if I were truly in the shoes of 40 year veterans, somehow I'd try everything in my power, to still get out and leave the WTS. But I don't really know what I'd actually do if I were in their shoes, since I don't have their particularly painful circumstances to act upon. Anyway, great post! You've expressed my sentiments exactly.. Contributed from JW.com...

My hat is off to you for a great website! My deepest sympathy goes out to everyone who has been abused! The JW religion needs to change its doctrine, report criminals to the authorities, and try to heal the wounds of the past. I am not a religious person but my wife is a JW who was a victim of horrific crimes as a child. Her being born and raised in a religion that harbors child molesters and provided her with no protection, no answers, no justice, and no normal life completely disgusts me. Silentlamb, you are a god in disguise!

I read the KM regarding the disfellowshipping and I saw the video clip on disfellowshipping. It would have been interesting if Dr. Stark commented on what it does to the family dynamics when the family shuns a member in the household. It would have been interesting to hear Dr. Stark comment on how this is emotional cruelty, blackmail, takes individual freedom away and teaches fear in the home and does not produce a loving family atmosphere in the home. BUT if you watch the video, you will see the Dr. Stark is a poker faced liar. There is a big campaign for disfellowshipping going on...the shovel by which they bury and oppress individuals, divide families, to PROTECT the" spirituality" of the congregation. That is a BIG CRUNCHY JUICY APPLE! Same congregations where they don't disfellowship a pedophile with or without two witnesses. Same congregations where they DF Bill with no witnesses and others for wanting to protect children from the pedophiles. Love to hear how Dr. Stark-naked could make psychobabble sense out of that and call it normal, healthy and rational or spiritual. The creep they hired speaks volumes for the character of the WTS. Dr. Stark is a "hired hand" to put a professional touch to their debauchery. The only "spirit" in the congregation they are protecting is one of fear, treachery, self-righteousness, competitiveness, judgment, injustice, and hatefulness. Now why would I want to go to a KH with my already broken spirit?C.E.

Just another thought - but would Dr. Stark answer my questions for free? I doubt it. He has no email address or web site. I have looked. Please notice also that the video that praises how educated the congregations are about pedophilia never crosses over in the reality of who gets actually gets disfellowshipped in the DF video. They sure bet on the "spirit" of stupidity in the congregations.  I have 120 questions I would like to ask Dr. Stark.  As far as the brothers/sisters who can't leave due to finances and no family. I understand how difficult it to be oppressed and/or just plain poor and without family. Many people here do. It takes courage and FAITH IN GOD, TO DO WHAT IS RIGHT NO MATTER WHAT THE CIRCUMSTANCES WE FACE IN DOING WHAT IS RIGHT. Sympathy does not encourage faith in God or doing what is right. Courage means to do what is right even though we are afraid. To Encourage - is to give courage. That is noble. C.E

International Ex-Jehovah's Witness MEETUP Day is 6 Days Away! http://exjw.meetup.com/ This might be of help.
Here is what I put in the guestbook there! EVERYONE ON BOARD THE CYBER INFO CENTER!!!!! CHUG CHUG CHUG... The governing body are hiding child molesters within the org. They will not protect the children because the children do not have two or more witnesses. The org. will allow a known child molester to go door to door. Are you going out in service with a known child molester? Are you sitting beside one in meetings? Are your children safe from a child molester that the org knows about but won't tell you? Is this right? Do you want a child molester coming into your home? Do you truly love the children?. YOUR CHILDREN? Keep them safe! go to the website that will show you exactly what is going on. DID YOU KNOW THAT THERE IS A MARCH AGAINST THE POLICIES OF THE ORG IN NEW YORK IN SEPTEMBER? GO TO silentlambs.org SEE FOR YOURSELF. CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO? CAN YOUR CHILDREN?

Thank God, some people like you have the guts to stand up for the most weak in our society. I myself as a father have been struggling for about four years to get my son out of the influence of a Pentecostal community, here in my region (Belgium) And then I ran into Julien Lippens of SAS who has already contacted you, and I found out that we are struggling for the same things,a dignified and secure place for our children in this messy world. I cannot repeat enough how much you deserve to be supported and of course you can count on my total sympathy. Rob Berkmans Belgium e-mail : rberkmans@belgacom.net

From JW.com Discussion Board...Disfellowshipment of Bill Bowen...To:xxxxxxxxxx, --- You said: ... So Bill Bowen got DF'd .... personally, I don't see the big deal. Has this guy become something of a 'messiah' for the most recent disfellowshipees? What's the big deal with being DF'd anyway? I, like most of the people in this forum negotiated their DFing with grace, and without buying into the Org's. games. We bucked Org. procedure, and when elders demanded we meet with them for some kangaroo court, we said 'No'. We, each of us individually, removed the power of the Org. by not giving it power over us... and many of us prepared the way for people like Bill Bowen, who can thank their lucky stars that they have 'an issue' they can attach their anger too. Bill Bowen now has the 'fellowship' of Silentlams, and similar forums, and I am pleased for him, as I am for others similarly placed, but don't forget that whilst some of you continued attaching so much importance to Org. doctrine, procedure and philosophy, many of us suffered because of it, and suffered in silence. Fortunately, the 'silence' has now become a deafening roar, but only now have people like Bill Bowen finally heard us. We may be silenced again, we may continue to roar... the 'truth' is the Org. will never be quite the same. However, there will continue to be those who are deaf to the lamb's roar, as many have been up to now. I wish Bill Bowen all the best in his efforts. The internet has proved to be a wonderful forum for bringing us all together. But, let's not forget those who have suffered in silence, who thought (and in their minds knew) they were alone, and have either managed, or not, to deal with their pain without the support now afforded those who have access to it. The strength Bill Bowen has is not his own, but is that which has been given him as a gift by those that have preceded him. Let's pray he doesn't misuse that strength in harping upon an issue of little consequence, his disfellowshipping. The silent lambs deserve better...posted by xxxxxxxx... My comments: ...Your post was a masterpiece, sooo masterfully, and sooo eloquently stated! Insightful, and so true. That's why I just wanted to re-quote the post, in its entirety, leaving no words out. Unfortunately though, I think your thoughts are so deep, they will go largely unnoticed by those most concerned about the Bill Bowen Saga. So sad. Really, we who are appalled by this great injustice, still can't see "beyond the nose on our faces", actually. So, I think your words above, will not be fully appreciated or discerned (if ever) for "many moons" because of our own UNAFFECTED SIMPLICITY AND DISTASTEMENT NAIVETE'. Two unwelcome traits that has allowed the WT empire to continue its charade as "F&DS" for so long. You see, most of us here and elsewhere who are acquainted with the "silentlams" movement, just don't think as deeply about the issues as you obviously do. So, Bill Bowen all of a sudden does become a "messiah" of sorts. As if the WTS has never, ever murdered someone in cold blood before. They must be dreaming! Why I've personally eye-witnessed "Bill Bowen" type people being disfellowshipped for the last 40 years! And heard of cases like his, even before, that have resulted in the same fate. So the disfellowshipment of Bill Bowen of Kentucky is no surprise, by a long shot. But actually to be expected, if you know anything about the operations of the F&DS of Brooklyn, NY. Remember, "disfellowshipment is a loving arrangement", as brother Pevy said on the video tape for the WTS. And the WTS has practiced this special brand of "love" for many years now upon any who would oppose themselves on any subject, no questions asked. But like you said, all of sudden, we are shocked! Why, we just can't believe the WTS would treat Bill Bowen that way. We are appalled. What a travesty of justice. Pleeasse...give me a break! You know, I would think people could put at least, a few facts together by now and come to know a stinking skunk or pole cat when we smell one, namely the wicked WTS. For example, if because of the policies of the WTS on child abuse gets exposed in the press internationally, and the WTS suddenly begins to smell more offensive than ever to the world in general, and if we suddenly sense we sort of smell a spiritual "pole cat" in our midst, namely the WTS itself, then we must reason: there must more things that really "stink" where that came from hidden in the past. If the WTS would be so "cold-blooded" as to disfellowship a guy like Bill Bowen for trying to help get the "pedophile-paradise" problem corrected, and is able to arrest the public's attention as well as JWs' undivided attention worldwide to the problem, and then we just conclude, "well we've found one dead body buried in the WTS basement". And if that's all we learn from this, all we get out of this fiasco this, with all of the worldwide attention given to this problem in the press, then we need our heads examined. Because that's certainly not what the world thinks. And neither should we think this too. If this is how we think, then regrettably, we have missed the whole point of Bill Bowen's execution, and brave exposing on his part, of the WTS' wrongdoing and mismanagement of people's lives, as the so-called "F&DS". We haven't learned anything at all from this situation. In stead, all of the hard work of Bill Bowen and the painful public execution of himself and others associated with his work, are in vain, since we've missed the major import of his cause and prospectus What his work has clearly accomplished, demonstrated for the entire world to see: Namely that the WTS is a "bunch of stinking crooks", spiritual pole cats that stink real, real bad, posing as the "F&DS". Instead, they are impostors, "wicked shepherds" opposed to all that is good. (Ezekiel 34:1-12) If we haven't learned this, we've missed the whole point of this faithful man's execution and life course, everything he stood for, within the walls of the vicious flock-destroying operation called the WTS. To be sure, Bill Bowen lived and died for a worthy cause. But, just as you say, others before him have stood ever so nobly too. Bill Bowen, no, is not alone in his martyrdom, by no means. But do we understand this? Do we get it? I don't think most us who are complaining about how Bill Bowen has been treated really understand this yet. Excuse me, but wouldn't it make common sense at least to suggest, there might more WTS "dead bodies" buried somewhere by this raving lunatic organization -- hidden away in its basement? Wouldn't it make sense to think that there might be more "skeletons in the closet" of the WTS? Doesn't that make sense? Shouldn't we reason there must be more hidden atrocities committed in the past by these cold-blooded killers? You would think we could put that together. If we could figure that out, then it would be more reasonable that there must be MORE "Bill Bowen" murdered, sacrificed at the WT altar of Public Relations and Public Image that CAME BEFORE HIM!!! Individuals massacred over doctrinal dogma, policies, protocol, you name it. If all we see is one "dead body", the silent lambs issue, which is undeniably bad enough, don't get me wrong. But as you suggest, if that is all we see, and not all of the brave people that must been massacred before Bill Bowen, then we missed the main point of this entire situation. We've missed the major opportunity to see, the greater, larger picture of this horrendous situation and/or obvious ramifications also implicated by such a scene. We have missed the real opportunity to excavate and unearth the vast "burial grounds of innocent ones", brutally murdered by the WTS. Anyway, great post! Contributed from JW.com...

Good work Bill I say the show Dateline. Having been married to a JW I can tell you that the family was not "the happiest people on the earth". In fact with the big brother lifestyle they had, there was little peace in the family. Family members were DF because they did not believe or just got tired of the whole system(they are a system like everything else is). Your legacy will be something you can be proud of vs those who did nothing out of fear.

TRUE LIFE CONG EXAMPLE you ladies will enjoy!! :-) From "Just JWs" msn forum, a post... /SLC --- "I know what you mean about women not having any responsibility in the congregation. -- One time, after I stepped down from serving as an elder, and I was taking care of the magazines, I asked a sister who was there early for the meeting if she would help me count the magazines to which she was more than willing. -- Well one of the elders seen this and came over and had her stop counting saying that it wasn't right to have sisters doing this, that it was for brothers only. I disagreed with him right there and then, and the sister meekly walked away because she had been taught to never question the elders.

WHY WE ARE NOT LIKE KORAH: A post from "Just JWs" forum. Contributed (not written) by /SLC, as I thought this was pretty good! --- QUOTE: "Let me tell you something about Korah. The man and his followers wanted the authority and prestige that went with being Jehovah's appointed leader of the nation of Israel. The problem was that God had not appointed Korah but Moses, as the deliverer of Israel. God had given ample proof that Moses was his chosen one by giving Moses some extraordinary powers, the ability to perform miracles. Korah, on the other hand could offer no such proofs and had only his own words to establish his authority. Of course, anyone can stand up and make the claim to speak for God, but no one can perform miracles. Moses performed miracles, Korah could only tell others that he was the one. --- In time Korah grew bolder and convinced others that he was the one with the authority and those others, accepting only his words as proof (which, of course is no proof at all) became loyal to a man instead of to God. --- Now Moses can be viewed as picturing Jesus in this regard inasmuch as Jesus was the earthly representative of Jehovah. There is also the fact that God has used Jesus as the deliverer of mankind. Korah rebelled against the duly appointed representative of God, not some self-proclaimed man or committee that can offer absolutely no proof whatsoever of being The voice of God, other than their own statements claiming to be so. Now whenever anyone steps up and claims to be God's voice he is, in effect, replacing Jesus as The Word, and is in this instance resisting the true representative of God. Scripture states: "For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, a man, Christ Jesus," 1 Tim 2:5 No mention here of a single man or a committee of men, only Jesus. -- - There have been many Korah's, down through the ages. Anyone who stands between God and men, with the exception of the one appointed to do so by God, is a Korah. Korah's, seek to bring others under their authority. They make rules and pass these off as commandments of God. They want what God has reserved for himself - namely to rule over his creation. Korah was not interested in correcting wrongs, he attacked Moses personally because he wanted Moses, position. Read the account. That's what all Korah's, have sought through the centuries - a following that they can command. --- Interestingly enough, Moses never did retaliate against Korah. He allowed God to demonstrate who his true representative was. It was God who punished Korah and his followers, not Moses or any other human. And so it is with the present day Korah's, who rise up and proclaim themselves the leaders of God's people. God will deal with them also, in his due time, in his own way. ...We are all the progeny of the God who grants us freedom to seek him by means of His Word which he has generously given to all men. For I am confident that "in every nation the man that fears him and works righteousness is acceptable to him." (Acts 10:35) END QUOTE

SHOULD ELDERS BE ALLOWED TO QUESTION CHILDREN ABOUT ABUSE? --- From: "silentlambs"

Those who doubt that children can be reliable witnesses may be forced to rethink that idea, given the sharp eye of new Sarah Ahn. --- Sarah, the Santa Ana, Calif., 5-year-old who was playing "Clue" with Samantha Runnion on July 15, gave police a clear-eyed description of how a man had asked for help finding his dog, grabbed a screaming Samantha and abducted her. She described his thin mustache, his accent, his age, his green car, with the chrome wheels and the "H" on the trunk — and she guided a sketch artist to produce a "wanted" picture that bore an uncanny resemblance to Alejandro Avila, who has been arrested and charged with Samantha's murder. --- "We responded to the call in four minutes, so she was giving that description immediately after it happened," said Jim Amormino, the spokesman for the Orange County Sheriff-Coroner Department. "We were definitely aware that it was a 5-year-old witness, but she was right in every particular, from the mustache to the age range." --- Her identification would have been impressive from any witness, but it was all the more stunning from a kindergarten child. --- "I found it amazing how accurate she was," said Jane Spinak, a Columbia law professor who specializes in children's rights. "But on some level it makes sense that she would remember those details. A child who's interested in colors or cars might notice that the car was green better than an adult. There's always pendulum swings on this issue of how much we believe children. But children can produce reliable accounts, especially when they're interviewed very soon after, by someone who's skilled enough to ask what they know without leading them, and when there's no issue of trying to keep a secret." --- The reliability of child witnesses has been a vexing legal issue for centuries: early canon law prohibited children from testifying till puberty, and as English common law developed the age limit was reduced to 7 years old. In the Salem witch trials of 1692, most of the accusers were young girls. --- Most recently — and notoriously — the credibility of child witnesses came into question in dozens of day care sexual-abuse cases nationwide in the 1980's, with children giving elaborate accounts of bizarre sexual abuse and satanic rituals by their day care providers. In 1984, seven people were charged with abusing children at the McMartin preschool outside Los Angeles. None were convicted, but some spent years in jail before a judge dismissed charges that more than 300 children were photographed naked in catacombs under the school. --- In another prominent case, in 1988, Margaret Kelly Michaels was convicted of more than 100 counts of sexual abuse at the Wee Care Day School in Maplewood, N.J., based on children's accounts that she had inserted knives, spoons and forks in their penis, anus or vagina, painted them with peanut butter, or urinated in their mouths. None of the children showed any sign of injury, but it was not until 1994, after she had spent six years in jail, that Ms. Michaels's conviction was overturned. --- Like the Salem witch trials, the day care cases reflected the beliefs of the era, when it was almost an article of faith among some therapists and child-victim groups that children never lie about sexual abuse. Many of the children were swept into a world of interviewers and evaluators who questioned them repeatedly, encouraging and even leading them to describe sexual abuse. --- While the cases, in retrospect, seem like mass hysteria, they also stand as a stark reminder of just how suggestible, and unreliable, children's accounts can be. Several studies have shown how easily false memories can be implanted in young children. --- In one research study, 114 children ages 3 to 8 met with a man known as Mr. Science, who showed them several simple experiments. In the first interview afterward, the children recalled the session correctly. But after their parents repeatedly told them a story that included events that didn't happen, like having a wet wipe put in their mouth, one-third of the children included those things in their account. In another study, preschool children were asked, weekly, about a fictitious event, and by the 10th week, more than half not only reported that it had happened, but filled in details. --- Typically, before allowing a child to testify, judges try to make sure the child knows the difference between fact and fantasy. Often, the judge asks questions like, "If I say my robes are purple, is that true?" or, while holding up four fingers, "If I say I'm holding up two fingers, is that true?" --- "It can backfire," said Elizabeth Loftus, a University of Washington psychology professor, who has studied child witnesses. "I saw one case where the lawyer wanted to question the kid, but the judge decided to do it. So the judge put the kid on the stand and said, 'Do you know what truth is?' and the kid held up two fingers. That kid wasn't allowed to testify, since it was so clear the lawyer had been coaching." --- A better approach, she said, would be to focus less on lies than on whether the child's memory is contaminated. "What goes wrong in these cases is usually not that you have a lying kid but that you have a mistaken kid," Professor Loftus said. --- In the California abduction, there was little time for Sarah Ahn's memory to be contaminated by adult suggestions or intervening events, AND HER QUESTIONERS HAD BEEN TRAINED TO INTERVIEW CHILDREN. (caps added for emphasis) --- But mistaken accounts also arise out of children's overly literal interpretation of questions, or adults' failure to follow up until they understand what a child really knows. --- One former prosecutor remembers her son telling her that his father drank blood. --- "I said, 'No, he doesn't, I know Daddy and I know he doesn't drink blood,'" she said. "But he insisted that he knew his father drank blood and that he would prove it. So he took me to the refrigerator and took out the cranberry juice. For us, it was a funny story. But you can imagine what might happen if he'd said it at school, or if it happened in the middle of a custody case in which I hated my husband." ---

The mole...thank you all in response to my letter written and posted a few days ago...this issue is real and if you read it you know how and why the evil creeps in our halls...my special assembly is coming and rumor has it that a small talk will touch upon this issue of questioning the authority of the Elders and rumors. we will see how many will be removed. i have avoided the elders now that my family are involved in a broil of diff rent ideas on what the society says is right. my argument to them is we should seek the bible and love not men. this is why i ask for reformation. The so called anointed have no power and an illusion created by looking up scripture here and there in the book study and personal study successfully obscured the facts, only 6 1/2 percent of the scriptures is used, and that in a

JEHOVAH'S GOD IS "EDITOR" OF THE WATCHTOWER MAGAZINE! (per former WTBTS president Fred Franz). Read the trial transcript yourself here: <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=18930&site=3> --- The court case itself was in 1940 and was Olin Moyle against Fred Franz and others and the WTBTS. Just so that you know who is who, Hayden Covington was attorney for the defendants and Walter Bruchhausen was attorney for the plaintiff. The relevant part of the case was the direct examination of Fred Franz by Covington (columns 794 - 795) and cross-examination by Bruchhausen (columns 865 - 867). --- In the direct examination Fred Franz had just started to explain the purpose of the Watchtower magazine. The examination continued - Q. Is the "Watch Tower" magazine a one man magazine? A. It is not. Q. Who was the editor of the magazine in the days from 1900 to 1916? A. Pastor Russell was the Editor, the sole Editor of the "Watch Tower" down to his death in 1916. Q. Who became the editor of the magazine upon the death of Pastor Russell? A. Pastor Russell left a will designating five gentlemen to serve on an editorial committee, three of which must agree as to an article. The Court: He asked you who they were. Q. Do you remember who they were? The Court: Do you? If you don't remember, tell us. Q. The names, and if you don't remember the names-You say there were five? A. Judge Rutherford was one of them. Mr. Van Amburgh was another, and Fred Robison was another. Q. Was there any provision in the Charter of the Watch Tower Bible & Tract Society for such editorial committee? A. No, that was the Will of Pastor Russell. Q. Who subsequently became the Editor of the magazine, the main editor of the "Watch Tower" magazine? A. In 1931, October 15th, as I recall, the "Watch Tower" discontinued publishing the names of any editorial committee on the second page. The Court: He asked you who became the editor. The Witness: And it said- The Court: Who became the editor? Q. Who became the editor when this was discontinued? A. Jehovah God. --- There's Much More to read at the above link! /SLC

It is very clear the governing body and by extension the writing staff in New York is self apostate. They have joined themselves, and us by extension, to the UN for ten years; they have altered the blood policy until almost all of us are unaware that we can take any and all blood fractions, including hemoglobin solutions; they have gutted all the major views on prophecies, so that what we believe is UNRECOGNIZABLE. If you doubt this, review the questions from readers about voting and about working for churches, all in the last 18 months. They are a mess. Are you listening, Gene? Pistoff in the midwest

THE MOLE  my story is true, my family has now called me and debated my letter. Many in rebuttal defended not their faith but the accusation of not loving my Grandmother but they instead balked about own desires, but still the fact remained, each had their own view and interpretation of what the organization thought but none said anything of what Christ thought... Theocratic double talk, and a way of pointing out deluded facts, again misuse of the scriptures, is what many of us are subjected too. Implications completely damaging to ones position is how they weed out non-conformist, complainers, and unfaithful ones. The inconsistency of the watchtower society in its arbitrary use of the scriptures to suit their organization purpose is once again glaringly shown in their interpretation of the bible regarding the misconduct of those within its ranks including molesters and there like. This double standard of interpretation is in evidence throughout all the books and booklets and magazines of the watchtower society. My family is evidence to this and this is why I let all of you read my letter sent to a third generation family involved in the Jehovah's Witness Organization...THE MOLE

Bill Bowen has been able to make public the double-standard for disfellowshipping by being disfellowshipped himself. I do not think Bill is making a "big deal" out of being personally DF'd, but the Big Deal is DF'd without two witnesses for speaking out against the two witness policy for DFing pedophiles. He has exposed to the public and to any JW who reads the media, the double-standard of DFing by using himself as an example.  He has been diligent and tenacious in involving the media to reach as many JW's as he can.  I know that there have been Noble men and women before Bill.  I believe it takes a lot of trust in Jehovah to leave the WTS and I do not minimize anyone's efforts to do this...it is a great task going quietly or making a lot of noise. I know for myself to even read criticism (sp) about the WTS, I thought I would be struck dead!!  Bill has taken a hidden, dark secret and exposed it publicly not for his glory, but for the possible protection of one small child.  And to expose the double-standard to ones who have not completely lost their ability to critically think.  Bill has made so much noise, that there are now two WTS videos one regarding the pedophiles and one on DFing;they have called in the "experts" to back them up. The KM has two pages devoted to DFing.  But Dateline was aired, Panorama was aired, and the newspapers are printing stories=TO THE BENEFIT of children in the KH! If one child is saved from being molested, then Bill did a good job as well as the many silent ones who have spoken out. C.E.

I have invited them, but they don't come.  I have gone to see them several times in these last two years, but they don't come here, and have left me out of gatherings, vacations they take together, I am not invited.  If I say anything about it, I hear excuses which only makes me lonelier. I am ignored, neglected and rejected.  It is very sad to be older, and treated with such disregard especially by the children you gave birth to and raised.  You are a good grandson and have love and understanding for your Grandmother.  I think the a lot of people Christian or Not, miss the essence of family, history, memories and respect for the older ones.  Your sincere love for your grandmother is worth very much.

http://icbirmingham.icnetwork.co.uk/0100news/0100localnews/page.cfm?objectid=12065705&method=full&siteid=500 02 A man whose son was sexually abused by a Jehovah's Witness has criticized the church after leaders said they would consider keeping the PAEDOPHILE in their ranks. The father, who cannot be named for legal reasons, claims Jaswant Patti is still a member of the church, which requires its congregation to be "morally clean". A Jehovah's Witness spokesman confirmed the church is carrying out an internal investigation into the case, after which Patti could remain a member if he shows "genuine repentance". Patti was jailed for five years in 1999 after he was found guilty of four offences of indecent assault and one other serious sexual assault against two boys, then aged nine and 14. Following the conviction, church leaders of the Rubery Congregation of the Jehovah's Witnesses, in New Street, Rubery, backed Patti. Philip Price, one of the church's elders, even questioned the verdict, querying the strength of the evidence. The father of one of the victims said: "The church has a policy of disfellowshipping which can be applied to a person who has got a smoking problem and finds it hard to give up. "Why is it Jaswant Patti, who has been convicted and whose name will be on the sex offenders' register for the rest of his life, hasn't been disfellowshipped?" The spokesman for the UK headquarters of the church said he was not able to comment on specific cases. But he added: "If someone has committed repugnant acts they will be disfellowshipped but it depends on a person's attitude. "If a person shows genuine repentance it might not mean they are expelled. That's what the elders in the congregation would have to determine. "To be one of Jehovah's Witnesses you have to be morally clean and we try our utmost to keep the depraved out. The person would have to go a long way to prove they're genuinely repentant. "If they remained a member they would never occupy a position of responsibility."

URL: http://www.myinky.com/ecp/local_news/article/0,1626,ECP_745_1291656,00.html Jehovah's Witnesses critic to appeal ouster By The Associated Press July 28, 2002 DRAFFENVILLE, Ky. - A Western Kentucky man is fighting a move by elders in the Jehovah's Witnesses to excommunicate him, saying he is being punished for his claims that church policies protect child molesters. Bill Bowen, of Draffenville, Ky., says he will file an appeal Monday of a decision by three church elders to "disfellowship" him on charges of "causing divisions." Bowen said he was notified Thursday of the action after the elders met without him the previous evening. If the excommunication is upheld by a separate three-elder appeals panel, Bowen would become the fourth person expelled this year from the church after criticizing policies on child molesters. The church denies such criticisms. Jeff Steen, one of the elders who Bowen says decided to disfellowship him, would not confirm or deny the elders' action, saying church discipline is conducted confidentially in "a spirit of mildness, not confrontation." Bowen said the action against him is "absolutely not" justified. "I have committed no sin against God; I have broken no law in the Bible," said Bowen, who resigned as an elder in December 2000 to protest church policies but had remained a member in good standing. "This is nothing but a kangaroo court to silence me." Bowen contends Jehovah's Witnesses keep incidents of child molestation secret and refuse to let victims warn other members of predators in their congregations. The Courier-Journal reported in February 2001 of court cases in several states in which Jehovah's Witnesses officials were accused of keeping secret the allegations of abuse by their elders or members, sometimes in violation of state law. Since then, new lawsuits making such claims have been filed in New Hampshire, Minnesota and Washington state.

This is for Bill --- The fight goes on because it is a 'just' battle. The DFing is a battle scar. A medal of honor. Wear it proudly. It proves a very vital point. The WTS is lashing out at the innocent in a mad thrashing attempt to regain control. It is a maniac clearly point of control. I wrote a poem today while thinking about Bill fighting the Dragon (i.e. the WTS)  The Dragon Slayers * by Loris J Matheny * The Dragon Slayers have come; * The strong of heart, * Great battles they have won.  The Dragon Slayers have come; * They fight a fine fight, * Never do they turn and run.  One by one they come; * A challenge for the Dragon, * But they are slain- every one.  Two by two they come; * They fight in teams * Because two are stronger than one.  Ten by ten they come; * The Dragon leaves the safety of the cave, * In the open it fights on.  Legion by legion they come; * The Dragon fights, the Dragon tires, * The dead cover the ground like dung.  The small child has come; * The Dragon is weak from years of battle, * The child throws a single stone.  The end for the Dragon has come; * Defeated by the Dragon Slayers, * Brought down in the end by one.  Wear them down Bill so that the Lambs can have a chance to fight the Dragon, too. Love Y’all, Loris

7-29-02 Draffenville Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses Judicial Committee Elders of: Murray Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses Central City Congregation of Jehovah Witnesses Any other congregations in which elders have been appointed to my judicial committee Dear Brothers, I wish to appeal the decision made to disfellowship me. The reason is because of an error in judgment due to the deceptive manner which the judicial committee operated in the face of my flat denial of any wrongdoing. I have not committed any sin against God or the organization. The judicial committee failed to produce any eye-witnesses to back up their allegations, thus they have no case against me. As you will note from previous correspondence over the course of the last 19 months I have endeavored to communicate extensively to the organization regarding the need to change WT policy when it comes to abuse and also to request apology and/or explanation for sanctions that have been directed against me by the Governing Body of Jehovah's Witnesses. I find it despicable that any elder would cooperate with such wicked actions at their direction. For your review I offer the following: Placing restrictions on me within the congregation without any charges of wrongdoing to make it appear to the congregation I had sinned in some way. Watchtower representatives giving numerous talks in which it is inferred I am a liar and all allegations are false on the deficiencies of WT policy regarding child abuse. WT Public Information distributing a video to media in which my father is coerced to call me a liar along with Earl Norman and JR Brown. Forbidden to have assignments on the Theocratic Ministry School and withdrawn as Watchtower reader to put forth the appearance to the congregation a judicial committee had offered sanction. Instructing the Draffenville Congregation to go door-to-door and tell the public that I am liar. Forbidding me to work with the congregation in field service. Instructing brothers and sisters in my congregation to treat me as disfellowshipped. Deceptive comments to the media to create an impression to the public that myself and other advocates have committed “other” sins against God. (a bald-faced lie) Pressuring fellow witnesses to stop working in my candle business due to negative comments by representatives of Watchtower leadership. Deceptively saying you cannot find a KM, personal literature orders and magazines when I have requested them. Elders informing me I was not welcome at meetings. Supporting the local child molester by awarding him privileges in the congregation. I made numerous requests in writing for assistance in resolving the above matters but the Governing Body instructed you to ignore my cry for help. As you brothers are well aware I base my comments on matters that I have dealt with personally, that is, actions I have seen with my own eyes and heard with my own ears. If you happened to watch Dateline and BBC Panorama you of course can see on national television the truthfulness of my statements backed up with factual evidence from the abuse survivors themselves. If these programs were all lies as Watchtower has informed many brothers and sisters, why have they not moved to sue these programs to protect their good name? Jeff Steen is well aware that what I have stated locally is the truth as he participated in the investigation as well as telephone conversations to Service Department. Yet he sits on a judicial committee to disfellowship me? What kind of “spiritual man” does he prove himself to be? In a court of justice for a judgment to be fair and impartial certain protocols must be met. Within the Jehovah’s Witness court certain protocol is outlined in the elder book, “Pay Attention to Yourselves and All the Flock”. The judicial committee in following the directions of the Governing Body, failed to follow the written guidelines in the course of my hearing, therefore the judgment was unfair and partial. I offer the following examples: Arranging a hearing in writing and the judicial committee not showing up. Refusing to communicate answers to clarifying questions for the hearing by ignoring all correspondence. Failure to provide eye-witnesses to rebut my denial of any wrongdoing. Conducting a secret judicial hearing without informing me. Ignoring a second “arranged in writing” meeting without any communication. Repeated harassment by not following my respectful request to have all communication go through my attorney. Failure to provide description of the charges against me in the latest hearings. Failure of the chairman to provide correspondence to the accused as instructed in “Flock” book. By the actions of the committee I was denied my right to present “witnesses” in my behalf. Failure of the committee to provide “suitable” and “convenient” arrangements for the time of the hearing by using deception and short notice. I believe these actions of ignoring all protocol for this “kangaroo” hearing has been personally directed by the Governing Body in order to silence the call for proper actions to be taken in behalf of children. The local judicial committee has not acted for the sake of righteousness, but instead as men without morals or ethics who simply obey as instructed. It is a similar process followed when child molesters are exposed in the congregation as directed by the Governing Body. When these matters began I held hope that righteous men would rise up to protect the children in our organization. I hoped some of those men would be found on the Governing Body who would stand up and stop policies that allow children to be raped. In the course of the last nineteen months instead of proving themselves righteous the Governing Body has committed actions that prove them to be wicked men. In the illustration of the “Faithful and Discreet Slave” it is interesting to note the comment made in Luke 12: 43-45; “Happy is THAT slave, if his master on arriving finds him doing so! 44. I tell you truthfully, He will appoint him over all his belongings. 45. But if ever THAT slave should say in his heart, “My master is delays in coming, and should start to beat the menservants and the maidservants, and to eat and drink and get drunk.” You see brothers in the illustration the “slave” is one man with an option, to be good or to be wicked. The Governing Body as appointed leaders of the FDS has instituted actions that have “beat” the children of this organization. When anyone speaks out about this, they are “beaten” by the threat and use of disfellowshipping as a way to silence proper action in behalf of children. “THAT slave” has become “evil” when it hurts children. Since 1992 the Governing Body was clearly informed by a written report to each member, that children are being raped as a result of negligence in WT Policy. With great wickedness and 23,000 child molesters later, to this day they have refused to act. My June letter to the Service Committee requested a solution to this by following theocratic guidelines within organizational arrangement on September 27th. Result? The Governing Body appoints a judicial committee to disfellowship me ignoring all protocols for doing so. Do you really believe you can have Jehovah’s spirit and follow the bidding of wicked men? If I am wrong in this reasoning I invite you brothers to prove otherwise. This proceeding has to date been completely partial, unfair, deceptive, and unjust. Will you as an appeal committee stand for righteousness? I await your communication for a hearing. I also request sufficient time to bring eye-witnesses and agree to face any witnesses who may wish to testify against me. Please provide a weekend time frame and a specific meeting time in writing to my attorney. Very truly yours, William H. Bowen

SLC posted the above names and address of the Governing Body members of the WTBTS. It just happened that the post ended up right below Bill Bowen's Request for Appeal letter. Some may think he posted the GB member names, but I did it FWIW. Also, GREAT LETTER Bill Bowen. I do WISH they would LISTEN to your obviously correct arguments! Their actions are so blatantly biased and MORALLY UNETHICAL (much less SPIRITUAL), and what is the biggest joke of all is they DO NOT EVEN FOLLOW THEIR OWN RULES. This truly is a dark day for them. Hi everyone, I just wanted to let you all know I've been reading all the posts, and have been posting letters received from Bill, about his being DF'd and his appeal letter etc, but I just haven't had anything else to say. Everyone else posting has been saying what I would say anyhow, so just know I'm here with all of you. I have been busy writing email letters to magazine editors requesting them to write articles about this subject, as well linking them to this site. My hope is that with all of us writing, many more articles will be written in newspapers, magazines, etc to bring this serious problem more widespread viewing by those who haven't seen Dateline etc. Please, let's not let up in our personal efforts to assist Bill bring this to the public. It makes me ill to think of all the perps out "witnessing" at people's home, who knows who their next victim will be? Those of us who have been victimized can do much to help see others don't experience what we've been through. Love of God and Neighbor pushes me to do all I can, so others don't have to go through what I/we have gone through. Keep writing! Linda Thoman

Agree 100% with what Linda wrote, and thanks for posting the letters and articles, and all the work you are doing. I meant to write this before, an example of how MEDIA EFFECTS OUTCOMES WITH THE LEGAL AUTHORITIES: I saw this on 20/20 or Dateline just recently. Remember the Kennedy relative who murdered that girl who lived across the street from him years ago, back when they were teenagers? Well, it was due to one man (I forget his name) who wrote a book about that unsolved crime, and his writing of that book got the public in general fired up all over again about the crime. The public cried out to the media and the media and the public together cried out to the legal system. That was the purpose of 20/20 (or Dateline) interviewing the author of the book, to bring out the POINT that HIS PUBLIC BOOK & the subsequent MEDIA ATTENTION IT GOT is what made the PROSECUTORS go after the Kennedy perv and finally bring him to trial, even after all these years. --- Moral of the Story? As Linda said: WRITING Letters and keeping the MEDIA ON TOP OF THIS is the ONLY THING that will keep it alive and GET RESULTS from the Prosecuting Attorneys, the Feds, etc. /SLC

SLC: The german version of silentlambs was rumored to be run by a man who has porn sites. I never heard if this was just gossip or actually true...does anyone know? Anything is possible. I do know that Bill would not do this knowingly. I believed that I emailed the post to Bill so he could see what was being said. But I know he is so busy.  I have not heard from Dr. Stark. I asked him what was the social and spiritual ramifications for a person who was lied to by the clergy and DFing and shunning family members. I also asked him directly about the video on the education on pedophilia and then the video on DFing and although the whole issue is related, the two videos did not cross over. I asked why he has not listened to the other side of the issue or addressed the real issue of two witnesses for pedophilia.  I stated the questions better than this but that was the general idea> He studies and teaches sociology and religion. He probably as part of the "deal" cannot respond to our questions.  Terrific newsabout Dr. Phil -  Claudine

Rodney Stark, in my opinion, is a brilliant sociologist and scholar. I have read several of his books (including the one which was recently nominated for a Pulitzer prize). I do not believe that he is aware of how his videotape interview has been chopped up and 'spun' by the WTS (along with their rumored COPYWRITING of his resume!) and is being used as a PR tactic to silence and intimidate any who would dare to question their treatment of Bill Bowen and others who are suing them for criminal behavior. I believe the resulting PR video, coupled with their 'two witness' policy could be used to prosecute them for misleading people into thinking that they CAN get away with the crime of pedophilia (which would then make them 'accessories to the crimes' committed by those who follow them). I would like for Mr. Stark to become aware of what is going on. Tho, the last time I checked, he remains an agnostic, I don't believe he would approve of the way in which his professional reputation and a videotape interview with him is being 'used' to cover their asses in a cloud of 'divine and righteous innocence'. Wouldn't it be nice if his interaction with the WTS under these circumstances might be the thing that FINALLY pushes him over to a faith in God. (He sure has come close!)

This came from JahChristian newsletter, and was on the Watchtower Observer: (It is long, but shows corruption on behalf of Watchtower legal personnel) WATCHTOWER WALLS CRUMBLE THE WATCHTOWER BIBLE AND TRACT SOCIETY INC. FOUND RESPONSIBLE FOR 18 YEAR LONG IRS TAX PROSECUTION THROUGH LOCAL LAWYERS TO DESTROY MARRIAGE AND ESTATE IN TRUST OF ALVIN & JACQUELINE HANSEN THROUGH DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, AND FAMILY PRESS RELEASE By ABVA Group Trust International MEDFORD,OREGON - ABVA TRUST lawyer, Melvin E. Soll, in Dover, Delaware, filed criminal charges against THE WATCH TOWER, JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES, on October 2, 1998, in the ABVA TRUST lawsuit in San Francisco, California, Superior Court, Civil No. 968484. The local law firms of Frohnmayer & Deatherage, and Jacobson Jewett, Thierolf & Dickey, (of Medford, Oregon) were hired by the Watchtower, and the Hansen's bookkeeper, Daralene Hansen to fabricate false IRS tax crimes against Alvin Hansen in 1985, and to file unwanted divorce and lunacy suits against Mr. Hansen in 1989 and since. Alvin & Jacqueline Hansen, who formed a Delaware trust in 1982, were robbed of trust assets in 1983, and Alvin was MALICIOUSLY SENT TO PRISON BY HIS OWN LAWYERS and JUDGE JAMES BURNS for failure to file a tax return his CPA actually filed. Court records actually admit there was no valid IRS charges, and documents show the IRS filed false liens against Alvin and though the court dismissed the conviction, 'they' left Alvin in prison for 12 months. The Hansen's sued and took a $65 Million Dollar Default Judgment in February, 1989. That's when Watchtower paid lawyers stirred up dissension in the family and influenced Jacqueline to file the first Divorce and Lunacy suits to evade payment of this Judgment by defamation of Alvin. During his kidnap for 6 days at Rogue Valley Medical Center, Judge Loren L. Sawyer, who had persecuted Alvin in the 80's for fighting for his family's rights secretly committed Alvin, as the same lawyers had a forged Power of Attorney recorded over Alvin to Leo A. Had Jr., controlling the "Marital Affairs of Alvin and Jacqueline Hansen." Six days later, Mr. Hoad granted the IRS a $400,000.00 dollar false tax lien in secret preventing the Hansen's from selling trust assets, or doing any business what-so-ever, and totally destroying their credit. These crimes came to light on, July 31, 1991, when the IRS Agent Sam Peden and Jackson County Sheriff C.W. Smith, raided the Hansen's home owned by Alvin's mother, Mrs. Bertha Hooker on Pioneer Road, and stole all the family's vehicles and real properties. The Hansen's sued again in Jackson County, Oregon and Butte County, California, and took more Judgments by default, revoked the forged Power Of Attorney's and Tax Liens, and invoked the right to recover of all their admitted stolen property. More lawsuits were filed in 12 months. In the Federal Courts of Sacramento, San Francisco, California, and Delaware as Judges and Watchtower lawyers corrupted the courts to discredit the very Judgments they admitted. In the Watchtower, INC. and Oregon Bar, local lawyers and Judges, Sawyer, Karaman, Shively, Arnold, Orf, State of Oregon, Bank of America, Bear Steams, Inc., and Shearson American Express, Chubb Insurance, were among the many debtors who settled the Judgments in Delaware by their nominee, Bond Street Holdings, LTD., and Bank of America officers of this Delaware corporation, August 4, 1993, and promised to return all the stolen property, and pay all victims, co-Judgment Holders. Within days, the Oregon debtor's, and lawyers again sought to evade this agreement by conspiring to destroy Alvin Hansen, the trustee of this settlement trust, and during foreclosure of the contract filed a false criminal indictment against Alvin and John Hansen, accusing them of stealing back Mrs. Hansen's Mazda 'Miata' (stolen by the IRS) across a state line two years before, just to discredit Hansen and evade the very debt they contracted to pay. Documents showed that Alvin had right and authority to transport his wife's car back to Oregon. For the next 54 months, Alvin was maliciously prosecuted and imprisoned as these lawyers filed forged deeds to the marital home in trust, and filed more malicious divorce suits exparte, (in secret), threatened and paid Mrs. Hansen to lie, and take bribes, and defend the Watchtower, that she sued for 9 years with Alvin. Typical of Watchtower persecutions using the IRS and its banks, and many retained lawyers to destroy members who question their control and restrict freedom of speech and conscience in hundreds of cases. They used a family member, in this case, Daralene Hansen, to sue ABVA TRUST and the Hansen's through Lawyer, Richard Thierolf, as the Bank of America, U.S. Attorney Gary Sussman, held Alvin kidnapped on false charges of incompetence without a trial for over 54 months. The Watchtower threatened Mrs. Hansen in 1992, with disfellowshipping and tax fraud if she kept reading and talking about banned books exposing the Watchtower's vicious practices of using divorce lawyers to destroy and divide families, as in the case of the Hansen's. Hundreds of suits are filed each year against the Watchtower for malicious violations of constitutional rights, and liberty of speech and conscience, but are always met with stepped up prosecutions by their banks, IRS, and U.S. Attorney co-debtors. In August, 1998, while Mr. Hansen was kidnapped for 12 months, these same lawyers paid by the Watchtower, criminally transferred the Hansen's 28 year marital residence deeded to the Jacqueline Hansen Living Trust to a Kenneth Anderson, who borrowed the dirty money from one of the debtors, Bank of America. The other shock came when Hansen learned that Judge G. Phillip Arnold had signed a Judgment of Divorce Exparte, against Alvin on December 5, 1997, without service or knowledge and gave all Hansen's personal, marital and trust assets to Jacqueline. Court records show that Judges Sawyer and Attorney Thierolf, (who Mrs. Hansen filed criminal complaints and affidavits against in July, 1992, to the Oregon Bar in addition to the Judgments) signed a Stipulated Judgment against the Hansen's and ABVA GROUP TRUST INT., placing Daralene Hansen as the Agent Owner of ABVA GROUP TRUST on the official tax assessors role, in control of the two trusts and all stolen trust assets. She now has been exposed and wants her name removed from the false record under Attorney Solls demands. All this crime was committed in the view of the San Francisco Court lawsuit filed by the Hansen's and ABVA TRUST on July 2, 1997, who ordered all property returned to the Hansen's and ABVA TRUST on July 15, 1997, and restrained further kidnap of Mr. Hansen. Alvin and Jacqueline Hansen Trustee's are Plaintiffs in that case and Mr. Soll is taking another Judgment against the Watchtower and Daralene Hansen's lawyers, Jacobson, Jewett, Thierolf & Dickey, who have failed to comply with the Courts Order, holding it in contempt, and have failed to appear and defend the forgery charges brought by the Trust Attorney, Mr. Soll. Letter demanding return of all stolen assets, and payment of the more than 24 Billion dollar debt have produced no compliance or denial by court appearance, thus admitting the charges and crimes on the Jackson County records and in the records in California. ABVA TRUST is calling for victims of the Watchtower practices of defamation by threats and disfellowshipping, who may have suffered similar violence and family breakup to make response to this paper or Mr. Soll at 64 Liberto Lane, Dover, Delaware 19901, as ABVA TRUST is executing Judgment against the Watchtower, et al, to seize its corporate assets and file incompetent charges against its office and directors for their evil and criminal practices in hopes of putting an end to their persecutions for profit. Please reply in confidence in person or through your attorney with documentation. This paper requests response from Commentary Press, and David Reed, dba. Rodney Stark and the Watchtower Society... Let's Write the University of Washington. (Addresses at bottom)...Something along these lines ... University Of Washington Sociology Professor Dr Stark is a brilliant sociologist and scholar. Currently is engaging in a questionable enterprise, Dr Stark is using his professional credentials to support disfellowshipping as practiced by the Watchtower. This is an extreme form of shunning that treats former members and even family members as if they are dead. Watchtower claims this practice is used to keep the congregation clean from unrepentant wrongdoers, nevertheless it is also used to force compliance to any Watchtower doctrine and stop any dissention. Watchtower uses the disfellowshipping practice to silence Whistle blowers and eliminate any protest inside the congregation to the policy of covering up sexual abuse and to allow pedophiles to remain members. Sexual molesters are not prosecuted by civil authorities and go on to molest other children both inside and outside the congregation. MSNBC Dateline and the BBC Pan aroma have recently broadcast news programs detailing the cover-up of the sexual abuse of children in the Jehovah's Witness Community. British Ministers of Parliament are considering an investigation. The UK Guardian and NY Times have published stories. Disfellowshipping allows sexual abuse of children to continue and to silence protests. Dr Stark has a right to earn his living by endorsing whatever policy he sees fit. Yet he has a moral and professional responsibility to investigate this policy and speak to the victims. Dr Stark has not responded to the many emails sent to him, nor has he accepted an invitation to speak to Bill Bowen, a victim's advocate for abused Jehovah's Witnesses children and founder of Silentlamb.org. Dr. Stark's professional credentials, as posted on JW-Media. Org, include his position as Professor of Sociology at the University of Washington. We appeal to the Sociology Dept to encourage Dr Stark to at least respond to our letters and emails. Children are being harmed, whistle blowers removed and pedophiles protected...

WHAT I WROTE TO DR PHIL : My name is Jesika and I was raised one of Jehovah's Witnesses. I was what they call disfellowshipped or shunned by the tender age of 15. I haven't spoken to anyone on my dad's side of the family other than my dad for over 11yrs. They refuse to have anything to do with me because of their religion. I gave birth to the first great grand child and my grandmother has only seen him when he was in the hospital. My son was in Children's hospital within 2 days of being born and NOONE on my fathers side came to the hospital. My son had a 50-50 chance of surviving the surgery, and no one came or even called me-- I had just turned 18 and newly married. I was escorted out of the church when I went to my cousin's wedding, and wasn't invited,again, to my other cousin's wedding. This religion tears families apart, and when my uncle molested me when I was 4 they didn't throw him out, and when my father had an affair with another married women in the same church my parents were attending, they didn't throw him out either. This is a terrible thing to do to someone, and they leave it up to the men in the church to decide if you are truly sorry for what you have done. If they think you are sorry (anyone can produce tears) then you get a slap on the hand and told don't do it anymore. If they think you aren't "repentant" then they take your whole life away,including your family. Jesika Thoman Dallas,Tx

Question for Jehovah's Witness Matt. 5:10 "Happy are those who have been persecuted for righteousness sake, since the kingdom of the heavens belongs to them." (JW claim the persecuted part of Matt. 5:10 but don't want to go to heaven?) This is another example of the Watchtower belief system not fitting in with bible teaching.

I am posting this message to let everyone know that i have been in touch with the office of the District Attorney of Brooklyn New York. I explained to the person the situation about the pedophilia coverup within the wts. I also told them about the letters to the elders over the years which have basically instructed the elders to keep pedophilia cases in-house and not to go to the authorities. I told them also about the database of 23,720 which the wts refuses to hand over to anyone. They have told me that their jurisdiction only covers Brooklyn. So in order for anything to possibly be done, they need victims from Brooklyn who have been sexually molested within one of the watchtower society's congregations to come forward. Therefore, if anyone here is a victim of pedophilia within the watchtower society and this happened in Brooklyn, or if anyone here knows of victims from Brooklyn, please either call the Brooklyn District Attorneys office at 718-250-2340 and ask for Anthony Barosy, or you can e-mail me at erewhon39@hotmail.com Thank you, Worf

I have learned that every JW enjoys hurting people that are "shunned" in their little dirty circle. It is nice to finally see that this tactic is now shown as nothing more that "policy" to intimidate used by "hucksters!" By disfellowshipping Bill

hello. i am a 33 year old disfellowshipped woman. i was also molested by an elder when i was ten. he is still part of the congregation but he can never be an elder. (big deal) he was never even brought into a judicial meeting because i was the only one to say something. i think you are an angel with so many blessings to bestow and you will be returned with these blessings ten fold. god bless you. this is just what i would have loved to see when i was a child. i am thankful to be away from the wts and will be writing a book about my experiences. thanks for the support..hugs

Excellent idea about letting Dr. Stark know what he has done to help the WTS cover-up the pedophilia and perpetuate the cruelty that shunning causes. I would like to think that if he does not know the truth about all this, and is told that he would be outraged and come over to this side.  BUT two business days have passed and I still have not gotten a reply. My guess is that most people do business with who ever pays them. Dr. Stark has no investment in this other than being paid.  But the University should know what he is involved with and the judges for the Pulitzer Prize should know also. And maybe he covets his reputation enough to pay more attention to what has been done with his statements>>> ? Claudine

It is about time someone took a stand against the people that claim they are the "true religion". This only proves that they are "not from this world". Thank you creating this web site for all to see. restlessbht@hotmail.com

The day will come when "Big Brother" Watchtower will burn out like a cheap Walmart light bulb.

TO THE JULY 30 POST WRITER REGARDING MATT 5:10. That Scripture read "THE KINGDOM OF THE HEAVENS", THIS IS IN REFERENCE TO A KINGDOM RULED BY THOSE IN HEAVEN, THE 144,000 ALONG WITH JESUS. NO INCONSISTENCY HERE, JUST LACK OF REASONING ABILITY ON YOUR PART. KINGDOM OF THE HEAVENS / KINGDOM IN THE HEAVENS, SEE THE DIFFERENCE? FUZZ

Hi Claudine - Regarding Stark, it's hard to find a professor. We're working on it. Didn't someone show an e-mail address a short while back?

Woah! Just looking back on previous days (I've been away from the board for a little while). I think you have done an EXCELLENT job in tracking down Stark! I'm VERY impressed. And your letter is great EXCEPT that I would not focus on protesting the policy of shunning - (as Stark pointed out in the video, other religions have been known to have such a policy, too)...What is messed up about the policy in this instance is that they are using it to silence Bowen (and I believe, without even telling him WHAT they're disfellowshipping him for) for his effort to expose their criminal and immoral behavior. They are using the policy in a way that is not even in accord with their own policies. And surely not in accord with their stated purpose, 'to remove the evildoer from among yourselves'. They have simply turned it to as a weapon. And allowing them to do so in THIS case is covering up THEIR abuse of children. I think he would care about the role they have created for him in that. His being on the video adds 'credence' to their cover up and is primarily for the sake of trying to prevent others, including parents, from knowing about what is happening...don't focus on the policy of shunning so much. Focus on Bill Bowen, their use of shunning to silence a whistle-blower and the cruel and scandalous nature of the cover-up.

To Fuzz & Witnesses
So are you telling me that Matt. 5:10 is only to be applied to the so called "144,000"? Blessed are those (doesn't say 144,000 here) who are persecuted because of righteousness (Does this mean that only 144,000 can be righteous?) for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Just an interesting note to Jehovah's Witness. It has been stated that the Watchtower only uses 6.5% of the scriptures. I believe this is true. That is why the Organization puts so much emphasis on its other literature such as the Watchtower magazine and all the books used for "book studies" vs bible studies. This way they can built their theology around the few bible verses and lay emphasis on what the Watchtower wants to promote. I think that the Witness student would have a very different view on the scriptures if they studied the bible only. (Bible helps are OK in moderation, but not to be replacing of the scriptures) Of course the Organization has come out in print and said that the average person can not understand the bible. Yet we find that the Bereans were able to examine "the Scriptures every day to see if what Paul said was true." Acts 17:11 Nothing here about checking the Watchtower magazine.

RE: Rodney Stark & Univ. of Wash... RE: Letter writing advice... Your points are well made please write a letter, too. I have emailed every one on the faculty. Please everyone send an email!!!!!! ... Here is the reply from the Dept Head. Dr Crutchfield: The University of Washington Department of Sociology affirms the importance of academic freedom and acknowledges the centrality of debate in the advancement of knowledge. Towards that end we support the right of our colleagues to make their own intellectual decisions. We do not believe that anonymous and unsubstantiated allegations intended to embarrass a member of the department is consistent with the values of academic freedom or open intellectual debate...(my comment) ... Of course, we do not have intellectual debate as witnesses or with Dr Stark but that apparently is our problem

In fact, if a son was a drunkard and a glutton, his laws about cutting off wrongdoers often involves and affects relatives. As mentioned above, when an Israelite apostate views. —Hebrews 12:15, 16. What About Relatives? God certainly realizes that carrying out his righteous deliberation disassociated themselves, Christians are protected from possible critical, unappreciative, or even someone who has been expelled for unrepentant sin is a wise protection for us. "Clear away the old leaven, that you receive him into your homes or say a greeting to him. "Cutting ourselves off completely from all association with [my disfellowshipped sister] Margaret tested our loyalty to Jehovah's arrangement. It gave our family opportunity to show that we really believe that Jehovah's way is best."—Lynette. Most true Christians loyally support God and his righteous laws. (1 Thessalonians 1:2-7; Hebrews 6:10) Occasionally, though, a person deviates from the path of truth. For example, despite help from Christian elders, he may unrepentantly violate God's laws. Or he may reject the faith by teaching false doctrine or by disassociating himself from the congregation. Then what should be done? Such things occurred even while the apostles were alive; hence, let us see what they wrote about this. When a man in Corinth was unrepentantly immoral, Paul told the congregation: "Quit mixing in company with anyone called a brother that is a fornicator or an idolater or a reviler or a drunkard or an extortioner, not even eating with such a man." (1 Corinthians 5:11-13) The same was to occur with apostates, such as Hymenaeus: "As for a man that promotes a sect, reject him after a first and a second admonition; knowing that such a man has been turned out of the way and is sinning." (Titus 3:10, 11; 1 Timothy 1:19, 20) Such shunning would be appropriate, too, for anyone who rejects the congregation: "They went out from us, but they were not of our sort; for if they had been of our sort, they would have remained with us. But they went out that it might be shown up that not all are of our sort."—1 John 2:18, 19. Hopefully, such a one will repent so that he can be accepted back. (Acts 3:19) But meanwhile, may Christians have limited fellowship with him, or is strict avoidance necessary? If so, why? Cut Off Thoroughly? Christians do not hold themselves aloof from people. We have normal contacts with neighbors, workmates, schoolmates, and others, and witness to them even if some are 'fornicators, greedy persons, extortioners, or idolaters.' Paul wrote that we cannot avoid them completely, 'otherwise we would have to get out of the world.' He directed that it was to be different, though, with "a brother" who lived like that: "Quit mixing in company with anyone called a brother that [has returned to such ways], not even eating with such a man."—1 Corinthians 5:9-11; Mark 2:13-17. In the apostle John's writings, we find similar counsel that emphasizes how thoroughly Christians are to avoid such ones: "Everyone that pushes ahead and does not remain in the teaching of the Christ does not have God . . . If anyone comes to you and does not bring this teaching, never receive him into your homes or say a greeting to him. For he that says a greeting [Greek, khai'ro] to him is a sharer in his wicked works."—2 John 9-11. Why is such a firm stand appropriate even today? Well, reflect on the severe cutting off mandated in God's Law to Israel. In various serious matters, willful violators were executed. (Leviticus 20:10; Numbers 15:30, 31) When that happened, others, even relatives, could no longer speak with the dead lawbreaker. (Leviticus 19:1-4; Deuteronomy 13:1-5; 17:1-7) Though loyal Israelites back then were normal humans with emotions like ours, they knew that God is just and loving and that his Law protected their moral and spiritual cleanliness. So they could accept that his arrangement to cut off wrongdoers was fundamentally a good and right thing.—Job 34:10-12. We can be just as sure that God's arrangement that Christians refuse to fellowship with someone who has been expelled for unrepentant sin is a wise protection for us. "Clear away the old leaven, that you may be a new lump, according as you are free from ferment." (1 Corinthians 5:7) By also avoiding persons who have deliberately disassociated themselves, Christians are protected from possible critical, unappreciative, or even apostate views. —Hebrews 12:15, 16. What About Relatives? God certainly realizes that carrying out his righteous laws about cutting off wrongdoers often involves and affects relatives. As mentioned above, when an Israelite wrongdoer was executed, no more family association was possible. In fact, if a son was a drunkard and a glutton, his parents were to bring him before the judges, and if he was unrepentant, the parents were to share in the just executing of him, 'to clear away what is bad from the midst of Israel.' (Deuteronomy 21:18-21) You can appreciate that this would not have been easy for them. Imagine, too, how the wrongdoer's brothers, sisters, or grandparents felt. Yet, their putting loyalty to their righteous God before family affection could be lifesaving for them. Recall the case of Korah, a leader in rebellion against God's leadership through Moses. In his perfect justice, Jehovah saw that Korah had to die. But all loyal ones were advised: "Turn aside, please, from before the tents of these wicked men and do not touch anything that belongs to them, that you may not be swept away in all their sin." Relatives who would not accept God's warning died with the rebels. But some of Korah's relatives wisely chose to be loyal to Jehovah, which saved their lives and led to future blessings. —Numbers 16:16-33; 26:9-11; 2 Chronicles 20:19. Cutting off from the Christian congregation does not involve immediate death, so family ties continue. Thus, a man who is disfellowshipped or who disassociates himself may still live at home with his Christian wife and faithful children. Respect for God's judgments and the congregation's action will move the wife and children to recognize that by his course, he altered the spiritual bond that existed between them. Yet, since his being disfellowshipped does not end their blood ties or marriage relationship, normal family affections and dealings can continue. The situation is different if the disfellowshipped or disassociated one is a relative living outside the immediate family circle and home. It might be possible to have almost no contact at all with the relative. Even if there were some family matters requiring contact, this certainly would be kept to a minimum, in line with the divine principle: "Quit mixing in company with anyone called a brother that is a fornicator or a greedy person [or guilty of another gross sin]. . . not even eating with such a man." —1 Corinthians 5:11. Understandably, this may be difficult because of emotions and family ties, such as grandparents' love for their grandchildren. Yet, this is a test of loyalty to God, as stated by the sister quoted on page 26. Anyone who is feeling the sadness and pain that the disfellowshipped relative has thus caused may find comfort and be encouraged by the example set by some of Korah's relatives. —Psalm 84:10-12. # The Court Decision You may want to know the outcome of the court case involving a woman who was upset because former acquaintances would not converse with her after she chose to reject the faith, disassociating herself from the congregation. Before the case went to trial, a federal district court summarily granted judgment against her. That judgment was based on the concept that courts do not get involved in church disciplinary matters. She then appealed. The unanimous judgment of the federal court of appeals% was based on broader grounds of First Amendment (of the U.S. Constitution) rights: "Because the practice of shunning is a part of the faith of the Jehovah's Witness, we find that the 'free exercise' provision of the United States Constitution . . . precludes [her] from prevailing. The defendants have a constitutionally protected privilege to engage in the practice of shunning. Accordingly, we affirm" the earlier judgment of the district court. The court opinion continued: "Shunning is a practice engaged in by Jehovah's Witnesses pursuant to their interpretation of canonical text, and we are not free to reinterpret that text . . . The defendants are entitled to the free exercise of their religious beliefs . . . Courts generally do not scrutinize closely the relationship among members (or former members) of a church. Churches are afforded great latitude when they impose discipline on members or former members. We agree with [former U.S. Supreme Court] Justice Jackson's view that '[r]eligious activities which concern only members of the faith are and ought to be free—as nearly absolutely free as anything can be.' . . . The members of the Church [she] decided to abandon have concluded that they no longer want to associate with her. We hold that they are free to make that choice." The court of appeals acknowledged that even if the woman felt distress because former acquaintances chose not to converse with her, "permitting her to recover for intangible or emotional injuries would unconstitutionally restrict the Jehovah's Witnesses free exercise of religion . . . The constitutional guarantee of the free exercise of religion requires that society tolerate the type of harms suffered by [her] as a price well worth paying to safeguard the right of religious difference that all citizens enjoy." This decision has, in a sense, received even more weight since it was handed down. How so? The woman later petitioned the highest court in the land to hear the case and possibly overturn the decision against her. But in November 1987, the United States Supreme Court refused to do so. Hence, this important case determined that a disfellowshipped or disassociated person cannot recover damages from Jehovah's Witnesses in a court of law for being shunned. & Since the congregation was responding to the perfect directions that all of us can read in God's Word and applying it, the person is feeling a loss brought on by his or her own actions. Discipline—Many Benefit Some outsiders, upon hearing about disfellowshipping, are inclined to sympathize with a wrongdoer who can no longer converse with members of the Christian congregation. But is not such sympathy misplaced? Consider the potential benefit that the wrongdoer and others may receive. For example, on page 26 we noted Lynette's comment about her choice 'to cut herself off completely from all association' with her disfellowshipped sister Margaret. She and her Christian relatives 'believed that Jehovah's way is best.' And it is! Lynette's sister later told her: 'If you had viewed the disfellowshipping lightly, I know that I would not have taken steps toward reinstatement as soon as I did. Being totally cut off from loved ones and from close contact with the congregation created a strong desire to repent. I realized just how wrong my course was and how serious it was to turn my back on Jehovah.' In another case, Laurie's parents were disfellowshipped. Yet she says: 'My association with them never stopped but increased. As time went on, I became more and more inactive. I got to the point of not even attending meetings.' Then she read material in The Watchtower of September 1 and 15, 1981, that stressed the counsel of 1 Corinthians 5:11-13 and 2 John 9-11. "It was as if a light bulb were turned on in me," she writes. 'I knew I would have to make some changes. I now better understand the meaning of Matthew 10:34-36. My decision was not an easy one for my family to swallow, for my son, five, is the only boy, and they love him dearly.' It is hoped that losing such association will touch the parents' hearts, as it did Margaret's. Still, the discipline involved helped Laurie: 'I am back out in the field ministry. My marriage and family are stronger because of my change, and so am I.' Or consider the feelings of one who was disfellowshipped and later reinstated. Sandi wrote: 'I would like to thank you for the very helpful and instructive articles [mentioned above] on reproof and disfellowshipping. I am happy that Jehovah loves his people enough to see that his organization is kept clean. What may seem harsh to outsiders is both necessary and really a loving thing to do. I am grateful that our heavenly Father is a loving and forgiving God.' So our God who requires that an unrepentant wrongdoer be expelled from the congregation also lovingly shows that a sinner can be reinstated in the congregation if he repents and turns around. (A disassociated person can similarly request to become part of the congregation again.) Thereafter he can be comforted by Christians who will confirm their love for him. (2 Corinthians 5:11-17; 7:8-13) Truly, it is just as Paul wrote: "No discipline seems for the present to be joyous, but grievous; yet afterward to those who have been trained by it yields peaceable fruit, namely, righteousness."—Hebrews 12:11. Excommunication—What Effect? English historian Edward Gibbon wrote about the propriety and effect of disfellowshipping nearer the time of the apostles: "It is the undoubted right of every society to exclude from its communion and benefits such among its members as reject or violate those regulations which have been established by general consent... The consequences of excommunication were of a temporal [earthly] as well as a spiritual nature. The Christian against whom it was pronounced was deprived of any part in the oblations of the faithful. The ties both of religious and of private friendship were dissolved." * John here used khai'ro, which was a greeting like "good day" or "hello." (Acts 15:23; Matthew 28:9)

He did not use a spa'zo-mai (as in verse 13), which means "to enfold in the arms, thus to greet, to welcome" and may have implied a very warm greeting, even with an embrace. (Luke 10:4; 11:43; Acts 20:1, 37; 1 Thessalonians 5:26) So the direction at 2 John 11 could well mean not to say even "hello" to such ones.—See The Watchtower of July 15, 1985, page 31. # For a discussion of a relative's being disfellowshipped, see The Watchtower of September 15, 1981, pages 26-31. % 819 F.2d 875 (9th Cir. 1987). ^ Though various individuals have brought suit, no court has rendered a judgment against Jehovah's Witnesses over their Bible-based practice of shunning. for immoral idolatry and much bloodshed. (2 Samuel 12:9, 13; 2 Chronicles 33:2-6, 10-13) We can be truly grateful that he is prepared to forgive us too if we repent and approach him in sincerity and humility. Still, despite Jehovah's forgiving David and Manasseh, these two men—and Israel with them—had to live with the consequences of their sinful acts. (2 Samuel 12:11, 12; Jeremiah 15:3-5) In a similar way, while Jehovah forgives repentant sinners, there may be consequences of their actions that cannot be avoided. Inevitable Consequences While Jehovah forgives repentant sinners, there may be consequences of their actions that cannot be avoided. For example, a man who lives a life of immoral debauchery and contracts AIDS may accept the truth and turn his life around to the point of dedication and baptism. Now he is a spiritually clean Christian having a relationship with God and a wonderful hope for the future; but he still has AIDS. He may eventually die of the disease, a sad but inescapable consequence of his former conduct. For some Christians the effects of former gross immorality may persist in other ways. For years after their baptism, perhaps for the rest of their lives in this system of things, they may have to fight urges in their flesh to return to their previous immoral life-style. With the help of Jehovah's spirit, many succeed in resisting. But they have to wage a constant battle.—Galatians 5:16, 17. Such ones do not sin as long as they control their urges. But if they are men, they may wisely decide not to 'reach out' for responsibility in the congregation while still having to struggle with powerful fleshly impulses. (1 Timothy 3:1) Why? Because they know the trust that the congregation puts in the elders. (Isaiah 32:1, 2; Hebrews 13:17) They realize that the elders are consulted on many intimate matters and have to handle sensitive situations. It would be neither loving, wise, nor reasonable for one waging a constant fight with unclean fleshly desires to reach out for such a responsible position.—Proverbs 14:16; John 15:12, 13; Romans 12:1. For a man who was a child molester before he was baptized, there may be another consequence. When he learns the truth, he repents and turns around, not bringing that cruel sin into the congregation. He may thereafter make fine progress, completely overcome his wrong impulses, and even be inclined to 'reach out' for a responsible position in the congregation. What, though, if he still has to live down notoriety in the community as a former child molester? Would he "be irreprehensible, . . . have a fine testimony from people on the outside, . . . [be] free from accusation"? (1 Timothy 3:1-7, 10; Titus 1:7) No, he would not. Hence, he would not qualify for congregation privileges. When a Dedicated Christian Sins Jehovah understands that we are weak and that even after baptism we may fall into sin. The apostle John wrote to Christians of his day: "I am writing you these things that you may not commit a sin. And yet, if anyone does commit a sin, we have a helper with the Father, Jesus Christ, a righteous one. And he is a propitiatory sacrifice for our sins, yet not for ours only but also for the whole world's." (1 John 2:1, 2) Yes, on the basis of Jesus' sacrifice, Jehovah will forgive baptized Christians who fall into sin—if they truly repent and abandon their wrong course. An example of this was seen in the first-century congregation at Corinth. The apostle Paul heard of a case of incestuous fornication in that young congregation, and he gave instructions that the man involved be disfellowshipped. Later, the sinner repented, and Paul exhorted the congregation to reinstate him. (1 Corinthians 5:1, 13; 2 Corinthians 2:5-9) Thus, by the healing power of Jehovah's loving kindness and the great value of Jesus' ransom sacrifice, the man was cleansed of his sin. Similar things may happen today. Again, though, even if a baptized person who commits a serious sin repents and is forgiven in Jehovah's eyes, there may still be ongoing consequences of his sin.—Proverbs 10:16, 17; Galatians 6:7. For example, if a dedicated girl commits fornication, she may bitterly regret her act and eventually be restored to spiritual health with the help of the congregation. But what if she is pregnant because of her immorality? Then her whole life has been inescapably changed by what she did. A man who commits adultery may repent and not be disfellowshipped. But his innocent mate has Scriptural grounds to divorce him, and she may choose to do so. (Matthew 19:9) If she does, the man, although forgiven by Jehovah, will live the rest of his life with this grave consequence of his sin.—1 John 1:9. What of a man who unlovingly divorces his wife in order to marry another woman? Perhaps he will eventually repent and be reinstated in the congregation. Over the years he may make progress and "press on to maturity." (Hebrews 6:1) But as long as his first wife lives without a mate, he will not qualify to serve in a responsible position in the congregation. He is not "a husband of one wife" because he had no Scriptural right to divorce his first wife.—1 Timothy 3:2, 12. Are these not powerful reasons why a Christian should cultivate an abhorrence of what is wicked? What of a Child Molester? What if a baptized adult Christian sexually molests a child? Is the sinner so wicked that Jehovah will never forgive him? Not necessarily so. Jesus said that "blasphemy against the holy spirit" was unforgivable. And Paul said that there is no sacrifice for sins left for one who practices sin willfully despite knowing the truth. (Luke 12:10; Hebrews 10:26, 27) But nowhere does the Bible say that an adult Christian who sexually abuses a child—whether incestuously or otherwise—cannot be forgiven. Indeed, his sins can be washed clean if he repents sincerely from the heart and turns his conduct around. However, he may still have to struggle with the wrong fleshly impulses he cultivated. (Ephesians 1:7) And there may be consequences that he cannot avoid. Depending on the law of the land where he lives, the molester may well have to serve a prison term or face other sanctions from the State. The congregation will not protect him from this. Moreover, the man has revealed a serious weakness that henceforth will have to be taken into account. If he seems to be repentant, he will be encouraged to make spiritual progress, share in the field service, even have parts in the Theocratic Ministry School and nonteaching parts in the Service Meeting. This does not mean, though, that he will qualify to serve in a position of responsibility in the congregation. What are the Scriptural reasons for this? For one thing, an elder must be "self-controlled." (Titus 1:8) True, none of us have perfect self-control. (Romans 7:21-25) But a dedicated adult Christian who falls into the sin of child sexual abuse reveals an unnatural fleshly weakness. Experience has shown that such an adult may well molest other children. True, not every child molester repeats the sin, but many do. And the congregation cannot read hearts to tell who is and who is not liable to molest children again. (Jeremiah 17:9) Hence, Paul's counsel to Timothy applies with special force in the case of baptized adults who have molested children: "Never lay your hands hastily upon any man; neither be a sharer in the sins of others." (1 Timothy 5:22) For the protection of our children, a man known to have been a child molester does not qualify for a responsible position in the congregation. Moreover, he cannot be a pioneer or serve in any other special, full-time service.—Compare the principle at Exodus 21:28, 29. Some may ask, "Have not some committed other types of sin and apparently repented, only to repeat their sin later?" Yes, that has happened, but there are other factors to consider. If, for example, an individual makes immoral advances to another adult, the adult should be able to resist his or her advances. Children are much easier to deceive, confuse, or terrorize. The Bible speaks of a child's lack of wisdom. (Proverbs 22:15; 1 Corinthians 13:11) Jesus used children as an example of humble innocence. (Matthew 18:4; Luke 18:16, 17) The innocence of a child includes a complete lack of experience. Most children are open, eager to please, and thus vulnerable to abuse by a scheming adult whom they know and trust. Therefore, the congregation has a responsibility before Jehovah to protect its children. Well-trained children learn to obey and honor their parents, the elders, and other adults. (Ephesians 6:1, 2; 1 Timothy 5:1, 2; Hebrews 13:7) It would be a shocking perversion if one of these authority figures were to misuse that child's innocent trust so as to seduce or force him or her to submit to sexual acts. Those who have been sexually molested in this way often struggle for years to overcome the resulting emotional trauma. Hence, a child molester is subject to severe congregational discipline and restrictions. It is not his status as an authority figure that should be of concern but, rather, the unblemished purity of the congregation.—1 Corinthians 5:6; 2 Peter 3:14. If a child molester sincerely repents, he will recognize the wisdom of applying Bible principles. If he truly learns to abhor what is wicked, he will despise what he did and struggle to avoid repeating his sin. (Proverbs 8:13; Romans 12:9) Further, he will surely thank Jehovah for the greatness of His love, as a result of which a repentant sinner, such as he is, can still worship our holy God and hope to be among "the upright" who will reside on earth forever.—Proverbs 2:21. * See "Questions From Readers" in the May 1, 1996, issue of The Watchtower. I wonder what kind of a "donation" the Watchtower made to Dr. Stark? (One who gained accurate knowledge)

I wish those folks would start reading their Bibles and stop repeating the errors of the past. Doesn't anybody at the WTS read their Bible anymore? After years involved in construction there is one thing I have learned for sure. In order for the final measurement to be true you have to have a solid reliable Bench mark for the starting point. If all the measurements are pulled from that bench mark they will be as accurate as possible. But if you measure each new line from the previous mark then the chances of error increase with every mark. The same is true of the WTS. They rely on previous articles of the magazines as starting points to clarify a new point. They fail to return to the original Bench Mark, the Bible, for the clarification. So that being said. Go to your interlinear translation. Check out 1 Corinthians 5:9,11 and 2 Thessalonians 3:14 notice it is the same Greek verb at both places. So the “marked” individual and the not so nice person guilty of serious sins were both to not be associated with. But what did that mean. Well the Greeks had two verbs for association. One for associating with people in general and one for associating with close personal friends and family. What Paul was saying was “stop being so buddy buddy with these brothers until they get their act together.” Put a little distance between them and you. But don't treat them as total outcasts. Jesus said that if you just could not reason with a brother and get him to see his error then treat him as a tax collector or a man of the nations. Was Jesus recommending that his disciples follow the example of the Pharisees? How did Jesus treat tax collectors and people of the nations? what about Leviticus 24:22 and Deuteronomy 10: 18,19? How did the Law say that the alien resident was to be treated? Yes, they did not invite them over for tea, but they did not turn their noses up to them either. It infuriates me that some unscrupulous person has the audacity to publish the erroneous bilge from the WTS. trying to get people to shun perfectly decent people such as Bill Bowen. If they spent a couple of hours actually reading this site they could see how wrong they are. Enough bitching I have to get back to work. Love Y'all, Loris

In spite of the irritations caused by the above misguided posting of WT articles, I find myself stumped by a question. Were these posted by someone supporting the society, or by someone showing them for who they are? I forced myself to read them and was continually struck by the cornerstone of the WTBTS' slight of hand: the erasure of the line between commitment to God and obedience to the Society. It is horrifying that someone could read that blitz of scripture snippets and Society rules and feel the urge to obey. So sad... - Buster

Mr Bowen By your "crusade" are you implying that the whole organization of Jehovah's witnesses is corrupt? Do you now believe that the basic teachings of the witnesses is wrong? (ie. Trinity, immortality of the soul, hellfire etc.) The nation of Israel had those among them who sacrificed their children to Molech but did that make the Israelites fall from Jehovah's favor? Any sane person knows that abusing children is unacceptable and I think, Mr Bowen, that you know, that the witnesses will come through this to be stronger - as has been proved many times in the past - when serious tests came upon them. The witnesses know that the closer they get to Armageddon the more Satan will try to keep sheep-like ones form entering the "flock". Be careful Mr bowen that maybe Satan is using you to help in this regard! (Remember Judas!)

RE: Let Us ABHOR What Is Wicked ... This is a paragraph from the COURT DECISION the Society didn't include in the Watchtower Article on Disfellowshipping ... 883 [7] We find the practice of shunning not to constitute a sufficient threat to the peace, safety, or morality of the community as to warrant state intervention. The test for upholding a direct burden on religious practices is as stringent as any imposed under our Constitution. Only in extreme and unusual cases has the imposition of a direct burden on religion been upheld. See, e.g., Reynolds v. United States, 98 U.S. (8 Otto) 145, 25 L.Ed. 244 (1878) (polygamy); ... Does Disfellowshipping "Whistleblowers" constitute a threat to the peace, safety, or morality of the community? ... I bet we are going to find out! ... Also are you aware that 1 Corinthians Chapter 5... Has been used for centuries to persecute dissenters and was used to justify the INQUISITION? QUOTE: . . . Like Israel, medieval Europe was a society of Christian kingdoms that were formally consecrated to the Lord Jesus Christ. It is therefore quite understandable that these Catholics would read their Bibles and conclude that for the good of their Christian society they, like the Israelites before them, "must purge the evil from the midst of you" (Deut. 13:5, 17:7, 12). Paul repeats this principle in 1 Corinthians 5:13... These same texts were interpreted similarly by the first Protestants, who also tried to root out and punish those they regarded as heretics. Luther and Calvin both endorsed the right of the state to protect society by purging false religion. In fact, Calvin not only banished from Geneva those who did not share his views, he permitted and in some cases ordered others to be executed for "heresy" (e.g. Jacques Gouet, tortured and beheaded in 1547; and Michael Servetus, burned at the stake in 1553). In England and Ireland, Reformers engaged in their own ruthless inquisitions and executions. Conservative estimates indicate that thousands of English and Irish Catholics were put to death—many by being hanged, drawn, and quartered—for practicing the Catholic faith and refusing to become Protestant.

Hi Claudine! Re: that German porn site... the site I was referring to was definitely NOT that prior porn site. I visited the German one, www.silentlambs.biz, which someone posted in this Guestbook a few days back, and it has Bill's appeal letter and books on child abuse, and some of the other WT letters, etc., just the wording is in German. It also has a lot of other information from this very site, just translated for the German friends. --- That porn site I never visited, and I think just maybe it really did exist. There is a thread about it at the J-W.com forum, but that thread is now locked, so that would lead me to believe it really DID exist, but it is NOT the same one as the www.silentlambs.biz one. --- How's things going with you? The info about the Court Decision on Shunning and the comments therein... Just from reading that it is obvious MEN DOMINATE MEN TO THEIR OWN INJURY, and MEN, including the JW's and the WTS specifically, need to STOP JUDGING LESS THEY THEMSELVES BE JUDGED and thrown into the lake of fire, etc. It is obvious from that post and historical references therein, that men and their religions who try to persecute and judge others as to their beliefs are TRYING TO BECOME GOD HIMSELF! It belongs ONLY TO GOD to decide to do the JUDGING, shunning, disfellowshipping, murdering, etc. MEN/Catholics/protestants/JWs, etc. all need to BACK OFF from their JUDGING & CONDEMNING of others or they will have to suffer the consequences of Putting Themselves In The Seat of God.

--- Dear Visitor: I believe it is the OTHER WAY AROUND. It is the harsh, UNreasonable, BLINDED actions of the WTBTS that is bringing persecution UPON THEMSELVES because of their OWN wicked actions. It is the WTBTS themselves which are binding up heavy loads onto their brethren and not allowing their flocks to "enter into the kingdom," just like the Pharisees. They will not only be judged harshly by God for this, but destroyed altogether as being a False ProFIT. How much studying have YOU YOURSELF DONE regarding Watchtower HISTORY? There is SO MUCH they do NOT WANT YOU TO KNOW. Get online and start reading, lest you be judged guilty by God by association with them.

They for decades have been increasing the pressure more and more for ALLEGIANCE TO THE SOCIETY itself, their biggest "desperate" sin of all was perverting the baptism vows in 1985 -- FOR LEGALISTIC REASONS ONLY --- i.e., to COVER THEIR A, so that in all subsequent years they can merely DF anyone who questions anything THE SOCIETY does. Comment: And how does the Bible describe the Witnesses worldwide, will have "close association" with the political, pagan leaders of this world. — See footnote New says: "they shake hands, or have close association."  Yes, the Watch Tower Society, representing all Jehovah's footnotes on the words: "with the children of foreigners they abound" in the New World Translation Reference Bible two-thirds majority of Jehovah' Witnesses who willingly submit to "worship of the beast" and the "dragon." The footnote on the words: "for you your people [apostate two-thirds who have received "the mark of the beast"], the house of Jacob. For they have become full of what is from the East, and they are practitioners of magic like the Philistines, and with the children of foreigners they abound. --- bjc2read@yahoo.com  Quote from "The Report" pages 155-168 --- "...Remember the point in the previously mentioned Watchtower article on "loyalty." Or, is the Society above God's law? Does the Society command the loyalty that rightfully belongs to Jehovah God for themselves? Brothers, what will we do when the Society makes this "astonishing" compromise of integrity to Jehovah by placing the beast in the holy place?" (See Matthew 24:15; also Daniel 8:13 New World Translation Reference Bible footnote for Hebrew word translated "desolation" [Sho-mem].) Yes, what will you do? Will you remain faithful at such a time? Really the leading members of the Watch Tower Society are much like the Pharisees and religious leaders of Jesus' day. Oh, they appear so righteous to the brotherhood, on the outside. But let's notice Jesus' analysis of them: "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because you cleanse the outside of the cup and of the dish, but inside they are full of plunder and immoderateness . . . Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because you resemble whitewashed graves, which outwardly indeed appear beautiful but inside are full of dead men's bones and of every sort of uncleanness. In that way you also, outwardly indeed, appear righteous to men, but inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness." — Matthew 23:25-28.  A SEPARATION DUE TO COME FOR JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES  But again, where else does the Bible indicate that there is going to be a severe test of the "loyalty" of God's people, in these last days? And where does the Bible indicate that many true Christians will separate from the main body of so-called Christians in these last days? Let's notice the words of Zechariah 13:8,9 which says: "And it must occur in all the land, is the utterance of Jehovah, [that] two parts in it are what will be cut off [and] expire; and as for the third [part], it will be left remaining in it. And I shall certainly bring the third [part] through the fire; and I shall actually refine them as in the refining of silver, and examine them as in the examining of gold. It, for its part, will call upon my name, and I, for my part, will answer it. I will say, 'It is my people,' and it, in its turn, will say, 'Jehovah is my God.'" Also again, let's notice the following words recorded at Isaiah 2:6 which says: "For you [faithful Jehovah's Witnesses] have forsaken your people [apostate two-thirds who have received "the mark of the beast"], the house of Jacob. For they have become full of what is from the East, and they are practitioners of magic like the Philistines, and with the children of foreigners they abound."  Yes, Jehovah's people "Jacob," will have to "forsake" his own people, the wicked two-thirds majority of Jehovah' Witnesses who willingly submit to "worship of the beast" and the "dragon." The footnote on the words: "with the children of foreigners they abound" in the New World Translation Reference Bible says: "they shake hands, or have close association."  Yes, the Watch Tower Society, representing all Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide, will have "close association" with the political, pagan leaders of this world. — See footnote New World Translation Reference Bible Isaiah 2:6; also 1 Corinthians 15:33.  And how does the Bible describe the events leading up to this great "apostasy" or falling away? Well, as we have just read at Daniel 11:32, the "king of the North" will "lead them into apostasy" or persuade them by means of "smooth words." The Bible indicates that after entering an initial agreement with the "King of the North," for 3 1/2 years, this particular political figure, will go back on his word and attack the Watch Tower Society and Jehovah's Witnesses, worldwide. He will use his influence to turn the political United Nations Organization against them. And it will be under this pressurized situation, where much physical persecution will be heaped upon Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide. The "Woman" will now be "chased away," into the "wilderness" for 3 1/2 years or "1,260 days." It will be under these conditions, coupled with the skillful use of "smooth words" by the "King of the North," that the Watch Tower Society will compromise! They will now give their full support to the political governments of the world, just like all the other religious entities of our day. — See Jeremiah 30:17; Revelation 12:6, 13, 14.  Daniel chapter 9, verse 27, drawn from the NIV Translation, describes the critical events leading up to the "hour of test" this way: "He [King of the North] will enter a firm covenant [initial agreement] with the many (Jehovah's Witnesses) for one week (7 years total); and at the half of the week (3 1/2 years into this period) he will cause sacrifice and gift offering to cease (interrupt their worship; compromise of Watch Tower Society; 42 months of persecution, abuse.)" — See Isaiah 43:28.  Yes, the "king of the North" or "small horn" of Daniel 7th & 8th chapters will be responsible for turning the seven-headed beast, against Jehovah's Name people and will subsequently "cause gift offering and sacrifice to cease." Yes, and for the remainder of the "week," "Jerusalem will be trampled upon by the nations," for "42 months" just as Jesus predicted. (Luke 21:24; Revelation 11:2, 13:5-7) And this action will affect all Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide, who refuse to follow in this "worship of Satan," reeling to the "wilderness" to 'get away from the face of the Dragon.' (Revelation 12:6, 13,14) And what will the disillusioned Jehovah's Witnesses do, while in the "wilderness," during this 3 1/2 year period? Hosea 3:4 puts it this way: "It is because for many days (3 1/2 years) the sons of Israel (separated Jehovah's Witnesses from main body of apostates, the "woman in the wilderness") will dwell (3 1/2 years) without a king and without a prince and without a sacrifice and without a pillar and without an ephod and teraphim."  But you may be saying: "It is very hard to believe that the leading members of the Watch Tower Society will actually capitulate, compromise, and sell out completely to the governmental "powers that be," so late in this time of the end...so close to Armageddon." Well, believe it or not, this will not be the first instance of the leaders of this organization directing the brotherhood away from Jehovah. No, it is not. Let's take a few very noticeable examples of compromise already going on today.  EXAMPLES OF COMPROMISE AMONG JEHovah'S WITNESSES EVEN NOW  On the question of obedience, are you more pleasing with the Watch Tower Society than Jehovah God? Does the Society command your loyalty and obedience? Even our attitude can betray a lack of loyalty to Jehovah God. Yes, even our attitude and personal viewpoints. Perhaps, you have heard brothers make statements such as these: "I would rather be wrong with the Society than be right by myself." Or, how about this one: "It doesn't matter what the Society decides to do...Jehovah doesn't hold us responsible for what the Society does...if they should do something wrong, or maybe make a wrong decision, Jehovah will discipline them, not us. Jehovah is not going to discipline us for something the Society does."  Have you heard individual witnesses make such statements? Have you? Well, even though many individuals have made such statements, in actuality, these views are erroneous, scripturally speaking. Let's examine the first statement.  There is always virtue in standing for "right," no matter that the individual has to stand "alone." And, under no circumstances would a Christian "rather be wrong," or 'want to be wrong' with anyone, including the Watch Tower Society. No, he does not. The plain fact of the matter is this: if you are standing for "right," then you are never alone! No, because Jehovah God and His loyal Son, Jesus are standing right beside you. Yes, because they always stand for "right."  And how about the second attitude expressed above concerning the question of bearing responsibility for wrong decisions or actions? For example, how about Jesus' statement at Matthew 13:14: "Let them be. Blind guides is what they are. If, then, a blind man guides a blind man, both will fall into a pit."  Yes, if the 'blind lead the blind,' then 'both' will fall into the pit. There is no escaping it. If the Watch Tower Society is leading the Jehovah's Witnesses in a wrong path, then 'both' will fall into the pit." Remember, leadership always affects the followers, for good or bad. Take for example Adam and Eve. Certainly, their example has had disastrous effects upon us, their offspring, even though we had nothing to do with their original sin in the Garden of Eden. And how about the ten unfaithful spies who were sent to spy out the promise land. Did not their 'bad report' and faithless example have a detrimental effect upon the whole nation? Yes, their example and counsel caused the whole nation to wander in the wilderness for 40 years! — Numbers 13:25 thru 14:39  Then, take the example of David and Bathsheba. Again, not only did David suffer because of his adulterous affair with the death of the offspring of this union, but his whole family suffered with constant turmoil and disunity with rebellions from Absalom, Adonijah, and the raping of his daughter, Tamar. Clearly, others are affected by the actions of their respective leaders, whether in the family arrangement or on a national level. — 2 Samuel chapter 11; 2 Samuel chapter 15; 1 Kings chapter 1; 2 Samuel 13.  In addition to expressing wrong attitudes that betray a lack of "loyalty," we, as Jehovah's servants, might be surprised to know that we may have ALREADY COMPROMISED our loyalty and obedience to Jehovah in another very subtle way. For instance, to maintain complete obedience to themselves from Jehovah's Witnesses, the Governing Body gives constant reminders that one cannot receive salvation without the Society's guidance and direction, by way of its publications and its "special" representatives. Is that what the Bible teaches? Further, we have noticed that the brotherhood has been taught to look at the Watch Tower Society's word as being the same as God's Word. Maybe, you have noticed this yourself in your dealings with Jehovah's Witnesses. However, would you say that this is appropriate? Well, to answer that question, let's take a close look at an ancient example in Ahithophel, David's Now compare these questions with the new ones propounded to baptismal candidates since the year of 1985. The dedicated yourself unreservedly to Jehovah God, to do his will henceforth as that will is revealed to you through his ransomer, Christ Jesus? 2) On the basis of this faith in God and in his provision for redemption have you needing salvation from Jehovah God? And have you acknowledged that this salvation proceeds from him and changes in the questions for baptismal candidates since the year of 1985. To really see the difference, let's notice the congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide. One notable example of how this has been done is their subtle changes in the questions for baptismal candidates since the year of 1985. NEW BAPTISMAL QUESTIONS CHALLENGES CHRISTIAN'S LOYALTY TO GOD The Watch Tower Society has in the 17-year tenure of the Governing Body, made drastic and irreverent encroachments upon Jehovah God's position as Supreme Sovereign in the Christian congregation. The Society has misused and abused their authority, and have, as it were, "placed their threshold with Jehovah's threshold and their doorpost beside Jehovah's doorpost." They have, by their actions, asserted equal status with Jehovah in His own "temple" arrangement! (See Ezekiel 43:8; 2 Thessalonians 2:3,4) And this, of course, has escaped the notice of millions of trusting individuals in the congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide. One notable example of how this has been done is their subtle changes in the questions for baptismal candidates since the year of 1985. To really see the difference, let's notice the questions for baptism before that year. They are as follows: 1) Have you recognized yourself as a sinner and needing salvation from Jehovah God? And have you acknowledged that this salvation proceeds from him and through his ransom, Christ Jesus? 2) On the basis of this faith in God and in his provision for redemption have you dedicated yourself unreservedly to Jehovah God, to do his will henceforth as that is revealed to you through Christ Jesus and through God's Word as his Holy Spirit makes it plain? (See Watchtower 1970 pg. 309 par. 20.) Now compare these questions with the new ones propounded to baptismal candidates since the year of 1985. The... new questions are as follows: 1) On the basis of the sacrifice of Jesus Christ, have you repented of your sins and dedicated yourself to Jehovah to do his will? 2) Do you understand that your dedication and baptism identify you as one of Jehovah’s Witnesses in association with God’s spirit-directed organization? (See Watchtower June 1, 1985 pg. 30 par. 3,4.)  Do you notice anything different? "Why, yes!” you say. In the first instance, the emphasis is placed on the individual being a sinner in need of salvation from Jehovah God. Next, the individual acknowledges Jesus’ role in this salvation as ransom of mankind. Secondly, the individual responds to the thought that he has dedicated his life to Jehovah God. The individual understands that God’s will is revealed through His Word under the direction of Holy Spirit and therefore have the final say in the person’s life, always. This is what the individual agrees to before Jehovah, forevermore. Did you make such an agreement? The questions are certainly proper and serve to remind all of us of our grave responsibility to be completely loyal to him!  However, the new set of questions highlight something different. Yes, the individual is told to recognize the fact that he is a sinner in need of repentance, but it does not say that his salvation comes from Jehovah! That is left hanging in the air. The individual is left to possibly ponder that his salvation may come from Jehovah, but may also come from some additional source such as the "spirit-directed organization.” This is not clearly stated in the first question! And, as you can see, the second question directly ties together the person’s dedication and his identification with the association known as Jehovah’s Witnesses, yes the “spirit-directed organization.” Could the individual be, perhaps, dedicated jointly to Jehovah and the ‘spirit-directed’ organization? The implications are serious! You be the judge of that!  Clearly, the Watch Tower Society is totally out of bounds in their presumptuous words and actions. After all, what’s the point of changing the questions in the first place? The original questions were appropriate, entirely proper! What was their purpose in changing them? Better yet, what was their real motive in changing the original baptismal questions! There must be one of grave significance. It has been reported that the Society changed these questions for legal reasons, in case the individual decides to leave the organization and does not wish to be subjected to public branding and treatment as a “disfellowshipped” person. (See “THE REPORT” chapter 6 Administering Discipline Scripturally.) This new terminology will now help them in the courts, if it comes to that. However, no matter what the reason, these changes have struck to the heart of the question: Where is Your loyalty” — to God or to Man?  CONTRAST IN VIEWPOINT CONCERNING BAPTISM AND DEDICATION  In view of the above change in position by the Society, let us take note of this comment taken from a Watchtower article written in 1955. It states: "A Christian, therefore, cannot be baptized in the name of the one actually doing the immersing or in the name of any man, nor in the name of any organization, but in the name of the Father, the Son and the holy spirit.”  Did we notice that the person is not to be baptized “in the name of any organization?” Yes, that would include the organization known as the Jehovah’s Witnesses, wouldn't it? (See July 1, 1955 pg. 411 par. 15) Let's take note of another enlightening comment taken from a 1966 Watchtower magazine. It states: "Jehovah is the giver of life. ‘With you is the source of life.’ (Ps. 36:9) We cannot keep everlasting life in view without staying close to Jehovah, the source of life...This is what we mean when we dedicate our lives to Jehovah. We do not dedicate ourselves to a religion, nor to a man, nor to an organization. No, we dedicate ourselves to the Supreme Sovereign of the Universe, our Creator, Jehovah God himself. This makes dedication a very personal relationship between us and Jehovah. For this reason, all dedicated ones are not only privileged but obligated to draw near to Jehovah in prayer. James 4:8 tells us: ‘Draw close to God, and he will draw close to you.’” The questions for those paragraphs read this way: "What principles must we keep clearly in mind in our relationship to Jehovah? What should we know about dedication? What necessary thing will help us to stay close to Jehovah, keeping him always before us?” (October 1, 1966 pgs. 603, 604 par. 14, 15). Therefore, it is clear that the Watch Tower Society has certainly changed their position in this matter of dedication and baptism. Again, what is the reason given for this change? Notice the following.  SIMPLIFICATION OF QUESTIONS?  The WT Society says they changed the baptismal questions to SIMPLIFY matters. This comment was made by the Society in the April 15, 1987 Watchtower magazine pg. 12 par. 11. It states: “By baptism you identify yourself as one of Jehovah’s Witnesses in association with God’s worldwide congregation. Baptism validates a solemn agreement made with God.” The footnote at the bottom of the page makes this point: "Recently the two questions addressed to baptismal candidates were simplified so that candidates could answer with full comprehension of what is involved in coming into an intimate relationship with God AND HIS EARTHLY ORGANIZATION.” But again, did they say: “intimate relationship with his earthly organization?” How can a living breathing person have an “intimate relationship” with a corporation or organization? Further, we see that the Watch Tower Society has tried to explain away or justify the changes made in the baptismal questions by saying that they are simplifying matters. But we ask, "what could be more simplified than the original questions?” The individual has dedicated his life to Jehovah God only, and not to an organization! That's not complicated. However, it is much more complicated to tell a person that his ‘dedication to Jehovah God identifies him with a spirit-directed organization,’ wouldn't you say? Which is least complicated? Judge for yourself. Also, did Jesus instruct his disciples to baptize in the name of a “spirit-directed organization?” Did he? Or, did he simply state to baptize them in the name of the “Father, Son and the Holy Spirit?” Think about it. — Matthew 28:19,20  WHERE THE REAL PROBLEM EXISTS  Could this be just another example of their "lawless" acts to steal veneration, even "worship," from Jehovah himself. (See Ezekiel 37:23 also footnote.) Please consider: Just as the Watch Tower Society originally said in the October 1, 1966 Watchtower magazine, (pgs. 603, 604 par. 14, 15) a person's dedication is the most sacred and important step and an individual can take in establishing a spiritual relationship with Jehovah God. This is something that is "very personal." Yes, the Intimate Group can certainly agree with the Watch Tower Society on this fact. And yet, here we see the Watch Tower Society themselves, less than 20 years later, for whatever reasons, uninvitedly stepping in and placing themselves in the relationship between God and man — somehow making themselves a conditional part of the agreement or covenant between the individual and his Creator. What an overt act of arrogance!  Is it any wonder the "man of lawlessness," the "son of destruction," will receive just as his forerunner and prototype Judas Iscariot received, everlasting destruction, death in Gehenna! (compare John 17:12 with 2 Thessalonians 2:3) Their methods are unscrupulous and unsavory to say the least! They have brazenly stepped up, up so high as to rival even Jehovah himself — just like a certain angel we know all too well. (Isaiah 14:12-14) Yes, they act as a "god" right in Jehovah's temple desiring to be worshipped!  But at this point you must be thinking: "What?...the 'man of lawlessness'?...I thought the "man of lawlessness" was the clergy of Christendom?" Well, believe it or not, the "man of lawlessness" is not the clergy of Christendom, as the Watch Tower Society has said. But, to get more details, let's consider the following information to see if we can unlock the true meaning of one of the most baffling "mysteries" [mysterions] or "religion secrets" of our time. — 2 Thessalonians 2:3,4." --- "The REPORT" (1994) pages 155-168.  bjc2read@yahoo.com
Muhammad excepted a beheaded skull of a non-believer as a gift and this is written in the Koran.  A book written by Stansfield Turner; Terrorism and Democracy makes the point of terror to our country in one simple sentence: "We should set our sights high in hope that the burden of terrorism we are presently carrying will be a blessing in disguise by helping usher in a new era of world cooperation that will reach well beyond the suppression of terrorism itself." The idea of a New World Order is now in the making, it's clay feet mixed with iron shall stand tall and rule the world supposedly with one unified government.  Is it possible the CIA was involved? Could it be true those terrorist didn't have the education or technology to fund such and operation? What is curious it took an attack for the United Stated to have NATO and all western allies shout with one voice, could it be trickery at the expense of six thousand lives to bring about this New World Order? We have a lot of questioning to do before we give ourselves to nationalism or United Nations. Can it be true the reason why the Jehovah's Witness organization wants humble sheep is that they want compliance then join in the New World Order? How better to than to start as a religion to have people being trained to obey and not question anything. we have much to think about, this is only the beginning...afraid in Sacramento

ON THE ISSUE OF MATT 5:10. IT IS NOT ONLY TO BE APPLIED TO THE 144,000. THE 144,000 WOULD BE JOINT RULERS WITH CHRIST IN THIS "KINGDOM OF THE HEAVENS". THE EARTHLY CLASS WOULD RESIDE HERE ON EARTH, AFTER ALL, YOU CANT HAVE RULERS WITHOUT SOMEONE TO RULE OVER. AGAIN, A LITTLE REASONING ABILITY WOULD HELP. ON YOUR OTHER COMMENT ABOUT USING ONLY 6.5% OF THE SCRIPTURES, WHILE IT IS TRUE THAT WE USE SOME SCRIPTURES MORE FREQUENTLY THAN OTHERS, IF WE DID NOT USE THEM ALL WE WOULD MOST DEFINITELY CONFLICT IN OUR INTERPRETATION OF THEM. AS FAR AS THE USE OF BIBLE AIDS, WHILE THE SCRIPTURES DO NOT SAY TO "CHECK THE WATCHTOWER", THEY ALSO DO NOT SAY TO CHECK THE DICTIONARY FOR THE MEANINGS OF WORDS, OF CONSULT WITH TRANSLATORS SO THAT EVERYONE CAN READ IT. I'LL SAY IT AGAIN, REASONING ABILITY, COMMON SENSE. FUZZ *

Dear Lambs, I ache so terribly for all of you who have endured sexual abuse as a child. We can be certain that Jehovah does NOT condone this behavior or approve the conduct of the Elders who protect the molest- ers. Think of the priest Eli. He was not involved in sinful conduct, but his sons were. Eli took no action, turned a blind eye, and eventually paid for his apathetic attitude with his broken neck. My story is a little different than most of yours. I was not sexually abused as a child, but I left a husband, an Elder, who was emotionally and physically abusive. I even took eyewitnesses to the Elders who had seen acts of abuse. None of us were believed. We were all told to keep our mouths shut or charges would be made against us. I moved away from my congregation because I had to seek a safe place for my children and I to live away from my husband. Two and a half months after I left, a marking talk was given against me because I had not followed the Elder's counsel to return to my husband. Three months later ANOTHER marking talk was given against me for "disrupting the peace in the congregation." Anytime I tried to defend my actions or explain why my children and I left, that was considered "disrupting the peace in the congregation". Anytime my husband spoke, he received hugs, pats on the back and tears of sympathy. The whole story would turn your stomach. It involves many letters being sent to Patterson. One which includes 3 letters from eyewitnesses that prove the Presiding Overseer committed slander against me. I told the P.O. that I HAD been abused, he told MANY publishers that I said there was NO abuse. This P.O. is still in good standing, even giving a talk at the District Convention last month. I think the issue of wife abuse, especially if you are married to an Elder, is mishandled just as badly as children's sexual abuse cases. Do any of you have similar stories? E-mail me at

CHUCKLE & GRIN to the person who wrote: "I think that a little humility would be the missing ingredient in this recipe." -- Agree 100%. If the WTBTS would just admit their errors and say, "We're sorry. We're human and we screwed up. Will you all forgive us?" I think we all would sure give it a shot. But No! They buckle down harder and keep punishing innocent people. Sickenig to say the least. /SLC

Hi again bjc2 or anyone: In "THE REPORT" it said. "The WT Society asks (according to the February 1991 Our Kingdom Ministry under the article "Fulfilling Our Kingdom Ministry as Jehovah's Witnesses") this subtle question: "Do you know what OUR official view is on advanced education, autopsies, killing in self-defense, or public welfare assistance?" --- I'd like to know from ANYONE who KNOWS, what do they mean here about public welfare assistance? Did they tell the JWs they could not accept help from the government or what? --- Have they EVER said anything about being on Social Security Disability? I would double-dare them to condemn JWs or anybody for that!!! /SLC

Dear "afraid in Sacramento": My very first thought on the morning of 9/11 when I saw the news was, "Is this REALLY what it APPEARS to be?" That entire morning I could not shake the feeling that there was MUCH MORE to this than what meets the eye... In other words, I also thought that it might be the ploy of the "powers that be" who want to bring the USA to its knees to make room for the NWO. I had read before the 9-11 "terrorist attack" how Bush had refused for months to pay the USA's delinquent dues to the UN because he was against the whole idea of the NWO, and the UN is FOR the NWO; so what better way to make the USA buckle-under to the desires of the NWO than to attack them directly? And since Revelation shows that the 7th world power would disappear, this gave me more reason for thinking 9-11 was not just an attack by some crazy people, but by some "bigger power" that wants to obliterate the USA entirely so the NWO can take over (via the European Union, is my guess, from other things I've heard). I definitely believe in the "conspiracy" theories... you should like someone who posts on Channel C? Are you the same? ;) Especially your comment about JWs/humble sheep/compliance/trained to obey, etc... I have read about this "theory" at Channel C, i.e., The Watchtower being an "experiment" by the Illuminati (or whoever)... Either you read the same threads or you are one of the conspiracy fans, eh? ;) --- Also, as far as all of us "being tagged" by the Office of Home Security, whether it be ID cards or implanted microchips into our hands or foreheads... I think it "has" to come due to the scripture in Revelation... --- Thanks for your comments. Definite food for thought. /SLC

"...Jesus loves you more than you will know...whoa, whoa, whoa..." --- Mrs. Barbara Anderson, that is. --- While I wholeheartedly join in with the backslapping and thundering applause being accorded the relentless and selfless efforts of Bill Bowen and his Silentlamsb lobby and other men of integrity and conscience --- some still, some no longer, associated with the "Christian" Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses --- in exposing the vileness and hypocrisy of certain of the WTS's policies, I am moved to hoist a separate and personal tribute to a woman who has turned out to have more integrity and character and courage and conviction than most people with whom I've ever been acquainted and, more on point, than virtually any of the generally good and decent JWs I ever knew in my 30 year association --- male or female, regardless his "rank" or his/her JW "pedigree." --- Unless you've ever been "Sister" Somebody-Anybody-Nobody with a fully-engaged intellect and robust self-image among JWs, you can have little approximating a sympathetic comprehension --- no matter how substantial your attempt or sincere your motivation --- of the stifling, enervating misery that is/was her existence in her futile efforts to accept and measure up to Jehovah's seemingly inexplicable standards for women in the congregation which, first and most critical, is to "stay in your place" and to "display the quiet and mild spirit" of the godly woman in humble and respectful submission to "those taking the lead." --- Read: Sftu. --- If the bright, self-confident JW woman finds that she has succumbed to the sin of allowing place in her mind for one of those irrepressible independent thoughts, her only option --- should she fail in prayerful attempt to cleanse her mind of the offending notion (even if said notion is little more than alerting Brother Shrubbery-for-Brains directing the field service group that he's reading the territory map upside down or Brother GED Graduate cum Book Study reader, after the 50th mispronunciation in a 25 word paragraph, that Jehovah is likely not the "Solvent of the Universe") --- is to fashion the meekest and most non-threatening question to one of "those raking the leaves taking the lead." His response would almost invariably come in some flavor of the "never-mind-your-pretty-little-head-just-leave-important-matters-requiring-heavy-lifting (read: thinking)-to-those-appointed-by-holy-spirit." --- Read: Kinder, gentler sftu. --- Imagine, then, what eye-popping, jaw-dropping, teeth-rattling, bone-chilling lack of submission Barbara Anderson displays in the eyes of the average JW man or woman when she swells her physical little bit to her imposing moral stature and dares to let out a roar and shake her fist at the all-powerful, rigidly-hierarchical, dominating and abusive caste system that is the WT patriarchy. --- "Please Jehovah, safeguard your loyal ones throughout your holy mountain in the day of your burning anger!" --- Not only did she not mistakenly (or self-servingly) believe this to be a matter about which she must "wait on Jehovah" to right things, astonishingly, she gave herself over to the empowering epiphany to which very few JWs ever dare: that it was Jehovah who was waiting on her. --- Imagine that. --- "...if one knows how to do what is right and yet does not do it, it is a sin for him," --- James 4:17, NWT --- After spending years personally and confidentially appealing to individual GB members to recognize and change the WTS's grossly immoral and criminal pedophile protection policy (tm), she would not allow their refusal to do so to let her conscience off the hook. Eschewing her near-lifetime of WT domination and subjugation and indoctrination regarding the woman's "proper" role within the Christian congregation, she would not relinquish her moral responsibility with "You've done all Jehovah expects you to do, good and faithful slave; you must now wait on him." As none of the many, many men --- Bethel and congregation elders --- who had long known of the wicked, self-serving molestation [accusation] policy(ies) being dictated from atop "Mount Zion" itself had apparently answered when Jehovah "called" to them (for you with faith in such, of course), Barb concluded: If not her, who? If not now, when? --- [Lord], here I am! Send me, [a woman]." --- Isaiah 6:8 --- Arguably Jehovah has one helluvan ironic sense of humor. --- At which point she took a deep breath and set her mind to her "assignment." And, as a result of her faithfulness, among her other rewards was the discovery that there are, lo and behold, others like her, willing to speak truth to power --- whatever its cost. --- So, this tribute is to take absolutely nothing from you, Bill, or any of you precious few other courageous and good men, but, for Barb to do what she has done, well, only Sister Somebody-Anybody-Nobody can truly appreciate the sentiment: --- "God bless you, please, Mrs. Anderson...heaven holds a place for those who pray,... hey hey, hey..." --- AMNESIAN Remote User: Lilacs4evers@yahoo.com -- Abused Wives are welcome here to!!! Thanks for sharing your story, and so sorry to hear that, with witnesses backing you up, the GB in Patterson, your PO and "friends" in your cong still turned their back on you. This is sooooo sickening that this happens again and again. The oft repeated phrase, "Old Boys' Club" obviously is NOT an exaggeration. I thought the "official" WTS stance on spousal abuse had changed in latter years to allow for a wife to exit her husband if she was in danger. So how can they treat you this way? Sounds like you should contact that attorney mentioned in the above post... maybe he can help. The pertinent portion of that post read: "ABVA TRUST is calling for victims of the Watchtower practices of defamation by threats and disfellowshipping, who may have suffered similar violence and family breakup to make response to this paper or Mr. [Attorney Melvin E.] Soll at 64 Liberto Lane, Dover, Delaware 19901, as ABVA TRUST is executing Judgment against the Watchtower, et al, to seize its corporate assets and file incompetent charges against its office and directors for their evil and criminal practices in hopes of putting an end to their persecutions for profit. Please reply in confidence in person or through your attorney with documentation." -- All the best/SLC

Your teachers NO LONGER want you to STUDY DEEPLY! --- And as far as the 144,000, contrary to GB theology, the 144,000/little flock who go to heaven are the FLESHLY JEWS (apostles, etc.) who believed in Jesus back in the first century; and the other sheep/great crowd are ALL THE GENTILES SINCE THEN who have believed! Try that one on for size! /SLC

Hey Fuzz IF YOU HIT THE LITTLE BUTTON ON THE LEFT SIDE OF YOUR KEYBOARD THAT IS CALLED CAPS LOCK, (CLICK) something wonderful will happen! You will get lower case letters like these ones. And people will not think that you are a looney bin yelling with your keyboard.

Hey Fuzz: My religious leaders told me to take the 12 tribes of Israel literally, but I must take the 144,000 as figurative. Here is the formula they gave me: 1x4x4+0+0+0=16 See, it is that easy! Only 16 people are going to rule! That is one person each from 8 tribes and 2 from each of the remaining four! Now don't be unreasonable.

Hi everyone, bjc here. Hot News!  As you've probably heard, WT Bethel is going send home some 1,000 workers from Bethel very soon. They've asked for volunteers to leave. This was announced at Bethel recently, and confirmed by other reliable sources.  But were you aware that also recently in the news, the WTS informed the press that they are EXPANDING Patterson facility by some 25%? (Of course the brotherhood has not been notified. That comes later, as always.)  They've announced that they are sending home 1,000 bethel workers, but haven't announced that the G.B. is planning on expanding the Patterson facility by some 25%! Isn't that amazingly wicked and deceitful? Does not this seem like a gross misappropriation of funds in their care?  --- Here is the news article --- Jehovah's Witnesses seek to expand campus in Patterson By MICHAEL RISINIT THE JOURNAL NEWS (Original publication: , 20) PATTERSON The hilltop complex off Route 22 in Patterson that is part of the global headquarters for about 6 million Jehovah's Witnesses is running out of room, and the religious group wants to enlarge its complex. The Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, the legal name of the parent organization of the Witnesses, has proposed adding about 172,800 square feet more of office and living space to its campus. The facility is used as a training center for hundreds of administrators from around the world. It also houses the graphic arts headquarters of the organization's Bible-education materials. "It's kind of an orderly growth we've experienced," said Richard Eldred, spokesman for the Jehovah's Witnesses facility. "We anticipate increasing needs as the years go by." Watchtower representatives will be before the Patterson Zoning Board of Appeals tonight for a public hearing. Patterson Town Planner Richard Williams said the group "needs to do a couple of things" to move ahead with its proposal. The Witnesses have to amend their special permit as it pertains to parking. Watchtower is also seeking relief from the town's height ordinance for some of its proposed buildings. The zoning board meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in Patterson Town Hall, Routes 311 and 164. The proposed five new buildings would represent about a 25 percent increase in the facility's size, which was completed in 1995. Eldred said the new construction would take about two or three years to complete and would accommodate the group's needs for at least 10 years. Plans filed with the Patterson Planning Department show two new residence buildings, one three stories and the other five; a new four-story office building, a maintenance building and a three-story addition to the complex's audio-visual studio on the group's 362 acres. The tallest proposed structure is 79 feet, 30 feet taller than local zoning codes permit. The proposal is expected also to come under review from the town's Planning Board, Williams said. Watchtower bought the land, a former dairy farm, along both sides of Route 22 in 1984 and began construction of the missionary training complex in 1989. The 28-building complex includes school facilities, offices and residences to accommodate about 1,200 people. Active in almost every country in the world, the group has about 1.05 million members in the United States. --- end of news article ---  news linked here : http://www.thejournalnews.com/newsroom/011602/16watchtower.html  Additional link below of JW "online" discussion board of this new terrifically hypocritical situation hidden from the brotherhood in general. http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=33485&site=3  bjc2read@yahoo.com

Hi SLC: --- You asked whether JW.com Discussion forum has heard about the book called "THE REPORT"? Why yes they have...AND THEY HATE IT!!! (smile) To be sure, it is completely loathsome to most there. But that's to be expected since really, JW.com is NOT a pro-JW Discussion board. It is truly ANTI-JWs, when you really get down to it. Their only mission is to turn as many JWs as possible against WTS as possible. And in their fervor to do this, they wish to destroy every single belief or possible notion that JWs occupy any space or significance with God, prophetically speaking. In other words, JWs just ain't in the Bible ... period! I know. Because every time I post over at JW.com, and speak in any way POSITIVELY about Jehovah's Witnesses, guess what...I get the "cold shoulder" treatment. At jw.com, they have a very, very large community of ex-jws. And these ex-jws that frequent JW.com, it seems have a special hatred for the message of "The Report", as it shows JWs are going to be "restored" to God's favor, apart from the WTS, as the nation of "Israel". That irks many over there. Although I have talked with a "quiet" few there, that have some misgivings about always attacking anything that is pro-JW. But by and large, most it seems down the book (The Report) at JW.com as their biggest contention is its author believes the Jehovah's Witnesses are God's People, God's Name People--fulfilling Bible prophecy. Put nicely, this thought is, shall we say, repugnant, and tooooc grandiose for the "taste" of the frequenters of that discussion board. So I wouldn't advise posting anything about "The Report" over there...Really. If you say anything at all about "The Report", you will certainly, most assuredly BE ATTACKED almost by everyone present over at JW.com., INCLUDING the administrator of the board. In short, nobody likes "The Report" at JW.com. So save your breath. (smile) I know, since I've posted there for close to 2 years now, along with the author of the book himself.  Of course, as you know, this discussion area at silent lambs is totally pro-JWs, and lot more receptive to the ideas of "THE REPORT" about JW's fulfilling Bible prophecy as mystery "Israel". This is a pro-JW web site...I got different place from JW.com...thank heavens!!!  Concerning the UN/GB Scandal, here is more information from "THE REPORT" pages 205-212 on the September 8th, 1991 Awake! article written by WTS.   Even now, leanings in this very direction are very clear for us to see if we compare a recent article dealing with the United Nations as a peace-making entity and previous ones on the same subject. Let's examine these together. A CHANGE IN VIEWPOINT CONCERNING THE UNITED NATIONS As we know, it has been said many times in the Watchtower Society's publications that the theme of the entire Bible is God's kingdom. That was the theme of Jesus' ministry and is claimed to be the theme of Jehovah's Witnesses' ministry and message under the direction of the Watchtower Society. However, an article in the September 8, 1991 Awake! never pointed to that kingdom in any form or fashion. That particular article never even mentioned God's Kingdom or any scripture of the Bible to present Jehovah's viewpoint on this disgusting and misleading organization! This was a very unusual article published by the Watchtower Society indeed. Did you notice this while reading the article yourself? Instead of taking their previous stand of staunch resistance against the U.N., they insinuated to over 11 million readers, most of whom are not Jehovah's Witnesses, that the political organization may be able to bring about their accomplished goal of peace. You may be saying: "How did the article do that?" It was by skillful and adroit use of such noncommittal statements as: "If this could be done, then the UN's voice of jurisdiction could authoritatively denounce any nation threatening the peace of the world." Individuals reading this may get the idea that the U.N. is within reach of bringing about this 'peace for the world.' In commenting on the Gulf Crisis and the U.N.'s use of force to gain world-peace, the article had this to say: "Perhaps you are wondering, 'Was the U.N.'s role in the Persian Gulf crisis a start in this direction?' It could be." It is clear that this article made no attempt to clarify to the reader the difference between the false peace that man may be able to temporarily bring and the true peace that the Bible speaks about, which as we know, will come only through the "Prince of Peace," Jesus Christ. (Isaiah 9:6) Nevertheless, someone will say: "The Watchtower Society in the past, has written numerous articles stating these very same points. In fact, the Watchtower magazine over the years has become a hated publication because of taking a firm and adamant stand against the U.N. and it's predictions for the future. They don't have to spell out every detail of the Bible's position on the U.N. each time they write an article on the subject, do they? Everybody knows where the Society stands, right?" THE TRUMPET BLAST One might illustrate the problem this way: In war situations, most armies have battle formation cadences and alarm signals set up to alert the troops at any time of the approach of the enemy. Even, the nation of Israel had such a signal to keep the people on the alert and give critical direction in case of attack or formation for battle. How was it done? It was done by the sounding of a horn C yes, a trumpet blast, an instrument known to be loud and clear! (See Numbers 10:3-9; 31:6) Notice this comment from the Watchtower magazine itself on this timely subject to make the critical point. "The Aaronic priests alone were authorized to sound the sacred trumpets. The notes they blew must be clear and understandable so that the people might know what was required of them. The apostle Paul wrote: 'For truly, if the trumpet sounds an indistinct call, who will get ready for battle? In the same way also, unless you through the tongue utter speech easily understood, how will it be known what is being spoken? You will, in fact, be speaking into the air.' (1 Corinthians 14:8,9)" The article then makes the vital point as it continues: "There is responsibility, therefore, for Christ's underpriests [anointed upon earth] today to sound out a clear-cut, easily understandable message from God's Word to all peoples, one that is couched in the language of today, that will stand out from the false and blatant and biased messages of human organizations. FEARLESSLY, and using this journal in a signal manner, as they have done for over eighty-five years, the underpriests of Christ Jesus are sounding forth a clear message from God's Word for this day in which we live... Not to be overlooked is the fact that this same 'trumpet' message sounds the call to warfare against Jehovah's enemies." C See Watchtower 1968 page 374 par. 12.13. Well, could we say, as mentioned in the article, that they are 'fearlessly using this journal?' That is questionable, wouldn't you say? Also, did you notice the comment: "The trumpet message sounds the call to warfare against Jehovah's enemies?" And who could be a greater "enemy" of God's people than the "beastly" political organization known as the United Nations which according to Revelation chapter 13 will be "worshipped" along with the "Dragon" in these "last days?" Could there be a greater "enemy" than this shortly-to-be persecutor of God's people? Think about it. And just as the article pointed out, there is real danger in sounding an "indistinct call" to the troops! There is danger in just "speaking into the air" and thus jeopardizing the lives of unsuspecting millions who depend upon such trumpet blasts. Therefore, we ask the all-important question: Did the presumed modern-day "Aaronic underpriests" [Governing Body and Watchtower Society associates] dutifully alert the nation [Jehovah's Witnesses] for spiritual battle against 'the enemy,' the United Nations? Did they sound a "clear and understandable" message so that the people might know what is "required of them" before Jehovah? Or, was the thrust of this article obscure, ambiguous, cryptic, yes, 'indistinct'? QUESTIONS TO ASK YOURSELF 1) Could the article mislead people who are unfamiliar with Jehovah's Witnesses beliefs giving them the impression that the Witnesses are in favor of the United Nations? 2) Could those who are somewhat familiar with the beliefs of Jehovah's Witnesses now conclude that Jehovah's Witnesses have a new policy concerning the United Nations organization and are now in favor of such? 3) And worse, could the Jehovah's Witnesses themselves get the message that it's time to take a new approach to the message of the 'enemy'? Yes, 'let's soften 'em up a little bit,' then the people will listen better.' These are questions that we need to give serious and sober consideration to. Our very lives may depend upon our having the proper perspective of this matter. There is one additional point in this article that has definitely escaped the notice of Jehovah's Witnesses world-wide. They did not recognize on whose shoulders the real responsibility has been placed to "sound this message" about the enemy United Nations Organization. That's right, on that of the Witnesses themselves! Notice this comment from the same article: "Jehovah's Witnesses firmly believe that the United Nations is going to play a major role in world events in the very near future. No doubt these developments will be very exciting. And the results will have a far-reaching impact on your life. We urge you to ask Jehovah's Witnesses in your neighborhood for more details on this matter." Now, why does the reader need to "ask Jehovah's Witnesses" in his "neighborhood for more details?" What if there are no Jehovah's Witnesses in his neighborhood at all? What if the nearest Jehovah's Witness is many miles away? What is the reader to do? There was ample room for the article to provide the all-important "details" concerning Bible prophecy and the U.N., wasn't there? But instead, the writers of the article deferred. Yes, they shucked 'their responsibility' as trumpet blowers. They shifted the responsibility to the "Jehovah's Witnesses in your neighborhood." Did you notice that? What treachery! What acowardly side-stepping of responsibility on the Watchtower Society's part! C Revelation 21:8 PREVIOUS ARTICLES ON THE UNITED NATIONS We will now quote from articles written over the years by the Watchtower Society on this very same subject. Notice the pointedness and direct application of Bible prophecy as it relates to the United Nations Organization. "With 'the war of the great day of God the Almighty' impending, why trust in a refuge, such as the U.N., that cannot prove trustworthy? Mankind's only hope for permanent peace is God's heavenly kingdom." C Awake! 2/8/67 pg. 4 "What a disgusting thing in God's sight that religio-political alliance responsible for killing his Son. A similar disgusting conspiracy was to be a feature of Jesus' second presence. It is here now. Today that religio-political world alliance against God's kingdom finds its most powerful expression in the clergy-blessed United Nations. What a disgusting thing this clergy-supported alliance that stands before the attention of the people where God's kingdom should stand!" C Watchtower, 1961 page 630 par. 5 "The scarlet-colored wild beast and its 'ten horns' devastate Babylon The Great (including Christendom), but not because they want to glorify Jehovah God or because they have come to love him now that they have turned to hating the religious harlot ... It is because they still fight against God's Messianic kingdom, for they strive to keep their occupancy of earth by their armed might. Yes, the ten-horned scarlet-colored wild beast is still the thing that Babylon the Great hailed as a substitute for God's Messianic kingdom. So those who make up the wild beast opposed those who practice the true Christianity and who preach and faithfully stick to God's Messianic kingdom, in which the Lamb of God, Jesus Christ, serves King under Him." C Watchtower, 1970 pg. 724, 725 par. 21. After reading these articles and the pointed comments made in each, we would have to conclude that the former ones are quite different from the September 8th Awake! article. "AMAZING, ASTONISHING THINGS" But now, back to the September 8, 1991 Awake! magazine article on the United Nations. It also made these comments: "The Bible clearly paints a picture showing that the United Nations will very shortly be given power and authority. The UN will then do some very astonishing things that may well amaze you." "No doubt these developments will be very exciting ... far-reaching." Why that sounds rather promising! Who wouldn't want to see some "amazing" things done in these dismal days and times? Who wouldn't want to see "exciting things," "far-reaching" things, for the lasting good of all mankind during our lifetime! Who wouldn't want to see the U.N. do such things, especially during our lifetime? This message certainly has appeal to the world! As 1 John 4:5 pointedly warns: "They originate with the world; that is why they speak [what proceeds] from the world and the world listens to them." Certainly, if the Watchtower Society continues to use the publications to sound such like messages, the ungodly world will in time start to "listen" to them, also. Think about it. This is a classic case of "selling out" by telling ungodly people just what they want to hear! Yes, man's efforts will result in "peace and security" through his political governmental arrangements and not Jesus Christ, the "Prince of Peace." (Proverbs 23:23) In fact, it might surprise individuals reading this material to know what the stated purpose of this same said magazine, Awake!, is. This message is printed in the inside cover of each and every Awake! magazine. It says of it's purpose: "IT [Awake!] probes beneath the surface and points to the meaning behind current events." Now, that's quite a statement! Can we stand before Jehovah and truthfully say that the Society has done just that with the writing of this particular article on the United Nations? Can we truthfully say that? We repeat, nowhere is there one single scripture mentioned in the entire article! No, not one. There is not one solitary mention of God's Kingdom in the whole article! How will the people know from what source real peace will come? Believe it or not, this is the very first article of it's kind on the vital subject of the United Nations Organization. But it will probably not be the last. There is absolutely no excuse for this! Unfaithfulness is quite evident on the part of the Watchtower Society in the publication of this article! But nevertheless, what conclusion have you reached on this article? Yes, what conclusion do you think you should reach concerning this matter? THIS: The September 8, 1991 Awake! article on the United Nations is a miserable and totally untenable display of cowardice! C 2 Timothy 1:7 SOMETHING TO PONDER Ask yourself: Could such a display of cowardice as demonstrated by this article be a promise of what is to come? "What things to come?" you may say. Well, let's notice Daniel 11:32 which says: "And those who are acting wickedly against [the] covenant, he [King of the North] will lead into apostasy by means of smooth words." Though this powerful king of the North has not prevailed upon the Watchtower Society as of yet, could this article give us a small clue of what is to happen when he does arrive on the earthly scene? Does it? Could this be a demonstration of the unhealthy influence that the United Nations Organization has over the fear-struck, Zedekiah-like Watchtower Society? Could the United Nations Organization have already taken some hidden action or made some threatening demands upon the Watchtower Society precipitating this new, softened message? Think about it. FAITHFUL IN SOUNDING THE MESSAGE REGARDLESS When the faithful prophet Isaiah was asked, "Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?" He responded "Here I am! Send me." Further, he was told "Go, and you must say to this people, 'HEAR AGAIN AND AGAIN ...'" In other words keep repeating this message and do not stop. That was his commission. (See Isaiah 6:8-9.) And for how long? Notice the answer given in verse 11, "Until the cities actually crash in ruins, to be without an inhabitant, and the houses be without earthing man, and the ground itself is ruined into a desolation." Yes, preach until the very end, without "letup." (Acts 5:42) As mentioned earlier, prostitution or spiritual adultery is definitely involved in the unfaithful leaders of this organization who dwell in Brooklyn Heights, 'selling out truth' for ease of life and filthy lucre. (Proverbs 23:23 and James 4:4) And faithful Christians who are still a part of this unfaithful organization of Jehovah's Witnesses must arise from their sleep and come to their senses in order to escape Jehovah's wrath. C Ephesians 5:13,14; 1 Corinthians 15:33,34 Who will be instrumental in coming to the aid of these Christians? This preaching assignment has been given to the "Two-Witnesses" who were prophesied to come in our day and time. But someone at this point might say: "the preaching work is being done already by one, and only one, group of people on the face of the earth; Jehovah's Witnesses as an organization. This is one of the proofs that they are true Christians, that is the door-to-door work." Is that truly the case? Let us examine the following to see if this is a Bible-based claim.  end of quote  "THE REPORT" (1994) pages 205-212.  bjc2read@yahoo.com

Hi bg2: Hey Hey, yeah I know all about J-W.com and the mainstay attitude over there. I really hated the place at first, but there are some really funny threads that get started. Also, any late-breaking WTS "news" can be found almost immediately upon its revelation there. Another thing I like about it is it's 24-hour activity. Always something going on and lots to read. Too late, though, about posting The Report info there. I did it before waiting for a reply from you. Oops! Guess I can expect to be "stoned" for doing so. --- There are some dubs who are STILL JWs who post there, albeit incognito. --- Thanks for the add'l info from The Report about the UN. Very interesting to see that it was 9-8-91 for their first "obvious" watering-down in the literature of their prior stance on the UN. And then in 1992 is when they became an NGO who post there, albeit incognito. --- What Perfect Timing!!! -- So what does the author feel about being Out of the Org him/herself? Are the "Two Witnesses" the JWs are to follow going to come out of the Current Org? If so, what good will that do for the DA/DF'd ones? If the author feels the JWs still ARE God's true people, then why doesn't the author get back in? Guess I'm a little confused. Anyway, great reading, all the same! Thanks again! /SLC

http://www.watchtower.org/library/hb/index.htm>...LOVING CARE FOR CHILDREN Of course, == Christians agree with laws or court action to prevent child abuse or neglect. == Perhaps you have read of cases in which some parent brutalized a child or denied it all medical care. === How tragic! Clearly, the State can and should step in to protect a neglected child. Out of the mouths of hypocrites! The more I see the sicker I get! If I am not really mistaken one of the worse type of person to Jesus was a hypocrite!!

A training manual was written on child sexual abuse investigations. The manual was used in training law enforcement officers to study the effectiveness of the training and the manual. A scholarly essay was written to report the results of the training. The theoretical framework of the training was combining the expertise of law enforcement and mental health professionals in a joint interview process. Ten law enforcement officers were trained in the investigation process and tested for recall, recognition, and application. Evaluation of the training was done based on the officers' perceptions of the effectiveness of the training. The results of the evaluation showed that content on dynamics of child sexual abuse could be taught and retained using an eight hour training period. The applicability of the training to investigative interviews could not be taught in the eight hour period. Implications for future training include longer and more intensive training periods which involve practice time, observation, and working as a secondary officer with a trained investigator before the trainee becomes a primary officer for the investigation. Key issues for training include child sexual abuse dynamics, children and suggestibility, the sexual abuse disclosure process, child development issues, the use of non-leading questions, the use of interview aids, fact vs. fantasy, rapport building with children, discussion of private parts, and setting the stage for a spontaneous disclosure. The training was rated by the officers. The format, presentation, manual, and investigative protocol were viewed as most positive. The negative focused on a need for more time in training. The officers rated the training in an overall rating score of 90.7%. Interesting..<http://www.ncjrs.org/policing/chi341.htm>

Thanks for the child abuse training manual/study investigation. Sounds like it wouldn't take much if the WTS REALLY REALLY wanted its elder to have some "training." But then they don't really care how sloppy they handle things because they'd rather stay in denial and keep it all undercover and behind closed doors. /SLC

PRESS RELEASE --- JOE ANDERSON-DISFELLOWSHIPPED! 7-31-02 Jehovah's Witness child advocate --- WILLIAM H. BOWEN-DISFELLOWSHIPPED! 7-25-02 Jehovah's Witness child advocate --- BARBARA ANDERSON-DISFELLOWSHIPPED! 7-25-02 Jehovah's Witness child advocate WHY ARE THOSE WHO SPEAK OUT FOR CHILDREN BEING DISFELLOWSHIPPED? --- WHY IS JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES' GOVERNING BODY ORDERING CHILD ADVOCATES DISFELLOWSHIPPED? --- Joe Anderson-67 of Normandy, TN, husband of Barb Anderson and a faithful Jehovah's Witness for over 50 years, resigned as an elder of over 43 years in protest of Watchtower policy on child abuse in June, 2002. In his letter he humbly requests the church to make needed changes to protect children. On Wednesday July 31 he was disfellowshipped at a judicial hearing, charged with, "causing divisions" because he sent a copy of the letter to fellow elders in his congregation and two members of the Governing Body who were personal friends. While he plans to appeal, Joe comments, "I stood up for children and by the judicial committees actions directed by the Governing Body, they protect those who rape children." 931-455-6910 --- William H. Bowen, of Calvert City who is founder of the organization "silentlambs," (www.silentlambs.org) a support group for victims of child abuse who were molested as Jehovah's Witnesses, spoke out as a former elder on Dateline and Panorama about how children are being harmed by Watchtower policy. Last Thursday July 25, he was notified that he had been disfellowshipped in a secret hearing. He sent his appeal on Monday. Bowen comments: "The leadership has decided to silence anyone who identifies this problem by destroying families through disfellowshipping. Hundreds of abuse survivors have suffered a similar fate at the hands of these henchmen, this is a public evidence of how Jehovah's Witnesses directed by the Governing Body have created the "pedophile paradise." 270-527-5350 --- Barbara Anderson, 62 of Normandy TN, was disfellowshipped by an announcement on Thursday July, 25 for speaking out on child abuse. She is a former researcher who worked for the Church's Writing Department, in Brooklyn, New York, she is featured on Dateline speaking out about child molestation cover-ups that go all the way up to the denomination's Governing Body. Anderson, learned Sunday that her appeal was denied, said the church is acting "so that Jehovah's Witnesses will feel that they are justified to say to others that we are liars." 931-455-6910 --- The above individuals represent over 130 years of active service as Jehovah's Witnesses, over 25 years in bethel service, and well over 40 years in full time service. They all three have been disfellowshipped for "causing divisions", yet not one person has left the faith because of their actions. What was the evidence against them? The committees produced letters written by members of the Service Department along with other elders. Watchtower has just created a new policy, that is, letters can now appear as eye witnesses to disfellowship in face of a denial. Is this really the proper application of Deut. 19:15? Could eye-witnesses in Biblical times just write there accusation on a scroll and that be used as a testimonial basis to stone a person to death? Are victims of abuse with accusations awarded the same autonomy? --- "Let the reader use discernment."

Hi SLC, bjc here. --- You wanted know about the "Two Witnesses" (Rev. 11:3) and whether the author of the "Report" wants to get back in the JW organization.  The author of "The Report" believes there will be two great gatherings of Jehovah's Sheep from the JW Organization, away from the clutches of the Governing Body and WTS.  THE FIRST GATHERING.  The "Tents of Judah" will be the first to be gathered from the JW organization. (Zech. 12:7; Malachi 3:16, 17) These are the ones The "Report" shows to be a great number of JWs who have been "killed" or executed (disfellowshipped/disassociated) in the past for the Name of God, as being "martyrs for righteousness" in God's eyes. This would include any JWs who was mistreated by the WTS and excommunicated unfairly, for ANY REASON many years ago. God knows this, and will be the final judge in their cases. Bible prophecy indicates that any of these
"executed" ones who still wish to serve God, and has not lost his faith in God completely, will be gathered. The author points to Ezekiel 34:1-21 as his "proof" text, which he believes shows prophetically that it is God's purpose to gather all of his injured or abused sheep, all those who have been treated unfairly and "pushed" out of the fold, to the "outside" of the JW organizational fold, by wicked "shepherds'/elders with "horns", and scattered across the earth to oblivion. This is the FIRST gathering of His sheep. (Ezekiel 34:21)  Bible prophecy indicates that Jehovah will accomplish this great "gathering" work of his injured sheep, "on a day of clouds and thick gloom". (Ezekiel 34:12) A time of great distress for JWs. The author of "The Report" sees himself to be among those gathered in the first group. Those gathered during that distressful time of "clouds and thick gloom". Therefore, the author does not have any desire to return to the JW Organization, as it exists today. Especially since he believes it is truly lead by the nefarious "man of lawlessness". (Jer. 30:7) The "REPORT" also speaks of a second gathering of JWs "sheep"  THE SECOND GATHERING OF JEHOVAH'S SHEEP  The second group regathered from the JW Organization by God, prophecy indicates will be The "Two Witnesses" who are discussed in Revelation 11th chapter.  (Volume II of "The Report" covers this information in detail. Volume II of "The Report" is unreleased at present, and only exists in manuscript form.) In short, The "Two-Witness" movement represents a "reform movement" within the JW organization that will "wreak havoc" upon the organization in its finality, due to powerful High Officials, who join in the movement, at the behest of Almighty God. Much damage is done by these High Officials for Reform (the Two-Witnesses) although they do not totally destroy it. But the JW organization will never be the same after this public, powerful "break in the brotherhood" by these high officials of the WTS. (Zech. 11:14) This powerful "break in the brotherhood" of JWs, this great division within it, will cause many, many individuals (10s of thousands) who have served for many years faithfully, to voluntarily leave in TOTAL DISGUST of the WTS! Many will be "removed" from their "office" of oversight within the congregational arrangement, before wanting true "reform" for the JW organization. Also many will be forced out, by way of Disfellowship or disassociation. (Rev. 12:2-5) Amazingly, included in this number will be powerful JW officials such as Circuit and District Overseers and possibly men of higher rank within Bethel branches worldwide. These powerful men, are hidden power-sources of the "reform" movement even now, but are not commonly known of as yet. These powerful men of influence within the JW Organization will reveal themselves, much to the chagrin of the WTS and G.B. This revealing of themselves, will undoubtedly place the JW Organization under incredible stress.  Bible prophecy reveals these men (High officials) will become visible opponents of the WTS and Governing Body. Prophecy reveals, the "silent lambs" movement will be one of the primary reasons for this situation, fired by all of the bad press associated with it. (See Ezekiel 36:3, 12-14)  Then too, the secret 10-year UN Scandal will re-surface too as a primary reason for this open "revolt" against the WTS and the G.B. Outright " idolatry" of the Governing Body and the UN/Scandal will be at the core of this "revolt" against accepted WTS evil practiced. (Ezekiel 43:7-9; 44:7,8)  Thus, "The Report" speaks of this situation, as the "Two-Witness" Movement, one of "repentance" and reform for JWs. One of "sackcloth" is worn by penitent JWs, where true "repentance" is sought from God. This is the second group that God will gather from the wicked WTS. (See Rev. 11:3) But in the end despite their faithful efforts to lead the rank and file to "repentance", still, Bible prophecy reveals the overwhelming, massive wickedness of the G.B. and WTS will prevail because of the mindless "worshipful" attitude of the majority of JWs, resulting in the tragic removal from the JW organization, of many conscientious and faithful pioneers, ministerial servants, elders, Circuit Overseers, District Overseers, Missionaries, and Bethelites of High rank. These ones will not be able to continue to stomach the rank apostasy shamelessly practiced and espoused so openly by the JW majority.  After leaving the JW organization, these faithful brothers will be regrouped into a new spiritual nation, for God's glory. Because it was God's purpose, to leave apostate Jerusalem to themselves, for total destruction before God as his "enemy". (Rev. 12:2-5)  Bible prophecy indicates that what's left of the filthy JW organization, after the faithful leave, will become an organization, and will be revealed in the end, as infamous "Babylon The Great"! (Rev. 18:2-4)  Bible prophecy indicates the FIRST GROUP of JWs, who prove to be a little more discerning as keen Bible students than the second group, will make their exodus BEFORE the "Two Witness" Reform Movement brings distress upon the Governing Body. The FIRST GROUP of individuals will leave around the same time the big fight gets underway and gets out in the open for the public to see. Their "birth" is imminent, namely the FIRST GROUP of dissenters. The JW group that Jehovah gathers. (Micah 5:3; Isa. 66:5-9)  Here is a little information posted by "MDS" (the author of "The Report" back in 2001 on the subject on JW.com.  ...)In the days immediately ahead, Zechariah 12:2,3 shows "Jerusalem" will come under powerful, restraint, "siege" even, by the world at large. Certain "events" have caused this to occur, EVEN BEFORE the "Great War" is concluded...even before. A milder but much needed "righteous indignation" from God for the practice of "sin." But this is NOT ALL that comes upon them, since "sinful" Israel, does not repent...does not see the need for "repentance" before their God, Jehovah. Even though, the "Reformers", the "Sheiks of Judah" and "inhabitants of Jerusalem", the "Two Witnesses" movement of Revelation 11th chapter strongly advocates "repentance", demonstrated and depicted in scripture as wearing "sackcloth" garments...still, no repentance, on the part of "Israel." They ignore this "repentance" message from the "Two Witnesses." For this, mystery "Israel" will indeed, experience many "words of abuse" against them, during this time, from the world at large...all during this time of advocated "repentance" for the nation. -- See Ezekiel 36:12-14; Zechariah 12:2-8; Isaiah 43:28; Revelation 11:3-6  However, AFTER the "Great War," mystery "Israel," will be considered, earthwide "enemies" of mankind in general. However, during the 3 1/2 year "witnessing" period of "repentance" by the "Two Witnesses" to the JW Organization, particularly in the last year and a half of it, "Israel" will surely experience stinging, "abusive words" and other, comparatively milder forms of persecution directed at them because of a practice of unforeseen practice "sin" before God. Nevertheless, because of "sin" of leadership, thus the whole nation of "Israel" is guilty and must "answer" to God, according to Leviticus 4:3. The scriptural principle holds true today. -- Please carefully consider Ezekiel 36:12-14.  Also this comment posted in the same thread..."...Bible prophecy indicates that a major split or major break in the brotherhood of Jehovah's Witnesses, resulting in two factions of JWs, divided off from each other, but co-existing within the same worldwide congregational fold at the same time will occur. This division, which already exists, become MORE ACUTE AFTER, the pivotal date of October 7, 2001...the anniversary date of carrying the Name of God upon themselves as a spiritual nation for 70 YEARS! WHY JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES ARE GOD'S PEOPLE, MYSTERY "ISRAEL" OF OUR TIMES October 2001, is the 70th anniversary of the time when all JW congregations worldwide were in position to fully understand what it meant to accept that Name, to carry that Name, Preach that Name, the Name of God, upon themselves. They AGREED before God, Jesus Christ and all of the Heavenly Host, and even earthling man, yes, to carry that Great Name upon themselves -- To carry the weighty responsibility to "Live Up to that Great Name," upon themselves. It was a Covenant Arrangement between God and themselves as a Nation. Numbers 6:27 shows, God's "Blessings" came upon them as a "Covenanted" People before Him...because they agreed to "carry His Name upon themselves. -- See Deut. 26:2; Deut. 28:10; 1 Kings 8:41-43; 2 Chron. 7:14; Daniel 9:19; Jeremiah 25:29; Acts 15:14; Acts 15:17; Romans 2:24; 1 Timothy 6:1; Hebrews 6:10; Revelation 14:1  Mystery "Israel," The Answer: Jehovah's Witnesses are mystery "Israel," because primarily, they carry God's Name upon themselves, as a spiritual nation or people. Thus they have been permitted to enter a "Covenant" Relationship with Him, because of this. This could only have happened, unless God allowed it. At present, because of bad leadership, the spiritual nation is "acting wickedly against that Covenant." (Let it be noted, there are other practices and teachings of the nation of Jehovah's Witnesses which also help us to identify them as mystery "Israel" of our day that are NOT mentioned in this treatise.) -- Daniel 11:30 It was indeed, the time when the spiritual nation began to embrace that Great Name before others, yes, preach that accepted identification, that Great Name, unto the world at large. A very, very heavy responsibility indeed...to "declare that Name" to others. -- Deut. 32:3 Psalms 105:1;3; 2 Timothy 2:19 Notice, "In order that the leaders of the world might be duly notified of this proper designation for Jehovah's people this resolution [adopted previously July 26, 1931 at Columbus, Ohio Assembly] and the text of Brother Rutherford's convention address were published in the booklet The Kingdom the Hope of the World...During October of that year [1931, exactly 70 years ago] a campaign was conducted by the congregations to visit every clergyman, politician and big businessman in their territories with this booklet. In just the United States and Canada 132,066 booklets were put out in this way. Within the next few months this booklet reached the homes of five million others in all parts of the earth." -- Jehovah's Witnesses In the Divine Purpose (pub. 1959), page 126, par. 2 October 1931 -- October 2001 ... a 70-year period...of Carrying God's Name...a period of special "Discipline" or instruction from Him...70 Years of Discipline Upon Israel.  These events spoken of in this writing, are sure to come, based upon Bible prophecy. The "Reformers", make up the "Two Witness" Movement of Revelation 11th chapter, as we see it among JWs as a nation...as they work among them today. Even now, the "Reformers" and the Non-Reformers co-exist together in the JW Organization. We are quite aware that many JWs are not for any form of "reform" at all. They follow the presumed "F&D Slave" implicitly, completely without question. Still, very shortly both groups will be divided by "heated issues"...after October 7, 2001. However, they will continue to co-exist for a time...still staying together for a period of time. But their "division" will become more pronounced, AFTER October of 2001. It will become visible at that time, much more open, as to their "differences." Thus, a visible, major split is foretold in prophecy for the nation of "Israel." Jehovah's Witnesses at that time. The split will become visible...open for the public, and all to see, an already existing split...for now about 2 years.  This VISIBLE split occurs, as Bible prophecy indicates approximately the same time the "King of the North" in the person of the "small horn," surfaces on the earth's scene...when the spiritual "rebels" against God, "act to a completion." This will be a time for special AMENDMENT for the "sheiks of Judah," who are urged on by the "inhabitants of Jerusalem," reformer supporters. The "Sheiks of Judah" will be encouraged by these newfound supporters, the "inhabitants of Jerusalem." It will be during this time, a time of special "blindness" dealt out by Jehovah God upon "Israel's" leaders for the practice of "sin" when the "Sheiks of Judah" wreak havoc upon the JW organization, and the fight, the differences become quite VISIBLE. -- Please carefully consider Zechariah 12:4-6.  At this time, the "1,260 days" of "witnessing" or "prophesying" on the part of the "Two Witness" Movement, will indeed, be nearing its finish or completion...with close to 2 years of that particular period of "witnessing" already passed...the "break in the brotherhood" of "Israel," between "Judah" and "Israel," will now be more pronounced, more discernable...all around this Great Anniversary Date of October 7, 2001. God is always on time to carry out His Word. Bible Prophecy brings it all together for us...in perfect blend and perfect harmony. -- Zechariah 11:14; Daniel 8:23; Revelation 11:3; Isaiah 19:2-4; 55:8-11  Also, this comment: "...Just as these things start to occur, a small "remnant" from "Israel" (the "Tents of Judah") will begin to see, how lovingly, Jehovah God has provided many, many clues to assist his people during this time of "Great Distress," through Bible Prophecy. This is something we will have to admit, when we see these events occur...Even those who scoff. -- Zechariah 12:7; Amos 3:7; Jeremiah 30:7; 1 John 4:8; Acts 13:40, 41 "Alas! For that day is a great one, so that there is no other like it [the "Great Tribulation" upon "Jacob"], and it is the time of distress for Jacob [or "Israel"]. But he will be saved even out of it." -- Jeremiah 30:7 Yes, mystery Israel "will be saved even out of it,"... this "Great Tribulation" coming upon the spiritual nation, for their many acts of "sin" and "transgression" against God. The God of the "Holy Covenant" that they VIOLATE continually...following the wicked, nefarious "Man of Lawlessness," who is UNREVEALED at the time of this writing before "Israel." -- Revelation 7:14; 2
ANYONE KNOW IF THE ELDERS HAVE HAD THIS KIND OF TRAINING? Implications for future training include longer and more intensive training periods which involve practice time, observation, and working as a secondary officer with a trained investigator before the trainee becomes a primary officer for the investigation. Key issues for training include child sexual abuse dynamics, children and suggestibility, the sexual abuse disclosure process, child development issues, the use of non-leading questions, the use of interview aids, fact vs. fantasy, rapport building with children, discussion of private parts, and setting the stage for a spontaneous disclosure.

SLC = it's me bonnielynn, I've been posting and not leaving my name, don't know why, just got so worked up, I got the info about the training on a fed government site. there are a lot of things to go through, I was hoping to find a fed law to help! If we can find that we may be able to get some REAL serious eye openers! love me, bonnielynn

Request to Jehovah's Witness people: Help me to find (in the bible) the Great Crowd's plan of salvation. The anointed Christians plan is covered quite well. I do not see anything about a plan of salvation for a Great Crowd.

So sorry, didn't mean to sound like I was yelling, just a little lazy on the keyboard. I will take all of your comments under advisement. FUZZ

> http://www.ageofconsent.com/comments/numbertwentythree.htm> And what is a pedophile? As sex researchers you might think he or she is a person who is exclusively or to a significant degree sexually attracted to pre-pubertal children. !But as observers of the social and political scene you would have to conclude that a pedophile is a monster who attacks and defiles innocence.!On this definition there can be Ino such thing as an innocent or non-practicing pedophile,! though there are in fact saintly individuals who manage heroic life-long feats of restraint -- people who, especially if they are elderly bachelors, find themselves rewarded with nothing but constant suspicion. A pedophile thus by definition cannot be an affectionate person, !Inor can a child be fond of him once he is unmasked like some alien in a horror movie. !He may for years have seemed to be a pleasant, caring, kind, decent, honorable man, but of course that is all part of his cunning disguise. !And there can be no legitimate private thoughts and private fantasies where such a monster is concerned. !How can the policies insist that the accuser face their MONSTER!SHAME ON THE PEOPLE RUNNING THE ORG! WHY DON'T THEY PUT THIS IN THEIR WATCHTOWER MAG! BLM

It is a grave injustice and shame that because 6 million people were told by a 'worldly' org. that THEY ARE THE ONLY ONES who HE will save! that these 6 million people actually believe it! How can all of them believe this? Is that not 'judging' everyone else? What about the men who brought down that plane on Sept. 11 and saved a lot of innocent lives, forsaking their own like for others? What about all the people working so hard to try and save ANYONE at the trade center? DOES EVERYONE THINK THAT THE ONLY HEROS THAT DID THIS WERE ALL WITNESSES? What about them, they are going to go to the FATHER and HE going to say ‘OH, THANKS FOR THAT BUT YOUR NOT A JEHovah WITNESS SO, SO I DO NOT KNOW YOU! I don’t think so and if anyone else thinks so then they are the greatest evil, LOVE FOR YOUR NEIGHBOR, LOVE FOR HIM, IS WHAT IS REQUIRED! NOT WHAT WORLDLY ORG YOU ARE A MEMBER OF! AND YES THEY ARE A WORLDLY ORG! BRAGGING ABOUT WHAT THEY ARE BUILDING, BRAGGING ABOUT HOW MANY SLAVES THEY OWN! AND DIS'ING OTHER RELIGIONS FOR DOING EXACTLY WHAT THEY THEMSELVES DO! HOW MUCH MORE WORLDLY CAN AND ORG GET! SHAME ON EVERYONE WHO THINKS THEY ARE BETTER THAN ANOTHER! THAT THINKS A CHILD’S CRY MEANS NOTHING TO THE FATHER! SHAME SHAME SHAME, AND I AM HEARTILY SICK OF NO ONE SEEING THE REAL SHAME IN ALL OF THIS! THEY TEACH THAT WHOEVER PRACTICES EVIL IS NOT OF THE FATHER BECAUSE EVIL AND GOOD DO NOT LIVE TOGETHER! IF IT IS NOT OF THE FATHER IT IS OF SATAN! SO WHO ARE THEY REALLY WORSHIPPING?

Fuzz: You sound just like a Mormon with the 'I'll take it under advisement' comment. You have been called out, by some direct and some humorous posts to defend one the most basic tenets. So lets hear it: 144,000 as a heavenly anointed class going to heaven, while the rest of us either die or watch - defended without quoting a Watchtower article. Go ahead and look it up in Society publications and find a reasonable stream of thought that gets you from the figurative references in Revelation to the 'present understanding' using sound biblical references. I can't tell you how much I'm looking forward to it. - Buster

SO WHO ARE THEY WORSHIPPING: I remember back when I was getting my indoctrination in the Franklin,MA cong. We went to the hall with my mother, while my father never got caught up in it. During my teens my father and I rarely discussed the teachings - perhaps because of one exception that I remember particularly well. I don’t remember the introduction to the conversation, but he asked me if I ‘really believed that only JWs would be saved’. I had my immediate answer ready, ‘Of course, only the Witnesses practice according to God’s word.’ Then asked about his mother - did I think God would destroy people like her? Oh I really shined that day! I can excuse myself a bit for being a dumb 15- or 16-year-old. But I reaffirmed my statement that God would destroy all such people. One more point, his mother, my grandmother to whom I had never gotten close, had died a few years earlier. I didn’t know it then, but in retrospect I think he missed her quite a bit. Here comes the part where my JW training saved the day. I told him how fortunate it was that his mother had died. It was fortunate she was dead because she now has the promise of resurrection. I can’t believe such thoughts ever were in my head and spilled out of my mouth. I now have a 16-year-old and I would be terribly hurt if she were capable of such cold-heartedness. - Buster

The challenge of thought is to except a belief in Satan or the evilness of human depravity. Are we the evil within or is there an evil of an outside source? This has been asked for centuries, is there viable proof? As far back in human writings there has been written account of gods or angels who come to earth to live. It was suggested by the early Jews that we were influenced by the fallen angels, others like the Greeks said it was the gods who influenced mankind. Is there proof? Let's examine Satan intellectually, without the obtuse thinking of Christians fundamentalism which pollute the heuristics of our minds. An empirical look is needed at researching Satan from an outside influence instead of using the church, because in this way we have sound reasoning and no purpose in recruiting or scaring others into our way of thinking.  As far as I remember, Satan's opposition to god has been part of my Christian teaching. I've been taught that Satan will take over my mind if I listen to the wrong music, watching bad movies, and using the known vices of man. Everything that was done to someone that was bad or turned out bad, and was considered evil, was because that individual was influenced by a being that was unseen. I heard expressions like he or she was possessed by bad spirits of some form, so this is why they did what they did. Our teachings included stories of fallen angels who temp men into doing what was bad, even if it meant escaping certain environments that were considered wrong, but was right for the individual. These invisible beings present impinged on our world since the era of Genesis, so I was taught. I think Carl Sagan said it best when he wrote: "If we are in the company of aliens or unseen beings why have they not revealed themselves, leaving evidence of there presents or scientific proof for us to study? "  This question has allot of validity. Why not? Why is it always left to faith of Satan and his cohorts that they do create evil afflictions upon us? We are taught to believe that god has a resistor, and if we are to join a Christian group we are told to renounce our previous way of life that was evil and resist all the devils works. So, if I were from another faith, I must have been evil?  Visions have been written down about Satan and given the best of stories. Dante's story is the best of visions of hell and his description of Satan himself. Dante described Satan as a "towering beast with three faces with two wings who was trapped in ice; he rebelled against god". Today, it is no different from then, we have all sorts who blame their thoughts on Satan, their actions, and their hallucinations. I can truly say I have not seen a three faced winged creature, and if I have, I probably would be in an institution and not writing this. I believe Elaine Pagels described Satan best in her book The Origins of Satan, "The Christian tradition has been to demonize the opponents; to solidify ones group by placing that either those within their group or outside their groups as apostates or heretics, it does unify those believing in the same beliefs without question... They are to demonize their enemies and vindicate Jesus followers... The figure Satan becomes, among other things, a way of characterizing ones enemies as an embodiment of transcendent forces. "  I can not say that I seen Satan without feeling some apprehension. I have seen my own organization comment evil that Satan would be proud of. This phenomena still baffles my mind. I wonder if I could get a great following in telling my vision, probably not, it would be better to say it was a reflection of Christ. I might be able tell it was his reflection off a dirty peace of glass and make a profit. I would be within my rights to proclaim I seen a vision or something, or could it be as Scrooge described when he seen his vision: a potato from the morning breakfast, a bad case of heart burn, or gas from yesterday's dinner. I can not say. Should I consider being excised in a church or in my room before my head spins around. Is it like in the 1800's when men seen pink elephants while intoxicated, today people see green men. Nothing has changed. Christian groups are looking for the Antichrist around every corner. Who can we believe, what group is true? Do you believe me or would anyone place blind faith in my vision? I think not, I probably would get the recommendation to see a Psychiatrist or be committed in some state hospital. Yet I find it very humorous that people drive great distances to see an image of Christ in a cloud or off some poorly washed window. Maybe its the arch deceiver that is creating these crying images or apparitions? The Jewish Kabbalah suggest; "We must constantly clarify the mind, so that it be free of the dross of deceptive fantasies, groundless fears, bad habits, and deficiencies".  Humans have the tendency for great brutality among one another. The inhumane treatment of one another is not new, it has been dated as far back in human history as one can find. We have some of the most heinous acts of genocide and torture man can do to one another listed just in the bible itself. Is this the fault of Satan? During the middle ages cities were built as a defense against evil men and the demons, the dark ages proves that point. Most of all, we must not forget the inquisitions and purges by the Christian church. The very groups representing god and Christ done most of the evil. Are these organizations part of Satan? Who is to say! We have fears that need to be purged or as the Kabbalah suggest we must clarify the mind. Is Satan a fallen angel? Are we being tested by God? The bible says that Satan has now an earthly kingdom. If so, why has it not been seen. Most religions except the fact it is the United Nation or all governmental powers on earth is Satan's realm. Should we fear these governments? If we are a part of some universal power, I think Satan wouldn't fear revealing himself to some lowly creature as we humans. At least someone would have a picture of him other than Dante's Vision. If we are part of a cosmic struggle, and gods forces are battling evil, we have not much of a choice on what to do or if the decisions we make are correct. How can one prove we are in the right religion? One only need to research and find fault with all or most Christian, Islamic, or cult religions. Elaine Pagels says," Satan as an evil Creature, misleading man, takes on a hidden of little known figure in the early Jewish writings". She also says, "until the first century, Satan then takes on a more prominent position of an ambitious spirit determined to diabolically destroy mankind. We against them has been set to determine the relation to ones own group". I find this empirical explanation sound and befitting modern religion. It is my observation that Christians and those of their like use evil to justify their misfortune and the unexplained. Phenomena seems to be given a simple explanation that it is from satanic origin and people with different views are influenced by Satan himself because they have opposite views. I think that man, NOT Satan, created more of the evils we now know and understand. If Satan exist, and is tempting mankind there would be some way of exposing his existence instead of the guess' work by Christian fundamentalist who say everything is evil that they don't understand. I Will end with this thought, that I believe in god, and man deserves better; however, I think more evil has been done in the name of Christ and not Satan...afraid in Sacramento

Hi Guys: It is me Claudine - I have been extremely depressed, and had the flu here, the computer was broken one day and the car the next and my birthday was yesterday - spent alone.  I use to find some comfort with the WTS giving me all the answers (this is a big confession here)...I am struggling with not being so sure about anything. When I hear the trinity doctrine the stomach goes into knots and then I get so damn pissed off that the WTS did not have the integrity to keep their hands off the UN, protect the witnesses in Malawi, and had enough love and sense to protect innocent children. I cannot believe in hell fire or the trinity and now I can fear that maybe I will burn in hell because I don't believe the trinity! Hell of a thought! I have heard the trinity "explained" - oh my, no way and no sense at all.  I don't feel too much in touch with God lately. I have no sure sense of "the truth" and then no way to comfort myself during these bad times I go thru.  I had a routine of scriptures that comforted me and I went to the KH and this was some comfort.  I feel a little lost these days. Don't want religion but do want God - and then when I pray I don't even know what God's name is anymore! That goes thru my head - I apologize to God for not knowing the correct name to use, for being so confused. I know Jehovah will straighten me out here - just going thru some stuff. But I was so sure before and trusted the WTS - as to their integrity and love for the sheep. I am pissed. Thanks for listening.  Love Claudine

Claudine, If it is any help, and I hope it is. It really comes down to a few things. FAITH! Love one another as you would yourself, LOVE the FATHER with all of your heart! and if there are things taught to you that are wrong, have FAITH that the FATHER will provide you with the answers! I call him the FATHER because that is what he is! When Jesus prayed to HIM, Jesus said basically, I have glorified your name. The only name Jesus ever called HIM is FATHER! Jesus also said who ever believes in me and does the will of My FATHER is also my brother, my mother and my sister! WE ARE ALL OF THE FATHERS CHILDREN, THE ONES WHO HAVE FAITH IN HIM! As a friend told me once, “And the rest is details”. I was asked just last night if I prayed for my children, When I speak to my FATHER, it is not as much asking for HIS help as much as THANKING HIM FOR IT! FAITH, IT CAN MOVE MOUNTAINS! love bonnielynn

Hi Claudine! HAPPY, HAPPY BELATED BIRTHDAY! You will remember this one all of your life. Don't worry about all the things you're unsure of. Know that God knows AND CARES about what you are going through RIGHT NOW. Confusion and all. He made you. And he LOVES you. Just as you are. Not as in, 'Well, okay, I guess if I have to...' No, but as in, "Claudine, my beautiful child! Finally you are coming home! I'm SO HAPPY! I love you. Be patient. I will be standing right here with you, for the rest of your life. You're not alone now. And you never will be. I have SO MUCH to show you! And EVERYONE. Trust me. And talk to me all the time. You'll see...Believe me. And sometimes you will hear me talking back to you, too!"

To Claudine...Boy, can I ever relate to what you said above. I've felt exactly the same way. I haven't prayed in such a long time. I believe in God, Jesus etc, but I'm been so mixed up in my head about the Trinity, Hellfire, as you said...and I just get frustrated with the whole topic. When I hear sermons at churches about the Trinity etc, my stomach turns. I start thinking, How can all these religions believe and teach the Trinity, but only the JW's say it's all wrong. How can so many religions be completely wrong on these topics? I have gotten to the point where I don't think I'll ever really know what is true and what isn't. So many years of JW indoctrination swarms in the back of my mind, that it all gets jumbled up and I just have to start thinking about something else. Happy Belated Birthday! :-) Hang in there girl. " Make haste to identify the visible theocratic organization of God that represents his king, Jesus Christ. It is essential for life. Doing so, be complete in accepting its every aspect." The Watchtower October 1, 1967 p. 591 (Talk about loaded sentences. It is these type of incredible and dangerous claims that make an organization shy about admitting that mistakes can happen.)(Is the organization "essential for life"? Not as far as the bible is concerned.)

To Claudine, Linda Thoman (also SLC) ...Hi, bjc here. I have following your conversation about "trinity" and "hellfire" teachings in the churches. And how the JWs did not teach this falsehood. I too abhor such teachings too.  I have a little information that I would like to share on the subject of Jehovah's Witnesses and their unique views on "trinity", "hellfire" doctrines, also what significance these teachings hold with God and so on. I think information might shed some light on these difficult subjects, and the significance of these teachings have in God's eyes in identifying God's Name People today, Israel of today. (Although these teachings by themselves are NOT the only identifier of Israel of our times. There is more.)  The information I have posted below is taken from the book "The Report" written by a JW back in 1994, who left the organization because of so much wrongdoing on the part of the WTS. The author does see the JWs as a people adrift, coming ever so close to outright worship of the WTS Headquarters in rank apostasy and idolatry. In his book, he addresses these concerns and others and cites bible prophecy to prove his contention. The article is lengthy, so I will print it out in three (3) part sections for your perusal. Enjoy!  bjc2read@yahoo.com  PART I "The Report" Volume I pages 41-63  --- THE REPORT book ---  JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES MEASURED IN THE LIGHT OF THE SCRIPTURES  FACT: The Jehovah's Witnesses as a nation and people, are the only organized people on the face of the earth who actually carry God's Name (Jehovah) upon themselves. In fact, the teachings listed on the accompanying chart (page 64) are indeed teachings of the Jehovah's Witnesses. However, these merely represent fundamental truths, many of which, have been known throughout the centuries. No, these fundamental truths are not the exclusive knowledge of the Jehovah's Witnesses. No, not at all! Therefore, we ask the all-important question, namely: Does possessing these fundamental truths, by themselves, really prove that the Jehovah's Witnesses as an organization today are the True Religion of our time? No! In stead, what the Jehovah's Jehovah’s Witnesses presently possess as a nation in the form of Bible knowledge and understanding, under the tutorship and direction of the Watchtower Society, does not measure up to the lofty Biblical description of true religion in its complete sense. They best resemble the Jewish nation, under the tutorship of the Pharisees and religious leaders of Jesus’ day! They have a “FRAMEWORK OF THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE TRUTH”, as Paul described. (See Romans 2:20.) You may remember that it was mentioned earlier in “The Report”, the article God's Name People and the Framework of the Truth, the following in reference to Ancient Israel and their privilege of carrying God's Personal Name upon themselves: “... It was the placing of this particular Name upon the Jewish nation that brought special "blessings" upon them. In fact, it was the 'placing of His Name upon' ancient Israel, in itself, that made them a special people for His possession. (See Numbers 6:27.) The placing of God's Personal Name upon the Jewish nation proved to be the single most outstanding characteristic that identified them as His people. His inheritance, it identified them as being "Israel," "There can be no question but that the privilege of being "called by God's Name" in itself made the Jewish nation, God's Name people. No people, except the 1st century congregation of Christians, were so privileged to be 'called by God's Personal Name,' at least up until the year of 1931. "1931, you say...what happened in 1931?" Well, if you are one of Jehovah's Witnesses you may remember precisely what occurred in the year of 1931. PLEASE NOTE: It was in the year of 1931, that the International Bible Students then took the name upon themselves of Jehovah's Witnesses. Therefore, it is this most important singular act, that is of placing this distinct Name — God's own Personal Name upon themselves, that actually made this people become "Israel" - modern-day "Israel" of our times. Think about it. With the appearance of the October 15th issue of the Watchtower Magazine, we find the first appearance of the Name "Jehovah" upon the cover of this particular magazine. The name itself had been resolutely adopted by a large assembly of International Bible Students, and the current President of the International Bible Students, in the previous summer of 1931 at a convention at Columbus, Ohio. Also, we notice that this particular issue of the Watchtower Magazine, October 15, 1931 in an iconoclastic fashion, removed the symbol of the "cross" from the front cover of it for the first time. The years to follow 1931 would give clear evidence that Jehovah's Witnesses had indeed become modern-day "Israel" of Bible prophecy, whether the prophecy be favorable or unfavorable. Jehovah's Witnesses themselves, in the year of 1931, entered a "covenant" with Jehovah God, just as the ancient Israelite nation did at Mount Sinai. The "covenant" or contract entered into was in the form of a resolution, adopted by the assembly of International Bible Students congregated at Columbus, Ohio, during the dates of July 24-30, 1931. This point is highlighted for us in the publication, Jehovah's Witnesses — Proclaimers of God's Kingdom, pg. 156, par. #2 which says: "THAT, having been bought with the precious blood of Jesus Christ our Lord and Redeemer, justified and begotten by Jehovah God and called to his kingdom, we unhesitatingly declare our entire allegiance and devotion to Jehovah God and his kingdom; that we are servants of Jehovah God commissioned to do a work in his name, and, in obedience to his commandment, to deliver the testimony of Jesus Christ, and to make known to the people that Jehovah is the true and Almighty God; therefore we joyfully embrace and take the name which the mouth of the Lord God has named, and we desire to be known as and called by the name, to wit, Jehovah's Witnesses. — Isa. 43:10-12" And so, we can clearly see that the nation of Jehovah's Witnesses had indeed, entered a "covenant" or contract to carry the personal Name of God. They had sworn their allegiance and obedience to this same God, the God of Jacob, by way of a public declaration and resolution. They had now taken upon themselves the responsibility that came with becoming, modern-day "Israel," of our times. And of course, Jehovah would himself, be obligated to hold them to this sworn oath of responsibility. IDENTIFYING MODERN-DAY JERUSALEM AND ISRAEL The Bible’s fundamental or basic truths, as revealed in the Law Covenant given Moses, can be traced down from the nation of Israel, down through the 1st century congregation, and further down until our day and time. Yes, these basic "truths" about God have survived for thousands of years! And how have these basic truths survived, particularly through the years since the 1st century congregation? Well, we find upon examination of the historical facts, that these fundamental truths have been maintained by small Christian groups down through the years, since the 1st century congregation of Christians. These small Christian groups, acting as "custodians of truth," formed little clusters, and were known by various names, down through the centuries. These little groups kept certain characteristics, certain similarities, that made them appear very much like ancient Israel, as well as the first century congregation, in their form of worship and have maintained a "thread of truth" right down till our day. Take for example, the Ten Commandments. The first and second commandments in particular, were often visible within the ranks of small Christian groups, down through the centuries. (Exodus 20:3,4; Deut. 6:4) These same characteristics can actually serve, in our day and time, to identify: Modern-day Israel, or Jerusalem of our times, Jehovah’s Witnesses. The table below highlights these characteristics. See if you, the reader, can pick out the similarities between "Israel" of old, and modern-day "Israel" spoken of in Bible prophecy — Jehovah's Witnesses. Remember, it is the "framework of Truth" that differentiates them from all other religions upon the face of the earth today. (Romans 2:20) The following characteristics distinguish them as modern-day Israel. They are: Ancient Israel's Key Characteristics: 1) Called by God's Personal Name 2) Mono-theistic (one God concept) 3) Iconoclastic (no images in worship) Similarities with, Jehovah's Witnesses as "Israel" who are also: 1) Called by God's Personal Name 2) Mono-theistic (non-trinitarian) 3) Iconoclastic (against images) We also cannot help but notice, that the Jehovah's Witnesses have become known, the world over, for their relentless attacks upon the doctrine of the great main-line religions of our time. And this is much to their credit, make no mistake about that. Based upon the foregoing, we notice that the Jehovah's Witnesses have scripturally demonstrated the church's failure in: (a) bringing honor to God's Personal Name, Jehovah (b) propounding the error and blasphemy of the trinity doctrine (c) propounding the error and blasphemy of eternal torment in Hellfire
No, he was not the primary instructor of the children at all. Vines Expository makes additional comments on this word. The children to school. Yes, the "tutor's" primary function was to simply "take the children to school," and that is all. Describes the Greek word for "tutor" [pedagogue] as meaning: "a boy-leader, i.e. a servant whose office it was to take by Moses, actually became a "tutor" or literally a "child-leader" for the nation. Strong's Exhaustive Concordance to Christ, that we might be declared righteous due to faith. We notice from what Paul states here that the "Law" given at Galatians 3:24 which says: "Consequently the Law has become our tutor [Greek: pedagogue] leading nation? Paul again answers by saying it was the "Law" of Moses, as the Jews understood it. Let's notice what Paul truth." And again, what had given this "form," "outline" or "outward semblance of knowledge of the truth" to the Jewish morphosis means: "a form or outline, denotes ... an image or impress, an outward semblance of knowledge of the "appearance" or "semblance" of something. Vines Expository of New Testament Words states that the word "form" or outline of something. Strong's Exhaustive Concordance describes the word as meaning a "formation," or "framework" or superstructure of "knowledge" and "truth," which was based upon the "Law covenant" handed down by Moses. No, the Jewish nation did not have the complete picture. The "Law" was to merely act as a "tutor," until that one arrives, the spirit of the truth, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak of his own impulse, but what things he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are excellent because you are orally instructed out of the Law; and you are persuaded that you are a guide of the blind, a light for those in darkness, a corrector of the unreasonable ones, a teacher of babes, and having the framework of the knowledge and of the truth in the Law. Yes, Paul states that even though the Jewish people were "persuaded," (no doubt by their leaders) that they were provided by God as a "guide of the blind, a light for those in darkness, a corrector of unreasonable ones, teachers of babes," — what they merely possessed was only a "framework" or superstructure of "knowledge" and "truth," which was based upon the "Law covenant" handed down by Moses. No, the Jewish nation did not have the complete picture. The "Law" was to merely act as a "tutor," until the Christ arrived. Yes, the "tutor's" primary function was to simply "take the children to school," and that is all. No, he was not the primary instructor of the children at all. Vines Expository makes additional comments on this word.
by saying: "...the idea of instruction is absent. In this and allied words the idea is that of training, discipline, not of impartation of knowledge. The paidagogos was not the instructor of the child; he exercised a general supervision over him and was responsible for his moral and physical well-being. Thus understood, paidagogos is appropriately used with 'kept in ward' and 'shut up,' whereas, to understand it as equivalent to 'teacher,' introduces an idea entirely foreign to the passage..." Therefore, if by chance, the national leaders got carried away somehow, and begin to feel that they had all the instruction they needed to teach the people, the results would be disastrous. Further, if the religious leaders began to feel as if they themselves should be the final word on all religious matters, they would have gotten far away from their assignment of using the "law" as a "child-leader," or "tutor" for the nation until the Messiah came. Certainly, the religious leaders would have gone far off the track if they began to give too much credence to their particular understanding and interpretation of what the "Law" Covenant really meant for the Jewish nation, before the promised Messiah arrived on the scene. And of course, this is precisely what happened to the Jewish nation whose leaders began to think of themselves as having more than a mere "framework of knowledge of truth." According to Paul, what the Jewish nation actually possessed was simply enough to 'take them to school,' but since Jesus Christ was the actual "teacher," or "instructor," his teachings were much more advanced, accurate, and to the point, than what people of his day had ever experienced. So, when Jesus came to the nation of Israel, what did he find? Did he not find the nation being led by an unscriptural council of 71 men called the "Sanhedrin." Yes, that's exactly what he found. The "Sanhedrin" was totally, an unscriptural arrangement, nowhere to be found in the "Law" at all. The Sanhedrin was made up of "Sadducees," "Pharisees" and "scribes," and there can be no question that among them there existed a serious lack of "knowledge" since the Bible tells us that it was these leaders who led the way in ultimately rejecting Christ's teachings. It was primarily these individuals who by their leadership caused the nation to lose their relationship with Jehovah God, was it not? The Sanhedrin was presided over by the Sadducee High Priest Caiaphas, and the Bible tells us this revealing information about the Sadducees at Acts 23:8: "For Sadducees say there is neither resurrection nor angel nor spirit, but the Pharisees publicly declare them all." No, the Sadducees did not believe in God's power of "resurrection," or of "angels," nor of "spirit." This was because the Sadducees did not believe any part of the Hebrew text but the writings of Moses, the first five books of the Bible. Think of the implications of what this means. This would mean that the entire Jewish nation was led in worship by a High Priest who did not have faith in the holy writings of Jeremiah, Isaiah, Ezekiel, Daniel. No, he did not believe in the Bible's accounts of Elijah and Elisha's resurrection of the dead. And yet, he was the spiritual leader of the nation when Jesus arrived on the scene. And were the Pharisees any better? No, Josephus, the Jewish historian who at one time described himself as a Pharisee, according to Harper's Bible Dictionary reports: "They [Pharisees] believed that the soul survives death and is punished or rewarded with another life." — pg. 783 Clearly, the Pharisees were influenced by false pagan teachings of Greek philosophers, prevalent during such time. And yet, this is what they believed. This is what they taught. There can be no question but that the nation of Israel, under the leadership of the Sadducees and Pharisees, had strayed a long way away from the "truth," as we know it today. However, we remember, Paul states at Romans 2:20, the nation still had the "Law," the "tutor," the "child-leader" that was to assist them, that was to lead them to the Christ. Yes, they had the "semblance," the "outline," the "framework of the knowledge of the truth." That's what they had. And that was enough or sufficient from Jehovah's standpoint, to bring them as a nation, to the Christ, their final instructor. Therefore, just as the Jewish nation had the teachings of the "Law" covenant that would act as a "tutor" leading to the Christ, so also the "framework of truth" down through the centuries would also act as a "tutor," "child-leader," until God's time to reveal the "sacred secrets" of the Bible. (Galatians 3:24) Remember, these are only the ABC's of religious truth, you might say. The Jehovah's Witnesses revived many of these teachings during the time of C.T. Russell in the early 1870's, but have progressed no farther. Nevertheless, these basic truths have served to make the Witnesses as a people separate, distinct, different from all the other forms of worship on earth today. These truths, coupled with being "called by God's Name," really make them Modern-day "ISRAEL."  End of Part I -- "The Report"  EMC Publications PO Box 230445 Montgomery, Ala 36123 email: emcpublications@yahoo.com  bjc  publication Insight On the Scriptures under the subject of "Unfaithful Jerusalem." It states: "Since much that is said concerning Jerusalem in the Scriptures is in condemnation of her, it is clear that only when faithful did Jerusalem symbolize Jehovah's heavenly organization and, at times, the true Christian congregation, 'the Israel of God.' (Ga 6:16) When unfaithful, it was pictured as a prostitute and an adulterous woman; it became like the pagan Amorites and Hittites that once controlled the city. (Eze 16:3, 15, 30-42) As such, it could only represent apostates, those following a 'prostitute' course of infidelity to the God whose name they claim to bear. — Jas 4:4" Now, let's pay close attention to the main point of their explanation. It says: "It can thus be seen that 'Jerusalem' is used in a multiple sense, and the context must in each case be considered to gain correct understanding." — Vol. II. pg. 49 CHECKING THE CONTEXT? And so, the Watchtower Society says that we can determine whom "Jerusalem" represents by the surrounding context of scriptures. However, in the case of the scriptural example they cited as proof, namely Eze 16:3, 15, 30-42, did the Watchtower Society themselves check the context here? Evidently they didn't because notice what verses 59-62 of the same chapter says about the 'prostituting, adulterous woman:' "For this is what the Lord Jehovah has said, 'I also must do with you just as you have done, because you despised the oath in breaking [my] covenant. And I, myself, must remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I must establish for you an indefinitely lasting covenant... And you will certainly remember your ways and feel humiliated ... And I, myself, will establish my covenant with you; and you will have to know that I am Jehovah, in order that you may remember and actually be ashamed and you may no more come to have any reason to open [your] mouth because of your humiliation, when I make an atonement for you for all that you have done,' is the utterance of the Lord Jehovah." Did you notice that the same 'adulterous, prostitute woman' is now spoken of as being given an "indefinitely lasting covenant?" And did you also notice that the sins of this same 'Hittite, Amorite-like woman' is now being 'atoned' for by Jehovah? And further, once she has been 'atoned' for, she can now regain her good standing with Jehovah, the kind of standing she had with Him in the beginning. As Jehovah said: "I must remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth." Clearly, this "adulterous woman" is now being RESTORED to Jehovah's favor! That point is crystal clear, isn't it? And so we can see that if an individual were to do exactly as suggested by the Society he would find that the same "woman" spoken of as an "adulterous," "Hittite," and "Amorite," is also the same "woman" that is to be 'atoned for' and subsequently receives an "indefinitely lasting covenant." Now, does that sound like the religions of Pagandom and/or Christendom to you? Again, let's keep in mind what the Society actually said was their definition as to how one can 'correctly understand' the verses in question. Yes, we want to be able to correctly identify modern-day "Jerusalem" in these prophecies, right? The Watchtower Society says: If it's good, then "Jerusalem" [or Israel] represents God's people. And, if the context indicates bad, it merely represents false worshippers, "apostates," or "prostitute" "pagan nations" — in other words, Christendom and/or Pagandom. However, as you have just observed, what do we conclude if the context of prophecy shows both good and bad for the same said "Jerusalem" [or Israel]? Remember, in many, many passages, if we really examine the entire context of the verses considered, we see that the same "Jerusalem" that is spoken of in an unfavorable light, is later spoken of as having received "restoration" by the hand of God! Now, how do we explain that? Also, many prophecies demonstrate that the same "Jerusalem" [or Israel] who previously had a good standing before Him, later embark upon an unrepentant course of sin and are the very ones that ultimately bring on an estranged relationship with God, and finally become the recipients of severe discipline from His hand! And finally, it is from this "Lo-ammi" or disowned state, that they [Israel] have to be "restored." (Hosea 1:8, 9) Think about it. Let's reason upon this: It would certainly make more sense to believe that these prophecies could only apply to one "Jerusalem," one people, Jehovah's Witnesses — the true "Israel of God." Really, the only people, who have the real capacity to 'leave the Holy Covenant' are the people who are in the "Holy Covenant" with Him, right? (Daniel 11:30) And Jehovah's Witnesses say that they are the only people, truly, in the "New Covenant" with Jehovah, right? For remember, Christendom is not in any "Holy Covenant" with Jehovah God whatsoever, are they? Now, doesn't that make more sense, when you really, really think about it. What is more, the "Israel" in question mentioned in prophecy could only represent, and we repeat only represent, the "Israel of God" that has been "covenanted" to Him in marriage. (See Isaiah 54:5-8.) Furthermore, contrary to what the Watchtower Society says, Christendom has never "claimed to bear" God's Personal Name, Jehovah. They completely avoid the use of His Name today, as they have for centuries! Therefore, Christendom could not in any way, shape or form fit the Biblical description of "Israel," since they are: (a) trinitarian, (b) lovers of icon or image worship, and (c) quite simply HATE the Personal Name of God, Jehovah. Therefore, how could Christendom, or any religion of pagandom really represent the "Israel of God," spoken of prophetically in scripture. That would simply be an IMPOSSIBILITY. Think about it. To further this thought, let's take another excellent example in Isaiah 2:1-9. The Jehovah's Witnesses have all been taught that verses 1-4 have application upon themselves, in their present state of increase, in our day and time. But have you ever read the remaining 5 verses in context. Let's notice these: "O men of the house of Jacob, come and let us walk in the light of Jehovah." "For you have forsaken your people, the house of Jacob. For they have become full of what is from the East, and they are practitioners of magic like the Philistines, and with the children of foreigners they abound. And their land is filled with silver and gold, and there is no limit to their treasures. And their land is filled with horses, and there is no limit to their chariots. And their land is filled with worthless gods. To the work of one's hands they bow down, to that which one's fingers have made. And earthing man bows down, and man becomes low, and you cannot possibly pardon them." Now keep in mind, that the Watchtower Society has never explained the remaining five verses in their publications, namely verses 5 - 9, which shows us that the same "Jacob" [or Israel], who in verses 1-4 has great increase and people streaming to Jehovah's Mountain, in these verses are

Yes, as mentioned earlier, Bible prophecy indicates that the Jehovah's day is a great one, so that there is no other like it, and it is the time of distress for Jacob. But he will be saved. "FORETOLD  Jeremiah 30:7 foretold great "distress" for God's Name people in the last days by saying: "Alas! For在校的, among the family of Jehovah's Witnesses will prevail in the end. Daniel 11:32-35 clearly indicates this fact! No, but what we are saying is that, the Jehovah's Witnesses as a whole, have not matured as a people or nation, spiritually speaking, the same as the Jewish nation is Jesus' day. Therefore, they correspond perfectly, in almost every detail and way, to the Jewish nation of Jesus' day under the Pharisees and Sadducees. And by so corresponding, they fulfill many, many prophecies, spoken of in the Prophetic books of the Bible concerning "Israel," God's people of our time. And the essay or dissertation called: "THE REPORT" has been written to demonstrate such fulfillment among Jehovah's Witnesses of our time. — Hebrews 6:1; 2; Matthew 9:36; Ezekiel 21:7 This same lack of spiritual progress will ultimately cause them to fail, again according to prophecy, as a light-bearing organization according to the standard set by Jesus Christ himself, our exemplar. And this will be despite the fact that they now carry the Name of God, Jehovah, upon themselves. Remember: it is this Name that has set them apart from all other religions. And, on the other hand, it is this same Name that carries with it grave responsibilities as we have seen. Yes, Jehovah's people must live up to that Name! — See Deuteronomy 28:58-62. "COMMANDMENTS OF MEN" STUMBLES NATION Well, remember Jesus told the Pharisees what was really wrong with their worship by saying as recorded at Matthew 15:9: "It is in vain that they worship me [Jehovah] because they teach as doctrines the COMMANDMENT OF MEN." Did you notice that the teaching of "commandments of men" could result in the worship of the entire nation being subsequently aborted, rendered "in vain," even? Yes, the Jewish leaders had rendered the people's worship in "vain" because of teaching "commandments of men." This is very displeasing to Jehovah God. These "teachings of men" are viewed by Jehovah as "leaven" that corrupts the entire nation. (Matthew 16:12; 1 Corinthians 5:6) By teaching the "commandments of men," the Pharisees could control the people and make them think what they wanted them to think. The people were thus following the "commandments of men" and not the commandments of God, involving themselves in IDOLATRY, creature worship even, which is very offensive to Jehovah. And we know that Jehovah will not tolerate, nor except such worship, even if it is given in His name! The same thing is happening today among the Jehovah's Witnesses under the direction of the Watchtower Society as teachers. Think about it. Therefore, remember, "You must not have any god before my face." (Exodus 20:3) Also: "I will not share my glory with anyone." — Isaiah 42:8. Oh, the Watchtower Society projects the image that they understand completely, that is, the prophecies of the Bible, even in detail. But the facts reveal, they do not and are actually very confused in their teachings and doctrines on the "deeper things of God." (1 Cor. 2:10) Furthermore, some Jehovah's Witnesses have become enthusiastic advocates of the Watchtower Society — religious fanatics, if you will, like Paul was in the beginning, and may not even be aware of it. These extremists, are in fact, actually following the teachings or "commandments of men" — The Watchtower Society, not God's Word on all matters. Many of these are "elders" in the congregation. (Mark 7:7,8) In more recent years, it has been noticed, that newer policies and procedures have been added, that we believe, will produce in the end, a cult of MINDLESS FOLLOWERS who operate and carry out their "sacred service" independent of inspired thought from God's Word the Bible! These individuals may become dangerous in the end, again, according to prophecy. (See Matthew 24:9-12; John 16:2.) Remember, all of this has been prophesied in scripture. Hard to believe? Well, all one has to do is make a close examination of the teachings and policies of the Jehovah's Witnesses and this startling fact will become quite clear. The dissertation called "THE REPORT", based upon Ezekiel 21:7, is designed to reveal these facts.  End of Part II "The Report" Volume I  EMC Publications PO Box 230445 Montgomery, Ala 36123 email: emcpublications@yahoo.com  bjc  to continue true worship because of sin and transgression against Jehovah's Law! Yes, and because of such sin, a distinct separation will occur in the brotherhood of Jehovah's Witnesses. Yes, the "stick of Judah" will separate from the "stick of Joseph." And yet, after a period of discipline, they will indeed, come back together again. Please carefully consider the following scriptural citations and these points will become quite visible: 1) Isaiah 11:12, 13 2) Ezekiel 37:15-23 3) Hosea 1:11 4) Zechariah 11:14 5) Jeremiah 30:1-3 However, during the interim of the same said separation, Jehovah will strike His people in the form of "severe" discipline. And then, after severe "trampling" as the scriptures indicate, this discipline is to be followed by intense light of "understanding" from Jehovah God concerning their transgressions against Him. Yes, they will then come to "understand" that 'all the prophets' pointed forward to this day of discipline for the Christian congregation. — Revelation 12:6,14; Acts 3:21 Isaiah 30:26 puts it this way by saying: "And the light of the full moon must become as the light of the glowing [sun]; and the very light of the glowing [sun] will become seven times as much, like the light of seven days, in the day that Jehovah binds up the brokenhearted of his people and heals even the severe wound resulting from the stroke BY HIM." Also Jeremiah 23:19,20 which says: "Look! a windstorm of Jehovah, rage itself, has gone forth, an onward-sweeping tempest. Upon the head of the wicked ones it will whirl. The burning anger of Jehovah will not turn back until he will have carried out and until he will have made the ideas of his heart come true. In the final part of the days you people [Israel] will give your consideration to it with understanding. — See also Jeremiah 30:23, 24. Make no mistake, Jehovah is going to discipline His people "Israel" (Jehovah's Witnesses as a nation) — in the most "severe" way. And yet, happily in the end, a core of true worshippers taken from the Jehovah's Witnesses will be eventually made into a "strong nation" with the help and assistance of others, who are onlookers of these Biblical events of the future. Hard to believe? Again, let's notice what Micah 4:6,7 prophetically says of the future for God's people: "In that day, says the LORD [JEHOVAH], I will assemble the lame and gather those who have been driven away, and those whom I have afflicted. The lame I will make the remnant, and those who were cast off, a strong nation; and the LORD [JEHOVAH] will reign over them in Mount Zion now and forevermore." — Oxford Annotated Bible EXILE OF JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES — WHEN? Now, we may remember that the Watchtower Society has taught for some time that first Jesus Christ began his reign over God's people in 1914 and then, Jehovah God allowed His people, Jehovah's Witnesses as a nation, to go off into "exile," that is into "Babylon" during the years of 1918-19. (See July 1 Watchtower 1982 pg. 24, 25.) However, as you have just read in the above scripture, the exile of God's people actually comes BEFORE Jehovah begins His reign over His people. Yes, before His glorious reign. And that "reign" is to last "forevermore," or as the New World Translation says: till "time indefinite." Yes, Jehovah's rule over His people will never cease, but it comes only after His people, Jehovah's Witnesses, first go off into exile, away from Jehovah's face. That's what the scriptures indicate. Therefore, we can see that the Watchtower Society has reversed the order of events. Yes, they have placed Christ coming into Kingdom power in the year of 1914, and the exile of his people coming after that. Whereas, the scripture clearly states that the exile precedes Jehovah God's reign (in the hands of Jesus) over his people, the Watchtower Society has reversed these events to accommodate their doctrine of 1914. Their understanding on this matter is clearly incorrect, and Micah 4:6,7 proves it. Also, Isaiah 49:19-21 speaks prophetically of God's people after being disciplined: "Though you were ruined and made desolate and your land laid waste, now you will be too small for your people, and those who devoured you will be far away. The children born during your bereavement will yet say in your hearing, 'this place is too small for us;' Then you will say in your heart, 'Who bore me these? I was bereaved and a barren; I was exiled and rejected. Who brought these up? I was left all alone, but these — where have they come from?'" — New International Version; See also Isaiah 65:1; Romans 11:25, 26. Now this really brings us to the heart of our position as EMC Publications. This point brings us full circle since it tells the entire story about Jehovah's Witnesses and their future destiny under the direction of the Watchtower Society. For years now our message as stated has been the following: "Jehovah's Witnesses, as modern-day 'Israel' — destined to fall and be restored." Yes, we believe that Jehovah's Witnesses are destined to "fall," under the leadership of the Watchtower Society, and yet, they will later be regrouped, "restored," according to Bible prophecy. The wickedness we see prevalent today among the nation of Jehovah's Witnesses can no doubt be largely attributed to the leadership of the organization, the Watchtower Society. Therefore, rather than completely destroy the entire nation of Jehovah's Witnesses, Jehovah chooses to "discipline" the nation, or people, to bring a "remnant" to their senses. However, we feel, the Watchtower Society and it's Governing Body, as a corporate structure, will receive a very, special punishment — utter destruction! That too will be explained in detail, scripturally, in "THE REPORT" document. Although Jehovah God could exercise his Almighty power to destroy the entire nation of Jehovah's Witnesses from the face of the earth with one swipe according to Malachi 4:5, 6 — nevertheless, in His mercy, and "loyalty" to His promises, His Name and "covenant" with them, He chooses to exercise certain provisions within His contract with the nation, much like the ones Solomon spoke of as found at 1 Kings 8:46-50 which says: "In case they [Israel] sin against you [Jehovah] (for there is no man that does not sin), and you have to be incensed at them and abandon them to the enemy, and their captors actually carry them off captive to the land of the enemy distant or nearby; and they come to their senses ["be think themselves' KJV] in the land where then have been carried off captive, and they actually return and make request to you for favor in the land of their captors, saying, 'We have sinned and erred, we have acted wickedly'; and they indeed return to you with all their heart and with all their soul in the land of their enemies who carried them off captive, and they indeed pray to you in the direction of their land that you gave to their forefathers, the city that you have chosen and the house that I have built to your name; you must also hear from their enemies who carried them off captive, and they indeed pray to you in the direction of their land that you gave to judgment for them, and you must forgive your people who had sinned against you and all their transgressions with which they transgressed against you..." Amazingly, this information you have just read, is just as applicable to modern-day Jehovah's Witnesses, as it was for the nation of Israel, thousands of years ago. And, believe it or not, scriptural prophecies such as Micah 4:6, 7 and Isaiah 30:26 and Jeremiah 23:20 are prophecies that are yet to be fulfilled! Yes, they remain to be fulfilled in the near future, and will surely be fulfilled upon modern-day Israel, God's Name people, the Jehovah's Witnesses. Think about it. But, you may be saying: "Why should they (the Jehovah's Witnesses) be disciplined so severely?" Again, it is because they, like the Jewish Nation, are in a covenant relationship with Jehovah God. Yes, the Jehovah's Witnesses as a nation have dedicated their lives, no not to Jesus Christ, the Son of God — but to JEHOVAH, the Great God of Jacob, and therefore must be held accountable to that solemn oath the same as the Jewish nation was held to the one made at Mt. Sinai. (See Exodus 19:7,8) The Bible is clear: 'What you vow, pay to God, for he has no pleasure in fools. It is better not to vow, than vow and do not pay.'— Ecclesiastes 5:4-6. The Jehovah's Witnesses as a nation, have made such a vow. They have made a dedication before Jehovah and are therefore in a "covenant" with Him. They must either fulfill the terms of that agreement or pay for their disobedience. But you must be saying, "what disobedience?" "How are they acting disobediently?" Well, again, "THE REPORT" will answer these questions. But suffice it to say for now, that the Jehovah's Witnesses, as an organization, have been prophesied about many times in the Bible. Yes, they are the modern-day Jews of our time! Remember, the Israelites of Isaiah's day were actually "Jehovah's Witnesses" as Isaiah 43:10 makes plain. Yes, these people were known by God's personal name. The people today, who bear that name, that is, the personal name of God [Jehovah], can be easily identified by that Name. They are the Jehovah's Witnesses, and there is huge responsibility in carrying that Name. Yes, they correspond to the "city," modern-day "Jerusalem," identified at Jeremiah 25:29 as being in line for judgment in our day and time. It reads: 'the city upon whom my name is called, ... I am starting off in bringing calamity.'— New World Translation. This understanding helps us discern the true meaning of the following words by Jesus at Luke 21:23, 24 which says: "Woe to the pregnant women and the ones suckling a baby in those days! For there will be great necessity upon the land and wrath on this people [spiritual Israel]; and they will fall by the edge of the sword and be led captive into all the nations; and JERUSALEM will be trampled on by the nations, until the appointed times of the nations are fulfilled."— New World Translation. Yes, before the world at large is to be judged, God's own name people must be judged. And we know, the only people carrying God's personal name today is the Jehovah's Witnesses. 1 Peter 4:17 further says: "Now it is for the appointed time for Judgment to start with the House of God." Yes, judgment "starts" with the "house of God." But still, you may be wondering: "Just how are they [Jehovah's Witnesses] becoming unfaithful as an organization?" Again, to get the answer to this question and many others, we must consider some of the detailed information that deals with actual doctrines, teachings and policies of the Watchtower Society, the leaders of the Jehovah's Witnesses movement. This information has been compiled in a dissertation called "THE REPORT" based upon a unique prophecy found in Ezekiel 21:7 which specifically deals with God's chosen people. Yes, our time, is a time of great "peril." (2 Timothy 3:1 KJV), and "THE REPORT" addresses these concerns. --- End of Part III--- "The Report" pgs 41-62--- EMC Publications PO Box 230445 Montgomery, Ala 36123 email: emcpublications@yahoo.com

I have been associated with JW's for some time and on the whole have always found them to be very honest, pleasant and good living people. However, the recent revelations (pardon the pun) about child abuse within the organization have left me cold, disappointed and confused. The thing which really annoys me is the fact that they have not, as far as I am aware, made a public response. Also they have never actually admitted that child abuse takes place within the organization. The JW's say that they are not part of the world and that they are different to Christendom. I cannot accept this now and feel that they are no different to any other religion. I feel very upset about the whole issue. Anne E mail: woodhouse_a@hotmail.com

Subj: RE: Cover up of child molestations within Jehovah's witness organization Date: 8/2/2002 4:33:57 PM Central Daylight Time From: TophersGirl1964 To: Editor@people.com Dear Editor: I have been a reader for many years, I want to alert you to a cover-up by the elders and Governing Body of the Jehovah's witnesses, regarding pedophiles in the congregation. I'm sure you heard or saw the Dateline episode but this goes far beyond that. You can contact Bill Bowen at www.SilentLambs.com he and some other have recently been disfellowshipped for "causing divisions." Seems they like the Catholic Church would rather harbor a pedophile and disfellowship (excommunicate) the victim. Please look into this a story in such a well read publication might help those fighting for the victims Sincerely, Sheila Madonia

Wishing you all the very best, keep on fighting. Jeremiah among so many others, old and new fought for what was and is still right. In fact many, many 'leaders' were in their hearts, enemies of Jehovah God and his Son. Regards. My email is: lynntcb@tpg.com.au

Thank you so much for all the pep-talks in response to me being in the dumps! And the happy birthday wishes. You are all wonderful and this is the one place in the whole world, that I can go with all the issues and know someone understands. Love, Claudine  P.S. I copied some of the Report from bjc - thanks bjc, don't know if I am ready to read this, but I did copy it to read later - ANY prophecy is suspect to me at this time. But I appreciated the input regarding the trinity and hell fire.  saw letter to People Mag...great! and saw there is another new visitor or two who are concerned. I have never heard from Stark- maybe he is on vacation.C.E.

Anne - you see what the rest of us see and feel the same way as we do. Most of feel betrayed and sadden and very confused. Have you read all the posts, past months and the other sections in the web site here? It completely devastated me and appalled me to think I was associated even remotely with anyone that supports such a policy. But it was not anything I did not know - I knew of pedophilia within the congregation, each incident I considered an isolate case - funny how the mind works. None of the pedophiles were DF'd and one elder let his son-in-law take the blame for what he himself (elder) was doing to his own granddaughter. Ruin the marriage and the brother left the "truth" - don't know what happened to him. I have heard sisters say these pedophiles are dead now as if that were the wages for their sins, since they were never DF'd or prosecuted. As if this is the answer to waiting on Jehovah. It is very encouraging to read posts from new people who find silentlambs. Claudine

The Bible, Jesus I believe, offers easy advice for those ‘drowning’ in endless, confusing and mind-numbing and faith-destroying debates about doctrine. "By their works, you will know them". Simple. Comforting. I'm so grateful for that. I almost need nothing else. It's why we're all here, isn't it?

"We cannot claim to love God, yet deny his word and channel of communication." The Watchtower, October 1, 1967 p. 591. Now what does the scriptures have to say: Ps. 145:18 The LORD is near to all who call upon Him, to all who call upon Him in truth. ___ John 14:6 Jesus said to him, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life; no one comes to the Father, but through Me." ___ Gods word is the BIBLE(Not the Watchtower and other publications) and the bible says nothing about going through an organization to come to the Father. We can have a personal relationship with our Creator. Heb. 4:16 Let us therefore draw near with confidence to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and may find grace to help in time of need.

Maybe the Mayor of New York would be interested in another type of Terrorism that is head quartered in his own city! The kind of TERRORIST that hide child molesters., that DF's the one that are trying to help the children. The kind of TERRORIST that ALLOWS child molesters to roam the streets and go door to door disguised as ministers of GOD! The Org the Mayors own community, hiding thousands of names of child molesters! The file is in his fare city! If a federal Judge can order the president to give over the names of the detainee's of 9/11 then the Mayor can order the Org to hand over their file! To bad the march isn't set for 9/11 when millions of people will be there, or watching! Because even though this has nothing to do with the terrorist of then, This Org IS TERRORIZING children, making them face the accused, telling them that there is nothing that can be done when there is not two or more witnesses! Who defines terror? I say let the abused children of the world give their definition. LET THE TWELVE YEAR OLD IN CHICAGO IN NOVEMBER, THAT GOT BEAT TO DEATH WITH AN EXTENSION CORD TELL, LET HER BROTHERS WHO WERE FORCED TO PARTICIPATE IN THE BEATING TELL! LET THE EIGHT MONTH OLD BABY WHO HAS CIGARETTE BURNS ALL OVER IT'S LITTLE BODY TELL, LET LITTLE SAMATHA FROM CALF. TELL! LET THE TWO MONTH OLD BABY THAT WAS SHOOK AND HAD IT'S LITTLE BABY HEAD BANGED AGAINST A METTLE BAR UNTIL DEAD TELL! LET THE LITTLE CHILDREN CHASED IN TX ONE AT A TIME AND DROWNED BY THEIR OWN MOTHER TELL! LET THE LITTLE CHILDREN IN GARY, IN THAT WERE BEING SOLD BY THEIR MOTHER TO PERFORM SEXUAL ACTS FOR OTHERS, WHILE SHE TOOK THE MONEY AT THE DOOR TELL! LET THE TWO BABY'S LEFT IN THEIR MOTHERS VEHICLE TO SLOWLY BAKE TO DEATH WHILE THE MOTHER HAD HER HAIR DONE TELL! LET THE LITTLE LAMB TIED TO A POST AND MOLESTED WHILE HEARING THE SCRIPTURES TELL. LET THE LAMBS DEFINE TERROR! TERROR OF THE SPIRIT, MIND, AND BODY!

This is a great web site. Although I was not sexually abused, I was mentally abused. You see it was all part of the "test by fire" the elders put me through to see if I was qualified to be a ministerial servant, even though I never asked to be one. In the end when I was about to be appointed I dropped out and stopped attending meetings. Part of "test by fire" I'm sure was to see how I would handle criticism (I had an elder tell me privately that what I was doing, attending college, was against scriptures, for example...), injustices (I had privileges taken away from me for no reason and given to more "junior" brothers, with no explanation), etc... I'm sure these, and other tests and humiliations were all tests of my humility, but I couldn't get over how damaging they were. In the end I guess I wasn't so humble after all. Keep up the good work Bill. -David in CA

September 15, 2002 Watchtower Magazine Speaks Out On Apostasy  --- The following quotes are taken from the September 15, 2002 edition of The Watchtower, pages 16-18:  From these quotes, we can see the Watchtower Society is at War with the "Silentlams" Movement!  "In the first century, such individuals as Hymanaeus, Alexander, and Philetus, were advocating ideas that did not fit "the pattern of healthful words." (1 Timothy 1:18-20; 2 Timothy 2:16,17) How could the early Christians avoid being led astray by apostates? By carefully studying the inspired writings and applying them in life. Those walking in accord with the example they had in Paul and other faithful ones were able to recognize and reject anything that did not conform to the pattern of truth they had been taught. (Philippians 3:17; Hebrews 5:14) Instead of being "mentally diseased over questionings and debates about words," they continued moving ahead in their positive course of godly devotion. (1 Timothy 6:3-6) We do the same thing when we keep on putting into practice the truths we have learned."  The following quote is definitely directed to the "Silentlamb Movement"  "Satan tries to break our integrity through the sowing of doubts about what we have been taught. Today, as in the first century, apostates and others seek to destroy the faith of guileless ones. (Galatians 2:4; Hebrews 5:14) Instead of being "mentally diseased over questionings and debates about words," they continued moving ahead in their positive course of godly devotion. To DA on the Battered Lambs section - no you did not bore me - your story was heartbreaking. My mother too was/is a staunch JW and I observed her for many years being SOOO NICE to people at the congregation (my father was not a JW so the elders never had to bother to side with him). Her act was so convincing people used to come up to me and say "your mother is SOOO nice isn't she". She was actually an extremely cruel women, so cruel it hurt - she used to whack my brothers and I, except my middle brother who was her favorite and she would even buy him "special" food and I remember at Sunday lunch she would give all the best meat to him rather than to my father (who had gone to work all week to pay for it - my mother didn't work). Worse than any whacking though were her spiteful, hurtful words - she would stab you in the back with that malicious tongue of hers. I spent years and years trying to please her, buying her things, helping her, anything just to make her like me - but when I got to 31 and my father died I decided, no more. It was the best thing I ever did. What is ironic (and I KNEW this would happen) is that now she has got to be an old lady her precious favorite son (who is still a JW) does not bother to be a good son and I (disfellowshipped for marrying a "worldly" wonderful, considerate, kind man whom I have been with for 15 years)am the one who has suddenly become such "a wonderful daughter" etc which is of course utter bullish because she never had a good word to say about me as I was growing up. I remember once my brothers were bullying me - they made me sit on a stool so I couldn't move and then they walked round and round me chanting things and spitting on me. My mother was ironing at the time and I called to her and begged her to stop them but she said nothing and had a smirk on her face - she was actually ENJOYING seeing me bullied. No doubt I will be the one to look after her in her old age - not her JW sons - because I believe we have that duty etc. There are so many JWs living a double life it is unbelievable - pretending to be Christian when in fact as soon as they get behind their own front doors they are nasty, spiteful and unkind people.

Interesting info in that WT. The sad part is that MOST JW's are going to buy into that. When the Dateline program first aired, I talked to a friend (JW) about it only because I knew she had watched it. She asked me, "You don't think we are brainwashed do you? I have always talked against people who are brainwashed, i.e. Jim Jones followers, etc. but that question has kept coming back in my mind for the past two months and I have to conclude that we are brainwashed. It is so subtle that we don't even realize that the WTS has had complete control over our lives. This is especially true for those of us who tried to do EXACTLY what the WTS directed. We have no recourse if we disagree with anything or question. They have effectively taken away our freedom of speech which is supposed to be one of the wonderful things about living in the US. Does anyone know of any active JW's who are going to the march.? I just emailed the NY mayor. Thanks to whoever suggested that. Trying to get local NY people involved seems like an excellent idea. Jazbug you are quit welcome, I hoped that someone would think it a good idea! I haven't as yet emailed, I want to write the exact right thing in order to 'really be heard' That for me is going to take some thought and prayer. I was also looking for Senator H.R. Clinton's email, I thought that she would be the exact one to 'get one the band wagon' regarding this. With the now pres's wife all for child education, I thought that Mrs. Clinton would like to 'put her two cents in!' couldn't hurt. My ONLY doubts about the NY route is I am sure that the Org has a lot of pull in that area, considering they have a lot of money there! Maybe someone can come up with a perfect email/letter, that can be altered to be personal yet still get the same message across. I'm all for Help here! bonnielynn

PHOOEY No one here is trying to subvert the faith in Jesus or in the FATHER so who's faith are they talking about, faith in an Org that is revamping a community to hold enough slaves for another 10 years! Why aren't they 'waiting on Jehovah before building'? I heard a story once, three different preachers, one was bragging 'my church raked in, for GOD, $10,000 this month! another one bragged my church raked, in for GOD, $20,000 this month! The third one said "Well, throw all the money up in the air and see how much of it GOD keeps!"

Every time someone disagrees with The Watchtower they say your an Apostate. Well i can accept that. Apostate to them, only. God loves you regardless of the label they paint you with. I was looking at the Reasoning from the Scriptures book, on why witnesses don't carry on the Sabbath p345-52 and on page 349 it implies the ten commandments are to be done away with. On page 348 when asking about the greatest commandments of the LAW Jesus comment included was Love thy Neighbor as yourself. Obviously they haven't used this with their dealings with the victims as shown on panorama, and dateline. Also if the sabbath is done away with, why not the 2 witness doctrine, it doesn't make sense to me. The Bible says you will know if you are in the right church by the Love in the Congregation. I never found much love but only false affection. Truly as said in the Book of Thomas, "But Jesus looked upon Zacchaus the teacher and saith unto him: Thou that knowest not the Alpha according to its nature, how canst thou teach others the Beta? thou hypocrite, first, if thou knowest it, teach the Alpha, and then will we believe thee concerning the Beta." They mish mash scriptures so much to fit arguments they have, they know not the spirit of the books they're reading. What would Jesus do if he went into the Kingdom Hall and found them covering up the Abuse of children? I imagine, their would be smashing up of Chairs, and a commotion, and a few witnesses would politely throw him out! This reminds me of the scripture, Lord did we not Prophesy in your Name, Get away from me you workers of Lawlessness! Fortunately I'm no longer attending the indoctrination of this movement, and I've found God and Jesus in my own way, which may not suit everyone, but he Bible says its a relationship between you and the father, not the Watchtower. So now they've disassociated Bill Bowen, and you want to appeal, I don't understand that. The organization is corrupt, and ungodlike, leave it and be thankful. You know God more than they do, or they wouldn't be in such a mess. The only way for you to change the organization now is if you were to become a governing body member. Remember, absolute power corrupts absolutely. We are in times like that of Noah, and the only ark is Jesus, not the Watchtower!

I took a few seconds to check my exhaustive concordance of the Bible, to see how many times the words organization or organized was in the Bible. The answer is zero. So why does it appear so often in the Society's publications? If the honest hearted ones in the Watchtower movement were given the permission to read the Bible for a month(and set the other material aside, it would still be there for them later)they may find that they are reading different teachings. Right now though the Society has got people so busy with their publications meetings and agenda, that honest hearted ones don't have even the time to do serious study of the scriptures. It is the "so busy mopping up the floor that you don't have time to turn off the tap" syndrome. And it results in a kind of reading the TV guide instead of watching the actual show type of understanding. The publications do not equal the scriptures.

To Bonnielynn: I keep forgetting about the power and influence the WTS would have in NY and elsewhere for that matter. That position is even new to me since they have always spoke against Christendom and all of its riches and power. I guess they decided if you can't beat ’em, may as well join ’em. It will be interesting if we hear anything from the mayor. Jazbug55

http://www.jwzone.org/forums/showthread.php?postid=124076#post124076 Y’all truly do make me ill. What are you really doing to protect the children? Are you actually “sigh[ing] and groan[ing] over all the abominations” or are you just whining and complaining? It seems to be the later to me. No wonder Jehovah starts with his house first when bringing much deserved destruction. ”So they started with the elders who were before the temple.” (Ezekiel 9:4,6) Too bad!

Revelations, the book of prophesies or profit for the Jehovah's Witnesses? ,,This ambiguous book written by apostle John late in the 96th year after Jesus death was a vision of the destruction of man and his life style. Did the prophecy already occur or is it still for our lifetime? Much can be said and interpreted in any fashion to fit any or all circumstances then and now. This book is vital in keeping the membership for all Christian organizations full and with high expectations of the future. I believe that this book maintains control over all the members of Jehovah's Witnesses Organization since the founding of Russell's church. I can imagine in my mind all the descriptions of monsters, beast, and Angels that are described in revelation. Such vivid descriptions scare even I. John says that this revelation came by Christ to him from angels and then was presented to him. This inspiring prophecy surely is from a divine origin when it came to John and so we must all believe. We have many organizations that believe that they know all what each meaning is and parable in every chapter in Revelations. The Jehovah's Witnesses believe it will be a happy climax into a new world order and bring about a grand Theocracy in which all men will be Governed. I find after reading Revelations, that much of the prophecies describes more or less repentance before all these things written take place. I myself have fears and if I were a member of any Christian Organization, I too must repent or be destroyed. ,,Satan takes on a dramatic role in this book, along with his cohorts from heaven. The book Revelation does effect everyone profoundly, even those of others faiths. It seems that all religions have something about the doom of mankind. This particular book in the bible gives the feeling that we glimpse into the heavenly realm and the transcended glory of God. This book also gives the feeling that we are to be moved in some way to appreciate Gods and Jesus holiness in the Heavenly realm. A Mormon told me that this book is meant to avoid the evils of the world and to watch for Christ's rapture. I can see how one would interpret this in that way. Revelation does set standards for any those who are Christians should adhere too. Will all these wonderful prophecies be fulfilled in our lifetime or are the Jehovah's Witness Organization false prophets?  Christian groups wait with expectation of this coming event. I was told not to ignore the counsel written in the book of Revelation or I would be unrighteous. I see that I or we obey all what is written, we too can be saved when Christ returns.  Carl Olof describes in his book The Sign of the Last Days: “ that books that feed off the prophecies of revelation often stimulate expectations often enjoy great popularity"...So to be truly Christian, the faith in divine inspiration is crucial and is a way to acceptance to god and Christ and therefore is necessary for any one to gain salvation. I find that to be a believer we must be stirred up and exited about coming events because we may be living in the last days as described in Revelation. However, is there truth in believing what TV evangelizers predict about our modern times? We have existed throughout history having wars and famine. What is truly being described in Revelations? I believe at the time of the writing of Revelations the congregations needed a future of hope or just fade like the others before, any religious movement previously like Gnosticism did in the 1200's soon floated away like so much smoke and so I see the Jehovah's Witnesses also. As time passed many did not see Jesus return and those that did die, died with out knowing if they missed the opportunity to see Christ return. The writer or writers new that they couldn't let Christ fade away, so they gave Christ a sense of being forever, in a future were one couldn't interpret clearly the book of revelations and or know exactly the day or the hour of his return. Even modern day religions know this and use all the chapters to fit their needs, especially the JW Organization. It would be better to read Nostradamus because his writing is no clearer than Revelations. I heard people have more faith in Nostradamus than the book of Revelations, but the fact remains, they are both vague.  Blind faith in what is to come will be the downfall of all religions in our future mostly the doom seers who keep telling us that the destruction of mankind is upon us. Why is it when I read Revelations I do not get the same answer as do these other religious preachers? I was told by a member of the Jehovah's Witnesses that I have very little faith and I don't have as much Holy Spirit as they do. I asked "how does one know how much Holy Spirit one can have, either you have some or none I said. Is there a degree of Holy Spirit one must have to interpret the scriptures?" No answer. I believe this to be true for all religions that ignorance is bliss.  In Conclusion, I would rather see humanity rid them of this mental pestilence. My research has lead me to believe that religion has done more harm than good. Revelation is nothing more than a tool to keep people who want to believe in something in control, so as not to question their religious authority in the hierarchy of their religious ranks. Revelations was nothing more than a prank to keep unity among the early religious congregations because of all the early opposition. If Paul did write Revelation it because he had foresight enough to realize that the early seven congregations would eventually split without some sort of hope, so to keep the unity and advance the cause of Christ peace keeping efforts he wrote the book of Revelations off a dream that scared him; however, our modern times has brought about cults and splinter Christian religions that use this information to scare, beguile and mesmerize the weak minded into believing what they say is true causing the issue of neglect and abuse we see on TV from the Roman Church and the JW Organization among others. Clear headed reading from the beginning of the Bible to the end one can see the story being told about human thought and history for the last several thousands years. Don't be afraid to read for yourself, i promise no one will burn you at the stake today. Tomorrow is another story...afraid in Sacramento.

9-15-02 WT: "SOMETIMES THEY HAVE USED THE MEDIA TO SPREAD DISTORTED INFORMATION OR EVEN OUTRIGHT LIES ABOUT THE METHODS AND MOTIVES of Jehovah's Witnesses." --- How timely, too, knowing this mag will be distributed to the public before the SL March on 9/27! I bet all the Bethelites will be sent out in droves, probably on a big magazine campaign in the NY area! What creeps, working hard at their damage control. HOW can the current JWs BUY INTO this? I wonder how many of them sitting in their homes reading their WT BELIEVES WHAT THEY ARE READING about this HUGE "HINT HINT" NOT to believe the "Media" a/k/a Silent Lambs? Arrggghhh! Hey Claudine, glad you are feeling better. Maybe not, though, if they paid him enough for it. Oh well, just a thought that he may have taken your emails very seriously! Love ya/SLC

TAKE HEART ALL THOSE ACCUSED or DF'd for SPEAKING UP! I saw this encouraging post on another forum. GOOD SCRIPTURAL EXAMPLE. /SLC --- "It is true that David said that he would not strike Jehovah's anointed, but this did not prevent him from TALKING TO MANY PEOPLE ABOUT WHAT HAD HAPPENED and WARNING THEM that Saul was out to get him and them. In 1 Samuel 19:18 David TELLS Samuel what Saul had done, at 1 Samuel 20:1, he DISCUSSES IT with Jonathan. 1 Samuel 22: 1,2 apparently MANY PEOPLE HEARD ABOUT WHAT HAD HAPPENED TO DAVID AND JOINED HIM. From the context of 1 Samuel 22: 13 Saul accused David and the people of conspiring against him. In 1 Samuel 24: 12-16, David ACTUALLY SAYS to Saul THAT HE IS GUILTY and that JEHovah WILL JUDGE BETWEEN THEM. When JWs speak out in protest against what is happening are they not doing the same thing? Have any of them taken God's judgment into their own hands to harm any Jehovah's Witnesses? Even though the WT seems to think there is a conspiracy against them, most everything that is spoken in regard to the WT is true and they have not been slandered. Even if they are not the Anointed of God, they have been accorded respect by the majority of XJWs. They just do not like the truth to be told about all of their past shortcomings. They want to be seen as God's Organization that cannot be spoken against."

REMEMBER THE SONG, "BE LIKE JEREMIAH"? Well, let's really take this to heart also! (Seen at another forum). /SLC --- "Jeremiah was a role model for STANDING APART FROM 'THE ORGANIZATION.' By the WTS's standards, Jeremiah was essentially disfellowshipped for 'apostasy' for speaking out against Israel's leadership. They even sought to kill him to silence him, did they not? Yet, Jehovah warned through Jeremiah that Israel's prophets were false prophets. Presumably, if they had heeded Jeremiah instead of "the organization", their temple would not have been destroyed and they would not have gone into Babylonian captivity."

Remember that great scripture in Isaiah 10:1,2 previously posted? Here is some research on that done by another person, but I thought it was interesting. /SLC --- NASB Isaiah 10:1,2: Assyria Is God's Instrument --- 1 Woe to those who (1) enact evil statutes And to those who constantly record unjust decisions, 2 So as (2) to deprive the needy of justice And rob the poor of My people of their rights, So (3) that widows may be their spoil And that they may plunder the orphans. --- Footnote (2) points to Isaiah 5: 23 (1) Who justify the wicked for a bribe, And take away the rights of the ones who are in the right! --- Footnote (3) points to Isaiah 1: 23 Your rulers are rebels And companions of thieves; Everyone loves a bribe And chases after rewards. They do not defend the orphan, Nor does the widow's plea come before them. --- and Isaiah 3: 14 The LORD enters into judgment with the elders and princes of His people, "It is you who have devoured the vineyard; The plunder of the poor is in your houses. 15 "What do you mean by crushing My people And grinding the face of the poor?" Declares the Lord GOD of hosts.
SOMEONE WROTE: ""Make haste to identify the visible theocratic organization of God that represents his king, Jesus Christ. It is essential for life. Doing so, be complete in accepting its every aspect." The Watchtower October 1, 1967 p. 591 (Talk about loaded sentences. It is these type of incredible and dangerous claims that make an organization shy about admitting that mistakes can happen.) (is the organization "essential for life"? Not as far as the bible is concerned.) --- You may appreciate this following comment from another forum (Channel C) since it describes what you are feeling/saying. /SLC --- QUOTE: "Re: All the studying has been done for you --- You have developed what my mom and I like to call the "Third Eye." That's being able to read the WT literature, which may appear to be scriptural and logical, but in reality is sinister and manipulative. You've also seen what the true motive is behind this propaganda: to keep the followers in line, being dependent on the GB for everything. "Blind guides is what they are. If, then, a blind man guides a blind man, both will fall into a pit." (Mt 15:14)"

Hi again, Thanks Jazzbug for the post showing pedophiles choose what they do. I agree it is evil. There is just no other way to put it...Once they cross that line and practice their deviant behavior they never cross back. You can't give them a conscience when it is not there. Pedophiles have a major holes in their conscience. How can you give them empathy or a conscience in this? In my experience you can't... I want Bill and the others to keep fighting the disfellowshipping. They have followed the Apostle Paul in talking about and exposing criminal behavior in the congregation and trying their best to protect the flock. Jehovah will not forget the your works or the love you showed. It is going around the world and exposing this for all to see. This could only be with Jehovah's blessing... This web site is working in harmony with Luke 8:17 "THERE IS NOTHING HIDDEN THAT WILL NOT BECOME MANIFEST, NEITHER ANYTHING CAREFULLY CONCEALED THAT WILL NEVER BECOME KNOWN AND NEVER COME INTO THE OPEN."... Later in Luke 12: 1,2 Jesus says to "watch out for the leaven of the Pharisees which is hypocrisy" then in verse 2 " BUT THERE IS NOTHING CAREFULLY CONCEALED THAT WILL NOT BE REVEALED, AND SECRET THAT WILL NOT BECOME KNOWN." In verse 3 "WHEREFORE WHAT THINGS YOU SAY IN DARKNESS WILL BE HEARD IN THE LIGHT AND WHAT YOU WHISPER IN PRIVATE ROOMS WILL BE PREACHED FROM THE HOUSETOPS." Isn't this happening now with the two TV programs aired all over North America and Europe?... In Luke 12:45-48 I recommend everyone read. It describes the faithful and discreet slave and that some would become unfaithful and when the master arrives he will punish them according to there works. Notice the wording. In verse 45 and 46 it says if ever that slave should say...The unfaithful slave comes from the faithful slave. I encourage everyone to read and notice the wording. Notice in later verses how the Master Jesus will punish them! In verse 45 their actions identify who they are. Notice at the end of verse 48 it says "INDEED EVERYONE TO WHOM MUCH WAS GIVEN MUCH WILL BE DEMANDED OF HIM AND THE ONE WHO PEOPLE PUT IN CHARGE OF MUCH THEY WILL DEMAND MORE THEN THE USUAL OF HIM." The Governing Body will have to render an account for all their actions... I am very glad that everything is coming out in the open and being exposed as the scriptures say would happen eventually...DJB

If anyone is interested in reading the Bible, they will discover that the words love, loving etc. are used more than 10 to 1 in the Scriptures over the words preach, preaching etc. Even if you have a magazine that teaches the truths of the bible(which the Watchtower material does not) you can still put emphasis on things that a group wants to make a priority that may not be given the same weight in the bible. Please note all that do not share this view. In Acts 17:11 says that the Bereans..."examined the Scriptures every day to see if what Paul said was true." What do you think the Bereans would say if they were presented with a Watchtower magazine instead to see if what Paul was saying was true? Give it some thought. We all have to get back to the scriptures in their pure form instead of the big mass publishing machines "book of the month club". Take care everyone.

My wife and I are Christians, though she and her five sisters were raised in a strict Jehovah's Witness family. I feel sorry for all of them, because they are such good people, but are trapped. I tried talking with them about the freedom Christ gives us. They are so closed-minded. They think anything not from the Watchtower Organization is from Satan and all other religions are from Satan. I think it is the other way around! I feel sorry for these kids who get abused and are forced to keep silent. I hope the whole organization will get exposed in the light and many kids will be saved from this torment. I have the book, "Reasoning from the Scriptures with Jehovah's Witnesses", and love it. I hope I can slowly "chip away" the "authority of the Watchtower Society" with my in-laws. It will be very tough without them shunning our family. Keep up the good work! and please keep me informed on the latest dealings in regards to the Jehovah's Witnesses: court cases, child molesters uncovered, etc.. my e-mail is rby05371@yahoo.com

A anonymous poster ( Aug 4 @ 10:53:21) commented So now they've disassociated Bill Bowen, and you want to appeal, I don't understand that. The organization is corrupt, and ungodlike, leave it and be thankful.  sometimes a legal case is fought not with winning a favorable verdict as the goal. A legal case before a corrupt judge exposes the corruption of the so called legal system itself. Bill went into the so-called judicial system knowing that a favorable verdict would not be handed down.He has to carry the case to the complete and final end. That way the WTS will be exposed before the world as a fake judicial system. The world is watching. The world sees the corruption. The WTS has to be exposed as not only the abuser of women and children but also the abuser of anyone who tries to protect them. Bill can not walk away from this. No he does not hold out hope that he can change the WTS by his appeal. His is only one voice in the wilderness crying out for justice. More voices will join in until there is a great roar that the world will pay attention to.  The WTS claims to be the channel of communication from God. It sets itself in the temple of God, claiming to be the Faithful & Discreet Slave, the anointed of God, with power and authority to judge the nation of God. Actually the Governing Body sets itself up as a god demanding unwavering obedience from the nation of Jehovah's Witnesses. Isn't this what is said about the "man of lawlessness" at 2 Thessalonians chapter 2? All this time they told us that it was the clergy of Christendom. Maybe they needed to look in the mirror? Well, it looks like they are being "revealed" for who and what they are.  that dear anonymous one is why a person would go thru the whole DFing process.  Hi to the rest of yas. I have been real busy lately. A reporter from the St Petersburg Times is doing two articles here locally. She could not find an abused child to interview so she is doing the article on what happens to those who speak out. She has been in touch with Bill. She interviewed me. She wanted my picture. I said no ( nobody wants to see my face in the paper especially me) The other article is about the whole disfellowshipping thing and how it can tear families apart. She has interviewed several disfellowshipped people from this area. So things are rolling right along.  Love Y'all, Loris

organization under the rule of the watchtower theocracy, it cannot afford to be a charitable organization. It has to its credit no bona fide charitable works, which it at best considers maudlin sentimentality. They usually justify this by misusing the lord's statement, "let the dead bury the dead", or they denounce the organized charitable works of Christendom as hypocrisy on par with the works of the pharisees which the lord condemned, and use the lord's dictum against vain display of good works. In thus upbraiding Christendom for its organized charities, they cleverly threw up a smokescreen to divert attention from the complete lack of charitable works by their so called Christian organization. Yet wonder of wonders, they do insist that they practice charity! Why is it when going door to door pushing their magazines can be considered a charitable work? Home bible studies a charitable work? These people spend hours devoted in discussion of what they contend to be charitable works. They eagerly expect to be rewarded openly by getting appointments as servants, or get a good standing in the congregation and with the society...now the real truth has come out on some of the abuses that we as member see on a frequent basis, especially those who in dire need of help are told to seek out government assistance, only the new recruits get all the fondling and praises, those cast aside and not fitting into their groups are the ones removed for petty sins...charity starts within the Kingdom Halls and so far none has been seen, only those with masks on come inside to hurt and injure the innocent being welcomed so dearly from the those in power...the mole

They will never be a great religion - sorry to say. All of us feel let down - can you image how Jehovah and Jesus feel? JW 's don't have time to help people in this system of things because they think it undermines the new system of things. Any help with food or money is temporary and the permanent solution is in New System. They feed people the new system - it is a wonderful hope, I have to admit. It has kept me going thru very difficult times. I still believe in the new system, but the WTS does not know the way and I can't follow them! I don't think they will be there. Sounds to me like many here owe a debt of gratitude to JW's Everybody is using the name Jehovah, who showed you that, a Baptist? Many by their own admission believe in a paradise earth as clearly taught in the bible. Who showed you that, a Catholic? Still others acknowledge being shown the truth about what happens when we die. Who showed you that a Methodist? Many others who have left the organization do not identify with any religion. Why? If JW's are so evil and everything else is so much better then why not become a Catholic, a Mormon, a Methodist heck why not become a Muslim or Hindu? Anything has to be better than them awful JW's. Can you believe it...why they think homosexuality is wrong imagine that! They think fornication and adultery is wrong, wow! And this is the biggest kicker, they try to live peaceful calm lives and as a whole are hard workers and sincere in what they believe. They ought to be darned out for such lifestyles! Ever heard the phrase a few rotten apples will spoil the whole bunch? Well instead of picking out the rotten apple and looking for the other 99 that are good the smartest thing to do by everyone's definition in here is to ignore the other 99 and focus on the bad one. Make as big as deal as possible! (See how bad this one is, look at all the wormholes in this one, look at the uneven shape of this one, look at the lump on this one...) before long everyone is convinced that the small portion of bad apples in the basket have been so demonized that that the only logical (or illogical) thing to do is discard them all! I have mulled this all over and I can't see any wisdom in going it alone. Just as many in here have acknowledged bible truths as taught them by JW's then I feel and have complete confidence that Jehovah will take care of all things in his own way or with finality and complete justice in the end. If there is someone so corrupt in a congregation or at headquarters a sincerely believe that Jah knows that and will take care of it. But to leave the only religion whom I feel tries to live by bible standards and a lot more completely and thoroughly than any other is tantamount to walking through a wilderness with a group of people who are your only source of physical and spiritual comfort and because of a spat with a couple of people you decide that you can go it alone, so you wander off, cutoff from your source of food and eventually you die from the elements. Bottom line: I don't think that JW's are such bad people and that any other religion has the truth or even the majority of the truth that I feel the need to leave. That's just my view and I feel that if others would quit beefing over everything than they would be a heck of a lot happier than sitting in from of a computer all the time writing posts about how bad JW's are. Tell me a religion any better as far as Bible truths go and healthy lifestyles go where divorce rates are low and most families are in fact, leave out the ones that say smoking is OK, immorality and homosexuality just an alternative lifestyle, holidays although we know have pagan origins but we do it just because everybody else does… and I'll show you a very short list! Forget the imperfect ones who as I said will be dealt with in Jehovah's own way and look at the whole instead of the few and I will again show you a very short list. Can you honestly look at the whole of any one religion and say with a certainty and with what you already know about the bible, that their belief structure and accepted practices are as an organization approved by God? Am I evil if I choose to stay a JW I am confused as to what the mission of this site is. It seems to me to be getting away from its stated purpose and has become a JW bashing party.

To the above JW defender: It would be easier to address you with a name or a handle. Anyway, the posters on this site show remarkable restraint and capacity to stay on subject. No one is trying to turn it into a JW bashing site. That is not to say that people don’t ever add to the topic. But for the most part, this group is focused on alerting the Society so they can clean up themselves. Barring that, they are letting the rest of the community know what is going on. But to the point - you want to focus on the larger picture. OK, I can only assume that you haven’t been a witness for long. Take a look at some of the older teachings. Take a look at the very foundation of your religion. Many organized religions feel that God must have a favorite child and that they must be it, none more so than the JWs. History, and those that created it are part of the big picture you refer to. The core set of beliefs are another, perhaps more significant part of the Witnesses’ big picture. Did you know you belong to a religion that used to believe that God was the architect of the pyramid of Giza - because of its measurements 'prove' their timeline? ... that you belong to a religion that built a house for the returning princes of the earth (Yes, a mansion in San Diego for Moses, David - those guys)? ... that you belong to a religion has predicted Armageddon at least a dozen times, starting in the 1870’s (do I need to mention that these predictions were wrong?)? Current beliefs are just as untenable - you cannot defend the literalness of the 144,000 without WatchTower articles. The logic used to deduce 1914 is absurd. I'm not talking about pointing at a few bad apples. I am talking about core beliefs - the very basis that you claim to cling to. There is no baby in the bathwater - toss it. - Buster

Your comments are true and there is too much JW bashing going on but let's face it disfellowshipping is a harsh policy that disrupts families and many individuals are extremely upset. Also to shun members for opposing child abuse cover-ups is to violate human rights. The WTBS needs to come clean and admit to the congregations what has actually happened, it needs to quit using double talk to appear factually truthful and yet cover up terrible deeds. Why am I not still if the organization? I believe what affected me the most was that it was possible to convince many members of Jehovah's Witnesses congregation to testify in behalf of a CONVICTED child molester such as Manuel Belize or Paul Berry. I began to wonder how that could be possible? What on earth type of mind control are we experiencing? If these people can be used as pawns in the WTBS game than what else will they do? After all if you can take good women, good men, wives, husbands, mothers, fathers, grandmothers, grandfathers who already know that child molesting is wrong and train them to over ride their conscience what VALUE is the "spiritual education" we have been receiving? It seems if the body of elders wishes to engage in unethical behavior that is their decision, but should they intimidate others to go along with them by threats of censure for disrupting the peace of the congregation? I realized I could not longer trust the decision of the elders, and it escalated upward from there.......couldn't trust the circuit overseer, district overseer, couldn't trust the FDS. All those years spent studying the Bible; learning about God and in the end of what value was it? How did it make a difference when congregation members were required to show courage and integrity even if it meant standing up to the Organization? Our leaders will do evil and individuals will carry out their wishes. I believe that it must have been difficult for first century Christians to leave their Jewish faith, their friends, their families and the organization that had taught them the truth, but sometimes we are required to do more than just go along. Would my life be easier with my head buried in the sand and still with my JW friends, yes, it would be. Sometimes we must have courage to do the right.

I simply left the JW's in 1991. I thought God hated me, however while I was mad at God, I never abandoned belief in God, just the tyrannical cult to which I belonged. I really thought it was the "truth". However in 1993 there were many cult experts on TV during the Mt. Carmel/David Koresh thing. I realized listening one day that the Jehovah's Witnesses are a certified cult! I am so glad to have left and got out relatively unscathed, however my parents are still involved and my dad is still an elder. I pray they get away from that CULT, however they are deeply committed and won't even listen to any opposing ideas. Thank God I never had to experience what these poor kids did, being molested and having it "covered up" by the JW's. Bill Bowen, keep up the good work. God is blessing your efforts!

This is for the JW defender as Buster called him or her. Jehovah is indeed the creator of the universe. His name stands above all other names. Because the group of Bible Students took The Name and attached it to themselves they come under a higher accountability than other religious groups. They are the ones that formed a covenant with Jehovah in 1931 to uphold that name before the entire world.  Yes they are to be commended for revitalizing basic truths and teachings of the Bible. They have taught millions how to live by clean Bible standards. Most people associating with them try very hard to conform to those standards. No other religion can match that record.  On the other hand they also applied the term Faithful Discreet Slave to the select few in power. This gives them the illusion that they are the direct channel to God. It gives the illusion that they can interpret prophecy with absolute accuracy. The truth of the matter is that they are 100% wrong on their interpretations. If they were in this favored position with God they would have EVERYTHING right. How many predictions of Jeremiah, Isaiah, and Daniel were wrong? 0 ***
Go to any library or book store, look up the destruction of Jerusalem. An interesting archaeological discovery was made in the early '50's It was a collection of historical events recorded with the astrological information to establish the dates. If nothing else the Babylonians were exact time keepers. from that the exact date of the destruction of Jerusalem can be determined. And guess what it was not 607 B.C.E. ! With that said and established the whole 607/1914 thing falls apart. Think man. Think. WW1 began in August. The WTS says that the Gentile Times ended in October. Jesus began his rule in October. Does this mean that Satan jumped the gun and started early without him? Did the Fiery Red Horse take off from the starting gate three months before the Rider on the White Horse started to ride?  I am one of Jehovah's Witnesses "in good standing" as they say for 37 years. I have just recently began a very in-depth exploration of TRUTH. I am embarrassed to say that I did not do it sooner. But like you I was looking at the good things only. And there are very good things but the Governing Body is not one of the good things.
Jehovah is beginning to call them to account and they are severely lacking. For that they will come under a greater punishment than us. But we are not lilly white ourselves. We supported them for years. We upheld the wrong teachings, we taught the lies to others. For that we will be punished also. To the extent that we make changes now and attempt to right the wrongs our punishment will be either less or more severe. The decision rests with each one as an individual. I worship Jehovah that will not change. My allegiance is not with the WTS. That has changed. ***
Nuf said. As always, Love Y'all, Loris

Hi Loris, I posted the post on august 4th, forgot to put name. Its bas, care of www.antijehovahswitness.com The only thing i have to add id everyone says Jehovah this that or the other, but Jesus never knew the name. There’s no J in the Jewish alphabet for a start and the name was taken up in error. So YHWH may do something about this organization or he may not. If its not his real name he’s unlikely to be bothered. But as they are claiming to represent the one true gods organization and they don’t, I’m sure he will do something about that! I heard Bills coming to England , UK, and would be interested in seeing it, any info bill? I really wish I'd been there at my local district convention this year with the Child abuse evidence, and the UN relationship, but alas it was not to be. I told many JWs about the abuse when i first heard of it before i left, end of 2000. No one believed me. All i got was shunned. regards bas.,

I have known many Jehovah's Witnesses over the years, and none of them are like that. A few isolated cases can't be used to judge over 6 million true Christians. I think this is an attempt to get money...nothing else.

Dear JW Defender: ... In your Post you carefully described examining apples to find a bad one... For clarity would you specify which PERSON corresponds to the BAD APPLE? ... Is it the PEDOPHILE that rapes the innocent little child? OR is it the ELDERS who cover-up the crime and forgive the pedophile giving him anonymity to molest more children OR is it the CONGREGATION members who follow orders to keep quiet OR is it the GOVERNING BODY members who ignore the mountains of letters filled with pain and suffering because of their policies? ... Which ONE is the BAD APPLE? We can clear that one out and keep the rest. Please respond.

You guys are living a pipe dream. Read the bible. See how clearly Jah states time and time again what constitutes fornication, adultery, slander, loose conduct, apostasy, every sin this world is swimming in. I agreed with the person who reprimanded the JW bashers and made sense as opposed to you folks that have turned this into a JW bashing site. I wouldn't put two cents into anything anyone said that sits for hours on a computer with a bible cracked open, haphazardly plucking bible verses and giving their own explanation or spin to fit their beliefs. Not to mention that they rely heavily on Watchtower materials, as seen quoted so often on this site. Give me a BREAK already with the talk about failed bible predictions. If you read the bible, which I'm sure some of you do, you will find that many faithful men and women didn't have a full understanding of what Jah's purpose was. Some prophets were even mistaken in their predictions. What would you say to them? I challenge anyone and even your Messiah Bill Bowen himself to comment on that. Don't ask me who what when, look in the reasoning books you all have in your back pockets, or the WT CD's you so often use. Remember that it was a scientific fact that the world was flat. Did people leave when they found out it wasn't? What about the rest of the wonderful things that were here on earth? I chuckle when I see comments like Linda Thoman's "I hear that the Org is predicting Armageddon in 2005". How about this one, "The JW Org wants to establish a new world order and subject it to its rule" (thanks mole for that golden nugget). All digs, all the time, is what this site amounts to, regardless of how you try to clarify that you're not bashing, you're just alerting the organization. So, instead of spending all your time posting, posting, posting, spend a little time understanding the bible and what Jah's requirements are for one to be a true Christian.

Regarding the comment = Am I evil if I choose to stay a JW///the comment that was posted here, in the Silentlamb guest book, here where the editor has been DF'd, you have now did the 'unthinkable' you have entered and made spiritual comments to DF'd JW's, you have 'sat down with them' so to speak. You will now, as a 'good and proper' JW have to go to your elders and confess that you have done what they say 'DO NOT DO'! Now you are subject to being DF'd yourself, of course you can still sincerely repent and promise to never 'speak' to another DF'd witness. That will keep you in I am sure! But oh, wait, you couldn't come back here and AGAIN 'defend' an Org you have JUST sinned against! On to the next topic, As, I am sure that YOU know, the witnesses teach not celebrating certain things because of the pagan origin, yet JW's honeymoon, which was a pagan ritual of giving the groom 'honey' beer of a 'moon' or month after the wedding. So...... why is practicing the pagan ritual of honeymoon okay and not the others?
Why is wearing a wedding ring okay when that has pagan origin? The witnesses teach that it is wrong to have pictures of GOD or Jesus hanging up in your house, yet they constantly have pictures of this nature in their mags, and books! The witnesses teach that every religion but their own are from Satan, yet they quote statements that other religious people have said, when it ‘puts them in a good light’. The witnesses have taught for years that the UN is the ‘beast’ of rev. YET THEY WERE MEMBERS OF THE UN FOR YEARS! AND DO NOT EVEN SAY ‘SO THEY COULD HAVE ACCESS OF THE LIBRARY’ Phooey! IF THE UN IS THE BEAST THE ORG SHOULD HAVE NEVER WANTED ACCESS OF THE UN'S LIBRARY, WHAT THEY WANT TO GET INFORMATION FROM THE BEAST? THEY WANT TO LEARN FROM THE BEAST? STEPPING FOOT INSIDE THE BEAST IS BEING PART OF THE BEAST, WHICH IS WHAT THE ORG TEACHES! ASSOCIATING WITH APOSTATES IS WRONG WITH THE ORG, YET ASSOCIATING WITH THE BEAST IS NOT? JUST HOW HYPOCRITICAL IS THAT? TEST THE SPIRITS AND IF THERE IS A BAD APPLE WITHIN THAT SPIRIT AND THAT SPIRIT IS DFING EVERYONE WHO WANTS TO GET THE BAD APPLE OUT, AND THE SPIRIT IS HIDING THE BAD APPLE BEHIND A LOOPHOLE IN CAESAR'S LAW, AND THAT BAD APPLE IS ‘HARMING ANYONE ONE OF THESE CHILDREN’ THEN THE SPIRIT IS FOUND WANTING! And you ask, who started the world using the name Jehovah? The Baptist? NO< A catholic monk did! OKAY, now I ask, WHO STARTED THE BASHING OF OTHER RELIGIONS FOR HARBORING, DEFENDING AND ACCEPTING PERVERTS?!

To the person who wrote: “Sounds to me like many here owe a debt of gratitude to JW's. Everybody is using the name Jehovah, who showed you that, a Baptist?” Yes thank you! Now I think that it would also appropriate if JW's and others would thank the Catholic Church Monk who 700 years ago created the Word Jehovah by combining the vowels from Lord and YHWH together to come up with name Jehovah! Did you thank that person from Christendom? What you didn’t? Why not? Oh I see, he is part of Satan's Organization. Well, well, how can we use the name then? OK, lets just pretend we didn't know that then.

TO Linda who asked about THE REPORT: I learned this much so far from other sources: It is (possibly) published by a group out of Florida who call themselves "Two Witnesses Must Come" (as described in Revelation). TWMC for short. They feel the JWs do fulfill Bible prophecy and that the WT will be cleaned up as Israel was cleaned up by JAH. The report supposedly has some charts comparing where TWMC agrees or doesn't agree with the society. I have not seen this report myself, just sharing what I have heard, and everyone's memory is not solid on these statements, so FWIW. Then at <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=10732&site=3&page=3> I found this: "The Report" (1994) - ISBN 0-9649409-3-0, with direct quotes from it posted by bjc; and then Dogpatch wrote: "The Report" their website at www.the-report.com/overview.htm; and this same Dogpatch did a report about The Report at http://www.freeminds.org/history/report.htm none of which I have read yet. Merely FYI. /SLC

<http://www.whitehouse.gov/news/releases/2002/08/20020806.html> --- On September 24, the President will host the first-ever White House Conference on Missing, Exploited and Runaway Children held in conjunction with the Justice Department's Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention and the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. --- * The all day conference, held on the campus of the George Washington University in Washington, DC, will bring together members of the President's Cabinet; federal, state and local officials; law enforcement; corporate leaders; CITIZEN EXPERTS; parents of victim children; and other leaders involved in the cause of missing, exploited and runaway children. --- * The conference will focus on a wide range of topics related to children's safety, including missing and exploited children; runaway and homeless youth; international child abduction; sex trafficking of children; child pornography; child safety and Internet safety, and corporate and community involvement. --- * For FY 2003, President Bush has proposed a 26% increase in funding for the Missing and Exploited Children's Program, which provides training for state and local enforcement on handling missing child cases ($29 million - an increase of 26% over FY 2002). The program also supports the Department of Justice's Internet Crimes Against Children Task Force (ICACTF). The President's budget request will enable the Department of Justice to double the size of the Task Force. --- The President will convene a White House Conference on Missing, Exploited and Runaway Children in September. The Conference will promote public awareness of the cause of missing, exploited and runaway children, and it will bring policy makers, experts, key officials, community leaders, teachers and law enforcement together to share progress made and generate new ideas to help prevent the victimization of children. --- * The President also announced the release of a new guidebook - "Personal Safety for Children: A Guide for Parents." The guidebook is designed to help parents take specific steps to improve the safety of their children, and it includes information that children of all ages can understand. The guidebook reflects the work of experts on child safety from the Department of Justice, the Department of Health and Human Services, the Department of Education, the FBI and the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. It is available online in English and in Spanish at www.missingkids.com.

And, here's another one to add to the list: The society "borrowed" their 2,520 years/gentile times from a man named John Aquinas Brown (an Adventist maybe, I forget). Of course, the society didn't "own up" to this fact until it was exposed in Bro. Ray Franz' book, 'Crisis of Conscience.' To the person (WTS Defender) who wrote that we were wasting our time sharing scriptures with our own "application" of those scriptures... I ask that person: Are not the scriptures ALIVE and exerting POWER? If they are ALIVE, then they BREATHE into EVERY human circumstance throughout EVERY generation. Therefore I say unto you: If the shoe fits! --- Is it logical there only ONE application for ALL scriptures? Even the WTS doesn't teach that narrow view, so why do you think that way? -- However, if scriptures don't do it for you, how about some quotes direct from God's Channel itself (a/k/a literature)? Stay tuned and I'll have a nice list of WT quotes for you in a day or two. Best take off your shoes and go wash your feet between now and then because you will find it necessary to insert your foot into your mouth. Yummmm, How's About Some Tasty Toes, eh? /SLC

TO the person who wrote: "book of the month club". LOL! I never even thought of that before. Funny. As a matter of fact, I read a post today that someone figured out that JWs read an average of 3000 pages of WT literature per year. Then I did some figuring myself and came up with this: 11 years as a JW x 3000 = 33,000 pages. My NWT says it has 1340 pages. If I had never read any of the WT literature during those years, I could have read the Bible 24.5 more times during that time frame (in addition to the regular Bible reading we did as part of the cong). /SLC

REPOSTING, since the website has (thank you!) been updated/divided tonight (August Part 1), and this got lost in the updating. This was posted FIRST, earlier, before the White House reply, etc. ----- NOTICE/FYI: I heard on the news today that, due to the recent kidnappings, etc. in California, Pres. Bush has scheduled a conference at George Washington University on 9/24/02 re: Child Safety (missing, exploited and runaway children). Exploited would cover child sex abuse, so wouldn't it be great if George W. invited B.Bowen & B.Anderson, et al, to the conference to speak about religious organizations who exploit children? We don't we all email him and ask? I already emailed Pres. GW Bush and suggested this at: President George W. Bush president@whitehouse.gov (Of course, only if Bowen and Anderson would WANT to go, that is...) ----- See auto-reply above to the email, and see above the info on the conference from the White House website. Thanks! /SLC

REPOSTING to Linda: (This one also seems to have gotten lost in the website update): You asked about the year 2005. The only thing I have seen so far is at this site: <http://quotes.jehovahswitnesses.com/2005.htm> I believe (didn't read it, too tired) they are taking the 1935 year of the Great Crowd new light and adding the 70-year lifespan = 2005. Here's the info from that site, FWIW. /SLC

------------------  Watchtower 1997 September 15 pp.10-15 Will You Be Faithful Like Elijah?  10 Who, then, was this coming Elijah? His identity was revealed when Jesus Christ said: "From the days of John the Baptist until now the kingdom of the heavens is the goal toward which men press, and those pressing forward are seizing it. For all, the Prophets and the Law, prophesied until John; and if you want to accept it, He himself is 'Elijah who is destined to come.'" Yes, John the Baptist was the foretold counterpart of Elijah. (Matthew 11:12-14; Mark 9:11-13) An angel had told John's father, Zechariah, that John would have "Elijah's spirit and power" and would "get ready for Jehovah a prepared people." (Luke 1:17) The baptism John performed was a public symbol of an individual's repentance over his sins against the Law, which was to lead the Jews to Christ. (Luke 3:3-6; Galatians 3:24) John's work thus 'got a prepared people ready for Jehovah.' 11 The work of John the Baptist as "Elijah" showed that a "day of Jehovah" was near. The nearness of that day when God would act against his enemies and preserve his people was also indicated by the apostle Peter. He pointed out that the miraculous events that took place at Pentecost of 33 C.E. were a fulfillment of Joel's prophecy about the outpouring of God's spirit. Peter showed that this was to happen before "the great and illustrious day of Jehovah." (Acts 2:16-21; Joel 2:28-32) It was in 70 C.E. that Jehovah fulfilled his Word by causing the Roman armies to execute divine judgment upon the nation that rejected his Son. (Daniel 9:24-27; John 19:15) 12 However, there was more to come after 70 C.E. The apostle Paul associated a coming "day of Jehovah" with the presence of Jesus Christ. Moreover, the apostle Peter spoke of that day in connection with the yet future "new heavens and a new earth." (2 Thessalonians 2:1, 2; 2 Peter 3:10-13) Bear in mind that John the Baptist did an Elijahlike work before the "day of Jehovah" came in 70 C.E. All of this taken together indicated that something further would take place as represented by the work that Elijah had done. What is that? [...] Be Faithful Like Elijah 21 With zeal like that of Elijah, the small remnant of genuine anointed Christians have discharged their responsibility of caring for the earthly interests of the enthroned King, Jesus Christ. (Matthew 24:47) And for over 60 years now, God has been using these anointed ones to spearhead the work of making disciples of people to whom he has given the wonderful hope of life eternal on a paradise earth. (Matthew 28:19, 20) How grateful these millions can be that the relatively few remaining anointed ones are zealously and faithfully caring for their responsibilities! 22 This Kingdom-preaching work has been accomplished by imperfect humans and only in the strength that Jehovah gives those who prayerfully rely on him. "Elijah was a man with feelings like ours," said the disciple James when citing the prophet's example of praying in order to show the force of a righteous man's prayer. (James 5:16-18) Elijah was not always prophesying or performing miracles. He had the same human feelings and weaknesses that we do, but he served God faithfully. Since we too have God's help and he strengthens us, we can be faithful like Elijah. 23 We have good reason for faithfulness and optimism. Remember that John the Baptist did an Elijahlike work before the "day of Jehovah" struck in 70 C.E. With Elijah's spirit and power, anointed Christians have done a similar God-given work throughout the earth. This clearly proves that the great "day of Jehovah" is near. [Emphasis Added]  Watchtower 1997 October 1 p.23 Grateful for a Long Life in Jehovah's Service  Confident in Kingdom Hope In 1935 we came to understand that the "great crowd" was not a secondary heavenly class. We learned that it instead represents a class that survives the great tribulation and has the opportunity of living forever in Paradise on earth. (Revelation 7:9-14) With this new understanding, some who had partaken of the Memorial emblems realized that theirs was an earthly hope, and they discontinued partaking. [Emphasis Added]

Hmmm. Let me see. Hello, this is the JW defender responding to SLC. Let me repeat some of the things I said in my earlier post, to refresh your memory. In summary: 1) “Read the bible. See how clearly Jah states time and time again what constitutes fornication, adultery, slander, loose conduct, apostasy, every sin this world is swimming in.” - Can you shed some light on how those sins are handled in your new org, whatever it is at this point? How do you feel about adultery? Fornication? Please share your views, I'm sure the Catholic, Protestant, and Baptist crowd here is eager to see how you interpret God's law, and how it applies to those that break it. Another line from my original post 2) “ Give me a BREAK already with the talk about failed bible predictions. If you read the bible, which I'm sure some of you do, you will find that many faithful men and women didn't have a full understanding of what Jah's purpose was. Some prophets were even mistaken in their predictions. What would you say to them?” – Well, I'm waiting for your reply, or anyone else's for that matter. Go on, reach in your back pocket and pull out the reasoning book, follow up with the WT cd, and look in the bible. Please comment and enlighten those who thirst for knowledge. I'll say it again, no matter how many verses you quote, no matter how flowery the language you use, no matter how many quotes from 1901 you use, this site amounts to a JW bashing party. Look at your quotes. Look at everyone's quotes. How often has a child abuse victim benefited from your inane observations? Oh, before I forget, when you reply, please include your view on the Trinity. Also, tell us who is the Faithful and Discreet slave, since you know so much. Since you're so versed in scripture, go into a detailed explanation of why you think it is biblically wrong when the bible makes it oh so crystal clear that to establish a matter two to three witnesses are necessary. Anyone that says "you will find it necessary to insert your foot into your mouth. Yummmm, How's About Some Tasty Toes, eh?" is a wise person and should be listened to. lol

i watched the panorama programme, pleased that it went out nationwide for all of the uk to see the things that are going on, and covered up within the WT organization. My family took part in a BBC 2 programme 5 yrs ago called 'Close up' highlighting child sexual abuse to some extent. My husband was an elder who reported to both the congregation, and the legal desk an allegation of abuse. Both the body of elders and subsequently the legal desk at bethel advised my husband to leave it as "probably nothing would come of it, dont stir things up". The upshot was that my husband told the police of the brothers wherabouts, he was arrested and charged with 4 counts of sexual abuse.
He pleaded guilty to 3 of them and escaped a prison sentence, apparantly the fourth would have sent him to prison.
He then had to go for some sort of sex offenders course as part of his sentence. This man was supported by the congregation and as far as I know remained as a JW. My husband was so disgusted and horrified at the stance of the WT org he left, and I left shortly afterward. We have since done much exploration into the WT and come to realise, examining definitions and activities, that the WT is a cult and as such is at liberty to abuse its members in any way it seems fit. It devastates me to see all these young people suffering at the hands of the WT policies and I pray that they will eventually 'see the light' and leave. I have almost finished 4 years of training to be a counsellor and I would be more that happy to help some of these young people to get their lives back. Linda Birt e mail lindabirt41@aol.com doctrinal points you listed just take the questions to JWD or similar boards. .. … . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

JW Defender or should we call you Tasty Toes? . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . .

. . . . . . . . . . . However I will gladly comment on this quote of yours * Since you're so versed in scripture, go into a a matter two to three witnesses are necessary* . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . . For over twenty years the watchtower required TWO witnesses to ONE act of child molestation and because of this requirement certain men (Pandela, Fitzpatrick, doubtlessly many others) were able to abuse multiple victims. Now JR Brown tells us that the two witness rule can be used if there are TWO witnesses to TWO different acts of child molestation. Since the Bible is so crystal clear , WHAT CHANGED?

To "07 Aug 2002" who started off by saying:"Hmmm. Let me see."_____________________________________Lets let our Awake 10/8/68 answer one of your questions. "True, there have been those in times past who predicted an 'end to the world', even announcing a specific date. Yet nothing happened. The 'end' did not come. They were guilty of false prophesying. Why? What was missing?..Missing from such people were God's truths and evidence that he was using and guiding them."______________________I will also include for you this handy dandy bashing

TO THOSE WHO DEFEND WTS: Bill is accused of causing division because he stood up against what is grossly wrong and those who are doing gross wrong, and those who are supporting what is grossly wrong. *The word of God is alive and exerts power and is sharper than any two edged sword and pierces even to the dividing of the soul and spirit and of joints and marrow, and is able to discern thoughts and intentons of the heart.*I would say that Bill Bowen and the rest of us here have experienced this aliveness of God's word and the power of it. *To even think that Jehovah or Jesus would ask for two witnesses to a crime against a child, and the intention was for us to obey blindly is ridden with evil intentions and against the teachings of Christ.*Protecting children is not exactly worshipping a Golden Calf, not protecting them is the same as sacraficing them to a god.WTS have divided themselves from Jehovah God against all reasonableness and that is the source of the divisiveness. *we are moaning and groaning over the detestible things i.e. pedophilia or are we moaning and groaning over the ones who are moaning and groaning over the detestible things????????*WTS dialogues with "professionals" like Stark who have no vested interest in the righteousness of God, or the any love for the sheep, and then they won't talk to Bill Bowen. Nor will they consider the gravity of pedophilia except to pay it lip service and df anyone who wants protection for children not JUST lip service.*Anyone who thinks the theme of all of us is to BASH WTS needs to seriously study their bible and seriously pray to Jehovah for insight. The WTS is bashing Bill and those like him by calling them apostate while the WTS have no love of righteousness and is not even open to resolution. Claudine

Hugs for Bonnielynn !!! She called me with a Stupendous, Fantabulous idea. This is something everyone can do. Big city, small town it doesn't matter. Every place has law enforcement. Ask the law enforcement in your town if it is against the law for an organization to KNOWINGLY send known pedophiles to do door to door canvassing work. Make copies of J. R. Brown's letters and statements from the WTS website as proof. He has admitted that a "repentant" pedophile can go door to door. In fact that is what they are told to do. Yes they go with someone else, but the other person does not know that the partner they have in the door to door work is a pedophile. In fact they could be one too. Neither of them would know since it is all kept secret. So do you think your local law inforcement would be interested? You can bet your Bippy they would !! I've been reading this site for several months now and I have a question. I agree with all that has been said about the silentlambbs. I will get to my question in a minute. My view is that there hasn't been such a tavesty since before the flood when Satan and his demons came to earth and took namely all they chose of women. Today the same situation is occuring, do you not think that Satan is behind this, do you not know that he sees and gets pleasure out of it. My question is why do not the brothers see this? In fact they are covering up for them. So if indeed this is the case, what are we to do? Flee, flee to what....Who else has the teachings of life? Will Jehovah not stand up and settle this matter? jgibson@hamburg.heartland.net

Only man can make God's Law inequitable...and Jesus fulfilled the law, did away with it and gave us the command to love one another. Two witnesses is a guideline used by WTS in an inequitable way without love. It is used to hide behind when all else fails to cover their tracks. If this were not so, there would be no problem. It did not keep the congregation clean or promote love among the sheep. How many pedophiles on file would it have taken for the WTS to realize that the problem was only getting worst with each act of neglect on their part? I guess they can say that it isn't very spiritual to be upset about not waiting on Jehovah to do something about the pedophiles and ill-treatment of victims. But I guess we can say that is the poorest excuse every heard to do nothing ourselves. So if the "goal" is to have love among the sheep, a clean congregation, to worship Jehovah in truth and righteousness - how is it that such hatefulness exists (pedophilia & supporting them), dirt and filth contaminating the congregation, and lies of selfrighteousness prevail???? Where are the fruits of the spirit and where is this thing called loved? Blind love is blind to righteousness,and truth. It is not the love Jesus recommended. Does Jesus love a pedophile who goes out in service more than a child now grown whose spirit is broken by inequity???? Does Jesus love a pedophile who does his hours, places his magazines and does not take responsibility for the devastation he/she caused???? Does Jesus Love those who support a pedophile and re-victimizes the victim with this support. Or is this just all the victims burden to carry???? Is a den of inequity a den of inequity or not? When Bible truth is twisted to such an extent that right is wrong and wrong is right, one must look to the source of this teaching. Jesus is High Priest and He taught love of what is good, and benefical and he also said that to what you do to the least one of these you do to me. Jesus is watching and reading the hearts of each of us. No one is exempt from this examining of the heart. To allude that Jesus would tolerate the mistreatment of children, the broken in spirit for any reason is against all the teaching of Christ - these were the people He loved the most and died so graciously for. For anyone, even the WTS, to teach any different is apostacy to the true teachings of Christ. The yoke of Jesus is light and it is a wrong teaching to burden the burdened, to break the spirit of the broken in spirit, and to mistreat the innocent by calling them workers of lawlessness. Amen, soapbox

Hi SLC, bjc here. I'd like to mention a few "facts" not correctly understood by most who hear of this book called "The Report". Also a few point about the people associated with it. In reference to "The Report", I've been associated with "The Report" book and related literature and its publishing for over a decade now. *In the beginning, the author of "The Report" maintained a PO Box in Florida early on (1991-1994) since that was the first place the book was promulgated thru newspapers to as many Jehovah's Witnesses as could be reached in the area. Nevertheless, it has always been based in Alabama, where the publisher actually lives. (The name "TWMC Publishing" was recently changed to "EMC Publications" by the author of the book.) The author did maintain a couple of websites, www.the-report.com and one before that for a few years, but it has since been discontinued. (1994-1997)I've noticed there is a lot of misinformation about the book and what the book actually says out and projects for JWs on the net, such as Randy's freemind.org and jw.com. This statement is an example of misinformation: "...it is reported they believe that JAH is going to clean up the WT". Absolutely false. They DO NOT believe Jehovah is going to "clean up the WTS". They believe the WTS is incorrigibly wicked, irreformable and will in the end suffer "total destruction" as "Babylon the Great", shortly to be fully revealed. (See page 59 of "The Report" Volume I.) In addition, they also believe specifically that the Governing Body will in time, be revealed as the "man of lawlessness", someone beyond reform. (See pages 168-182 "The Report" volume I.) As you recall, I posted information on the "man of lawlessness" on silentlambs to you and a few others, and you posted it on jw.com.
LEAVING the Watchtower Society. Wonderfully so! In the end, it will become known to all that the WTS was only a world, "Judgment starts with the House of God". (1 Peter 4:17) And finally with this unusual outcome outstretched Powerful Arm, not even His Name people. By permitting this situation to develop, God shows to all the And of course, great praise is brought to God's Name as a result, as God demonstrates for all to see, He is one who everybody, everywhere will benefit from this scenario! Even the "nations" too, get a learning lesson from all of this. what God does to "Israel" to serve God Almighty. (See Ezekiel 39:21-24.) So, "The Report" reveals that His Awesome Almighty power to this special people, and they too, can become His servants. They can learn from "Sons", whom He will discipline plainly in the sight of the whole world. They are His Name People for all the world to intervention as God Almighty, will show all concerned, that they are not "illegitimate children" at all, but truly His Barbour had the chronology and 1914 teaching. But Russell left Barbour, yes, HE STOLE the 1914 chronology and teaching from N. Barbour and Jonas Wendell, spiritualized the 1874 date as a special "harvest" taking place of 40 years up to 1914, which was supposed to be Armageddon. And so on and so on the story goes...whew! Nevertheless, all of these facts were hid by the WTS from the flock of JWs in general. Meanwhile back at the ranch, the WTS has been so successful in fooling non-beroean JWs in general, and fooled them into believing that they, WTS actually understand bible prophecy and how it applies. But in truth, they never taught the "deeper things of God", like bible prophecy correctly. This "ignorance" of scripture, makes it easy for the WTS and G.B. to pass themselves off as the F&Ds, but are actually impostors. "The Report" shows using this insidious format, and misapplying Matt. 24:45 the WTS/G.B. works to gradually lead JWs into false worship of themselves in demanding complete obedience to the WTS/G.B. over Almighty God. Prophecy reveals Jehovah God is of course, aware of all things. Allows the situation to develop, it works out as a perfect "test" of His Name People. It is outright idolatry and will not be tolerated Him. But how JWs are going to see it as it is? That's the question. All are aware that God "shares" His "glory" nor worship with no one, not even Jesus Christ! They know this. But how will they react, as a people, in reality? (See Isaiah 42:8) So God permits all of these happenings which in the end, actually force a serious revelation for all Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide. It reveals the great truth that Jehovah's Witnesses are really God's Name people, mystery "Israel" of Bible prophecy. And they are fulfilling it, by their every move and thought. God knows their every move, and speaks of it thru prophecy, AHEAD OF TIME. Showing His "All-Knowingness" or Omniscience of the seeming tragedy, that works out as a great blessing for Israel -- their rebirth as "Israel". (Matt. 19:28: Acts 3:20, 21)This special "knowledge" of being "Israel" is forced upon themselves by the trouble they are led into. But they are delivered from this Great Distress. (Jeremiah 30:7; Ezekiel 20:35-38; Rev. 12:1-6) But first they are "disciplined" for sin, and then God later "restores" them to their rightful place of enormous favor, as His Name people. All the world will recognize this as the eternal purpose of God. (Isaiah 60th chapter) In all of this, we must remember, the "restoration" of JWs is in the future, and only occurs for JWs (a faithful remnant, a "refined third" prophecy says) when they finally learn to SEVERE their ties with their mysterious leader, the WTS/GB. Then, the things are put in place for the "restoration" process to begin. (Zech. 13:8,9) The "remnant" of JWs prove to be the mysterious "third" (the worth redeemables of JWs) spoken of in the book of Revelation 8:7-12 and 9:18-21. But this restoration of "Israel", will take some time. One things for sure, it definitely requires God to take special action against "Israel", to discipline them, as His "sons". His direct intervention as God Almighty, will show all concerned, that they are not "illegitimate children" at all, but truly His "Sons", whom He will discipline plainly in the sight of the whole world. They are His Name People for all the world to see and comprehend, and understand. Now, even the nations, the world in general, can LEARN from this display of His Awesome Almighty power to this special people, and they too, can become His servants. They can learn from what God does to "Israel" to serve God Almighty. (See Ezekiel 39:21-24.) So, "The Report" reveals that everybody, everywhere will benefit from this scenario! Even the "nations" too, get a learning lesson from all of this. And of course, great praise is brought to God's Name as a result, as God demonstrates for all to see, He is one who does not show any "partiality" toward anyone. He shows no is exempt or out of reach, from the discipline of His outstretched Powerful Arm, not even His Name people. By permitting this situation to develop, God shows to all the world, "Judgment starts with the House of God". (1 Peter 4:17) And finally with this unusual outcome of a seemingly dreadful situation, JWs will reach their final "destination", and realize that "there really is LIFE AFTER LEAVING the Watchtower Society. Wonderfully so! In the end, it will become known to all that the WTS was only a
"golden cup" in God's Hand, that he could discard at anytime. His instrument to use as He chooses, and discards when the usefulness of it has been reached. They same way he cast off the nation of Babylon, AFTER they served their usefulness to His Divine Will. If and when they turn on their own, to wickedness and idolatry away from God. (Isaiah 30:26; Jeremiah 23:19; 20; Micah 4:6-7; Jeremiah 51:7) Jehovah's Witnesses will then learn entire experience, that it was God all along that had been helping them. It God, and not the WTS! Now, after they learn this, they can rightfully re-gain their original status with God, as mystery "Israel". A privileged status achieved because of embracing these "fundamental truths" possessed by the nation that honor God, coupled with the fact that they willingly shoulded the weighty responsibility to carry God's personal Name upon themselves, as His Name people, ever since the year of 1931. "The Report" shows using the "whimsical" ideas of man. But Almighty God would take the lead in the instructional process of giving His Children, Truth. Then too, previously, in the Sept. 15th, 1931 Watchtower magazine, published a very serious article which was written to all prospective JWs just before the "Special Name Campaign" of October. This article outlined in detail the grave responsibilities associated with "carrying the Name" upon themselves, for all of those who were going to agree to doing this. It was clearly stated in that article "serious consequences" awaited all who agreed to accept this Great Name upon themselves, but later in any way FAILED TO LIVE UP THIS NAME, or they reproached it in any way. It was agreed that God would bring these "serious consequences" upon these people for carrying His name, and for any reproach they heaped upon it. His Name must be honored in all things, at all times. That would their responsibility to see that this became a reality, lest God bring about the "severe consequences" as righteous punishment upon His Name People. (See Watchtower 7/15/81 pg. 20. par. 17.)

So it could be said that Jehovah God really did begin a 70-year "discipline", teaching or training period of His Name People, similar to what they experienced while in their exile in Babylon, as Daniel "discerned" for himself. (Jer. 33:32; Daniel 9:2) Thus making it possible for Jehovah to take special action for His Name People, in October of 2001. So, after this 70 year instructional period was up, Jehovah moves into action by pulling "the sheets" off the Governing Body, and exposing them as secret 10-year NGOs for the United Nations in October 2001, on the 70th anniversary of being identified by God's Name. Exactly on time. If God's people have benefited from these 70 years of specialized training by Jehovah Himself, using the "instrumental" publications that bear His Name, they would act appropriately, as true "sons of His". They would act as they should, based upon what they have learned as a people, thru the official "instrument" of God, the Watchtower Magazine and related publications. They would recognize what the Watchtower Society was doing, was pure satanic "idolatry", and would appropriately "flee from it", 1 Cor. 10:14. The Report asserts that JWs are fulfilling these prophecies as we speak. But, "The Report" shows using Bible prophecy, that JWs will NOT be destroyed as a people, but will be severely disciplined or "chastised" by God, as would be expect of a loving father giving discipline or further training to His Sons. (Jer. 46:28; Hebrews 12:5-7) Whats Ahead For All JWs: Based upon "The Report" shows using the prophecy of Ezekiel 34:1-21, Jehovah initially takes action to save two special groups of JWs. (1) The "Tents of Judah" first. These particular "Israelites" (Jehovah's Witnesses) display extraordinary faith in God's prophetic word so as to please Him completely. These would include all JWs who were wrongly disfellowshiped or disassociated and since left the JW organization because of standing for right and maintaining a good conscience with God, and refusing to practice what is wrong because the WTS says so. Theses people are first on God's list to "save". These faithful individuals are one who look to "God's Prophetic Word" as a "light shining in a dark place" with complete confidence. Having "faith", they please their Creator and show outstandingly so, they have benefitted from the "training" God has provided since 1931. (Jer. 32:33; Hebrews 11:6; 2 Peter 1:19) What God has in store for them as a reward, is unspeakably, incomprehensibly wonderful!!!! I won't even attempt to explain that at this time. But its reeeaaal good. (Jer. 33:3; Hosea 1:7; Zech. 12:7) Shortly after that great "salvation" by God of which many of you will probably be a part, Jehovah and Jesus will then take immediate steps to bring out of the JW Organization the SECOND group of faithful ones, ones He wishes to save from the wicked clutches of the WTS. (2) These are no less the "Two Witnesses" of Revelation 11:3. JWs who are for "reform". A reform movement within the Jehovah's Witnesses itself, comprised of individual member Jehovah's Witnesses who will push for change and repentance
(even if it means disfellowshipment) upon the JW organization's part, (such as we see in the silent lambs movement). These ones will gain a strong following amongs JWs, but will in the end have to leave the organization because of the entrenched wickedness of the WTS and majority followers, who eventually end up in destruction following the WTS/G.B. Revelation 11th chapter shows, God uses these small band of reformers, the "Two Witnesses", in the most incredible way to His own glory and praise, and after leaving the WTS, on to greater "glory" for His Namesake to the world in general, Revelation 11:7-13 indicates. I hope this helps........bjc2read@yahoo.com

PS: SLC and interested ones: "The Report" comes in three volumes. So its quite a bit of written material in it. Volumes II and III are still non published works, released to only a few individuals of "confidence". But Volume I is available from the publisher, emcpublications@yahoo.com to all who are interested.EMC Publications, PO Box 230445, Montgomery, Ala. 36123 Also I forgot to say, information on the "Great Name Campaign" of October 1931 can be found in the "Jehovah's Witnesses in the Divine Purpose" book, on page 126. A special publication "The hope of the world is God's kingdom, and there is no other hope" was released at that time, which included the text of Brother Rutherford's talk on the New Name, and the contents of the special "name resolution" which was unanimously adopted by all Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide at conventions around the world. These assemblies started in the summer of 1931 (Columbus, Ohio) and went on to some 50 additional assembly sites around the world. Afterwhich, the Great "Name campaign" began in October of 1931 where everyone possible was given "notice" of this happening. bjc to 12:50:47 Yaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaaawn. I don't like JW's either but come on thats the biggest bunch of twisted words I've ever seen! It gave me a worse headache than trying to understand some of the witness teachings. I think you need to tell the author of this work to find another job or perhaps become a fiction writer. Lets talk about helping the children instead of more twisted prophecy.........Please?

I'll say it again....... This site is nothing but a JW bashing party. If you want me to refrain from asking questions about doctrine to keep me and maybe one or two that have exposed this site for what it is, then I would ask that you stick to what the purpose of this site pretends to be, to help innocent children. I GUARANTEE there would be nothing else for you to talk about. So take your JW bashing to another one of your favorite sites and leave this site for the 3 people that will be left. Lets see how you apply scripture to that one. Also, In case you and all your friends don't know, the posts on this site are typical of angry, hurt, confused, insecure, bitter people who typically knock other to build themselves up. I do not get the impression that they are from genuinely abused people. If so, why aren't they on Dateline? The posts engage in name calling, slanderous accusations with ABSOLUTELY NO PROOF of evidence (i.e. "my whole family was abused by an elder (gimme a break, did you call the police?)"), etc. However, I will say this:
I honestly and with all my heart hope that some of you have a change of heart. Remove the hate that clouds your judgement, and if you won't return to Jah, at the very least do something worthwhile for children that are hurt not only by those who claim to be JW's, but across the board. Set up a site for abused children period! I'll tell you what, though, I won't be holding my breath for that one.

To the JW defender: This actually is a site for abused children. Yes, some seemingly unrelated topics work their way in now and then. But the root of the issue seems intrinsically related to the structure and administration of the WTS. The issue is not about a few predatory, ham-handed wolves in sheep's clothing. It is not about a case, or a few cases that can be attributed to some bad apple(s). The issue is about the Society's handling of the situation. The issue is about what further steps are taken, who is notified, who is protected and supported, who is reported to the police - according to actual WTS policies and procedures. The issue revolves around where the rules originate, how they are disseminated, what happens to those that fail to follow the man-made directives. You are correct that if the topic was limited to people reporting that 'Brother Roman Fingers groped me and the family pets' then the forum would be short. It may feel off-topic to you when someone belabors a point about the fact that C.T. Russel used to sell Miracle Wheat, or that Rutherford and Franz built a mansion in the 20's to welcome the resurrected princes (David, Ezekial, Moses, and their buddies) back to earth. (By the way, he was probably just watching the place, but Rutherford lived in the mansion). But it is quite relevant in this context - it speaks to the self-directed, man-made nature of the organization. You do yourself a disservice by failing to see that the issue is with the organization from its core out to the congregations. - Buster

This is for the whiner that thinks we are having a JW bashing party. This is no party. This is an Emergency Room. * Yes this site is full of angry, hurt, confused, insecure, bitter people. What do you think genuinely abused people should be like? They have been driven away from Jah by JW's. Do you think they should feel all warm and fuzzy towards them? 8 This site is full of hurt, confused, ABUSED people trying to make sense of the horror of being neglected and discounted by the very spiritual shepherds they trusted their everlasting life to. Now they struggle to get back to Jah, with dignity, without the abusive shepherds beating on them. To regain trust in God after such a heart-breaking beating of the spirit is a difficult road to travel. Yes, there are a lot of scriptures tossed around here. That shows that the WTS has not taken away the basic love of God's Word from these sheep. Leave us alone and let us heal in our way. We have open sores, oozing pustulant sores. It's ugly to look at. Thanks LORIS for your comments containing Emergency Room. I wrote something similar but it is lost in cyberspace but yours was more eloquent anyway. Just one more thought for the JW defenders and I am one (for the past 35 yrs)...PEDOPHILIA IS NOT A WEAKNESS...NOT JUST A SINNER...NOT A MISTAKE...IT IS AN EVIL COMMITTED AGAINST CHILDREN. AN EVIL CHOICE TO BE EXACT. JW's have no problem judging other religions and people as evil, wicked, etc. but they have a hard time applying it to one of their own. Fine works and scriptural teachings have nothing to do with this cover-up. There are millions of good people who faithfully practice the teachings of JW's BUT there are thousands who are harming our children with the sanction of the GB. If the statistics are correct, there are pedophiles in almost every congregation. Although, you would like to believe that ALL of them are disfellowshipped, the facts show that most are not. You can talk about forgiveness and repentance till Armageddon but it does not apply to pedophiles. The vast majority do not change...they don't repent...until they are caught. WHEN DO YOU FIND OUT IF THEY AREN'T CURED AND REPENTANT?...ONLY WHEN THEY MOLEST ANOTHER CHILD...MAYBE YOUR CHILD...THEN HOW FORGIVING WILL YOU BE? JW's want to believe that learning the Bible will change all kinds of wicked people...and in many cases it does...but not with pedophiles. WHY HAVEN'T WE HEARD FROM ANY PEDOPHILES WHO HAVE CHANGED? IF THERE ARE SOME IN THE WTS..WOULDN'T YOU THINK THEY WOULD HAVE WRITTEN ABOUT IT HERE. Some people are just born evil and it doesn't matter what you do to help them, they are not going to change. Respectfully, jazbug55

Buster, Loris, SLC, XYZ, 123, ETC, — Once again, since you’re in denial, you’ve converted this site into a bash-for-all. Now why can’t YOU all admit something that is proven time and time again on this site? Buster – You say unrelated topics work their way in now and then? C’mon! Buster - You think you answered the question by saying God did not use these men. I hope you’re better at reading the bible than reading my posts. Stick to what your stated mission is, don’t confuse people that drop in and see messages of hate, of pyramids, of NGO, etc. And if you veer off topic and use scripture, describe what the original fulfillment was, what the greater fulfillment will be, and how we can learn from it. Of course, you will need the WT materials to help you do that, other religions will stray you far, far away from a clear understanding. I was talking about angry, hurt, confused, insecure, bitter people who have a BEEF with the WT for reasons such as hate, pride, and hate. I’d like to ask those people, do you still preach? Did Jesus give a reason to stop preaching? Do you often talk about paradise? Do you teach others about biblical truths? Are you in a congregation? I trust you all know that Christians are supposed to congregate according to scripture. What is the name of your congregation? Are any of you elders in your new congregation? Who is your PO? Where do you worship? How do you handle judicial matters? Oh, oh wait, all you do is post here on this site. I’ll leave you in your emergency room. I don’t see any qualified doctors.

Dear Brother Bowen: I am so sorry they disfellowshipped you. I too am disfellowshipped for committing fornication with an elder. Is it still all my fault if I am 18 and he is 48. And he got public reproof. Even though I was of age I still feel like a victim of a pedophile anyway thank you for being a voice to stand up and help so many. Love unconditionally Vanessa

Defender: Careful, you’re gonna hurt someone’s feelings. It is curious how you dismiss discussions of your religion's origins, its basic tenets, and its dealings with its members with such ease. You get right to the indoctrinated Witness speak that fills people with so much "hate, fear, and hate." Perhaps you don’t see it this way, but in general Witnesses don’t know the bible very well. They approach it as they were taught: as a cosmic game of Scrabble a piece here and a piece there to be assembled as a belief. It is true that they can quote from any number of scriptures and augment it with any amount of WTS commentary that had been burned in by five meetings per week. But do they ever sit and try to get a grasp of what the New Testament is about? What was Paul trying to get across when he wrote his second letter to the Corinthians. What were Paul’s concepts of community? Not in my experience. This leaves the majority of JWs vulnerable to interpretations forced on them by an organization intent on its own protection. If the JWs spent more time looking at a bigger picture of the scriptures they would be more driven by the overall gist and less by someone else's interpretation of some snippet of a verse. I think that JWs (and most are quite sincere) would then take up their responsibility to understand what is required of them. They would be in a position to realize that (here we get back to the point) it is not reasonable to expect two witnesses to see a child molestation before you can do something. It is not scriptural to beat a three-year-old half senseless because he can’t sit through the second meeting (regardless of how many people give you the 'spare the rod' snippet). They would have enough to realize that their interpretation is wrong and that they should look further. I ahve a dream ... - Buster

I am so happy that your site exists... I have left the WTS 4 years ago mainly because I have discovered the thruth about the WTS on the internet. But now the child molestation cases is really something that makes me react. Thank's again for letting us know what's happening on a regular basis. My daughter is married to an elder and I dont miss a chance to let them know the real situation about the WTS and child molestation situation ...Thanks to you again ! J-P. (jpbourassa.@sympatico.ca)
I think your web site is very needed, and I check it every couple of days for updates. I fully support the Silentlambs march, and I hope it is still on... and hopefully even more thunderously since Bill's disfellowshipping; because now, there is injustice upon injustice upon injustice!!! We know, do we not, that Jehovah HATES injustice?! He himself WILL bring the organization into account for it... Just you mark those words!!! I want so much to march with all of you, but my circumstances will not allow it at present. However, I will be watching the media coverage of it with my FULL support, and Jehovah's, rest assured. My love for all you who love justice and righteousness, JMD. (see Prov.21:3; 28:5; 29:7 NWT )

Time has it where talks now are on gossip and the love of children. The ears of the weak are now being bent to hear the glory of the Society. Many of us have waited but none have come to address a real answer, for week i have sat and tried to read between the lines but no direct mention of any wrongdoing has been mentioned and will not be in the future. My friends and those of us with the same inclination have gathered silently and inquired over dinner the thoughts and ideas of NBC this past weekend. Whether the Organization wants to admit it or not, it was bad PR for them, and not addressing the issue has made it worse. The kindness of Jesus Christ seems so missing in our hall, any warmth of friendship seems to be replaced by a cold organizational approach that assumes the worst, gives no benefit of doubt, and viewed with forbearance patience as a weakness. Inimical to the interests of the organization it has only one goal: uniformity and conformity. With its massive legal machine being put into motion and grinding along in an unfeeling, unrelenting way toward its ultimate objective, to crush anyone who speaks out and doenst fit their mold. I find it hard to believe in some ways but my experience being involved with the religion since birth often negates that idea to defend the organization. I can think of nothing that would be more helpful to all of Jehovah's Witnesses everywhere to enable them to have a balanced, not a one-sided, view of what took place, the climate that prevails, these so called men connected to god to be so cold as to really think silencing members who cry out in pain, Reformation is the key and it begins from the inside out......

////*Hello, I am sending exerts from the media of statements made from a 'spokesman' of the Jehovah Witnesses. The reason that I am sending this is to show that THE WT ORGANIZATION admit to knowingly allowing 'known' pedophiles to minister door to door to the public, to us, to your family, friends, and neighbors! To knowingly allow a pedophile to go door-to-door and minister is potentially putting people and their children in danger. This has to be against the law! Isn't it? Please put a stop to this! The organization has admitted to having files on child molesters. They have admitted 'internally investigating' accusations, how can they do this without the proper training? ///// Louisville Courier-Journal, 1-4-01 J.R. Brown, director of public affairs for the Jehovah's Witnesses, Brown said PEDOPHILES are restricted from working with minors and must also be with a well-respected church member when they GO DOOR TO DOOR. PEDOPHILES also might not be SENT into neighborhoods where they might be recognized as molesters, Brown said. ////*But they are still sent to neighborhoods///// Paducah Sun 2-12-01 Tennessean/ Nashville......................................... Abuse charges put Witness at risk of shunning ////They have kicked out the witnesses who are trying to help the victims! The ones trying to make this public in order to help us all////// Saturday, 05/11/02 People in the organization who are accused of sex abuse are subject to a hearing like the one Anderson attended yesterday, Brown said. They are automatically removed from leadership positions and can't go door-to-door without other members' being present. "It is not usual that a door-to-door minister goes alone anyway, because of bible teaching. Anyway who really cares is a sexual abuser is with someone or not, they are still going door-to-door ministering whether they are with another or not makes no difference, they are still going with the Organizations blessings! //// Comments in italic are my comments and not statements made to the media, which I am aware of. Since the guest book doesn't seem to do the italic thing, I will put my statements between the lines. (Loris, did you do some checking then?, since you posted your message I am thinking that you got some positive response. Not sure about publicly jumping off the fence post, you know what I mean, but I guess the cats out of the bag now!, very mixed feelings, always heard 'in for a penny, in for a pound' so... here's to pounds! :-) As Loris knows from our phone conversation, I spoke to a police officer in my community and asked him two questions...1. Is it legal for an organization of any kind, to allow 'known' pedophiles to go to people's homes i.e.: to sell, teach, do work, etc... He answered NO IT IS NOT LEGAL. 2. I asked, if an organization has made statements to the media stating that they do allow and send 'known pedophiles' to peoples homes, is that a public admission of guilt? He said YES. So, as you look at just the few statements above, not only do they admit in the media that they allow 'known pedophiles' to go door to door to minister, they also ADMIT IN THE MEDIA THAT 'THEY MAY NOT SEND THEM TO NEIGHBORHOODS THAT MAY KNOW THEM AS THE PERVERTS THAT THEY ARE!!!! THAT IS A TELLING STATEMENT AND MAKES ME WANT TO... CRY :( WHO ARE THEY TO MINISTER TO ANYONE, SENDING PEDOPHILES OUT INTO THE WORLD IN THE GIUSE OF TEACHING THE TRUTH! WT, I TRUSTED YOU; I ALWAYS THOUGHT THAT I FAILED YOU! AND I THOUGHT, BY DOING THAT I FAILED MY FATHER! FOR YEARS I LIVED FEELING LIKE I WAS NOT WORTHY! SHAME ON YOU, YOU STUPID STUPID MEN! SHAME SHAME SHAME!!! I WILL NOT CRY, WELL, YES I WILL, I WILL .... IT'S WHO I AM. I AM ME, I AM WHAT MY FATHER WANTS ME TO BE, I MAY NOT LIKE WHAT I DO SOMETIMES, OR WHERE I AM AT IN LIFE.......... SOMETIMES, BUT, I KNOW THAT THE FATHER LOVES ME AND THAT JESUS LOVES ME AND NO LONGER WILL YOU, WT, MAKE ME FEEL UNWORTHY OF STUPID STUPID MEN!!!!/ lol guess my dander is up. I got my birds to bed; I'm going to go too! FYI, never turn a 'almost completely empty' bottle of steak sauce upside down so that you can get the last drops! IF you do, and open it while it is still upside down, it'll explode all over you and your kitchen!!!!! Of course I am sure that a lot of people will have to wait to read it in a wt before believing it!, THAT is not bashing, IT'S BEING SARCASTIC!! It looks as though there is another here that likes to also be sarcastic! bonnielynn

REGARDING the the comment from the mole ----replaced by a cold orgaizational approach that assumes the worst, gives no benfit of doubt, and viewed with forbearance patience as a weakness. Inimical to the intersts of the organization it has only one goal: uniformity and conformity. With its massive legal machine being put into motion and grinding along in an unfeeling, unrelenting way toward its ultimate objective, to crush anyone who speaks out and doesnt fit their mold. /// As I read this I could almost imagine that you were speaking of Hitler and his followers! New System of things, New world order, New world order, New world translation, hummmmmm? something just isn't right about that, bonnielynn

Poor Defender. It is so sad that you feel bashed. Sometimes looking at things like your systems values just reminds me of how I need to be careful, to be vigilant in Christ's message with me, and others. Why do you wish to debate issues that have no substance? Why do you wish to waste your time? Why do you wish to waste my time? Are you trying to convolute the issues of physical (and spiritual) rape and abuse that is the forum here? (As for dogma) Has your religion ever believed something that turned out not to be true? If so then cut other religions some slack. According to the Sociologist “Stark” one should not comment on other religions unless they have been with them for some time and if you leave a sect then you must be disgruntled, and should be dismissed if you comment on your former faith. Does that only apply to your sect? Do you go to say the “Catholics” and attend church and get their point of view? (Before bashing them and the rest of the world) If not then cut some slack as you and other witnesses ask for.-Sequia

John: I think you have peoples' attention - mine anyway. Send a little background. I'm curious that for someone who has never been a Witness (1) how/why have you done the reseach you have, and (2) where you got the facility with the lingo - stuff like 'he puts in more time than you'. I also like reading the delicate way you have of making your point.

Geez, all I asked for was a straight answer, never got one. What I did get was a lot of name calling. Since you all wont establish what your stance is on the TRUTH with simple answers to my simple questions, then there is no point to continue. Also, I see some are impressed with someone who believes Jesus died on a cross. Name calling, pagan beliefs, hate, no wonder this site is rarely visited by true Christians. Think about it. How much love is in here? Post something constructive for once. For those abused lambs, show them how they can heal with prayer and counsel. Do a search on those shiny WT cd's you didn't contribute anything for, and being a healing process for them. I wont hold my breath for that one either.

Geez..You just don't get it and did not answer why. As for name calling was that not your game? Proof has been provided that the coverups of rape and molestation and abuse is fact in the rank and orders of the JW's (Read the newspapers and its on this site) and elders turn a blind eye or intentionaly silence people with threats and intimidation all the works of evil and you want to debate the value of the trinity. Don't you dare try to be a victim grow up!-SEQ

SEQ – You are all over the place again. Establish what your current beliefs so people can determine whether or not your comments are worthwhile. Since you won't console the silentlams this site was created for, if you're going to comment on the history of the WT, let people know where you stand today as a Christian. I don't expect you to debate trinity because you don't believe in it. But keep talking about what you don't believe in and you will lose a LOT of ears here. Stand up for your beliefs, like JW's do. Again, I won't hold my breath for a straight answer, I'll get stuff about pyramids, intimidation, etc.

JW defender asked SLC: "Can you shed some light on how those sins are handled in your new org, whatever it is at this point?" Answer: (a) You ever said I joined ANOTHER ORG? (FYI: I am "org'd up to my gourd" for now.) (b) Besides, who needs an ORG anyway (Opportunistic Religious Group)? See Mat. 18:20. (b) Read this over and over until it sinks in: Luke 6:37. Then you asked, "How do [I] feel about adultery? Fornication?" Answer: See Rev. 21:8 for starters (and many others, which you are already well aware). Then you state, "I'm sure the Catholic, Protestant, and Baptist crowd here is eager to see how you interpret God's law, and how it applies to those that break it." Answer: Are there Catholics/Protestants/Baptists, etc. here? I didn't know that! I thought this was a JW site! You must have the "gift" of ESP (Extra Senile Presumptuousness). But, OK, I'll play along: If there ARE any Catholics/Protestants/Baptists reading this and committing fornication and/or adultery, please see 1 Cor. 4:4,5; 2 Tim.3:16; 1 Cor. 11:32; Heb. 12:6-24 (and, btw, notice WHO is doing the disciplining), and to top it off, Heb. 12:25: "See that you do NOT beg off from HIM WHO IS SPEAKING... Him who speaks FROM THE HEAVENS..." and Rev. 3:19 (again, notice WHO IT IS doing the reproving and disciplining). Let me ask YOU a question, JW-D: What are you feeling so feisty about anyway? Have you been bitten by the Ministerial Serpent? Helpful Tip: Stop-Look-Listen! Sounds to me like you are thrashing about "directing your blows/striking into thin air" (1 Cor. 9:26). Chill! Answer: Give me a BREAK already with the talk about failed bible predictions... Some prophets were even mistaken in their predictions. What would you say to them? Answer: How many erroneous predictions were made by prophets in the scriptures? Let's do a comparison: You can fill in this blank: The prophet(s) in the Bible made ______ wrong predictions. However, just as a sampling, the WTS made 12 predictions that I know of, which did not come true: 'Ever since the very beginning in the 1870s, the WTS for about 55 years (1876-1931) persistently taught that Christ had arrived invisibly in 1874... then they taught that the "remnant" of Christ's church would be changed (1 Thess. 4:17), first in 1878, then in 1881, then in 1914, then in 1915, then in 1925... then they taught that the end of the present system of things would come in 1914, then in 1918-20, then in 1925, then in 1941-42, and again in 1975, and again by 2000... " Shall I continue? Thanks to http://www.607v587.com/ for that documentation, but if you need more, please go to users.rcn.com/jrizo/thelist.doc for 247 PAGES of Failed Watchtower Predictions.) You continued further: "I'll say it again, no matter how many verses you quote, no matter how flowery the language you use, no matter how many quotes from 1901 you use, this site amounts to a JW bashing party." Correction: Not a JW bashing party, but a FDS/GB/WTS bashing party <adding music, everyone join in and sing together now> "It's My Party and I'll Bash If I Want To! You Would Bash Too If It Happened To You!" JW Defender continued: "How often has a child abuse victim benefited from your inane observations?" Answer: For your information, WE (now adult) child abuse victims/survivors are benefiting WONDERFULLY from each other's company here, and enjoying ourselves immensely, I might add. Again, I ask: What is YOUR problem, anyway? Are you feeling left out of the party? There are either of TWO "rules" for joining THIS party: (a) You ADVOCATE for Silent Lambs because you are a GOOD person who can SEE THRU the society's hypocrisy; OR (b) You or any of your children or family can become a sex abuse victim themselves by letting the congregation pedophile babysit them, go out in service with them, run into them in the KH bathroom, parking lot, etc. JW Defender continued: "Oh, before I forget, when you reply, please include your view on the Trinity." Answer: Trinity: Definition: Two JW-pedophiles going door-to-door. When they meet up with the little unsuspecting child at the door, that makes a threesome (a/k/a trinity, 3-in-1). Why are you even asking about the Trinity anyway? Who cares about the trinity doctrine? You're way out in space somewhere, imo. JW Defender asked more questions: "Also, tell us who is the Faithful and Discreet slave, since you know so much." Simple Answer: The one whom the Master, UPON HIS ARRIVAL, FINDS HIM DOING SO. (Luke 12:43-53, and notice the "division" in the "house" of the believers at this time also.) "Let the Reader Use Discernment!" (Mark 13:14) Sigh & Yawn, as JWD continues still further: "Since you're so versed in scripture, go into a detailed explanation of why you think it is biblically wrong when the bible makes it oh so crystal clear that to establish a matter two to three witnesses are necessary." Should I really have to even remind you to use your own brain-power here? (Sorry, I forgot you didn't have any. OK, out of COMPASSION I'll explain it to you.) (Btw, DO feel free to give your OWN detailed explanation of why you DO think Jesus & Jehovah would even EXPECT such a thing in child rape cases. Are their hearts as Pharsically-crusted-over as yours is?) Better yet, K.I.S.S. this scriptural admonition (Keep It Simple Stupid): "LET YOUR REASONABLENESS BECOME KNOWN TO ALL MEN." (Php. 4:5) How REASONABLE is it to EXPECT a rapist to invite "two or three witnesses" to the event? Deut. 19:15 and Mt. 18:16. How REASONABLE do YOU and the GB look to ALL MEN on this matter? Additionally, read the CONTEXT of Mat. 18:16! For pete's sake, fella (or lady), what Jesus was talking about was NOT CHILD RAPE & MOLESTATION, but as the heading at the top of the page says in the NWT Reference Bible, it is concerning "SETTLING FAULTS" & NOT GROSS CRIMES. AND, if you INSIST on applying Mat. 18:16 to child rape/molestation where there were only TWO witnesses (the child and the rapist), then why do you not also APPLY VERSE 17 and get the ENTIRE CONGREGATION INVOLVED IN THE CONFRONTING OF THE PERVERT? Please DO advise at your earliest opportunity why, when the pervert denies what he has done to the elders in the back room, why don't the elders march him out in front of the entire congregation and present the Perv and the abused child and their testimony to the ENTIRE CONGREGATION as verse 17 says to do????! And then let the congregation as a whole have a GO at their pervert "brother." TELL US WHY THAT IS NOT DONE per Mat. 18:16,17?? Additionally, what did Jehovah do with your cowardly, MIAppplied "two witness" rule anyway? Read Jehovah's Lips: "He... BLOTED OUT the handwritten document against us, which CONSISTED OF DECREES and which was IN OPPOSITION TO US; and He has TAKEN IT OUT OF THE WAY by NAILING IT to the torture stake." (Col. 2:14) What did He leave us instead? "THE KINGLEY LAW." (James 2:8--and read verse 9 also!). Still not enough? What did Jesus say about the scribes and Pharisees who NIT-PICKED him to pieces about their "handwritten document" (Mosaic Law/Rules/Regs) re: David's men eating the showbread, or the sheep who fell into the pit on the Sabbath, etc. etc.? (Mt. 12:1-14). Read all of Mat. Chapter 23, too: "They bind up HEAVY LOADS and put them upon the shoulders of men (AND Abused Women and Children)." (vs. 4) --- "They BROADEN the SCRIPTURE-CONTAINING CASES that they WEAR AS SAFEGUARDS." (vs.5) (Perfect example is the WT "Broadening" the two-witness rule completely OUT of proportion in order to attempt to COVER THEIR A. --- "Blind Guides, who STRAIN OUT THE GNAT but GULP DOWN THE CAMEL." (vs.24) (i.e., Who strain OUT the abused child but GULP DOWN the Perverts.) --- "...You have DISREGARDED the WEIGHTIER MATTERS of the Law, namely, JUSTICE and MERCY and FAITHFULNESS." (vs.23) (i.e., No Justice, Mercy or Faithfulness shown to the abuse victims, but let's go testify in court on behalf of the Pedophile for ALL THE WORLD TO SEE! Talk about Disregarding the Weightier Matters!) --- "They [GB] LIKE... to be called Rabbi [NWT Reference Bible Footnote for Rabbi: "MY GREAT EXCELLENT ONE"] by men." (vs. 6, 7) --- "Neither be called [GB] LEADERS, for your Leader is ONE, THE CHRIST." [Note: NOT the GB but THE CHRIST!] (vs. 10) --- "WOE TO you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! because you TRAVERSE THE SEA & DRY LAND TO MAKE ONE [JW] PROSELYTE, and when he BECOMES ONE, you make him a subject for GEHENNA TWICE AS MUCH as yourselves." (vs.15) --- "WOE TO you, scribes and [WTS] Pharisees, hypocrites! because you CLEANSE the OUTSIDE of [the Org via your PR Dept.] but INSIDE [you] are FULL of PLUNDER and IMMODERATENESS." (vs.25) --- "... whitewashed graves... In that way YOU ALSO, OUTWARDLY INDEED APPEAR RIGHTEOUS TO MEN, but INSIDE YOU are FULL of HYPOCRISY and LAWLESSNESS." (vs.27,28) Key word: LAWLESSNESS [i.e. CRIMINAL ACTIVITY] --- "...You are BEARING WITNESS AGAINST YOURSELVES that YOU are the sons of those who MURDERED the PROPHETS (by DF ing the Silent Lambs Whistleblowers)." (vs.31) --- "SERPENTS! OFFSPRING OF VIPERS... FOR THIS REASON I am sending forth to you PROPHETS [abuse victims who tried to speak up] and WISE MEN [elders who tried to speak up] and PUBLIC INSTRUCTORS [Silent Lambs and the MEDIA], SOME OF THEM YOU WILL KILL [deny] and IMPALE [publicly deny], and some of them you will SCOURGE [shun] in YOUR [KH] SYNAGOGUES and PERSECUTE [DF] from CITY TO CITY..." (vs. 33-36) --- "Jerusalem, Jerusalem [WTS, WTS], the KILLER of the [SL PROPHETS and the STONER of THOSE [SL Advocates] SENT FORTH TO HER [you]... How OFTEN I WANTED to GATHER YOUR [abused] CHILDREN TOGETHER (operative word: CHILDREN!!!!), the way a hen gathers HER CHICKS together under her WINGS! BUT YOU PEOPLE DID NOT WANT IT. LOOK! YOUR HOUSE IS ABANDONED TO YOU." (vs.37-38). --- That is the MOST ALIVE & POWERFULLY EXERTING SCRIPTURE YET! Go ahead, deny deny deny!!! --- (BTW, check out Mt. 12:43-45 - watch out! the demons appear to have already TAKEN OVER your WT house.) - In other words, USE YOUR OWN BRAIN and powers of REASON Jehovah gave you and which your Lord & Master EXPECTS you to USE, rather than nit-picking the two/three witnesses COP-OUT-RULE and MIApplying it to CHILD RAPE as a means to DENY IT and COVER IT UP for the sake of WT "IMAGE." ----- Finally! We come to the end of JW-D's entreaties. He/she said: "Anyone that says "you will find it necessary to insert your foot into your mouth. Yummmm, How's About Some Tasty Toes, eh?" is a wise person and should be listened to. lol: ----- Reply & Grand Finale by SLC: I'm SO pleased to see you DO have a sense of humor! Open Wide, Insert Foot, and please don't leave your shoes and socks in the middle of the floor, now, you hear?

TO JW Defender: I have officially given you a name: SNOT-NOSE, since you are a typical self-righteous JW. (It takes one to know one). I continued to act the same way as you, spouting off all the typical JW self-righteous rhetoric, until a few months ago when the BRIGHT LIGHT (that keeps getting BRIGHTER & BRIGHTER about the REAL TRUTH of the WTS) finally would not let me shut my eyes to it any longer. Snot Nose is using all the same worn-old lines I used, and I have since seen them all scripturally and factually refuted (i.e., MUST meet w/congregation, must be in a building to "worship"! must have elders handle judicial matters, etc. etc. ad nauseum, ad infinitum, like a runny snotty nose...). Here's a suggestion Snot Nose: Get out of this ER, like Loris said, and please go sign up for this group at msn: Just JWs. It is a true bona-fide JW group. However, they have a Debate Forum, which you are too "young" to enter, so whatever you do, do NOT go into their "Debate Forum," as your SR (Self-Righteousness) will be given a run for its money, all with monumental scriptural and WT-literature backing by JWs just like you. /SLC --- BTW: Our "qualified doctor" is The Great Physician and Healer, Jesus Christ.

I AGREE with whoever said let's slack off on the "debates" here at SL and take it to J-W.com or elsewhere. I AM DONE w/JW-D. -- In JW groups, they always say to IGNORE the "apostates." Well, I say in SL, we should IGNORE JW's such as JW Defender who, frankly, I can't figure out what his/her problem is. -- Good night all (great posts everybody, hope to reply to more soon). I have found this web site really interesting, although i am not a member of this group, i feel concern for all the victims and their families who are involved. The more people who come out into the open to discuss this issue, i'm sure everyone will benefit in some way, the government bodies should really step in and sort this problem immediately. Incest is a taboo, and should not be allowed to continue, I feel very strong about this, and thank you for letting me share my thoughts.
buster it,s johm my father joined the wt some 30 yrs. ago when i was about 12 i was made to go to the hall for a year or so noone else in my family is a watchtowerite i went to catholic school till 5th grade always believed in god and learned the basics there. for years i heard every day i,m going to be destroyed for not becoming a member . notice i don,t call wt members jehovah's witnesses .because they are not . i know all the zombies in co-op city bx i remember 1975 and hering that that wt pitch a 1000 times about the generation if 1914. and being laughed at for not believing it you know that stupid wt smirk like they know something you don,t .tell me another bed time story. i remember my father sick for 2 yrs. in the early 90,s not go to the doctor because the 1914 generation was due to end any day .what a fool he had cancer had he went to the doctor right away he would be able to use the toilet today. one day 3 yrs ago my brother and i were taking my father to task about a wt mag that said how great it was to quit your job and push watchtowers. we were whipping him pop said the wt is the TRUTH and all that other crap but he but he made a mistake he challanged me to do all the research on the wt i wanted they had nothing to hide. i was amazed all the new wt,s called the old wt books bible truth so i went to the hall and read up day after day i would show pop how they lie about thier past present and future it,s comical with limited bible knowledge i whipped the whole cong. elders po,s co,s they called me a demon in the kh library for exposing a new wt all lies about what was really in those old wt,s the new wt was glorifying week after week they made fools of them selves when you bust them they just stand there with that stupid smirk on their face. and say you don,t understand what your reading you need a study. this is so funny right now i can,t stop laughing.but really it,s sad to see all these wt ites i know so blind when they go into the field in co-op city they run from me ever see an 80 year old lady run you know i,m a demon? i always stop and blow up their pitch when i see them talking to someone . the elders told me their going to take me to court . i said go right ahead i,ll sue you and the wt for trying to take away my freedom of speech.they didn,t know what to say they just stood there like ZOMBIES. idrive a truck in the bronx i stop some times 4 5 times a day and ask members if the wt mag is inspired by god they half the time say yes i say them if they truely follow the bible they say yes after they commit themselves etc. i bust them with the material their holding in thier hands a few bible verses all of a sudden the bible has made them liars it,s so easy i set ,em up like bowling pins when i drop the boom they look like ZOMBIES> cause they know i caught them in lies . but at times if i get one alone who,s new they will listen and i give them tons of wt lies to look up hoping some will see the light i love to work on black people with all the beautiful things the wt has printed about them remember if you pray hard enough you can become white they love that one. it,s a shame how little these know even members for 40 50 yrs. they all idolize the wt not jesus i have never heard one tell me to come to jesus i know it,s pleasing to god to expose the wt daily .only the lord of the bible could make me so effective.so my question is i see on the internet many who are better versed than i do you do gods will and expose the wt at every chance i know i do freedom in christ to all john i gave a few simple answers as for the truth you can,t be talking about the teaching of the wt! take your head out of the sand.it,s one lie after another using the name jehovah to golrify the wt.just look at all the child rapist the wt harbors i know a wt pervert in co-op city bx ny his mane is carl gorlsh iv,e seen him many times touch women talk dirty to them grab young women tell how nicely thier developing talk to women about different sex acts and how they like it,etc and i got witnesses who knows what he does when no one is around i,ve seen him giving the wt pitch and touching at the same time .i know hes got complaints. if you live in the bronx he may be at your door. you want to tell me these are gods choosen people . i can,t wait till the law raids the wt office and expose the 23720 molesters then when one of the rapists from your cong. go to trial you can go to court and put your hand on the bible stand there like a good wt zombie and tell the court what a great person he is and how the god of brooklyn said he,s not guilty don,t worry the wt lawyers will instruct you how to decieve the jury shun the raped children then you can walk away knowing your words were pleasing to jehovah in bklyn.

RE: JW BASHING AND WHAT IT IS ABOUT REALLY....for myself I have been betrayed by what I thought was Jehovah's organization. I unknowingly supported policies, by association with the WTS, that harmed other christians in the organization. The WTS acted without love towards the Malawi's, acted without love towards the ones who have been molested or raped, and/or physically/emotionally abused and continued to put these ones in harms way.

I read Awake magazines that although a red flag came up, I ignored it - these articles promoted the UN and then I find out that the WTS belongs to the UN  I would not tolerate this behavior from a family member or a friend.  It is a bit like finding out your spouse is a liar, a cheat, and has put you in harm's way. You said it yourself that it is coming from hurt, bitterness and anger - at myself for being so naive & stupid, and for having trusted the WTS with my spiritual well-being. And like having an unfaithful spouse who doesn't care, they continue to lie or cover-up the problem. And there can be no reconciliation under those circumstances. This is grievous.  I care very much about the ones who have been harmed by rape and molestation. This is why I left and why I am here at SL. This is why I support Bill Bowen's efforts to make public this travesty. the so called bashing is a reaction to the very things we all once where seduced by to our own detriment and blindness. A Trust was betrayed - this is a very serious offense against the human spirit. Jehovah hates a liar.  Everyone here is a lover of Jehovah. From what I read and know, the ones who post here are actively doing what they can to help those who have been harmed and to prevent others from being harmed in the future by this policy the WTS promotes about two witnesses.  Any person who comes here who has been harmed is warmly comforted. This is all that we can do here. It is so little. Someone has to be here when they come - so we wait.THE TRUTH is not the exclusive property of the JW's - or the WTS to do with what they want. Knowledge of the TRUTH does not give anyone the privilege to harm, or treat people with contempt. We are all appalled at what the WTS has done with The Truth - absolutely appalled. We are appalled at what we ourselves have done in the past with the Truth - lording over the worldly people, judging them, pat answers for complexity, having no interest in others except as a potential sheep is appalling.The bitterness, the sadness, the anger expressed here is an appropriate safe place to do this. People who have been oppressed have to find expression.WTS/JW's won't let anyone express a concern without immediately oppressing. I had found the truth and then found out that the deliver of the truth is a liar and a cheat - well it is heartbreaking, spiritually devastating and cynical. "Doctrine" is an integral part of this sham, so it is discussed. WTS is an integral part of this sham in relationship to "doctrine" so they are looked at with contempt. To be lied to, manipulated, uncared for, kept quiet or else, by the deliverer of truth is crazy-making. People are just plain pissed off. I know I am. Justified anger isn't ungodly.(((((((((((The WTS by calling themselves the Faithful and Discreet Slave are suppose to be responsible and care for the ones they have caused harm to-that is ungodly.))))))))))))))))))))))))))))))))))The WTS has the biggest responsibility to do this and they did not and will not. If they had - we all wouldn't be here*glady. C.E.

Comments to that big wt defender i,ll tell you what i do to help wt kids since most of the wt zombies i talk to daily are women i tell them about all i know about wt and child molesters then i ask them if they know any i get some looks like some do if they got enough brains to listen a rare thing, maybe some will open thier eyes and rat out a wt molester but most times when i talk about wtmolester court cases and how the molester gets patted on the back. they stand there like zombies and tell me i,m lying or try to change the subject and ask me if i know what the kingdom is . funny how they want thier mags back after i blow-up thier pitch. the definition of a member of the wt is one who speaks presumptuously. on the cross did they not find a cross on the wall with the name JESUS in that city that was buried by the volcano in 79 A.D. i know that follower of christ in the 1st. century put that cross on the wall to persecute the wt. i know jehovah in brooklyn would approve of that answer you must need a study.got some delicious spiritual food guaranteed not to give you tomaine poisoning until the new light of next weeks watchtower. john

Proof is in the pudding- who is grieving??? The WTS or Silentlambs? Who wants reconciliation - WTS or Silentlambs? Who is tightening the control with videos and KM propaganda, intimidating with threats of DFing? Who calls everyone apostate to shut them up and puts the fear of God into anyone that listens to them? Who has been bashing & abusing victims of rape and the molested and their families for years??? Who teaches that this is the love? Who cares if Jesus died on a cross or a stake - the point is he died so we can live. Who cares if Armageddon comes today or tomorrow or 1,000 years from now- we just know it will come. Our walk with Christ is our walk and no one else can walk in our footsteps. Hell does not match up with God's mercy and love. The trinity makes a mockery out of "God loved the world so much that he gave his ONLY BEGOTTEN SON." There is no religion that can save us. We are to imitate Jesus - period. He loved the poor, the broken in spirit, the oppressed - that is what we are to do while we are here and in this way we advertise God's Kingdom. To give hope and comfort now as a "foreshadow" for the things to come. to be oppressing people while preaching the good news is not good advertising for God's Kingdom.

a great place to start the wt march would be at the #2and 5 subway station at boro hall bklyn. the wt has a big propagander stand there right next to the court house we can march the gb straight to the court and have a public trial right on the steps just like in the bible then if convicted let the silent lambs tie them to the columns and stone them with thier books from the wt stand. i can,t wait to be there. john

Hey everyone.....I've sat and read all the bantering back and forth, slamming and name calling. It seems to me to be a complete waste of time and really serves no purpose, other than to get people all upset. I think it's important that we keep things on topic here, this site is for the molested/raped/abused children of JW's. Much has been going on in that effort, so I see no point in all the doctrine discussions and arguing. There are numerous group sites where this would be more appropriate. 'Nuf said. Linda Thoman

i heard and read that article about 2005 it,s hard to explain it because of the way it was written wt zombies may discuss it among them selves most are too blind to see it thats why thier still members!!! i tried to pin my pop on that one as usual he went into fallacies in argumention . and hung up the phone his favorite way out when i catch the wt in another lie. but i got a better one on the back page of i think may 2000 or 2001 wt they go into million now living will never die .they are talking about today. that would mean that a baby born today lets say he lived to 100 yrs. that would mean the world will end in his life time . somebody look it up i know it,s on the back page of a wt in the last 2 yrs. i,ve made many wt zombies fume trying to talk thier way out of that one . maybe one of you big time wt defenders can post that beaut of prophecy. then explain it.but you won,t want to discuss it . I know you only want to talk how gods sprit directed org. is protecting the children from brother molest-a lot..john

I THINK THIS VERY HELPFUL. WE FINALLY CAN TALK ABOUT THINGS WITHOUT BEING JUDGED THAT WE'RE SPIRITUALLY WEAK AND DO NOT LOVE JAH. I HAVE NEVER EXPERIENCED ABUSE BUT DO GIVE MY HEART ALL TO HAVE. I HAVE AN 5MOS OLD AND 2 1/2 YR OLD AND HAVE DECIDED I WILL RAISE THEM TO HAVE AN OPEN MIND AND NOT BE JUDGEMENTAL OF OTHERS. TO GIVE OTHERS ALWAYS THE BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT. I WILL FOREMOST PROTECT THEM FROM THE ABUSE WITHIN THE ORG. I ONLY LET MY PARENTS AND HUSBAND WATCH MY CHILDREN AND A VERY FEW SELECTED FRIENDS. I DO NOT LET TEENAGERS WATCH MY CHILDREN. SO MY HEART AND PRAYERS GOES OUT TO EACH AND EVERY LAMB OUT THERE! I LOVE YOU ALL FOR JUST BEING YOU! CC

Nameless,(JW-Def I assume) you keep holding your breath. Once again I will try to be clear. I have not seen where SL is about establishing my beliefs. But I will establish this foundation. Spousal abuse and the rape of a child is not just a sin, they are crimes. JW's are working to defend and covet these types of perpetrators and then send them out into a society that is unaware of the danger that is knocking at their door. That is what this site is about giving people information to protect themselves. If the JW policy makers change their view on protecting and rewarding criminal behavior then this site would focus its attention on helping heal the wounds that are created when rape, physical, and mental violence destroys lives. I have no doubt that either you or some other of your type will be coming to my door at some point. After you walk next to the big American flag waving proudly at my front door then I will share my beliefs with you. I hope you hear what I say. But here, I will not engage in a theocratic debate. That is not what I am here for. I am here to try and help encourage and give support to the people who have bravely chosen to stand up and stand with each other against a shadow like enemy that seeks to cause what is meant by spiritual division. If you will not respect why, and what most of us are here for then you will continue to be pushed aside.-Sequia(SEQ)

Bill isn't trying to start a doctrinal fight here as far as who is right about the trinity, the origins of holidays, or whether to wear pantyhose to the meeting or not. His main focus is the kids who report their abuse. Let's keep that in mind, folks.
Trying to clean up the inside of the Watchtower organization (with their child abuse situation) is a good thing. However, I do understand how other people see the benefit of just getting out of it. Trying to clean out the inside of the Watchtower is like trying to clean out the inside of a garbage can. There is so much other trash that it holds also. Like all kinds of teachings that a regular person would never come up with. The scriptures have simple truths and also more complicated truths, but I sure don’t believe that there is only a few (out of 5 billion people on the earth) that can "decode" God’s word. This is an example of a dirty rags that we find in the garbage can.

"But Jehovah God has also provided his visible organization, his “faithful and discreet slave,” made up of spirit anointed ones, to help Christians in all nations to understand and apply properly the Bible in their lives. Unless we are in touch with this channel of communication that God is using, we will not progress along the road of life, no matter how much Bible reading we do." (The Watchtower 12/1/1981, p.27) So as you can see we have a problem with authority. The organization in my opinion does not take any member’s concerns as being valid, because they are the ultimate authority speaking for and representing God. We have a wide problem here and unfortunately this spills into almost every aspect of peoples lives.

Very good that the matter is out. Romans 13 says we must be in subjection to "caesers" authority, for it is Jehovah’s public servant, and it carries the sword for the bad deed. How is the society and elders obeying the superior authorities when it turns a blind eye to serious wrong doing? Peter even said "let none of you suffer as an evil doer" but nothing can be so carefully hidden that it cannot be revealed, for all is laid bare before Jehovah, and all must render account for what they do, Mark 4:22 Luke 12:2-3 Hebrews 4:13 Romans 14:12. and before the end comes Jehovah "will" clean his house out 1 Peter 4:17. ......... and this could be Jehovah cleaning his house out. It seems it was covered up so for the image of the church, but anybody that knows the Bible surely should know that nothing can be covered up. Look at examples of David, Achan, Eli, Hophni and Phineas. Jehovah cannot be mocked. Galatians 6:7 the society cannot now judge other religions until it itself cleans its act up. PMD Scotland

Dear ones, I too was a victim as well as my 11 year old son. My experience is 18 pages long. However, I would like to share it with you, but I need an address to send it to. Please send me a mailing address. I would also like to know if you can direct me to Jay Walter's experience. Hello, my name is Mark Palo and I can be contacted at >>>>palo50@juno.com<<< Several years ago I came forward and told my story to Randall Watters and he published it on his Free minds web site. I had no idea that there was such an underground of others who had suffered as I had. As I have read the multitude of postings, talked to victims and viewed the two television programs I was shaken by the numbers. What happened to me over 40 years ago has paled by some of your experiences. I can not believe the arrogance and sheer mendacity of the Society in their dealings with the victims. I at age 52 still suffer from PTSD, anxiety and panic attacks due to my experiences and treatment at the hands of the Watchtower. What has totally angered me are the ones in the organization who deny it, and blow this entire thing off as apostate ravings. These people are nothing but cretins. I was raped right at Bethel by a Bethelite. My parents where under the illusion that if one was a JW one could do now wrong. Even in my town of Lowell, MA. the Witnesses have called me a liar, apostate and demonized. The last I don't understand, because since when does telling the truth make you demonized? The first two I understand because this is the way they deal with anyone who dares to speak out and tell of their experiences. I was told by one elder that I had fabricated this in my mind. I ask, how does one fabricate PTSD and all the other symptoms to several highly trained psychologists and psychiatrists? But then the Watchtower thinks psychology is a Witch doctors remedy anyway. Peace, Mark Palo

i see a lot of people here don,t like my posts me calling watchtowerites zombies showing the wt lies weekly about thier past .what does that have to do with the silent lambs. alot ...3 yrs. ago i exposed the wt to the zombies i know in the bronx i shown many how the wt lies ,contradicts it self calls false prophecy bible truth.etc. etc.etc.in every instance they just stand there like zombies and say anything to defend the wt. no problem believe what you want. but now were talking about kids being molested. this is a total diffent ball game. these zombies all tell me it,s all lies.etc. it this point i want to take a stick and put up thier butt to see how they like it . then i tell them you can,t complian because you don,t have 2 witnesses. so see the whole wt community is an a acessary to these unspeakable crimes by defending the wt at any cost . i say put all these zombies in jail who defend the wt policy on molesters and they can learn first hand what it,s like to be molested in jail .cause in jail i don,t think you can find 2 witnesses.and remember the jehovah in bklyn won,t want to slander the good name of your fellow inmates . john

The moleHistorically, the aim has been, not to aid the individual or to provide basis for reasoning with him, but to incriminate, to convict as heretical when matters of shame come to the fore. Initiating the inquiry often has nothing to do with the individual's being disruptive, malicious or even being particularly vocal about his beliefs. Mere suspicion is sufficient cause to set in motion the inquisitory action. The suspect is viewed as, in effect, having no rights: even his personal conversation with intimate friends are treated as something the inquisitors have full right to delve into. Its not solely the atrocious acts of punishment meted out in the spanish inquisition that earned it such a despised name, is also the authoritarian approach and arrogant methods of interrogation employed to gain the incrimination so often zealously pursued by the religious judicial court. The torture and the violent punishment meted out then are outlawed today. But the authoritarian approach and arrogant methods or interrogation can still be practiced with apparent impunity. My experience in dealing with those removed can be truthfully said that none of the persons disfellowshiped had any thought of separating themselves from the organization nor had they any thought of encouraging others to separate. This should answer your doubts why I remain. I believe and truly think that spiritual guidance always was governed by the extent to which god's word was adhered too; to that extent god grants his guidance or withdraws it. I think that is true for any individual or any collective group of people, whoever you are. The mole*

TO EVERYONE* I must say I am very saddened by what I am reading here. I have only been off the site for maybe a week. What used to be a thriving community of support for abuse victims has turned into biblical debt and un-needed info about the WT. Why don't all of you go back about a month or more and read the posts then. They were all about helping Bill, others, and doing something about the policy. I hang my head at what I have been reading. Why even bother arguing with a "JW defender"??????????? The name says it all, and if no one would post a response--the JW will get tired of not having the reaction they are looking for and they will LEAVE on their own. The only thing arguing does is hurt us and give them the upper hand and reason to stay and cause more trouble. Why argue with a JW who still believes it is the truth, they won't listen to anything you say, only try to make sure you know they are right and you are wrong!!!!!!!!!!! Come on people, we used to be one of them, stop and think about it---don't get mad and post back---noone is winning in this---noone. I will not post unless it gets back to the reason why this site is here. I refuse to be ANY PART of this bickering!!! We are survivors of abuse and you are letting this JW abuse you further---only YOU can make it stop!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Love Jesika Thoman Dallas,Tx PS If you were a victim and came in here new to the site, would you stay with all this going on??? How many people have come and left without us knowing, and may need us, but will not be back because of this stuff going on. I don't want that on my conscience. Just food for thought, stop feeding a stray and it will stop coming back!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!

WELCOME MARK PALO!!! Thanks for sharing your painful story! What you say is PROFOUND and so true ("you made it up in your mind;" denial by the cretins; shock at the numbers of abused coming out; arrogance of the WT in their dealings with the victims, etc.). You ask: "...since when does telling the truth make you demonized?" -- Answer: When the TRUTH does not "Tickle the Ears" of those hearing that TRUTH! When telling the TRUTH might rip-open the Devil's Cover-Up! -- You also asked: "...how does one fabricate PTSD and all the other symptoms...?" -- Answer: As you know all too well, one cannot/does not put on an "act" of PTSD symptoms. No one would wish PTSD on their worst enemy. Sadly, those symptoms were given birth deep into every fiber of the frightened child or teen at the time of their abuse. Your cong and the WTS may not VALIDATE your experience and pain but WE DO! You HAVE BEEN HEARD! Thanks again for sharing! Hang in there! /SLC

The Watchtower Society shelters more than one type of abuse. The abuse that this site was designed for and the abuse from the society itself with it's shunning policy. As you can see if you disagree with them, they easy answer is to get rid of the person. This organization will not change as long as people see these spiritual leaders as "Gods representatives on earth". The shunning is secondary to the first (child abuse) coverup in this case. However this is how these leaders conduct business across the board. There blood policy, their new light policy, their child abuse cover up policy, etc. are all symptoms of people being convinced that the holy spirit does not dwell in all Christians(Though the bible teaches that) I feel that you will not change this group as long as they have convinced themselves that they are not accountable to the people who follow their every command. Good luck. Your going to need it.

Hey guys, I want to comment on the last few days of hostile posting. I think it is fair to say that JW doctrine debates will bring out the worst in people. That is why I study the art and science of "propaganda." That type of persuasion is poison to individual thought. I can not stress enough the need for more education in understanding the tactics of a propagandist. That was my intent in allowing the discussion to take place yesterday. It is easy to fall in trap, "name-calling, ridiculing, dismissing whatever is said from a different point of view, and changing the discussion to issues without any substance." These are but a few tricks that a trained propagandist will use. I said months ago, these are patterns and tactics that anyone who engages destructive cults will have to familiarize yourself with. We must train our children what these people are about. Witnesses teach that they spread the "truth" about---Whatever. But the word has a different meaning to them than it does to the average person. Deception, lies, violence (Rape is violence not just sex), and intimidation have nothing to do with true spirituality. There is no excuse for these actions period. And to defend them is even worse. Outside of SL and the JW I have been accused of trying to "legislate morality" in the big picture of child rape and religion. God willing that will happen. We have as a society failed to hold to moral principles. I believe that is why cult like organizations continue to thrive worldwide. They offer a sense of morality, distorted as it is that is the best thing people in them have known. The WTS is a small group and insignificant in the world of cults but the crater they leave in the lives they destroy gives me reason to not ignore them. I have told hundreds of people about this site. In turn they have told people and so on. I have advertised this site in newspapers and write the media. Montel Williams did a first class show on destructive cults today. I recommend you guys look to get a copy. I taped it. The truth about what is happening is getting out. Be patient. (I once heard that sometimes you can see crab-traps that have the top open; just barely above the water. Every time that a crab tries to clime out of the trap the other crabs pull the escapee back down.) (I hope you can use that analogy someday.)-With love and understanding-SEQ

jgibson@hamburg.heartland.net asked: "So if indeed this is the case, what are we to do? Flee, flee to what.... Who else has the teachings of life?" ----- Dear jgibson: This is exactly the point where the WTS has confused all of us to no end. We have been indoctrinated to believe that we can ONLY get to GOD & JESUS THRU the WTS, which is not the case at all. I'm sure you will recall the conversation between Jesus and Peter: "Simon Peter answered him: "Lord, WHOM shall we go away to? YOU have sayings of EVERLASTING LIFE; and we have believed and come to know that YOU are the Holy One of God." (John 6: 68,69) ---- Please note that Peter did not ask Jesus, "WHAT religious ORGANIZATION shall we go away to?" But he asked, "WHOM shall we go away to?" (WHOM as in a PERSON, not a THING). It clearly shows Jesus is the "WHOM" who gives Everlasting Life, not a man-made religious group or Ruling Body of Men. As someone wrote on this site, "Fear Fades When Facts Are Faced." There is nothing to fear because the fact is, we were SUPPOSED TO BE GOING DIRECTLY TO JESUS HIMSELF ALL ALONG, each of us individually. How? "The helper, the holy spirit... THAT ONE WILL TEACH YOU... [how]." (John 14:26). --- This scripture alone, though known for years and read many times, is like Brand New when seen w/o the WT-Blinders On. Think about it. Hope this helps. /SLC

CC wrote about her kids: "I WILL RAISE THEM TO HAVE AN OPEN MIND AND NOT BE JUDGEMENTAL OF OTHERS. TO GIVE OTHERS ALWAYS THE BENEFIT OF THE DOUBT." ----- Hi CC, thanks for your comments and prayers. I liked what you wrote there. Our "normal" sinful inheritance leads us to judge others, which is bad enough. But when we spend many years in a religion which teaches us to CONTINUE JUDGING rather than teaching us to, as you describe, NOT be judgmental/give people the benefit of the doubt, etc., Well, we have allot of un-learning to do, and it's nice to see you are instilling this into your babes while they are still young. Thanks for the reminder! /SLC

Hi bjc2! I, FOR ONE, THANK YOU for your efforts and for the information about The Report, and the details & addresses for it, and the corrections to the misunderstood parts, etc. I hope the ones who complained about "books" will not upset you. Hi Linda Birt & Family: Thanks for sharing your story and filling us in on the first-hand experience your [elder] husband and yourself had with the way the WTS dealt with abuse in the UK. Glad to hear you have been able to move on from it. I notice you said you have almost finished counselor training and would like to help. I was wondering if you would be interested in or if you noticed the bar on the Home Page of this site, "HELP SILENT LAMBS"? There on that page, Paragraph #6 says, "COUNSELING-If you have credentials for counseling victims of molestation and would like to help direct them on how to get the best assistance, CLICK HERE." When you click there, it opens up your email program in order to email Silent Lambs at this address: write to: Assistance@SilentLambs.org. --- Thanks again! /SLC

Did everyone see the email sent around by Silent Lambs re: the Navy's website on JWs? <http://www.chaplaincare.navy.mil/JehovahWitnesses.htm> Two things caught my eye while reading it: (a) "A group of members called STEADFASTERS opposed all support of World War I. Later, THE SOCIETY ADOPTED THE STANCE OF THE STEADFASTERS." --- hmmm... Does anyone think there is hope the WTS will "adopt the stance" of the SILENT LAMB STEADFASTERS??? That would sincerely be great, wouldn't it? (However, taking my own advice above, I will Not be holding my breath). ----- The second thing I noticed (humorously) is that the Navy gives a New Title that could be used in addition to elder/PO/SO/CO/DO... and it is: "J.O." (Navy's quote: "As in all large organizations, official policies must be administered by junior officials.") There you have it, JUNIOR OFFICIALS! :-) Well, I thought it was funny! /SLC

Every time a jw comments it seems like everyone goes for their head. I have observed with some interest what has been going on and quite frankly am shocked and amazed at the lack of respect displayed when one offers an opinion that is different from most here. I thought this site was to help victims. It's amazing I go way back in the posts and the central theme is anti-jw talk. Sincerely, JR

WHAT COULD I POSSIBLY ADD TO THIS EXCELLENT POST? NOT A SINGLE THING! BECAUSE C.E. HIT THE DEAD-CENTER OF THE BULLS-EYE WITH HER VERY FIRST ARROW OF WELL-POINTED-WORDS (Thanks CE!!!) /SLC) ----- "And like having an unfaithful spouse who doesn't care, they continue to lie or cover-up the problem. And there can be no reconciliation under those circumstances. This is grievous. ... the so called bashing is a reaction to the very things we all once where seduced by to our own detriment and blindness. A Trust was betrayed - this is a very serious offense against the human spirit. Jehovah hates a liar. ... Any person who comes here who has been harmed is warmly comforted. This is all that we can do here. It is so little. Someone has to be here when they come - so we wait. ... We are appalled at what we ourselves have done in the past with the Truth - lording over the worldly people, judging them, pat answers for complexity, having no interest in others except as a potential sheep is appalling. ... The bitterness, the sadness, the anger expressed here is an appropriate safe place to do this. People who have been oppressed have to find expression. ... I had found the truth and then found out that the deliver of the truth is a liar and a cheat - well it is heartbreaking, spiritually devastating and cynical. ... Justified anger isn't ungodly. ...The WTS has the biggest responsibility to do this and they did not and will not. If they had - we all wouldn't be hereglady. C.E."

Otherwise, you would realize that the "opinions offered which are different from the ones here," are nothing but WTS propaganda which has been drilled into the heads of these ones who are expressing so-called OPINIONS. (See SEQUOIA's Post above). Also, what real knowledge and/or insight do you have into the spirit of an abused one? If you had some, I think you would understand a little more clearly. ----- JR continued: "I thought this site was to help victims." ----- We must be reading different websites! I see numerous posts from people who express THANKS and COMFORT from this website. ----- JR's finally thought was: "It's amazing I go way back in the posts and the central theme is anti-jw talk." ----- To that I reply: DUH! WONDER WHY???? WHO IS IT That ABUSED the Lambs and Their Supporters? More correctly that should read: ANTI-WTS TALK. JW members as a whole are still in the blinded-grasp of their propagandist/cultish LEADERS, and therefore, are not totally responsible. (On second thought, after reading some of Truck-Driver-John's posts, I might have to change my opinion on that). - Anyway, JR, I'm sorry you are not seeing the MEANING of the dynamics here. It seems you are only noticing the SURFACE of things. I guess it's truer than true when they say, "You would have had to have BEEN THERE" [to appreciate/understand it]. Hi SEQ! Thanks for your reminder of your knowledge about propaganda and cult activity. Wish I'd known about Montel today, I would have watched it for sure. And thanks for your efforts which you described (getting the word out, etc.) The great news is that once we "get the sense of it," we come to realize, sometimes in a flash, that we are FREE TO go STRAIGHT to Jesus and Jehovah without the middle-men, and I mean LITERALLY WITHOUT the Middle-Men! This opens up a whole new area of exciting discovery, that with the help of The Helper (the holy spirit) an entirely NEW, BETTER & MORE INTIMATE relationship with Our Father and His Son is waiting in the wings (of the mother hen who is longing to gather we "chicks" to herself). Thanks again, and Good Night All. I think I'm all caught up for awhile... Love/SLC -- AND BEST WISHES TO BILL ON SUNDAY!!!!! Anybody know if he got enough letters???? I sure HOPE SO!

I looked up this website after seeing the 'Dateline NBC' segment profiling cover-ups of child abusers/molesters within the JW church. I was simply APPALLED by what I found here. The sickening acts of JW church members, and just as bad, the cover-ups by church elders and ostracism/isolation of abuse victims was absolutely disgusting. That being said, I absolutely believe the stories on this site. This site is, I think, essential for those who have been isolated - sometimes by family members - for daring to expose the vile acts committed by JW members. For the record - I am not a JW, although my grandmother was.

OK. I debated whether to post this, but since I am signing off, I will post it anyway since I feel (imho of course) some of my feelings are valid: Here goes: I think you guys (mostly ANONYMOUS ones who don't give a name/handle) who are griping about the recent WTS discussions are putting Way Too Much Emphasis on it. (Just in this August 2002 Part 2 of the Guestbook, I see about 7 or 8 such complaints.) Because, as Loris and Claudine CORRECTLY EXPLAINED, EVERYTHING ABOUT the WTS affects the lambs -- the two are DEEPLY intertwined. They cannot be separated. So BIG DEAL if some doctrinal stuff is discussed? It's just a phase. (Compare it with 18 entire months of posts!) It does NO HARM TO "NEW" LAMBS WHO VISIT HERE, imo, to see a little WTS "doctrine exposure." BESIDES, it is NOT ONLY VICTIMS who visit here, but no doubt MANY worldly people (see SEQ's recent post as an example) and maybe even some JW's who silently read but do not reply. If they learn ONE NEW THOUGHT from these types of posts (WT doctrine espouse'), ALL THE BETTER for the worldly visitors AND/or the JW's. --- And let's say I was a worldly person reading JW Defender's posts yesterday and then saw that NO ONE EVEN PUT FORTH ANY EFFORT TO REFUTE all the baloney he was saying. What would I think as an unknowing worldly person? I would think he was CORRECT, that's what I would have thought! So RESPONSES from the regulars here WAS APPROPRIATE, imo. --- Also, if some current JW (defenders or whomever) DIRECTLY ASKS ME SOMETHING, please be advised I WILL REPLY, and if it is "book size" in nature, who are you to complain? Are you the owner of the site? Just don't read the posts! Doesn't everyone know how to use their SCROLL ARROW or Mouse? Scroll OVER the posts if you don't feel like reading them. (How hard is that to do?) --- Frankly, I'm getting a little tired of the complainers complaining. I would never DISCOURAGE ANYONE (of the "Good Guys") from posting - that would NOT be nice MANNERS - as a matter of fact, THAT would be INSENSITIVE. --- And if you are going to "GIVE UP" that easily, then Hmmm.... what does that say for Tenacity? --- No, I am NOT suggesting the purpose of this site be changed for all eternity, but I think it's NOT THAT BIG OF A DEAL that some WT-doctrine-discussion/exposure has occurred. Knowledge is Power, remember? The NEW VISITORS are posting many THANKFUL POSTS. I think it is some of the "anonymous regulars and/or lurkers" who are complaining. And I hardly think any Wounded Lamb is going to run away from the site permanently due to some WT doctrine discussion. (Even if they do leave for awhile, they will not forget what they read and it will sink in. That's how it has happened with me... slowly sinks in, even if the "first swallow" was hard to get down.) --- Lastly, if there IS UPDATED SL activity going on to be shared, by all means SHARE IT and fill us in! The only updates I see are the emails sent out by B.Bowen and/or from the Guestbook and/or Home Page listings. --- Maybe WT doctrine-discussion has occurred because the "complainers" are NOT posting anything themselves! --- I'll borrow SoapBox' moniker for this one. Agape/SLC ----- PS: In defense of John/NY, sure his posts may be a little harsh in delivery, but does he not also have a right to be incensed about the abused JWs? C'mon, people, remember Jesus' words: "FOR HE THAT IS NOT AGAINST US IS FOR US." (Mark 9:40) -- and the verse right above that one says, "DO NOT TRY TO PREVENT HIM, for there is no one that will do a powerful work on the basis of [Jesus'] name that will quickly be able to revile [Jesus]." (Mark 9:39)

Silentlambs March September 27 . . . . . . . There is a book publishing company in Brooklyn that we are going to picket. The company has a strict dress code (like the old EDS or IBMs) The company is telling all current and prospective employees (and anyone else who will listen) that the picketers are just DISGRUNTLED ex employees. They say the ex employees havent worked for the company in years maybe decades and are just a bunch of losers who cant find other jobs. But what if the picketers look like they still work for the company or that they just quit last week? It will be harder for the publishing company to smear the picketers and the picketers get the best PR. . . . . WHEN WE MARCH FOR SILENTLAMBS WE DON'T LOOK LIKE APOSTATES!

Hi. I was raised JW. While I agree with JW's view on paradise earth and a non-trinity God...and while I am glad that this site does address sexual abuse issues..what about the OTHER forms abuse within the JW org? Such a emotional and religious abuse? What about ruling people's personal lives? Espeicallly on NON_bibical issues such as: telling grown adults OVER 21 who they can date or not? Telling men that they can not wear bears? Rigif formal Mormon-like dress codes from the 1950's? Telling people that it is "Their choice" to celebrate birthdays or not"..but then when individuals DO 'choose' to celebrate birthdays..then they are tagged as "spiritually weak"? What about those HORRID "Kingdom Mealodies" from HELL? And the refusel to allow contemporary music in worship instead of Bach? Lastly, what about the simple fact that "The Governing Body"/"The Society"/"The Organization"...is viewed as "The Channel to Jehovah"? Is that not supose to Jesus' postion ONLY? hi all its john i've been reading this site for a year gaining knowledge and all here are in my prays. i take what i learn and use it in the field with the power of the holy spirit i hope to help others as well as myself. in the last year i had to tell hundreds and hundreds of wt members i'm going to make a prophecy watch out for dateline child molestation in the wt is going to come to a head. they all laughed at me. i know some watched it in the last month or so i can see the confusion in some of thier faces i think all this talk from the kh to the door steps about molestation is ringing a sour note in some of thier hearts. i keep in my truck printouts of all kinds dirt on the wt i try to be ready for all incounters.try to keep in mind i try to witnesses in christian love. it's mostly wt members who fruitlessly try to attack me for exposing the wt. thats what pisses me off when some one has no sense of reason. let the pharisees of the wt be thrown in the pit by ceasar after all that has been hidden is exposed to the light let all who refuse reproof also led into the pit. you gotta love proverbs.p.s. the light machine is sitting idle i'm home sick. but that ok i finally got to talk here with some beautiful people. look for me at the march .freedom in christ to all john

No one is poking fun at the abused. The puns simply show the extent that this site has degenerated and gotten away from its purpose. Why can you guys take stabs at JW's by insinuating what evil people we are because of a few bad ones by bringing up old history and other completely unrelated rhetoric but we can't comment or poke fun at completely unrelated issues as well? Is this your party only and you can cry if you want to? Get back to the topic and

Is this your party only and you can cry if you want to? Get back to the topic and maybe the posts from these others you are whining about will stop! YOU DO NOT EVEN KNOW ME, YOU DO NOT EVEN KNOW WHAT I HAVE POSTED HERE, This is me, bonnielyn, me who made the earlier comment about the piglet and the chop! YOU look at any of my posts IF YOU DARE!, and then label ME as one of the 'YOU PEOPLE!' IF you find one comment that I made that is considered wrong in your heart then you bring it to my attention and I will ask you to forgive me for hurting you by my remarks! I do not go around hurting ANYONE on purpose and if I have then I am sorry! Sincerely sorry for that! And if you wouldn't feed a piglet a chop, glad to hear it! And I ask that you forgive me for saying I bet you would! I was not poking fun at JW's with that comment, after all, I didn't even know you were a JW until AFTER I SAID IT! So how could I have been bashing a JW with that comment? again, respectfully, and with love of all my neighbors, bonnielyn

And your comment or who ever it was comment about the .13 cent admission to a party to assist in the silentlamb march WAS NOT UNRELATED TO THE ISSUE It was a direct HIT, to the ISSUE, don't insult your own intelligence thinking that it wasn't! Do you hold your innocent child's little hand with the same hand that you use to type things in here to make light of the issue of abusing children???? Do you tuck them in at night and are thankful that no one has touched them in ways to break their spirit's and body's with those same two hands???? Do you not even realize that somewhere right now there are children, mothers, fathers, grandmothers, grandfathers, that are being abused! Not only by non-believers either! Not only by believers either! Search your spirit before answering please, truly search it, feel the pain of all of these in man kind that suffer at the hands of another, that silently and not so silently beg for help! That are molested, beaten and murdered by someone put here to protect them!! Search your heart for the love of others! It's in there!!! the wt has written about it enough that it should be inside you somewhere! FIND IT! Then you will see for yourself, making light of the issue of this site and those who care about the children is not a very nice thing to do! It's not loving! and if your excuse is that others are doing it to you so you have the right to do it to others...... is that what the witnesses teach??? I missed that one in my studies, thought they taught to 'do onto others as you would do onto yourself'! Has this 'teaching' changed then! It has been awhile since I was in study so maybe there is 'new light' about how to treat others that I am not aware of, is there? if so, then I guess your poking fun and making light of this issue is what your supposed to do and told to do by the JW's! I am not bashing, poking fun at or judging with these questions, I am truly ASKING you! bonnielyn

A point or two about being 'on the topic': Discussions about the structure of the organization, discussions about how elders are taught to deal with complex behind-the-scenes social issues, discussions of historical events and teachings that lead up to the current set of beliefs and procedures, are all part of the topic. A sense of fairness impels us to try to deal with dissenting opinions - like Defender. In my opinion, the one thing that most separates this forum from any others is that it is set up Bill Bowen to change the organization. I was amazed when I first realized that this site was run by an active JW. But I also find it interesting when I see a post from a Defender that it is in the form of thought that has been ingrained by way too many meetings and repetition. An active JW will typically start firing off scripture snippets and asking what is the greater fulfillment?, or 'where will you go?' They firmly believe that they are at the heart of the discussion. The JW thinks that the discussion needs to be around how Ezekial chapter this is in harmony with Matthew verse that. But to realign their thinking will require that they first start seeing the bible as more straightforward instruction for each of us - not as a jigsaw puzzle designed for the few appointed with the insight of Holy Spirit. That we all have an obligation to build our own understanding and not rely on an organization to make these decisions for us. Pipe dream huh? Yup. Worth trying? I think so. On topic? Definitely. - Buster (Besides, they can be kind of fun at times.)

bonnielyn, I am going to address myself as CJ from now on. I did not write the comment about the silent lamb party, I was the one who wrote that it is simply a response to show how far this site has degenerated. I truly beleive this. Look at the post...can you say that most of the posts lately are related to abuse victims? Maybe yours are but the majority aren't. I am a JW and I am proud of that. I feel that as a whole JW's represent Jehovahs' name very well. Yes there are a few bad apples. I think dredging up 1800's history on JW's does no good. Yes JW's had some misconstrued views throughout the ages, but so what! This to me shows progress in a good way by getting further and further away from wrong views doctrinal or nondoctrinal. I cannot think of a single religion today that isn't actually going the opposite direction by becoming more and more liberal simply because thats what the people want to hear.I am sickened by anyone who abuses a child, but recent posts make it seem like all JW's are pedophiles, or that we have more pedophiles than anyther religion. In the beginning this site was setup supposedly to help victims, but whether you accept it or not it has become a JW bash party. I know that you personally may not be doing it but as it has been pointed out by many on this site, its those others that make the whole site look bad, just as a few bad ones in the JW organization make the whole look bad to you. Personally I am offended at the insinuations that JW's are evil, just as you would be offended at anyone making an accusation against you even though as you said in your post "they don't know you" Whether or not you or anyone else would like to admit it most people even the non jw's just plain old regular people have nothing against us. I have spoken to many in the field ministry here in Kentucky and to the very few that have even said anything about this ordeal they still say well It happens in all religions. Thats the simple truth. Yes many cases were handled wrong but the governing body and JW's as a whole cannot be classified or branded as an overall bad people based on 1800s history as many here would like to make people believe. So bonnielyn I hope this has cleared up things between us and I hope that you can help others in here to be able to let out their anger and frustrations in a more constructive way. CJ

Back to the topic... everyone please go to the UN site, look up, and read the Declaration of the RIGHTS OF CHILDREN, and bye the way, thanks to the official WT site for putting some of it in one of their mags so I could be directed to it!! ty ty ty! :-)

Since it was in the mag of the witnesses then even witnesses can go and take a look-see, for educational purposes, since it was in a JW mag!

Right? Anyway, take a look; it is calling for EVERYONE to protect the children from (just to name two) moral and spiritual harm! I know that the word of the FATHER said as much, so very long ago, HE made the call for all to protect our children! Keep them safe! And to NOT TOLERATE anyone who does them harm! So let us all strive to do this! This site is here to assist the abused and battered, surviving lambs, to try and change the hearts and sight of those who cannot see that protecting the children is the most important thing! Isn't it? So any more comments made not reflecting this should not be replied to, it only adds fuel to the fire! I have no right to tell anyone what to do, I can only ask, please click on your 'ignore' when anyone posts comments that do not consider the protection of children! Thanks to all who do this, and to those who don't, that's your right, freedom of speech is your right. Man gave you that! So, I will strive myself to not 'get sucked in' by the snide remarks. I will try to just, consider the source and discern the spirit of the ones making them! With love, from the spirit of love, bonnielynn CJ - your comment - I am sickened by anyone who abuses a child, - a blessing to hear!!! So now that we both are sickened by this, what can we do? I know that the majority of Witnesses are good, decent people, people who honestly feel that they are saving the worldly ones everlasting life. I'm concerned with the ones who aren't, even if it was just one, and that one was allowed to continue to abuse just one child, it's still wrong. If you found my story and read it you then know that I was raised to believe the doctrine of the JW's, I still do believe their basic doctrines, love one another, walk in the footsteps of Jesus, and many more, but the subject here is the lambs, and I honestly feel that not only speaking out for the present lambs and past lambs in love and understanding is important, also, making sure that the future lambs, the non-believers coming into the 'truth' are protected now! Do you feel comfortable with the thought of ANYONE allowing a 'known' pedophile to come to your home? If it was a regular company lets say, and they stated in the media that they 'do not let a known pedophile to hold a responsible position with-in their company, and that they do allow the 'known pedophile' to go to the homes of children to teach, sell, or anything' would that not make you hesitate wanting that company to send ANYONE from their company to your home, or the homes of your loved ones, or even ANYONE'S HOMES? Would it really matter to you if that 'known' pedophile were with another person? Would you still want that 'known pedophile' near your children? Even with someone else they are still able to look at your children, you are still putting your child in the sight of a 'known' pedophile, and the sad thing is, you wouldn't even know it! Oh, yes and the company also stated publicly that 'they may not send the 'known' pedophile to a neighborhood that knows of them! That might be your neighborhood! Can you see where I am coming from? I am a survivor of abuse, sexual, mental, spiritual, verbal, you name it, and I survived it! I am still surviving it. I am almost 39 years old and cannot even begin to heal when these abuses continue. I think of a child out there, anyone's child being abused and I suffer, my spirit cries out (not to mention my eye's geeze, one would think I would be dried up by now!) I hear of a child's life taken by their own parent and I have to find a blessing in it, I feel, truly feel that at least in death they are free of the abuses suffered alive, and the FATHER will remember them, and bring them back, the little baby's that never harmed a soul, the innocent little lives, that HE will bring them back and heal them!!!

But until then at least the one's lost to earthly life are safely sleeping until that day comes! That's the only way that I can even continue on.. How HE has given me the courage to bare all of this! What can we, you and I do, to walk in the word, and help at least one of these little children that are still here, gave to us to protect???? Any suggestions from you or anyone reading this is welcome!!! In your opinion, allowing a 'known' pedophile, most of whom have not taken the suggestion of the company to 'do the right thing' and turn yourselves in to pay the penalty of mans law, do you think allowing those who have not truly repented, gave lip service to remain in the company, to continue the non-responsible position of going to a child's door, to teach, to sell, to whatever, do you think that this is against the will of the FATHER? Do you, in your opinion, feel that these 'known' pedophiles have the blessing to do this from HIM? Since you are a Witness, I would highly appreciate your insight!! And especially any suggestions on how we, you and I, and all of us that truly find this sickening can walk in the word and do something! We are the earthly instruments of the FATHER right? I know that since I am not a witness as far as you are concerned or the org is concerned so I understand that you may not consider me a spiritual, loving, person because of it. But I am! I am truly afraid that if we all don't see that HE is calling all of us to do HIS will regarding protecting the children, then ... we just have to see that HE is using us now to do something about this, as HE used Jesus to show us the way, as HE used Jesus to know that HE is LOVE. HiS spirit is calling us to do something!!! Right??? Something more than just talking about it, and saying how it is bad. It's also bad to sit on the fence post and do nothing. Right???? I just do not know what more I can do. bonnielyn

SLC- I agree with you that it may be are sometimes necessary to comment on JW values and beliefs. The current policy on protecting the anonymity of pedophiles and the refusal if at all possible of victims seeking justice is the heart of the issue. Bastardizing the scriptures is how that policy was formed. It is beyond me why the JW society finds it so hard to accept that these archaic views are not compatible with any other societal views. That includes their own. The statement by JR Brown is that child abuse is abhorred. However he fails to see how the current beliefs protect the guilty and punishes the victim of the crime. That in itself is abuse. It is the misuse of scripture that is the stance of the WTS. The type of propaganda currently being broadcast by the pro-JW policy stance on protecting pedophiles is but yet another example of the tactics that propagandists use. Just say that this site is anti-JW enough times and a JW or a JW sympathetic person will say AHA! I new it; Case closed. The propagandist does not want someone like me (an outsider) reminding people what I and others like me here are is "anti-pedophile" and, more to the point against any type of "pedophile protection programs." It is that simple. It is senseless that anyone would disagree with me. But the pro-JW policy side does. They are wrong. Every time they post they explain my point. We all, JW and not should be coming together here not tearing at each other. I however will not budge. I will not give in, and I will not go quietly. It may be that the pro-JW policy group may stay on their side as well. Then we will fight. But my shadow will be with the children and people who otherwise have no voice.-SEQ

Hello. I guess I'll call myself JWD (JW Defender), although I've been called many things from tasty toe, moron, snot-nose, etc. Looking back at some of my posts, I regret saying some of the things I said. I'm not retracting what I said, just excusing myself. I tried to just look without posting but that turned out to be an impossible task. The natural tendency is to defend your beliefs. Anyway, as CJ said, the facts speak for themselves. This site has degenerated into a bash-for-all. The facts speak for themselves. So, for posterity, I'll conclude with a recommendation for JW's at this site: if you see a truck coming towards you, LOOK OUT!

Regarding - Hello. I guess I'll call myself JWD (JW Defender). Hi Defender! I would also ask you, in the spirit of getting back to the basics of the issues here, any suggestions from you on how we all can do our part in protecting innocent lives, bodies, and spirits? Of course we all know that prayer is the very first thing we need to do, and I'm sure most of us here have. Most of us here have also come to the conclusion that our prayers have been answered in the way that we now have the spirit of love to do our parts in assisting the abused. Any suggestions from you, any idea's to how you, I, CJ, all of us, with the word behind us, can do our parts!!! :-) Nice to meet you by the way! I am so glad that you chose the name you have (out of all the others to choose from!, couldn't see anyone calling them self, tasty toes! :-P Since you've chosen the name JW DEFENDER, you are now a DEFENDER of the JW children too! Right?! Makes me want to smile! You have made my day with your last post! ty ty, now we can work together, in spite of our differences and concentrate on protecting the children!!!! bonnielyn!!! It truly is amazing where you find blessings, if you look hard enough; they are just a post away!

To whom it may concern: I am writing to explain myself and my husband's stance in regard to the "Divisions" being caused in the Organization. The only "Divisions" that we know of are those caused by the Governing Body. They have blatantly disregarded their sheep on far too many occasions for us to ever be comfortable worshipping among them again. I could cite many instances where they preferred "keeping peace" instead of protection the innocent ones in the congregation. My husband was raised by two abusive people and the elders looked the other way. That is what causes divisions, to know you've been abuses mentally and physically, but to grow up and find that it's not isolated that they KNEW and chose to do nothing. THAT IS WHAT CAUSES DIVISIONS blatant disregard, having no love amongst yourselves because to have love you would do something, anything to spare and innocent. When a loved one comes to you crying telling you about bruises and the pain, to blame them and to ignore their pain is the dividing force. We understand to look at oneself in the mirror and find that you are the reason must be hard, but to blame someone and to go to the extent of disfellowshipping, reeks so much of the world. Smoke and mirrors, look at the right hand so we can't see the leavening in the left preparing to ferment the whole. The Governing Body and those weak spineless Elders that choose to do nothing is what has cause the Division amongst this family. Choosing to blame Bill Bowen while disregarding the real reason, is only going to cause the Society more pain and embarrassment. Bill still chooses to worship, let him examine yourselves as you would the scriptures. That is where you'll find what is lacking in your heart of hearts. Sheila and Christopher Madonia 807 NE 67th Place Gladstone, MO 64118 This is my letter I sent to Bill to present in his defense

Bonnielyn, I am now going to make a confession to you. I am currently serving as an elder here in a Kentucky congregation. I am relatively young in years (35 to be exact) and have served in 5 congregations already. A couple in Spanish in Tennessee and 3 English here in Kentucky. As you know I have access to all past files on disfellowshipping, disassociations, etc. This would include any knowledge or revelations of Pedophiles. I am telling you honestly when I say that in all the congregations I have served I have never seen or dealt with a single case. I am in know way saying that there hasn't been in other congregations, but what I am saying is that from the information I have gathered from posts in this room and from Bill Bowens own comments it make it seem like their is 2 pedophiles in every congregation. I think that this is an unfair distorting of the facts. Oh yes the facts are that there are pedophiles, but not to the extent and broad based implications of the evilness of JW's as a whole. My experience in the congregations that I have served in has been enjoyable especially at seeing how the friends are just trying to lead good lives and cope with this system of things. Issues have been brought to light that will influence me if I ever have to deal with an abuse victim. Our elder body has discussed this and we all have the same feelings on the matter, primary concern will be given to help the abused. It is also their right to take the matter to police we would not discourage that. However if the accused does not admit guilt we can do nothing in a judicial way, though this would give serious rise to any kind of responsibility and would mandate being watched with a little more scrutiny. I do not know if this is fair to the accused if no witnesses can be provided to validate the claim. Thats all we can do our hands would be tied, tied the same way they would be tied in a court of law if the accuser expected to win a case when it is one word pitted against the other with no collaborating evidence or witnesses. No judge would rule favorably for the accuser in this case. You would appreciate this being applied to you if you were the accused. Regardless, if there is no evidence to convict anyone or not counseling for the abused and emotional support would be most appropriate. I sincerely feel this and would let this guide me if I have have to deal with a serious matter like this. Basically what I am trying to tell you that there are alot of good people in the organization, we offer alot of support for each other, but we also step on each others toes, you had a bad experience, you felt it wasn't handled properly and you left. You left scoured with a view that the whole organization is corrupt and I sincerely in my own free mind feel that this is not true. Especially having served in so many congregations. There is alot of good out there. I just wish you were her in our congregation so you can see how we although imperfect, handle things as an elder body. I can't help but think that if your situation was dealt with differently maybe although hurt you would still be with us. I am confident in Jehovah that he will take care of things and that maybe this process is a way of removing some of the impurities. But for me to leave what I know is the truth especially in comparing other religions (which I have done quite extensively before I became a witness) does not solve anything. My hope is in Jehovah and please understand my views as I am sensitive to yours.CJ

CJ- That was very eloquently written. I know you mean every word that you wrote but I would warn people of what you are really saying. I think that this 100 year old poem says alot. The Spider and the Fly (A Fable) By Mary Howitt (1799-1888) "Will you walk into my parlor?" said the spider to the fly; "Tis the prettiest little parlor that ever you did spy. The way into my parlor is up a winding stair, And I have many pretty things to show when you are there." "O no, no," said the little fly, "to ask me is in vain, For who goes up your winding stair can ne'er come down again." "I'm sure you must be very weary, dear, with soaring up so high; Will you rest upon my little bed?" said the spider to the fly. "There are pretty curtains drawn around, the sheets are fine and thin, And if you like to rest awhile, I'll snugly tuck you in." "O no, no," said the little fly, "for I've often heard it said, They never, never wake again, who sleep upon your bed." Said the cunning spider to the fly, "Dear friend, what shall I do, To prove the warm affection I've always felt for you? I have within my pantry good store of all that's nice; I'm sure you're very welcome; will you please to take a slice?" "O no, no," said the little fly, "kind sir, that cannot be; I've heard what's in your pantry, and I do not wish to see." "Sweet creature!" said the spider, "you're witty and you're wise, How handsome are your gauzy wings, how brilliant are your eyes! I have a little looking-glass upon my parlor shelf, If you'll step in one moment, dear, you shall behold yourself." "I thank you, gentle sir," she said, "for what you're pleased to say, And bidding you good-morning now, I'll call another day." The spider turned him round about, and went into his den, For well he knew the silly fly would soon be back again: So he wove a subtle web, in a little corner sly, And set his table ready to dine upon the fly. Then he came out to his door again, and merrily did sing, "Come hither, hither, pretty fly, with pearl and silver wing: Your robes are green and purple; there's a crest upon your head; Your eyes are like the diamond bright, but mine are dull as lead." Alas, alas! How very soon this silly little fly, Hearing his wily flattering words, came slowly flitting by With buzzing wings she hung aloft, then near and nearer drew, Thinking only of her brilliant eyes, and green and purple hue: Thinking only of her crested head poor foolish little thing! At last, up jumped the cunning spider, and fiercely held her fast. He dragged her up his winding stair, into his dismal den, Within his little parlor; but she ne'er came out again! And now dear little children, who may this story read, To idle, silly, flattering words, I pray you ne'er give heed; Unto an evil counselor close heart, and ear, and eye, And take a lesson from this tale of the Spider and the Fly.

CJ... I was never a baptized JW; right now my mom is again studying. I was raised to believe the truth and lived my whole adult life feeling that I failed HIM by failing the org. What got me, is when my mom started studying she asked if she can go with her teacher door to door, OH, no says the teacher, you can't do that, someone you know might open the door and it would put us in a bad light! Okay, then I read your pr man, Mr. Brown, publicly stating that the org allows and even sends 'known' pedophiles door to door, and that they may not send them to neighborhoods that know who they are. The SENDING THEM are what I see is harmful! I understand about the smoking thing, if we were discussing this in private or through email I would love to share my theories with you about it, but this is not the place to discuss that type of doctrine, excusing away pedophiles by saying that there aren't as many as in other religions, (not saying you said that) is in no way a plausible excuse. And stating that there has to be two or more witnesses to the abuse has to be some how changed in view of who the victims are or were! If it was your child or grandchild that came to you as their grandpa, could you then tell them as an Elder that 'sorry, my hands are tied, you have to come up with another witness, or more, or we have to wait and let the accused abuse another child to have another witness". ? Could you do that? Even if it's not of your blood and flesh, just another jw child that you call their parents brother and sister, If faced with this yourself, I hope it never happens either, but if it does? Why not try and get things as right as they can be now, before this issue is at your door knocking? Thanks for the posts, means a lot to me that you were willing to disclose yourself in this way! It hasn't stated here on this site that their are two peds in each congregation, it says that if the figure's are true then it's on 'average' that it's two, could be one congregation has 4 and yours is free, or it could be a congregation has 6 and that saves more congregations. Can you, if this is true, be a JW and not want to do something, are not moved to do something to help your fellow brothers and sisters? And their children? Even if they are not in your congregation, they are still yours! Right? I think that a lot of ppl here are still so into the teachings as I am, If I'm not mistaken there has been many times that I was taught by my grandma, who died a devout witness by not accepting blood, and my mom, and the teachers that I have studied with, that you have to look into the beliefs, the works of all religions and if there is one thing wrong, that is a red light to maybe that the religions isn't the true one. I've done that all of my life, with the trinity, with other things... and now I have nowhere to go... But this isn't about me. I am just me. This is a place to hopefully discuss how to with the help of the word, and the courage, wisdom, and most importantly love, help and think of the children, this site centers around the JW's that are survivor's of abuse, the facts that even when the accused is found guilty in the eye's of the law the congregations flock to the guilty and forsake the survivor's. All of these stories cannot be fabrications. Saying that would have to be admitting that maybe all of the stories you have heard that was written in the wt and awake, may have been all fabrications! You still didn't answer my question, this is very important to me, so please, just a yes or no if fine. Give me some hope again that there is hope for me... If you needed a tutor for your child, and you called a company that provided this, and they sent out a tutor that had confessed to them that he/she were a pedophile but promised the company that he/she wouldn't do it again, would you still want that 'known' pedophile to come into your house around your child? Simple question. Would you want a 'known pedophile' to come knocking on your door? The PR man Brown stated in the papers that this is allowed, along with another witness of course, but even with another tutor there, would you want a 'known pedophile' into your home around your child, around even you for that matter? You don't have to have ever been faced with that to know how to answer, do you? I understand that it is the obligation and the joy for fellow brothers to be able to forgive a repentant sinner. Do you feel that this is a sin that can be forgiven with just a promise not to do it again? And how many times and children have to be abused before you're not obligated to forgive? 7, or 77, or even 7777?! Now, isn't that an interesting number? I did not even realize what that number represents, until I saw it typed... I mean, yes I knew what it is, but did not put it in for that reason, just popped out at me when I saw it! Humbling! You have to put yourself in the child's shoes. Think with a child's heart. Will you answer? And if you can put yourself in the child's shoes, as an Elder, could you try to put yourself in an innocent Elder's shoes, one who WAS faced with this, one who tried to help the child and was stone walled with 'wait on Jehovah' not to change the subject but when I begged to be baptized and was told no cause I smoked, when I said that I've prayed and am waiting on Jehovah to take it away from me, cause I didn't have the will power on my own, my teacher sure didn't understand that, and I sure didn't get to proclaim my Love and TRUST that Jehovah was there and I wanted to dedicate my life to pleasing HIM, maybe if I was allowed to publicly proclaim this LOVE AND FAITH I could have been able to quit smoking! Catch twenty-two. Anyway, Thanks again for sharing part of your real self with me and us here. If you can't feel that you can answer my question(s) then I will understand. After all, we are supposed to understand right!! With love bonnielyn

Why? Also, why is the Governing Body so opposed to soliciting the professional help of outsiders who are so many “elders” and traveling overseers, when child abuse cases surface, NOT to go to the police and report it? Isn’t it? Are we being taught by the Governing Body to “obey CAESAR”? (Romans 13:1,2) Why have they told many elders know this?). Why are we keeping the Civil Authorities out of the scene? Child Abuse is a most JW elders DON’T KNOW is a mental disorder, rarely if ever cured, according to studies on the subject. But how interviewd, along with child psychologists, and trained personnel with experience with deviant pedophiles (which same “evidence”, medical evidence is used throughout the world and stands up in the “court of law” to convict accused rapists and child molesters, does it not? Wouldnt this “adjustment” of viewpoint, on the part of discerning “elders”, show a “bringing in of a heart of wisdom”. Especially on the part of the Governing Body’s if they untied the hands of the elders, in such cases, and allowed this procedure for the benefit of the elders facing difficult circumstances in judging a case of child abuse within the congregation? (See Psalms 90:12.) Your opinion as an elder, please? Further as an “elder”, would you say these men of the Governing Body really discerning spiritual men, full of wisdom, and directed by God’s Holy Spirit? Where is the “wisdom” among them? Or, does it make more sense to you as an “elder”, for the Governing Body to attack other elders like BILL BOWENS, JOE ANDERSON, BARBARA ANDERSON, given the facts you have at hand? If so, what would be the scriptural grounds?*(2) Why can’t the 2 “witness” Rule in child abuse cases be understood to include (a) the child abused and (b) the medical doctor (objective party) who examines child and offers professional opinion and medical “evidence”? (Evidence would include: tangible evidences of abuse [bruises, facial marks, so on] or direct evidence of sexual violation; doctor determines when making “examination”, also in physical abuse cases violence, things like x-rays, lab reports, specific/medical tests results to determine abuse, other medical evidence, doctors written opinion, (maybe even a second opinion from another doctor who examines, etc.) Shouldn’t this type of “evidence” suffice and be in keeping with the scriptural two-witness rule, thus fulfilling the scriptural obligation of 1 Timothy 5:19? This same “evidence”, medical evidence is used throughout the world and stands up in the “court of law” to convict accused rapists and child molesters, does it not? Wouldn’t this “adjustment” of viewpoint, on the part of discerning “elders”, show a “bringing in of a heart of wisdom”. Especially on the part of the Governing Body’s if they untied the hands of the elders, in such cases, and allowed this procedure for the benefit of the elders facing difficult circumstances in judging a case of child abuse within the congregation? (See Psalms 90:12.) Your opinion as an elder, please? Further as an “elder”, would you say these men of the Governing Body really discerning spiritual men, full of wisdom, and directed by God’s Holy Spirit? Where is the “wisdom” among them? Or, does it make more sense to you as an “elder”, for the Governing Body to attack other elders like BILL BOWENS, JOE ANDERSON, and disfellowship them for trying to address such a powerful issue, especially in view of what the Catholics are going through? Do we see wisdom displayed on the Governing Body, or brutality? Which approach makes more sense, to you? And what about the Governing Body’s timing in handling these affairs? Did they as a body of elders, bring “glory to God”, in the way THEY have handled this NEWS-MEDIA sensitive matter? Remember, it was in the news with the Catholics LONG BEFORE the JW’s were the news and “talk of the town”, right? So, do you think the Governing Body showed real wisdom, in the way they handled this whole affair? What’s your opinion, as an elder? Also, what about other “witnesses” that can be used in Child Abuse cases: professional therapists to be called in and interviewed, along with child psychologists, and trained personnel with experience with deviant pedophiles (which most JW elders DON’T KNOW is a mental disorder, rarely if ever cured, according to studies on the subject. But how many elders know this?). Why are we keeping the Civil Authorities out of the scene? Child Abuse is a crime, isn’t it? Are we being taught by the Governing Body to “obey CAESAR”? (Romans 13:1,2) Why have they told so many “elders” and traveling overseers, when child abuse cases surface, NOT to go to the police and report it? Why? Also, why is the Governing Body so opposed to soliciting the professional help of outsiders who are

PLEASE READ THIS: My brother and I were abused when we were 10 & 11, respectively by an elders son years ago. I recall the horror on my mothers face when we told he of the incident. I also recall the big STINK my parents made with this brother. I've been in other situations that involved an elder. Although he did not actually molest me, he tried. That brother was disfellowwhipped, not as a direct result of his actions towards me (since I never formally accused him) but he was eventually busted with some other unfortunate young kid. I have been through a lot in my life. It's been said a very interesting book can be written based on my life. I have suffered permanent scars that haunt me to this very day. As a matter of fact, recently I burst out crying and my wife panicked. When I told her I had been abused (she didn't know), we both cried. In summary, it has affected my life. It's hard to forget a bad experience. I've grown up since, and currently am doing well, by this world's standards. I have a high profile job that keeps me employed, a beautiful wife, beautiful kids, beautiful home, etc., etc., made many friends, and have what I consider a great relationship with our creator. I am glad I found this site. Before you welcome me, and tell me you love me, I'd like to share something with you. I am a happy JW. And guess what? My wife was abused by her grandmother (wordly). She too is a happy JW. Our point? First, not all abused "silentlams" as you call us, YES US, leave the organization and embark on a smear campaign as a full time vocation. Second, it proves that a person can be abused by a either a JW or "wordly" person, and still be a JW. For the record, I am very upset by all that's going on, with Dateline, etc. etc. I happen to be a survivor of abuse. I object to all the negativity and insensitivity that is consistently displayed by JW detractors. Are you going to bash me for my current beliefs? Will you cast me aside? I am so disgusted. What would you say to me if I showed up to one of your rallies? Would you invite me to speak? Why not? I was abused. I suffer psychological problems. Will you abuse me verbally, now that I have shared that I am a JW? Am I evil? Am I brainwashed? Am I stupid? Am I a moron? Am I a zombie? Am I subjected to evil men who do evil things, who have some kind of agenda to take over the world? Am I that stupid that I can't see what's going on? Not all abused JW's take you road you have taken, for your information. I fully expect to be condemned by all who post to this site, in SPITE of the fact that I myself am a victim. Shame on you all. But I am NOT a silentlamb. I have a voice, and I choose to use it as I wish, no one has done that for me, and no one is forcing me. I will continue to proclaim the Kingdom of Jehovah door to door, as Jesus instructed his followers to do, until they drag me away in chains if you all ever accomplish your evil goal. I am not brainwashed as you claim I am. This is a conscious decision made by me, and me alone. I am a Jehovah's Witness, and proud to be one.

This is JESIKA THOMAN------------- All I do right now is cry. For those who don't know who I am, I am a survivor of sexual abuse and was at the press conference in Minnesota with Heidi Meyer and Bill Bowen. I live in Dallas,Tx and flew there within days of the conference. I used to be here everyday, and posted everyday. But now, as I am writing this, I am trying to see the screen through my tears, as to what this site has turned into. I do not feel if I was having a hard time or flashbacks that I could come here for support. Only to hear and see the same hate and anger I can see in myself(anger--not hate--more hurt than anything) and the family that won't have anything to do with the topic I need to talk about. My heart and soul is in pain and I don't feel I can talk to anyone here about it. It has changed soooooooooooooooooo much here. I wish I would have never let a day go by so I could have stopped it,but now that I need you guys, I feel I am amoung strangers--full of anger--and I don't need that right now. I leave you with a hurt heart and tears in my eyes---I need you guys!!! I just don't feel the field is the same here. That is why I expressed myself the way I did on the 8th. I may come back, when it goes back to what it should be. VERY HURT & NEEDING A SHOULDER!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! Jesika Thoman, Dallas, Tx

hi to all the lambs out there. my name is Rich, i'm an active JW and i've just read 'crisis of conscience'. its been said that it was a 'banned' book and that it shouldnt be read. well i'll make my own mind up on what i'll read and what i wont. if this book was merely lies, then what does the society fear from lies? it seems to me they fear the truth that is told in books like these, theres a lot of people who are now starting to question and have doubts about the FDS and rightly so. i was baptised 2 years ago and i was suspicious of the society then and they've done nothing to make me think any different, and now i've had to learn the truth from other people. i have posted comment on this site before under 'a concerned JW' because of paranoia, amazing isnt it, how the society can affect me like this. well im not gona be worried about what they think anymore. ive learned that the majority of JWs seem to be on what i can only describe as 'auto pilot'. they're too busy concerned about getting there reports in and attending meetings and their pre-studies that their true spiritual self becomes dormant, thinking that what they do is the most important thing and as long as they do what the society keeps drilling into them as to what they should do then thats ok. well i'll tell i dont pre-study ever, if i miss a meeting there's no big deal. if i put a report in late, who do i hurt? as long as i'm developing my relationship with God through Christ by studying Gods word, thats the important thing. i've brought out points in meetings that nobody else would have brought because the FDS never pointed to them scriptures in the first place. what possible benifit do i get from answering aquestion when we've already just read the answer? it just seems to be a way of conditioning the mind to accept what the FDS says and to obey what they say. somone mentioned before about not critising the society etc and that this site is just for cases of abuse. well the problem of covering up abuse isnt just about '2 witnesses' etc, its about the whole attitude thats developed by the FDS through all their dogma. when i was studying i was told that this wasnt a 'religon'. from what i've learned it is. they say there's no rules, but there is. there seems to be more rules than any other org i've known. people expect you to dress in a suit and have a side parting. well i wont wear a suit and i've got a skinhead, and i really couldnt care less what others think. i dont attend meeting to try and impress anyone and i have the right to be an individual. all these sorts of things the society try to opress. well i think for myself. i wont give my mind away. i have a bible trained conscience not a FDS trained conscience. if JWs want to do different then thats up to them, i wont try to change their way of doing things, and i expect others not to try and change me. i was disgusted by that GB member towards the end of the Panorama program. to me he just summed up their intire attitude by what he said. i told my mom that night i watched it that i considered myself as not being part of the society, only the congregation. i wont be attending anymore conventions and assemblies, where we get mind-controled to obey the FDS's every command. some JW's believe that the society will go through at armageddon, and not sur they'll survive the great tribulation. my thoughts and prayers got to Bill and his family and all those who have been betrayed by the society.

Regarding - PLEASE READ THIS: I did read your post and thank you for sharing it with all of us. You were truly blessed to not have your faith destroyed by the abuse done to you. The lambs here were not so lucky. When they sought the care of the org they were hushed, kept quiet with threats of being kicked out and forsaken by HIM! There are many stories here that proclaim, not the dissension of the Witnesses but the reformation! So many other things have been 'put in the kiln' to make pure, why not the now policies on this issue? Why kick out those who want to keep the children safe? How can the ones who have made this public be able to go back and rejoin the org when the policies are still the same? Yes, they can be repentant but for exactly what??? For wanting to keep future children within the org safe and sound? For being put in the position that the only way they could see to get things accomplished was to make the public aware of it? The org has certainly taken every opportunity to put the Catholics up to the spotlight. To be examined and as proof that they are not the true religion. Oh, what a blessing and joy to know that you are in the true faith when you see the suffering the poor Catholic children suffer at the hands of the very ones who's obligation within their religion to keep their spirits intact! Speak up and shout all ye of faith! As you were abused, you then probably feel as I do, the feelings that only an abused can feel, Do you? Do you feel an understanding for other abused? Do you feel a desire to help a child from any abuse? Even, if it is not a child that you personally know? Do you agree with the policies of the Organization? Knowing what you know, how hard it is to heal, it broke my heart to hear that you broke down and cried recently, but it was good that you were then able to tell your wife, so she could be there for you! Knowing though how it feels to be abused, would you want to see that burden on any other child? If there was something that you could do, and there is always something, would you do it? If it meant going against the teachings of the org, would you still do it, if it will save just one child from what you suffered. Some, as it seems maybe you can live normal lives, while others cannot. Some may not have the same support that you had from your parents, the same support as you had with your brother given that you shared the same experience and you may have been able to gain strength from that, as some of the lambs have gained strength in hearing that they are not alone in their suffering. I am not going to say that I agree with some of the ways things are being done. I am not going to say that I agree with all of the posts here. I am only saying lets all, in our own understanding of 'how to survive' strive to do what we are here to do, proclaiming the GLORY of HIM is part of it. Protecting innocent babies and assisting the ones whose spirits are broken along with their bodies is also an important part too. Isn't it? Isn't it our obligation to help one another with the spirit of love and understanding, and with courage to know that although we are ALL not perfect, we can perfectly love ALL? bonnielyn

I am sorry you feel that way Jesika. I still admire you and all YOU stand for. I wish that people could unstand that I am not against any religion or any individual per se. I belive in the right to choose your own path. I do however have distain for 1/2 truths and outright lies. I hate crimes against children and violence in domestic issues. My point in the "propaganda issues" (which most of us are guilty of at one time or another) is when you have knowlege of what is going on then you don't have to get mad. You can call them on it and they can "fight fair" or "head to the sidelines." I wish that everyone would play by those rules. We would have a better world. You would not belive how beat up I get in Sociology classes when I refuse to play into the "mind-games." All "WE and YOU" have to do is say "No I won't be silent" one more time than they say "Yes you will." This is an issue where one group belives they have an exclussive channel to god. Just like the other religions that have the same belife. I however do not have their advantage. I do not belive that I am superior to other people. Now here is a request. GO! and get the Jewel CD I suggested. And then go get a Starbucks blended drink. and chill. Be happy, you are doing a good thing here. Everyone on both sides will benifit in the end. You will see. :-)Sequia

To the Elder CJ: I appreciated your post - calm, rational etc...I would like you to read the Abused Lambs stories, and all the stories that have been posted in the last couple months. There is a valid concern for what happens to these children once they speak out. It is wonderful that the congregations you have been involved have not had these problems. Once an event like sexual child abuse happens in a family or a congregation nothing is every the same after that. It ruins families and it absolutely ruins congregations. Once a congregation is contaminated this way, it is very hard to undo - this is why it is so vital that there is zero tolerance. You can call me a liar, say it doesn't count because I am not an elder - but in California, there were three different congregations, in three different parts of the state and 7 children (that I know of) were sexual molested by 2 different elders, and one MS, none were df'd or lost position. The one mother who went to the police - was shunned, dropped and not supported. Lost her children to foster care due to her instability which was in part due to the neglect of her congregation to support her. * Witness children are taught not to lie. If a child is taught not to lie and hears day in and day out that the father of the lie is Satan - I would believe that child if they told me someone did something bad to them.Anyway, I would like you to read the stories after stories. I also would like you to put yourself in the shoes of a father/mother or the child who was up against this two witness policy, in a time of need of support and understanding.* * It is hard to understand someone else's different experience - it can seem like some big drama, or a lie.* * One mother didn't press charges because she believed that Jehovah would work it out and that it would bring shame upon Jehovah. In congregations where everyone is related by marriage and blood it is very difficult to get the necessary support from the congregation. If all your friends are witnesses and they won't rock the boat- you have to fend for yourself. It is lonely, scary, and this particular woman thought it was just a test of her faith to remain silent and let Jehovah work it out. Anyway, I believe that your experience as an elder and having access to records has proved no pedophiles within the congregations that you have attended. I would like you to believe now, that others have had a different experience that is just as true and believable as yours. MY guess is that you yourself would have taken the same position as Bill Bowen if you had been in his position.*Would you take pride in being an Elder if a fellow elder serving with you shoulder to shoulder as an equal was a known child molestor? It would make you re-think everything you cherished and was proud of in being an elder and one of Jehovah's witnesses. I would like to hear what you "feel"about the stories after you have read them and put yourself as an elder in the position of being a man of integrity and a lover of Jehovah-what would you do????? Dear Proud JW: I'd like to tell you a little story. When I was a young girl I was grabbed and fondled by a very popular man in my community. I escaped his clutches and never got that close to him again and I never told anyone. Recently I learned that my younger sister was also fondled by this man and she also stayed away thereafter and never told. Now I have learned that a friend of mine was raped repeatedly by this man and it very much messed up her life. Should I have told and saved the other girls? Yes, but I was just a dumb kid and so I forgive myself. Should you have told and saved the other boy or boys? That's yours to decide but what if you had and no one believed you? What if you and the other boy went together to the elders and still your testimony was disallowed? What if (as has happened so often in the stories on the Silentlambs website) the children did tell. They and their parents tried to seek justice but Society's rules protected the Pedophile and allowed to continue to destroy other children's lives. Up to seventeen children before Fitzwater was stopped. What if I had told and my parents had taken both of us little girls to the police and the police had denied us justice? Would you consider it wrong of me to try to change the law of the land? If this happened in the Catholic Church would you think it wrong to ask for accountability? Children are abused under many circumstances but this site is about what happens after the fact. Now if you have read the stories of the abused children and not understood that this site was about changing policies and about justice for victims you must have missed something.

Nan, I would be very interested in the federal law you spoke about! Thank you for helping me make my point about the 'average thing' knowing that you are aware of more than two pedophiles in one congregation was a great help! I think that the statement made on the home page here was misunderstood and that helped clear it up. I am also interested in knowing if there is a Federal law regarding allowing 'known pedophiles' to go to peoples home, for any reason, they can't have a 'privilege' to do so just because they are in a religion, I wouldn't think. And as far as having to wait until something occurred as SLC mentioned, I sure hope not, then it's to late! Better to stop the cart before it goes over the mountain than trying to pull it back up after! If something does have to occur first, my argument is that it has! The act of allowing and sending the "going to a child's home a 'known pedophile', is putting children in harms way! If they are allowed to do this it should be a law then that they have to tell the person at the door just what they are and give that person the choice of accepting them into their homes! I don't see that happening. I don't give two hoots care that they go with another witness! And I can forgive anyone anything, it's who I have to be, but I still would have to protect the children! If the org can do this then a school can hire teachers that say "hey I'm a perv but I won't do it if you hire me I promise!" And if I'm not mistaken, even pedophiles that have served their time are still kept away from children, or are supposed to stay away from them! bonnielyn

To CJ. I tell you the truth CJ. I saw and heard many like you in so called Christian Congregations of Jehovah's witness. You are very polished with your words but it is just the same. You are not truthful. You know what I mean?

TO JOHN FROM THE BRONX: you need to knock it off! None of us here are into being crude, not in words or thought. You are welcomed here if you want to discuss calmly, without name calling or being crude how you "feel." This web site is NOT about hating the WTS - there are more appropriate places for that which I don't visit myself. Silentlambs is for the sexually abused - those who support them emotionally and spiritually. Most of us do not have the desire to confront JW's - but we do have the desire to protect and help those who want it. PLEASE KNOCK IT OFF. You are being offensive and you are hurting the purpose of this web site. We are commanded to not return evil for evil. No one here advocates evil here. We want justice served with mercy. Bill Bowen has carefully chosen his words and actions so as not to bring "just" reproach upon the Silentlambs or himself. PLEASE KNOCK IT OFF! I know you are angry - but it isn't useful to us here. This isn't about ruining the WTS society, but is about protecting children. Different focus. I will personally ask the webmaster to remove your posts if you continue to be crude and offensive. Bonnielyn: I hope that last post showed the importance of reporting ALL INCIDENTS of sexual assault. Even if the evidence is unsubstantiated it can be admitted in court later to convict a molester. . . . . . . . . . . . . . . I would like to discuss a few points from the current Department of Justices Statistics. The report is entitled Sexual Assault of Young Children as Reported to Law Enforcement: Victim, Incident, and Offender Characteristics. _ I believe this report is best hard evidence available. The introduction of the report states: To law enforcement and the public, sexual assaults, and especially the sexual assaults of young children are a major social concern. While a few highly publicized incidents are engraved in the publics consciousness, there is little empirically based information on these crimes. Until recently, law enforcement and policymakers had few hard facts on which to base their response to these crimes. After reading the facts below I am sure you will agree that the conviction rate for sexual assault is dismal. Probability of arrest and clearance The NIBRS (FBIs National Incident-Based Reporting System)data indicate that an arrest was made in 27% of all sexual assault victimizations. Assaults against the youngest victims were the least likely of juvenile victimizations to result in arrest. An offender was arrested in just 19% of the sexual assaults of children under age 6, compared to 33% of victims ages 6 through 11, and 32% of victims ages 12 through 17. (Source http://www.ojp.usdoj.gov/bjs/pub/pdf/saycrle.pdf An arrest is not a conviction so all told the numbers are pretty dismal for the VICTIMS not for the accused.

Jesika, my dear neice...please hang in there girl. I have read these posts you describe, and I can truly understand why you are so upset. I agree completely that the anger and hated expressed by many have done nothing for the cause. Keep in mind, honey, that this site is public domain and anyone and everyone has the right to express whatever they feel whether we like it, agree with it, disagree, or simply shake our heads at their stupidity. Personally, I was thrilled....to see that admitted Elders are here posting messages, however ironic! Considering that congregation
"pions" would be df'd in a heartbeat for accessing this site, amongst others. To the Elders here......welcome. I am very happy that you are here, reading all these posts, reading the horror stories of all of us that have been through hell within the Org. Although this site was created for the abused/molested/raped children, I can understand why topics of doctrine have been raised here, although I'm not the least bit interested in seeing the Daily Text amongst other things posted here. If I was interested in seeing that, I know where to get it. Brother Elder, considering the fact that you were willing to access this site which is considered a big no-no, post messages here too, it seems to me that you are somewhat different than most elders. All of the elders I've known have all been "hardcore", unwilling to hear another side other than their own preconceived notions. I applaud you for coming here. I would like to recommend something to you, just for your own enlightenment. All my life, growing up in the Org, there were regular talks in which the phrase "Make sure of all things" was used. Other phrases, which escape me right now, were used as well to explain that each of us have the personal responsibility to be absolutely sure and convinced that what we believe is really the Truth. I always found it interesting that it was always applied to non-witnesses or those just studying. I took it further; I took it to heart and decided that I needed to know for myself if what I was being taught my entire life (I'm now 42) was really the Truth. Since many references are made in magazines and books to sources for material by those who are not/were not Witnesses, I figured....why can't I do the same thing? Why can't I research doctrine, read material/books written by those who are not Witnesses, just like the Org does? During my search, I stumbled quite by accident upon a book written by a former Governing Body member, yes....Ray Franz. I figured, who else but a former GB member could give me some insight into some subjects, and insight into the inner workings of the GB, who controls and dictates every thought process, belief, and all actions within the Org. I read that book from cover to cover, and I've also read his new, updated 4th Edition of the same title. Brother Elder, that is a book every Witness should read and "let the reader use discernment". If you feel comfortable accessing this site, then I would think you'd also be open to reading details of the GB, how decisions are made about every single thing pertaining to Witness beliefs, doctrines, etc and give yourself the opportunity to read information NO Elder, MS, or publisher is supposed to see. Is it any wonder why the GB "banned" that book? His book can be found at www.freeminds.org I would personally love to hear your comments once you've read it. Reader use their own discernment. Make sure of all......things. Linda Thoman

Time noted that this conspiracy is crumbling at last. Why? In a word, education. It is as Asiaweek magazine put it: "All experts agree that the best defence against child abuse is public awareness." To defend their children, parents must understand the realities of the threat. Don't be left in the dark by misconceptions that protect child abusers and not children. Be sure, for example, to forestall any attempt by an abuser to create a secret pact. Children should know that it is never all right for an adult to ask them to keep a secret from either parent. Reassure them that it is always proper for them to tell—even if they had promised not to.

(Compare Numbers 30:12, 16.) Some abusers blackmail the child if they know that the child has disobeyed some family rule. "I won't tell on you if you won't tell on me" is the message. So children should know that they will never get in trouble for telling—even under these circumstances. It is safe to tell. Make sure you get to know well any adults or older youths who are close to your children. Listen to the Children! IN BRITISH COLUMBIA, Canada, a recent study examined the careers of 30 child molesters. The results were chilling. The 30 individuals had, between them, abused 2,099 children. Fully half of them held positions of trust—teachers, ministers, administrators, and childcare workers. One molester, a 50-year-old dentist, had abused nearly 500 children over a 26-year period.

However, The Globe and Mail of Toronto notes: "In 80 per cent of cases, one or more sectors of the community (including friends or colleagues of the offender, families of victims, other children, some victims) denied or minimized the abuse." Not surprisingly, "the report suggests that denial and disbelief allow abuse to continue." Some of the victims had told on the abusers. However, "parents of young victims were unwilling to accept what their children were telling them." The Globe and Mail quotes the report as saying. Similarly, a government official in Germany recently cited a report that child victims of sexual abuse have to approach adults with their story as many as seven times before they are believed. Isolation, rigidity, and obsessive secrecy are trademarks of the abusive!!!!! In the meantime we must do all we can to protect our children. They are so precious! Most parents will readily put their own safety at risk in order to protect their little children. (Compare John 15:13.) If we don't protect our children, the consequences can be horrible. If we do, we give them a wonderful gift—a childhood that feels innocent and free from calamity. They can feel just as the psalmist did, who wrote: "I will say to Jehovah: 'You are my refuge and my stronghold, my God, in whom I will trust.'"—Psalm 91:2. Thank you again wt website! ty ty ty for writing suce a powerful work! I especially liked, "lIsolation, rigidity, and obsessive secrecy—these unhealthy, unscriptural attitudes are trademarks of the abusive ////////////// ARE NOT THE ORG ITSELF THEN IN THIS CLASS? CLASS OF THE ISOLATING, RIGIDITY, AND OBSESSIVE SECRECY- AND ARE NOT THEY THEM SELVES CALLING THIS UNHEALTHY? UNSCRIPTUAL ATTITUDES?AND TRADMARKS OF THE ABUSIVE??????? me

To the ex-elder who responded to the current elder in KY: When the doctor collects all the evidence from the abused child, IF YOU don't alert the police, THEY will. The questions and arguments you present sound so ridiculous. A room in the back of the Kingdom Hall is probably not the place you want evidence to be stored or displayed. Seems to me you are more worried about making sure criminals don't get privileges than about making sure they are accountable in the eyes of our legal system. Case closed.

I AM AN EX JEHOVAHS WITNESS. I WAS BORN INTO THE RELIGION. I LEFT WHEN I WAS 18 YEARS OLD. I NEVER REALLY BELIEVED IN THE TEACHINGS AND MOST OF THE TIME I FELT GUILTY BECAUSE I WAS MADE TO FEEL THAT WAY...LIKE I WASN'T WORTHY. MY MOTHER WAS DISFFELLOWSHIPPED IN 91 AND I NEW WHAT WAS EXPECTED OF ME AND THERE WAS NO WAY I WAS GIVING UP MY MOTHER ...I LEFT AND HAVE BEEN HAPPY EVER SINCE ,,.

Eric Henri, Who associates with the Orleans West Congregation In Ottawa, Ontario, Canada. Is a repeated sexual predator and Pediphile, but he all married up now!! good front Eric. at the very least he should be forced to have a letter in his record file, but the society once again is failing to protect the public and the congregation from this type of SCUM. All I can hope is people see this and will want answers. ME Ottawa, Canada to soapbox i have to say you put up some great posts. but when you say to confront jw,s or the wt your contradicting yourself the whole idea is to confront the wt and let the word out . there wouldn,t be this big molesting problem in the wt if it was not for all thier lies after lies after lies the wt uses to glorfy themselves . that how thier getting away with with the sex cases. let me ask you when your on the street and see jws do you stop and tell them about all the molesters in the wt and how the wt lies to cover it up. i wonder if you got the love of christ to so. sitting hear posting all day and not going out and letting feelings be heard is almost a sin .let me tell you when i stop and expose the wt i,m a gentleman at the same time i,m not going to let anyone foricate with the word of god and belittle me . thats right i set them up just to show them how they lie to idolize the wt. did jesus not set up the pharisess.in thier lies . see when jw defenders come here and say bill should wear a clown suit etc. and i read it i,ll straighten them right out . it,s called a taste of thier own medicine. and i know jws can,t handle it but they love to dish it out!!!!this is war i,m doing my part to my ability. if all this abused lambs here posted the names of thier molseters and went to the district attorney office .maybe bill could get this thing going instead of just leaving this courageous man hanging out on a limb .i still stand by that any jw defender who stands behind the wt molester policy deserves the same sexual abuse done to them .what that verse an eye for an eye. that,s right i hit jws with question from left field i try to made them think .i understand wt brainwashing i give them something to think aboutand which ever lie a jw sees first in the wt if they use thier brains they will put it together and see the worst crime in all the wt is the sexual abuse of children. freedom in christ to all. john

TO NAN: Thank you for all the useful and "reality check" information. *TO ELDER J.B. - it is a comfort to know always that there are elders who are smart, compassionate, and don't see a conflict in caring for the sheep and loving Jehovah. The love is one and of the same.  TO JOHN FROM THE BRONX - thanks for toning it down - now I can read your words and understand what you are saying!!!!!!TO JESIKA: I know you are not feeling well - I am so sorry. It is important to remember that this is the place where silentlambs come to be not-so-silent, to express their rage at an "elder" or JW who defends the two witness policy or denies there is a problem is healthy and harmless given it is on "cyberspace" this is not the place for JW's to defend their position without compassion or be sarcastic to people who have been harmed or are trying to help and when they do, it triggers alot of justified rage. *I have found with my own issues I have had to take "a break" throughout the years. Please check how many new people (and storied) who support Bill and Silentlambs that keep posting!!!!! The rage never really goes away and will always reappear when the mind and heart can deal with it. You are in a "rest period" and don't want to be reminded of your own justified anger. A big big hug of comfort to you from me -Love, Claudine.....

John: I work and go out all the time. I run into the JW's and I do talk about Dateline!! I can't help myself. But I don't tell call them liars or names - I confront them with my concerns. And it never ever ceases to amaze me that they show absolutely no regard for my concerns - they defend the WTS as if it is God. The Evil that prevails is everywhere, not just the WTS - agree or not???? Read Nan's post about the justice system.... it is true what she says. I have a saying: Who is going to protect the children from the Child Protection Agency????? Story after story I have heard about Foster Parents molesting children, CPA ripping children away from their parents on bogus charges only to find later that the parents were innocent.  I don't think the WTS is any more evil than anything else - I think everything is confused, and only God cares about us. Yes, we want to confront the WTS and JW but with righteousness and righteous standards - while they judge with unrighteous standards. I think this is what I mean by not returning evil for evil - and Jesus replaced all of that "law" with love. I do not mean and neither did Jesus mean that we are to love - affectionately those who hurt and harm, or who are hypocrites. Never!!! But we do not want to be "like them" with hateful words or actions - it is hard and I am guilty of doing just that sometimes.  Bill has methodically within the "rules" of WTS and using Caesar's law to bring attention to the injustice of the two witness hypocrisy.  I hate what the WTS has done in the name of God and I hate that I was so seduced by it, that I lost my common sense and ability to think for myself. But I do not hate the witnesses- pissed off-yes. Most of them are seduced, fearful of their own thoughts and think that Jehovah is judging them for seeing the hypocrisy. Now the GB, is another story - they are deliberate in their actions and they scare the "hell" out of me. What they did to the Malawi's is unforgiveable-I have read letters to the Nazi's stating the WTS position on the Jews - it was horrible - evil horrible. But the average JW does not know - and I have no answer. If a mother whose own child was molested by an Elder - and no action was taken because the mother is loyal to Jehovah aka WTS to me there is nothing I can say that will change the meaningfulness of her experience. I have tried - and the wall is thick. I don't want a reputation of being a hater of JW's - then I can never speak with them. The Dateline/Panorama/the news articles/the march - if these save one child or parent past JW current JW or future JW from the unhealthy teaching of two witnesses to pedophilia - mission has been accomplished. The United States government is not protecting our children - the laws they are passing, the garbage they allow on television, what they allow to teach in the schools are all against family values. It is not just the WTS - but we all expected the WTS to have a higher value of standards. One of the biggest errors that I see is the WTS has taken over the family headship. Confront without being offensive is my motto, confront with Jehovah's standards - blameless - be blameless. Silentlambs and Bill Bowen, the Andersons, Franz all show a fine example of righteousness tempered with patience. Hey, I am Irish and French- holy smoley; I am a yeller, screamer and a fighter! Anyway, John I am sure that I have inner conflicts contradictions and say one thing and the next day have a different view. This whole subject has hit every aspect of my being and I am heartbroken. Claudine/soapbox

Claudine/soapbox-Becareful of how you compare things to the WTS and remember that all instituaitons are only real if people surrender power to them. Power is always surrendered not taken. Christian morality is easily preyed upon. Remember that. The statement that the WTS is no more or less/good or bad than anyone else is in my opinion bull. People in other groups do not act nor do what this particular group does. I refuse to accept that John has been 100% wrong. He is angry over what is and has has been going on. We have the potential to help him work through it. "John I do understand your anger. Many of us have been able to use it in productive ways. Stephen Hanssen has a good program. Just as JWD stated it is a knee jerk reaction to defend your faith. He is right. But I do not condone the conduct that others like him have done like slandering Bill. That is pathetic at best. (I am not saying that you did JWD) The same we all should work at not giving wantan insults to each other they are not productive, they are what is called agitation. They are "thought stoppers." I.e. "Evil for evil."When I was goated with the trinity issue I said no period. Minus trying to put words in my mouth JWD accepted that discussion over. That is not the issue here. Zombies and "evil plans" are not why I am here. Public awarness is why I stick around. When I see the propaganda machine start up Like now like in May I will be sounding off.-SEQ

I would never ever wish this evil upon anyone - not as a parent or as the child who has been sexually abused or raped. This is where I disagree with John - there is no useful meaningfulness is this horrible experience. It ruins lives, precious beautiful children and their families. There must be another way for those who support pedophiles to have empathy and compassion for the ones that are hurting and have been harmed. Even parents who are JW's lack this empathy for their own children out of the fear of displeasing Jehovah God and bring shame upon his name. My whole family has shown empathy to my children's abuser without showing a shred of empathy to my children. My siblings think that I am wrong to not "understand" about my brother who did this to my children. None of us are JW's - and I was the only one who studied. This loyalty to a pervert can be conjured up for "any reason" but to do it for Jehovah is way out in left field. I won't speak to my siblings anymore - out of loyalty to my children. I spoke my "peace" - and if they choose to not hear there is nothing I can do.  The irony of all of this is they will probably read about the WTS and call me a hypocrite because they will think that I support the JW's - oh well...I thank Jehovah that He saw fit to teach me right from wrong and gave me a heart that is receptive to right and wrong. I thank him for this clarity every single day and scrutinize myself so as to always show my gratitude. I don't take it for granted. It is a fine line between being righteous and self-righteous. I cross it all the time. C.E.

Your web site is great and a true "window" on what has been going on. I live in Spain and have just come back from the U.K. where the shock waves about the Panorama programme were initially great, but all seems to have been calmed down again after reports that the whole programme was put on by apostates and that "Jehovah will sort everything out"....so once again everyone is bending the knee to direction from the platform. I was a JW for 28 years and I have not been associating for the last 2 years for so many different doctrinal reasons, but I am so concerned about this whole issue, and I wish you all the strength you need to deal with the situation. Perhaps Jehovah is using you to sort thing out. After all HIS name is involved!!!!

Regarding the comments - Perhaps Jehovah is using you to sort thing out. After all HIS name is involved //Welcome to thesilentlamb site! And a special thank you for the comments that you have made! HIS name has been involved, in this and many other issues close to this, the two witnesses policy the org is hiding behind HIS word to excuse that! Regarding booting out the ones who wants to help open the eyes and hearts to this issue again, the org is using HIS word to excuse that! Not only that but even to the point of putting more burden by deceiving the followers of their org into believing everyone that wants to help the children are apostates for doing so.... When if anyone cares to look, their own Awake mag, in 1993 that we have to do ALL WE CAN TO PROTECT THE CHILDREN! As soon as Mr. Bowen and the Andersons proceed with what the Awake told them to do, which was ALL THEY CAN DO TO PROTECT THE CHILDREN they get the royal wt boot! bonnielyn

From the Abused active happy JW (1) First, not all abused "silent lambs" as you call us, YES US, leave the organization and embark on a smear campaign as a full time vocation. (Answer) YOU ARE SO RIGHT. You can and should deal with events in the way that is best for you. However this is not a smear campaign. There are many documented cases here and the WTS point of view is not being taken out of context. “Smear campaign? No./Full time? No.” (2) I object to all the negativity and insensitivity that is consistently displayed by JW detractors. (Answer) How is being against the policy of "child molesting, Spousal abuse, and abusing the disfellowshipping powers being a detractor?” (I admit I think that the disfellowshipping thing is cruel and anti everything that the Jehovah’s Witnesses stand for!) (3) Am I evil? Am I brainwashed? Am I stupid? Am I a moron? Am I a zombie? (Answer) I don’t know are you? (4) Not all abused JW’s take you road you have taken, for your information. (Answer) Nor should you have to. Nor should you have to be silenced! (5) I will continue to proclaim the Kingdom of Jehovah door to door (Answer) Maybe I will come with you and share “Crisis of Conscience.” (6) I am not brainwashed as you claim I am (Answer) If you were how would you know?!!!!!!! The Elder (1) I am currently serving as an elder here in a Kentucky congregation. I am relatively young in years (35 to be exact) and have served in 5 congregations already. (Answer) Welcome, I upfront said that I am not a witness nor have ever been. I do however carry 10 years of experience dealing with a JW family. Why were you not honest and upfront in the beginning? Why did you feel the need to covet who you were? There is no threat of violence here so why not be forthcoming? (Glad you were honest though.) (2) I have gathered from posts in this room and from Bill Bowens own comments it make it seem like their is 2 pedophiles in every congregation. (Answer) Where did you read that? I have not found that anywhere. (3) It is also their right to take the matter to police we would not discourage that. (Answer) Then why disfellowship Bill, Erin, and others? Would you have done that? You are not saying what would happen AFTER they go to the police. What you do to them? (4) I do not know if this is fair to the accused if no witnesses can be provided to validate the claim. (Answer) They have evidence? Is this not just restating the 2 witness rule? (5) Thats all we can do our hands would be tied. (Answer) In my opinion anyone who did not rescue a “lamb,” anyone who covered up a crime has blood on their hands. (6) We offer alot of support for each other (Answer) Even pagans due that. How do you see the outside world? How do you treat those who do not or no longer share your policies or views? (7) You had a bad experience, you felt it wasn’t handled properly and you left. (Answer) Bill was railroaded he did not leave! How many more are out there. Once shunned poop has more value than even your own flesh and blood. 20 years of service, 40 years of friendship would be flushed, and for what the hope that maybe the person will come crawling back. (8) Especially having served in so many congregations. There is a lot of good out there. (Answer) Out of how many total world wide organizations have you served? 5 is a rather small number. (9) But for me to leave what I know is the truth especially in comparing other religions (which I have done quite extensively before I became a witness) does not solve anything. (Answer) Is this not violating what “Stark” says? (10) Please understand my views as I am sensitive to yours. (Answer) Sensitive how? Will you speak up for Bill? Do you support the action against him? Do you support the current GB position? Why?

to seq. your on the money about bastardizing the scriptures twisted any way to protect what i see as an evil money hungry soul hungry empire. as for jr brown he,s a pharessie and hypocrite with his watch me twist jws into a pretzel stance on sexual misbehavior. he,s leaving the wt open to some sharp lawyer with his ludicriss statements just wait it will happen thats a prophecy my record is better than the fds. and your so right in the ignorance wt defenders show and that,s because they did not prove all things true. they have to open thier mind and do thier HOMEWORK.that the only way to see the light there are wt articles on this try 3 8 2001 what can we learn from history .and apply it to the wt. and i will stand with you and never budge on child molesters no matter weather people don,t like that i use that wt tactic of intimidation back on them when needed did the wt play by the rules when they shafted mr. bowen . freedom inchrist to All. john

soap box were almost on the same page as for the govt and child protection agency at least they try. i see the same problems with these institutions as you but i know my grandmother was in an orphanage in the 20,s and it ruined her she never told me much but it was obvious she was hurt there.maybe i gave the wrong impression i just don't stop and call jws liars i measure my words i tell the same things as you.my concerns how the wt has hurt people. and mislead them and i,m pretty good i try different topics to find thier concerns then i capitalize on it. i give wt articles and dates so they can look it up themselves.i also leave my phone # you be suprised some do call and ask for more info.i go as far with them as thier willing to go. but there are jws i've debated hundreds of time like my father and his friends some are very knowledgable i bust them almost all the time. so now i have a factual right at this point to call them liars and the z____e word. because i've proved my point and they can't honestly back up the wt with lying. and my father knows it. i know i,m causing problems in the co-op city cong. as well as else were cause i got jw asking questions the elders po,s co,s etc. can,t or don,t want to answer . i know because i here it through the grape vine .you know your making an impact when you run into a jw defender in harlem and they know your name . i would love to get some names of some jw child molesters in my area to expose them and cause more trouble . i would have no problem going to court to help the abused and expose the wt. see thats what i,m all about and i,m an asset to the silent lambs . and i'll try to save the z word for jws that i have grown to love over the years. but sometimes these loved ones need tough love...freedom in christ to all john

CJ, If you do come back in here, I again want to tell you, thank you for writing me the post and sharing that you are an Elder, it meant a lot to me, that you would expose yourself in such a way. My earlier posts have covered most of my topics of issue, so this is just a special one just to say thanks! maybe once you found out that I was never a baptized jw, you didn't feel inclined to answer my questions, that's okay! I understand completely where you feel your loyalty has to lay! Regarding your comment about leaving what you know is the truth, I've not left the truth at all! I've just learned of more truth and the hint of more to be seen! I would never want to sway someone to change how they spiritually believe, their faith, that's why I don't even try to talk to my mother about this, it only upsets her and now in her older years with health problems... I do not want to show her dishonor... One thing she did say that scared me to death though was that 'if this faith is directed to satan, I am happy and at peace and I need to be that way' and all I asked her was that isn't it true that if it seems not from HIM then it's from the bad guy? and this issue with the child abusers is not from HIM right? I didn't know how to answer her with that comment! Anyway, thanks again for your posts to me... bonnielyn what can we do to help the lambs get justice after many many years of torment and cover ups. -- Reply: For starters, Keep the pressure on the media to keep this issue in the news and before the public (write them, send them URLs, newspaper articles from this site, etc.), who in turn keeps the pressure on the law enforcement agencies and the court/legal systems. Write your politicians. Also, write letters to the WTS/GB. Also, see the "HELP SILENT LAMBS" button on the Home page.

YES, YES, YES!!! IF YOU'RE UP AT 3 AM, HEAD OUT TO THE STORE AND GET A COPY OF THE SUNDAY (8-11-02) EDITION OF THE NEW YORK TIMES! THERE WILL BE AN EXTENSIVE ARTICLE ON THE SILENT LAMBS!!! HURRY & HURRAY!!! CAN'T WAIT TO SEE IT!!!!!
John, you crack me up. You wrote: "you know your making an impact when you run into a jw defender in harlem and they know your name." -- Tell me, were you this "zealous" when you were a JW? (I forget if you were ever a JW or not, I know your father is). Either way, you certainly deserve the title of "Pioneer" with your current street work! :-) I could tell even thru your anger you were "cool." Glad you are leaving out the curse words, though. It's easy for any of us to go a little wild sometimes, especially about this sex abuse subject, and the WT-machine. You must have a mind like a steel-trap being able to remember so many WT-literature details AND scriptures. Keep up the good work and thanks for supporting Silent Lambs. /SLC

THREE CHEERS for whoever replied the thought-provoking questions and answers to "From the Abused active happy JW (1)First..." THANK YOU! When I am too tired to write much, I sure do appreciate reading how others express themselves, and enunciate the facts so well. Thanks again. /SLC

For those who can't wait till Sunday... OUSTED MEMBERS CONTENT JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES' ABUSE POLICY HIDES OFFENSES: by By LAURIE GOODSTEIN * William Bowen always considered himself a devout Jehovah's Witness. As a child, he felt it was his duty to go door to door passing out the church's magazine, "The Watchtower." Later, as an elder in his Kentucky congregation, he said he saw it as his duty to inform church officials that a fellow elder had abused a child. * But when Mr. Bowen contacted the church's headquarters in Brooklyn, he says, he was rebuffed. Frustrated by the church's inaction and by its confidentiality provisions, which he said prevented him from sharing the information with others, Mr. Bowen resigned as an elder in December 2000. A year later, he started a group to monitor child sexual abuse in the church. * Late last month, Mr. Bowen, 44, was EXCOMMUNICATED FROM THE CHURCH. Behind a locked door, with PLASTIC BAGS TAPED OVER THE WINDOWS TO WARD OFF ONLOOKERS, he said, three church elders meeting at the church's Kingdom Hall in Draffenville, Ky., found him guilty of "causing divisions." * The punishment was "DISFELLOWSHIPING" COMPLETE SHUNNING. * In the past three months, four other people have been expelled from the Jehovah's Witnesses after accusing it of covering up the sexual abuse of children by its members. For Mr. Bowen and other critics of church policies on sexual abuse, the expulsions are part of a concerted effort to keep such abuses quiet. * Expelled Witnesses say the church's own policies and culture conspire to conceal abuse. A panel of church elders, all men, meets in secret to decide each case, a procedure which critics say prevents members from knowing there is an abuser in their midst. To prove an accusation, a child must have a witness to the incident, a condition that is usually impossible to meet. * "This is evidence for the world to see how the Jehovah's Witnesses treat abuse survivors and those who try to protect them," said Mr. Bowen. "They silence them with the threat of disfellowshipping." * J. R. Brown, director of the public information office at church headquarters, the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, in Brooklyn, said the church had exemplary policies for handling sexual abuse, which were based on biblical standards and had been widely published in church magazines. * "We're not trying to say hearings as an extension of our shepherding work as ministers. In other words, WE'RE THERE TO SAVE A PERSON'S SOUL. IN THESE CASES WE ARE NOT GOING TO BE VINDICTIVE BECAUSE THESE ARE OUR BROTHERS, AND WE WOULD HOPE THAT THEY WOULD CHANGE." * If the accused denies the allegation, the victim's testimony alone is not sufficient unless there is at least one other witness to the act.

The church says its policy is based on a scriptural injunction in Deuteronomy 19:15 that says two or three witnesses are necessary to prove a man has sinned.  Heidi Meyer, a third-generation Jehovah's Witness in Annandale, Minn., said she went to her elders in 1994, when she was 15, to say that from the ages of 10 to 13 she had been repeatedly molested by a fellow Witness eight years her senior, the older brother of a friend. The only eyewitness was her brother, who had once seen the man grab her buttocks as she got out of a car.
* The elders asked explicit questions that made her uncomfortable, she said. According to an internal Witness document "PAY ATTENTION TO YOURSELF AND TO ALL THE FLOCK," the elders must determine in which category the accusation fits: IF IT WAS "UNCLEANNESS," A ONE-TIME TOUCHING ABOVE
THE WAIST; "LOOSE CONDUCT," TOUCHING BELOW THE WAIST OR MORE THAN ONCE ABOVE; OR THE
MOST SEVERE, "PORNEIA," DIRECT SEXUAL STIMULATION OR ACTIVITY RESULTING IN ORGASM. EACH OFFENSE CARRIES DIFFERENT PENALTIES, with the most severe for porneia.  The man she was accusing insisted that Ms. Meyer had misinterpreted what happened. The elders agreed.  "I was expecting spiritual guidance," Ms. Meyer said. "I was expecting them to genuinely, sincerely attempt to find justice and protect the rest of the congregation from this same thing happening. And none of that happened."
 She, like several other alleged victims and their relatives, said in interviews that the elders warned her against reporting the abuse or talking about it with other members.  "They told me if I spoke about it with anybody, I needed to be careful because I could face a judicial committee for gossip or slander," she said. "If they felt I had committed that sin, I would be disfellowshipped."  Ms. Meyer says she learned only years later that Amber Long, another young woman in the congregation, had at age 12 gone to the elders with her parents to report that she had been molested by the same man. Ms. Long, who is now 23, said she and her parents received a letter from the Witnesses advising her to "leave it in Jehovah's hands."
 They said we shouldn't hold ill feelings about our brothers," Ms. Long said. "Since there weren't two eyewitnesses, they said there wasn't much they could do."  Neither Ms. Long nor Ms. Meyer is still active in the Jehovah's Witnesses. On July 2, the two women filed suit against the man they accuse of molesting them Derek Lindala, 30, of South Haven, Minn. the local congregation, and Jehovah's Witness headquarters. Mr. Lindala did not respond to a message left at his home seeking comment. ********************
Barbara Anderson, of Tullahoma, Tenn., said that when she and her husband lived and worked at church headquarters in Brooklyn in the 1990's, she was asked to gather information about child abuse in the congregations.
She said she handed over to church leaders dozens of letters complaining about how cases were handled. For her it was a revelation. "Jehovah's Witnesses like to say that we have one of the most crime-free organizations," Mrs. Anderson said. "But all problems are taken to the elders, and the elders keep them quiet." She said that the documents prompted an internal debate among church leaders, and that when there was no action, she left Headquarters disheartened in 1993, after 11 years of volunteering.

Carl A. Raschke, a professor of religious studies at the University of Denver who has written about the Jehovah's Witnesses, said the group was no different from many other insular religions that aspire to theological and moral purity.

"Groups that tend to be very tight-knit and in-grown historically have a higher incidence of sexual abuse and incest," Dr. Raschke said. "That's an ethnological fact. When a religion tries to be thoroughly holy or godly, it's not going to acknowledge that people aren't living up to the ideals of the faith." On July 25, Mrs. Anderson was EXCOMMUNICATED. A week later her husband, Joe, who had earlier resigned as AN ELDER AFTER 42 YEARS, WAS ALSO EXPELLED. "It is inconceivable to think elders would investigate an allegation of murder to determine guilt or innocence, so why would we investigate an allegation of child abuse?" Mr. Anderson wrote in his resignation letter. "THIS IS JUST NOT OUR FIELD OF EXPERTISE. We are ministers of God, not police." For a change of pace, how about some secular history with a twist... ----- "Beware the (GB) leader who bangs the drums of (theocratic) war in order to whip the (JW) citizenry into a patriotic (WTS) fervor, for (WTS) patriotism is indeed a double-edged sword. This both emboldens the blood, just as it NARROWS THE MIND. And when the drums of (theocratic) war have reached a fever pitch and the blood boils with hate and the mind has CLOSED, the (GB) leader will have no need in seizing the rights of the citizenry. Rather, the (JW) citizenry, infused WITH FEAR and BLINDED by (WTS) patriotism, will OFFER UP ALL THEIR RIGHTS unto the (GB) leader and gladly so. How do I know? For this is what I have done. And I am Caesar." -- Julius Caesar

See Sunday's New York Times! --- 28 Years continued... "after reports that the whole programme was put on by apostates and that "Jehovah will sort everything out"...so once again everyone is bending the knee to direction from the platform. ---- Reply: What was SEQ saying about the propaganda machine rolling out? (see her/his above quote). What JW/28 Years says is THE PERFECT EXAMPLE of the WT-Propaganda Machine In Action! Oh How I wish the current elders/JWs could SEE SEE SEE this blinding activity by the GB/WTS! (blame it on Satan, blame it on his tool, the media, blah blah blah -- such baloney!). --- Isn't it funny though, the TIMING of the Dateline show. B.Bowen and others were waiting since late last summer for it to air. Some supporters even began to believe it was never really going to happen. Yet, "by Jehovah's will" it did NOT AIR UNTIL AFTER the Catholic Church scandal erupted, which made the WTS LOOK ALL THE WORSE for bashing the C.Church all along over THEIR SEX SINS, and then, WHAMO! the WTS faces public humiliation by having their own sex sins exposed. Personally, I think the TIMING WAS PERFECT. It also would explain why WTS is more DESPERATE THAN EVER TO COVER THEIR AIMAGE, because of this very fact, that they POINTED THE FINGER SO MANY TIMES at the sex sins of the C.Church, all the while denying their own. Shame Shame. And now the NY Times will be out in a few hours! Hot Dog! /SLC

Nan! THANK YOU for speaking up! I only know of one molester, but it really gets on my nerves these JW who keep trying to say it is "only a few." Bill Bowen and Barb & Joe Anderson know of hundreds (if not thousands) of other cases personally. And I TRUST the are telling the truth about this. The WTS even ADMITTED to the database. So how is it these JWs like CJ and JWD try to say there are "only a few." It is also true what you say how abuse destroys lives, and causes immense emotional torment. To cover it up and/or be told to keep silent is rubbing salt in an open wound. So, again, THANK YOU, Nan, for speaking up and showing everyone that THERE ARE MANY MORE as you, sadly, have had to experience firsthand. Love/SLC

"Proud to be a JW" asked "What would you say to me if I showed up to one of your rallies? Would you invite me to speak?" I don't see why not. Why not go to the March on 9/27 in NY and find out? The point is not whether an abused person is/was/stays a JW or not, the ISSUE, as all current JWs do not seem to let SINK IN, IS THE WTS POLICY REGARDING THE MOLESTERS, THE WTS' COVERING UP OF THE MOLESTERS, THE WTS' ABUSE OF THE VICTIMS THEMSELVES, THE WTS' DF'ING OF THE VICTIMS & THEIR ADVOCATES, THE WTS' DENIAL OF THE ISSUES, THE WTS TELLING ELDERS TO CALL LEGAL RATHER THAN GO STRAIGHT TO POLICE, THE WTS ENCOURAGING THE JWS TO SUPPORT THE PEDOPHILES IN THE TRIALS, etc. etc. etc. THESE ARE THE POINTS. Read JB/Elder's post, or Buster's posts, or all the past posts asking about the scriptures used to "do nothing" about the molesters (if the WT wants to use Mat. 18:16, then why don't they use verse 17, etc.?) The fact that you, personally, are doing so well is a fine thing, and we are happy for you. But how can you sit idly by and condone the behavior of your "spiritual" leaders? If you, as an abuse survivor, knows firsthand the damage it did to your psyche, then I would think you would be FIRST IN LINE to assist the abuse survivors who did not fare as well as you, and you would be writing letters to the society asking they COME CLEAN, APOLOGIZE, ACT LIKE MEN INSTEAD OF MICE, QUIT DENYING/COVERING UP, CHANGE THEIR POLICY, etc. etc. And, Since you live in such a nice home, have you signed up for the "Friends of the Lambs" network (see "HELP SILENT LAMBS" button on the home page for complete details). As for "JW Detractors," I swear. Here's another area where current JWs keep MISSING THE OBVIOUS: It is YOUR OWN GB WHO ARE THE DETRACTORS. THEY SET THE PATTERN, THEY MADE THE "RULES," THEY ARE THE ONES WHO DENIED & COVERED UP, THEY ARE THE ONES WHO TELL ALL OF YOU WHAT TO DO (from the top down). THEY ARE THE NEGATIVE & INSENSITIVE ONES WHO HUSHED UP THE VICTIMS (of course rather than acting like MEN and owning up to their mistakes, they continue to polish it over for the outside world via the PR Dept. and they are experts at providing the "fluff food" for the JWs to swallow, hook/line/sinker). Keep reading here and elsewhere. You'll get the REAL PICTURE sooner or later. Once you know the WHOLE STORY about the WTS, then please come back in six months or so, give it time to digest, because it WILL BE PAINFUL. It's something each person has to learn on their own, and it won't happen until you can allow yourself to SEE IT. --- There, now, nobody called you a moron or zombie, etc. Happy? This wasn't so bad was it? Peace/SLC

I disagree this site has change "so much." When I first found Silent Lambs last Fall (around October or November), there were gobs and gobs of angry posts, and I was also upset by the negativity, since I was still in WT-Dreamland. So I continued to defend the JWs for months thereafter. The point is: There were upset/angry posts HERE ON THIS SITE THEN ALSO. So I don't see why everybody thinks it has changed so much. --- Since the Dateline airing, I finally allowed myself to open up more to what the xJWs were saying by reading tons of more WTS DETAILS (their OWN literature, quotes, their own "behind the scenes" ways of dealing with things, their witch-hunts, UN, all the CHANGES re: blood, military, generation, etc. etc. The changes in the blood policy really killed me!) So now you could say I am an anti-WTS/GB also (not necessarily anti-individual JWs). Because I have now READ ENOUGH to KNOW the WTS I thought I "loved blindly and loyally" is NOT WHAT IT APPEARS TO BE. And then the Panorama show, and then how they DF Barbara and Joe Anderson and Bill Bowen, more covering up rather than ACTING LIKE MEN, SHOWING HUMILITY, APOLOGIZING FOR THEIR ERROR, and CHANGING. But No, they just dig their heels in deeper and deeper, and like COWARDS hide behind their phoney-baloney PR Dept. and lawyers. It REALLY IS SICKENING and enough to make anybody upset. So again, I disagree this site has changed that much, at least from Oct./Nov/ '01 until now (maybe it WAS different BEFORE that time). The point of this site is NOT ONLY FOR LAMB SUPPORT, BUT TO ALSO BRING ABOUT CHANGE CHANGE CHANGE IN WTS POLICY. So if people are ticked off about it, who can blame them? Also, imho, whether the posts sound too upsetting or not DEPENDS ALOT ON WHAT MOOD WE OURSELVES ARE IN when we read them. Some days the "harsh reality" of it all is too much to bear, and it IS best to take a breather from it all. Other days we feel stronger and can stand up and fight. Nobody can feel strong all the time. War IS ugly. But who started the war? THE MEN WHO WOULD RATHER LIE THAN CHANGE, that's who. /SLC

WELL SAID, RICH, & WELCOME: "the majority of JWs seem to be on what i can only describe as 'auto pilot'. (THAT'S FOR SURE, AND I USED TO BE EXACTLY THE SAME, SO I CAN SPEAK FROM EXPERIENCE) ... well the problem of covering up abuse isn't just about '2 witnesses' etc, its about the whole attitude thats developed by the FDS through all their dogma (RIGHT ON, RICH! THAT IS SO EXACTLY THE POINT THE JW Defenders REFUSE TO SEE) ... i have a bible trained conscience not a FDS trained conscience (PERFECT DESCRIPTION!) ... i was disgusted by that GB member towards the end of the Panorama program. to me he just summed up their entire attitude by what he said. (SO TRUE MY FRIEND, SO TRUE... WHY DIDN'T HE AT LEAST SAY SOMETHING LOVING, LIKE HE WAS SORRY FOR ANY PAIN OR SUFFERING, OR SOMETHING!!! HE COULD HAVE SAID

SLC, Bill needed substantion as to who and what caused "divisions" since we choose not to go because of them, I think that is a more powerful statement then those still attending. Bill wrote and thanked me for my letter, and he knows our standing and the reasons why. We wanted Bill to have the information he needed for his fight. If it helps great if it doesn't it sure felt good to get some of the pain out of my system. As far as the New York Times article if that isn't akin to stepping in poo and pretending it's not "your " shoe that's smelling I don't know what is LOL. What is so friggin hard about "doing the right thing", children should be protected why is that such a hard concept. They claim to love Jehovah but have no real love amongst themselves, it's sick and twisted. If they would only say "we've done this wrong, children are the main priority and we will from hence forth change they way we deal with this issue." But then they would have to be of honest heart to change now wouldn't they. Sheila

I just caught up on today's posts and my jaw is still on my desk. I cannot believe the post that I just read from an active Witness. Normally I feel deferential toward Bonnielyn, but you actually wrote: "I would never want to sway someone to change how they spiritually believe." Didn't that strike anyone else? - a JW that respects others' spirituality and personal decisions - and wouldn't try to change them. If I got the sense correctly, I think award for being closest to a crossroad. I'm not deriding you, I'm just stunned. - Buster

From the Dead Horse Whipping department: Just one more comment to CJ - the Elder. A person would need to be under strict control to have the audacity to put themselves forward as a spiritual leader (I think you may prefer Shepherd) and still be able to write - seemingly with a straight face, stuff like, "their right to take the matter to police we would not discourage." No positive let's get you some help? But you wouldn't stand in the way of their actually getting actual help from someone that could actually help them. Real big of you CJ - that is quite a load spiritual leadership you got goin' there slick. Here's another gem, "if the accused does not admit guilt we can do nothing in a judicial way" Pair that with, "our hands would be tied," and you have the recital from a man that has been so indoctrinated that he would cite Society directives instead of deciding that he would help. Yup, you got the GB marching orders straight. I just hope beyond all hope that some poor, innocent 12-year-old victim finds someone else to ask for help and guidance. - Buster

to slc when my father joined the wt in 72 i was 12 even at that age i saw right through the wt. i,m not glorifying the catholics but i did learn something about god in 5 yrs of school there. no matter how many times the nuns wacked me with a stick for not doing my homework maybe they were right my spelling might be better. they never told me if i don,t do my homework or go to church god was going to destroy me. i never was a jw and i never promoted wt teachings. but i remember about 75 and all the creators promise for the generation of 1914 ie any awake before nov.
1995 pg 4 now let me ask what creator is the awake talking about we know it can,t be the creator in the bible even the nwt. because GOD CAN NOT LIE !!! so you ask what creator can it be ?? lets open our minds and see any reasonable person as the truth book says will look at all the evidents and then make an informed decision. i know your asking what about the sheeps and the goats well you have to go back to thoses great flashes of light judge rutherford got from the angels at the 1935 convention in st. louis on how the seperating working started then now research the hundreds of times the wt called this bible truth until nov. 1995 now since the creator of the bible cannot lie do i have any arguments with that ?? if you believe in jesus i don,t think so . so who can be the creator of such teachings ?? i won,t give the answer but i,ll give a clue W___H__O___R if you can figure this one out you can win more alot more than pat sajack gives away. freedom in christ to all. john

To John. thanks for your comment. the WT cant bring me back to something i've never been to! i keep an open mind on anything that we cant be sure about in the scriptures, even if the WT says 'it means this'. other than those things i believe that JWs as a people do hold the truth of the bible.  i said that i only consider myself as part of my congregation and not part of the society. well i believe that to be the best option because i know Jehovahs spirit operates in congs such as mine. we used to have a woman come to our meetings who was involved in spiritism. she was clairvoyant and so could see spirits outside the KH. these spirits would end up going into peoples cars and follow bros and sis home. but never once would they come into the KH. i think that just goes to prove my point. to suggest that the WT has demonic powers would cause all congs not to have the blessing of God's spirit. you may well know more about the WT than I, but as i say im not part of them. true there may well be good christians out there in other churches, and christ will judge them as he will us. i will end by saying that there will be many JWs who will not see Gods kingdom and there will be those unfairly treated by the society who have been stumbled and forced to leave who will be saved. i wont judge anyone who believes in Christ, even if their attitude stinks. its not right for me or anyone including you John to do that. if you suggest that bad attitudes arent found in other churches, then that would be a naive view. you cant attack JWs just because of who they are. if you call yourself a christian then you should show love to those who believe in Christ even if you dont agree with their attitude.  if the WT has badly sinned against God, well he will punish them very severely and he will allow those who have worshiped in spirit and truth to escape. those who have been wronged will see vindication from Jehovah. i hope that all those who have been abused and suffered for righteousness will keep Jehovah and Christ in their lives, because vengeance belongs to Jehovah. if anyone wants to email then send emails to: thereflex84@hotmail.com. Jehovah God is now exposing the WTS for what it really is. They should be ashamed and embarssed and repentant before God.....but i guess what they're really worried about is their MONEY.

Buster, I am not to sure what your post meant regarding my comment 'not wanting to sway anyone's spiritual beliefs. If I understood it correctly you are thinking that I am a JW, I'm not. I was raised to believe their 'truth' I have felt for years that I failed them and by doing that failed HIM. What I have found regarding the UN, new blood policies, the stocks that the org has in a company that has a contract with the Navy, and most importantly the public statements admitting to sending 'known' pedophiles to the doors of unsuspecting children, all of these and the lamb's case have allowed me to acknowledge that it was NOT I that failed them, but them that failed HIM! My comment was directed to the spirit of someone. I will always hope and have faith that HE is in everyone, who truly believes and loves HIM, so no I would never want to sway anyone' SPIRITUAL beliefs, what they have been taught, what their mind is telling their spirit, well that's another matter altogether, If their minds see that their what their SPIRITS know, then... I am also not a teacher, if I'm not mistaken the bible specifically says to be careful when teaching the word, it will go harder on those that do.I do not need it anymore harder than it already is! So, either I'm confuseed :-P by your post or visa-versa With the spirit of LOVE bonnielyn

Dear Help! Re-reading your post has made me confused, I had thought the abuse has happened recently may not, by the sounds of it, it might be the confusion regarding the WT policies and the lamb site that you need help with. I am sorry if I got the wrong impression by your cry for HELP I reacted to that. I hope that your child is okay and if this happened awhile ago and it's the issue's here and with the policy that you need help with then I'm sorry for my jumping the gun so to speak! I am still here and we are all here, if you want, you can still email me. and please let us know that your child is okay! or as okay as he/she can be after an abuse! love, me

Regarding - How's THAT for some indoctrinated WTS Propaganda - Oh how that has hit home! Here I am, telling myself still that the things that I don't understand in the word are not for me to question! I will feel blessed though, that I do not depend on another to explain them to me - I just figure that HE has not given me the understanding as of yet and with faith HE will in HIS time! Am I just to hard headed, not to depend of ANYONE else but HIM to lead me with understanding? Is that not what the word itself says? With faith one CAN move a mountain! Well, how about a Tower too!!! :-)

Dear TIP/tippyk9@yahoo.com: Glad you find this site helpful. There is no official "newsletter," but you can sign up for the email list, to be sent any info as it is dispersed by Silent Lambs. To get on the email list, please go to the HOME PAGE, SEE the two rows of "BLUE BARS" across the TOP of the Home Page, and click on the one that says "ADD ME TO EMAIL." That will open up a blank email in your email program addressed to: Editor@silentlambs.org  And that is how you get on the Silent Lambs Email List.  As far as your generous offer to assist in producing a "newsletter," I would suggest that you contact DIRECTLY the owner of the Silent Lambs website, Mr. Bill Bowen, with your offer, since I'm sure all offers of assistance are appreciated. Please again go to the HOME PAGE, and NOW PLEASE SEE the "BLUE BARS" that run along the LEFT COLUMN of the HOME PAGE. The second one down says, "HELP SILENT LAMBS" which provides specific ways you can help, and/or it tells you how to contact the site owner to offer whatever assistance you can, i.e., write to: Assistance@SilentLambs.org  Thanks again!
Dateline, Panorama, and now the New York Times article!!! I believe its high time we recognize something. Recognize the Hand of God being involved. It is clear, Jehovah God is USING Bill Bowens & Company as His instruments of destruction! Who would doubt that now, I ask? God is using Bill Bowens, the Anderson family and others just like Jehovah God used "Gideon & 300 men" to rout 135,000 midianites-amalekites-easterner invaders to Israel. A seemingly impossible feat for a small band of brave souls. (Judges 7:12; 8:10) But Jehovah gave the victory, which was foretold in a "dream" and told to Gideon. The "dream" indicated Jehovah had "given the entire camp" of the enemy into the hands of "Gideon" and his small band of 300 men! Gideon understood the "dream" and "worshiped" God after hearing it. Because he knew then he truly had God's full backing for the defeat of this enemy of such larger proportions. (Judges 7:12-15)So, what do we learn from this? The WTS is much larger and more powerful than any one person. It would seem impossible, looking back a year ago, that the things we are seeing, are a reality now. I'm sure when Bill started, it couldn't have imagined just how things were going to turn out. But, he knew he had to stand for "right", and somehow trust in Jehovah that things would work out. And they have! So what do we learn from all of this? Doesn't true victory come from Jehovah!From what we are seeing, learning, Bill Bowens & company are relying upon Jehovah completely and God is blessing their efforts. They are succeeding because they recognize that they are just like the warrior "Gideon and his 300 men" in this battle against the Governing Body. (Judges 7:1-7)They know, it is Jehovah that has granted success. No. Jehovah is not using big fancy Circuit Overseers and District Overseers, Missionaries and Bethel "heavies" (who continue "hide behind the scenes", but who are all proven by now, yellow-belly COWARDS in reality as everyone can see). Not but Jehovah is using the "lowly one", the humble ones. Jehovah is using a very small humble group of brave, alert men & women to accomplish this great "salvation". Jehovah is "repowering" the "worldwide organization of JWs of wrongdoing, Governing Body and all, using only a few good men and women. And rightly, God does this so that we, all Jehovah's Witnesses, would have to know that it is He (God Almighty) who is behind all of this. And it is He that has gained the victory using His Almighty Power against the "evil axis of Brooklyn Bethel". God is showing us all, that He does not condone the Governing Body's work's of evil. He is showing that any wickedness done in His Name done by the WTS, even if it is "concealed", will during a time of judgment be fully exposed! (Luke 8:17; 1 Timothy 5:24)So then, the battle is "Jehovah's and Gideon's". Now we must ask, who will be brave enough to JOIN the "silentlambs" now, and be on "Jehovah's side" of the issue? Like Moses asked, "WHO IS ON JEHOVAH'S SIDE -- TO ME!" (Exodus 32:26; Judges 7:16-18)Finally, for jgibson@hamburg.heartland.net, who asked, "Where shall we go", AFTER we leave the WTS? The answer: Jesus promised his disciples, "where there are at least two or more gathered", he would be in their midst. So a congregation is a group of people, 2 or more, meeting together to "incite to love and fine works". And it only takes two people to do this. So we are already a "congregation" of Jehovah's worshipers. (Matt. 18:20; Hebrews 10:24, 25) We are those who wish to "flee away from idolatry" of the WTS. We continue to meet here, at "silentlambs", in the interest of protecting innocent children. We meet right here, where we can freely "speak truth to one another" as God wants. Jehovah has provided you with many faithful brothers, RIGHT HERE. So then, you have all that you need. You do not need to go back to wickedness at the kingdom halls. You are where you need to be right now. (Zech. 8:16; 1 Cor. 10:14)
also is for the purpose of "schmoozing" the JWs themselves. ---- HOWEVER, what does JESUS think about PUBLIC RELATIONS statements by his so-called "earthly organization"? He says, "TAKE GOOD CARE NOT TO PRACTICE YOUR RIGHTEOUSNESS IN FRONT OF MEN IN ORDER TO BE OBSERVED BY THEM; OTHERWISE YOU WILL HAVE NO REWARD WITH YOUR FATHER WHO IS IN THE HEAVENS." (Mt. 6:1) ---- What you refer to was a last minute PR "SAVE FACE" POLICY put out AFTER the WTS' hide was already in a sling. It did NOT come about as a PRO-ACTIVE MEASURE out of the goodness of their hearts, but AFTER THE FACT, as DAMAGE CONTROL, once they realized they were being EXPOSED for the hypocrites that they are. [As an "anti JW" I would think you would already know these things. True, it takes a lot of effort to keep up with the slick maneuverings of a "greased pig." The TIMELINE of the WTS' so-called Child Advocate Policies such as this one, has been exposed all along via this site, the emails sent from this site, and the other long-ago-established sites that keep watch on every move of the WTS. Yes, it would take a lot of reading to go back and play catch up, but it can be done.] "Truth Is Stranger Than Fiction." /SLC

BAS www.antijehovahswitness.com asked: Why was B. Bowen DF'd? ---- Answer: The "charge" was "causing divisions in the congregation." And Praise Jah for that! Finally, THE TRUTH OF ABUSE IS OUT FOR ALL TO SEE, and we get to see WHO REALLY IS ON THE SIDE OF THE TRUTH! And it isn't the WTS and their Legal Machine, who went into High Gear to get rid of the ones doing the EXPOSING (without eyewitnesses, without "defense" witnesses being allowed to appear, no fair hearing, etc. etc.) Why not get yourself on the Silent Lambs Email? The info about that is in a post above. /SLC

Dear Help: I am so sorry to hear about your child. Having the trust of an "authority figure" such as a teacher or others, cross those boundaries of trust in such an abhorrent way, is heartwrenching and shattering. Was the teacher prosecuted for his/her crime against your child? ---- As for this site, none of us could believe it at first either (yes, we BELIEVED the JW abuse victims, but our minds had trouble grasping, as you state, that Jehovah and/or His "Org" would allow this to happen). Well, other atrocities have happened "in the name of Jehovah" across the millenniums so, once that fact is called to mind, then we can move forward and FACE THE REALITIES of this. First, you need to RESIST GOING INTO DENIAL/TAKE OFF THE BLINDERS that JWs/WTS are "perfect"; then PRAY FOR STRENGTH to Face The Facts; then READ ALL YOU CAN, here and elsewhere. All of us cried bitterly when we first learned these truths about how "Jehovah's ORG" has pedophiles too, and how Jehovah's ORG has handled/is handling these things. It takes TIME to digest it, and it will not be easy, but it must be done lest people keep their heads in the sand (of silence) and allow abuse to continue. I don't know what area you are in, but if you want to talk on the phone, please see the HOME PAGE: HOTLINE: "For victims of child abuse who need further assistance [OR] for anyone to call to present material to establish hard evidence of Watchtower Abuse [OR] to provide information about where to go to get help. 1-877-WTABUSE, 1-877-982-2873." If you are in my area, Silent Lambs has my phone number and you can get it from them. We've all been where you are emotionally/religiously. If you are not in my area, SilentLambs has a network of friends in other areas, and I am sure either they will help you and/or they will direct you to someone in your area whom you could talk to personally. Hang in there! Talking/writing/reading DOES help tremendously! So please come back and tell us if you got the help you are needing, and if/when you are feeling better. Love/SLC
The Jehovah's Witness organization is dominated by sexist, small minded, ill-educated men. Young people, especially women, are extremely vulnerable to the emotional, spiritual, and physical abuses that are inflicted and covered up "in the name of Jehovah". Lesa McLaughlin Chihak LChihak@aol.com

THE MOLE I will say this to those who need an answer, to remove the doubt. Some will likely condemn certain information as an airing of our dirty linen before the public. Strangely, these same ones generally do not object to the airing of the dirty linen of other religions and may, in fact, take great interest in it, even publicize it widely. But they feel that what happens within their own religious organization should not be discussed outside its confines. The hard fact is, among the JW organization today there is simply no possibility for such discussion to take place. Anyone attempting to do so would be viewed as showcasing a rebellious spirit and would only result in further action in removal. Since the information cannot be discussed within, and if it is not to be discussed outside the structure, that means that it must be left undiscussed, ignored. Some of course, would like it to remain that way but to many of us are now whispering and others such as myself are posing questions that could only lead to more questions. If the Organization can leave this matter without a response, so they will reap the rewards from many of us who have serious doubts now. No one today has a divine commission as a prophet or an apostle, but we can follow their example and do what is right, as Ray Franz and Bill Bowens is doing. Alerting people to the realities and aiding them to arrive at the right conclusions. "I can say this, that Ray Franz and now Bill has made me ponder more seriously than ever the meaning of major portions and teachings of Christ..........The MOLE

Hang out by the door, maybe even smoking evil spirit-world cigarettes while waiting to pick out someone they feel like haunting for the rest of the day? - because they can't come in, of course not. Do they stay with these hauntees until they can hitch a ride back to the Hall for the next meeting? Thank you for posting to this site and making the Silent Lambs point. Thank you for firing off the 'vengeance is mine' snippet. Thank you for showing how you use it to justify standing by while a child is abused, while someone that tries to help is chastised right out of the organization. Thank you for being so open that you would let everyone see that you are a certifiable, superstitious nut. Thank you for the entertainment. It would be a bit more enjoyable if the stakes weren't so high. - Buster

LOL Buster! I have never lost THE FAITH my faith has alway been towards HIM! And that I will never lose! If you read my story of just a glimpse of my abuse you will have read that when I was 8 years old, I had a step-father that I now believe HE was using to save me... My step-father drilled two things into my brain, 6x9=54 and 1 John 4:8 which reads, he that does not know love, does not know GOD, for GOD is LOVE! As I took the scripture, it was telling me since I never felt love, I now knew where to find it!! So I opened up the WORD and I hung on for dear life, everything I read, being so young I truly beleave that HE guided me with love and faith, to understand what HE wanted me to understand. HIS word saved my life for I would have not survived without it!!! So, no I have never lost my faith, my faith is in HIM!!!! sorry you were confused, I hope that this has cleared all up, and mayhap given others a testimony of HIS true self!!! with the spirit of LOVE, bonnielyn

I would just like to say that I read about your story on August 11,2002,in the Bakersfield Californian,as I live in Bakersfield, I saw the story on Dateline, a few weeks ago and everything that the report was saying about the witness' were so true. At one time I was in this organization, and my husband sexually molested my two young daughters from a pervious marriage, but I did not find out about this until years later when we separated and moved away from this violent man who also abused me while at the same time we all professed to be witness, attending the kingdom hall and going door to door and putting on the uprightouness life of the witness life, the only reason that I finally found out about this the abuse, was because my 2 daughters thought that there was a chance that we might get back together with this man, this matter of abuse was brought before the committee, I was in total shock, as I could not believe he would do this as I didn't feel this could happen in Jehovah's congregation!!!! And the Watchtower and Awake magazines had published so many stories about this, and this man that I was married to, sat and held discussions as a family unit about this while the whole time he was doing the act with my daughters. The brothers became in voled in the case and talked with each of us, I personal asked if I should mention this to the police and I wanted him throw in jail and something to be done about this, and all the brothers told me was that they would handle it and pray about it and bring it to the attention of the elders in his congregation, which was in Sequim, Wa, we were and still are living in Bakersfield, Ca at the time..... The last thing that I ever heard that happen to him was that he was supended from answering at the meetings for 6 mos. unbelievable, still able to go door to door just not answering at the meetings. The Elders said that since it had happen (the abuse) so long ago that it was rally to late to don anything further, my 2 daughters have had a very hard and degrating life since this has all been brought out, I'm can't say that their lieves have change because of this or maybe this was actually the course of their lives anyway, even my life was much harder after learning this, I had really felt that I hadn't bee there for my children and a few years ago my oldest daughter has broken all contact with me and has told me that I was never there for her. Needless to day we are not witnesses any longer, I felt that they very much so let me down in ways that I can't even bear to think about........

Linda Slaughter, thank you for telling your story! I feel deeply for you, one day when your oldest has had a chance to mature I hope she will realize that you are not to blame, maybe you made some mistakes and are not perfect, but who hasn't and who is perfect! It's the evil in your ex that done this, and his blindness and denial of the evil learking within, if he was able to have used his mind, and heart, and seen that he held an evil, then he may have been able to exorcise it! And the blindness of the ones who deny there is a serious problem with pedophiles are also needing to use their minds and hearts so that they just may be able to exorcise and clean out their closets! I hope the very best for you, with the spirit of love, bonnielyn

To The Mole----Can you be specific as to what you mean by this statement?? Are you now changing everything you once believed in? I haven't read Ray Franz's book, not sure I want to! "The Truth" makes perfect sense, all the pieces of the puzzle fit! Are you now re-arranging the pieces? I don't agree with a few things but I sure won't abandon my whole belief system! What the GB is doing concerning the victims is dead wrong, that I can't excuse, nor would I EVER! But the overall "truths" haven't changed so as usual I'm stuck between a rock and a hard place with no way out! Someone in Texas "I can say this, that Ray Franz and now Bill has made me ponder more seriously than ever the meaning of major portions and teachings of Christ..........The MOLE*

Shunning is a grudge. A hateful sign of the phariseptic plague that ends with indifference and division. "Those who hate their brother can not have true love for God." Their (GB) love/lust is for secular power and control.

PRAYERS for Bill Bowen who should be in the middle of his Appeal Hearing right about now. /SLC
Sheila, thanks for explaining about the letter. I just "assumed" BB wanted letters from active JWs. I was thinking letters from others would hold no value in the WTS' eyes as far as "causing divisions," etc. Wished now I had been thinking like you. I would have written a good, long letter. Thanks again. /SLC

It's not difficult to become a Jehovah's Witness. All one has to do is study the basics of the Bible, answer questions properly and with a demonstration of an attitude, appreciation and understanding of the information -- not just recite answers. This allows one to become a baptized minister among Jehovah's Witnesses. There have been cases of one or others being able to infiltrate JW's even to the higher ranks just to spy on them or to undermine the text in their pending publications, work and organization. It makes it easy for someone who is power-hungry, wants position, prestige and the ability to intimidate people to get into this organization and covertly work their evil. Personally, I don't know of ANY organization that doesn't try to keep their "problems" private. However, I do believe that the requirement of 2 or more witnesses is a misinterpretation of the scriptures in view of scriptures found in Leviticus, Deuteronomy and 1 Corinthians. In all these places, it is clear that fornicators must be thrown into the world immediately. Child molestation is fornication. There isn't any Biblical evidence that the congregation, Hebrew or Christian, has a responsibility to rehabilitate such ones. They are to be thrown out. Any rehabilitation that takes place takes place in "Satan's world", outside or away from God's people -- not within the congregation or among God's people. Having sex with a minor child has always been against the law. It seems that there is a distasteful word game being played in these matters in the use of the term "child abuse". Child abuse is having sex with a minor child. It is against the law and it, if reported, is punishable by law. The insult to the majority of people's sense of right and wrong that is seemingly being perpetrated by the stand the JW's are taking is outrageous. In the Bible, when something isn't right, one has the obligation to speak out so that that one or others do not share in the bloodguilt. A warning is being given. It seems to have been done in the right spirit and with the right intentions. The disfellowshipping of those who have tried to give that warning appears to be proof of an unrepentant heart -- a heart that has become hardhearted, stubborn and determined to continue in their same old course rather than review with an open mind and with clear scriptural guidelines to make appropriate changes in policy. That is very sad in the eyes of God for those who are pursuing such a course. The JW's own publications have pointed out that the 2 or 3 witnesses do not have to be
Elders. They need to be persons familiar with the situation. Now they say there must be, at least, ONE witness. According to their publications, it should be someone familiar with the situation. It seems to me a witness or witnesses coming forward is essential. However, if no one can talk to anyone else, witnesses familiar with the situation (to my mind that would be someone familiar with the behavior of the person accused -- not familiar with someone else's abuse because there, usually, won't be witnesses in such cases). Unfortunately, a lot of times, child abuse cases have revealed that the mother (frequently it's the father abusing the girls) DID know of the abuse. She knew her husband was leaving their bed to go to another child's room BUT SHE WOULDN'T GO AND CATCH HIM IN THE ACT or SAY ANYTHING. This has resulted in serious difficulties for such children as they grew older. However, for ELDERS to know of such things going on in the congregation and keeping quiet about it doesn't save ANYONE'S FACE. For an organization to ADVISE SUCH is, in itself, abuse. It abuses everyone that is in association with congregations everywhere. What ever happened to an organization that was open, wonderful and loving? The stance of this organization is, or should be, an outrage for all 6+ million because, the vast majority of these people are honest, sincere, hard-working, straight-forward, likeable people. I imagine this is EXACTLY how the political and religious leaders in the time of Christ acted when they went against Jesus Christ. He was telling them they needed to change their ways to be acceptable to God. They got rid of him. This is a terrible insult and embarrassment to all the good people of Jehovah's Witnesses. What I would say is that I do not agree with what's going on IN THIS MATTER. Of course, I've ALWAYS let my say in matters be heard -- that's why I'm always on the "outs". However, the Bible tells me (and you) that you must speak out when you see something wrong. In fact, we're supposed to speak out before one takes a false step. Sometimes, when it's before the false step has been taken, it's difficult for a person to see that they're going to do wrong and won't listen. However, the false steps have been taken repeatedly in this matter and the ones taking them don't want to believe they're doing wrong, won't listen or make immediate changes to correct the situation. I'm glad I've been a "big mouth" because it protected my child -- no one wanted anything to do with us. Oh, my feelings have been hurt but now when I see a much bigger picture, I feel God, himself, has protected us from some serious wrong thinking going on among a lot of JW's today. There's no way I would give up on the organization as there's nowhere else to go for the truth about the God of the Bible. Also, my conscience is clean because I have spoken up when it was necessary. Matters were placed in the hands of those who should take proper care of them -- elders, circuit overseers and the headquarters, themselves. So, when this broke out, I felt as though my hands are clean in all matters that I feel should be straightened out. Moses and Solomon handled the disputes, problems and matters of the people so that there would be a just and fair resolution among the people. I wonder what they would think if they saw what was going on now among God's people. No, I won't lie to people about what's going on. I just hope those in charge will see their errors and make the appropriate changes. If they don't, Jehovah God, himself, will see to it that they are removed from their positions. You can be assured that God doesn't like what is going on. The Bible says so. When headquarters will not become involved with local issues, they give too much power to mere imperfect men. Under such conditions, even a good-hearted man could become power hungry and abuse his authority. Elders are not psychologists, doctors, policemen or mental health workers. Some, though, seem to think that being an Elder qualifies them as such. They misapply scriptures thinking, foolishly, that will "cure" a situation. They may be well-intended but they don't know what they're doing. In many cases, they exacerbate problems rather than help. Take a look at a lot of them. They have their own difficulties that they haven't been successful in handling. If they can't take care of their own problems in their families, how can they advise someone else and expect them to be successful. Their advice won't be good advice because it's not coming from someone who knows and knows that it works. Those disfellowshipped should be immediately reinstated and an LOUD AND CLEAR APOLOGY is demanded. Those at headquarters that believe the way they do need to READ MORE OF THE BIBLE in these matters. Perhaps, then, you'll see that you are narrow-minded in your opinions and those opinions are not supported by the entire Bible's context. What kind of SPIRITUALITY is that? It's not the kind that impresses me. Shame on you that you have let such matters become such a scandal rather then handling them aight in the first place! The information you dispense is good, now YOU HAVE TO READ IT so you'll know that you're going against your own teachings. How can you teach morality when you don't demonstrate just plain common sense in the matter of unlawful sex with a child, children or adults? You need to hand it over to someone that knows the difference between right and wrong. Personally, I don't want to wait on Jehovah for the necessary changes to take place. You should be MATURE ENOUGH, EDUCATED IN THE BIBLE ENOUGH, HUMBLE ENOUGH to know YOU ARE WRONG in this matter. You make me ashamed.

To the JW-Someone who wrote about the Governing Body @ HQ: "Shame on you... You need to hand it over to someone that knows the difference between right and wrong. ... You should be MATURE ENOUGH, EDUCATED IN THE BIBLE ENOUGH, HUMBLE ENOUGH to know YOU ARE WRONG in this matter. You make me ashamed." ------

- Dear concerned JW-someone: Thanks for your comments. Have you thought of attending the Silent Lambs March at Bethel on 9-27-02 in order to show your view & support? What you describe is exactly the purpose of the March, i.e., to have a judicial hearing FOR THE GB MEMBERS on the following "charges": 1. Apostasy-The Governing body has taken action against the true worship of Jehovah and the established order among his dedicated people (Jer.17:13; 23:15; 28.15,16 ; 2 Thess. 2: 9,10) They have deliberately spread and stubbornly held to teachings contrary to Bible truth in the establishment of an organizational Policy that hurts children. -- 2. Loose Conduct-The Governing Body has shown a. disregard for theocratic order in their failure to protect the flock. ( Gal. 5:19;2 Pet. 2:7; w83 3/15 p.31; w73 9115 pp, 574-6; it-2 p. 264 ) -- 3. Causing Divisions-The Governing Body has committed deliberate action to disrupt the unity of the congregation and undermined the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah's arrangement by their inaction on matters concerning child abuse and battered women. ( Rom. 16:17, 18; Titus 3: 10,11 ) -- The actions of the Governing Body in establishing Watchtower Policy with regard to how child molestation is handled in the Christian Congregation at the direction of the Service Department, Legal Department, District Overseers, Circuit Overseers, and local elders, has broken God's law and destroyed the lives of many faithful brothers and sisters. -- Therefore [Bro.Bowen] formerly request to resolve this matter "within the framework of the congregation and according to Scriptural principles," by calling for a judicial committee to be convened in Brooklyn, New York on September 27, 2002 of three impartial elders who are spiritual men with no fear for standing up for righteousness... several hundred eye-witnesses ...will provide extensive evidence in the form of written documentation, personal experience, and eye-witness testimony, to accuse the Governing Body that by their policy on child molestation they are guilty of racketeering, witness tampering, conduct unbecoming a Christian and crimes against children. -- It is [Bro.Bowen's] hope the judicial committee will be able to find acts of repentance commensurate with their wrongdoing committed against children. If so then Public Reproof will help the organization of Jehovah's Witnesses to know the Governing Body has become truly repentant humble men and will act in the best interests of Jehovah's Witness children. On the other hand if proper works of commensurate repentance cannot be found or if they try to minimize the wrong, the Governing Body should be disfellowshipped and not reinstated until they take responsibility for their actions." --- (This info is from the 6-6-02 letter to the GB from SilentLambs/B.Bowen. The entire context of this letter can be found by going to the HOME PAGE and then clicking on "SILENT LAMBS MARCH 9/27/02" and click on the March Info again after that.) --- In light of this letter, one can see WHY the GB wanted to get B.Bowen DF'd BEFORE 9-27-02. Who of the current JW's will put up with this, and for how much longer?

These JWD are not eager to learn. I don't know why. They think the WT Org. is all right. But it is not! Right from the beginning it was build on wrong foundation with Russel who thought nothing but falsehood. and was steeped in supernatural and egyptology. He was confident in Miracle wheat that he was selling until the courts of US stopped him. Rutherford was much worse. A first class drunkard arogant materialistic to infinity power hungry monstrmwho fantasised spirituality under the influence of demons. He was a person who was setting up mobs so that he can win religious freedom form the government for his organization and have a free hand in zombinazing people in his cult. He was the one who loved HITLER!!! Knorr was running tough business using slave labor more than any previous commander and Franz just a plain lier. The rest are no different at all.Among them are homosexuals, child molesters,tiefs, ( they took 24 billion dollars from a couple in USA) . They are coowners of guaiding systems for american bombs and are on the stock market etc.e.t.c. What do you people want to gain by remaining blind and bring yourselves and your families to Jugment where only the Hell is a reward? Oh yes' you say : there is no Hell. Wait and see. Some of these JWD pretend to be nice and want to be respected for their ddialogos on this page but they fool nobody. The music they make is out of tune just like the so called Truth that comes out of their literature and their motuh is. You JWd are playing with fire that could only destroy you. The Wachtower Society makes absolutely no sense in the light of the scripture and the GB are outright criminals. All the hierarchy in the WT including the individual elders are responsible for all the evil occuring in that society. They all take part in caring out orders to mislead and destroy families. Please investigate first and after you do that polemize. If you don't you just show publicaly how the WT destroyed your ability to think and the extend of your ignorance. No wonder many call you BORG. I wish i'd have something nice to say about you but the greater number of you here are just a suplant by the WT. Well you put tour own rope around your own neck. rmk

OFF TOPIC: John, didn't you write something here within the past few days that the WTS wrote in some prior literature that African Americans could pray so they would become white? If so, would you post that info at the J-W.com forum, as I think Fred Hall would really like to hear about it. Also, did you guys know that when Muhammad Ali refused to be drafted, the famous WTS attorney, Hayden Covington, was his attorney? Anyway, here's the link to that forum thread, John, and thanks:

You call me RMK because this is my signature. What do I call you when you do not sign your post a practice widely exercised in the WT. Yes, not 24 millions but 24 BILLIONS!! Besides they put the owner to jail by bribing the judge and the lawyers. The man got out by a coincidence. The WT has to pay that back now because of the court desision but the broken family can't be restored. The WT corrupted his wife to no return! I do not hate any person in JW. In the contrary I pray for your salvation I know too well that you are just blind my family included. But the organization of JW must be destroyed. We do it brick by brick and God will give it a blow from which it will never recover because the WT is His enemy number1 ! Why? The primary reason for that is DEFAMATION of His Holy Name. I also wonder if you know what Conformity is. I think you are quite competent to give me some lessons in that because I admit you are trained in that very well in WT. RMK

This quote has gotten me through many things to me it describes how Evil thinks and is to itself and us,what I find funny is it now fits the Organizations minions perfectly the "monstrous men without conscience,...... "Monsters are a variations of the accepted normal to a greater or lesser degree. As a child may be born without an arm, so one may be born without kindness or the potential of conscience. A man loses his arms in an accident has a great struggle to adjust himself to the lack, but one born without arms suffers only from people that find him strange. Having never had arms, he can not miss them. Sometimes when we are little we sometimes imagine how it would be to have wings, but there is no reason to suppose it is the same feeling birds have. No, to a monster the norm must seem monstrous, since everyone is normal to himself. To the inner monster it must be even more obscure, since he has no visible things to compare with others. To a man born without a conscience,a soul-stricken man must seem ridiculous . To a criminal honesty is foolish. You must not forget a monster is only a variation, and to a monster the norm is monstrous. JOhn Steinbeck East of Eden

P.S. In regards my above quote I hope it helps others put those monsters in perspective as to why they are and how they come to be. Not to make excuses for them. Just that they are this way and they view themselves as normal. So quit blaming ourselves for what we have no control over, they aren't normal and don't think normally. That is why children need to be protected, heck sometimes even adults from these aberations. Hope you understand Sheila

Greetings to the silent lambs, their supporters, and even their confused misguided and misled detractors. Today in my local paper, The Plain Dealer (Cleveland, Ohio) their is a fairly good sized article off the Associated Press concerning the pedophilia issue in the Kingdom Halls. It was printed right under an article about the Catholic pedophilia controversy. I am a Bible-believing Christian. I would NEVER report sexual abuse to my pastor first. I would go straight to the police. It is a CRIME and the authorities MUST be made aware of it. I am grateful that our denomination has had a policy in place for several years. Our wonderful Lord, Jesus Christ, warned us about how bad it will be for child molesters. Why are the Pedophile Protectors of the Watchtower trying to be NICER THAN JESUS? I will keep the article posted on my front door for the next little smiling band of Watchtower magazine salesmen and women to see! Peace and blessings. Lawrence coached in their answers in any way -- encouraged to say things happened to them and then given the words to describe them -- then the child's testimony is, in the least, questionable. That is one reason why I don't think elders should be involved in that type of inquiry. Their job is to comfort. They don't need all the details to do that. There was a rash of child molestation trials during the 80s and 90s against parents. Also, against owners and teachers of child care centers. Parents and the rest were put in jail. they lost their lives, homes, reputations, and everything they worked for all their lives. Then it was found out that the children were encouraged to lie against them by their questioners. I can understand caution but I cannot understand the deliberate shielding of known rapists or pedophiles (a pedophile is a rapist). If not one but another and another come forward about the SAME PERSON -- and there is a policy of silence so it's not feasible that they're repeating "gossip" -- then HOW CAN THE ELDERS OR THE SOCIETY IGNORE THE EVIDENCE AGAINST A PERSON? I think the example of the Israelite Cities of Refuge is something to look at. It's about murder but, even if a person was innocent and the avenger of blood thought it was him (or her) because of past troubles with the deceased person, they could go after him. Society's own comments in public talks. Therefore, such a one would have to run to the nearest city of refuge and a trial would have to take place. How can one gain justice if no "trial" takes place -- even within the congregation? It just plain doesn't make any sense. Jehovah God is a JUST God. He REQUIRES justice -- not just for himself but for his people, too. He requires justice AMONG his people. I remember one judge saying, in answer to the radio host's question as to why judges weren't harder on drunk drivers (this was before it became "fashionable" to condemn -- with good reason -- drunk drivers). The judge said something to the effect, "Because we all have a drink now and then and get in the car and drive. We don't want to be too harsh because it could be me being tried for drinking and driving." Considering this principle, can it be that certain "others" don't want to press issues because it "could be THEM on trial"? It is appealing to be that no one in the congregation can trust each other. We just get warnings to be careful about our associations, even in the congregation. While that's true, we're all imperfect humans and subject to failures, it's also unfair for people to walk around in the congregation and be polite but wondering if I or someone else they have contact with is the one we're being warned about. It casts asprirations on EVERYONE'S character simply by being in association. What a nasty "game" to play with people who are in association in TRUST with you. Even in the early Christian congregation there were some who were terrible people. The Bible tells us they were worse than those found in the world. However, that is NOT an excuse for anyone in our association to be that way. It's written as a warning of what the terrible things are and that we should stay away from such things rather than contaminate the Christian congregation. The Israelite nation, too, had huge variations in their worship. However, it's not there to tell us it's NORMAL among us because THEY had those problems. It's there to let us know HOW WE SHOULD NOT BE. Why is it, then, that some seem to not know such things are not normal and that they should not exist among Jehovah God's people?--Conchita.

48-Hours repeated a program last week, with follow-up, about a family that was torn apart because children made false accusations against them. The children claimed child molestation by the family members that owned and worked in their family business -- a child care center. It was found that the children actually got a lot of their ideas from those who were questioning them. Even though the children knew things that a child their age would not know, it was because their questioners gave them the ideas, not because they actually experienced child molestation. The issue here is telling "all" to elders. I'm not sure it's a good idea to have a child sit in a room with 3 MEN and make them describe every lurid detail to them. This is a police matter, not a religious matter. One's religion is supposed to be a hiding place from a storm. One should find comfort and consolation from one's church leaders. It seems to me that one should choose their hospital emergency room carefully -- one that has excellent experience in treating victims of rape and molestation and will do a thorough and sensitive job for the victim. The evidence THEY gather is what will be used to HELP the victim legally. There should be an attorney present at all times. There should be a witness present even during examination. A recording of the questions, answers and general conversation should be made. Again, an attorney that is experienced and sensitive to rape and molestation. An attorney that will properly advise the victim and/or the victim's family. I think that I would not seek the elders' assistance in this type of matter. I may telephone them and tell them that such and such happened and that it will be handled as a legal matter. People have a tendency to be voyeurs. They ask questions because they want all the "low down". They are titilated by it. For all I know, it could be a rapist or pedophile that I'm seeking comfort from. I don't think elders are entitled to those details. All they need to know is that a rape or molestation took place. Period. I don't understand why they wouldn't want the police to investigate. It's only with a good investigation that proper evidence is gathered and a case is made. A victim NEEDS proper evidence gathered and the support from a good investigation. A part of proper evidence is finding out HOW a child knows to say or show the things they're saying happened to them. If it is found that they were

WTS HAS RETALIATED AGAINST THE LAMBS!!! -----From: "silentlambs" <info@silentlambs.org> Date: Mon, 12 Aug 2002 01:19:54 -0500 To: <info@silentlambs.org> Subject: Bill Bowen Disfellowshipped------- As of 8:30 pm this evening the appeal hearing decided to uphold the decision. I spoke to them for over an hour and tried to reason with them as to the validity of their decision. Frankly, they were not interested. They refused to look at the letters from people all over the world that stated silentlambs had not divided them from JW's, they refused to look at over 1,000 stories of abuse I had with me, they refused to read the New York Times, they tried to refuse the witnesses who came with me the right to speak with them. It did not work they had to face them anyway as they banged on the door and forced the committee to let them in. The result was the worst case of elder abuse I have seen in 20 years. The committee had to sit and listen for another hour and a half to the reality of what their decision meant. ----- Did it make a difference? Nope. ----- As you all know, there is no reasoning, no logic, no fairness, no justice, when it comes to the directions the Governing Body has mandated for all who try to speak out on abuse. They will have their control, they will have their silence and if children are raped, so what. Sell books or die... ----- silentlambs ----- If you would like to see the appeal hearing click the link below:
QUESTION: How can we order the mint ribbons as seen in the photos (lapel ribbons for Silent Lambs)? I never knew these existed. They are nice, and I'd like to order some and hand them out, if that's possible! Anyone know? Thanks! /SLC

Dear Sheila & Bill . . This has been an anxious worrisome time for your family. We are proud of you for standing at to the mighty opposer. You are HERO's in our eyes. Nan

Jhn 15:13 Greater love has no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. . Bill is disfellowshipped & shunned by friends and family not because he was evil but because he stood for principal. In this world few will ever make this stand. It is harder to stand for right than to ignore evil

I hope that people who are here today have now seen the real side of the WTS. How they deal with anyone who will not submit to them, and their whims. Just deny that anything bad ever happens inside the society of JW's, say it is rare, say it happens less often than anywhere else. Just dismiss it. Call people "detractor" (Whatever that means.) I say FREEDOM FIGHTER! I will never use the "D" word again because I do not do that to the Jehovah's Witnesses. If I get my way the sect will be a better group of people when I am done. Their children will be safer. Their people will not have to fear physical and mental, or even spiritual violence from their Parents, Husbands or Wives; no longer will they live in the mist of self imposed religious persecution. (Imaging that, not have to leave your religion AND not have to live with all the BS, what a concept.) I find that hopeful and uplifting. Of course those who have gained so much power inside the sect will oppose this. There will be those who will loose their power over people. They are right; they will lose the ability to intimidate.-SEQ

Ever hear the saying, "The truth hurts?" ====== Mole, why SHOULD Bill be SILENCED? ====== Trying to LIE AGAINST THE TRUTH is a VERY FATAL MISTAKE -- especially when the evidence is too abundant to be denied. ====== Poor handling should be silenced, not people whose consciences are being tormented day-by-day by reason of their lawless deeds. (2 Peter 2:8) ====== How do you know that Jehovah God, himself, isn't allowing this to occur and that the weeding out is being meted from the top down? ====== This arrogance and untouchableness sounds so much like the proud priests and political leaders of the Jews in Jesus Christ's days. They didn't listen to Jesus Christ and encouraged their people to shun him, too, and they led themselves and everyone who put their trust in them to their destruction, as foretold, in 70AD. ====== The organization won't fail, only those who are causing a misrepresentation of Jehovah God and his justice will fail. (1 Corinthians 10:12) ====== We should be GLAD for challenges. Challenges give us an opportunity to show we're doing things right. ====== There's NO CONSENSUS agreeing that the ones in authority are handling this right. ====== Why not do an ANONYMOUS SURVEY among JWs and see if they're all REALLY in agreement with the society's current policy? However, I'm sure the fear of genuinely, TRULY, expressing themselves would color their answers even in an anonymous survey. There is a tremendous fear among JW's. You can see it in the robot way they're friendly to everyone but won't engage in meaningful conversation with one another. Elders DO threaten and warn people and they DON'T LISTEN even if you come with a stack of our publications and Bible scriptures. They DO try to RUN PEOPLE'S LIVES. You have a large group, in my estimation, of elders who abuse their authority simply because they CAN -- NO ONE'S going to challenge them, especially not headquarters. There shouldn't be any fear among us, especially if we're speaking TRUTH. (Ephesians 4:25; 2 Corinthians 3:17; Galatians 2:4) ====== Mole, maybe YOU should be silenced. You write as though you're an absolute authority, too. Are you the Bethelite assigned to monitor this group?--Conchita

Yeh I was abused too!

Them damn JW's abused me when I was a fetus!

I think they abused me

There you have friends 6 more verified accounts of abuse by the JW's. Seems like all you have to do is say it and it is so.

Comments In regzard to the 48Hour Episdoe. They FEEL that the children were coached. the obviously was SOME sort of physical evidence or the wouldn't have gotten as far as a trial. Again the media has garneredm sympathy for those found guilty, but was there any information from the other side children saying "that never happened, I wasn't abused"? Again just as the media can work for the Silent Lambs they can do an about face just for ratings. I remember the ORIGINAL episode and the plethora of evidence the put them behind bars, it wasn't just the children's testimony. The percentage of children abused is so much greater than the confused children. Most children live in fear and guilt and shame that ANYONE would find out what their being forced to do with a trusted adult. I understand this, without having walked in those shoes WHY, WHY is it so hard for others????? We had a family friend that I always thought was weird, I remember them visiting in Mo one summer. He constantly picked on his step-daughter she would carve pretty things out of the local sand stone, he would blow them up or step on them to gring them to nothing. I can remember wondering what fueled the hate that rippled off of them. Years later lo and behold, I find out a family member of mine was touched WAY inappropriatly by this same man and my parents NEVER asked what made her act so funny after the incident. After all he was their friend....Well, their "friend" ended up in PRISON he molested not only his step-daughter but his biological daughter is that what caused the prison sentence NO, they were to scared and so was their mother. He had divorced remarried and molested his new spouses daughter SHE did something about him. To make a really long story short, when I told my Dad where his "friend" had been. Although so many things happened that HE knew about, he said he didn't believe that his "friend" did anything and that if he chose to visit he was welcome, although my Dad constantly had all his grandchildren at his home. Funny at 8 years old this "friend" gave me the hee bee jeebies, I saw the anger of his daughter and the way he playfully taunted her. But all the adults chose to look the other way???? I find this goes along with my Monster quote ya know. So to the taunter that says that if you say it, it makes it so. So very few have the guts to lay down the guilt heeped on them by abusers and stand and say it. So think about the Silent Ones that are to scared. Sheila Madonia

I expect the poo pooing of Bill's dealings with the WTS GB to go on for awhile. I hope it is not to discouraging for some people. Keep in mind that this site is not censored and some people will take advantage of that. I look forward to going out with witnesses in my home town who are out in service. I really do wonder how they, and the public will react to a different point of view being presented at the same time. Who will be the light being cast on darkness. How will they react to the history of the WT, and the questions that will be asked of them. Will they run away? I hope that others will also do this. In Ohio this is the best way to solve their problem. Anyone from that area who reads this post look at B&N.com and type Jehovah's Witnesses. Offer these books to read to the individuals who come to your door. Offer them a business card to this site. If the Witnesses belliges, and MUCH more important, their practices were challened on the open field of "service" with one or better yet a pair of informed individuals who understand how this dangerous sect operates what would be the result?-SEQ

I can't BELIEVE how incredibly similar these people's stories are to MINE!! There are probably SO MANY little girls that are getting hurt RIGHT NOW, and nobody there to help them. THIS HAS TO BE STOPPED! All this really made me angry—that they think they can actually JUDGE cases of sexual abuse, and just pretend they're going to do something about it, and instead cover it up. AND that it has happened to many other people in this "religion"!! It definitely has boosted my confidence, because I know now that I am not alone. Needless to say, I am no longer affiliated with the Witnesses. I would love to correspond with some people who I can share my story with. Cydni Mack Email: cmack@uiuc.edu

BUSTER: thank you for your enlightening judgement of myself. my post about 'demons in the car park' was in response to a comment from John about what i previously said. trust someone like you to jump in half way, and without knowing the full conversation and start judging me on what's being said. you obviously don't believe in demons or holy spirit. i do and so that makes me superstitious??? i suppose Christ was superstitious too was he???

so im the type of person who would stand by and let a child be abused???? im the type of person who agrees with bills disfellowshipping am i??? i would refer you back to my first comment on which John commented on, but i wont bother 'cause i just know it'll be a waste of time. let me just put you straight on something shall i? i think the society's stance on child abuse is complete CRAP! there, does that make you a little happier?  if i'm saying that i think holy spirit is with my congregation does that mean its with all congs?? if the society were sinning, which i think they clearly are, would they have holy spirit with them?? do i have to spell those answers out to you?? is christ with those who worship in spirit and truth or with those who are more interested in money and power in the org? if i wanted a comment like yours i would have asked my 11-year-old nephew. but I being a JW, you would probably think i'd be abusing him, hey?? i was just waiting really for a sad comment like that from someone like you. I firmly believe what Bill has done to be good and honest, standing up for what's right. His disfellowshiping was a complete farce. I feel for all those who have been witch hunted as regards this issue. If the WTS fell apart tomorrow I wouldn't shed a tear. My relationship and faith is with God not the WTS.  SO BUSTER - lets see what you really believe in, and what you put your faith in. Lets see you be honest, lay your cards out. Whats up? Scared that we'll take the piss out of you? And show you up as a no hoper as regards faith?? At least I've got the guts to say what I believe in even if it does contrast to what other JWs believe. You are just a coward jumping on the bandwagon to try and prove yourself as being such a great and moral person. There, have some mud flung back in your face! Rich

Rich: ‘No hoper as regards faith?’ - now that hurts. I went back and re-read your post and it was you who referred to the clairvoyant and the spirits in the cars to make a point. Did you really think you could make that point and maintain your credibility? It was you that fired off the ‘vengeance belongs to Jehovah’ and that statement has all the ring of someone that thinks that the problem is up to someone else to solve. Anyway, a little time in an anger management program may be helpful. - Buster

I believe what your medium saw in the parking lot Rich. What makes me wonder, maybe they didn't feel the need to come inside. Did your medium see good spirits inside? You didn't say that she did, only bad ones outside. Maybe like I said they didn't want to go in for there was no need, not that they couldn't go in. I'm surprised that your medium is even welcome inside either for that matter. The JWs teaching is strongly against even consorting with a medium, so if she is telling all of you about the beasties outside, how can you be sure that they aren't on the inside and she knows this and wants to make it look like they aren't inside to fool all into believing that they can't go in, good way to fool everyone into believing that they are within the light, by trickery, and lies, good way to keep HIS children in the dark. Think about it will ya? And the thing I got from busters comments about it was, that these beasties are getting into the cars as they leave, for what purpose? beasties don't hang on unless there is something to hang on to. so these little beasties could be attaching themselves to the witnesses that leave to control their thoughts and movements while away from the hall. Maybe when the witnesses are inside the little beasties don't go in cause they don't need to, some worse beastie is inside doing all it can, gives the other beasties a break! I sure hope not. But it could be just so!

Does anyone read objectively what is written? It seems to me, after rereading my post, that there isn't any doubt that I said the accusing children were NOT molested -- they were coached into being able to show and express that they were molested. Don't make arguments where they're not.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: Rich heard about Silentlambs, had enough "feeling" for the issue to express himself honestly. Why tear him apart??? We are trying to reach JW's - not alienate them. Or am I wrong???? One more brother who might get "educated" enough about this crime - and you want to insult him, ridicule him and alienate him. WHY? What is the point? Tomorrow he might, just might have to deal with a child who has been harmed - and it appears to me that Rich will have no fear of the WTS. Jeskia and Linda T may be right - the mood of this place has gotten too "political" and has lost something. None of us is 100% right 100% of the time. I value Rich THE JW posting here. He has not been rude, or hateful and he speaks about the love of Christ. None of us here walked away from the WTS in one day, it is a process - give Rich a break and stop being so critical. It is so easy to be hateful and that is unproductive. Soapbox

CE, you are quite right, and very well spoken. You have described what many of us feel. To J.R., and those who feel as he does; that this is no longer in support of the silentlambs, but rather a forum for WTS bashing...perhaps you just don't understand. You see, each and every Witness who has trusted- a trust that goes perhaps as deep as a child's trust, yes , it IS a childlike trust- in those who led us spiritually; only to find out later, perhaps MANY years later, as in my case,18 years...that the ones who have preached HONESTY, INTEGRITY, TRUTH... have been found by many people to be DISHONEST, LACKING INTEGRITY, and outright DECEPTIVE, well... our childlike trust has been utterly shattered!!! You cannot imagine, unless you've been through it, the horrible feelings of betrayal and helplessness you feel, VERY MUCH THE SAME AS A CHILD OF SEXUAL ABUSE feels!!! I know this too, because I am a surviver of this crime. So J.R., we have not left the ultimate subject here at all! The fact that we are all here shows our support of all the silentlambs. However, those of us who have found that we have been deceived, realize that WE TOO, are SPIRITUAL SILENTLAMBS!!! We cannot , no, we dare not speak of our "abuse" to those we love in the congregation, lest we lose them, and many of us already have. To whom else, then, can we speak, can we grieve, can we cry, but to our God and to one another? SO, please, don't try to silence these lambs, with critisism or anything else. We have been silent for too long already. From my personal experiance, talking about it helps us to heal. My deep love for all you fellow silentlambs, of the physical, and of the spiritual. JMD

Bill Bowen – I have a question for you. How many sexual abuse cover-ups were YOU involved with? You claim to have served in 100 judicial committees. In 20 years in appointed positions, and 300 years of you being a JW in good standing, how many cover-ups were there under YOUR watch? 10? 20? 300? None? If your answer is “none”, does that mean that in 20 years in appointed service, there were NO cases? WOW 20 years is a great run. But if you were involved in a cover-up, which I’m sure you'll never admit to, why don't you turn yourself in at the nearest police station? Would you even admit it? This is all so perplexing, the fact that you were in an appointed position for 20 years (or was it 43?) but you STAYED there, if there were other cases. Wouldn't that make you a criminal, as elders here are so often referred to? What, you were brainwashed? Is that your excuse? Oh, I see. If you were brainwashed for 43 years, why should anyone listen to you? Don't you think you need a little more time to dirty that brain a little more, before its good again? If you can't or won't answer the questions, can one your paralegals here that can't spell answer for you? I wonder how they will apply texts to this one.

Soapbox- I know you have changed. But, to think that the average JW joe is going to have a change of heart is something I have little faith in. Most have no desire to change and every intention to divide us if possible. I want to inform everyone of what goes on in the "distructive cult" sects. They (the sects) have yet to learn that you can not shame, intimidate, scare, or hate anyone into being "moral." It has not worked for 6000 years. Even the sword has failed to bring moral purity. Even a flood did not due it. Until all christian sects and religions learn to love the world, they will fail to save the world. I see the propaganda machine hard at work to turn us against one another. And for now it is winning the battle. "You must become that which you wish to change in the world." (Gandi.) The programing that the WT does would first have to be undone before a Witness could be "reached." I fought that concept for years. Specific doctrine must be dispelled. (And this is not the place for that.) So I expect little help and nothing but road blocks from the WTS society. As I said though I believe that all will prosper from "us" who are working for religious freedom. I have tried to keep the "eye on the prize." (Public awareness.) Don't get bogged down in a skermish and loose the war. (Sun Tuz)-SEQ

Your questions are unintelligable and you answered them all so were they questions, comments, or rants? It's like a watchtower magazine I get confused when I read due to there being no point being made. But that's ok because all the answers and attitudes that you wanted to us have are already there.-Sequia

Soapbox, thank you for your comments. I read the posts every day, and I just can't get angry at the various things that are being said here. It's a public site, anyone can post anything they choose, including the ABC's...LOL I really don't even mind some of the bantering about doctrine. I honestly just skim it over and continue scrolling until I find something I find interesting or important. I personally am happy there is a current elder posting here, however ironic it is, since congregation pions would be df'd in a heartbeat if they were caught. At least this elder is willing to consider the possibility of looking for information and/or answers outside of what he's told by the hierarchy in New York. I wish there were more elders who did this, they might learn how the rest of us really feel. I also don't care if current, or maybe I should say....attending witnesses are visiting and posting here either. Everyone knows that to so much as visit a site that opposes anything about the witnesses is a huge no-no, but to go so far as to post messages...well that is something. The hardcore witnesses, like my father, would say these are not true witnesses and will eventually be weeded out anyway. Let them post, let them banter, it won't change the facts and they cannot escape the facts anymore. We have only just begun................Linda Thoman Linthoman@hotmail.com

"Now I want you to be leaders also in the spirit of cheerful giving. I am not giving you an order; I am not saying you must do it, but others are eager for it. This is one way to prove that your love is real, that it goes beyond mere words."
- 2 Corinthians 8:7-8

BUSTER - anger management? was I just emphasising the points I wanted to get across? I felt I had to do that because of your obvious intolerance for other people's beliefs. Since you are so good at judging though, I'll leave that for you to decide. All of us here who support Bill and the lambs aren't going to share the same points of view or beliefs as you do. So what's the point in criticising people for their own beliefs??? Perhaps you could enlighten me on that point? What's the point of calling me a superstitious nut? Does your own faith allow your conscience to degrade other people? Do I detect the possibility that you have your own agenda? There could be the people on this site who are placed here by the WTS to cause I'll feeling like this, who knows? But I'll say this; if we're not united in our support for Bill and silent lambs, no matter what we believe, then we all might as well quit now. What's the point in being divided? We know who's for us, and who's against like Mole and JWD. You buster, do as much to be against us with the attitude you show. Ultimately it will be Jehovah who will sort out everything on earth one day. If I believed that all we had to do was wait on him in this regard, then I wouldn't be here. Don't confuse me with people like JWD. If a little time in anger management maybe helpful to me, maybe coming out of your own arse may help you. Rich

Soapbox: Can you really read and not react to a post expounding on the presence of Holy Spirit in the Hall as evidenced by the fact that evil spirits outside won't come in. Would you seriously read it, try to assimilate what point he was trying to make, ignore the method of making the point, and let it go at that? If so, you have a more mature than I, and you have a much more compassionate makeup. Tell you what, if you respond and say that you read that post and didn't have some urge to cast a quick aspersion or two on the sanity-challenged, then I'll let the next few reality deficient posts go by. - Buster

You know...The beauty of this site is that it speaks heart to heart. This as opposed to head to head. I like that. I hope that it is allowed to be nurtured into a powerful force to give help and support to people who need it.

The question I asked was this: what is the point in alienating a Brother who might be there to protect a child? I have lived long enough to learn what is a worthy cause to fight over and what to leave alone. What is the point in alienating Brothers who are understanding the problem and might be there to protect a child or instruct another Brother on this “matter?” This is the only place they can come and not be DF’d for expression of what they really feel and you want to alienate them. WHY???? How is this serving Bill Bowen and what he is trying to accomplish??????C.E. aka soapboxaka claudine BROTHERS PLEASE DO NOT STOP POSTING HERE - WE NEED YOU VERY MUCH!!!!

The 7/15/02 Watchtower study article says on page 10, paragraph 1: Growing up is important to a child, but more than physical growth is desired. Mental and emotional growth are also expected. On pages 13 and 14, paragraph 18, it says: Misunderstandings and personal offenses may pose a challenge to our godly devotion. They may cause anxiety or move some to take the unwise step of isolating themselves from their spiritual brothers and sisters. . . . A breach can be healed and peaceful relations restored if we ask forgiveness and admit that we handled matters improperly. Jesus also gave other counsel on handling difficulties. (Matthew 18:15-17) How happy we are when efforts to resolve problems meet with success! (Romans 12:18; Ephesians 4:26, 27) ========= Question: Does this apply only to the reader and not the directors and writers?

I was raised JW. At the age of 20 I stopped commuting and stayed on campus at a private college in Cleveland, Ohio. Some things I have done are not to Bible principles. This I understand and will be held accountable for. What I will not feel guilty for is that I no longer consider myself a JW. It saddens me that many of my family members that still are JW are blinded. They are only allowed to listen to what they are told and doing anything else is considered apostate or undermining the conglomration. Bill B., I salute you and your efforts, not to bring reproach to Jehovah's name, but to change a serious problem present in the Society's policy in these matters. Also threatening to and/or disfellowshiping those who raise questions to the WTBTS policies is sickening. Having secret letters to the elders and refusing to answer simple questions to inquiring, nationally respected news sources makes me wonder. Is the Watchtower Society protecting themselves or those who truly believe in God and his organization? My world of belief has been shaken by these recent events. I only wish my family and former friends could view this information with an open mind.......sadly, I know this will never happen because it is forbidden by JW policy.

Bill Bowen – I have a question for you. How many sexual abuse cover-ups were YOU involved with? You claim to have served in 100 judicial committees. In 20 years in appointed positions, and 300 years of you being a JW in good standing, how many cover-ups were there under YOUR watch? 10? 20? 300? None? If your answer is "none", does that mean that in 20 years in appointed service, there were NO cases? WOW 20 years is a great run. But if you were involved in a cover-up, which I'm sure you'll never admit to, why don't you turn yourself in at the nearest police station? Would you even admit it? This is all so perplexing, the fact that you were in an appointed position for 20 years (or was it 43?) but you STAYED there, if there were other cases. Wouldn't that make you a criminal, as elders here are so often referred to? What, you were brainwashed? Is that your excuse? Oh, I see. If you were brainwashed for 43 years, why should anyone listen to you? Don't you think you need a little more time to dirty that brain a little more, before its good again? If you can't or won't answer the questions, can one your paralegals here that can't spell answer for you? I wonder how they will apply texts to this one.

Ahhhhh another loving witness to share all that love! I am sure that you are just trying to 'beat' us into submission, that's okay you do what you have to do. You can come in here and post anything that you like, If you feel the need to, go right on ahead, but remember, we are not the only ones that read your post! We can't read into your heart so what we think doesn't really matter now does it? Of course it doesn't! So don't you worry about anything, if it's in your heart the one looking and seeing will know! If you genuinely feel the need to consort with the apostates, even if it's to try and break the spirit, then you go right on ahead, you can go to your next meeting and maybe they will announce that you surpassed your quota in field service with these repeated post! Oh, boy won't that be grand indeed! Everyone will be so proud of you won't they? Of course they will! Your children will say oh what a wonderful parent we have! For our parent went into the apostates dwelling not caring about the little children at all! Only caring about being a bully!!!! They will sing your praises to the heavens you know? OF COURSE YOU DO! Keep up the good work, since the post you've made, even though a repeat, are surly your ticket to HIS kingdom isn't it?

JW WITH 20 QUESTIONS: I suppose the stories from the Abused Lambs are worthless if Bill didn't sit on the judicial committee???? I suppose Barbara Anderson fabricated her story about the 23,000 plus files, just to go through the "fun" of getting disfellowshipped? I think she is 62...yep 62 years old with no other worries so she has to create some. I suppose that all the stories here are just conjured up for Brother 20 questions to blow off. Brother 20 questions: I have one question for you. Have you read all the stories? Or are you a pedophile???? No decent man can read these stories and not be compelled to do something or at least be horrified. Well, I had two questions really. From One of Bill's paralegals who hopes that Buster can do some justice here.

This a rebuttal to the person who suggests that Bill Bowen was involved in judicial child abuse cover-ups. I'm not a paralegal just as you are not a Jehovah's Witness. Ther is also a thing called Webster's Dictionary on-line...... so spelling shoud be up to par. Spaming is childish, redundancy is well......redundant. I believe B. Bowen spoke out, to his JW standing detriment, when he saw cases of child molestation cover up. I also believe this site should be for those who support "the truth", not as the WTBTS states it, but by individuals who have done hours of research on these matters. I would like to hear accounts from those who truely feel they have been wronged by policies set up by the WTBTS. Since this is a public site, everyone is entitled to their opinion, so I'm voicing mine. If you want to endlessly blather nonsense please go to your local JW congreagation. On this site you just get scrolled down until some meaningful discussion is posted. TY for stories, worthwhile discussion, and the Watchtower Observer for giving light to things I was once blinded to. I give support to anyone who is still a Witness and has the courage to research for themselves matters made secret to the organization.

Sequia: You said freedom of religion. I took that to mean the 1st amendment of the constitution of USA. Misunderstood you. You are talking about the lack of freedom within the WTS???? Yes? Obviously, this is the root of the problem, never would I deny that. So, when a brother JW comes here with half open heart "speaking openly"...I should reach out. Ray Franz and Bill Bowen, Barbara Anderson all well respected, dedicated witnesses could not make a dent with the GB, then who can??? By their (Bill etal) stance, a few witnesses will hear and many VICTIMS will have a place to not feel alone, and a few will be saved from this ever happening to them. Even a few will win lawsuits too. Ten years you say you have been reaching out - and you have given up. I say if one person is spared it is worth it. I can't put out the fire, but by God if someone wants out we can be here to "catch" them. The fact that I no longer belong or subscribe to the WTS means that I am no longer in the burning building. Or fanning the flamesI might be confused about what you are saying. I don't have that much hate left in me anymore and I don't have much "causes" left either. I don't want to save anyone - that belongs to Jesus. I am here to comfort. I am not here to convert or be converted. I have had enough of that to last a lifetime.What is meaningful cannot be ripped away from a person - even if it seems meaningless to me. I want to stand calm (which i need to practice) in the face of lies and speak a quiet truth. I can model a lifestyle that is not based on lies and still love Jehovah and not want to destroy the WTS, even if they are wicked. I haven't the strength, it isn't my calling. I would like to open up temporary housing for anyone who needs it. I would like to put an ad in the paper to advertise silentlambs. I would like to do lots of things and maybe I will. For now, I sort out what I can, and lend support here when I can. Pissing in the wind? I don't know. I really don't. I am a tired woman - not ashamed of this either. I have been beaten down once too many times. This old girl needs rest - I have earned it.I have children and grandchildren to nurture. I can't save anyone and my charity begins at home first. But I will reach out to any JW who supports silentlambs - to me that is the purpose of this web site. There are lots of sites for destroying the WTS - sophisticated, well thought out etc...I understand silentlambs to be a place of comfort for those who need it, be it spiritual, practical, legal advice they are not alone and they are not silence here. Rambling on here got to go...work to do. Not sure why we are not communicating here. C.E.

Buster, are you the man? Hurry up and get back here! They need you! Are you the official spokesman? One of the interns here needs some assistance. I'll ask again: What has Bill Bowen been up to the last 20 years, 100 judicial committees? Any child abuse cases in his folder? 100 judicial committees. WOW. Impressive. Any child abuse cases? No? Not even one? In 20 years? Oh wait, yes, YES, a few, no, wait, more than a few. What, when, where, how? Did you go to the police? How many times over 20 years? You couldn't? Why? Brainwashed? Let's establish Bill Bowen's record, make sure he's squeaky clean, and take it from there. After all, wouldn't the folks here like to know? Let me see a show of hands. Ooooooooooooooooh I would love to cross examine Bill. You too Buster.

Unsigned: Pugnacious, moi? No, not really, I just can't stand to listen to to another JW sidestep their personal responsibility with that 'vengeance is mine' or 'wait on Jehovah' malarky - all stuff to keep the sheep in line. I got plenty of that when I was growing up - Franklin, MA. I had more than a couple run-ins with the elders - independant thought and all that. My first-hand experience with the topic was via a friend that reported her dad. It turns out that her mother knew, and defended him to the elders and the other congregation members. He got DFed, she was discouraged from reporting to the cops and never did (as far as I know). - Buster Claudine-(1)dedicated witnessess could not make a dent with the GB, then who can?(answer) Only you can choose who will "dent" the power and authority you choose to submit to.(2) Ten years you say you have been reaching out - and you have given up.(Answer) No, I did not ever say anything of the sort. (Why would I be here?) I said I hope you remember my warnings as I have watched the nature of your postings change. For 10 years I believed that with a constancy of love the JW's in my life would stop being so cruel. I was foolish. Here is a story…An old Indian woman found a snake in the dead of winter half frozen and so weak from the cold. She took it home and nursed it back to health. Once it was strong again it coiled and began to strike the old woman pushing its venom deep into her. As she lay on the floor dying she asked the snake "why would you do this?" "I helped you when you were in trouble." The snake replied, "Look lady you knew I was a snake when you took me in." Be prepared to be burned if you think that you are going to "save" a JW. Most truly do not wish to be "saved". They have it all figured out. Have respect for or at least remember that. Have you read Hassen's new book? I have reservations about it but, if you want to pursue fence "perched" witnesses you should read it. “Fearless love” is a better choice in my opinion but it is only Anne Sanderson's personal story. There is so much baggage that is involved with this issue (rape and battery) and "cultism" issues. (That word "cultism" includes more than religion.) Chew on the burning building for awhile before you say if you're still in the fire. (Only you will know) I do send money to SL and send info to newspapers; I have placed Ads and talk to people. (We both write a lot) I have been commenting on the way you have been concerned about the JWD's who come here. One thing about them is they are tough skinned and can defend themselves. What no JW has yet to realize is I am not their enemy. We assumed in WWII that every Germany was a Nazi and wanted to kill us. (Was not true) We see all of Islam as crazy terrorists that want to blow us up. (Not true) JW's see the entire world as controlled by Satan and we are his right hand man. (Nope) We are in control of what we do. However, we might be intimidated, threatened, promised, things that are not Satan's or ours to sell or take. Love is not compatible with fear. Look at the sins that God hates in proverbs. Turn them around (i.e. blessings that God loves) and ask yourself is this what I do?-Sleep tight…SEQ///Oh ya and BUSTER I hope you are on my side:

"A Respect for Authority" BB here. Hello. Looking over info for this weeks No.1 talk, "Why Respect Authority?"(w00 8/pp.4-7) Those giving or working up that talk might feel good to point out that in many state's, sex offenders must register their residence so all the public can be safe. Truly we want to be grateful for the police and the courts that have the authority to punish criminals... in order to protect the community. But in what areas of our life, as true Christians, is respect for authority called for? Romans 13:3-7 Paul here explains that there would not be any human authority if God did not permit it. In that sense the superior authorities have a relative position within the framework of God's purpose. It therefore follows that "he who opposes the authority has taken a stand against the arrangement of God." Pedophiles and sex offenders practice what is bad have ample reason to fear the authorities' right to act as "an avenger", since the governments do so as "God's minister." ..... Surely if we were the victim of a hanses act by some sexual predator, it would be proper to work with the proper authorities to see that one is punished. We should not hide this for that would be taking a stand against the arrangement of God. Paul concludes his reasoning by saying; "There is therefore compelling reason for you people to be in subjection, not only on account of that wrath but also on account of your conscience." So with good conscience, we can support seeing a sex offender being reported and put away... and in this way one may receive praise from the superior authorities... and still be within the framework of God's purpose. The last paragraph says; "While respect for authority is rapidly disappearing in the world, as Christians we recognize that proper authorities in the community, in the family, and in the Christian congregation are established for our benefit. Respect for authority is essential for our well-being physically, emotionally, and spiritually, By accepting and respecting such God-given authority, we will be safeguarded by the greatest authorities, Jehovah God and Jesus Christ for our eternal good. _Psalm 119:165; Hebrews 1:9. As a side note, hopefully, lawyers don't mess things up in the way they explain this to the worldly press as of late... considering how others may perceive us. Could any of our actions or words be misunderstood and thus be a cause for stumbling others? We will have to wait and wonder if their actions will prove true today for the Christian congregation, to be "a pillar and support of the truth.”(1Timothy 3:15) ... That Bible tells all people, whether believers or unbelievers, to have "A Respect for Authority" yes a respect for civil authority,... is ESSENTIAL... for all citizens... BB

20 questions: First off, no, I am not anyone's spokesman. But I would like to discuss, politely, the series of questions written for Bill. The one that claimed to be a paralegal sensed the first point you made: you were calling Bill's credibility into question because of his past complicity with the organization and processes he fights so sternly against. Believe it or not, I consider that a valid point. If Bill were making this point by himself and failing to substantiate it, your point could carry the day. Nonetheless, Bill does not make his point on his own, as the 'paralegal' asserts, and you would need to push back one heck of a lot testimony and evidence to invalidate the point he is trying to make. The next point I want to make is much more interesting: It is a very typical cult defenses to personally attack the bearer of criticism. It feels like a strong defense to those making it. But those hearing it can recognize the irrelevancy of the argument. It does not matter how many judicial committees Bill served on and how many coverups he may have participated in. The question is: Do you doubt that he has close-up knowledge of the events he describes? If you did, I think you would be expressing your opinion differently. You would be addressing where and why you think he is wrong, or lying. But you don't - you attack him. I think everyone but you can see your weakness here. - Buster

Sorry gang, I couldn't resist the ABC alphabet thing... A little exercise of the brain now and then is kinda fun. :-) -- BTW, Mr./Mrs. 20 Questions/ABC Kid/JWD, or whoever you are, if you're a hurting puppy we really would like to help, but you gotta tone down the obnoxiousness. I see Buster gave you a sincere reply. Wasn't that nice of Buster? I think so. And, frankly, I could care less if he had sat thru 300 cases and never spoke up. He REDEMMED HIMSELF by coming forward and cracking open the conspiracy, which is a thousand times more noble than the GB "holier than thou attitude" members have done. I still say you should call Bowen directly if you REALLY want answers. /SLC

Hey, people, this site really is a great place! It reminds me of being at the farmer's market -- all sorts of colorful "Fruits and Veggies and Nuts" stopping by and having a chat. It must be like the marketplaces of the first century where people gathered, but cyber-style. They gathered at various times of the day or night to share a thought, a feeling, or to ask a question. This is a Good Thing! We have everything from the Older Wiser Ones, to the Town Criers and Town Whiners. We have Scholarly Types to Absent-Minded Professors. We have ABC Kids causing their usual mischief, and then we have Tourists and Transients, some who come and stay, some who pass on through. We have the Pained and Tormented and Abused to the Healthy, Wealthy and Wise. We have Spiritual Doctors, Motherly Counselors, Fatherly Advisors, and our Inspirators, too. We have our Jesters, Satirists and Critics. We have our Judges and our Juries. We even have an Executioner or Two (usually the ones with the hoods over their heads, easy to spot, nameless). We have a few Teenagers, still a little roudy but not near as childish as the ABC Kids. We have lots of Writers and some Reporters for our "town" paper. I say, Come One, Come All! We all have ONE THING in common: Shoulders to Cry On, Shoulders to Lean On. WELCOME to SILENT LAMBS!! The Hearts of Our City Gates are Open to All! C.E.! I have been beaten down once too many times. This old girl needs rest - I have earned it." ----- Also, I feel this is right, your description of this SL site: "But I will reach out to any JW who supports silentlamb - to me that is the purpose of this web site. There are lots of sites for destroying the WTS - sophisticated, well thought out etc...I understand silentlamb to be a place of comfort for those who need it." ----- Hang in there, CE! Hi Conchita and welcome. I think you misunderstood what THE MOLE was saying. THE MOLE is on OUR SIDE. What he meant, I think, is that the WTS is trying to REDUCE THE EXPOSURE (to the truth) and they even go so far as to SELECT THE TALKS which the JWs are to use in their congregations, and in this way the society feels they can SILENCE BILL (i.e., by not letting the JWs in the congs HEAR the TRUE info). /SLC --- (THE MOLE had written "...by reducing the exposure and select talks that we are to do, lowers the feeling of guilt. This is how Bill will be silenced...THE MOLE* And Conchita replied: "Ever hear the saying, "The truth hurts?" == Mole, why SHOULD Bill be SILENCED?"

Even tho no longer a JW, I still believe in the devil and his wicked spirit creatures, and I also still believe in Jehovah and Jesus Christ and Holy Spirit and the angels. Without a doubt in my early days as a JW, Holy Spirit showed me things in my apt. I needed to trash, things that were right in front of my face and I didn't even realize it, and that was immediately after a specific prayer about such things. (Hey, it made a believer out of me!) There were creepier things that happened, too, but I won't go into that. I am also ticked off at the GB and the WTBTS in general for their behavior and lies and two-faced-hypocrisy. --- I like Rich (agree with what Soapbox said), and I also like Buster and what he writes. Someone asked: "So does the dismissal of the letter to the GB by Bill mean that they (the GB) are not guilty of the charges presented or are they just above the laws (Burdens) that they place on everyone else?" ----- Dear Someone: I believe you answered your own question. IMO the GB feels they are above everyone else, and even if they are admitting their guilt to each other behind closed doors, they are showing by their actions they have NO INTENTIONS of admitting to it. It's like Defendants on trial who opt NOT to take the witness stand, for fear the cross-examination by the Prosecutor will bring out too many details for which the Defendant does NOT wish to answer to. TO VICTIM of Ramon Castro, WELCOME! I applaud you for posting your abuser's name!!! I think all the abused lambs should do so. I already posted my pedophile uncle's name on here months ago (not a JW, though, but what the hay. He's still a bona fide pedophile). However, may I make a suggestion? You suggested people call/write your abuser. That is fine as long as they do it only once (and go easy on the death threats!). If anyone makes consistent calls, they can be traced by the phone company. I would suggest using a pay phone or anonymous letter, depending on how blunt you write your feelings. (Wear gloves when writing and don't lick the envelope - DNA! Maybe a postcard? That way all mail handlers between your town and his can read it!) Just an idea. AND THANKS AGAIN FOR POSTING!!! No, I'm not that ABC kid. Good try. Quite frankly, I think he should be a little more constructive. He did post some funny jokes, though. And I am not Fred Hall, whoever that is. Brother 20 Questions, Bozo-The-Clown, Ronald McDonald lol - Buster, I'll post again what I originally wrote, since my follow-up post to clarify what I meant did you no good. Here you go: "Bill Bowen – I have a question for you. How many sexual abuse cover-ups were YOU involved with? You claim to have served in 100 judicial committees. In 20 years in appointed positions, and 300 years of you being a JW in good standing, how many cover-ups were there under YOUR watch? 10? 20? 30? None? If your answer is “none”, does that mean that in 20 years in appointed service, there were NO cases? WOW 20 years is a great run. But if you were involved in a cover-up, which I'm sure you'll never admit to, why don't you turn yourself in at the nearest police station? Would you even admit it? This is all so perplexing, the fact that you were in an appointed position for 20 years (or was it 43?) but you STAYED there, if there were other cases. Wouldn't that make you a criminal, as elders here are so often referred to? What, you were brainwashed? Is that your excuse? Oh, I see. If you were brainwashed for 43 years, why should anyone listen to you? Don't you think you need a little more time to dirty that brain a little more, before its good again? If you can't or won't answer the questions, can one your paralegals here that can't spell answer for you? I wonder how they will apply texts to this one”. Maybe THIS time you will stay on topic, and give me some straight answers. The more you sidestep, the more curious your responses seem to me. These are simple questions, after all. Compared to some of the ones that are devoid of any human intellect that frequently appear here. And I DID write to Bill Bowen. Right here, for all to see. Doesn't he like public debates? Ignore me all you want SLC. Engaging in a debate with you would be uninteresting, since you rely on name-calling, as evidenced by 99 percent of your posts. I want the more intelligent ones, like Buster. Wish I could talk to him one-on-one. I get the feeling he and I would at least walk away respecting each other's opinion.

so buster, you grew up as a JW child and later had run-ins with the elders. i might have guessed. bitter and twisted? you never know i might agree entirely with how you feel. maybe if you read my original post, not the one about spirits, you'll agree with what i said. i'm just trying to defend my cong, not the society. i agree that my reasoning on spirits wasn't good, but i know how i feel about my cong. if i thought holy spirit wasn't there then i'm sure i'd know about it. but then that comes down to faith. some of us have it, some don't, and that would include so called 'true JWs' as Linda T put it. you seem to view me in the same light as all other robot JWs, who 'face Brooklyn when worshiping'. i would love to know if 'true JW = true Christian'. i think the answer lies in 'true to what and to whom?' It's my opinion that the "policy" is to isolate the person who has problems (not just child molestation issues) and to make the pained person believe that they're the only one having a problem. So, one walks around feeling hurt, alone, violated and ashamed -- impotent. After YEARS, one gets the confidence of a friend and learns that he or she (frequently, it's a SHE) had the same experience in the same situation and they were made to feel as if it was their fault and no one else has that problem. The Bible wants us to RESOLVE issues. Matthew 5 and Matthew 18's recommendation is to make peace with one's brother and to win them. How can this be accomplished when even (or ESPECIALLY) elders don't follow scriptural advise in settling matters (in particular, QUICKLY), do not respect the steps in settling matters, get involved before the appropriate steps are taken by individuals, violate confidentiality (a sister told me she overheard one elder telling another out-of-area elder the details of a matter even though he wasn't in their congregation and it wasn't his business), become prejudiced because they're pre-judging, etc.? This procedure will not always be done properly or successfully but if it's hardly done at all, how can anyone learn that's the way to handle things? There's a lot of gossip going around in the congregations. Also, it's spread to friends of friends in other congregations and, maybe, to other states or countries. In my opinion, no one should be accused of gossip until they get ALL the gossip under control in each congregation. Right now, accusations of gossip seem to be done when it's convenient even though it's very prevalent in everyone's congregation. One needs to know what is gossip and what isn't -- when it's gossip and when it isn't.

dear brother 20-questions. There are ways for you to contact Bill Bowen. look around on this web-site for the e-mail addy for Bill. There is no one here that will presume to answer those questions for him. We can give you our answers and opinions but that is obviously not what you want. Bill is a very busy man but he is also a kind thoughtful man too.
I am sure that if you have a sincere desire to learn the answers to troubling questions he will take time out to answer you. Loris – Rip and tear at him? I have a question for you. Wouldn't you like to know? No? You don't care? You loooooove to pose “thinkers” for active JW’s, to think about the history of the WT, to question the teachings of the WT, etc., etc. God forgive when someone asks YOU to think about what your messiah has been up to. IGNORE HIM, CALL HIM NAMES, GIVE HIM BILL’S NUMBER, ETC., ETC, you say. Now I say to you: If you can't take the heat, get out of the kitchen. As long as there are questions for us, there will be some questions for you. And yes, I'd like to hear your opinions, don't put words into my mouth, saying that I do not want your opinions. Of course, your opinion will be chock full of miracle wheat, mansions, etc. What will be missing is an honest answer. One like this "Yeah, 20 years is a long time. Fill us in Bill, so we won't keep hearing the questions”.

The mole*Do not argue Religion with the Witnesses, for his doctrines are built upon a misuse of the bible, texts and passages. bible IS used like building blocks to back up fake conclusions. Another dont is not to engage in a conversation about present events with the Witnesses. Dont buy literature or accept anything they claim to be free, because walking up to your door is how they make the most of it. Be courteous but firm in not wanting to except thier books or having them come back for further conversation, do not answer them if they delve into your religion or personal lives this information is repeated and written in notes for the next incounter.....A two edged sword which they misused did what it could be expected to do. It cut us off from normalcy, and from the personal relationship from Christ. As you have read by the many useless banter here in this sight that many regular and active people with the Organization have became slaves and to its routine, and thus lead also themselves into a spiritual captivity.....those whose ignorance is now well documented should remain silent and learn how those of us has learned to live with much sacrifice. Being that I am a minersterial servant who disagrees with alot of policies from the Organization so it is my place to educate the benighted ridiculars of my faith to see why those vile humans have had the opportunity to come into our Kingdom Halls and disgrace the children....Clearly one has not read anything I have written in the past on this sight to question me on the most silly of things, let logic be posed for me to answer not trivial things that waste all of our time....................THE MOLE*******

This is fun. This went from “Lets get them” and “This is war” etc., etc., to “Ignore them” and “Do not argue religion with them (sic)”. Hey I'm curious, did you all go to the same school? You can't spell. Here's some examples from the mole “except” instead of “accept”, “thier” instead of “their”, “minersterial” instead of “ministerial” and the kicker “benighted ridiculars” instead of “benighted ridiculers”. And that's just the mole. The leaders of your movement can't spell, that's embarrassing. Mole, I sincerely doubt that you are a Ministerial Servant. If you are, you're not standing up for your beliefs and making them heard in your hall, as they would remove you faster that SLC can fire off a misspelled post. If you have voiced your opinion, then that would make you a liar about being an MS. Catch 22.

To the one that says he is not abc kid. Let's suppose that Bill Bowen witnessed the abuse and was even involved in cover ups of whatever in the Congregations of Jeh. Witnessess Congregations. The fact is that he is not doing it now. He fights against it and wants justice done to all that come forward. If he is guilty of anything the Organization of JW would have accused him of that a long time ago. I don't think they can produce anything incriminating about him.
But who knows.. we all were guilty of something in the WT. But he is definitely a good man. As for you? You just admitted your own guilt and participation in all you suspect Bill was involved in and that IS criminal! You my friend are still steeped in all that the WT produces which is basicaly all Evil and punishable by the Law of man and God. rmk

Catch 22 .. I have always believed that poor grammar and spelling are signs that the person professing to be a secular education until recently. Regardless of your view of this matter---proper etiquette and simple "good form" should preclude you from making below the belt comments. Again THIS GUESTBOOK is NOT the place to discuss

Interesting. This is not the place to discuss doctrine, huh? Here's a definition of doctrine: 1. A principle or body of principles presented for acceptance or belief, as by a religious, political, scientific, or philosophic group; dogma. 2. A rule or principle of law, especially when established by precedent. 3. A statement of official government policy, especially in foreign affairs and military strategy. 4. Archaic. Something taught; a teaching. The two witness rule is a doctrine.... You seem to discuss doctrine all the time. Practice what you preach. And answer my questions, before I repost them for your benefit.

Catch 22: you come from a place (WTS) where all the questions have all the same answers and if not your booted out. Here, we have different questions and each person has a different view and answer. Even as to the purpose of this site!!!! You were answered by many people here. However, because we didn't answer the "correct" answer, you keep asking again and again. You asked your questions, and we gave you the answer: we don't care what Bill "did", we care about what he is doing NOW. That is called discussion between peers and/or HEARING THE ANSWER, also known as listening. you want to control the questions and the answers - can't do that here, only at the KH is that allowed and encouraged! Try discussion by responding to our answers without ridicule. I asked yesterday if you have read the letters from so many ones who have been harmed - have you? If so, what do you feel about them? I thought you all might enjoy this, I was referred to this today on a message board in response to my posts........Here it is: Every so often we get so stuck with specifics and the latest WT scandals or doctrinal nuances that it's good to get back to the basics. That is the purpose of this thread. I cannot count the times that, when dubs arguments are demolished with quotes from their own literature and practices, they resort to this statement in sheer desperation: Well, at least weve got the basics right. No trinity, no hellfire and no immortal soul. The problem with this is that those are NOT the basics. Not even close. And not a single one of that trinity of basics has a single thing to do with the quality of one's life or how one deals with life, family and others. In fact, there are as many sound arguments for those beliefs as there are against them. If God considered those basic beliefs as the real basics, he would have made darn sure the Bible would have been written in such a way that his position on the matter was crystal clear. He didn't, so they aren't. Well, what ARE the basics, then? More importantly, do Jehovah's Witnesses live up to ALL the basics, or do they live up to ANY of the basics? Since Jehovah's Witnesses not only claim to be Christians, but the ONLY human Christians in the entire Universe, we can use the words of Christ to define those basics. I think the Bible is pretty clear when it discusses what Christ said about the basics. In fact, Jesus was crystal clear about what HE considered to be the most important basics. Jesus said that with his coming, the old Jewish law was fulfilled and therefore abolished. On the other hand, the WTS considers parts of the law to be so important to their religion, that they've made POLICY and RULES on what they call important principles in that law. But Jesus didn't say he wasn't relieving Christians from the principles of the law. He said he was relieving Christians from the law itself. Period. Not some of it. Not most of it. But ALL of it. One therefore has to ask why the WT has made RULES and POLICIES out of Jewish law and enforced those rules with spiritual execution. Principles are fine and dandy, but to FORCE an interpretation of these interpretations as LAW is exactly the opposite of what Jesus said and did and exactly what the leaders of Jehovah's Witnesses have done. By doing so, they are saying Jesus was a LIAR. It can be no other way, despite how they try to explain their actions away. Simple case in point: the Jews used to stone people to death (including children) who were consistently wicked. The WT magazine in an early 1950's article spoke rather fondly of that practice and regretted that the laws of the land in modern times prevented them from stoning their own children who were rebellious. I would like to point out that with those words the Watchtower Leaders regretted the very words of Jesus in abolishing that provision. How could the only True Christian faith dare REGRET the laws established by Jesus Christ himself? They were sad they wished Jesus hadn't done what he had done and wished the laws of modern society actually agreed with what Jesus had abolished for Christians. And they're his followers? His faithful slave? HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA! How many slaves do you know can get away with calling their masters a liar and still be favored by their masters? THATS' what I mean about talking about the basics. In fact, Jesus himself said the entire law could be summed up into two basic and simple things: love God and love your neighbor. It doesn't get more basic than that, folks. Well, the Watchtower religion thinks differently. It has to play with what it thought Jesus really meant when he was talking about loving your neighbor. To a simple schmuck like me, loving your neighbor means without making this too complicated, "loving your neighbor." That looks really dang basic to me! To the Watchtower Religion, however, it means not loving your neighbor, but loving your fellow JW. So if a neighbor is not a JW, he must not be a neighbor, even if he just happens to be an actual neighbor. HAHAHAHAHAHAHAHA! Or, when cornered on that one, they say that they do love all of their neighbors and they show that love to non-believers by selling them books and converting them. So, in sticking with the basics, how did Jesus explain to us to show love to our neighbors? He told us the story about the Good Samaritan. The Samaritans were a group of people HATED by the Jews, yet Jesus showed believers that the Jews were not following his teachings because none of them helped out the poor man who was hurt and robbed by bandits. They just kept walking on by him, showing their hate and prejudice. It took an evil Samaritan to show the kind of help for neighbors he was talking about. That Samaritan didn't sell the guy any books or even give him any books, and that Samaritan didn't offer to study with the victim to show his love and compassion for him. NO! He ignored their differences and helped the guy out with what he really needed at the moment: wounds that needed healing and money to get him going again. It doesn't get more obvious and more basic than that, yet JWs are taught to do exactly the OPPOSITE of what that Samaritan did. Once again, by their actions they are calling Jesus a LIAR once again. This is really simple stuff, folks. No arguments over doctrine. The Good Samaritan story is so simple a 4-year-old child would get it. The Watchtower Religion doesn't get it. I'll put my trust in a 4-year-old child. With regards to their claims that they DO show love for each other in their own religion (even if they dont for people in other religions), they still have RULES and POLICIES about that! The WT and Proclaimers book specifically state that for the congregation as an entity to help out one of their own in need the following POLICIES must be observed: 1) The person in need must first have asked all his/her relatives for help and been refused any help. 2) The person in need must have had a LONG record of service in the Watchtower religion. 3)
The person in need must have also had not just a long record of service, but a long record of FAITHFUL service in the Watchtower religion. Otherwise, that person is screwed and the congregation is not allowed to help. This is in print, folks. I didn't make this up. I've posted the references before. Does she have long years of service, but not always faithful service in all those long years? No? She screwed. Does she have short years of service, but all of those short years were indeed years of faithful service? No? Shes still screwed. The congregation will not help her.
Love your God and love your neighbor. Simple words. The basics. The words of Pharisees trying to make rules out of the basics and in fact, invalidate them. Jesus is a liar once again in WatchtowerLand. Would any JW care to explain to us how the Watchtower Religion can make RULES about the congregation helping others that aren't even close to following the example Jesus gave to illustrate his point? Moreover, we aren't talking about total strangers who are also non-believers (like the Samaritan and the Jew), but to JW brothers and sisters in need. In Part II, I'll discuss even more examples of the basics that most other Christian religions have figured out and that the Watchtower hasn't. I'm only going to deal with the really, really, really EASY stuff. The stuff that is so easy, it cannot be debated with a straight face; the stuff toddlers can understand and apply, but for some strange reason, seems to totally escape the leaders of Jehovah's Witnesses. And a good percentage of the 6,000,000 people who worship their words. Despite what they say, they don't even have the basics right. Not even the simple stuff.>>>>>>>>> This really came at a good time for me. Only in the last couple of years have I had the slightest desire to hear any doctrinal talk whatsoever.
Before then, I would get furious and leave the room, not wanting to hear one bit of it. I've now come to the point where I have lots of questions, which I've been posting on another site on a message board. The information above is what I've been asking about. I thought maybe some of you would be interested in reading this too. Linda Thoman

THIS IS FOR BUSTER, IF YOU COULDN'T BE BOTHERED TO GO BACK TO MY ORIGINAL POSTING I'VE BROUGHT IT HERE JUST FOR YOU, WITH LOVE. XXXXXX hi to all the lambs out there. my name is Rich, i'm an active JW and i've just read 'crisis of conscience'. its been said that it was a "banned" book and that it shouldn't be read. well i'll make my own mind up on what i'll read and what i wont. if this book was merely lies, then what does the society fear from lies? it seems to me they fear the truth that is told in books like these. there's a lot of people who are now starting to question and have doubts about the FDS and rightly so. i was baptised 2 years ago and i was suspicious of the society then and they've done nothing to make me think any different, and now i've had to learn the truth from other people. i have posted comment on this site before under 'a concerned JW' because of paranoia, amazing isn't it, how the society can affect me like this. well im not gona be worried about what they think anymore. i've learned that the majority of JWs seem to be on what i can only describe as 'auto pilot'. they're too busy concerned about getting there reports in and attending meetings and their pre-studies that their true spiritual self becomes dormant, thinking that what they do is the most important thing and as long as they do what the society keeps drilling into them as to what they should do then thats ok. well i'll tell i dont pre-study ever, if i miss a meeting there's no big deal. if i put a report in late, who do i hurt? as long as i'm developing my relationship with God through Christ by studying Gods word, thats the important thing. i've brought out points in meetings that nobody else would have brought because the FDS never pointed to them scriptures in the first place. what possible benifit do i get from answering aquestion when we've already just read the answer? it just seems to be a way of conditioning the mind to accept what the FDS says and to obey what they say. someone mentioned before about not critising the society etc and that this site is just for cases of abuse. well the problem of covering up abuse isnt just about '2 witnesses' etc, its about the whole attitude thats developed by the FDS through all their dogma. when i was studying i was told that this wasn't a 'religion', from what i've learned it is. they say theres no rules, but there is. there seems to be more rules than any other org i've known. people expect you to dress in a suit and have a side parting. well i wont wear a suit and i've got a skinhead, and i really couldn't care less what others think. i dont attend meeting to try and impress anyone and i have the right to be an individual. all these sorts of things the society try to oppress. well i think for myself. i wont give my mind away. i have a bible trained conscience not a FDS trained conscience. if JWs want to do different then thats up to them, i wont try to change their way of doing things, and i expect others not to try and change me. i was disgusted by that GB member towards the end of the Panorama program. to me he just summed up the entire attitude by what he said. i told my mom that night i watched it that i considered myself as not being part of the society, only the congregation. i wont be attending anymore conventions and assemblies, where we get mind-controlled to obey the FDS's every command. some JW's believe that the society will go through at armageddon, and not sure they'll survive the great tribulation. my thoughts and prayers got to Bill and his family and all those who have been betrayed by the society. IF THIS AINT GOOD ENOUGH FOR YOU THEN JUST STICK ME IN A GAS CHAMBER. MIND YOU, YOU PROBABLY THINK I ALREADY ATTEND A GAS CHAMBER. you see, i do have a sense of humour.

have any of you ever noticed that kids that grow up in the organization blow the doors down when they're 18 and put as much distance as possible between JW and themselves? Only a very few remain in the organization. I left after a talk in the KH re: not sending your kids to college. On that same day, an elder's wife (who was a good friend of mine) asked me if i didn't think I could get by on part-time work and pioneer instead. As I was a single parent, that was out of the question, and I was appalled that she had the nerve to ask me. I'm proud to tell you I left the organization in disgust, and my child graduated summa cum laude from U. of Houston with a degree in computer information systems. Proud mom
To Proud Mom....Good for you! I wish I had the wherewithall to do the same thing a very long time ago. I wasn't allowed to go to college either, nor even bring up the subject to my parents. I'm 42 now, but wish I had left long before I did. I did as my parents raised me to do...got married at 17, had lots of kids, and was the "dutiful christian wife" to an abusive witness. I stayed married to that &%$#@&%* for 15 very long years, then divorced him. I was told I couldn't remarry, since my divorce wasn't due to adultery. Whatever....I'm now engaged to a wonderful, LOVING man. I couldn't feel more free than I do now. I wish I could have gone to college though. The Society is so wishy-washy on that subject. They loosened up years ago, way too late for me though, and now they've gone back to No college, just barely get by and pioneer. Yawn.........Thank goodness you didn't listen. Linda Thoman

*THE MOLE "True love and peace within the Organization; let's remain under God's rule with faith." These words where spoken at the last district assembly of Jehovah's Witness in July. Do they speak the truth or with fork tongues? Beware all members of the Organization; the time I warned you about have begun; they are out to find you. With a smiles and cheer they come into your home to sneer. They sit in your home and listen to your every word and test every comment to see if your worthy of their man mad blessings and give their evaluation of what they feel how spiritual you are not knowing only God himself can only see these things. Can they really see the love within a person or is of their own perspective they what should be in their own eyes. Their doomsday Prophets has spoken again. In so many words they have declared that the year 2004 will be the coming of Christ; however, they are a little smarter than before when they prophesized in 1975 and 1984 that the end would come. So by not putting anything in print they have plausible deniability if it doesn't come as expected. What is so humorous is that many Brothers and Sisters during one of our afternoon breaks at the assembly gave a long and detail synopsis of how the world is coming to an end and how his family is preparing for it. I laughed heartily while listening to one of our member's go on and on how they are so faithful and how Jehovah will save them in the time of need. Can anyone be haughtier than this; does this sound like the Pharisees? The real question to ask is will the organization stop or discourage such talk?  A well-known and reputable speaker within the Society declared this at our convention and so I thought this needed to be said and I quote,,,, "The time has come when those inside our organization will cool off and betray our brotherhood, ... the time is near and the weeding out has begun. The end of the times as declared by the apostles and Jesus is now!"" If these words are true than 98% of the world's population is dead with no hope of salvation through Christ, so all peoples of the world must conform to the ideas of the Jehovah's Witness' that salvation must come through their organization. There is NO scripture in the Bible that declared salvation through an organization, it says though it's through Christ alone. Are they to makes us believe they alone have this power? Why would a God of love and peace destroy the innocent along with the evil? The Jehovah's Witness' proclaim they have covered the world with their worldwide teaching and that those who didn't listen will be destroyed, the Mormons are declaring the same message, which is correct? Also are this showing true love and a good example to others around them who are looking for the rule truth about God and his Son? Another thing is that they have an excuse for every crime they commit and act of abhorred brutality they do, the cover ups would reach the sky but will they admit it; but no, it is all good because Jehovah god will only forgive them and no one else..... Beware all; they have started their witch-hunt to look for apostates within their own organization. Its looks like they are ready to atrophied as a group of people. Not only do they have enemies on the outside but also on the inside. Many faithful members are now ready to dig in and wait for the fight as I am doing now. Any person in any congregation can now accuse someone of a wrongdoing and remain hidden while the cost to defend one self is enormous to the accused. Does this sound familiar in our Christian past? So now we wait for the new inquisition and burning at the stake just like before when the Pope said all those questioning their authority is to be sought out and purged for their sins. ....... Along with others who are still members, including me are watching with a careful eye; we are waiting for the headhunt to begin and see how their book-burning club seeks out betrayers in their own ranks. One fact is the Elders will come to your home telling you they are there for encouragement while the whole time they are searching through your house and judging you with their soft

A call to arms my friends, the dreaded day has come for us all who love freedom. The attack to the public is about to begin with a song, not with airplanes crashing raining bodies upon us, but our own compatriots who will deceive us and give us to those dogs waiting to feed upon our carcasses. The very day we all thought would come has come through our back door with glory and praise. Welcomed by all who love stability, they are willing to accept slavery and shackles. Yes, shackles. That is what our future will be if we do not prepare now. The Office of Home Security shall hang in the balance. Safety with more laws, or risk to maintain our liberty: the decision to resist is now or those devils can be easily spotted and dealt with from now on; but our freedom must come first, not to lose focus. Our government has known about the problem of this horrid race of people and let their actions ride on the carousel of world attention. We the people need to gather for ourselves, supplies and prepare to resist. The Senate has declared an emergency for monitoring all suspected terrorist: who would that be? The man screaming for justice, the person accused of not conforming to the majorities request, or someone out of anger screams profanity to the cops. All of us now are targets, just as the KGB monitored their own so shall The Office of Home Security do to us. We all know there is no such thing as temporary just from the example of our recent history like the IRS that is still functioning and Welfare still handing checks to the foreigners.>

> Remember those accused of being anti-American who sided with the militia or the man writing letters of protest to speak his mind? We are all under scrutiny and must prepare for a home invasion from the masked police coming through our door late at night. This is our real future and now is the time to speak up or lose the fight before it starts. As I have written before our government has waived the steak of prosperity too often and too long to those starving dogs out there, the foreigners have been exploited by the greedy corporations from the United States and our armies are to police the world, Say No to it all. The Muslim religion condones the deaths of the innocent, don't be mislead, we know the truth, even their wicked Muhammad excepted a beheaded skull of a non-believer as a gift and this is written in the Koran. > A book written by Stansfield Turner; Terrorism and Democracy makes the point of terror to our country in one simple sentence “We should set our sights high in hope that the burden of terrorism we are presently carrying will be a blessing in disguise by helping usher in a new era of world cooperation that will reach well beyond the suppression of terrorism itself.> The idea of a New World Order is now in the making, it's clay feet mixed with iron shall stand tall and rule the world supposedly with one unified government. Is it possible those TERRORIST may be right they didn't have the education or technology to fund such and operation? What is curious it took an attack for the United Stated to have NATO and all western allies shout with one voice, could it be trickery at the expense of THREE thousand lives to bring about this New World Order? Is it not funny that the Jehovah's Witnesses want us to be sheep? We have a lot of questioning to do before we give ourselves to nationalism and the United Nations or Religions that wish us to be robots. To the one who attacked mile, I believe you fall into one of these groups.

People really need to be careful of spouting their OPINIONS from the platform. Yes, there has been concern about young people going on to college or university, however, it was concern for their spiritual welfare. Officially, there isn't any prohibition from going to college or university. Sometimes, in trying to do what is right, it's difficult to make rules that'll fit in all situations. Too bad just one talk from the platform could just "change" you so quickly -- at least you make it sound as if it was a fast decision. Ultimately, it's Jehovah God that we want to care about, not people. HE says that we should do all things in moderation and that we should be like wolves in sheep's clothing. He's not saying we can't better ourselves. He's saying that we need to be aware of the snares along away and to remember HIM in our pursuits -- especially his love, mercy, and understanding.

You left and never came back? You were young then. Can you view the situation differently now or are you still trying to justify to yourself the rightness of your course back when you were, really, a child? If so, then you're still reasoning as a child. That's not a put down. We all need to do some growing up so that we can appreciate underlying principles and recommendations with a more understanding "eye". There's an old saying: From experience, people talk; from MORE experience, they DON'T talk. Sometimes, people rattle their mouths off and they don't know a thing about what they're talking about so they can't put the necessary wisdom in the words they may be reading from a scripted talk. There are those, too, that love to put their 2¢ (cents) in and that makes alterations in the scripted talk that were never intended. We get counsel all the time about being careful to not be pushing our opinions on others. Too bad you were still a baby when you heard that talk and couldn't deal with the speaker and his information in a more critical manner.

Has anyone noticed that the percentage of abused at 28,000 compared to 6,000,000 is 0.0046? Or, that leaves 5,972,000 JW's left over. ------ If only 3 elders were involved with each case, that's 84,000 elders. That leaves 5,888,000 JW's. ------ I'm NOT minimizing the harm done to victims nor do I want anyone using these figures to minimize the harm done to victims. The thing is that ALL JW's are being abused by all this when it's not all JW's that are like this. Some of us have been around long enough to know that we need to take some things with a grain of salt. Believe it or not, there is an "underground" network in many congregations. The abused find each other and have sympathetic ears and hearts to talk to. The elders don't know it, though. They hear what they want to hear and think that everything is just "hunky dory" and they're wonderful. At least it won't take Jehovah's Witnesses CENTURIES to change as it did one church organization that we've heard of lately. I don't think this would be out in the open if Jehovah God, himself, didn't want the stink aired out and taken care of. It's out in the open because those that should have didn't take care of it as they should have. We're dealing with personalities and that's not always easy to deal with. Unfortunately, those personalities don't know yet that they're looking and sounding more and more as though they've adapted the thinking that they're infallible. No JW is such, no matter who he or she is.

The 23,720 number is for the United States, Canada and some European countries. The witnesses in these regions total less than 2 million. (Check your yearbook) Also there is a question as how a person makes the list. Does he need to confess? Does he need to be convicted in a court of law, accused by two witnesses or exactly how? The Watchtower Society is the only one with these answers.

I never thought I was in a right wing group, I still don't believe that I am. However, some of the statements are true and some exaggerated. I hope you publish my letter in response to your previous letter. I too have had some questions about being a Jehovah's Witness. I was born into the situation and known no other. I have never known any other religion and my parents kept me very isolated from others who were considered worldly (pagans). I believe that we do good, but the attitude by most people is apathy so it has been a struggle for us. It is true most in our group believe everything that is written in our Watchtower Magazine, but that goes for any Religion who publishes anything. I have seen the wrongs; however, this is by no means an expose' of my congregation nor of the others I know of personally. I remember the 1975 period when my parents didn't believe that the world was going to end and my fathers disfellowshipping. I also remember the 1980-83 shake up of our Society which is still very vivid in my mind. Yet my mom wanted to return to our kingdom hall anyway because all her family are members of the Jehovah's Witnesses; nevertheless, it took years for her to get excepted back into our religion, and my father, he rather not have anything to do with the religion or any other religion as far as he is concerned. I will admit that I am a baptized member of the Organization of Jehovah's Witnesses and I will tell my experience and the truth of what I seen. This is in no way meant to hurt all those I love by writing this response . There are couple of incidents I will mention but I will keep the names hidden so as too refrain from harming the innocent. I remember not long ago in a different hall , there was an incident that shocked everyone and no one said anything . It is my belief and still is, that everyone was afraid to speak up in fear of reprisals. A young man in the north area was found molesting young children that he was in care of. The parents were very upset and went to the Elders of their hall to complain. It was a horrible scandal that literally shook everyone's pillars. I personally thought he was going to prison for his actions. The young mans parents begged the Elders not to turn him into the police and the young man cried and begged also. With pleading tears the Elders said they would see into the matter. To my knowledge the children's parents were about to inform the police but the Elders told them that it was unscriptual to call the law. They gave the scripture about how it is wrong to sue one another. Basically, I think they wanted to hush the matter so that reproach wouldn't fall on their congregation. The young man received a demotion and a public reproving. I was shocked, We are suppose to be in subjection to God's laws and to man's law. This was clearly breaking man's law not reporting the matter to the authorities. It was quiet put aside. I was told that one of the Elders gave a talk to the congregation about gossip and subtle threats about discussing things that were of a judicial matter. Fear instilled in the hearts kept everyone silent. This was the most mom cried to hear that some of her friends were removed. Once again she was devastated. Some of those people helped her through her crisis and helped her remained active despite my dads feelings. She continued without a word

My reasons are mine on why I did get baptized;however, I know this, I will be more cautious and not fall prey to wild thinking or throw my life away preaching. I seen the best of both worlds and I will be like my dad, I also will have the devotion like my mother to those I love and care about. It scares me personally to see people suffer needlessly like my friends girlfriend. It shakes me up on how disgusting it is to cover up legal matters and let others be abused; therefore, I believe that my god Jehovah will destroy these people, and I do believe in him without question. I will not listen to any mans foolishness on what they believe god thinks or what they think he wants. Our hearts he will search out, not bible zealots who feel they are better than anyone else. I have my regrets. I promise not ever to do to my children what was done to me in my past. I will not deprive them the need to release nor to communicate or to express themselves.

as I was hindered. I think my life could have been much more than it is now. I have a weak high school education because at that time when I was in high school the J.W. organization did discourage any extra curricular activity and college prep courses. I whole heartedly believe that this effected my life style today and to regrettfully say I have no skills. My children: they will play baseball, wrestle, and join the chess club. All these things are part of growing up and to hinder them is evil. I kept being told I couldn't do these things when I was young and I told my mom how I hated not doing anything productive at school in my early days. Her reply was that she was sorry for me not going to college and if she had to do all of over again, she would have let me expand my horizons. She said those were the times and all higher education was discouraged, if she would have known what she knows now, it wouldn't have happened. I could have been somebody great or better equipped to do good by now. I struggle to survive while those younger than me have the upper management jobs and I'm stuck with some low wage, taking orders from some peo-

The impact of the Elders carries much weight but the need for the many is control or a sense of purpose. We have good times along with the bad, but a limit should be on how much control over ones mind should be. Our conscience is a gift from god and should not be exploited. I think religion is good in some ways and to have it removed would crush hope. Hope keeps mankind from destroying one another. If the world is to end, I know my heart will live to see my dream of being in a paradise. False prophecy I ignore, but love and kindness keeps me going. I believe that God exist and mankind needs teachings that exert love.......

To Whom It May Concern: ______ As you are so intent on asking questions TO Mr. Bowen and wondering why all of us are not answering to suit you. They are questions directed TO Mr. Bowen so they are questions that he should answer. If you truly wanted the questions answered then you would be waiting for the person who you asked to answer them. Now that we have covered the basic rules of etiquette I have a few questions that I am directing to YOU, will you then answer them? ______ 1. Do you think that it is right to allow and send 'known' pedophiles to the homes of others? ______ 2. Do you think it is honorable to send a 'known' pedophile to another's home? ______ 3. If you were now faced with the realization that you may have done something in your career as a witness that harmed another, would you then do what you could to assist another's healing and ask for forgiveness and maybe even try to 'make things right' with the one you harmed? ______ Do you know for a fact that others are NOT doing that? ______ 4. How would you feel if your child came to you and told you that a Christian brother of yours had sexually molested her? ______ 5. Would you then tell her that she will have to wait until another child gets molested by the same brother? ______ 6. Would you tell her then that since there are no two witnesses to the abuse, she would still have to be in the same room, listening to this same brother while he teaches her about Jesus and GODS love? ______ 7. Would YOU then go to that brother and shake his hand, the hand that touched your child in a disgusting way? ______ 8. What if your child was older, she goes to the Elders and tells them, since there are no two witnesses she is told to keep it quiet, not to gossip, to, 'wait on Jehovah' so she doesn't tell you. How would you then feel if after socializing with the abuser you then find out that he had molested you own daughter? ______ 9. When you ask your daughter, why didn't you tell me? She then tells you that the Elders told her not to, that it would be gossiping, how would you feel about the Elders who told her not to gossip? ______ 10. If you read in a news paper that a well known company, one that you had been a customer of, was sending 'known' pedophiles to your home, knocking on your door, and this company's excuse was, "oh, he said he was sorry and said he wouldn't do it again, he seemed sincere!" HOW WOULD YOU FEEL? ______ See only twelve questions! Can you, will you take the time out of your busy schedule of trying to undermine what this site is here for, and be human enough to look into your heart, put yourself in another's shoes and answer? There, see, easily read, not to many mistakes in spelling, and coming from the heart to the heart! With love from the spirit of LOVE, bonnielyn

OK, RICH IT'S JOHN DON'T THINK YOU SCARED ME AWAY FIRST YOU CONTRADICTED YOURSELF ON EVERY POINT. LET'S TEST a few things you say the jws have the truth??? job 13:7-12 jps 4:17 1 thes 5:21 lets start with 1914 jesus returned to kingdom power then ??? my foot jesus had all power over the heavens and earth since he was seated at the right hand of the father in 33a.d. eph1:20-22 mat28:18 col1:13-20 etc. on jesus second return does not the bible say all eyes will see him ?????as for world war one being the worst till that point study your history. the the spanish french war, the war with napoleon. german french war all these in the 17 18th century each killed more people than WW1 there are more and i might have some names wrong but you need to study. history books make the wt look like fools. reading wt teachings made me look this stuff up. famine JUST in india in the 1800's over 200 million people died of famine thats just in india !!!! i don't remember the exact figures if i recall 1200 million or more world wide in the 1800's earth wide died of famine. far less than since 1914 in 1900 the earth's population was @ 1.3 billion it's now 6 billion how can the population increase 5 times if there is no food????????????????????? the wt twistes history daniel and jermiah to come up with 1914 again do home work on 607. b.c. etc. jesus choose the wt in 1918 or 1919. TOTAL BULL CRAP take a year or two and read wt teachings till 1919 forget the king DUM hall and the book study and study if what the wt told you last week about them is true then you'll see the wt history book the kingDUM proclamers book is full of crap and only use the name of god to glorify the wt. on these points and others i never meet ONE jw who could prove me wrong and not ONE EVER would have a study with me in any of these old wt. books. WONDER WHY???? see your wrong as according to my understanding if the bible who god is going to save or not you can't teach the gospel of men etc. gal 1 1-10 1 cor15 1-41jn 5:13 jn 2 etc. fast the wt don't believe jesus was ressurested in the boly act 2 24-53 jn 218-22 1thes 5-23 eph 2-4-5 1 cor15-45v luke 24-39 phil3-20-21 etc,etc, they twist 1 tim 3-18 i could go on for yrs and watch jw defenders foricate the word of god but it's simple ask the holy spirit to show you the light cause the bible is really a closed book that only the wt can understand because there is only one hope sons of god part of abraham gal-3-28-29 jn 10-10-16 eph 2 12-18 4 4-6 etc. ro 4-16 ge 22-17 mr 9-41 1 col15-23 all must be born again and be sons of god 1 jn 51 jn 3-1-8 eph 4-1-6 phil 2:9-11

The hypocrisy. Thanks for the past newsletters, now I know I am not alone.

Encourage me it was a witch hunt. Ever since then I sit at my kingdom hall not with joy in my heart but with disdain at evidence of it and also those who lead are Organization are not even of the anointed. The Elders didn't come to see if I was apostate to see if I believed the anointed where leading us. I could have disputed this because there is no me what I thought of it. I told him that this is a major belief in our religion. He looked at it and said this was his way to scripture with him and so I obliged him. We looked up 2 Corinthians 1:21 and after we read this scripture he asked the other Elder of my congregation was finished talking to me about my health. The C.O. told me to look up a repentance. This is the facts and all should know the truth about the true order of things in this organization. I remember not long ago a Circuit Overseer came to my apartment to see how I was doing. He didn't say anything until that our religion is scared that its members are fed up with the useless speculation about the end? The irony is that many who are members are convinced the Antichrist is working within the Organization. The movement has begun for the Elders to stop frightening their congregations of the coming end to create their own means of getting them to obey what ever whim they have that week. An article came out published by the Organization, and I quote, "All Christians should be careful not to add to the burdens of others by taking it upon themselves to impose their own ideas in matters of personal choice.....Others tend to turn the Society's suggestions and guidelines into rules.....Some have carried this mature counsel to extremes." If the article can be published and written for us for counsel then obviously there is a problem of those who are doing this within the organization. It stands to reason this is so or it would have not been written for us. I think these scriptures apply to all: Ephesians 2:8-10, 2Corinthians 3:6, Romans 7:6, John 7:24. One last point that should be brought out is the issue of disfellowshipping. It is unscriptual and against the true teaching of our Holy God. The New Jerusalem Bible, NIV, and the Oxford Bible and others give the correct interpretation of the Holy Bible without the slighted version we are forced to except as the true Bible. Isaiah 58:7 says, "you should not deny your own kin". Yet, the Organization will follow Matthew 18:15-17 and back it up with its own lititure. The Elders handbook "Pay Attention to Yourselves and to All the Flock" quotes all internal doctrine to support this crime of the personality. The vague interpretation is as solid as truth as far as the other members are concerned and will say anything to defend this injury. Shunning was condemned as part of the old order by Christ himself; Furthermore, the Elders assume a position to be judges by claiming to purify the congregation. Sadducees and Pharisees way of thinking is supported in are new way of thinking or the new light as they call it. The Elders handbook says convicting the wrongdoer and convincing the wrongdoer of his errors can bring him back to repentance. This is the facts and all should know the truth about the true order of things in this organization. I remember not long ago a Circuit Overseer came to my apartment to see how I was doing. He didn't say anything until the other Elder of my congregation was finished talking to me about my health. The C.O. told me to look up a scripture with him and so I obliged him. We want a unified assault that would rid us of the black presence in our state. We are the collective seeking information and we are the few calling for the students and others who want change, change from the Socialist Ideas of the Black Man. We have pondered on how an only white organization would be able to exist or defeat their enemies; we came to conclusion as did Hitler's advisors did, that the white extemist cannot fight a two front war or a many front war as a matter of fact. We have studied Mein Kampf and agree with the ideas of Hitler's genius, but even Hitler needed allies to advance the cause: the Vichy French supporters, the Spanish Federalist, and many others who wanted to adapt Hitler's ideas to fight along side his armies. Is there a truly white race anymore? We have seen the horror of the white women kissing Negro's, having their babies, and even trying to act like them with their polluted talk and walk. The white brought these big lipped buffalo heads to our land and now the white is beneath their feet, as the example set by the hideous nigger OJ Simpson. The white curse is now breeding faster than rats with what ever color permits them, so being, creation of a new race of degenerates, destroying all that they touch. Is there not a place were they destroy or bring down the value of all properties. We the collective wish for the so called pure white race to remove these people first, then seek their own sovereignty. It sad that many people cross the Mexican border; however, many are not even of the Latino race. The U. S. government has teased the poor from other countries, they have exploited theses insignificant nations to the point were they are like a starving dogs on the other side of the fence wanting to come over and enjoy the steak being waived at them. U.S. propaganda has warped the minds of many that we are the nation of good and plenty. They use our land like a prostitute. We want change and call for rebellion against the New Order and the Socialist views of the Nigger. The times have come for a new era of thinking, and destroy this so-called New World Order. Students, the Self-taught men, and the intellectual; lets get rid of the Negro and change the government to stop calling for slavery of all people even those who believe they are pure white. Even the poor white will someday work along with the Negro as slave if we do not stop the evil government from controlling our everyday life. We understand why the K.K.K hate the Negro; they too were almost slaves after the civil war and so today by that example, we too are close to being the new slave generation. We foresee the fate of white hate groups who hate everyone: infiltration by the government, sabotage, and a more than a three front war, then a cease of existences. When the white extremist is defeated the rest of us will suffer who are not considered white, and we will suffer because we know the nigger will try to put us under their control. The unseen many will be forced to be under black subjugation, supported by the traitors of the white race, the white activitist!!!!!!! This is why We, The Collective are all haters of the Nigger race, seeking answers hoping to find more information and intellectually to find ways to destroy them. We wish change and advancement of the minds and bodies, to uplift human kind and burying the human excrement that now robs us of happiness and sinks us into a bestial state of existence. When the racial war begins soon, those who hate the nigger must unite. The disease is spreading and tricking the populace. Don't be fooled, the sick talking, music, and their fake made up culture will destroy the American land. Unite people.

20 Questions: I can see that you were unimpressed with the assention to your point about Bill's longevity in the WTS, and even less so with the dismissal of your personal attacks on him. Again, it is a CULT defense to attack the person to detract from the message they deliver. But lets see if you can get the irrelavance if we approach it this way.
Quantity of sexual coverups: this probably has two relavant answers, 0 and greater than 0. If he had been involved in 0 coverups, are you wanting to deduce that he has no knowledge close enough to be bringing out the subject? That he couldn't be reporting events he knows of but didn't participate in? Lets change the answer to 5. If he had been involved in 5 coverups, are you saying that he has committed such grievous sins that he is not worthy of delivering the message? With this question, you are trying to work him to a point where his only answer is to shut up and go along. He won't. The question is irrelavant. You question his longevity with the organization with the same intent - a shorter period may imply his lack of experience, a longer period implies complicity. What if he had been with the organization just 5 years, is he therefore not to be believed. Would a 60-year tenure imply too much participation? Again, irrelavant. With this question, you are trying to work him to a point where his only answer is to shut up and go along. He won't. If you have some reason to not believe what he is saying, then lets have it. If you cannot push the tide of the evidence, then lets take the discussion to the next level and please let me know how such events in your org, affect your commitment to the WTS. This stuff is real and it is worthy of serious discussion. - Buster Bonnielyn – I'll answer your questions the same way you and your fellow worshippers answer mine, ok? With completely unrelated topics. 1. Steak sauce. 2. A Honda Accord. 3. Last week. 4. Yeah but United Airlines does not fly there. 5. Etc., etc....... There, how did you like that? Read my post, and you will see that the questions are for anyone to answer. I did not expect Bill Bowen to answer. There I said it. But of course, you still don't get it. Whenever you do post an intelligent answer, I'll get to your questions. And for the record, I HATE child molesters. They are the lowest form of human life imaginable. Even lower than apostates. Hope I didn't offend anyone here. Buster – I am unimpressed with EVERYONE that posts to this forum, and now I'm starting to lose faith in you. I'm not trying to convert you, no no noooooo no way. I am just trying to get you to face the facts, my friend. You say it is a cult defense to attack the person to detract from the message they deliver. Hmmm is that the pot calling the kettle black? I wonder if anyone here is guilty of doing that. Oh nooo no way, that's never been the case here lol. Buster, has anyone here attacked a person with an opposing view? Try to answer that one. My message was clear and you did not get it. If he did not participate in a judicial committee, in 20 years as an elder, involving child abuse, then Kentucky seems like a great place to live. The pedophile paradise he frequently talks about does not include Kentucky. If he did, where are HIS victims? How many silentlambs did HE shut up, and intimidate, and disfellowship? They might start to go after him, since in their view, he is an accused child molester cover-upper. This stuff is real and it is worthy of serious discussion, as you say. My questions are very relevant. You just don't know how to answer them. I'll wait for your wacky response. P.S. – A racist has begun to post here. Great job folks!

To the person asking questions, why do you think WE have the answers to Bill's life we are not psychic how are WE supposed to know. If I want to ask Bill something there is a little button on the first page called E-mail, now see you click on it and poof you write an E-mail to Bill. Yes, Bill will WRITE back personally. I know this because my husband knew him from a congregation the mutally attended, I wrote told him and POOOFFFFFFFF he wrote back answering all my questions. In regards to the racist we have no control over who or in some cases WHAT posts here, we do live in America and there is this thing called Freedom of Speech I KNOW this is UNHEARD of amongst practising witnesses but the majority do practise it. *the mole there is only one issue john and that is why are you here. if you are not a member or suffered from a member why then do you degrade the others that visit this site. Why? i will take the lead and i will do that now. leave john! your racist comments and degrading talk does not belong here.....the mole*********)

Time has it where talks now are on gossip and the love of children. The ears of the weak are now being bent to hear the glory of the Society. Many of us have waited but none have come to address a real answer, for week i have sat and tried to read between the lines but no direct mention of any wrongdoing has been mentioned and will not be in the future. My friends and those of us with the same inclination have gathered silently and inquired over dinner the thoughts and ideas of NBC this past weekend. Whether the Organization wants to admit it or not, it was bad PR for them, and not addressing the issue has made it worse. The kindness of Jesus Christ seems so missing in our hall, any warmth of friendship seems to be replaced by a cold orgaizational approach that assumes the worst, no benfit of doubt, and viewed with forbearance patience as a weakness. Inimical to the intersts of the organization it has only one goal: uniformity and conformity. With its massive legal machine being put into motion and grinding along in an unfeeling, unrelenting way toward its ultimate objective, to crush anyone who speaks out and doesnt fit their mold. I find it hard to believe in some ways but my experience being involved with the religion since birth often negates that idea to defend the organization. I can think of nothing that would be more helpful to all of Jehovah's Witnesses everywhere to enable them to have a balanced, not a one-sided, view of what took place, the climate that prevails, these so called men connected to god to be so cold as to really think silencing members who cry out in pain, Reformation is the key and it begins from the inside out...... the mole*********

The 23,720 number is for the United States, Canada and some European countries. The witnesses in these regions total less than 2 million. (Check your yearbook) Also there is a question as how a person makes the list. Does he need to confess? Does he need to be convicted in a court of law, accused by two witnesses or exactly how? The Watchtower Society is the only one with these answers.

Sheila, I do have a question. Since your speech is so free, ask Bill if he is an accused child-abuse-coverupper. Something no one here would DARE to do. We live in a free country, exercise your right. Oh wait, you don't want to. I thought so.

20 Questions: If you will go back and do some research I believe you can find the answer to your own questions. (but I doubt that's what you want anyway) I remember when I first started to look at this site there was a video that JR Brown had made to repudiate Bill Bowen. In that video or related news article was a quote from Mr. Bowen's father and another statement by Bill Bowen. It mentioned a number of child molestation cases that the congregation had handled that Bill was aware of. This information is in all probability still on the silentlambs website. Possibly you are not aware that the entire body of elders does not handle each case. Three elders are assigned to handle each investigation and the elders do not discuss the private matter with other elders. So it is possible for a molestation case to transpire in a congregation and for very few of the elders to become involved. If two witnesses were not available then the information would be sealed in an envelope in a file cabinet. . . . . . NOW what is your problem? You cannot force us to do your will and it really irritates you, doesn't it. Did you contemplate what would happen if I took your 20 questions to www. purelanguage.com or jwzone.com? What if I insisted someone answer them regarding Ted Jarcez? Do you realize that the moderator would delete the questions? Then delete my account and probably block my IP address? We have been patient with you, I have asked you to discuss the matter on an online forum. I have pointed out this is a guestbook and having a serious discussion here is like trying on do it on a party line telephone system. You have refused and you continue to persist in haranguing us. What is your point? Are you just trying to disrupt this board. Should the webmaster be contacted to block your IP address? I will answer anymore of your emails. Most of us post at JWD, we are the same people so talk to us there. NAN

Hey Steak sauce boy! Go sell crazy some where else. We're all full up here! Do you have any proof that Bill sat in on any hearing that were cover-ups? Do you have 2 witnesses. And most important did it happen twice? If not then I recommend that you turn yourself in to your nearest friendly neighborhood elder(demigod) and be disfellowshiped. That is the policy right? (what a meathead)

Why would Bill be a in your words "coverupper", obviously when confronted with a child abuse situation and getting the answers from the GB. He was not happy with the answers are you ignorant or what. One doesn't cover up abuse for years then see the light. Do you have ANY valid questions, or are you the one that has seen the abuse and turned the other way?? Has your child been a victim and you chose not to say anything, is that guilt I see in your refusal to ask Bill yourself...ahhhh yes now I see the guilty never want to confront the one that see's the wrong and tries to change it. I'm sorry that you choose or chose to do nothing. While Bill chose to speak out, the guilt must be tremendous Sheila

20 QUESTIONS IS A TROLL. QUIT PLAYING WITH HIM An Internet "troll" is a person who delights in sowing discord on the Internet. He (and it is usually he) tries to start arguments and upset people. You cannot negotiate with them; you cannot cause them to feel shame or compassion; you cannot reason with them. They cannot be made to feel remorse. For some reason, trolls do not feel they are bound by the rules of courtesy or social responsibility. http://members.aol.com/intwg/trolls.htm

I am not a Jehovah's Witness but I can say that yes, abuse happens everywhere and I had my share (physical) with my father. But if you are not safe in the "House of God" then where are you safe? My mother finally divorced him and married a pretty good guy. Why would it be demanded that people stay in a situation that is a burden they can't bare? seq. jesus loves that your exposing the wt in ohio way to go !!!!!!i,m back to work and my truck is rolling again . i had the pleasure of stopping to talk to 3 different groups of wt members today the first was great they said they were from the spanish cong. i said ok do you SPEAK ENGLISH THEY DID WE TALKED FOR 10 MINUTES ABOUT THE CATHOLIC MOLESTERS !!OH BOY ALL 6 OF THEM TOOK TURNS KICKING THE CATHOLICS MOLESTERS. WOW THEY HATE CHILD MOLESTERS !~!!FUNNY WHEN I CHANGED THE SUBJECT TO WT CHILD MOLESTERS . ALL OF A SUDDEN NO ONE UNDERSTANDED ENGLISH SO SEE WT MEMBERS ARE LAIRS AND I TOLD THEM SO IN MY BROKEN SPANISH !!!!!THIS HAPPENED TWICE TODAY THE THIRD PARTY MAY HAVE KNOWN ME CAUSE I NEVER SAW TWO OLD MEN WITH CANGO UP A HILL SO FAST BUT I TOLD THEM TO MAKE SURE THEY PUT IT DOWN AS TIME FOR STOPING AND TALKING ABOUT GOD. ON THE OTHER ONE LADY TOLD ME SHE DIDN,T READ THE NEW WT ABOUT WT CHILD MOLESTERS ETC. ETC. SO WITHOUT BEING NASTY WITH THE HELP OF THE HOLY SPRIT I WITNESSESED 11 WT MEMBERS STRAIGHT OUT LIE IN THE NAME OF THE CREATOR. NOT COUNTING THE 2 OLD MEN WITH CANES. SO GO AHEAD JW DERENDERS TELL ME HOW THEY WERE TRUE TO THE CREATOR BY LYING. I'M WAITING FOR YOUR NEXT WATCHTOWER LIE IE BUSTERS POST . HOW SWEET THE WORDS OF A FALSE PROPHECY TICKLE THE EARS. *THE MOLEI think this simple post says it all...forgive me for using you, but it is a great thought to use.....THE MOLE*IM glad for those who posted cnn, i will watch it...my special assembly is this weekend ..as i promised i will inform you of what is to happen........since my letter i have receivied alot of flack ....those of you who read know what i mean....to answer someone who said why not leave the organization?. it may be sooner than you think.tuesday is my bookstudy and the brothers now want to have a shepperding call with me.....to bad those yellers out there have no clue want really happens inside,maybe understanding is not a quality, spelling could be the issue..... this will be my last response to those idiots.i will only continue to inform and not get involved in the stupidity of senseless bebate..i will continue as i started for those of you who like the info i present for those needing it...here is the quote...enjoy' This is for the whiner that thinks we are having a JW bashing party. This is no party. This is an Emergency Room. * Yes this site is full of angry, hurt, confused, insecure, bitter people. What do you think genuinely abused people should be like? They have been driven away from Jah by JW's. Do you think they should feel all warm and fuzzy towards them? 8 This site is full of hurt, confused, ABUSED people trying to make sense of the horror of being neglected and discounted by the very spiritual shepherds they trusted their everlasting life to. Now they struggle to get back to Jah, with dignity, without the abusive shepherds beating on them. To regain trust in God after such a heart-breaking beating of the spirit is a difficult road to travel. Yes, there are a lot of scriptures tossed around here.
That shows that the WTS has not taken away the basic love of God's Word from these sheep. Leave us alone and let us heal in our way. We have open sores, oozing pustulant sores. It's ugly to look at. If you can't take it maybe you should get out of our Emergency Room.  Loris

When you decide to leave the manipulations of the Watchtower, and the insane directives of the Governing Body, you can go to the real LORD JESUS CHRIST! He alone is the One who can give us everlasting life. He is more wonderful than the sad, pathetic caricature that the Watchtower presents. The REAL Lord Jesus Christ is waiting for you to come to him for salvation. Reading every watchtower and Awake, attending meetings, do field service, attending Assembly indoctrination sessions, refusing to salute the flag, or celebrate holidays, will do ABSOLUTELY NOTHING to secure the love and grace of God Almighty. As Jesus told the religionists of his day,"You search the scriptures, for in them you THINK you have eternal life, BUT9 And this is the important part) These (the scriptures) are they that tesify of ME. But you won't come to ME that you might have life". I always ask every JW the same question. "Have you gone to the Lord Jesus Christ for eternal life?" it never amazes me to see the look of consternation on their faces. How sad. Only TWO-SIDED relationship with the living Christ will assure us of life eternal. He communicates with me, and I communicate with HIM! What blessed communion. No concern with man-made rules and some unapproachable GB. As the great hymn of the faith states- "Blessed assurance Jesus is mine. O what a foretaste of glory divine! Heir of salvation, purchase of God. Born of His Spirit, washed in His blood. This is MY story, This is my song. Praising my Saviour all the day long!" Jesus never fails. You will bow at his great name either in this life, or be forced to do so in the next. "Come unto me all ye who are heavy-laden( especially with man made religious burdens) and I will give you REST!" He can't lie. Take Him at His word. he's not like the Watchtower taskmasters. He promises that if you will come to Him, He will in NO WISE cast you out! What a wonderful Saviour! Trust Him and try Him for yourself!

In some way the elders are also being abused, for when a case is exposed, the elders, who have followed company policy, are dismissed/prosecuted/whatever. Where is the loyalty of the company to people who have loyally followed company policy. Not only the policy needs to be changed, but the thinking of elders needs to be adjusted to realise that following these policies will leave them unsupported and vulnerable. When the elders finally realise that, at the end of the day, they will be held responsible for their actions, then they will stop blindly following these abusive policies. steve EVERYone is left unsupported and vulnerable when they need affirmation, support and loyalty. There's NOTHING to take care of those in need. Some in each congregation will help but it's not, usually, the entire congregation giving support. Very weak in this area. Needs organizing FROM THE TOP DOWN!—Conchita

hey rich your all f___k up me amd you are going to talk uyou contridict yourself so much your an abomonation to the creator . no one in your cong. worships the creator in truth or sprit because of the simple fact ya,ll are following a false christ you need a lesson in humillitaiton you bnetter read proverbs and apply it to the wt . you speak about demons in the street what about the demons in wt publications as you have all ready amitteded about child molesters you talked about buster i don,t even know him but i can see he,s got more knowledge than you might ever have . you see it,s all about RESEARCH !!!!!!! you talk crap when i was 11 i saw right through the wt . and i was just a kid !! what,s that saying for you and cong. you think i don,t understand the wt go out and find the biggest fool who will brieve any thing we say .anyone who gives out wt,s and has not tested every thing they print and i mean everything. no matter were the quote came from. thier are bareing false witnesses in the name of what a 12th. century cathiloc monk calls jehovah . you posted here you read crisis of conscience i think your lying quote one page of that then i,ll belevie you i don,t you can .cause your a lair there is not one topic you can show me were the wt was choosen by god without lying and twisting the bibl;e , J_CHITO@msn.com tel 19173710332 i get free nights and weekends you call me and we,ll see whats what ....your in for a big suprise. freedom in christ to all something RICH DOES NOT HAVE JOHN.

Anyone that cannot express herself or himself without using FOUL LANGUAGE has no right to tell anyone else about what's in the Bible. Get some soap and wash your mouth out!

They SHOULD devote one page in the back of their publications that give reference to the publications that they used to make quotes, etc. They can use fine print to get it all in. I don't like reading, "One source says," or something like that. One can't use such publications as a part of a research paper because the source of quotes in many articles isn't readily available -- even if you call the WBTS and ask them.

To 20-Questions who still hasn't bothered to give himself a name/handle, so we will still call him/her 20 Q's--- Writing to Bill Bowen via the Guestbook is not likely to get a response, since as you surely are aware, he is busy attending appeal hearings, being interviewed by newspapers and television, not to mention sending out emails on the SL email list, taking phone calls from VICTIMS, dealing with those who have lawsuits going, caring for his family, making a living, etc. People should not post to the guestbook if they REALLY WANT A REPLY from B.Bowen. Why not pick up the PHONE and call him as suggested? If you can't afford it, then, fine, write him a letter/email. If he thinks you are SINCERE, I'm sure he would reply to you, and then you can submit the reply to this Guestbook "for all to see," as you state. -- Really, as if B.Bowen has time to sit reading this Guestbook every day. Your intentions are suspect, to say the least. WRITE HIM, CALL HIM. --- As for name calling, when people like yourself do not give yourself a name, it is reasonable to lump you in with the other suspicious nameless characters who are here to cause trouble. HOW PETTY to pick on people's spelling and/or typographical errors. Not everyone had the privilege of private school education. This shows how SHALLOW you are, not to mention SELF-RIGHTEOUS. Such a time and bandwidth waster you are. Grow up! and READ Eccl. 7:16 if you know how to use a Bible, that is. /SLC ----- Nameless and/or Catch 22 wrote: "This is fun. This went from “Lets get them” and “This is war” etc., etc., to “Ignore them” and “Do not argue religion with them (sic)”. Hey I'm curious, did you all go to the same school? You can't spell.
Here's some examples from the mole "except" instead of "accept", "thier" instead of "their", "minersterial" instead of "ministerial" and the kicker "benighted ridiculers" instead of "benighted ridiculers". And that's just the mole. The leaders of your movement can't spell, that's embarrassing. Mole, I sincerely doubt that you are a Ministerial Servant. If you are, you're not standing up for your beliefs and making them heard in your hall, as they would remove you faster that SLC can fire off a misspelled post. If you have voiced your opinion, then that would make you a liar about being an MS. Catch 22.

THANKS LINDA for the post about Loving Thy Neighbor. You are SO RIGHT. It is exactly those NOW OBVIOUS points that we were blinded to in our past JW-years. And I agree, like you described, in the past few months it's like my eyes are WIDE OPEN to see/hear these SIMPLE truths about the REALITY of what these scriptures mean and how they were NOT applied in the congs. My personal favorites which melted my heart was realizing what these really mean (i.e., the scales fell off my eyes regarding these scriptures recently): 1 Cor.12:4-30 & Eph.4:11; and Matt.25:34-40. Thanks again for sharing that info from the forum. /SLC ------- Linda had written: "...This really came at a good time for me. Only in the last couple of years have I had the slightest desire to hear any doctrinal talk the point where I have lots of questions, which I've been posting on another site on a message board. The information above is what I've been asking about. I thought maybe some of you would be interested in reading this

JFK: I believe the point they were trying to make (quoting prior WTs, etc.) is this: Since the GB, Knorr, Rutherford, Russell, et al, CLAIM to be the MOUTHPIECE of God, and that GOD SPEAKS ONLY THRU THEM, that they SHOULD have MORE ACCURATE INFORMATION than the rest of the populace. What it means to JW's now that Bill Bowen is DF'ed --- Aug 13, 2002 16:14 from another forum --- I take you to the future, to a elder meeting with someone in a serious state of depression ... --- It is the backroom to a Kingdom Hall, and three people are sitting in a room. One is a woman, and the other are two elders. The woman sits down and starts crying. The elders act caring and ask her what is wrong. To which she replies, "I am dealing with a issue from my childhood and I am having a hard time handling it right now." --- The elders give her a moment and then ask her what the problem is, thinking of course that she is about to confess a sin that they suspected anyway. --- The woman responds, "When I was eight I spent the night at my best friends house at the time, and Brother Smith raped me." To which the elders act shocked, as Brother Smith is now a Presiding Overseer in the neighboring congregation. --- The elders speak softly and with a caring sounds and say, "Are you sure this happened, as we know that as children we can see things different then they really happened. Plus, Brother Smith is such a outstanding elder. It seems so unlikely that he would do such a thing." --- The woman draws back her tears for a moment in shock, and replies "I know what happened, and I have asked for help before." --- The elders give the classic shocked look, "what do you mean you asked for help?" --- Again the woman pulls back tears, although you can hear the pain in her voice, "When I was 15 I talked to the elders and told them then, but they told me that since I had no witnesses they could not do anything. My parents listened to them and told me to try to handle this without making to much trouble. I was treated like a liar." --- The elders look back and forth at each other in a lost look, "I am sorry that happened!" --- The lady then starts to cry more and stumbles into a thought that she did not want to bring up, "I saw online at this site called silentlamb that others have had this problem too, and I just needed help. I cry about this every night and I know this man knows what he did to me, and I hate to see him. He is out there in the assemblies giving talks, and acting all holy and right when he did this to me and ruined my life" --- The elders shift into a stern look, "Did you say you went to an apostate site?" --- The woman looks caught off guard, "no I went to a support site for people in this same situation" and blows her nose from all the crying. --- The elders open their Bible and begin counseling, "don't you think you should go to Jehovah first, before you go to a apostate site that is bent on harming Jehovah and his organization?" --- The lady stops crying, but her voice still shows signs of the recent tears, "What? I am here for help, how did this go into apostate information?" --- The elders loss all emotion and start looking angry, "The man who runs that site is disfellowshipped and is against the organization, wouldn't you say that makes him a apostate?" --- The woman looks even more upset, but begins to build in strength, "I don't care, the site helped me and brought me to the level that I could talk about this again with you and to seek help." --- The elders speak abruptly, "Well you need to give more thought to your actions we will need to consider this in what you are saying. As you may be speaking with Satan influencing your thoughts and we have to be careful for the well being of the congregation." Pausing to open their book bag, "here is some information on the danger of seeking help from the internet, and apostates." --- The woman stands in disgust, "I came her for help on being raped as a child and all you want to talk about is apostate information ... how is that helping me. I am disgusted!" She then walks out and is heard crying harder then before. --- The elders look at one another and speak judicially, "I see that Satan has her now, we may have a bigger problem here then we thought", to which the other elder nods in agreement. --- Yes the world has changed since the disfellowshipping for the Witnesses. Is it going to really help them? --- My thoughts -- Dragon

To SLC: "No-Name" did NOT say that Jehovah God doesn't CARE. It's that he doesn't value someone who can do extraordinary things over those who can't. He accepts each one for what he or she CAN DO and DOES DO but he doesn't elevate one "brother" over an other. He accepts the BEST from each one and the BEST from each one EQUALS ITSELF OUT as the BEST from each one takes the SAME amount of effort. Remember the widow with one small coin? It's NOT that Jehovah does not care, it's that he's accepting each one of us as we are and with what each one can give and HE will NOT "play favorites" and raise one up over another. Remember that even the KINGS OF ISRAEL were to remember that they were BROTHERS with their subjects and were not to elevate themselves over them. Do you understand this point now? It's not a PUT DOWN. It's ASSURING that Jehovah God doesn't play the games with people, individuals, that a lot of people play AGAINST one or others. Jehovah God isn't playing a human game of monopoly with us.

JFK, The POINT of the quote is YES, Rutherford was in the 1900's but he was a vessel of Jehovah's spirit, he prophesied and directed people's lives. He claimed to be a leader and just as now a LEADER is responsible for what they do. Did he ever correct his ignorance and say "oops" guess I was wrong, nope. Just as today the GB will not admit it's wrong. 1975???? Ohhhh that was the 70's geesh they didn't know any better, 1980's oh again why bring up the past....ad nauseum......

I just know that people come into the JW's and they don't realize there's a whole lot more than quitting another church and not celebrating holidays. They're proud of these changes in them and, I guess, it DOES take a lot for a person to do that. However, there needs to be a PERSONALITY CHANGE and many just keep plodding along in their old thinking, customs and habits -- perhaps not overtly but their old thinking and doing is still there. They always find others in the congregation or organization that support them, too, because THEY haven't changed their personalities. So much of what we're seeing and hearing has to do with the way they were taught to think, talk and act -- or the way their environment enforced. If they grew up beating children or wives, they beat children or wives. If they grew up hating, they hate, too. If they grew up violated, they violate. Each one MUST see the need to change themselves over to the loving and peaceable personality that Christ is. If we don't see that need, Jehovah doesn't want us. Jehovah, the Bible describes for us, has a lot of empathy and tears for the abused. HE is on the side of the down-trodden ones -- not on the side of those doing the down-trodding.--Helena Trying to change the WTS or to even explain to the GB how their OPINIONS of the scriptures DESTROY lives and families is like trying to polish a turd. Someone needs to get the GB board members some silk robes and a golden ring.

The recent developments regarding child abuse is beyond appalling. How can fathers and other relatives of the abused be so blinded. What if these abusers molested or raped their wives rather than their children?? Would they respond differently? Saving face has been taken to the deplorable degree of causing lifelong trauma for the abused. At least the Catholic church admits the wrongdoing and appears to be taking action to stop the abusing. How is it that the WT organization thinks they are above the law resulting in greater trauma to the health and well-being of our children. Hallelujah to Mr. Bowen for speaking out, stepping up, and doing all he can do to protect the abused and provide a means to aid in their healing process. Rosemarie at: rozie2u@hotmail.com

Hello Silentlambs, I am so proud of the way that you are handling the issue of child molestation among the Jehovah's Witnesses. Have you considered getting in touch with the Oprah Winfrey show to see if they will take interest in this issue. You know that she was a victim of child sexual abuse when she was 9 years old, and it is an issue that she does not take lightly. I think that if you can get her interested she can make a big difference in getting the message across to many. mom_v1@coastalnet.com

To Aug 14 02:34:35 Yes I do research on the WTS and other cults as well. I was once a member of a oneness pentecostal cult myself. Anyway, I have been able to talk to several JWs over the past few weeks about their child molestation policy. I have given info to my neighbors, most of whom are appalled. One neighbor now asks the ones who come to her door, "Are either of you pedophiles"? That is the first question she asks them. It's a hoot!! Then she asks can she get a list of all known pedophiles in their congregation, so she can protect her two children from them should they come to her door. The witnesses are aghast that outsiders should consider them sinners like THEY do non-witnesses. I have dozens of the out of print publications and will use them often. I especially like to show them the quote prphesying that Jehovah would destroy the churches and church-members wholesale in 1918. I can usually tell which witness is newer to the denomination, because they usually don't say much, so I start asking them most of the questions. Of course, the more experienced witness will ALWAYS interrupt and try to give answers. I tell that one that I was not talking to them, and ask the other one "Can't you answer with your own thoughts? Does your friend always try to speak for you?" My goal is to try to give the trainee something to think about before they are completely lobotomized by the WT. I always mention my email address a few times in the conversation (it's a really simple one) and have actually been contacted by a few of the newer converts who have not yet learned to be afraid of "opposers".
When I go to hospitals to do visitation (like the Lord taught us to do) I often see Watchtowers and Awake mags lying around in the waiting area. I used to take them and throw them away. Now I boldly write WWW.SILENTLAMBS.ORG and WWW.FREEMINDS.ORG on the front covers. This , of course, leaves the next witness who happens by in a quandry. "Should I leave the mag another brother left here, or should I remove it because of the "apostate" website referenced on the cover."? And of course, often another person will see what I wrote and ask about it, so I have an opportunity to tell them about the silent lambs and witness about the Lord Jesus Christ. Let's be creative, and use this SCANDAL to point others to the REAL LORD JESUS CHRIST! Anger can be a great catalyst for creativity, huh?
By the way, have you ever noticed how Jesus is RARELY given His full title (the LORD JESUS CHRIST) in WT publications and everyday JW conversation? As for the frequent mispellings, let me say this. Often we are typing so fast that we don't take time to check our spelling. I am college-educated and love to read.I have a pretty good grasp of the "king's English", but I often find glaring mistakes after I see my posts. So let's not make too much of it, OK?
Let's keep fighting the good fight of faith. the Lord Jesus is our Captain and He will lead us to victory! Praise His Mighty Name! Always remember an old saying my Dad used to say-"Throw a brick into a pack of dogs, and the one that is hit will bark the loudest!" We're throwing the bricks, with the aid of the media. The WT dogs being hit, and boy, aren't they barking? Ha Ha Ha!

To the author of the post dated "14 Aug 2002 11:31:28": I find it interesting that your method of dealing with Jehovah's Witnesses is to target the "newer" Witness whom you count on to [not] say much". Indeed, you state that you don't allow the more experienced Witness to aid the one whom you've selected for your special attention. To me that sounds VERY much like the pattern of behavior one would expect from a pedophile: cornering a less experienced person for your own twisted "entertainment"! I would also add that you have no right to discard or deface someone else's literature left in a public place for people to read. Feel free to leave your own literature nearby so that people may choose for themselves; but kindly desist from adding your graffiti to the Watchtower and Awake. Besides, we just replace the soiled issues with fresh ones! -Brocha

to do his work. He says he COULD make even the ROCKS talk but, instead, he uses imperfect humans. Psalms says that if it's error that he looks at, NO ONE would have a chance. YOU are only looking for imperfect human error. What you're talking about IS NOT REPRESENTATIVE of the vital information he dispensed IN SPITE OF his errors. THOSE books helped thousands of people to restore themselves in their faith of the True God and to give them courage to clean up their lives or to restore their resolve to live good lives. You're a NIT PICKER. Your arguments do NOT hold any validity when looking AT THE WHOLE PICTURE. There are people here that do not agree with how this situation, in particular, is being handled. DON'T MISTAKE THAT to mean that we do not agree that the ONLY PLACE TO FIND GOOD BIBLE EDUCATION is STILL through the WBTS! You're trying to EXPLOIT the hurt and damaged people and sway them away from Bible truth with irrelevant errors that HAVE been straightened out as people have matured and learned to think and do things differently. How do YOU know that I, personally, am not BLACK? If BLACK PEOPLE can see through it, why can't you?--JFK (My choice of JFK isn't by accident; he was FULL of imperfection, however, he DID see the inequality in people by color and wealth and wanted to help those who were suffering from such. Does his gross immorality CHANGE his heart condition in that area? No, people have imperfections but that doesn't change who they are in a desired purpose or purposes. Why don't you nit pick the Apostle Paul? HE says that his MIND knew the right things to do but his FLESH kept getting in the way. Yet, he did NOT give in to the flesh and, even under seemingly difficult emotional distraction, continued to do what was right in the MIND. He did not let his heart to become carried away with his flesh. He led himself as though one would bridle, blind and ride a horse. You CANNOT, legitimately, carry your argument on minor errors in material that is, otherwise, excellent Bible revelations in a time of Biblical darkness -- the 1900's. Really, with YOUR argument, just about EVERYTHING WRITTEN is invalid because of some errors an imperfect person made in judgment, knowledge, or opinion in a part of the writings. NO ONE can "stand" in such an argument. You're really a petty person.--JFK.

interview on CNN with Connie Chung regarding cover up of child abuse allegations within the Jehovah's Witness organization. “I abhor people who protect child molesters, tonight you are going to learn who they are.” Bowen comments. An disfellowshipping announcement will be made at the Draffenville congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, 86 Foust-Sledd Road, Benton, Kentucky, on Thursday, August 15th. Bowen plans to attend the meeting and object to the announcement. Heidi Meyer, 22, of ST Paul MN who recently filed a lawsuit against her local congregation and the home office located in Brooklyn, NY for being silenced by elders when she came forward to report being molested by a fellow congregation member. “I was told I would be disfellowshipped if I told anyone.” She says, “The Governing Body are hurting abuse survivors and refusing to change policy thus leaving children in danger.” Amber Long, 22, also of St Paul, MN, who first appeared on the lawsuit as “Jane Doe” will speak on the program also. Amber was fearful of repercussions from the organization when she initially filed. Now she is going public with her allegations also. “I was afraid of being disfellowshipped for speaking out, but with how they have treated Mr. Bowen, I no longer care,” Amber states. "Children have been hurt and someone has to say something.” Thursday, Michele Sandstrom, of Brooklyn, New York, will also interview and discuss how she and her mother were silenced with threats of disfellowshipping when they tried to warn others about the man who molested her. Jehovah's Witnesses have one million members in the USA and over fifteen million attend services around the world. It is their goal to call at every home in America at least once a year.

How's it going John? Relax baby! Mr Big's gonna take care of you. hahahahaha.  i wouldn't read anything into that one John, its just my sense of humour and love of Bond films. well i read your reasonings and i agree with you entirely. shocked?? but maybe i'm just lying hey? im a JW, and so all your preconceived ideas of what a JW is, is what i truly am? well we have another fine judge in our midst. the history of the WT would be laughable if it wasn't such a serious issue. but then, the Catholic Church is so clean isn't it? maybe you would encourage me to do a lot of research into them too. im sure they'd come out a lot cleaner than the WT. OH if only id prayed to Mary instead of Jehovah! if only i'd taken part in the crusades. if only i'd taken part in the inquisition and burned heretics such as myself at the stake. if only i'd been part of Hitler's 5th column. if only i'd help nazi's escape Europe at the end of WW2 and had horded stolen Jewish gold. if only i'd been abused by catholic nuns at boarding school just like my dad was.
if only i could make sense of the doctrine of purgatory, then just maybe i'd be part of the true faith, the original true church that Christ set up, and boy i'm sure Christ is proud of them. listen John, "i'm simply trying, then, to be a Christian, a disciple of God's Son. i cannot see why anyone would want to be anything else. i cannot understand how anyone could hope to be anything more."(pg353 crisis of conscience) did i pick that quote out of thin air? maybe a demon entered it into my mind! the odds would likely favour that i read that book John. i think its a possibility that your latter post just shows you up to be the person you really are. i hope im wrong. i don't see the need persuade JWs to renounce what bible truth they have just because of WT history. or would you say EVERYTHING they believed is completely wrong? if that is what you believe then that doesnt give much hope to any Christian denomination. i think your standpoint is of sectarianism. there are many people like you who live in Northern Ireland, on both sides of the divide. why dont you go over there and start blabbing your mouth off about how wonderful Catholicism is. those who are on the same wavelength as you, but are protestant would certainly find ways of making you quiet.  if you think you'll destroy the JW org by trying to convince JWs that its all wrong then you're defeated before you start. the only way you can weaken this pyramid is by hitting the top. ask yourself how this org has become strong over the past 80 years. it's been in a legal way, and that the only way you'll break them. if you break the top then the whole pyramid will break also. at the moment you're banging your head against a brick wall. i'll tell you what John, post me a list of questions you would like me to answer at:
thereflex84@hotmail.com
and i will gladly answer them because you really dont know what i believe, although you say what i'm supposed to believe just because you know me to be a JW.  if nothing of what i've just said makes sense then maybe you should just 'wait on Jehovah'. :-) (i dont have to swear to get back at you) Rich

The JWD's are at it again. Instead of conceding to the massive flaws in their doctrine, history and all the misery it has caused people (and continues too), they just use words like "petty person" and suggest that we should belittle "Paul." No thank you. Why do you think that making excuses for inexcusable behavior is somehow going to change what happened? How will it change what is happening? One definition of insanity is to keep doing the same thing over and over and somehow expecting to get a different result. I can't help but read with a shaking head as I see these people's posts are no different than the JW official position. "WE WILL NEVER CHANGE!" Sad because that means you would be too proud to admit fault, therefore sin, and therefore can not be TRULY forgiven. I'm not condemning you. I feel sorry for you. I feel sorry for all the people who have to continue to suffer because of this pride. The JW quest for "truth" has become a bid to hang onto an "Egotism" belief system that no longer even has roots in the most basics of Christian values.-SEQ

Rich- Are you trying to make a point or just trying goat John? (Both maybe?) You made a list of many cults of personality but you gave no substance to them. Here is a better way of looking at it- Would you stand against them and what they stand (and stood) for? Or, would you sit on the sidelines and say; "Hey that is GODS problem." "If he wants something done he can get off his big white throne and fix it himself." How does this not render you (I.e. JW's) useless to God? "If He (God) does not do something then "dealt with it!" (And you better not do anything!)-I think that I have two hands for a reason. (And they are not to sit on.-SEQ

Rich: Let me start here - I firmly believe in the sincerity of active JWs, it is way too much work for the faint of heart. But to me (and I think most others outside the org., regardless of whether they used to be in it) their militia attitude is a result of the immediacy of the message they feel, and an ends-justifies-the-means attitude. Unfortunately, most witnesses find themselves convinced that they are better off going along with the "shut up and do what you're told stricture." Yes, mistakes of the 1800's and 1900's are important. They are how the society got to the point where people are in this dictatorial, do-it-or-else mode. Key point: 1914. Christ was going to take the 144,000 (another of my personal favorites) up in a rapture. But as time went by, the society grew to more than 144K and they had to invent another class. So now we have a class that the scripture is mostly intended for, and a class for the rest of us. They get to tell the rest how to interpret scripture snippets. Armageddon is just around the corner, it has been for over a hundred years. It is the basis of the situation you are in right now. I promise you this, you can read up as much as you want, but you cannot substantiate that most basic of tenets without quoting Society literature. It has no basis, and yet witnesses take it on life-or-death faith without question. Before any active JW states that he or she is independant enough to question the basic teachings - you would first have to deal with the question of how you would answer a judicial committee when they start by asking you the allegiance questions. If you stood firm, you would be DF'd. You cannot have it both ways. - Buster

To Helena Most JW's are honest and humble people. They all came to "Jehovah" to find salvation. Most were just too glad to change their personality but what they have changed into is not what Jesus Christ wants but what the WT Society wants. With other words most of us became Borgs and stayed that way for many years. But jehovah God has nothing to do with this Organization and H is bestowing no blessing there on anyone because they belong to that Cult. Jesus christ is the Judge and the Authority because all of this was given to Him by the Father. We were terribly misled. We mentioned the books of R. Franz who is probably best qualified in this area to write about but just for change why don't you read one by Darek Barefoot: Jehovah's Witnesses and the Hour of Darkness. Helen I am absulutly sure you are just like I was. You want to serve the True God. So learn to understand that it is not God that directs the above mentioned organization. If you read Darek's book it will be plain to you what you are dealing with. And please do not take it to hard to yourself. But this is the Truth and sooner you learn the better for you and all sincere JW'people our dear brothers and sisters.RMK

Dear silent lambs, progress can be painfully slow. Especially when you are already in intense pain. I think part of the friction we have seen on the guestbook is because of our pain for the Bowens and Andersons plus the disappointing response of regular witnesses to the media coverage. So here is one small story of encouragement. When I first came to this site my wife said it was apostate. She was very angry when I persisted. After months she was reading it on her own. Then saying things like "maybe Jehovah is using Bill". Then carrying around in her purse a copy of the letter to bodies of elders about the possibility of re-appointment of pedophiles to positions. She pops that letter out everytime someone will talk about it- at the hall, conventions, etc. Then more time passed and she wrote a letter to the GB comparing them to Ananias and Saphira because they withheld information. She has alienated herself from her mother and elder father, but I have hope it will slowly sink in for them also. It was slow, and very difficult in our home for many many months. I tried to be gentle ( blew up sometimes because of my pain as a healing lamb). Larry

RMK--You're sick. You're at this site to promote false teachings. You're trying to take advantage of wonded souls. You're not talking to a "youngster" nor are you talking to an inexperienced one. YOU are the one that needs to make broader applications. You're very narrow right now and you'll continue to be that way if you don't free your mind from demonic possession. I'm not a borg and there are a lot of people who aren't borgs. They read the Bible on their own and can tell when something isn't right. They don't attack the organization. I don't think you belong at this web site because it's YOU and the likes of you that make it seem as though this is an apostate web site rather than a support group. Apostate means basically that you have abandoned your beliefs. I don't think most of the people here have abandoned their beliefs, including in this organization. They're HURT and DISAPPOINTED. Probably disallusioned, too, but not incapable of recovery with the right care. No BABE here. Take your preaching to someone else. --JFK

To RMNK: The conflict is NOT in the organization and what it IN THE MAJORITY TEACHES. The conflict is within EACH ONE OF US. We are imperfect humans and that FREQUENTLY conflicts with what Jehovah God, not the society, requires of us. This conflict can become so great that we hate the society and its teachings because we're letting the war inside of us win over Jehovah God's requirements. It takes TIME and MATURITY to be able to look BEYOND where you're at -- to COME OUT OF YOURSELF -- and to make more objective decisions and conclusions. You really want to take everyone you can get to go down with you, don't you. --JFK

JW's are not a cult. There's nothing secret about it. People study first. They study exactly what we're all studying. There are no surprises after coming in. No one is encouraging anyone to go away to some isolated land and then give them poison to drink so they can die and go to heaven or whatever. There are problems that need to be dealt with and that's all. Our Bible's are all open and anyone who wants to can read them. We use other translations, too. No one is prohibited from doing their own personal research and study. I've been everywhere inside and outside the USA. There are some personalities that leave a lot to be desired. I've been glad to get out and meet new ones. A good "secret" to enjoying the entire organization is to get out and meet others. Go to different assemblies. Recognize personalities that are annoying and FIND OTHERS that are more amiable. For the most part, personalities IN the congregation reflect the personalities of the people in general in the area they live in. Some learn that it's Jehovah God's personality that they're supposed to be reflecting. Some don't. We all have that opportunity, though. If we don't take that opportunity, we'll have to be accountable for it. Most suffer NOW for their personalities and stances on things. Some just don't know it and wonder why people don't like them or why this or that is happening to them. Clues everywhere but they don't get it. This in NO WAY is meant to be interpreted that the abuse victims brought it on themselves. This is meant for those aggressive ones, even in a quiet manner, who prey on others for one thing or another.

Buster – You made a WEAK case of asserting that my questions were irrelevant. Irrelevant? You make me laugh. If they were so irrelevant, why do people here want to silence me? Caught up in the messenger? No one here wants to know about the messenger, I see. And they all of a sudden don't care about his history. I'll make you a deal. I'll throw out his history, you throw out WT history, and let's talk about where we are, what's going on. If you insist that WT history is intrinsically related to the current topic, then you must indulge me. YOU can't have it both ways. You toss out my arguments, but want to keep yours, and want to continue a conversation. Give me a break. When you post something worthwhile, I'll respond.

I think what you are doing is a wonderful thing. All those with love in their heart will see the power in allowing people to seek help. The future is bright when we can see the sun on the horizon, a setting sun of hope that tomorrow will be a better day. Did Jehovah's Witnesses engage in bloody wars to MAKE PEOPLE BECOME JW's? You're missing the entire apostacy that took place, especially from the time of Constantine. You're working so hard to make the JW's look as though they are this horrid. No wonder no one wants you to hang around with them. You wanted to run the show and they wouldn't let you -- or I should say, Jehovah God wouldn't let you. No one is saying that we don't make mistakes. YOU are saying that.

Nice try to explain away once again the abuse that the WTS will not admit to (heck, that it even has that it has a history.) It seems to reason that the average JW (When talking about itself) exists only in the moment (Which has passed already.) But to put a stake threw the heart of your argument about Bills past (Which has NOTHING to with ANYTHING) he works ("right now!") to change a gross injustice that continues even today. The WTS is making more horrible history of distroying lives ("right now!") in the present with no remorse or admitting to its shame. It does not seem to bother the Witnesses that come here one bit. (At least not enough to stand for what is right.) You know the Bible talks about going after lost lambs. WOW!, WOW!, WOW!, what a concept here we are looking to restore people; To vindicate them. The crimes and the sins committed upon so many people. Here, (Right Here!) they hear it said IT IS NOT YOUR FAULT! Mea Culpa belongs to the WTS. Not to its victims!
BUSTER: I think you've hit the nail on the head really. I've told an elder that I keep an open mind on these things. I would say that what you say about 1914 and 144,000 is something of design on the FDS's part. However if I was to teach that this is wrong to others in my cong, I'd know for sure I'd be kicked out. At the end of the day I can't be held responsible for what others read into the WT literature and what they personally believe in. If others want to put faith in those teachings then they've made an informed choice (or at least had the opportunity) to do that. The same as if someone wants to be a Mormon or a catholic or Anglican, then its entirely up to them. I'm not the person to make others believe differently. The bible is there as a witness to them to show whether what they believe is right or wrong. There may be some grey areas that nobody can agree on, such as the 144,000. If the FDS put forward their interpretation of it and people choose to believe, then that's up to them. I'm not the master of their minds. If someone puts forward another interpretation and people want to believe in that then fine. I personally won't want to believe anyone's interpretation, because interpretations belong to God. * to wrap up these grey areas in truth that other people can agree on, isn't good. Basically the FDS create the argument for people such as yourself, because they say that they're right on basic bible truths, and so they must be right on interpretation. History of the WT shows their interpretations aren't good, and so I'll stick to basic bible truths.  to be honest with you, I stopped going to the KH when I was 8 or 9, because I just hated everything about it. Fortunately for myself my dad is not a witness and he said it was OK for me not to go. But in the whole time since then I wondered about the bible, God and Christ. Sometimes I would just look at my book of bible stories, and the part that affected me was the page about Christ when he was put to death. Every time I would make cry to see that picture and read that account. And I wondered on why so little emphasis was ever placed on Christ. I mean, I recognised this just as I child! Where was all the talk of Jesus? I wondered whether it meant that much to JWs. In my teens I decided that nobody was right. When I got into my 20's I decided I wanted to do something about my faith. I looked into other denominations and I wasn't impressed. What I really wanted was to learn about the bible. So I started attending meetings at the KH. I was very suspicious though of the control and over-zealous people there. I knew I wasn't going to believe in everything because there was no way that the scriptures that were quoted to me backed them up. But still, I knew that would be the same wherever I went. I see my baptism as being my new life in Christ. Not my new life in the WT. As far as I'm concerned I'm of no part of the WT and FDS, because I knew all along if they were wrong in certain things then I wouldn't want to share in their sins. I have love for my fellow bros and sis, even if some things they believe in, I don't. To say like some people have said like I'm responsible for cover-ups and abuse in the org just because I'm a JW is wrong. It would be like saying that anyone who voted in the US or UK for the respective governments that have been in power since 1996 would be responsible for deaths of over 1 million Iraqi children since sanctions were imposed from that time by the US and UK through the UN. * Bill is a champion. If I ever met him I would certainly shake his hand. DF'd or not. If I were disfellowshipped for that, then I'd rather be disfellowshipped. As regards a judicial meeting on loyalty to the FDS, I would state the truth as I saw it, I would certainly give them a run for their money so to speak, but I have to remain true to myself and to Christ. You can be assured that it would be difficult for them to pin me down. Rich

HI EVERYONE-------It is sooooooo nice to see we have all gotten back on topic. I was starting to get worried. To the person who asked about talking to Oprah, well I know of a person who will be going to a show that is a spin off of Oprah. It will be the DR PHIL show. I put her in contact directly with Bill. I don't have a show date yet, but the topic has to do with cults. She has been invited on the show already and will let me know when she will be on. For those of you who know me I have been spending alot of my time on the jehovahs-witness.com site. I will try to come here more often like I used to. Job hunting and school about to start has been keeping me busy. Sorry guys and I have missed you all. Welcome to all the new ones here. *Love Jesika Thoman--Dallas, Tx

20Qs: All right, this is getting tedious. I went to an effort to tie the relavance of WTS history to its current makeup and policies. Tying in the history and its relavance was key to making the point about current issues. But lets take one more pass by your first question. How many? You put forward your assessment of possible answers as though it is tight. But it isn’t. One needn’t participate in a coverup to know of one. One needn’t be innocent as a newborn to have credible evidence of wrongdoing. Now please, do you doubt the message this site and its visitors deliver? If so lets talk about it. If you believe what he says, then lets talk about how it affects you. Beginning to feel sorry for you, champ ... - Buster

With regard to the Witnesses that have posted of late, do you think that we as fellow abused Witnessess got here from the wonderful love and family of the Congregation? No,we now have some place to come and voice our pain about the treatment we received from the so called "Truth". Was I forced into it NO, but was a fed a lot of 'brotherly love that was nothing but a backstabbing party? Yes... Is this one congregation NO, we have visited many congregations, assemblies etc In fact once I came into the Truth the sister that was studying with me used ME as her example in a part of the assembly,I was wonderful,strong courageous I had left my family to be brought into this loving brotherhood PULEAAAAAAAAAAAAASE (spelled wrong for emphasis on sarcasm) once she decided I wasn't her clone because I wouldn't listen to the weirdness of what she thought and how she wanted me to conduct my life (for example: I was 19 my father had left my mother after 32 years of marriage, my mother was without anything and all she had in the world was my daughter and I, but I was to forsake her and not speak to her???? Why because she wasn’t a witness) So this sister who a month earlier had spoke of my many merits said another inappropriate thing and I asked her to please leave my apartment. She NEVER forgave me, I should have been the one to hold a grudge but here a Pioneer sister couldn't FORGIVE me for standing my ground...That is just one of the many wonderful things the brotherhood has done for me, my husband was RAISED in the TRUTH the things that he has had to endure is disgusting. So we don't come here because we are apostate we come here to heal from your evil organization... Sheila M

To Bill: I just want to say that I viewed your photo albums and I am really disappointed in you. You came across like such a pompous idiot, as is evident by your expressions and the way you handle matters, that it is no wonder to me that they disfellowshipped you. I believe in what you are trying to do, but I think you are doing all the silentlams a grave injustice by representing them. I believe that you went to both meetings "half cocked" and ready to do battle, which is the way you have handled this whole matter from the beginning with your "do this or i'll go to the press" attitude. You strike me as a glory hound, or someone who likes attention. I personally would have disfellowshipped you myself for your haughtiness and lack of respect for the people you are trying to convince to change policy. What the hell am I talking about? How about your "can you pick out the fat man", what a way to win them over Bill. You were serving as an elder correct? Don’t you think you could have done more in your own congregation to prevent future falacies? Didn't it occur to you that you had more of an ear to those who oversee than you do now. Having lived in that area you are from, I know that you were a respected elder. I heard you speak at my hall a time or two, and I was thoroughly shocked when I found out it was you. As I said said earlier, your wise cracks directed at the wts and other elders, some of whom I know were considered your friends as well as your peers don't deserve the disrespect that you show. Grow Up!

RE: JW's are not a cult. There's nothing secret about it. . . . . . . Okay you're right JW's are not a cult, they are a high control group. You can research that info yourself. 2) There's nothing secret about them…well, maybe I'm just stupid but after 27 years inside the org I found out a lot of secrets. Such as: I really didn't know that the Awake on Child Abuse was written for the "World" and not for the congregation. I didn't know my personal friends, the elders, whom I had dined with, gone boating with, traveled with, shared a thousand moments with, would support a pedophile. I didn't know that they would justify disregarding a court of law's conviction regarding child abuse. I didn't know that they would sell out truth and justice for the watchtower society. It took me 27 years and quite a few kicks in the teeth to realize that what we study in the Watchtower Magazine is NOT THE SAME ADVICE as is given in meetings with CO & elders. Sorry, but we are ruled by a SECRET SOCIETY with unwritten rules that conducts SECRET MEETINGS without the majority present. It's crazy but it is true.

rich : i read more of your posts your gaining a lot of knowledge so don't be mad i get HOT sometimes. ok i just try to bring out facts as far as the holy sprit being in your cong. i'm sure 99% in your cong. beleive everything the wt says about 1900 wt,s etc. is it not the watchtower them selves who print today in 2002 that what the wt taught in the past was bible truth . they do this all the time . i just test if the wt is telling the truth . in the case of them glorifing their past . allittle research in most cases show they are lying. so to the jw who wanted to know why i bring up wt history . next time you read a wt and they call some 50 or100 year old watchtower book bible truth etc. take the time to find that book and read it then you will UNDERSTAND what i'm saying till you take the time to do so you don't have a leg to stand on . regarding this point and thats one way the wt gets people to believe they have the truth because they know 99.9% of jws never look up what they hide from jws. and if you hand out wt mags AND HAVE NOT TESTED EVERYTHING IN THAT MAG AND I MEAN EVERYTHING. YOU WILL NEVER BE SURE IF YOUR BEARING FALSE WITNESSES IN THE NAME OF THE LORD. JOHN

Maybe only an ex-JW or someone else in that situation will understand this. "It is a scary thing to look deep inside yourself and when you get to the core of who you are, when you see all the things that you have done to people and then you realize that you don't know who person is staring back at you." Rich talks a lot about "belifes" and "perceptions" but most here talk about actions. I hope soon the scales will drop off his, and others eyes. This comming from someone who spent enough time debating scripture while under spiritual attack. I have now learned that I was the same kind of "arsehole" without the religion. Now I call myself a reforming one. (Again thanks for the lessons linda) And Jessika, I am glad that you are ok I was worried about you.-Sequia
MILLIONS LIVING IN 1925 ARE NOW DEAD! MILLIONS LIVING IN 1914 ARE NOW DEAD! MILLIONS LIVING IN 1975 ARE NOW DEAD! TIME is ALWAYS the enemy of a false prophet, be it a single person or an "organization" that arrogantly claims to be the sole "channel" for the Creator. The Watchtower carrot, a paradise earth coming "SOON" is rotted. Gird yourselves up like men and stand against the bethel despots. They are arrogant, deceived men who are deceiving millions, and teaching them to do the same to others. The JWs, Mormons, Christian Scientists and other cult groups are the "bad debts" of the church.

So jehovah's witnesses covers up pediophilia... what did you expect? It's a cult organization, just like the roman catholic church. Hie yourself to a fundamentalist church ... like the lutherans or pentacosts. www.aunty-violet.com great job Bill, Fish rots from the head down,

TO THAT JW WHO SAID I,M A RACIST THE HAS WT TAUGHT YOU WELL ON HOW TO TWIST OTHER PEOPLES WORDS TO GLORIFY THE WT AND AVIOD THE FACTS OF THE STATEMENT MADE. I ONLY QUOTED WHAT THE WATCHTOWER PRINTED ABOUT BLACK PEOPLE. NOW THAT YOU GOT ME ON THE SUBJECT LET ME GIVE YOU SOME MORE WT RACIST QUOTES REMEMBER THESE ARE WATCHTOWER QUOTES NOT MINE. BLACKS ARE TO DUM TO DO THE PREACHING WORK. BY MEASURING THE SIZE AND SHAPE OF ONES NOSE,SKULL,TEXTURE OF THEIR HAIR ETC. WE CAN MEASURE ONES INTELLIGENTS.

GOD CREATED NEGRO RACE TO SERVE GODS CHOSEN RACE. ARIANS . THE BLOOD LINES PROVE GOD BREAD THE ARIAN RACE TO BE HIS CHOSEN PEOPLE JEWISH PEOPLE ARE BLOODSUCKERS ETC. BLACKS ARE NOTHING BUT DRUNKS, ADULTURERS, LAZY,LIARS,ETC AND DON,T HAVE THE SPRIT OF GOD. IF I LOOK ALL THESE WATCHTOWER QUOTES AGAIN REMEMBER THESE QUOTES WERE PRINTED IN THE WT. I KNOW I COULD FIND 50 MORE SO REMEMBER IN YOUR REPLY ATTACK MY SPELLING AND SAY THAT I PRINTED THESE WATCHTOWERS . THEN YOU WILL CHANGE THE SUBJECT TO BUT WHO,S DOING THE PREACHING WORK. THEN YOU WILL FEAL JUSTIFIED IN AVIODING THE SUBJECT. FREEDOM IN CHRIST TO ALL JOHN
Connie Chung CNN: Fabulous interview Bill, Heidi and Amber! Watchtower needs to stop lying. The public is pretty clear at this point in time: Churches will lie about child abuse, the Catholic Church lied, the Jehovah's Witnesses are lying. Time to come clean WTBS! Nobody believes your lies anyway anymore whatever

#1...I think your website sucks ass. I think this propaganda you are spreading is bs and any and all who are involved will judged.#2...I think its wrong for you to get on national TV and spread lies about the witnesses, people who go door to door to let people like you know the truth. Witnesses may not be perfect and may have molested people but it is wrong for you to classify all witnesss as fucking child molesters.and #3... I think its interesting that all this propaganda is being spread so loudly after the child molestation charges were spread against the catholic church. Maybe this is all a big conspiracy to take the heat off the catholics and place it on a people who obviously want to do nothing but good for their fellow man. The individual should be persecuted, not the entire religion....

I think this site is really wonderful..i hope that many will come to visit it...as a Catholic i really feel for these children and hope that their faith will not be harmed ...God bless

All I can say is keep fighting. This Watchtower needs to get off of the throne, and see itself as a servant, not a god. And remember that we can’t do it on our own. Let God be our strength. SBW

Hello Bill, I just saw the interview with Connie Chung a few minutes ago, and thought I should contact you and commend you for your stand on ALL the issues you have recently faced. I have never been one of Jehovah's Witnesses, but have met and discussed various religious topics with very many of them. My late uncle was a member for many years, and we had many great discussions about the Bible together, in the days when I was a young Pentecostal fanatic. He never knew it, but he helped me to re-examine my position on lots of issues, and approach them from different angles in order to arrive at more accurate conclusions. I was priveledged to have lived in Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada during the 1980's, and became friends with Dr. M. James PENTON, and others who were eventually disfellowshipped for various reasons. I attended the new group they formed called Lethbridge Bible Students for some time, and kept in touch with some of them until we moved away in 1985. Dr. Penton would be a good contact for you about how the WTS deals with members who think for themselves, and believe the BIBLE above organizations run by men. Let me know if you wish to contact him, and I will help you get in touch. While still in the Society he wrote a book on the history of Jehovah's Witnesses in Canada. Kindest regards, Dale Updike, North Battleford, Saskatchewan, Canada

I just watched Mr. Bowen on CNN with Connie Chung. I studied with the Jehovah Witnesses as a teenager. I am a survivor on incest, but not at the hands of a Jehovah Witness. This story outrages me. Do these elders really choose to uphold there religious convictions and stand by while innocent children are being victimized. I am so proud that you Mr. Bowen feel in your heart that the lives of these children are more important than being shunned by even your own father. I was very close to being baptized into the Jehovah Witnesses. I am now glad that I made a choice not to. I strongly support what you are doing for these children. Thank you... I have worked with a Jehovah's Witness for nearly 10 years. You would think that she'd be interested in this web site, but since I've known her she's shunned anything negative having to do with the Watch Tower. She's quick to condemn the Catholic's with the same problem's, based only on what she's heard. But in her eye's, the Watch Tower can do no wrong. I'll tell her about the CNN story and give her your web address. It'll be interesting to see how she reacts. I'd like to think she's the kind of person who would not accept that kind of behaviour from any kind of church leadership. I've been trying to reach her for years. Any tips you may have would be welcomed. Good Luck with your cause. Dale Smrall ADSUMRALL@CS.COM

In the late 50's This happened to my children by their father. I reported to brother and he was disfellowshiped. I also went to police and I had to take girls to doctor's. and then dectives told me it would be to hard for for the girls to testify in forn of their father, so I had to drop the case,I divorced him and I lost count how many times he remarried had childern and molested them. But he did get disfellowed three more times and than I lost track because he has lived all over the Us glotino@zcloud.com

I am visiting your web site because I saw Mr. Bowen on the Connie Chung show and the information about this web site. I will say that I am an elder in good standing in a congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States. I am leaving a comment because it should be said that I deplore child abuse and have never met another elder anywhere that would support such deplorable behavior. Over the years the organization of Jehovah's Witnesses has published to the elders and the publishers a plethora of information on how to deal with child abuse and I am absolutely certain that the governing body absolutely deports such behavior and that it is routinely and severely condemned by all the theological doctrine of the Bible, regardless of the translation used. It should be remembered that elders in the congregations serve on a voluntary basis and do not have any formalistic training beyond basic Bible theology that is readily available to all in the congregation. Even publications published by the Watchtower and Bible Society as policy manuals to be used by the elders are based solely on information and theological doctrine that is widely available thru all the various publications published by the Watchtower and Bible Tract Society and made available to the public at large. Having said all that, it does not surprise me that there are individuals within the Watchtower and Bible Tract Society that act contrary to Bible doctrine. Being baptized as one of Jehovah's Witnesses is not an immediate guarantee that an individual will not falter or commit serious wrongdoing. There is more than ample evidence in the Bible concerning Christians of the first century who routinely struggled with serious sins condemned by Bible doctrine. The Jewish nation that centered their worship around Jehovah for almost 1500 years repeatedly fell into continuing ongoing spirals of deplorable behavior which caused God on several occasions to severely punish them. It should be no surprise that today these types of problems persist for after everything is said and done, man still falls severely short of the mark. It is no surprise either to hear of cases of poor judgement on the part of congregation elders for the Bible tells us that it is a monumental task for individuals to even guide a single footstep. The unfortunate thing about child abuse is that (just as is correctly stated several times on your web site) it is a sin that happens in the dark without witnesses and involves the most innocent of all - children. All too often individuals that join a congregation believe that elders can deal with all situations when in reality there are definitive limitations on what we can do. It is correct that two or more witnesses are required to take action against an individual. What are the alternatives? While I am sure that elders would love to be able to read hearts that is simply not a means available to them. However, in my experience the organization of Jehovah's Witnesses has made more than a good faith effort in attempting to comply with the laws of the land in whatever country their are congregations in. It is often the case though that in this world which has so many laws and so many people making money off of interpreting the laws that it is not uncommon to find people who don't fully understand all the aspects of the legal system and their duties to comply therewith. There are some problems in society that regardless of laws and intentions, there will be no complete answer. No satisfactory response to right a wrong. No penalty equatable to the offense. There will be those who error and do so with arrogance. But in the end history, the Bible, life tells us that those who do bad to others will reap just compensation for their wrongdoing. In the interim our hearts weep for the pain of others, the sufferings that go unanswered. I am an elder and I will say with the greatest of convictions that the way of truth that Jesus espoused some 2000 years ago remains the only path of true happiness. And while man may sully the path along the way, one who persists in living a life based on standards and principles put forth in God's Holy Word will gain a greater happiness than can be found anywhere else. Till God brings the final succor to those who anguish, the pain of those who have been wronged will always be foremost in my prayers to Jehovah.

To the Elder who made this statement - Till God brings the final succor to those who anguish, the pain of those who have been wronged will always be foremost in my prayers to Jehovah. _____________ I thank you for the genuine way that you posted! I am severely concerned though, with the statements made by your very own Mr. Brown. As I hope that you are aware, he has stated in the media that you as an org. allow and send 'known' pedophiles door to door. Do you feel that this is a good thing? He even stated that 'they might not send them to neighborhoods that know them' How sir, can this be a good thing? As I am not a baptized Jehovah's Witness, I am on the outside looking in, and by Mr. Brown's very own words he has let us 'outsiders' feel very much afraid! This is NOT a good thing. To send a 'known' pedophile to the homes of children is NOT a good thing. Is it? I would greatly appreciate your insight into this. Thank you, bonnielyn

Sheila: Thru all the hubbub over the last couple day I didn't reply to your note about the 48hrs episode on the McMartin Day Care case (massive child abuse convictions for which several members of one family went to jail). Anyway, if you're interested I would like to reiterate that there was no physical evidence, either the children themselves or the things they spoke about. Of course I wasn't at the trial, but it was always a big part of the defense assertions - and the prosecution did not refute. But I am glad that hit the salient point about the press coverage and participation. The press was along for the ride and was very much a part of the witch hunt that happened in Massachusetts that year. - Buster

Buster, I went on the web and found some other cases the same years GEESH no physical evidence at all. Very interesting cases, I think it's as harmful to the children when NOTHING happened and they are coached than when it did. Children should be believed but when the mother of the child is found to be schizyphrenic, in the case where speaking of also she leveled charges before that were found baseless. Seems there has to be a middle ground, but telling victims to remain quiet is NEVER a choice and the Witnessess are seeing that repercussion Sheila

Rich: Very well reasoned post. Thanks for the personal view. Dad wasn't a Witness huh? Neither was mine - and I am also thankful for it. You seem to be on an accelerated pace, at least as related to me, but only to the point where we both take stock of spirituality. No way am I ever going back. No, nothing else out there impresses me either. But I'll tell you this, I think the Greek scriptures are collective advice for us, as individuals to establish and maintain our own relationship with God. The scriptures have very little direct orders to do this, do that, worship this way or that. What there is, I feel is more flexible than most would want to attribute to it. Some time ago you asked for my beliefs. Here's one: Organized religion, big and small, serves those that need it. But I relate it to the Israelites' demands for a king. They needed something that they could name, see, point to, and call a king. God didn't lose an argument and give them one. I don't believe for a second that God didn't know that they would insist on a king, that they had to have one. But he had the discourse with them nonetheless. Why? So the event would be saved for posterity. Moral of the story: we shouldn't need the overhead, but if you do, it is available. I believe that we are to establish our own relationship with Christ, take responsibility for our own decisions, and exercise our obligations to help others. I don't consider myself religious at all. But would hold up my morals and the way I've lived my life up to anyone's. Normally, I can abide someone's commitment to a religion. But I remember the witnesses. I remember the haughtiness and self-righteousness of elders (the newer the worse). But what really twists my panties is any logic from a JW that smacks of the fatalistic attitude that they often use to justify coverup. I blame those that step up to a position of authority and fail to lead in a truly Christian fashion. But also I blame those that participate by accepting that authority - the enablers in today's parlance. I think most witnesses fall into one of the two groups. Gotta go, gettin' misty over here. - Buster

I am one of Jehovah's Witnesses. I saw the program on CNN tonight. I have been in the congregation for many years, even before there were elders. There are many problems in the congregation. In general, whatever a woman has to say holds much less weight than a man. However, I believe that the real problems in the congregations stem from the fact that the vast majority of men serving as elders do not really meet the scriptural requirements to serve in that capacity.

To Bill: I just want to say that I viewed your photo albums and I am really disappointed in you. You came across like such a pompus idiot, as is evident by your expressions and the way you handle matters, that it is no wonder to me that they disfellowshipped you. I believe in what you are trying to do, but I think you are doing all the silentlambs a grave injustice by representing them. I believe that you went to both meetings "half cocked" and ready to do battle, which is the way you have handled this whole matter from the beginning with your "do this or I'll go to the press" attitude. You strike me as a glory hound, or someone who likes attention. I personally would have disfellowshipped you myself for your haughtiness and lack of respect for the people you are trying to convince to change policy. What the hell am I talking about? How about your "can you pick out the fat man", what a way to win them over Bill. You were serving as an elder correct? Don't you think you could have done more in your own congregation to prevent future failcies? Didn't it occur to you that you had more of an ear to those who oversee than you do now. Having lived in that area you are from, I know that you were a respected elder, I heard you speak at my hall a time or two, and I was thoroughly shocked when I found out it was you. As I said said earlier, your wise cracks directed at the wts and other elders, some of whom I know were considered your friends as well as your peers don't deserve the disrespect that you show. To the "elder in good standing" that posted at 20:21:42 on Aug 14, with all due respect your response sounds just too smooth. In my church if ANY minister, elder, deacon, or lay leader is informed about any type child abuse, they are to urge the victim to report it to the police, and the leader is to report it themself. Our church's children are definately in a more secure situation than those in the so-called "truth". No matter whether the congregation is in one of the few states that demand reporting or not, we believe that EVERY child is worthy of the safety of knowth that they will be heard, and aided in prosecuting such SINFUL and SICK persons. In addition, the perpetrator, once guilt is determinede, will no longer hold a position of trust or be employed by the local assembly. They rarely have to be expelled because they normally leave on their own, relizing the GIG IS UP! Our standards are definately higher than the WT, who only report when the law forces them to. As far as me "defacing" literature left in a public place-- the fact that it is left in a PUBLIC place means that, first, it belongs to NO ONE, and secondly, it is mine to do with as I please once i take possession of it. By the way, your members don't replace all, or even most of the "defaced" literature. As for me being like the pedophiles for zeroing in on the "newer" witness trainee, remember, THEY ALWAYS start the conversation going. Usually, I'm minding my own business when they, oh so innocently, ask me if I would "like something to read". I am not really "entertained" by the newer one's delima. Remember, I ask them their personal view. But usually they have this terrifies, uncomfortable look on their face as they glance back at the older witness, seemingly afraid to say the "wrong thing". But, I will admit, that it is entertaining to see how long the older witness can take being made to not quiet while I have a one-on-one conversation with their magazine-placer trainee! Eventually, the older witness decides that THEY have had enough and attempts to end the conversation, of which they are no part anyway. I love being a member of a church where we love each other, minister to the needs of the community, and grow in God's grace. I often say that if every church in a given neighborhood was to disappear, the community would feel the void within a week. However, if every Kingdom hall was to disappear if would probably go unnoticed, because the impact upon the community is so negligible. People in my neighborhood know that when they really need help, they can come to our doors, and have their temporal and spiritual needs met, at least for the short term. A Kingdom Hall is twoo blocks down the street, and I have often asked many of the people we serve why they don't seek help from the all. they always say that the JWs only want to start a study, or give them a book or magazine. Studies, books and mags do fill empty stomachs, house the homeless, or clothe the naked. I believe that our Lord FED the crowd before he preached to them. We follow His wonderful example in that regard. I will not mention my denomination, because we are just doing the will of God in our neighborhood, as so many other churches... are doing. Since many witnesses are TERRIFIED of coming to a Christian church, they can only believe the lies the WT feeds them. Most Christians I know LOVE the Lord, live God-honoring lives, and are assets to there communities. Decent folk. I remember my pastor saying that JWs and Mormons are a mission-field on our doorstep. I always witness to them and share the good news of the Gospel of Christ. they will be accountable for what they hear. It's my job to live and preach the Gospel, and the Holy Spirit's job to convict the unsaved religionists who come to my door uninvited. Lawrence

John: I am no witness defender. But I have a hunch this is some OLD religious version of an urban legend. I've heard the story of the brother that won the lottery and arranged a deal with the Society to receive a donation, take the complete write-off, and then receive some portion of the money back, under the table, from the Society. That story must be 20 years old. I can't refute it. But I've never heard verifiable detail either - no state where it happened or anything else that would be independently verifiable. Unless someone can provide such detail, I would dismiss it for now. - Buster

John, LOL about the lotto story and the 12 mil! What a coincidence the person brought that up, and with of ALL people, YOU! You must have felt HS pouring down to hear such a jewell of jw/wts story. - No, I've never heard that one. JWs are not supposed to GAMBLE nor play the lottery. So, if they DID and won, I would think they would be too afraid for anyone to know about it. But since lotto makes the winner public knowledge, once he was "found out" of his sin of gambling, then in order to appease the False Profits (GB), he made a pact with the Devil: Please GB don't DF me for the lotto You See; I will give YOU the money behind close doors if you promise not to DF me!--- Just a little ditty of a poem by SLC. :) --- Seriously, I've never heard that about the 12 mil. You should post the Q and the story at www.jehovahs-witnesses.com. If anybody's heard it, they would know, or write Randy Watters at his www.freeminds.org site. OR, you could email the IRS and inquire if they know about it. I would really like to know if it's true 'cuz a JW was bemoaning about all the hard-earned money that the friends/JWs donate to WTBTS being ROBBED by the LAMBS and their supporters. I'd love to be able to show this person the WTS got 12 mil from a GAMBLING BROTHER. --- Funny story nonetheless, and you were in the right place at the right time, it seems! Agape/SLC

GREAT post Lawrence (to Elder in good standing). Good food for thought, as I can find no error in what you say. I'm learning! And funny about the magazine-placer-trainee! I do remember those days, too. --As for the mags in public places, good comeback, makes sense. When a JW, I had a rubber-stamp made which said, "Complimentary Issue. Please Take With You," and would stamp that message on the front of my extra mags which I would leave here and there. Maybe I should get a new stamp made saying, "Visit SilentLambs.org," etc. -- As for defaced or trashed mags, I've been digging them out of the big trash can in the Laundry Room here at my apt. complex all these years, because I always felt they were "sacred" and I hated to see them all rumpled up in the trash cans, and I'm not even a JW anymore. But I would brush them off, straighten them out, and put them back on the counter or either bring them home. Oh well, not sure what I'll do next time I see one in the trash. 8-5-02 I saw the gentleman interviewed by Connie Chung tonite on CNN, along with the two young girls ... when I saw the URL for the website under the man's name, I immediately pulled it up, as my girlfriend of 2 years was a JW for 5-7 years (I think) when she was a teenager and into her mid 20's. She did the door-to-door work, she told me. She decided to leave the faith at some point ... I never really got into it with her as to why - it was just some distant part of her life (she's 53 now), but she never got into it except for the few times we talked about religion when we first met. She is a very caring, loving person - but somewhat emotionally damaged (I can tell). Now, I'm very concerned that she may have had such experiences that she hasn't related to me - all of which could explain some things in her nature/behavior ... (I'm almost afraid to ask - but I will ...) Well, I've been reading the testimonials on the site for the last 2 hours (transfixed, actually) ... I am shocked, but somehow NOT surprised, by the absolutely RAMPANT, PERVASIVE & CONSISTENT nature of the postings ... frankly, this entire organizational hierarchy MUST be exposed AND brought down ... even at the expense of the theology ... I'm sorry ... but this is a truly evil organization at the top. I have eerily similar memories of such perversions, although not on an actual first-hand basis, as a student in high school where I was taught by the Catholic Christian Brothers. I can tell you that there were SOME very demented Christian Brothers who taught us in high school - an all-boys Catholic school in Pennsylvania (how extraordinarily convenient for SOME of them - the similarities to the JW world is quite chilling, and all under the guise of "religion").

We're hearing more about it everyday - it's now become an crises for Catholicism, as you well know. It was considered an honor that you were in the top third of ones class in the city's Parochial grade schools and that you qualified for admission to my prestigious high school (1300 boys in grades 9-12), with the bright prospect of continuing on to college. Half of the faculty were Brothers; the rest were lay teachers. Granted, there were some VERY good, VERY devoted men in the brotherhood; however, they also had their share of gay members (almost blatant, in some cases) and a few others who were even a bit perverse, to put it mildly. Although the bad apples were readily apparent to the upper-classmen who had already "been thru the mill", it was often the poor freshmen who were the gullible ones who were usually preyed upon, in most cases. Parental pressure to "honor & obey" the brothers without question, contributed to persistance of this "almost surreal" situation. Take, for instance, the example of Br. Michael, the freshman typing teacher. Besides teaching "asdf-gh;space" (or whatever it was), there was the following lesson: He would ask the question - How do say "I love you" in Eskimo? (to some "favorite" student, almost EVERY class). The answer (of which we were all quite aware, since he drilled it into us everyday) was "Ookie Nookie Wawa". He would ask the question to the general class, but often he singled out some "weak" kid, leaned over the student's desk, lightly pulling him by the ear so that their noses were touching, and when the student embarrassedly gave the answer, he would agitatedly rub their noses together and respond, "Oh, and I love you, too", to the chigrine of us all, especially the victim. This was compounded by the fact that Br. Michael's real-life brother worked at a Sears store in the Boys dept. (or so he said), and would send him all the "irregular" Boy's T-shirts and briefs for the Catholic students. He would ask the class who needed any at $1/ea., and would have a student or two stick around after class to try them on - to "make sure that they got the right size", while he watched, hands trembling ... strange, but TRUE. I could go on, but my point is made ... I'm sure there was some emotional and sexual scarring for some of the students there ... Except for these type of memories, I was "providently" spared ... Hello, My name is Donna and I can relate to this article because I too experienced this from an elder. He died a few years ago and I feel that to some extent justice is done. On the other hand he has the opportunity of resurrection in the new system and that doesn't seem fair. I have been disfellowshiped since that year in my life. I was not disfellowshiped because of that but, because I became permissive. ddeter@innet.com

I watched the Connie Chung show last night (August 14) regarding the Jehovah's Witness and pedophiles. The information that was presented was very informative but only touched the surface of the true picture of what is actually going on in that so-called religion. After reading the confessions of these women who have been totally abused, manipulated and stripped of their identities, it is obvious that more action needs to be taken to prevent this continual abuse of women. I was just shaking my head as I read and totally appalled at what these women have been subjected to and that nothing could be done to rectify their legitimate complaints. It is quite obvious that this "cult" is male-oriented. What is being taught in this organization is so far from the "truth" it is incomprehensible. I am a "born-again Christian" and the God that I worship is the true God, who loves me and has prepared an eternal life for me with Him when I leave this earthly body. He doesn't see any difference in color or gender. He loves His children and would never allow something as heinous as this to happen. My God is a friend, provider, supporter, healer, protector, loving father, and He will never leave me or forsake me. These "damaged souls" need to meet Him. Patricia/North Carolina

Thanks to the “Elder in good standing” for some well-articulated commentary! Thank you for being brave enough to face the wrath of those who are blinded by their anger.----- ----As to the person who likes to deface Watchtower and Awake magazines (Lawrence?) because he feels that it is OK since they are left in public, let me ask this; What other property do you feel justified in defacing or destroying simply because it is left in public? To all of the individuals that are posting questions to be answered as a defense of the WTBS policies. YOU ARE NOT SEARCHING FOR ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS. YOU ARE TROLLING FOR ARGUMENTS. (I guess it is not all bad though. I admire how gracefully some people handle the agitators.) I love how things keep moving forward. 5000 cases that have come forward. Does anyone know if that is world wide or just in the US/Canada?//Story time...A burgler broke into a house and was looking for things to steal when he hears "JESUS is watching you!" He freezes and looks around then goes back to stealing. Again he hears "Jesus, is watching YOU!" He spins around and sees a parrot in a cage. "Did you say that?" He asked the bird. "Yep." Said the parrot. "Well I don't care" said the man. "What is your name?" "Gabriel" replied the bird. "GABRIEL?" What kind of idiot would name his bird GABRIEL?" The parrot said "The same kind of idiot who named the rottweiler Jesus!"

To the person who wrote about Bill Bowen’s smug attitude during his appeal meeting: I think you are on to something that has been on my mind for the past few weeks.----- ----If you listen to Bill's comments to the media, he tends to refer to Jehovah's Witnesses as “they” rather than “us” or “we”. Even his writings about his experiences elsewhere on this web site show that he no longer considers himself one of Jehovah's Witnesses and probably hasn't for some time – even if he is unaware of it. His attitude is one of "me versus them", rather than trying to reform from within----- ----So, do I feel he should have been disfellowshipped? No. I think Mr. Bowen disassociated himself some time ago and needs to admit it to himself and others.----- -Brocha

A couple of points may help rectify some other misunderstandings. Many have called Jehovah's Witnesses “False Prophets”. Jehovah's Witnesses do not claim that they are prophets! As for whether Jehovah's Witnesses consider their publications or the Governing Body “inspired”, let their own words answer the charges:  Watchtower 1981, February 15 page 9: “True, the brothers preparing these publications are not infallible. Their writings are not inspired as are those of Paul and the other Bible writers. (2 Tim. 3:16) And so, at times, it has been necessary, as understanding became clearer, to correct views. (Prov. 4:18) However, this has resulted in a continual refining of the body of Bible-based truth to which Jehovah's Witnesses subscribe. Over the years, as adjustments have been made to that body of truth, it has become ever more wonderful and applicable to our lives in these “last days.” Bible commentators of Christendom are not inspired either. Despite their claims to great knowledge, they have failed to highlight even basic Bible truths—such as the coming Paradise earth, the importance of God's name, and the condition of the dead.”----  Watchtower 1979, March 1 pages 23-4: "...It must be observed that this “faithful and discreet slave” was never inspired, never perfect. Those writings by certain members of the “slave” class that came to form the Christian part of God's Word were inspired and infallible, but that is not true of other writings since. Things published were not perfect in the days of Charles Taze Russell, first president of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society; nor were they perfect in the days of J. F. Rutherford, the succeeding president. The increasing light on God's Word as well as the facts of history have repeatedly required that adjustments of one kind or another be made down to the very present time. But let us never forget that the motives of this “slave” were always pure, unselfish; at all times it has been well-meaning. Moreover, the words found at Romans 8:28 are fitting here also: “God makes all his works cooperate together for the good of those who love God, those who are the ones called according to his purpose.” Actually, any adjustments that have been made in understanding have furnished an opportunity for those being served by this “slave” to show loyalty and love, the kind of love that Jesus said would mark his followers. (John 13:34, 35; compare 1 Peter 4:8.) For those who truly love God's law there is no stumbling block.—Ps. 119:165.”---- ----See also the following Watchtower issues: 1954 pages 638-9; 1950 page 263; 1947 pages 157-8 for similar expressions.---- ----So John, what do you say NOW about our “old” literature? You may hate your Dad, you may despise Jehovah's Witnesses and you may be angry at the world, but your points are fallacious.---- ----Oh, when you reply in all caps with poor punctuation and spelling, it does makes you come across as a screaming lunatic. And then, after your rant, you close with “FREEDOM IN CHRIST TO ALL”? Puh-leeessssase!----- -Brocha

For those who don’t like the idea of pedophiles being allowed to go door-to-door in the preaching activity, I would like to point out that elders can’t read hearts. If a person says he or she is repentant and seems to truly be so, we have no choice but to allow them to fulfill the Christian responsibility of preaching, as is commanded in the Bible. To say ‘No, once a perv; always a perv’ would make the elders guilty of wrongfully condemning someone. People can’t repent? If a pedophile “is” convicted, then they must face whatever punishment the secular authorities mete out; but no one may interfere with their right to be Christian. It’s God-given. You may not “like” the idea of a known pedophile being out preaching in public; but, sorry, you have no choice, unless you wish to implement vigilant justice and hang them in public. But with vigilantism the rule - who of us would then be safe?

Brocha...Regarding your comment about letting child molesters go door to door. The problem with pedophilia is that it is a disease and like alcholism the cure rate is low. In fact there may not even be a cure (do some research) The pedophile may say he is repentant but his door to door work is actually stalking of children. I know of a registered sex offender who molested in the congregation and was forgiven. He later raped two little girls he met on a Bible study. I believe you will be hearing more about this man and similar stories.

To the post of "15 Aug 2002, Time: 10:43:26": ----I am willing to accept pedophilia as an incurable disease, which you compare to alcoholism (although horribly worse!). But, in the case of an alcoholic who says he/she is repentant, the Christian congregation must accept them and allow them to be a part of the congregation - even if they revert to drinking again and again. The same must hold with those guilty of pedophilia or any other gross sin: because we cannot read hearts, we cannot deny a person's claim of repentance and we cannot abrogate their right to participate in the ministry. It is one of the signs of true repentance that elders look for. ---- -Brocha

Brocha, I may not and do not like the idea as you put it. Let me ask you this.....you are right, we cannot read the hearts of people, and because you will not know all there is to know about people in your own hall, how would you feel if you found out that a child of yours happened to have befriended by a "christian" pedophile in your congregation and had been going out in service alone with this person and had been invited over to this persons house on different occasions, either alone or with a group? Do not try to say you would not be worried or even question your child as to what may have happened. It is true we may not know what is in everyone's heart but people must face the consequences of their actions. If that means they were "once" a molester it will affect them the rest of their lives...I'm sorry but that is the truth, and as a parent, it is my responsibility to my children, to ensure their safety and yes to voice my opinion about molesters in the public. JFK, You use the term honest hearted men, did you read where those honest ones have left my brother in law for well over 15 or so years. He is in "goodstanding" but because of his medical condition can't attend meetings. Have they offered to do a phone hook up NO, have they done shepherding calls,No, have offered to help he and his wife when their pipes froze and they had NO water in the middle of a New Hampshire winter, a resounding NO<( He has cerebral palsy which manifests itself in no use of his legs.) Lets see I could go on about our friends in Massachusetts that were a good family, no problems other than the elders HOUNDING them because the brother was shy and "didn't comment enough", now in this same congregation are a group of brothers that are "rental property owners" they buy houses fix them up under a "business name" rent them out for a few months then FILE BANKRUPTCY on the business. The next month they are in the black again new business, same ol scam. Elders involved, oh such honest hearted men. I could go on about the neglect and abuse my husband grew up in, elders had trouble with my mother in law sweeping dirt in the corner, but did nothing about the neglect and abuse going on.... Shall I talk about the other congregations...and the "honest hearted men" I've known and what lies the live. People wonder Why people get angry ...my husband and I raised our two children on lies while we thought if we just huff fast it would work out. Do you know we were "advised" not to have children, that in 1980's the end was "so near" why bring children into an imperfect world. It's the "honest hearted" people and children that are and have been neglected and abused by this organization. So don't tell me about honest hearted people I've seen them with their hearts broken for know other reason than some elder was on his ego trip for the week. I've been there and seen far to much, do you know what and honest hearted person even looks like JFK Sheila Brocha, What does the bible say about a person that harms a child? I think there is a scripture about a millstone is there not. Don't you find it funny that you can not be disfellowshipped if your repentant about SEXUALLY ABUSING A CHILD, but if you stand your ground with scriptural evidence you are??? I personally am not disfellowshipped but had a brother in law at 15 or 16 disfellowshipped for HITTING his brother (biological) why the police where called by the old man down the street that called the police on everyone. They were fighting like all brothers do. Now these same brothers had witnessed many abuse their children most in the bathroom at the hall for not sitting still. But if two CHILDREN hit each other now that's different. How you can be involved with an organization that would let you sit in the same hall as a pedophile and not protect your children, makes me ill. That is the one thing I NEVER thought in all the injustices I've witnessed, I was so sure they WOULD never allow that. To know I put my now grown children in harms way sickens my heart, I have apologized to them over and over. To me that is what a normal parent does...Sheila

Someone said:* Remote User: Date: 14 Aug 2002 Time: 21:01:52 Comments I am visiting your web site because I saw Mr. Bowen on the Connie Chung show and the information about this web site. I will say that I am an elder in good standing in a congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses in the United States. I am leaving a comment because it should be said that I deplore child abuse and have never met another elder anywhere that would support such deplorable behavior. Over the years the organization of Jehovah's Witnesses has published to the elders and the publishers a plethora of information on how to deal with child abuse and I am absolutely certain that the governing body absolutely deplores such behavior and that it is routinely and severely condemned by all the theological doctrine of the Bible, regardless of the translation used. It should be remembered that elders in the congregations serve on a voluntary basis and do not have any formalistic training beyond basic Bible theology that is readily available to all in the congregation. Even publications published by the Watchtower and Bible Society as policy manuals to be used by the elders are based solely on information and theological doctrine that is widely available thru all the various publications published by the Watchtower and Bible Tract Society and made available to the public at large. Having said all that, it does not surprise me that there are individuals within the Watchtower and Bible Tract Society that act contrary to Bible doctrine. Being baptized as one of Jehovah's Witnesses is not an immediate guarantee that an individual will not falter or commit serious wrongdoing. There is more than ample evidence in the Bible concerning Christians of the first century who routinely struggled with serious sins condemned by Bible doctrine. The Jewish nation that centered their worship around Jehovah for almost 1500 years repeatedly fell into continuing ongoing spirals of deplorable behavior which caused God on several occasions to severely punish them. It should be no surprise that today these types of problems persist for after everything is said and done, man still falls severely short of the mark. It is no surprise either to hear of cases of poor judgement on the part of congregation elders for the Bible tells us that it is a monumental task for individuals to even guide a single footstep. The unfortunate thing about child abuse is that (just as is correctly stated several times on your web site) it is a sin that happens in the dark without witnesses and involves the most innocent of all - children. All to often individuals that join a congregation believe that elders can deal with all situations when in reality there are definitive limitations on what we can do. It is correct that two or more witnesses are required to take action against an individual. What are the alternatives? While I am sure that elders would love to be able to read hearts that is simply not a means available to them. However, in my experience the organization of Jehovah's Witnesses has made more than a good faith effort in attempting to comply with the laws of the land in whatever country their are congregations in. It is often the case though that in this world which has so many laws and so many people making money off of interpreting the laws that it is not uncommon to find people who don't fully understand all the aspects of the legal system and their duties to comply therewith. There are some problems in society that regardless of laws and intentions, there will be no complete answer. No satisfactory response to right a wrong. No penalty equatable to the offense. There will be those who error and do so with arrogance. But in the end history, the Bible, life tells us that those who do bad to others will reap just compensation for their wrongdoing. In the interim our hearts weep for the pain of others, the sufferings that go unanswered. I am an elder and I will say with the greatest of convictions that the way of truth that Jesus espoused some 2000 years ago remains the only path of true happiness. And while man may sully the path along the way, one who persists in living a life based on standards and principles put forth in God's Holy Word will gain a greater happiness than can be found anywhere else. Till God brings the final succor to those who anguish, the pain of those who have been wronged will always be foremost in my prayers to Jehovah.  I say: I am sure that you are a sincere Christian Witness of Jehovah, with prayers and hopefulness that these things will end. However, it doesn't stop the fact that the Watchtower Society has said that "it reports suspected abuse in states that require it." Why only those states? Wouldn't it be the moral and ethical thing to do to report it anyway? If a man's name is brought into it, and he is innocent, well, then, certainly an investigation by the proper authorities will clear that right up, won't it? His name will be vindicated, in that case, won't it? What fear should there be? If the parents don't report it, who will? Who will be a protector for these innocents? Those are my only questions. AJVF

Jen and Sheila: You raise valid points. No, I would not feel comfortable allowing my child near a known pervert. But how am I going to know who "is" a convicted pedophile?---- ----Here's a suggestion: rather than forcing elders to reveal the names of known sex offenders, why not have local governments advertise the names and faces of convicted perverts on television and billboards? That takes the responsibility out of the hands of the elders, whose duties involve the spirituality of a congregation, not enforcing secular laws. This way the congregation and the community at-large will learn to recognize who is guilty.---- ----Unfortunately, the ACLU and various other groups will decry the "invasion of privacy" of the pedophiles and vigorously fight such legislation. This would then mean that the problem is not with Jehovah's Witnesses, but with the legal system---- -Brocha

Re: I am an elder in good standing . . . . . Personally I think you are probably my circuit overseer in Texas. He, like you, is so good at saying all the nice little words but what is done about the problem? What changes? Nothing, not one thing. His kind remarks are designed to defuse the situation to encourage you to go away and be quiet. I went to him repeatedly for help regarding a molested child. Did he or the elders ever help? No, they did not. The suffering of a child is NOTHING to them. Yes, they say . . . . . I deplore child abuse, the governing body absolutely deplores such behavior. And they say: It is correct that two or more witnesses are required to take action against an individual. What are the alternatives? . . . .THE POINT they make is: WE CANNOT AND WILL NOT ACTUALLY HELP THE CHILD! Just pray to Jehovah, leave it up to Jehovah....that's what my Circuit Overseer put in writing for me. Their remarks are NOT KIND they are cruel--- IT'S A SMOOTH COVERUP JOB . . .but that game has been played by the Catholic Church and now by the JW's. We know what you are doing, we are no longer that stupid. It's time for a new game.

Brocha . . . .That ACLU remark is a joke, right? Most if not all states have public data bases of registered sex offenders. (I believe all 50 states now have Megan's Laws) Texas's is found on the texas dept of public safety website. On this website you can check your zipcode for pedophiles or rapists. In addition in Dallas and surrounding cities whenever a registered offender moves into the neighborhood a flier is mailed to ALL the neighbors. By law parents are warned if another student who is a sex offender is present in their children's school. . . . When a REGISTERED SEX OFFENDER with his picture and address on the TX website moved to MY KINGDOM HALL I tried to warn a family he was friendly with. He was holding their little daughter on HIS LAP during meetings. I was warned against "disrupting the peace of the congregation" NAN

Brocha, The responsibility of the an Elder to shepherd the flock. Illustration: Does a shepherd whose concern is not only for the spirituality but also the LIFE at that sheep harbor a wolf, a repentant wolf but nevertheless a wolf that has been accused by little lambs of indecent acts. Does the shepherd take him at talk to him and concern himself with the spirituality of that wolf or does he take his shot gun out and blow the wolf to smithereens??? In our world the gun would symbolize the reporting of the wolf to the proper authorities EVERY TIME NO MATTER WHAT STATE, PROVINCE OR BACKWOODS PRINCIPALLITY that wolf might belong. No matter how much Elder one likes fishing with Mr. Wolf or that Elder three is married to his cousin or worse that Elder four has a business deal with Mr. Wolf and it will fall thru and Mr. Elder wife won't get to pioneer. When I came into the truth, there was such a thing about being "blood guilty" meaning if one knows of a situation or if one stumbles his brother he was having the blood of such a lost one on his hands. Is that no longer a fear do the elders not care that they are standing hip deep in the midst of the lambs blood??? Does the governing body not care that they are drowning in it, that it's pouring through their doors while the wolf and the shepherd have turned their back on the flock and discuss how much service time the wolf has. Me again >>>>Sheila

God is perfect. That's what the Bible says. No ifs, ands, or buts. Perfect is perfect. When he says something, it is "also" perfect. Do you think he could not find a way to relay dictums to his "spirit guided channel of communication" so that it comes OUT perfect in practice? Yeah. So why the excuse of "imperfect men"? That's not an excuse, not even a vaguely valid one. Besides, why would God choose to reveal "new light" to persons who constantly misinterpret his "previous light".. marking it down as the misinterpretations of imperfect men? Why should he want to be made the patsy all the time? Why should he want to be made a "fool" of by revealing new guiding light to people who misinterpret it? Look at their own writings.. they have said that they have rushed to judgement in their haste to see the culmination of this time of the end. Why would God choose such incompetant people to bring his light to people on Earth? He wouldn't? We are made in God's image. To have sense and logical conclusions. Nothing about the JW's is logical.. nothing makes sense. God doesn't have new light and old light.. just the same light through the ages: the beacon to call all of us into his presence, the Bible. You say that the only thing that matters is God's word; yet, if you are a Jehovah's Witness and you read the Word of God on your own, you are treading on unsteady ground because you are finding out the Truth, and it's not in agreement with their publications. You will know the gravity of your sin when you begin to question.. for you will be thrown out on your ear. They equate themselves with God. "They" are the only ones that can interpret the word of God, since they receive his "spiritual guidance." Yet, we know how unsteady and unstable that is. AJVF

JFKI am currently a JW (for 37 years). Just recently I have become aware of serious problems within the JW community. I as many on this site thought I was the only one. That my case of abuse by elders was isolated. Now I know differently. Yes I am happy that I learned the basic truths from the Bible from JW's. But that is the baby food that Paul was talking about. Those are things that many groups throughout the ages have been able to discern. What I am unhappy with is the fact that the leaders of this modern group have presented themselves as the "channel of God." They claim to have privileged knowledge of the prophesies of the Bible. Russell claimed to have deduced the magic year of 1914 in the 1800's using information in the book of Daniel. The book of Daniel plainly states that it was to be sealed until the time of the end. NOBODY could understand the prophecy until the time of the end. Did God change his mind and slip Russell a sneak peek into prophecy? I don't think so. The WTS has thrown so many dates around it was pure chance that something major happened in that year. No matter that the major thing happened in August instead of October like it was predicted. And no matter that the major thing that happened had no resemblance to the thing predicted. OOPS!  The leaders of this group that lays claim to Jehovah's name have not lived up to that holy name. They have treated his named people with disrespect and contempt. They have misapplied prophecy to Christendom that clearly applies to themselves. They claim to be the only ones privileged to understand prophesy. Woe to anyone who has the moxie to search the scriptures and finds something contrary to what they teach. That one is branded an Apostate and dismissed. Your comment; Jehovah God is using imperfect humans to do his work. He says he COULD make even the ROCKS talk but, instead, he uses imperfect humans. Psalms says that if it's error that he looks at, NO ONE would have a chance. YOU are only looking for imperfect human error. What you're talking about IS NOT REPRESENTATIVE of the vital information he dispensed IN SPITE OF his errors. My answer to that is-- Christians should not have to sift through the garbage to find the gems. If I want dog poo I can go in my backyard. I am all grown up. I can search the scriptures with a group of friends and we together can come up with more gems that a hundred years spent reading WT books and magazines. Go to the Bible my brother and you will find life's water free. Free of error. Love Y'all, Loris

I am sorry, but I am going to comment on BROCHA's ACLU remark one more time. I am concerned about Brocha's intent in making that remark I feel that it may be to spread misinformation. On May 17, 1996, President Clinton signed Megan's Law. . . . Megan's Law requires the following two components: Sex Offender Registration, Community Notification This is the Law of the United States of America. It is not up for debate regarding "invasion of privacy" or is it pending legislation. Federal law requires states to have a registry, or face a cut in federal funding. . . . This year the Supreme Court will decide whether to force states to evaluate cases INDIVIDUALLY before listing former sex offenders on registries meant to help people keep tabs on offenders living or working nearby. It's important to remember that this case is not about preventing sex offender registries from existing," said Shelley Sadin, a lawyer. "It is about making sure that sex offender laws are fair and constitutional ... that they do not post the current photos of people who are not dangerous alongside people who are dangerous ... without a hearing about whether or not they belong on that list," said Sadin. This is from the Texas Website: The information provided through this Web site is open record. It may be used by anyone for any purpose. http://records.txdps.state.tx.us/soSearch/default.cfm See Megan's Law http://www.klaaskids.org/pg-legmeg.htm . . .NAN

Brocha I think you come right the clown village. There is no sense in you. Why don't you sit for a while and learn from those hat know? The only justifiable reason for not doing so because you are not interested in knowing what is true and what is evil. If you persist you will never know. You are a very privileged person to be on his site where you can truly be motivated to do things God's way. JFK and helena also. Clever wishful thinking that the WT Organization is basically good is just a wishfull thinking. This Org. was never good and only evil. I'll give you another pearl. Ch.T. Russell was adamant that Jehovah God lives in Pleyads on the star Alkyon. Is that no longer true you say? Is that an old history you say? Tell us is it ok to give Hitler moral and spiritual support to kill of the jewish people during 2WW as it was done under Rutherford? Is that also only a history? how about our brothers put to death in Malawi only recently on the initiative of the GB. . Old rehashed History you say? How about putting our young brothers in jail who refuse the military service to this very day? And how about daily murders of our brothers and sisters to this very day for lack of blood? And how about the pedophia everywhere you look? That is not true OSTRIGES!? When you defend the WT you think you are defending the name of Jehovah God. He has nothing to do with this LOW LIFE characters in the GB. He will have them together with Russel, Rutherford Knorr Hitler Stalin in the same place called by the Bible Hell. And you and I must be cautious because you or I will end up with them. One of us is wrong. So all this is not only a historical cops but deliberate design by the WT's GB. For further reading I refer you to Arnold Schnell: 30 years of the WT Slave. You will enjoy it. RMK saying, "It is about making sure that sex offender laws are fair and constitutional and that they do not post the current photos of offenders on registries meant to help people keep tabs on offenders living or working nearby. It's important to recognize who is guilty. Unfortunately, the ACLU and various other groups will decry the "invasion of privacy" of the pedophiles and vigorously fight such legislation. This would then mean that the problem is not with Jehovah's Witnesses, but with the legal system."

Brocha wrote: Remote User: Date: 15 Aug 2002 Time: 11:31:58 Comments Jen and Sheila: You raise valid points. No, I would not feel comfortable allowing my child near a known pervert. But how am I going to know who "is" a convicted pedophile? Here's a suggestion: rather than forcing elders to reveal the names of known sex offenders, why not have local governments advertise the names "and" faces of convicted perverts on television and billboards? That takes the responsibility out of the hands of the elders, whose duties involve the spirituality of a congregation, not enforcing secular laws. This way the congregation "and" the community at-large will learn to recognize who is guilty. Unfortunately, the ACLU and various other groups will decry the "invasion of privacy" of the pedophiles and vigorously fight such legislation. This would then mean that the problem is not with Jehovah's Witnesses, but with the legal system. --Brocha -- You are right. The brothers are "not" equipped to handle forensic and pathological investigations, then it should be standard protocol to report suspected perpetrations to the secular authorities, where that type of thing can be investigated properly. According to "Megan's Law", in the States, all sexual predators must be registered with the particular county they live in, and their names and address available to the general public. Some states have actually put their sexual offender registries online. However, this registry is "moot" unless the elders are reporting such suspicions, investigations being done, and convictions being obtained. Lots of times, where it is not required to be reported by "clergy, ministers" etc., then they are not required to do so, and many times won't. The responsibility doesn't lie with the legal system, it lies with the people who have these allegations reported to them, and then don't do the moral or ethical thing by reporting them to the legal system for investigation, prosecution and conviction, "or" the clearance of a good name. You actually, would have NO WAY of knowing if a perp is in your congregation because if it's not reported it can't be convicted! Do you want to put YOUR child at such risk? I don't! If a Witness comes into your hall, generally it is known where he/she comes from. With Megan's Law, you can generally look up the county the previous Hall was in and find out if this person was convicted of something in the nature of a sexual abuse (in the United States -- thanks Megan Kanka's Mom!). But if it is not required to be reported, then it probably won't be by the Elders.. but may be by the parents. You can obviously see how this could slip by. The Bible says to "love our neighbors as ourselves." How can the Society be loving their neighbors when they are sending perpetrators, convicted or unconvicted, out in to the territories, unprotected householders have no clue! Sure... people cannot judge the heart condition of a repentant one, but it's pretty clear from all the studies that the recidivism rate for child molesters is pretty darned high. Can the Society survive while maintaining this policy? You are not only putting your OWN children at risk, but those in the rest of the hall, and the householders' children at risk by not having a risk-free protocol that guarantees that no children will be harmed in any future date. ANYONE can declare repentance. Anyone can cry tears and cite scriptures and ask repentance. That's easy for some actors. Unless you are an acting coach, I don't think you know what is true and what is not. Are you gonna bet your judgement to assure that it won't happen again? Will your child be the next victim? I hope not.. but seriously think about this. What if YOUR daughter or son came to you with the information that a fellow Brother was molesting them? Would you not be blinded by rage? What if "your" daughter or son was subjected to a Judicial Committee in which they faced their abuser, and the abuser denied it? What if YOUR son or daughter was told since the allegations couldn't be substantiated by two Witnesses that they were subject to disfellowshipping if they were to talk to other members about this? Think hard about it.. long and hard. It would seem unfair. What if your son/daughter were told that to bring it to the authorities would bring shame on Jehovah's organization? What would YOU do Brocha? This is what these young girls/boys are facing. Adults. Hard to believe, but true. AJVF

NAN, et al: I am very well aware of "Megan's Law", but keep in mind that "registries" of sex offenders are basically passive. If I want to know who is a registered sex offender, I have to go through the effort of finding the website for my state, search by community and click each name that shows up, or search by name, then click on their picture (if available). How many people are really computer savvy enough to do such a search? Does everyone have Internet access so that they may do this? How likely are we too remember the perpetrators faces after we leave the website?-- We print milk cartons and publish flyers with the faces of missing children; what's the problem with broadcasting pedophile's names AND FACES regularly on television or posting their pictures on billboards so that we will be reminded of what they look like? So far the police in my state do not go out of their way to tell me who is a sex offender in my community. And you expect the elders to do more than the police?-- My comment about the ACLU was no joke - to get the level of protection many people want WILL involve some serious questions of privacy.-- I am certain the GB will make whatever changes are really needed. In the meantime, I am sticking with Jehovah's Witnesses because I am betting my eternal life that they are closer to the Bible than any other group!--

Remote User: Date: 15 Aug 2002 Time: 11:43:22 Comments Re: I am an elder in good standing . . . . . Personally I think you are probably my circuit overseer in Texas. He, like you, is so good at saying all the nice little words but what is done about the problem? What changes? Nothing, not one thing. His kind remarks are designed to defuse the situation to encourage you to go away and be quiet. I went to him repeatedly for help regarding a molested child. Did he or the elders ever help? No, they did not. The suffering of a child is NOTHING to them. Yes, they say . . . . . I deplore child abuse, the governing body absolutely deplores such behavior. And they say: It is correct that two or more witnesses are required to take action against an individual. What are the alternatives? . . . .THE POINT they make is: WE CANNOT AND WILL NOT ACTUALLY HELP THE CHILD! Just pray to Jehovah, leave it up to Jehovah....that's what my Circuit Overseer put in writing for me. Their remarks are NOT KIND they are cruel--- IT'S A SMOOTH COVERUP JOB . . . but that game has been played by the Catholic Church and now by the JW's. We know what you are doing, we are no longer that stupid. It's time for a new game._________________ My idea: God helps those that help themselves! Why should we wait on Jehovah? When the Witnesses are facing the limiting of their free rights of speech and preaching, in Stafford, Ohio, or Malawi,. they speak up! They get the lawyers in there and they change the laws. They have been credited with being the biggest supporters of Free Speech and the first ones to stick up for it. That's if there's $$ to be made. When it comes to free speech within the Organization, well, fergeddaboutit. When it comes to speaking up and defending those who have been WRONGED, they are the first to shove their heads down in the sand. If they are so all-fired concerned about protecting little kids who have been sexually raped and abused, their private parts touched, licked, and caressed,. where is the legal team? NOT defending the ones in the congregations who have been abused, but they sure show up in numbers for a "good Witness" when one has been convicted! (See Erica's trial). I'm afraid of all this media attention, and glad for it on the other hand. All this media attention could actually attract pedophiles because they know they will be safe.. but at the same time, it will show what their "real" policy is. If the Witnesses DONT change their policy, I think they're going to have a real pedophile problem on their hands! Since these people can't "judge" what the real heart condition is of new converts, how can they possibly KNOW when one is acting to get into their congregations to molest children? Since they can't JUDGE the heart conditions, they should not be wagering on whether this person is repentant or not. Let the secular authorities determine that. God said that it would be better for you to tie a mill stone about your neck and throw yourself in the river than to stumble a child. Take that into consideration. That scripture SHOWS the gravity of doing such things to a child. For men that have NO TRAINING in such things, such a judgemental call cannot be a choice. These things NEED to be taken to the appropriate authorities. AJVF

Brocha: You are wrong. You can quote the occasional WT snippet, but what is written is not what is practiced. The practical fact is that the Society holds itself up as a prophet - they have since the earliest days, and still do today. The Society feels (and states) that Jehovah is the editor of the Watchtower. The Society holds that all individual witnesses are to adhere to all teachings of the org. regardless of how they feel about it. Yeah verily, it is the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society that has always stated that individuals cannot gain a relationship with God without the publications of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society. It is the Society that directs that Bible study be solely centered around their publications and the Bible used as an adjunct. ‘Those that engage in deep study using only the scriptures will eventually fall away’ - I know that sentiment sounds familiar to you. Its a current sentiment that dates back over a hundred years. You know, and all those that read this who are or used to be JWs know that the Society holds itself up as a prophet. The worst part is that they also do this CYA thing by printing the occasional ‘But we never said we were inspired’ baloney. If we weren’t talking about the Society, you would jump right in with me and call it hypocrisy. There's more: Are you actually quoting an article that states that 'adjustments ... provide and opportunity to show loyalty'? Can you even believe you typed that? You want to use that statement to justify browbeating well-intended people into accepting false doctrine, and standing by while (this is on the topic) child abuse runs unreported for the sake of the name of the Society. Finally, the sad part is that you have heard this claptrap so many times, and have nodded your head during the indoctrination sessions so many times, and have said it to like-minded head nodders so many times, that you have long ago stopped noticing the implications of what you are saying. EVERY time the Society prints the word loyalty, they are speaking about loyalty to the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society as directed by the Governing Body of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, New York, New York. Sometimes they say it directly, sometimes they leave it for you to infer. But they always mean 'The Scoeity' and expect you to take it so. The sad part is that you do. Love and disdain - Buster

Hi!!! I'd just like to say that, besides everything that has been agreed and undisputed (child abuse should be reported immediately, should not be tolerated, should be talked about, the pedophiles should be punished for their crime, etc..), everyone should realize that these horrible events that occurred in Jehovah's Witnesses congregations only say something about the people who CHOOSE to be there, not the organization. I researched this matter on my own following the highly publicized events in Minnesota, and learned that the Watchtower/Jehovah's Witness organization ALWAYS had a policy against sexual abuse, which clearly discusses the problem thoroughly. This doesn't mean that these policies will be followed everywhere exactly as it should, just as any law is not followed anywhere nowadays. I think it's valid to bring this issue some attention, as it has happened in the past few months involving other religious institutions. However, I don't think there is much reason in blaming the institution itself, because it's really up to the individuals to follow these policies. Even if part of an organization, individuals should know that when something is wrong, it's wrong and there is no one to trust no matter what. As it has been proven, this kind of events happen within the closest circles, be it in the family, school, or church. This doesn't mean that the entire family, school, church, society, etc.. is to blame. The cases should be investigated, but this means that people need to be educated enough to know what is right and wrong and what to do in such situations. Parents should not care about these circles as well, and do what they must to protect the children. In the U.S, presently, we feel relatively protected by the police, and that is a weapon that we know we have in such situations (at least until now.) Yet in some countries in the world, the police can't even be trusted because they are the ones that abuse people, and even use their own policies and power to do so for everyone to see. In sum, I just believe that it is pointless to blame the church and the church policy, when a church is a VOLUNTARY thing, and its leaders can't have much control over such situations, just as the President can't have control of them. These things happen because it's the reality of our world, and we have to defend ourselves however we can and do what we must to protect ourselves without expecting any organization to do so. I stumbled upon this website and thought it is comforting to have a support group, but it seems that there is also so much blaming being reported with no action to remedy the problem, and I think this delays the healing process of victims. I think your website would help much more if it contained expert advice more than donation soliciting and blaming. It sounds like individuals are just mad at Jehovah's Witnesses for other reasons and are blaming their tragedies on them. Thanks for allowing me to comment. I happen to have been abused as child as well, and had to deal with the trauma as well. Therefore, I'd like to remain anonymous.

Brocha - That would be a tedious, but doable task. I'm away from home and won't be back until this weekend. Do you really feel that it would add value to the discussion? I would prefer to work with your honest sense. Do you really feel free to disagree with the dicta of the Society? If you felt that a basic teaching was not correct, could you engage in discussion openly and feel that you could leave that discussion still asserting your disagreement? Please, there must be one. Pick a basic tenet that you think is not scripturally supported and disagree with the 'current understanding'.
1914? 144,000? The next prediction for Armageddon? Blood? How long before someone in authority pulled out the current explanation from a Watchtower and said, "accept it or else?" I think that would be a pretty useful thought experiment. I've been there chief. - Buster

Girl In The Corner

Here I sit so quietly, in the corner I hold dear, Raised by shouting, hitting, lust, in a place that has no fear. I like this little corner, it comforts me in dark, it reminds me of the times, I blacked out within the park. It's corners make me feel secure, in a world so full of fear, it's the corners of a wall that hug me, and hold my secrets near. Can I tell you something, Wall? You are my best friend... I really want to tell you... About the dreams that never end. Daddy says he loves me, He tells me everyday. But the little games of childhood, He soon just plays away.

"Don't you tell your Mamma, She'll be angry if she knows, But just I need to show you, How the life of a woman goes." Daddy, please, don't hurt me, I've been here before, But I don't want to see, Mamma knocking at our door! I love you Mom, I love you Dad, But please, just let me be! Why can't you just understand... That I want to be free? I don't want you to touch me, I never wanted that. I wanted you to love me, There's nothing wrong with that. You put me in the corner, Cos I wasn't what you thought. You just showed me hated, I reflected everything you taught I guessed I wasn't good enough, In my speaking ways, They just put me in the corner Til my dying days.

Dear Editor: Your web site is great. I was a JW for over 30 years. In fact, I grew up in the false religion/cult. My dad is over 80 years of age and still believes in it and will do until he dies. Anyway, keep up the good work. I am convinced that this is a false religion. On the other hand, there must be some other medium to get to God/Jehovah. Sometimes, I think it is the Jews, other times, I don't know. The problem with the JWs is that they have predicted the end of the world over half a dozen times. "This generation will by no means pass away..........." You know the quote. My email address is ceciledu151@cs.com and my phone number is (954) 966-7353. Cecil Scott

Brocha: Thank you for pointing out some of the legalities involved with publicizing ANYONE, not just pedophiles. ====== As an organization, the WBTS must consider all areas of legal repercussions prior to committing to ANY policy. ====== One of the reasons they do not announce the unchristian act that gets a person publically reproved or disfellowshipped, as I understand it, for their privacy. It's also to refrain from doing anything that will cause them to be sued for ruining someone's reputation. ====== Until the law, itself, better defines, not just reporting, but provides safeguards to those who expose criminals of any kind, including pedophiles, you will find MANY different religious and secular organizations hesitant of taking such actions. ====== This is NOT being a "chicken", it's facing the reality of the world we live in and how complicated it has become to properly enforce laws and stay legally out of trouble doing it. ====== Is anyone here saying that they, too, wouldn't be cautious in their actions if they knew they could be sued? ====== Don't be angry with the WBTS, be outraged against this system. IT needs to be fixed and that is EXACTLY what Jehovah God intends to do. ====== Personally, I prefer to wait on him because I know HE will be righteous and just in his decisions as to who has merited life in HIS kingdom and that all these kinds of conversations will NEVER HAVE TO BE EVER AGAIN. ====== If anyone thinks this is not reality, that's OK -- I'd rather put my hope in JEHovah GOD'S PROMISES than in anyone else's. In the meantime, I REALLY AM LIVING THE BEST LIFE HUMANS CAN HAVE, clean and undefiled -- able to ride bicycles, dance, sing, laugh and, even, like myself because my conscience IS clean. ====== A lot of the arguments here are truly based on not having more knowledge about the organization and its people. The information presented to be argumentative against JWs is, really, very little compared to the thousands of volumes of information the WBTS produces. ====== You would need to provide much more credible information in a court of law. Under these conditions, you're left only with continuing to stubbornly argue your mute points OR you can open your mind and heart and really learn what Jehovah's organization and his people are all about. ====== Be glad this is anonymous. If you used your real names and locations, YOU could be subject to law suits. YOU should be GLAD that the WBTS does NOT engage in such activities and ignores such threats and slams on it and its integrity.--Another Paralegal (50 years experience)
Brocha: ... and no, I'm not talking about some few overzealous witnesses. But I remember the society blaming its members after the 1975 debacle. Was there. I also remember how I was treated, even well before, when I tried to reason and show how a generation could be understood to be a much longer span - just tattoo my forehead with the 'A' word. That was so cheap, because they couldn't take responsibility for promoting the false prophecy. I'm talking about Fred Franz' statements on the unity of thought required of members of Jehovah's Witnesses. I think Fred Franz, after Pastor Russell, is the single most influential person in the JW history. He is the continuity from Rutherford down to present day. Please don't quote the CYA stuff printed over the years. Do you feel that they hold themselves up as mere men trying their best to understand and relay their understanding of the bible? Do sense anything that would indicate that you are free to look into yourself and come up with your own conclusions? Or do you live with this presence of authority that is passing along what they Know because God told them and you must obey - worse, believe - everything they tell you? I know what an honest answer will be, I'm curious what I'll get. - Buster

Buster: If one joins an army; how free is one to express their own opinions or "come up with (our) own conclusions" Could you openly disagree with your commanding officer? Well, Jehovah's Witnesses are an army in a spiritual battle against Satan and his world. A strong sense of discipline and unity are mandatory.---- ----Sure, there are things that I don't like about the current Society. I don't like all the meetings, or having to cut my hair to "regulation" length, or having to dress in a suit for the meetings. But if I would joined the military, guess what? I'd have had to cut my hair, wear a uniform, march in formation, salute, eat food I don't like, live with strangers, say things like "Sir, yes Sir!".... The list goes on. I choose to remain one of Jehovah's Witnesses because I firmly believe they are closer to Bible Truth than anyone else - in spite of some my grumbles.---- ----As for quoting "CYA stuff printed over the years": you bring up generic allegations; I provide specific references from publicly distributed Watchtower issues.---- ----As for being "nit picky", I merely copied what you wrote and pasted it into my reply. When I noticed the typo, I annotated it to indicate that the error was not introduced by myself. No offense intended. I'm just following current good editorial practice.---- -Brocha

To : I'd like to remain anonymous. You sound like a "nice" Jehovah's Witness. Almost like the elder in "good standing". To John: You sound good to me. You are disturbed by the evil behavior of the catholic system of hierarchy in the Borg. Keep writing. Everybody enjoys having you around. I for one. The WT Society is on the run. They did not leave alone even very young children. They molested them raped them spit on them ruined them for life and still do the same and they are NOT sorry! For how long? Why put up with these evil men? Why are you Witnesses staying there with them? Do you seriously think they are the anointed of Jehovah? They are just plain crooks. Go away from them. Sue them for the evil they did to you. Have nothing to do with these unclean beasts. They are on RUN and they will go down to pit. Good riddance Babylon the great. In one day you will perish! mkt.

Re the sex offender registry...to clarify one point - Michigan DOES NOT have theirs online anymore. Due to the offenders rights. I know because I took someone to court who was convicted 6 years ago and every once and a while I check out the site to see if they have moved - it was disabled as of June 2002 due to a supreme court ruling. Due to victims rights I can still find out but what about warning everyone else???? I have to say if anything made me feel better it was knowing they were on the internet where other people could see.....so much for justice. So before you say all states have it - check. Also you don't have to be computer savey to find it just time in any search engine "Your State" sexual offender registry and if there is one it will show up. Just my 2 cents.

In response to the posters who think pedophiles can be repentant and change: Andrew Vacyss, the national known attorney/child advocate, recently said the following on a radio talk show. "If you go thru the phone book you can find pages and pages of counseling services for alcoholics, gamblers, sex-aholics, drug addicts, etc. However, do you see any groups for pedophiles..NO..because they don't seek help. They only go to counseling when it is court ordered to keep themselves out of prison or to get out of prison." As I stated in an earlier post, "if a pedophile claims to be repentant and to be cured, when do we find out if he is not repentant----when he molests another child." How many pedophiles turn themselves in to the police or to the elders because they are repentant?? I would say NONE...they are repentant when THEY ARE CAUGHT. In response to the WTS latest comments about the elders reporting to police: a couple of months ago I spoke with an elder about this and he said with no hesitation. "We have been instructed to call the WTS Legal Dept immediately." Not call the police...call the WTS. While we are told to sit back and wait on Jehovah to take care of this, hundreds of children are being victimized and traumatized. What if our children were being beaten by a JW, or slowly poisoned, or even verbally abused? Would we sit back and wait for Jehovah to take care of it.? I think not...at least I hope not. And yes I have been a JW for almost 35 years and I am not only appalled at this cover-up, I am appalled at how many JW's won't believe what's happening and continue to defend the GB and their policies. RE: Another Paralegal . . .Again misinformation. The topic has been Sex Offenders, pedophiles, rapists. It is wrong to change the conversation to all sins for which a person might be DF'd and slander regarding these activities. It is wrong to attempt to frighten individuals into believing that they can be sued for reporting allegations of child abuse to the secular authorities. Actually NOT REPORTING can be a problem (criminal not civil). This is a statement from the US Dept of Health and Human Services. If you suspect that a child is being abused or neglected, you should call your local Child Protective Services (CPS) agency or the CPS agency in the State in which the abuse occurred. In some States, ALL CITIZENS are mandated reporters by State law and MUST report any suspicion of child abuse or neglect. http://www.acf.dhhs.gov/programs/cb/publications/rpt_abu.htm Who are mandated reporters usually: Reporting is legally mandated for all those professionals who come into contact with children. · Nurses and Allied Health professionals · Physicians · Social workers · Teachers · Day-care workers · Law officials · Clergy members · Under CA law this is the definition: As used in this article, "clergy member" means a priest, minister, rabbi, religious practitioner, or similar functionary of a church, temple or recognized denomination or organization · BECAUSE OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH SCANDAL MANY STATES ARE INCLUDING CLERGY AS MANDATED REPORTERS. WHEN THIS IS A REQUIREMENT IN ALL 50 STATES MUCH OF THE COVERUP WILL BECOME CRIMINAL ACTIVITY.

I was shocked & saddened to learn what was going on, with regard to child molestation, within this organization. Once I had time to calmly think about it I began to ask myself the important questions--WHY? WHO? The very structure of this organization contributes to the abuse of women by men. This organization, as do most patriarchal religions, uses carefully selected scripture to support their claim that men are the head of women. They ignore scripture that states that in the eyes of the Lord there is neither male nor female. I have personal knowledge of the position that male members of this organization take for themselves and the subordinate status of the female members. If a female is raised to believe the male is the one to interpret what is right and what is wrong it is not surprising that little children and young women become victims to these perverse authority wielding men. That is the first unthinkable crime. The second and possibly equally destroying crime is brought about by the male elders who continue to victimize the little children and young women. When a young person's entire world is made up of the people in this organization, what happens to this child's world? I am so very proud of the women who have come forward. All shame on the fathers, brothers, uncles, cousins, grandfathers and would be friends who have perpetrated their double perversity on these little children and young women. I care deeply and I applaud all the brave women. What can I do to help you? Sincerely M M-S

RE: the sex offender registry...to clarify one point - Michigan DOES NOT have theirs online anymore. . . . I think this news story will explain why it is not online at this time. This is the ISSUE. . . It's important to remember that THIS CASE IS NOT about preventing sex offender registries from existing," said Shelley Sadin, a lawyer representing the men. They also are being defended by the Connecticut chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. "It is about making sure that sex offender laws are fair and constitutional ... that they do not post the current photos of people who are not dangerous alongside people who are dangerous ... without a hearing about whether or not they belong on that list," said Sadin. . . . The Bush administration sided with Connecticut, as did each of the other states with similar laws, in asking the Supreme Court to restore or preserve public access to information about former sex offenders.

John: I do not have access to Watchtower publications from prior to 1950 at hand, so I can only check the more modern ones you've provided.---- ----The "nations shall know i,m jehovah. 1971 pg58-62" speaks of "the modern-day counterpart of the prophet Ezekiel" as applying to the FDS, focusing on the warning work Ezekiel did and not on being a "prophet".---- ----In the "holy sprit book 1976 p175-6" I could not find a reference to "prophet". Help me out on that one.---- ----"wt 10-15-80p17" After quoting Amos 3:7 which speaks of God revealing matters to "his servants the prophets", the article speaks of God's modern-day "servants", but it does not call them "prophets".---- ----I will check to see if I have any of your other references at home. To Buster and everyone else that THINKS they know EVERYTHING there is to know about JW's: Buster, just HOW MUCH EXPERIENCE do you have among Jehovah's Witnesses? ====== How many publications and magazines have you read? ====== How many YEARS have you been REGULARLY reading JW's publications? ====== Even if "a lot", I cannot help but question your motives and/or comprehension if THAT'S ALL YOU EVER GOT OUT OF THEM. ====== This is one result: "It is the foolishness of an earthing man that distorts his way, and so his heart becomes enraged against Jehovah himself." (Proverbs 19:3) ====== All you're really expressing is rage. You're entitled to your rage but, sooner or later (hopefully), you'll be able to clear your mind and think reasonably. ====== NO ONE, ot just JW's, wants to be involved with or engage in conversation with someone that just keeps trying to force their own information without credible give and take. You're appearing to just want to shove your thoughts down everyone's "throat". You don't care what one or others have to say contrary to your ideas or thinking. YOU have issues but you're not willing to deal with them in a "dealable" manner. Therefore, no one can help you, especially during the time that you really think it's everyone else that needs the help. -- Another Paralegal (50 Years Experience)

Brocha .. Regarding .. So far the police in my state do not go out of their way to tell me who is a sex offender in my community. And you expect the elders to do more than the police? . . . No, but since my state, Texas, does go out of its way to notify me and it has an online database, I expect the elders to allow me to inform other members of my congregation. I did not appreciate being herded into a backroom and disciplined for informing a young family of a molester, would you? NAN

Re Unsigned legal expert: Have you ever heard of criminals suing, too? The issue is NOT the obligation to REPORT CRIME. THE ISSUE IS THE PROTECTION OF THOSE WHO REPORT THE CRIME. ===== As individuals or organizations, are NOT protected from being sued by criminals or prisoners. That is a fact of real life! ===== A criminal breaks in and plunders and rapes, trips on the way out and SUES THE HOMEOWNER OR RENTER for being hurt on their property. ===== Prisoners put out more lawsuits then anyone else -- and they sue for anything! ===== Along with a criminal law suit can come a civil suit. ===== I'm not trying to scare anyone. I'm telling you what is happening in the real world right now and HAS BEEN FOR A LOT OF YEARS. ===== THAT is the issue. ===== I worked in an elementary school and, during my initial probationary period, a first grader, in quiet and relaxed brief conversation at my desk told me that his uncle was sexually abusing him -- not in words but in jestures. ===== I reported it to the principle immediately because it is required by law. The principle was not concerned about this and said that if I wanted to report it to go ahead. ===== I reported it and WHAT WAS SUPPOSED TO BE A CONFIDENTIAL REPORTING was NOT. ===== The principle AND THE STATE SOCIAL SERVICES AGENCY, revealed my identity to the mother! ===== To top it off, the social worker came to see me, unannounced, at the school I was working at to INTERVIEW ME! He told me the child would be taken away from his mother! Why would I want that? I told him that I didn't want the child removed from his mother. I want his mother to reprioritize her spending and put her child in a good after school care program and to keep her son away from his uncle. ===== As a school employee, I was to be protected by these very same people who were DISGRUNTLED WITH ME for reporting this child sexual abuse and THERE WAS NO DOUBT THAT'S EXACTLY WHAT IT WAS. ===== I had a WORKERS' COMPENSATION CASE (the ONLY ONE I've EVER had in over 40+ years of working) and, at my trial, they not only brought up my RELIGION (trying to make me look foolish and WHAT IS NOT ON RECORD is their ridiculing looks and sneers/laughs) BUT THEY BROUGHT UP THE FACT THAT I REPORTED THIS CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE as though I WAS THE HORRIBLE PERSON. ===== They did not compensate me and said I WAS LYING BECAUSE LOOK AT THE HORRIBLE PERSON I AM! ===== Is most everyone here so into themselves that they don't know at all what is going on out there and what this is really about? ===== The only reason anyone's listening right now, as far as I'm concerned, is because you're making such issues out of all this. Also, it's a news item to fill in the broadcast time. It's my opinion, that most would rather that you all would just disappear and leave them alone. ===== WE HAVE TO STRAIGHTEN OUT OUR PROBLEMS FROM WITHIN AND NOW! ===== My opinion is that's why the scriptures counsel us to not go to the courts. Also, it's because WE ARE SUPPOSED TO BE ABLE TO MAKE THESE JUDGMENTS CORRECTLY AND TIMELY WITHIN OUR OWN ORGANIZATION. To me, THAT is what would make the HUGE difference between "us" and "them". --Helena

BROCHA: I have been gone 3 days -computer problems so this is in response to a post you made regarding who is responsible for identifying Pedophiles back a few posts! HOW ABOUT THE PEDOPHILES WHO "CLAIM" TO BE REPENTANT ANNOUNCE TO THEIR OWN CONGREGATIONS THAT THEY ARE REPENTANT PEDOPHILES SO THAT THE ELDERS DON'T HAVE THE RESPONSIBILITY??????? HOW COME THE WTS DOES NOT REQUIRE THIS AS A SHOW OF REPENTANCE OF THE PEDOPHILE AND STOP THIS DIVISION IN THE CONGREGATION? A TRULY REPENTANT PEDOPHILE WOULD TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF IDENTIFYING HIMSELF AND FACE HIS/HER CONSEQUENCES AS A MATURE CHRISTIAN. God's organization shows lack of character not imperfection but LACK OF CHARACTER and this not the show of love that identifies the True Christian Congregation. Again, if a pedophile was truly repentant he/she would take the consequences and would be grief stricken at the burden he/she has placed on the Elders and the divisions in the congregations. Not to mention the debt he/she owes to the victims. THIS IS WTS policy: They burden everyone but the pedophile. I find that extremely disturbing.* soapbox/Claudine

Brocha: Army? Thats your answer? You're in an army? You're not allowed independant thought because you need to mobilize as a unit that thinks and acts alike? Of all the things about the Society that you pick to dislike, you pick the dress code? I'm asking for an honest sense of how you feel about the allegiance to the society and you give me the stricture on hair length? That is about the least honest comment I've read in this place. Your religion, complete with its sense of urgency that they have been driving for more than 100 years, gives you an ends-justifies-the-means attitude. It doesn't matter to you what the effect is of some teachings and practices - at least the effect on other people. The Greek Scriptures are not about Infantry Mobilization, armies travelling on their stomachs, or marching in a straight line. The Greek Scriptures are about community, love, and a personal relationship with Christ. Or in the inimitable words from "Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure," "Be excellent to each other." The only reason you have a siege mentality is that you went inside and locked the door. Its not so bad out here, promise. Full speed ahead and damn the torpedoes! - Buster

Re: Remote User: Date: 15 Aug 2002 Time: 18:33:01 -- As a matter of fact, I do have a means to take care of myself and it's not what you're trying to imply. Most people have known tough times in this system. There comes a point in ones life where they realize they have to pull themselves up by the boot straps and get going and do something for themselves. The difference between you and me is that I've lived past those times and I know there's life after and that the only one holding anyone back is they, themselves. Sounds cruel, I know, but it's the truth. The sooner one realizes that, the sooner they can get on with life and heal themselves. Yes, it's nice to have someone that cares but the truth of the matter is that most people, no matter what their circumstances, need someone that cares and, unless you're in a tiny berg that still has town picnics, etc., people don't do those things anymore. Life is getting tough for many people. I'm not sinister, just frank. You DON'T know who you're talking with here. You DON'T know when you've pushed or are pushing a person too far. You DON'T know what I've had to live with and learn to survive. Bad experiences of any kind do not leave our minds. We just learn to deal with them differently so that they don't cause us to stop living productive, happy and meaningful lives. The truth is that there isn't ANYONE that hasn't had hardship or terrible experiences in life. Believe it or not, maybe even WORSE then you experienced. You just have to get on with your life. Sometimes, you're FORCING yourself out of bed and out of the house but that's GOOD because usually you get out and meet pleasant people and that helps your own disposition. I've been around, I've read just about everything available to me to read, including all of the Bible. MY decisions are not based on the fact that I can't think for myself. MY decisions are based on the fact that Jehovah God DID teach me to think for myself and I've made CONSCIOUS CHOICES. If YOU feel "led along" then you were babes. There's NOTHING wrong with that. What IS wrong, though, is not getting past the babe stage. I know it takes EACH PERSON THEIR OWN TIME to get well but get well. Do what you want. Be a JW or don't be a JW. Be happy with your life and decisions FROM NOW ON. The truth of the matter is that everyone is just trying to live their life and it's TOUGH. It's not easy for anyone. Each one has to find their own inner peace and it's not the same for everyone, even if they've had the same or similar experiences. It really can be done. It's WONDERFUL when you get there. Believe me, you CAN get there but it takes time and effort on your part.--JFK

JFK: Of all the scripture snippets available, you couldn't have chosen a more obvious one to take out of context and misapply. Ps133 is about unity, true. But it is about dwelling in unity with a sense of community. It has nothing to do with military-style discipline, ala Bracha. It has nothing to do with the seperatism opted by JWs, the opposite in fact. You misquote a scripture at me and I'm the one looking for points to argue? - Buster

John, John, John -- DON'T YOU GET IT? YOU can read any book you want! No one's stopping you. The Kingdom Hall library isn't an issue. There are HUGE PUBLIC LIBRARIES. They'll even order books you want to read that they don't have (a lot have tight budgets because of the economy but they USED to order books for patrons). All you have to do is CHECK THE BOOK OUT. My oh my, I cannot imagine how you must have been treated that you thought you couldn't think for yourself. Once you realize that you CAN, you may even find a love for the truth. This time, it'll be YOUR love and not something someone made you feel you had to do.--JFK

John, if you knew me, you'd know that I don't even TRY to make myself look good. I admit, I've been having some "fun" with you. You're really too intense. I'm only trying to get you to "chill". I'm just VERY COMFORTABLE with the person I've GROWN INTO because I was PATIENT and let Jehovah God teach me and guide me, yes, through his organization. I'm not overlooking wrongdoing but I can see all the good that comes from it, too. If you let yourself grow, you will have a good life, in or out of JW's.--JFK

Brocha, I am more concerned with the watchtower’s new written material, namely these two public statement in the Louisville Courier-Journal, 1-4-01////////Brown said pedophiles are restricted from working with minors and must also be with a well-respected church member when they go door to door. ////////Pedophiles also might not be sent into neighborhoods where they might be recognized as molesters, Brown said. I am sure you know who ‘Brown’ is. So, how do you feel about ‘known’ pedophiles going door to door? And I DO NOT care if they are with another witness! Would you want a ‘known’ pedophile coming to your home for any reason?????? To top it off, they may not go in neighborhood where someone might know of them! Who’s ‘face’ are they trying to protect? The org sends ‘known’ pedophiles door to door and even insinuates that going door to door isn’t a responsible position! I know and we all know that if this was a non-religious company doing this and their excuse is ‘well, they (the child molesters, said that they were sorry, and they said they would never do it again, they seemed sincere’ we all know that NO ONE would put up with that. So, I am NOT interested in what your past mags. articles, I am not interested in the other public statement, ‘We don’t have as many (child molesters) as other religions’ WHO CARES the other religions aren’t publicly BRAGGING that they are sending ‘known’ PEDOPHILES to unsuspecting children’s homes all in the name of TRUTH! One day don’t be surprised when your out door to dooring and someone opens the door, looks at who you are with and says, "Oh, I know you, your the one that used to live another state away, your a 'known' pedophile, and look, awwww, you have your bible, what is it you are trying to teach? Oh, thats right! Your teaching the TRUTH!"

JFK: I don't think John is going to let you change the topic - even if you do change your posture. This guy does his homework - to a scary degree. He has no reason to let you up. Anyway, you are doing yourself a disservice if you believe that you can think for yourself. I can only think you haven’t been in long. I remember the Circuit Assembly, last one I ever went to, when the closing prayer was for ‘freedom from independant thought.' I heard from enough other sources to know that that message was a central directive: ‘Get everyone to say Amen to a plea to be free from independant thought.' - Buster

And my heart has been broken to know that the WTS doesn't care EITHER. Do you know about the Malawis? The true story? There is no place to go except straight to God in prayer with Jesus as the mediator. The issue is that the WTS is no better than the world - they manipulate and lie to use people for their benefit. The WTS should be exceptional in character. 1967 "The Bible cannot be properly understood without Jehovah's visible organization in mind." (Watchtower, Oct 1, 1967, pg. 587) // 1981 They say that it is sufficient to read the Bible exclusively, either alone or in small groups at home. But, strangely, through such 'Bible reading,' they have reverted right back to the apostate doctrines that

Channel to understanding the Bible... All who want to understand the Bible should appreciate that the "greatly diversified wisdom of God" can become known only through Jehovah's channel of communication, the faithful and discreet slave. (Watchtower; Oct. 1, 1994; p. 8) // 1939 "It should be expected that the Lord would have a means of communicating to his people on the earth, and he has clearly shown that the magazine called The Watchtower is used for that purpose." (1939 Yearbook Of Jehovah's Witnesses, P 85) // 1911 "Rather we should seek for dependent Bible study, rather than for independent Bible study." (Watchtower, Sept 15, 1911, pg. 4885) // 1983 "Avoid independent thinking...questioning the counsel that is provided by God's visible organization." (Watchtower, Jan. 15, 1983 pg. 22) // 1983 "Fight against independent thinking." (Watchtower, Jan. 15, 1983 pg. 27 )

In other words, just blindly accept what ever the Watchtower reaches. 1986 "Why have Jehovah's Witnesses disfellowshipped for apostasy some who still profess belief in God, the Bible and Jesus Christ? Approved association with Jehovah's Witnesses requires accepting the entire range of the true teachings of the Bible, including those scriptural beliefs that are unique to Jehovah's Witnesses. What do such beliefs include? ...That 1914 marked the end of the Gentile Times and the establishment of the Kingdom of God in the heavens, as well as the time for Christ's foretold presence."

(Watchtower, Question From Readers, April 1, 1986 pp 30-31) 1961 "The blood in any person is in reality the person himself, ...poisons due to personal living, eating and drinking habits ... The poisons that produce the impulse to commit suicide, murder, or steal are in the blood. Moral insanity, sexual perversions, repression, inferiority complexes, petty crimes - these often follow in the wake of blood transfusion." (Watchtower, Sept. 1, 1961 page 564) // 1967 "When men of science conclude that this normal process will no longer work and they suggest removing the organ and replacing it directly with an organ from another human, this is simply a shortcut. Those who submit to such operations are thus living off the flesh of another human. That is cannibalistic. However, in allowing man to eat animal flesh Jehovah God did not grant permission for humans to try to perpetuate their lives by cannibalistically taking into their bodies flesh human, whether chewed or in the form of whole organs or body parts taken from others." (Watchtower, Questions from Readers, Nov. 15, 1967 p 702-704) // 1960 "the Scriptures justify the 'war strategy' of hiding true facts from the enemy." (Watchtower May 15, 1960, page 295) // 1960 "As a soldier of Christ he is in theocratic warfare and he must exercise caution when dealing with God's foes. Thus the Scriptures show that for the purpose of protecting the interests of God's cause, it is proper to hide the truth from God's enemies." (Watchtower; 6/1/1960; p. 352)

1969 "Many schools now have student counselors who encourage one to pursue higher education after high school, to pursue a career with a future in this system of things. Do not be influenced by them. Do not let them brainwash you with the Devils propaganda to get ahead, to make something of yourself in this world. This world has very little time left...make pioneer service, the full-time ministry, with the possibility of Bethel or missionary service your goal." (Watchtower, March 15, 1969, p. 171) "Notice that there is no command in the Scriptures against military service" (Watchtower, Aug. 1, 1898, pg. 231). 1968 "We need to examine, not only what we personally believe, but also what is taught by any religious organization with which we may be associated. Are its teachings in full harmony with Gods Word, or are they based on the traditions of men? If we are lovers of the truth, there is nothing to fear from such an examination. It should be the sincere desire of every one of us to learn what Gods will is for us, and then to do it." John 8:32 (The Truth That Leads To Eternal Life, 1968, p. 13)/1972 "Jehovah, the God of the true prophets, will put all false prophets to shame either by not fulfilling the false prediction of such self-assuming prophets or by having His own prophecies fulfilled in a way opposite to that predicted by the false prophets. False prophets will try to hide their reason for feeling shame by denying who they really are." (Paradise Restored To Mankind By Theocracy, 1972, p. 353, 354) //1972 "Does this admission of making mistakes stamp them [Watchtower] as false prophets? Not at all, for false prophets do not admit to making mistakes." (Watchtower, Nov. 1, 1972, p. 644/ Do Witnesses speak in the name of Jehovah? Yes or No. (If not, them to whom do they speak in the name of)?

Brocha: I wish I could claim to be responsible for the above unsigned list of quotes from Society literature. But I think that it and the stuff from John are precisely what you ask for. Can you read that stuff and not feel that the Society puts itself forward as a prophet? They're aren't idiots, I admit that. I don't think you will see any statement that says 'we are prophets.' - Buster
When persons are in great danger from a source they do not suspect or are being misled by those they consider their friends, is it an unkindness to warn them? They may prefer not to believe the warning. They may even resent it. Does that free one from the moral responsibility to give that warning?"-(Is this not SO true???)"-SEQ

FOR THE RECORD: Pedophilia is NOT a disease. Classifying it as a disease takes the responsibility away from the abuser. To think about having sex with a child is a sickness.....to act on that thought is "evil". Thats similar to saying that murder is a disease, a serial rapist has a disease, etc.....THEY ARE EVIL!! Why do we try to rationalize the pedophiles behavior? Why do we make excuses for him/her? This is a CRIME and a CHOICE. JAZBUG

Hello , My mother recently passed away , and when she fell ill with cancer , about six years ago , looking for faith got involved with the Jehovah's Wittnesses. The people that brought her into "the truth" were members of the Ontario Bethel. While this does not have anything to do with the issues of abuse mentioned on this website , I agree that their teachings are wrong , and their way of running an organization is incredibly wrong. They taught her that her family was bad if not in the truth , when she was ill and couldnt make it to meetings they told her that Jehovah would be angry and punish her , and when she was dying and afraid he would not let her into his kingdom , they didnt tell her differently. Four six years these people held my mother back from treatments that could have saved her life , and told her to leave it up to Jehovah and because of this , she is no longer here with me. I do not belive in organized religion myself , but any religon that teaches and holds the values that this one does , is outrageous. They run like a cult , and try as much as possible to not speak to or associate with beings not in the truth. She wanted nothing more than to learn of the bible and of God , and to have something to belive in , but that is not in the least what they gave her , nor taught her. I have no respect for them , and it does not surprise me that something like this would come out of their religion , I know even when it comes to any kind of cruelty or violence they are taught it is wrong , but in short to keep their mouths shut. I Hope that these people get brought to justice and the victims can have the sastifaction of knowing that others will not have to face what they did. My thoughts are with you , and support , for whatever you do to bring these people out into the public eye , and let the real "truth" be told. Sincerly Dee dadams1@sprint.ca

Dear Donna: Your post is very much appreciated - I am sorry about what has happened to you. It would be very helpful if you would write your story in the Abused Lambs section which can be found on the home page of this site.

Greetings all! I'm enjoying reading the posts. Let me tell you an experience I had today while doing some work on the grounds of my church's building. I am out there many mornings at about 7:00 and about the only people out at that morning are the crack-dealers and the JWs! LOL! I notice how the JWs RARELY talk to the crack-dealers, crack-heads, crack-whores, etc. They pass them by, RARELY offering them literature (isn't that what they are supposed to be doing?) But I bet they report their "time", acting as if they were really evangelizing! Anyway, often the JWs will try to offer me their propoganda. I always put my hands in my pocket, so that I can't take it. Our pastor told us NEVER to read religious literature that is not "signed". In other words, if you don't know eho wrote it, you can't verify their credentials, or even know that they are qualified to write upon the subject of the Bible. )Sort of like the five men who MIS-translated the NWT. They were neither Greek nor Hebrew scholars. Definately not qualified!) So I always tell them that I don't read unsigned religious literature. Then they counter with the standard, lame "We don't put people's names on our literature because we don't want to give glory to humans". I then respond,"That's odd. The Apostles Paul, Peter, matthew etc. all signed their literature, or identified themselves as the writers, and people don't glorify them". The "newer" witness normaly looks like a light went on in their head. I explain that I would NEVER let a stranger bring me or my family food to my door if I didn't know who made it. That would be foolish, wouldn't it? One of the JWs came up with, "You eat out at restaurants, don't you? You don't know who cooked your food there"! Oh she thought she was so clever, with the smug look on her face. I wiped it off by saying, "If I want to know who cooked my food at a restaurant, all I would have to do is ask the manager the name of the chef. In fact i have often met the cook, and told them how much i enjoyed there cooking. If a manager refused to tell me whoo cooked my food, or show me their inspection certificate, I would NEVER eat there again, because they evidently have something to hide!" The newer witness found this point both reasonable and amusing. You should have seen the look of death that the older witness shot her! I showed the newer witness my Sunday School book, which lists the editors', contributors', and writers' names. As she reached out to take it, the other witness pushed her hand away! The newer one asked the "Gestapo witness", "What's the matter with you"?! All he's showing me is some names"! She then took the Sunday School book and looked at the inside cover, and handed it back. I bet she caught HELL later on! It was quite amusing to say the least. It's funny how they always want us to read their literature, but are deathly afraid of even TOUCHING someone else's. If pastors would encourage their flocks not to read unsigned religious literature, it would be quite a hardship on the WT wouldn't it! Once, while doing the landscaping, some JWs came by, It started to drizzle, and the conversation was "gettin' good". I stepped under the overhang over the door to stop from getting wet. Now our church sits in the middle of a large city block, with the next buildings dozens of yards away. When one of the JWs followed me under the overhang, his buddy grabbed him by the arm to stop him from coming onto the property. He said, "Brother!" Well the young man pulled his arm away, came under the overhang, and the other witness stayed in the rain. I bet he caught HELL too! What a buch of ROBOTS! I hope the young man realized how stupid the other guy was. Anyway, thos are a couple more of my adventures in JW land. It's fun being a Chritain! Lawrence

The "newer" witness normally looks like a light went on in their head. I explain that I would NEVER let a stranger bring me or my family food to my door if I didn't know who made it. That would be foolish, wouldn't it? One of the JWs came up with, "You eat out at restaurants, don't you? You don't know who cooked your food there"! Oh she thought she was so clever, with the smug look on her face.I wiped it off by saying, "If I want to know who cooked my food at a restaurant, all I would have to do is ask the manager the name of the chef. In fact i have often met the cook, and told them how much i enjoyed there cooking. If a manager refused to tell me who cooked my food, or show me their inspection certificate, I would NEVER eat there again, because they evidently have something to hide"! The newer witness found this point both reasonable and amusing. You should have seen the look of death that the older witness shot her! I showed the newer witness my Sunday School book, which lists the editors', contributors', and writers' names. As she reached out to take it, the other witness pushed her hand away! The newer one asked the "Gestapo witness", "What's the matter with you"? All he's showing me is some names"! She then took the Sunday School book and looked at the inside cover, and handed it back. I bet she caught HELL later on! It was quite amusing to say the least. It's funny how they always want us to read their literature, but are deathly afraid of even TOUCHING someone else's. If pastors would encourage their flocks not to read unsigned religious literature, it would be quite a hardship on the WT wouldn't it! Once, while doing the landscaping, some JWs came by, It started to drizzle, and the conversation was "gettin' good". I stepped under the overhang over the door to stop from getting wet. Now our church sits in the middle of a large city block, with the next buildings dozens of yards away. When one of the JWs followed me under the overhang, his buddy grabbed him by the arm to stop him from coming onto the property. He said, "Brother!" Well the young man pulled his arm away, came under the overhang, and the other witness stayed in the rain. I bet he caught HELL too! What a bunch of ROBOTS! I hope the young man realized how stupid the other guy was. Anyway, thos are a couple more of my adventures in JW land. It's fun being a Christian! Lawrence

To Brocha, et al, Another thing i will sometimes do with the JW literature is tear it in half, put it in an envelope, and take it to the Hall up the street, and leave it at the door. On the outside of the envelope I write, "I found this in the bus shelter, (or wherever else I found it) and thought you might want it back. It's not nice to litter you know"! Once I was listening to Paul Harvey, and he told the story of one lady who got so aggravated at the unwanted visits by the uninvited JW's, that she started going to their Hall at meeting times and knocking on the door. When someone would come to the door she would offer them literature from her church. After a few times of doing this, they finally stopped coming to her door! What a hoot! Seriously though, I have informed several of my friends, family, and neighrs that it they really don't want these uninvited people to come to there door, all they have to do is write a letter to the local Hall advising them that they don't want visits from the magazine-peddlers, and that continued visits will be viewed as religious harrassment and dealt with accordingly. That is enough to stop the visits. Then they come to MY house and hear the gospel! Imagine if whole neighborhoods were to do this. The poor JWs would be going crazy trying to cover the small territory that is left! And of course, those that did not send the letters, would be receiving visits nearly every day, maybe even two or three times a day, as the JWs attempt to put in field service. Ah, the fun of being a Christian! Lawrence

Dee: I am so sorry that you lost your mother. For all the JW do "to not bring reproach upon Jehovah's name" they sure fail miserably. I hope that the JW's that are so smug and haughty can read your post and realize that they are in fact bringing reproach upon Jehovah with their lack of compassion and love. I don't think most do it "on purpose" - that isn't what they are thinking. It is the Blind leading the blind. They are so eager to please God aka WTS that they forget that Jesus cried for those who where dying, even though he could resurrect them!!!! JW's discourage close contact with family members who are not JW's. The JW's think they can replace family - but they don't. Please take care of yourself. I will remember you when I say my prayers. You might call the 800 line - talk with Bill or call the 800 why 1914 - they can console you - I know they can. In Christian love, Claudine

Dee, I'm sorry for the loss of your mother. Just so you know that "other" religions can be heartless also. When my Grandmother was dying from esophageal cancer a "friend" from her church told her she had back slid (guess which one from this comment) to many times and would not be forgiven. My grandma seemed to lose her will to fight after that, my father turned against God from that little heartless comment. So I UNDERSTAND how angry and hurt you are she passed when I was nine now I'm 38. I still will never understand someone taking away the hope. Please call someone or get counseling for your grief there are MANY who care Sheila

And the JW's are in the soap opera of religion! Today, the man who fixed my computer was married to a woman who became a jw after 4 years of marriage. They had 7 children. He provided for her (fancy house, cars) by working a dangerous job with explosives and was injured badly. Life went downhill and she ended up (married) with the attorney that represented her husband. The "attorney" became a jw, quit being an attorney and is now in charge of many congregations - a circuit overseer????? Rest of the story - this man's children won't speak to him. He said when he was with his wife the child that was two would say that 'daddy was going to go to hell' because he wasn't a jw. ---------- --this jw-wife abandoned her husband while he had a broken back, took up with another man - turned this "new" guy into a jw and they lived (a lie) happily ever-after. Not the first story I have heard like this! The congregation embraces the new husband because he became a jw and they support the sister who abandons her "not" jw husband - it is a farce and a soap opera. Sad. C.e.

Sheila: The book written by Ray Franz - Crisis of Conscience, has the information about Malawi - Ray Franz was on the governing board and participated in the decision that was fateful for the Malawi's. The was the turning point of not going back for Ray Franz. This is the reason I am really afraid of the WTS - they are to be feared and they are dangerous. This is not a "dramatic statement" but the truth. I could never allow them to influence my thinking again in any way shape or form. I have never read a WT or an Awake again after reading Ray Franz - not even the daily text. I was an avid WT & Awake reader - really studied. I am disgusted with myself for ever having been involved with them. Never belonged to anything before and never will again - I belong to my Father in Heaven Only!!!!!! I urge every JW to read Ray Franz, so that you know what you are really involved with. That is why they will Df you for owning the book.*I love the truth & Jehovah but not the WTS. Big difference - Big huge large big. I truly believe that I was protected by God from the WTS. I have no other religion, will never "belong" to one again.

Brocha & Paralegal– Give up on Buster. I did. As usual, he changes the subject when he can't answer a question. I had to stop responding to him when he couldn't get past even one of my questions. (read my original post 12 Aug 2002 16:17:43) If you read the posts you will see that these questions I posed really upset a lot of people. Anyway, prior to that I posted some stuff about this site being a JW-bash-for-all (hi all, remember me! JW Defender). But the kicker was those pesky August 12 questions. NAN went as far as threatening to block me from posting here. It was incredible. I had a good laugh when Buster mentioned that John, who works as a proofreader for the NY Times, does extensive research on WT History. I wonder if all-caps John missed in one of his investigations that the cross (and it's veneration) has pagan origins. I pop in every now and then and never see anything interesting, but I thought I would warn you two about getting a straight answer from anyone here, especially Buster. My conclusion is that people here are so blinded by their hatred of Jehovah's Witnesses, that they make the mistake of allowing folks to see that they focus more on WT history than abused children. There is an ulterior motive. They're using abused children as a means to achieving their goal, which is the elimination of the WT Organization, not just reform, as they put it. This is fueled by the fact that other anti-JW sites have failed miserably to bring the WT down. Abused children are a delicate topic. It's a shame that they're being exploited by those who seem to do nothing else for them but post here. Look out for the response to this post. It'll contain a reference to miracle wheat, I'll be called a few names, and Buster will be asked by someone else to reply.

JFK.Yes, we want the WT Society wiped off the surface of the Earth.We want the leaders of the WT caught and judged by the Law so that justice be done to those that were and are hurting which means most of us. It is so true that we do not talk just about Silent Lambs ( though that is a priority). This site is naturaly developing to a forum for all that have grievances with the WT org. (alias Borg) for lack of other opportunities. We are concern about all JW members because basicaly they are good and sincere humans seeking to serve God. (Our loved ones are there too) Since the WT is in the way we first must pray that God brings His people out of there. Thus the WT will be no longer capable of continuance. I am afraid it won't happen in such a docile way. I think God eventuayl will get rid of you violently.That is what He says. You know that. Do you not? It is your choice to act. Please repent and help others out of fire or be wiped out off existance violently and find yourself in a place called Hell.The WT is a False Religion no doubt about it.Recently I heard that it belongs to Free Masons along with the Mormons. If that is realy true I can't be sure but the symbolism of can't be waisted on anybody that thinks.Rmk said it would be coming soon so I guess it is not ready yet. The letter was dated at the end of June. Nothing of note went back to the bulletin board to catch up. We are getting a new CD. It is called WT cd 2001, isn't this 2002? They were so arrogant that they would not let me tell them what they were going to do. So they had to have their control and not do anything. Bad mistake Watchtower. Your stupidity allowed me months and months to gather evidence and make a stronger case that I ever would have if you had df'd me in the first two weeks. But I depended on your arrogance and stupidity, not to mention a PR Department that operated like the gang that couldn't shoot straight. First they call me a liar in the congregation, bad move boys, I got it on tape. Then the tape of my father, just plain stupid, even reporters were calling me amazed at how evil they were. Then came to sanctions, I documented each one through correspondence and requests for apology, of course ignored them. Thank you very much, you are proving your lack of Christianity. But perhaps I am leaving the absolute diamond behind, that is, your denial of any wrongdoing. With 30 stories maybe it was just a few bad eggs, with 100 stories perhaps it was just some elders out of line, but over 5,000? When you lie with 5,000 victims accusing you, you make a complete ass of yourself. Thank you JR Brown. Think about it, what person has ever been df with such torpedoes broad siding Watchtower. The New York Times, Sunday when I have my appeal hearing, CNN the day before, and a nice article locally all about it in the morning. Watchtower, how stupid do you have to be to get that much bad PR? Shoulda backed off, but like a spoiled brat you wanted it now, so we gave you both barrels. Does anyone see what has happened here? Remember when the uprising occurred in China? The liberal side started to get a strong following and appeared at the verge of bringing democracy to the entire country. What happened? It gave the conservatives an excuse to completely crush all liberals. To this day there is no liberal movement with substance in China. So to with Watchtower, when the issue of a problem with child molestation first surfaced I had many insiders who contacted me and offered help. They instantly saw the problem and in an effort to save the organization they offered insights and assistance to help things move forward. They said they would protect me. Perhaps it was a combination of the above along with liberal protection that allowed me to last for seventeen and one half months without being df. Well, a change occurred at the end of April much like what happened in China. The conservatives used silentlambs as an excuse to squash the liberals and any chance of reform in the organization. Why do you thing they are asking for 1,000 to leave? Who do you think 90% of that 1,000 are? It is the liberals, they are being kicked out wholesale and by doing so the last chance for the organization to save itself. The battle is over, Jaracz won. All Jehovah's Witnesses will now "not be going beyond the things written" and if anyone says different, you will be disfellowshipped. Remember China did not go out of business, they just lost the only chance they had at being a better government. So to with Watchtower, they could have protected children better, they could have had more compassion, they could have shown more love, they could have made it easier to be a JW. Not any more. They will sacrifice everyone in the organization to follow the bidding of a spoiled brat known as the Governing Body. "To hell with the children, we just don't want anyone telling us what to do." So it goes… So tonight I went to the meeting. I called every reporter I knew and asked them to come and one did show up, just enough to make them nervous. She sat up front across the auditorium and I asked an elder to provide her with a song book. Which he quickly complied with, don't want to stumble any prospective members. I was able to briefly explain how the meeting was going to proceed as no one else volunteered. I guess I could have counted my time. I was spoken to by two elders after I looked them in the eye and said something to them directly.

Everyone else looked away and refused to speak even if I said something to them. Could it be someone did not keep confidentiality? I was there about five minutes early and stood up toward the front of the auditorium the rest of the congregation stayed in the back. The PO looked at me with a dirty look and laughed, I took my finger and pointed straight at him for about five seconds and gave him a big smile. I ain't taking no crap "type" look. Then the meeting started, I had my song book so I sung nice and loud. All those around me were trying to drown me out, so they were screaming at the top of their lungs. It was nice to finally get the friends to really sing out. Then came the school, I was nice and even looked up the scriptures. Everyone who gave talks was nervous as cats, noticeably shaking and glancing over my way. It was like they thought I was going to pounce on them or something. At talk number two I went back to the bulletin board to catch up. We are getting a new CD. It is called WT cd 2001, isn't this 2002? They
other than I clearly noticed the molester's name was not anywhere on the board, not even a TMS part. So it appears I might be having a little effect on his life anyway, especially since I told the entire world when they started using him again. He had a nice little group around him all visiting and making him feel welcome before the meeting. After thirteen months out, not one person acted like they wanted me there. Hey, what can I say, I guess the spiritual paradise does not like people who are in the media. The reporter came back and we stepped out side to do a bit of an interview as we waited for the halfway point. Then they started to sing as Sheila drove up with the digital camera. Did I say we got Pictures? http://community.webshots.com/album/47148665uPbeds Enjoy... Each part on the meeting in the TMS was prefixed by comments about the worldwide work and how these talks were being given all over the world. Nice PR for the reporter, boy were they laying it on. At the announcements they finally said we would now like for brother elder to come up to the stage. When he got up there, I stood up. He then started talking about the CO visit last week and made a motion to pay expenses. I sat down. I thought maybe later. Nope they skipped it. Now for any elders out there, everyone know you make the announcement during the "announcements", why did they wait? Did the have “fear of man”? I went out and talked to the reporter from the Paducah Sun. I suggested they were holding it till last, hoping she would leave or they may wait till another meeting to keep me guessing. I told her they were playing games and they just blinked again. She called her editor and he gave her thirty minutes more. We went back in and I got to thinking. I am tired of these silly games. Lee Stockwell had the last part on the meeting and since he has made an ass of himself on several occasions I thought I would wait for him to get up there. What was I going to do? From this point forward we decide to make a new guideline for anyone disfellowshipped for abuse issues. We make our own announcement. When Stockwell got on the stage I stood up and turned to the audience and said: “Tonight they were supposed to announcement that I was to be disfellowshipped. I object to this announcement, I object to this proceeding. I have broken no biblical law, I have broken no law of the organization. The Governing Body has ordered my disfellowshipping to prevent my presentation of evidence that proves them to be lying hypocrites. I am now a silentlamb, as are the thousands of abuse survivors whose lives have been ruined by Watchtower Policy on child molestation.” Stockwell tried to out yell me at one point, but shut up. Sheila was taking pictures and that froze them from grabbing me as they knew we would get it on film. I had my say and walked out. When I got to the back Stockwell announced, “William H. Bowen has been disfellowshipped.” I yelled, “You got it!” I then walked out the door. It was a sense of exhilaration and relief. I finally got to say to the congregation what I had wanted to say for two years. I did nothing wrong. The reporter sat on the carport for light and copied my statement to the congregation. They were coming to the window and peeking out, giving me angry looks. I just smiled and waved while Sheila took a few more pictures. They really looked small at that point The reporter said “be sure and buy a paper Friday” we said our good-byes. As I started my truck with loud pipes, I guess Satan entered into me for a moment, I drove through the drive through, kicked it in neutral and floored it as I coasted through. Was that disrupting the meeting? When I got home Sheila and the kids were waiting with champagne and a nice family hug. I now wear as a badge of honor, being disfellowshipped for standing up for children. I find no shame, no guilt, and no dishonor for what I have done. If everything with silentlams ended today I would believe it to all be worthwhile for the assistance and hope given to so many. You can stand, you can speak out, and take back what they robbed you of. Your self esteem and knowledge you did nothing wrong. Joe Anderson also was disfellowshipped tonight. He followed the same tack. He mailed out letters to everyone in the congregation except the PO. The letter informed them of his disfellowshipping and the reason why, along with the original letter he wrote resigning. So when they made the announcement everybody already knew. Joe did not attend, there was no point to it. The conservatives have won, the organization will go on, but it will be a harsher crueler organization driven by soldiers without conscience and scared rabbits to do their bidding. The worst part is the damage done to children till Watchtower Policy finally changes. I include Joe’s letter below: Joe Anderson 1527 Normandy Rd. Normandy, TN 37360 Dear Folks, I am writing to let you know about my situation in the congregation and my feelings on the matter. You might also say this is a letter telling you goodbye. I've been associated with Jehovah's Witnesses for over fifty years and my interest is still in Jehovah and his purpose. What has always impressed me was the honesty and truthfulness of the organization, and for changes the organization has made in the past to benefit the congregations. I want to add here that I continue to have only love for all of Jehovah's Witnesses, including the elders and the people at Watchtower headquarters, many of whom I've known since the 1950s. Recently, I wrote a letter explaining why I resigned as an elder and sent it to the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society regarding changes that I believed were needed in their child sexual abuse policies. I gave each elder in the Manchester Congregation a copy of the letter to let them know what I was doing. Let me say here that this has nothing to do with doctrines, etc., but about procedures that could impact safety of the flock, Christian love, and elders doing the right thing in behalf of the membership. However, because of writing this letter, at a judicial hearing a few weeks ago, I was accused of "undermining the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah's organization." I have enclosed, for your observation, a copy of this letter so you can get a sense of what's going on. As you know, this type of thing is always kept secret from the congregation, consequently, everything appears to be going peacefully. Normally, I concur with the organization's procedures regarding privacy for there are issues that do not involve the entire congregation so it's best to respect confidentially. However, I perceive that keeping quiet about sexual child abuse in a congregation is a totally different situation. This criminal activity has to be exposed to protect us. Appropriate handling of sexual abuse accusations and subsequent information to the congregation does not "undermine the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah's organization." On the contrary, keeping child abuse a secret does "undermine the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah's organization." To give you examples of deviant sexual proclivities kept secret within the organization that have served to “undermine confidence of the brothers in Jehovah’s organization” were the dismissals from Bethel since 1991 of two Governing Body brothers, Chitty and Greenlees. Chitty was homosexual and also an alcoholic. He returned to England, where he was from, and the Watchtower Society provided him support and an apartment to live in. He was not disfellowshipped. Greenlees was a known homosexual when he lived and worked at Georgetown, Watchtower’s Canadian Branch Office and his appointment as a member of the Governing Body caused considerable shock to the staff there. He was dismissed from Brooklyn Bethel in the mid 80’s while Barbara, Lance and I were there and sent out as a special pioneer. Later, informed people at Bethel told us that Greenlees was not dismissed for being gay, but rather for molesting a young boy. He was not disfellowshipped. In my resignation letter I referred to a young lady who was with the Manchester Congregation some years ago, who came forward as a result of the Tennessean newspaper and identified several brothers in our area who molested her as a child. To say the least, I was shocked to hear her story, and then when the elders were informed when I met with them, two of them corroborated some of her claims. I believe because of the nature of pedophilies that all of us should know about their past offenses, which would warn us of the potential harm that can come by keeping this a secret. There are over 23,000 U. S., Canadian and British cases of confessed and accused molesters filed at Watchtower headquarters, many of which have never been turned over to the authorities. If you take into account that by Watchtower Society requirements there has to be two or more victims before some action is taken by the congregation against a molester, this would mean there are many thousands more victims than 23,000 molesters. In fact, one Jehovah’s Witness in Nevada molested seventeen children before he was imprisoned. He still is not disfellowshipped. Presently, there is one confessed molester now attending the Manchester congregation and another former elder who confessed to molestation, who moved to a nearby congregation last year. But Watchtower policy prohibits us from telling you who they are. In the Manchester Congregation, there is only one elder who has small children in his care who knows who these men are, consequently, he can protect his children, but you who have children are not permitted that right to know. Is that fair? Or loving? Why can’t we write the Watchtower Bible & Tract Society with our concerns, questions, and doubts about things that effect us? But as you can see from the action taken against me that you’re not “free” as you think. See James 1:25. In addition, never forget that James said in chapter 4, verse 17 that if you know what's right and not do it, it's a sin. If you write to Watchtower with compliments, you hear nothing. But write something that they term negative or divisive, your letter is sent back to your home congregation and the elders investigate. If you don't repent then you will be disfellowshipped. Since my Bible-trained conscience does not allow me to repent of what is perceived by the Watchtower Society as “undermining the confidence of the brothers in Jehovah’s organization” from what I said in my resignation letter, I will be disfellowshipped. To see what the Bible tells us about Christian freedom read 1 Peter 2:19-21 and Hebrews 3:6. Notice too that 1 Cor. 10:29 asks why should it be that a person’s freedom is judged by another person’s conscience. My desire is not to separate you from the congregation and the many friends you have. I’m merely letting you know what is going on, which I’ve always wanted to do. There is a lot more to say, but for now I can only say I hope changes will be made because this issue is causing an immense amount of pain and suffering for victims and their families, including my own family. Moreover, the worst effect of all is that they leave the organization. It's very sad. In closing, I send my best wishes and will miss your association. whether it is God's true organization or not -- CAN do wrong, and it has done wrong, and this realization can be a true shock to Witnesses. I am still a Witness (for the time being), and after doing objective research on the Society and its past and even its present, I've learned a lot about the Society's lies and its manipulation. I too once thought the Society to be the mouthpiece of God. I now know that this simply cannot be true -- not with some of the things the Society has done. My eyes were opened. It was a frightening experience, to be sure. But I feel the veil has been lifted from my eyes. I can only hope that other Witnesses can pry their mind open and examine the Society, its doctrines, and its procedures, and see the Society for what it truly, truly is.

An Elder molested his daughter when she was growing up. He was disfellowshipped. He and his wife (a sister) were divorced. She remarried, to a brother. He remarried, too, to a woman not a Witness. They had a baby. They're now divorced, too. ====== My opinion is that because people do not understand or agree with our disfellowshipping practices, they have a tendency to believe the disfellowshipped person that they were dealt with unfairly. Therefore, they get the benefit of the doubt. I hope this woman didn't find out the hard way that the man she married that was disfellowshipped by JW's is a child molester. ====== He never came back to the congregation. At least HE is decent enough to stay away. Those who stay are, in my opinion, not "changed". My opinion is that they are seeking "opportunities". They may not strike often or ever again but the POTENTIAL is ALWAYS there. ====== I think child molesters are gutless opportunists. They take advantage of situations and people. They're also bullies. I, too, do not classify it as a disease. ====== The line HAS to be drawn somewhere and it SHOULD NOT BE AT THE EXPENSE OF THE CHILD VICTIM. I don't think the congregation is the place to try to rehabilitate a child molester. They should be THROWN out. IF there is a genuine turning around, it should be down OUTSIDE of the congregation and they would have to prove with more than the appropriate words and emotions that they've changed. ====== THAT person's life is already garbage. We shouldn't let children's lives be altered so that THEIR life, TOO, becomes garbage. We're destroying children rather than letting them bloom into wonderful, healthy adults. ====== Is that WORTH trying to help a KNOWN CHILD MOLESTER? I don't think so. ====== Criminals have MANY victims. They SHOULD NOT BE ALLOWED to have ANY victims but, for SURE, they should not be allowed to MAKE MORE victims. ====== There will always be difficulties between people, however, THIS is NOT a "difficulty" the congregation should bear. --George Crest

I agree with the one small voice that tried to remind everyone WHY this web site is here -- it's for the abused victims of child molesters. The arguments over doctrine don't really belong here. If you've ever been in a support group, you would know that this type of behavior is not allowed. It sidetracks the issues -- care for the abused. I think that people should be subscribed to this support group so that if they start with their "outside" issues, they can be unsubscribed. Those needing support do not need to be torn "hither and tither" by arguments and challenges to doctrines. That really is not the issue. Credibility and healing is the issue. Strife doesn't aid healing. I am appalled that people here ignore these comments and just go on to carry out their own agenda of religion bashing. This would NOT be allowed in my support groups. --Professional Counselor

This is for Brocha, RFK and others who tell the lie that the Watchtower has never claimed to be a prophet. THE WATCHTOWER CLAIMS TO BE A "PROPHET"! "In behalf of such individuals who at heart seek God's rule instead of man's rule, the "prophet" whom Jehovah has raised up has been, not an individual man as in the case of Jeremiah, but a class. The members of this class are, like the prophet-priest Jeremiah, wholly dedicated to Jehovah God through Christ and, by the begettal of Jehovah's holy spirit, they have been made a part of "a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for special possession." (1 Peter2:9) At this late date there is a mere remnant of this "prophet" class yet on earth. The "war of the great day of God the Almighty" at Har-Magedon could not start before this composite "prophet" ends his work," This was printed in the WATCHTOWER Oct. 1, 1982! What utter arrogance. But I'll agree that they are a prophet, A FALSE PROPHET! Lawrence

The Watchtower said this in God's name: Jehovah's prophetic word through Jesus Christ is: 'This generation [of 1914] will be no means pass away until all things occur.' (Luke 21:32) And Jehovah, who is the source of inspired and unfailing prophecy, will bring about the fulfillment." -THE WATCHTOWER May 15, 1984, pages 6-7 The expression "[of 1914]" is actually printed in the original! Does "new light" excuse FALSE PROPHESY? Do you know that if we were still under the Old Testament Theocracy that the GB and ALL JWs would have to be stoned to death for spreading such lies in the name of the Lord? Including you, Brocha! Jehovah God NEVER commanded the "organization" to say such things. I used to ask my JW co-worker's what they were going to do when all the "this generation" was gone and the end had not come. They all said that it was not something to be discussed because there was no possibility that it wouldn't happen the way the mags said it would. My, my, my. What gullibility! One of them is now an elder, and every time I see him on the street I ask him about the former "1914" teaching. He can never admit that I was right and he was wrong. So sad. Time is ALWAYS the benemy of a false prophet. Come to the REAL Lord Jesus Christ. He will NEVER deceive you, like the GB and the Watchtower do! Lawrence

NAN, et al: I am very well aware of "Megan's Law", but keep in mind that "registries" of sex offenders are basically passive. If I want to know who is a registered sex offender, I have to go through the effort of finding the website for my state, search by community and click each name that shows up, or search by name, then click on their picture (if available). How many people are really computer savvy enough to do such a search? Does everyone have Internet access so that they may do this? How likely are we too remember the perpetrators faces after we leave the website?---- ----We print milk cartons and publish flyers with the faces of missing children; what's the problem with broadcasting pedophile's names AND FACES regularly on television or posting their pictures on billboards so that we will be reminded of what they look like? So far the police in my state do not go out of their way to tell me who is a sex offender in my community. And you expect the elders to do more than the police?---- ----My comment about the ACLU was no joke - to get the level of protection many people want WILL involve some serious questions of privacy.- --- ----I am certain the GB "will" make whatever changes are really needed. In the meantime, I am sticking with Jehovah's Witnesses because I am betting my eternal life that they are closer to the Bible than any other group!---- - Brocha

I'm not sure why my post to NAN from yesterday was repeated today, sorry.----In reply to Lawrence:---- Excerpt from "Reason From the Scriptures" (1985) pp. 136-7 False Prophets ***
Have not Jehovah's Witnesses made errors in their teachings?-----"Jehovah's Witnesses do not claim to be inspired prophets. They have made mistakes. Like the apostles of Jesus Christ, they have at times had some wrong expectations.---Luke 19:11; Acts 1:6-----The Scriptures provide time elements related to Christ's presence, and Jehovah's Witnesses have studied these with keen interest. (Luke 21:24; Dan. 4:10-17) Jesus also described a many-featured sign that would tie in with the fulfillment of time prophecies to identify the generation that would live to see the end of Satan's wicked system of things. (Luke 21:7-36) Jehovah's Witnesses have pointed to evidence in fulfillment of this sign. It is true that the Witnesses have made mistakes in their understanding of what would occur at the end of certain time periods, but they have not made the mistake of losing faith or ceasing to be watchful as to fulfillment of Jehovah's purposes. They have continued to keep to the fore in their thinking the counsel given by Jesus: "Keep on the watch, therefore, because you do not know on what day your Lord is coming."---Matt. 24:42.-----"Matters on which corrections of viewpoint have been needed have been relatively minor when compared with the vital Bible truths that they have discerned and publicized. Among these are the following: Jehovah is the only true God. Jesus Christ is not part of a Trinitarian godhead but is the only-begotten Son of God. Redemption from sin is possible only through faith in Christ's ransom sacrifice. The holy spirit is not a person but is Jehovah's active force, and its fruitage must be evident in the lives of true worshipers. The human soul is not immortal, as the ancient pagans claimed; it dies, and the hope for future life is in the resurrection. God's permission of wickedness has been because of the issue of universal sovereignty. God's Kingdom is the only hope for mankind. Since 1914 we have been living in the last days of the global wicked system of things. Only 144,000 faithful Christians will be kings and priests with Christ in heaven, whereas the rest of obedient mankind will receive eternal life on a paradise earth.----"-Brocha

Everyone keeps bantering the word unity around. One can be in unity but that doesn't necessarily mean that they will always be in agreement. Being in unity especially applies when there is a disagreement. In the efforts to reach agreement, there is not a break or denunciation of the entire arrangement. The issue lies only with the disagreement. The desire is to rectify the area or areas in which there is a disagreement. Those involved do not change the desire to abandonment of the entire arrangement. Do you view unity as cooperating?

Buster: As re your post of 15 August, @19:00:53; Please do not question my honesty - I do not question yours! You asked me what I don't like about being one of JWs and I answered HONESTLY. I believe JWs have the best understanding of the Bible and I believe they are the closest to Bible-based Christianity of anyone. If I find a group that is closer, I'll change - indeed, I have asked God in prayer several times that 'if I am in the wrong group please show me the right one.' In 20 years as a baptised Witness I have yet to receive an answer. Maybe "God" doesn't care about me? Maybe there is no God"-----Until I have a "Damascus Road" experinece telling me otherwise, I'll state this emphatically: I have NO DISAGREEMENT WITH THE SCRIPTURAL UNDERSTANDING OF JWs. Defender, I really expected more from you. Even with all that has been said about the beliefs and policies of the org., I still for some silly reason expected more. I guess it really doesn't matter to you who you disappoint, especially me, but you have really put a stumbling block in front of me, more of one than anyone or any information that I've read. You are the final and main JW spokesman that makes me see that my whole life of trusting an org, of respecting an org, has been in vain. You may not think much of that, but YOU will have to face the creator, So YOU remember what you've posted in here, hurry and come up with your excuses as to why you did it to, because one day YOU will have to answer for it!

To Claudine/Soapbox as per your post of 15 August, @18:45:54:---- ----Have I read the stories (on this site from abuse survivors)? Yes! Everyone I could find. They "do" break my heart! Is my "heart is SO callous??????" No, I don't think so. You need to appreciate that as a youth "I" was molested, but NOT by one of Jehovah's Witnesses. (Gasp!!! Shock!!! Horrors!!!) I did not and do not blame God. (Bigger GASP!!!!) Do I feel the Governing Body needs to take a firmer stand and, more important, drill it into the heads of local elders NOT to further victimize the victims? Most definitely! Do I agree with the tactics of those who are now "former" Witnesses to make a media circus of matters and stand up in the congregation and make aes of themselves on their way out or file lawsuits against the Society? No way! Could it encourage the GB to make changes? Maybe, but I'm not comfortable with an "end justifies the means" attitude. Where is the "Christian love" of these new opposers? -Brocha

To comment on Brocha's (opinion) without stating the 54 specific key rewriting of the scriptures (That I know of) that is exclusive to the WTBS is going to lead down a road far away from where we want to go folks. We have been trying to show these guys who wrote their belife system that they hold with such zelot pride. I am asking please let it go for now. Maybe we could move the hardcore doctrine debate to another site. I think the goating is to get to a point where then "Brocha" "JFK" and "JWD's" can find some crumbs to try and dismiss us with. Is it not amazing that we show where these "concepts" originated from and it does not even phase them. I guess that is how they can have that "fly in your face" attitude about what Silentlambs stands for. "$topping abuse." That word seems to now mean sexual, physical, and abuse of power. I hope that we can keep "doctrinal abuse" issues to a minimum. They will not do anything but re-enforce the JWD's belife system. It is based on trying to pick apart divide, separate, and keep the opposition unsteady. Nitt-picking is the way of the JWD. It is sad. Has anyone ever hear the concept "Don't compete with the Jones's. Just tear them down it's easier." I think it is a good example of "Brocha", "JFK," and "JWD". The posts they leave is what I mean. Are they "contributing" or are they "contaminating"? -Seq

Brocha—You said that you have prayed to God to show you if the WTS is or is not the true religion. (Look at the signs). You want to know if it is not, then what is the true religion. I can only share with you my truth and my heart. As a child, even then I have always known the spirit of Christ. I don't know a time when I did not. However you see, I am whole not because a religion gives me permission to be whole, but because my faith and trust in God's promise makes me whole. Do I need a church? YES! To be stronger but not to be whole. That feeling of being complete. It is a feeling I can't explain but I feel it, I live in it, and if you ever feel it it needs no definition. It helps me to be at peace. It makes me stronger. I could no more betray it that to betray myself. To believe that God comes from any religion is to bet on a "golden calf." If it destroys then it is bad. Period. To justify evil is to validate it. It is wrong. Period.—Sequia

BROCHA: to make a comparison of the Army to the WT is isn’t very good. I’ve been in the British Army, and there’s no way you could compare the two. Everyone in the army knows their job and each others job, and orders that come down from the top are understood tactically and so orders are then carried out efficiently. Commanding officers don’t try to force their consciences and views on others. Each individual soldier has their own mind and own views, and yet there’s real unity within a unit! Rich

Brocha you sound like you been a JW for a while. Why don’t you post the beautiful WT prophecy all JW’s had to memorize for use in the ministry. About the end coming in the 1914 generation I just love how JW’s would show a couple verses and add 1914 into them and about people living 70-80 yrs and how Jesus said that the 1914 generation would see the world end. Funny I guess Jesus LIED> . Any JW want to post that one. But I know even Jesus needs the light to get brighter for himself. Sounds to me like the WT is being directed by one of the guys named Jesus who lives on my street there is Jesus Soto, Jesus Diaz, Jesus Rivera. And Jesus the drunk who asks people for a dollar on the street for his next bottle of night train. And believe me he’ll tickle your ears and get that dollar from you. John

Dear Brocha, Sad, sad, sad, is all I can say concerning your spouting of the Watchtower party line. You claims that the watchtower NEVER claimed to be a “prophet”. I quoted you from their own literature (which is their worst enemy!)
Will you now admit that they HAVE called themselves a “prophet”? At least be honest on this documented point.
Regardless as to what the lastest “new light” (also known as your reasoning book) says, the TRUTH cannot be done away with. Your religion has LIED to you, and has taught you to LIE to others, and then dismiss those who refuse to be duped by your chicanery as “opposers”, and, oh yes, let’s not forget that most horrible of monikers, “APOSTATES”. What a load of bovine residue. ANYONE with an ounce of undefiled gray matter that can read english, can tell that your church has CLEARLY claim to be a prophet! That case should be closed by now. Will you admit, after reading the citation I gave you from Oct 1, 1982, pgs.6-7, that your church HAS claim to be a “prophet”? Please respond to this question. It only requires a YES or No answer. DO NOT quote any of your REVISIONIST literature. Shake yourself loose from the mind control, and come into the freedom of the Lord Jesus Christ, the wonderful Savior! He’s waiting for you, Brocha. He wants to have a PERSONAL relationship with you.
One that is built upon relationship not religion. I have NEVER met a JW who could honestly say they have a personal relationship with the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. But I know hundreds of bible-believing Christians that do.
Remember, the Lord said we must come to HIM for life, not an organization of deluded and deluding humans led by some supposed GB. I thank God Almighty for the FREEDOM I have in Christ. Freedom to think for myself. Freedom to read what I want. Freedom to make my own decisions without fear of some UNBIBLICAL judicial committee, who are nothing but UNSAVED religious sinners. Now answer my question, Brocha, if you dare. Has the organization EVER claimed to be a "prophet"? To say "yes" goes against what they officially say, (and will get you in BIG TROUBLE (with the organization that promotes the lies). To say NO goes against the documentable evidence, and will get you in BIG TROUBLE the One Who hates liars. My, my, my...What a tangled web YOU weave when first you practice to deceive!...We're waiting for your response to the QUESTION, Brocha.... Lawrence

When I witness to people, I NEVER point them to ANY church, denomination, or local assembly as the source of salvation. I ONLY point them to the LORD JESUS CHRIST, the author of eternal life. If they are interested in a good, healthy well-balanced church, I will gladly tell them of one near where they live. But I NEVER tell them they must be a part of a particular one. There is NO BIBLE JUSTIFICATION for that. I DO explain to them what must be done to have a REAL relationship with the Lord Jesus Christ. The Lord Jesus is the source of our salvation. To try to by-pass Him and go to the father will NEVER work. Some one asked what they had to do to do the works of God. Jesus replied, "THIS is the work of God, That you BELIEVE on Him who He has sent (referring to Himself of course). Note He said absolutely NOTHING about 'counting time'", literature placement, Assembly attendance, "new light", 1914, 1924, 1975, the Governing Body, or any of the other seemingly countless bricks that the Watchtower loads upon the backs of it's hapless devotees. CHRIST offers a simple solution to our deepest problem- which is SIN. HE alone is the solution. HE alone is the cure. HE alone is the One whose blood can save. Turn to Him in faith. I know, it's hard to admit that the WT taskmasters have deceived you. But at the Judgement bar, you will be able to hear the words of Christ, "Well done, you good and faithful servant", as opposed to "Depart from Me you workers of iniquity!" Jesus stands at your door, Brocha and others who defend the WT. He's knocking. The latch is on the inside. You have a decision to make. Will you chose CHRIST or a man-made religion? Will you chose and UNCAHANGING saviour (Who is THE TRUTH), or an organization that is constantly changing it's so-called "truth"? As long as the blood runs warm in your veins, you have the ability to make this choice. But remember, it is appointed unto man ONCE to die, and after death the judgement. As my ancestors used to sing in the words of the old Negro spiritual "Fare ye well!" Lawrence. PS. BROCHA, I'm still waiting on that YES or NO answer!

All of you here who left the "organization" and persist in bashing it and it's followers remind me of a story I read in the 1950's while in a high school American literature class. In this story, a group of people were bussed to a remote location and told to go into the barn and to not come out until their "time" came. Well, they waited a long time and one of the passengers decided he had time to go outside and smoke a cigarette. When he entered the barn again, all the rest were gone -- vanished. The principle here is, that there was a WEEDING OUT of the passengers waiting for their "time" -- they weren't told when that time would be but all the rest waited except for that one man. He lost out because he couldn't wait. Right now ALL religions are being given an opportunity to show who they really serve. It is TIME for Jehovah God's son, Jesus Christ, to do the actual separation of the weeds from the wheat. Therefore, this is not a time when you can say JW's are or are not his chosen nation of people because he hasn't weeded anyone out yet. We could very well be those people who were left inside the barn and told to wait until their "time". Those who can't wait, as instructed, will go outside and, when they come back, it's too late. While you or anyone else is harping on points that prove you're right, the rest have vanished and you missed out only, this time, it's forever. I did not mention any names here. Whoever reads this can make her or his own mind up as to whether or not they want to take the chance of being left behind. Ezekiel's prophecy makes it clear that, in the end, there will be only one united people that the whole world will see as the religion that has his favor and approval -- all the rest will be gone. Once that happens, there's no joining it. Does that make you afraid? It should. This is serious business. Think very carefully about what you're doing because it does mean your very own life and all those that you cause to be left behind.--

Thought I'd share some "short truths and maxims" with you: Short truths and maxims: "When you don't know what you want, you often end up where you don't want to be. "Obstacles are those frightful things you see when you take your eyes off your goal. "In the long run men hit only what they aim at. "Most people don't know what they really want-but they're sure they haven't got it. "If you don't know where you're going, you'll probably end up somewhere else. "Discipline is the bridge between goals and accomplishment. "You can't hit a home run unless you step up to the plate. You can't catch a fish unless you put your line in the water. You can't reach your goals if you don't try. God gives every bird its food, but He does not just throw it in the nest. When all is said and done, everyone needs to become accountable for herself or himself. That's in the Bible and it's in the WBTS publications.

My fiance is a former JW who was brutally abused by his parents while growing up. He's still dealing with the emotional, mental & physical scars on a daily basis. I plan on bringing this website to his attention today to that maybe he can begin the long road to healing. Thank you & God bless. - Joyce jysunderland@yahoo.com

Lawrence: Answer: "NO". I looked up your reference and, I'm sorry, I didn't find any statement that indicated that JWs consider themselves to be prophets. The closest I came was the following:  w82 10/1 page 7 "God has arranged for a dedicated, spirit-anointed body of people to help us to be time conscious. This “faithful and discreet slave” serves us spiritual "food at the proper time" and exhorts us to ‘always have plenty to do in the work of the Lord.’ (Matthew 24:45; 1 Corinthians 15:58) In this way we can be useful in God’s service both now and in the future." ---- ---

-Where is the bold, definitive statement of our 'prophetness'? Did I miss it somehow?----- ----As to having a "personal relationship with the Lord", as you claim, I must ask: Where is "your" Christ-like mildness and love? And as regards your "personal relationship with the Lord": in what way is it personal? Or even a relationship? Does Jesus talk to you
"personally?" For how long have you been hearing his voice?---- ----Keep in mind that Jesus said he is the "Way" - not the destination! He spoke of coming "to" the Father "through" him.---- ----John: Where or when did I say you "should beat [your] wife and kids?" Huh? What ya smokin', dude? As to me "not... answer(ing) questions with out a wt book", uh, excuse me, but "you" started by running off a string of cited references to our literature and I was merely replying with actual quotes from some of those citations as well as others.---- ----But enough of these debates on beliefs! I could gladly continue, but little will be accomplished (other than me continuing to count Field Service time!!!). It is obvious that there are two camps here and neither will convince the other. Malcontents are free -even encouraged!- to leave Jehovah's organization. It is a voluntary membership and the doors to Kingdom Halls open both ways. We "will" miss some of you, though.---- ----Someone in an earlier post mentioned writing the local KH and asking that your address be excluded if you really don't want to have JWs at your door. Excellent idea. That makes our ministry easier! While we really do care about people, we are glad to avoid argumentative folks.---- ----Meanwhile, let's get back to supporting the abused lambs, shall we?---- -Brocha

JW Defender replying to SJC: "no matter how many quotes from 1901 you use, this site amounts to a JW bashing party. Look at your quotes. Look at everyone's quotes. How often has a child abuse victim benefited from your inane observations?" The victims benefit when criminal activity that has been covered up are now exposed. Like turning on the light in a dark kitchen - all the roaches scatter. THAT'S not inane. "Oh, before I forget, when you reply, please include your view on the Trinity." How does anyone's view on the trinity help sexual abuse victims? The trinity, along with lots of religious beliefs, is based in the mythological/mystical teachings of shamans, clerics and priests - all just men. "Also, tell us who is the Faithful and Discreet slave, since you know so much." That's easy - Jesus is the Faithful and Discreet Slave. Haven't you read your Bible? "Since you're so versed in scripture, go into a detailed explanation of why you think it is biblically wrong when the bible makes it oh so crystal clear that to establish a matter two to three witnesses are necessary." Well, the Bible clearly advocates love and seeking justice - the "2 witness" thing was used primarily to settle business and legal disputes among the ancient Jews. Applying it to cases of rape, incest, or the sexual abuse of young children was probably understood to be ridiculous, as these infractions seldom have witnesses other than the abuser and the victim. How's that, Jackass? And to show that I am no coward (as so many of you JW apologists are), I am posting my name, e-mail and address & phone number. Come get me! For all you supporters: I hope to see many of you at the March on the Watchtower September 27, in Brooklyn Heights. J.

Thanks to soapbox (I believe) for posting about Ray Franz, to George Crest and all excuse my spelling on the last post. I have FAT fingers today; in regards to not being involved with any religion soapbox I agree, I feel kinda like the sheep that was led to the slaughter. I KNOW now the brother I suspected back East of being inappropriate with you boys, I should have trusted my instincts instead I kept saying "no, the elders WOULD never allow that" Well, I sit with egg on my face huh... My God follows me as I putter in my garden, he has blessed me for NOT running off with our attorney (BOY WHAT A STORY THAT ONE WAS and true I'm sure I've seen a lot) when my husband couldn't work. I'm sure those who read my earlier posts remember they great spiritual support we received then O yep NOTHING not even a shepherding call at the hospital. That is why I know Jehovah will bless us, we are not trying to fit life into his time table we are here, we are good moral people and that is all we need to be. Funny how I received NO posts in response to the "lack of love" shown my brother in law seems when were not quoting doctrines but giving real cases of HORRIBLE behavior in congregations, either its "were imperfect" WAAAAAAAAAA geesh so are we but we do the right thing, OR the post is ignored. Sheila: As re your prior post: The neglect your family received from the elders was wrong, wrong, wrong!! It does not reflect the love that elders are encouraged - no, commanded - to show. In meetings with circuit overseers and at KM School (for elders) as well as in Watchtower magazines, elders are repeatedly counseled to "Shepherd the Flock!!" We are taught over and over that most problems in the congregation are the result of elders not doing their God-assigned duty as shepherds. Speaking as a one-time elder, please allow ME to apologize for the bone-headed NON-actions of others. -Brocha

Counting time to "apostates" oh, what would the brothers say! Yes many of us who do not believe or comply would be called apostates. Don't forget "bad association spoils usefull habits!"
Brocha - Looks like everyone woke up in a better mood this morning. I really do get the sense of honesty from your last post to me. Thank you. We disagree on how close the JWs are to God's intentions. But we agree on the next key point: neither of us thinks that there is another group to go to. That being said, let me share something I posted a few days ago: Organized religion, big and small, serves those that need it. But I relate it to the Israelites' demands for a king. They needed something that they could name, see, point to, and call a king. Moral of the story: we shouldn't need the overhead, but for those that do, it is available in every shape, size and color. I believe that we are to establish our own relationship with Christ, take responsibility for our own decisions, and exercise our obligations to help others. I don't consider myself religious at all. But would hold up my morals and the way I've lived my life up to anyone's. Let me know what you think. - Buster

Buster: Thanks! At least someone else is willing to have a calm discussion. Your point about needing an organization is an interesting one. Throughout the Bible we read of God's people being organized: Moses and the priesthood guiding the Israelites, the Temple arrangement, the congregations of the first-century Christians (with their reference to the "Apostles and older men of Jerusalem"). We read in the Bible of the necessity of guidance even in scriptural reading (Acts chapter 8, relating the account of the Ethiopian). JWs believe that without an organization we would not get the preaching work done efficiently (Matt 24:14), nor would there much in the way of an "interchange of encouragement" (Romans 1:12), or "inciting to love and fine works" (Heb 10:24,25) and we would have the situation where people just read the Bible on their own and come up with their own interpretation, leading to the innumerable sects we see today. ---- -Brocha

I have watched two shows that you have been on and I think you are a totally disgusting apostate. Anyone with an ounce of brains knows that it's supported by the elders to go to the police if a child has been molested, and I happen to know someone whose daughter was and when reported, the elder himself called the police. Satan really has a hold of you.

Brocha: Excellent. As far as the Isrealites' organization, I think we are relieved of having to conform to the Laws of the old testament (Though I know I was the one that brought it up with the Isrealite request for a king). Also, I don't believe the first century Christians were nearly as organized as today's organized religions would like everyone to think. I would expect any organization to emphasize the need for an organization. I have read the Greek scripture references often cited and compared it to some other commentary and I don't believe they had some centralized structure that dictated down each arm to each group exactly how to interpret and act. I went back and read Acts 8 (It's been a while) and I was struck by one point as I got the end. Philip hopped on the chariot, talked to the
Ethiopian went from interested scripture reader to 'hey, there's some water, let do the baptism' in one conversation.
That tells me that the message was very simple, salvation by Jesus. No multi-month, or multi-year study period, augmented by night after night of meeting after meeting. No review and lessons in extra-biblical policies and procedures. But I did skip by the command to preach door-to-door - I suspect you noticed. Anyway, this is where I will ask you to pull back a bit from the NWT and take a different tack, one that isn't based so tightly on reading the exact wording as found in your translation. I don't believe (and I am not capable of doing this research myself - no skills in ancient Greek) the commands are not quite as the JWs interpret them. It isn't a command to go into a neighborhood and knock on each door and see who may be willing to hear the message. It has more off a sense of visiting members of the congregation, tending to them. In sum, yes there was an organization then. But I don't feel it was any where nearly as tightly run. I get plenty of opportunity to encourage and incite (in a good way) others - just not as part of an organization. - Buster

Isaiah 57: 1 The righteous one himself has perished, but there is no one taking it to heart. And the men of loving-kindness are being gathered to the dead, while no one discerns that is because of the calamity that the righteous one has been gathered away. I TAKE THIS TO HEART- read the whole chapter --------Isaiah 57:5.....slaughtering the children in the torrent valleys under the clefts of the crags? and ends with Isaiah 57:21 There is no peace, my God

Buster: Hey, this is turning into a very enjoyable exchange!----- ----As regards the Ethiopian: you're right, it was not a long, drawn-out study course before he asked to be baptised. The reason? The scriptural account says (and I'm using the King James Version for all references in this post) at Acts 8:27 that the Ethiopian "...had come to Jerusalem for to worship." By this we understand that the Ethiopian was a Jewish proselyte - a convert. He already had a good knowledge of the Hebrew scriptures (how many of us would just up and start reading Isaiah? :) and he would thus be keenly interested in "The Messiah". All Phillip had to do was, basically, "fill in the blanks."----- ----As regards the door-to-door preaching, it is interesting to note the Apostle Paul's words at Acts 20:20 where he said: "...I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have showed you, and have "taught" you publicly, and from "house to house"." We also see this as a command by Jesus sending out the disciples to "...go, preach, saying, The kingdom of heaven is at hand." (Matt 10:7) A few verses later underscores this door-to-door activity: "And into whatsoever city or town ye shall enter, inquire who in it is worthy; and there abide till ye go thence. And when ye come into a house, salute it. And if the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it: but if it be not worthy, let your peace return to you.
And whosoever shall not receive you, nor hear your words, when ye depart out of that house or city, shake off the dust of your feet. Verily I say unto you, It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomor'rah in the day of judgment, than for that city." (Matt 10:11-15) So it really doesn't seem to me that the disciples were going to like-minded believers for fellowship. I will agree whole-heartedly, though, that 1st Century Christians had nowhere near the level of organization (opponents may call it "bureaucracy") that JWs have today. Christianity was in its infancy.---- -

Sheila Madonna: I forgot the last part of the story. When the man opened the barn door, he saw the old, smelly, hot and uncomfortable bus near the top of the barn with all the people that stayed in the garage in it. It was surrounded by light and, before his own eyes, it rose into through the roof and into the sky. The man that couldn't wait didn't wonder why everyone was gone, he knew that he missed the bus. That man that found so much to find fault with the people and bus didn't make it to their destination -- only those that obeyed and waited did. That's how it will be for all those who couldn't wait on Jehovah God at the time when Jesus Christ and his heavenly armies sweep down from heaven and end all this rebelliousness that has resulted in centuries of unnecessary blood shed and inhumanity to man -- including children. All the people will KNOW EXACTLY what's happening. There won't be any doubt in ANYONE'S mind or heart.

Only recently (since Erica's lawsuit) have elders been told to report abuse to the police and they are only required to do it in 16 states. If it is not required by law, they don't have to do it. Let me now state my experiences with abuse and why it was so easy for me to believe the accusations (in spite of being a JW for 35 yrs): 1. 25 yrs ago, an elders wife in Othello, WA, told me she suspected her husband of molesting young boys for years. She went to the elders who told her that couldn't be happening, she had to be wrong. She went to the CO and he strongly admonished her to be a better wife, that she was being disloyal to her husband, and to never mention it again. It never occurred to her, I'm sure, to go to the police. She had been a nice, submissive, JW wife for decades and wasn't about to go against the WTS at this point. Finally, their pioneer daughter went to a new set of elders, many years later, and her father was removed....not disfellowshipped....removed as an elder.Her name is DIANE RIBLETT and the last I heard she was in Wenatchee, WA. Does anyone know her? 2. In 1993 my daughters friend (15yrs old) told us she had been molested by her father for years. He was around the truth but not real active. We went to the elders who came back and told us that he denied it so we should not talk about it to anyone or we could be guilty of gossip and slander. IT WAS NEVER SUGGESTED THAT ANYONE GO TO THE POLICE! 3. I had a conversation with an elder several months ago about child abuse. He immediately said, "We are instructed by the Society to call the Legal Dept immediately." Not the police, not CPS but the WTS. The next thing out of his mouth was, "And you know, kids lie about that stuff." And in reference to Erica's case, he replied with disdain, "Well why did she wait so long to tell anyone." It was apparent that he knew absolutely nothing about sexual abuse but immediately took the side of the offender. As time goes on, I hope JW's will open their eyes to what is really going on. The WTS can print anything for the benefit of the congregations but that doesn't mean that's what they actually do when a problem arises. AND HOW DO WE REALLY KNOW WHAT THEY DO SINCE EVERYTHING IS STRICTLY CONFIDENTIAL?? I know this is very long but didn't know how to shorten it....so I appreciate your patience. jazbug have known the real TRUTH. There are those of us who were not sexually abused by a JW (although I was sexually abused by a non-JW) but we were abused by the WTS in other ways. I came to this "safe" place to see if I could help others and was instead helped by them. True there are harsh people here now. I tend to not visit as much as I once did because I am reminded of the years of verbal abuse. I still see this as a place to heal from all kinds of abuse. I am happy to be free from the control of the heartless people, the WTS. I will probably continue to attend a few meetings although that is getting harder to do. Sitting there trying to sift through the misinformation is hard. Sitting there while a "special needs" talk is given in my honor is extremely hard. But anyway welcome to the "safe" place at silentlambs. I hope to see more posts from you. Love Y'all, Loris

I salute a very brave man, Bill Bowen. At last a JW who will stand up and not be pushed around by the organisation. I hope this will give others the courage to do the same.Show the WT that no longer will they just accept what is said by them. At a time when I needed help with depression and attempted suicide, (not caused through abuse)from "Jehovah's loving organisation". Their answer was to get rid of me. I was told to leave mt family because I was considered a "spiritual danger" to them. Consequently this split the family some came to live with me. My wife has not had contact with me since end of 1999. Stopped from seeing two of my daughters. Now disaassociated myself. This after nearly 30 years as a JW. regards, G.D.Cook England.

To Loris....I know what you mean. I listen to meetings on the phone because I am allergic to perfume and some of the JW's refuse to stop wearing perfume to the meetings. But now, I question all the info in the mtgs. and in the literature. It is very hard to separate my love for Jehovah from the WTS. After 35 yrs. of the subtle conditioning and control, it seems like one in the same to me....until now at least...what a dilemma. Only another JW can understand this. lawerance thanx for posting about false prophets and the wt calling it self a prophet i give branca only a taste of what i have read in wts of how they call them selves modern day prophets. she tried to refute the evindence but i know when i was in book studies . jws get all worked up to a fever pitch about how the wt is a prophet of god. thats how the wt gets jws to push in the field service. the wt get tired of showing jws where they contradict them selves. i only do it for freedom in christ . i don,t even want to look up anymore wt because a lot of jws know how to read but don,t understand what their reading. it,s funny in my area the only people i see joining the wt are ones who are mentally slow.social out casts. or ones that have no knowledge of the bible .i know many ones who have good bible understanding. and said they would join the wt if the jws could show them the wt is the way. i don,t know any one with good bible training who joined the wt. even after many studies . and these people don,t know the history of the wt. thats right lawerance FREEDOM IN CHRIST TO ALL JOHN

Seq--No one said the people in the barn were wife or child abusers. However, if there were such people in the barn and JEHOVAH GOD and his son, JESUS CHRIST see fit for them to be there, you have one or two choices -- reject Jehovah God and Jesus Christ or accept their decisions and see where it takes you and them. The way things are here in these postings, it's very clear that you all are acting like the self-righteous Pharisee that, instead of praying to Jehovah God for the rafter in his own eye, he was telling him how awful the tax collector was and how glad he wasn't him and all the reasons why he wasn't him. In the end, Jehovah God, himself, pronounced the TAX COLLECTOR righteous as he was in the FRONT praying for Jehovah's forgiveness as he lamented that he wasn't worthy at all and not the self-righteous Pharisee who stayed in the BACK extolling himself to Jehovah God at the expense of the tax collector.--George Crest

George- My mistake I thought that you were trying to say that the "Barn" was the WTBS. And further, that to bring child abusers and molesters (even if they are baptized JW's) to justice is sinful. That to bring coverups to light is to encroach on that organization. My point is I do not sit idle for wickedness. That in itself is wicked.-Sequia

Do not attach yourself to any particular creed exclusively, so that you may disbelieve all the rest; Otherwise you will lose much good, nay, you will fail to recognize the real truth of the matter. God, the omnipresent and omnipotent, is not limited by any one creed, for, he says, "Wheresoever ye turn, there is the face of Al-lah." Everyone praises what he believes; his god is his own creature and in praising it he praises himself. Consequently he blames the beliefs of others, which he would not do if he were just. but his dislikes is based on ignorance.-Ibn-al-Arabi 12th century AD-(SEQ)

Just wanted to tell all of you who have been brave enough to come forward and try to make a difference, "Thank you!" This is not just a Catholic or JW issue. It affects people of all faiths. My children were seriously hurt in a non-denominational church-affiliated daycare by the lady who was over the daycare. I have asked the church to do the right thing and make the parents aware to no avail. It appears to me that they care more about possible lawsuits and the community’s perception of them than about the children. That has been very disturbing to me. Also, in the faith that I belong to, the ministers are moved to another unsuspecting church to do more harm. That has been really disappointing to me as well. Church should be a place of peace not caos. This is not an issue with God, it is a human issue and we need to be strong, come forward, and make the difference. "pg 197 par. 4 however,jehovah did not let the people of christendom, as led by the CLERGY go without beings warned that the league was a counterfeit, substitute foer the real kingdom of god he,s has a Prophet to warn them . this PROPHET WAS MOT one man , but was a body of men and women. it was the small group of footstep followers of jesus christ,known at that time as international bible students. today they are known as jehovah christian witnesses.......par. 6 mof course it is easy to say that this acts as a prophet of god .it,s is another thing to prove it . the only way that this can be done is to review the record. what does the record show??” so lets have a study on this article to see what the record shows..???? oh i forgot i allready exposed the wt record!!!!!!!! go a head branca i only gave you a little here we can go over the whole thing john tel 19173710332 john George Crest: i really do agree with you. yes there WILL be one people that the world will see as having Gods favour and approval. but ask yourself a question, does this one people represent an organisation? how do you know that our test will not come from within, as was the situation just before Jerusalem's sacking by the romans? back then the jews had to decide between Gods arrangement on earth and what Christ said. will it be the same for us? will it boil down to whether Gods word is right or whether the FDS' word is right? think about where your ultimate loyalty lies, it could save your life. BROCHA: you previously quoted from 'reason from the scriptures', (1985) pp. 136-7 False Prophets  ----"Have not Jehovah's Witnesses made errors in their teachings? ---- ----"Jehovah's Witnesses do not claim to be inspired prophets. They have made mistakes. Like the apostles of Jesus Christ, they have at times had some wrong expectations.-Luke 19:11; Acts 1:6.---- please tell me who come up with these expectations and who forced everyone to believe them, by saying that they lacked faith if they didn't believe? * as John says, research is needed into the past to be able to understand what people like John are saying. Its all there in black and white Brocha, just check it out. i seem to remember 6-8 months ago the society asking for bros and sis to hand in their old books that were not being used, so that they could be used to help others. i always wondered why they would ask us to do that when they have many current more glossy books. now i know the answer. I was raised as a witness but by the age of twelve had figured out it wasn't for me, and by the age of fourteen was no longer attending meetings. My father (a good man) was an elder and resigned when he felt he had "failed as a parent". Partly to please my parents, my older brother foolishly got baptized at the age of fourteen (this shouldn't even be allowed - what child that age understands the responsibilities and in this religion the consequences of such a decision). After his disfellowshipment approx. 2 years later, my mother decided she no longer felt comfortable going "door to door". Yet she still claims adamant belief in the organization; although I feel it is more to apease my father and my grandmother. It's a strange situation to find yourself in.....all the cousins/aunts/uncles/aquaintances you have had in your life suddenly feel uncomfortable around you. If they are so sure of their beliefs, why would they be "afraid" of my choices rubbing off on them? I totally agree with the comments others have made on this board - they don't have the strength to question the "NY Jehovah" and find a strange comfort in just professing to believe everything is in God's hands. How sad, I can't help but feel God expects more out of us than that. Both my parents are EXTREMELY reluctant to discuss the abuse issues recently brought to the forefront, they are convinced these problems are very few and far between. After growing up hearing all other religions get bashed, particulary Catholics and Jews, the hypocrisy is disheartening. Let's face it folks, NO ORGANIZED RELIGION HAS AN "IN" WITH GOD, they are all manmade philosophical interpretations to fit some moral's preconceived ideas. About the only thing I know for sure (and I'm completely comfortable not knowing any more than this!) is we all were given a conscience, and it bears listening to. If there is any so-called "judgement day", ANY of those who hide behind God while doing evil will be in the express lane. In the meantime, I will live my life to the best of my ability, enjoy my beautiful children and long-time husband (most of the witnesses I grew up with are on their 2nd or 3rd marriages by the way - probably something to do with the sin of premarital sex), and wish all the people of the world who have been harmed instead of helped by their religious leaders peace of mind and hope for their futures.
I watched the Connie Chung newshow on CNN two nights ago. I was surprised that a JW would come forward about child molestation. The only thing I ever hear about is the occasional refusal to take blood transfusions. I have been disfellowshipped since 1970. I was 18 years old. When I was much younger a brother waited in hiding in the basement of our kingdom hall where the restrooms were. I went down to go to the restroom and saw him there. He asked if I wanted candy and I nodded my head but when he asked me to reach into his pants pocket to get the candy I ran back up stairs and told my mother. She made quite a scene about it and later I found out that this "brother" had tried to lure other children and was the father of one of his own daughter's child. He was disfellowshipped for getting his daughter pregnant. The adults whispered about it. Soon after he was disfellowshipped, however, he and his family moved away to the South Side of Chicago. This was in the early 60's. I am glad my mother had the courage to stick up for me. I felt really sorry for the girls on the Connie Chung show because I know what it feels like when you are disfellowshipped. I am not saying that I should not have been disfellowshipped. The fact is, in retrospect it was the best thing that ever happened to me. I no longer wanted to be a JW back then. It was only for my mother that I had stayed in the religion as long as I had. It was almost 15 years before my mother had a reasonable conversation with me, we never again had a real relationship of any kind. She died in 1997. JW's are good people, but just like people in the world there are some rotten apples. The cult-like atmosphere gives its members a myopic view of the world. I can see how this could be the perfect environment for human predators of all kinds. Hopefully, the elders will wake up to the problems within their midst and not cover-up like the Catholic Church. It will do them no good to cover-up. They should cast these criminals out. What child could produce 2 eyewitnesses to molestation--there are never witnesses to this type of crime, what an absurd rule. I hope the young ladies on the show are strong--because unless they can bring this man to justice before the congregation and the worldly law, these ladies will be left all alone except for the family members who have the courage not to desert them. I wish them strong hearts and courage. P. Davis Culver City, CA

This use to be a place where silentlambs would post their stories and we would listen and respond with warmth and understanding. occasionally a hostile jw would appear and we would respond to them efficently. I have noticed very little warmth extended to the ones who come for support lately- can we start to pay some attention to them please??? I am including myself in this, too. This isn't the place to "bring down the WTS" never ever has that been Bill's intention or the theme of the silentlambs. We undermine Bill's methodical attempt to bring attention to the inequity of WTS policy with an all out "mentality of war" on the WTS. I think it is wrong for JW's who think Bill is apostate to come here and deride him or us. I think it is wrong for us to tear apart any JW who is sympathetic and understanding to SL but has not left. I think it is wrong for a JW to come here and promote the WTS. It is envasive. We are letting JW's disrupt the safe place that was created for the silentlambs. The stories about how one has outsmarted a JW is exactly the same stories in reverse that I hated about the JWs! CNN was spectacular - hardly anyone mentioned it. Not good. Nit picking is nit picking on either side. There is alot of "male" energy going on - and they are dominating the site. I am going to stop coming here for awhile, read my bible and work on my relationship with God. The intention has to be to agree not win. The intention isn't to agree just so we can get along. The agreement has to come from knowing and wanting what is right, just and merciful in the eyes of God.* Bill took this to nationwide news & BBC, Bill provided a place for silentlambs to weep and get on with their lives. He walked out of a KH 1.5 years ago and has managed to accomplish something that none before him has done. He opened the floodgate for people who are hurt and have been harmed by the two witness policy and pedophilia. Bill didn't need to be "debriefed" from the "cult" - he stood up because he is a man who really really loves God. The Bible is powerful and God's Holy spirit is beyond human. I would like to see this become the quiet peaceful safe place it use to be - full of grief yes - but there was comfort here for those who grieve. And they do get on with their lives, in their own time as long as it takes them to do it. This pushing, for some results, quicker, faster is the same bs that the WTS does to jw studies/members. I see alot of the jw mentality coming thru from alot of people here - to hate the WTS, to be a quick study, bombard with lots of facts, overwhelm with information about the new truth about The Truth, - it is one thing to talk about your own process, it is another thing to demand someone else to process this the way you want them to or your way. It is very jw-ish - very watchtowery same tactics that WTS teaches. I respect Bill Bowen, the Anderson's and every single silentlamb who refuses to be silent about a crime.soapbox I need to chill out!

Brocha: You're right, the last time I was riding in a chariot I wasn't reading aloud from Isaiah. Anyway, the problem is not with the translation 'house to house.' It is a reasonable term. But the NWT also translates that exact same Greek term into 'in private homes' at Acts 2:46. (Nope, that isn't my research, I needed to look it up.) Either is an acceptable translation. The fact that Fred Franz saw fit to render it one way in one instance and another way later indicates a certain amount of flexibility in the translation to English. The problem is that the JW leadership has developed a further interpretation and wrapped it in a set of rules and procedures that goes beyond, and I feel against, biblical instruction. They take the term 'door to door' which can be substituted for 'in private homes', and define that term to say (1) you must collect in small groups (2) go to a certain geographical area (3) knock on each door (4) tell them this and offer that (5) every month to be a regular (6) report the time within a certain prescribed time frame OR Else we will (7) consider you inactive, (8) restrict you from participating at certain levels at worship functions (9) admonish (harrass) you constantly (10) and have your peers look down on you. This kind of rules-based pressure-driven approach is not the Christian mode. I don't think you can firmly state that early Christians worked in that mode at all. It isn't the spreading the good word that is wrong. It is the interpreted directive that is wrong. You, all other witnesses, and ex-witness reading this know that almost no-one enjoys going out in the service - admit or not. They do it out of a sense of compulsion - not love and devotion to Christ. - Buster

Brocha, Thank you for your apology on behalf of the elders. But really should one have to apologies for others in the organization? I've already spoke about the neglect of my brother in law back East, I see it time and time again in so many congregations. I know how I was treated was unfair but the lack of love shown to my husband was for my unforgiveable. Funny how he was never given any "responsibility" after we married but lo and behold should they need some work done on their house, car or job site. Well. let's call brother Madonia he can fix anything. When he gave his last talk in the school long time sisters CRIED the brothers looked like they had been struck by lightning. Because the congregation saw how honest hearted he was and THEY had to explain why this honest hardworking brother had no responsiblity. I never was sure what they said to keep EVERYONE away after his car wreck, but the anger will forever be there. I know that their are some like yourself that think only good things will happen to those that do the right thing. I have seen my husband trampled on in three halls,I have seen brothers that commit GROSS sins accepted where he wasn't that is forever an organizational problem and I choose to align myself no longer with those that abuse peoples hearts and spirits. Is that really God's will to have people jumping through hoops going to meetings and service when they need to be with their children playing and teaching them about the planet the God created? Children grow up so fast, I missed SO much time worrying about pleasing God when I should have been focused more on my husband and family. I was always called on the carpet for saying I believe that we are HERE for a purpose and maybe we put TOOOOOO much emphasis on the paradise earth. I will make one more point I live in a small ranch house and I after no longer attending meetings had time to make my family a HOME. I made a beautiful garden, STRANGERS stop and ask questions. My son calls it "drive by flowering" do you know NO ONE witness EVER said anything about the beauty, so in one of our last talks before I told them I never wanted to see them again. I told the brother and sister I was speaking to that I felt that if they woke up in paradise they WOULD HAVE NO IDEA, because they can't even notice the beauty of God's creation now. And again one of those is a child an sweet innocent Child.... Sheila Madonia

SEQ:  Rich talks a lot about "belifes" and "perceptions" but most here talk about actions. I hope soon the scales will drop off his, and others eyes. * sorry its taken so long to get back to you on that point. i've been really busy, like cutting my fingernails and wiping dust of my monitor etc, etc. i find your postings tedious to read. your narrow mindedness reminds me of a guy called david icke, in the way in which you go on about JWs all being the same and they're all programmed to believe what the FDS say. perhaps 90% of them are like that, but not all. there are some free thinkers in this "cult" who have more love for God's word than what the FDS say. you talk about actions, obviously i being here supporting Bill and the lambs isnt good enough for you. the fact that i've made it clear to elders in my cong that the society's policy on child protection arent good enough, means nothing to you. you imply that whatever current JWs say, if they're in favour of the silent lambs movement, means nothing until they disassociate or get DF'd. (is that not dissimilar, but in reverse of WT's 'apostate' policy?) if someone wants to talk to me about WT doctrine and dogma then i'll talk to them. you show classic signs of 'propaganda' yourself by classing us as all the same. there are honourable ways of doing things and dishonourable ways. i think we have to realise that this is an international website and people from all over the world are posting. people from different cultures would act differently given the same situations. as i said to John, making people leave wont solve the problem of the WT policies, because you wont get that many to leave, and there'll be more to replace them. you have your own agenda, which i cannot subscribe to, people are free to make there own choices as to whether they'll join a particular religion or not. if they dont inform themselves before they make a decision then thats up to them. informing people is one thing, but persuading them to do something is another. i'm not going to excuse the WT for its history and mistakes, they'll pay the required punishment for it. as someone said to you before, if you tell us where you stand, we'll understand you better. well you wont, so to be honest i couldn't give a stuff what you what your opinions are until such time as you do. i think it winds you up to think that Buster agrees with me on a lot of points i've told him. how heartbreaking it must be for you to know that there is a JW out there how can think for himself. as to your comment about 'scales' on my eyes, well it takes one to know one. My letter to the Editor of the NY Times: Dear Editor: Thank you so much for the article about the cover-up of sexual abuse amongst the Jehovah's Witnesses. It was much needed and appreciated, my husband and I had over 31 years collectively in the organization when their showing of a "lack of spiritual love" caused our disenchantment with the organization. We are thankful every day that we left before we realized what else they were covering up. I believe that their is more than just sexual abuse being hidden within the organization, physical and emotional abuse is rampant and I have witnessed these with my own eyes. They profess themselves to be a "clean" organization, but they have muddied themselves with lies and backstabbing. Please continue to pursue them as you would any religion that touts themselves above the rest. They are a multimillion (billion) dollar organization and I'm sure we have only touched the tip of this iceberg. The organization has so much control over the minds of their followers, it's fortunate they haven't had them mixing kool-aide as yet. Regards, Sheila and Chris Madonia Kansas City, Missouri Voluntarily left the organization of Witnesses 1998

Thank GOd for freedom in CHRIST JESUS. Brochs, you wanted to know what i meant by a personal relationship with Christ. Of course, you used sarcasm in asking but I will be mosy happy to explain to the best of my ability. When I was an unsaved religious sinner, like you are today, I thought that there were certain works that I could do thjat would gain God's mercy and His deivine favor. I thought that if I belonged to the "right" church, and said enough prayers, and studied enough Bible God would accept me. i thought if I was baptized, that would even help. (Wow, i guess I would have nade a good JW, huh?) Anyway, in High School, a young lady witnessed to me about the Lord Jesus Christ, and His great love for me. I had a decision to make. One night, in the privacy of my bedroom, while the rest of my family slept, the Holy Spirit began to do His convicting work on my heart. i fell on my knees, and began to cry out to God and confess my sins,and repent of them. Then i asked the Lord Jesus to SAVE me 9 He is the Saviour, after all, isn't He?) I asked Him to fill me with His Spirit (The Bible teaches that if we don't have the Spirit of Christ then we are none of His), and He did as He promised. he promised that if I came to Him, He would in no wise cast me out. He promised that if I would open the door, He would come in an fellowship with me, and He has honored His wourd. He is nothing like those old taskmasters in Brooklyn, who use threats and DFing to control their hapless subjects. No He is the GOOD Shepherd.I presented myself for baptism, in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, as an outward show of an inward change. As for "hearing voices", I don't. Sorry to disappoint you. But I do talk to my blessed Saviour, and I have the assurance that He hears me, and answers my pryers. I commune with the Father also, by the way. My Lord communicates with me PRIMARILY through His written word, but, as He pleases, he also leads me and guides me by the Holy Spirit, as He promised. As we sing in our services, "What a FELLOWSHIP, what a joy devine, leaning on the everlasting arms. What a blessedness, what a peace is mine, leaning on the everlasting arms." I have had the joy of knowing Christ for nearly thirty years, and though I have failed Him on many occasions, He has NEVER failed me! Oh that you, too, Brocha, could know the great, unspeakable joy of KNOWING Christ, not just knowing ABOUT Him. He is the JOY OF MAN'S DESIRING, as the songwriter says. His Holy Name is above ALL names, according to the Scriptures, and at His name all will bow one day, including you, Brocha. By the way, NO TRUE PROPHET EVR MAKES PROPHETIC ERRORS, unlike the Watchtower "prophet" class. Yes, the Watchtower has claimed that the witnesses are a "prophet" class, contrary to your lies. The Lord Jesus Christ wants to save you from your sins, Brocha. Will you let Him? You're either saved or lost, there is no gray area. Invite Him in TODAY! Oh, by the way, to George Crest, NO ONE is more argumentative than the JWs. But they are always welcome at my door. They are a PERSONAL mission field. And yes, I have managed to introduce a small handful to the Lord Jesus Christ over the years. Lawrence Someone wrote: Defender, I really expected more from you. Even with all that has been said about the beliefs and policies of the org., I still for some silly reason expected more. I guess it really doesn't matter to you who you disappoint, especially me, but you have really put a stumbling block in front of me, more of one than anyone or any information that I've read. You are the final and main JW spokesman that makes me see that my whole life of trusting an org. of respecting an org. has been in vain. You may not think much of that, but YOU will have to face the creator, So YOU remember what you've posted in here, hurry and come up with your excuses as to why you did it to, because one day YOU will have to answer for it! - - - - - Not exactly sure what you mean, expect more from who, me? Are you a witness? If you're an ex-witness, then you've way past the stumbling block part of your lack of faith. If you are a witness, and what I wrote about this site being a JW bash party, and Bill Bowen's track record, is bothering you, I have some advice for you: Don't let a "man" be the reason you either serve or don't serve God. You, and you alone, are responsible for your actions. Don't make me responsible for them. You already felt that your trust and respect in the "org." was in vain long before you came across my posts.

It is high time that this criminal cult was exposed as just that. My own children have been banned for some thirty years or more to have any contact with me because I was "disfellowshipped" years ago. Rightly or wrongly, any organization that exerts this kind of evil power over children should be declared illegal by act of parliament/congress.

- Satan appealed to the Ego of Eve - Eve was appealing to the Ego of Adam. Ego ===wants to be God. If I appeal to your ego to draw you away from someone else who is feeding your ego - I have accomplished nothing except to continue to make you a slave to your ego and a slave to me and my EGO. Adam and Eve were drawn out of the garden with "knowledge" of Good and Evil. --------------------------------------It takes no Bible knowledge to KNOW God=Abel and Noah. Anyone can walk with God, but few choose to do so. Sheila has her garden as a tribute to God - she walks with God in her garden. Those passing by either notice or they don't.

WTS is not the boogey man -cult and no one is a slave = our own egos that covet "knowledge" keep us from walking with God and give us the illusion that we are. Where do you go????? To your garden and walk with God there.

It takes no "knowledge" to know that pedophilia is a gross crime, to support or hide it in anyway, shape or form is a gross misrepresentation of God and His righteous standand. ----------------------Knowing God is not the same as having knowledge of him.

Hello everyone, I spoke to an elder this morning. The JWs called at my door, my wife answered, i heard who it was, grabbed my printouts of NewYork Times article, the official letter on witness.org, and Bills letter after hed been disassociated and run up the road after them! I caught up with a man that turned out to be an elder, and said what do you think of this. He started talking about the Panorama programme, i said hey, this is New York paper about dateline! Not Panorama. Anyway to cut a long story short, the witnesses here in Dorset, England seem to think that Bill Bowen was disassociated for a reason not told. Some secret thing that only elders know. They also say that the General public have been more receptive to Jehovahs witnesses since the Panorama programme, saying Panorama picked on them. I didnt understand how? They only believe a letter on the WT site which was answers to the Panorama programme. Not going further than the scriptures allow. Is it possible to have a relationship with God outside the organisation? NO definately not! In asking my questions, what is my agenda they say? Finding the truth, i replied. I mentioned the gem about the UN, whats an NGO they replied. The governing body and the provision provided by the faithful and discrete slave is all that matters! No wonder nothing gets sorted! bas www.antijehovahswitness.com

Hey Brochca and all other DISOBEIDENT JWs, let's try an experiment. Write a letter to the elders at your local church (Hall) and tell them that you have been looking at and participating in discussions on this site. Then let us know what happens. SCARED TO DO IT AREN'T YOU? Oh you talk a good game about freesom and love, but their "love" is extremely conditional, ISN'T IT? You may have fooled yourself, but you can't fool us, Brocha! Now sit down and write that letter, and also ask them about their claim to be a "prophet" as an organization. You read it. Just like I did. When they "turn you out" of the Hall, turn to the Lord Jesus. He's not like them. He promises He will NEVER cast you out. I think I like Him better than those hypocritical, repressed, controlling, un-Christ-like Governing Body members. Don't you? Well, today is Saturday. I should have a couple of UNINVITED visitors at my door within the next couple of hours. One I will educate. The other one will probably be tormented. In either case, if they would learn to stay off of other people's property UNINVITED, they would probably have a better day. It's fun being a Christian!

i was a witness for MANY years, was disfellowshipped in 1983 for coming forward concerning a sexual relationship that i had with an elder. in my meeting i was questioned extensively about sexual preferences, i felt as though i was being sexually abused by these five men. i feel for these young people, because i know first hand what coming forward means to them, they lose all connection and support from their family and friends. i sat during the connie chung interview and everything came back i will pray for you and contribute what i can financially. joy a. clague dclague@aristotle.net
Rich very good post to George. That right there will be one people choosen by God and they will be the ones who follow Jesus not some org. Each person only need let Jesus come into him through the Holy Spirit, and the Holy Spirit works only through inspired Word of God. Not some magazine. True followers will never die because they have eternal life in Christ. George get a new Bible not from the WT and apply the Gospel to yourself and not to the 144000. Try reading John 6.

P. Davis, Culver City - thank you for writing your story and acknowledging the two witness "problem" in pedophilia. You can view Panorama & Dateline shows on the homepage of Silentlambs...more stories, and one of them is horrible. You are a smart person for not getting involved deeply with the WTS.

Joy A. Clag (sp?) please e-mail Bill Bowen with your story. I know he would be very sympathetic to what those horrible elders did to you (voyuerism)and he needs to have as many stories of these events as possible. You are very kind to want to help. You know, I would expect maybe men in the world to be like these elders - but men of God???? yuck.

J. Michael - Brooklyn - has anyone replied to you???? Email address and phone number!!!! The one thing I found extremely interesting is the law is for the lawless - not the innocent. And you are on the money as far as taking a christian to court to "sue" him - crime is a crime is a crime and application of two witnesses is a crime also!!!!!!

Rich - I think you are right about hidden agendas...about 2 weeks ago, not sure but THE REPORT appeared and then alot of people came out of the wood-work. Everything I disliked about the JW's - ridiculing others, gossiping, pettiness, contempt, judging people without looking at the whole picture, and pat answers for everything, or worse a scripture "quote" for everything - nothing from the heart and I see the same exact thing going on here - and I support SL and I am called on the "carpet" for speaking out...I like your integrity. It gives me peace to know you are at a KH - I think it is better that you are there because of who you are - God is no dummy and you are there for a reason. My guess is Bill Bowen would be glad to know you are at the KH being you are the kind of person that you are. There are some very wonderful people I meet thru the years - that are JW's not many but a few who were spiritual, kind, intelligent and had integrity. I have also met some wonderful people outside too. Do you get harassed for having a skin head????? Do they let you go out in service???? Just curious.$$$ up in the truth or have been in the truth forever to see the light - it is so so so hard for me to understand this at times. You haven't been a witness all your life, so you have a resource available that a lot of JW's don't have.

One of the things that was subtle to me, and I accepted without question is this "limited" Holy Spirit - still have a hard time with it. It is a wrong teaching - but once I learn it that way it is hard to remember that Jesus died for me, too and The Holy Spirit is available to me too!!! I have a few stories I could tell about the Holy Spirit and alot of different views that were given to me. Witnesses are confused about the Jehovah's Holy Spirit and I got confused big. And yes there are demons and they do harass people.

I AM COPYING AND PASTING THIS EARLIER POST BELOW. WHY IS EVERYONE INSISTING ON IGNORING THESE PLEAS FROM THE VICTIMS? THOSE WHO WANT TO BASH JW'S OR HASH OUT DOCTRINE DIFFERENCES REALLY DO NOT BELONG HERE. YOU ARE MAKING THE VICTIMS SICK AND TIRED, NOT HELPING. Remote User: Date: 16 Aug 2002 Time: 18:55:13 Comments: This use to be a place where silentlambs would post their stories and we would listen and respond with warmth and understanding. *occasionally a hostile jw would appear and we would respond to them efficiently. I have noticed very little warmth extended to the ones who come for support lately- can we start to pay some attention to them please??? I am including myself in this, too. This isn't the place to "bring down the WTS" never ever has that been Bill's intention or the theme of the silentlambs. We undermine Bill's methodical attempt to bring attention to the inequity of WTS policy with an all out "mentality of war" on the WTS. I think it is wrong for JW's who think Bill is apostate to come here and deride him or us. I think it is wrong for us to tear apart any JW who is sympathetic and understanding to SL but has not left. I think it is wrong for a JW to come here and promote the WTS. It is envasive. We are letting JW's disrupt the safe place that was created for the silentlambs. The stories about how one has outsmarted a JW is exactly the same stories in reverse that I hated about the JWs! CNN was spectacular - hardly anyone mentioned it. Not good. Nit picking is nit picking on either side. There is alot of "male" energy going on - and they are dominating the site. I am going to stop coming here for awhile, read my bible and work on my relationship with God. The intention has to be to agree not win. The intention isn't to agree just so we can get along. The agreement has to come from knowing and wanting what is right, just and merciful in the eyes of God.  Bill took this to nationwide news & BBC, Bill provided a place for silentlambs to weep and get on with their lives. He walked out of a KH 1.5 years ago and has managed to accomplish something that none before him has done. He opened the floodgate for people who are hurt and have been harmed by the two witness policy and pedophila. Bill didn't need to be "debriefed" from the "cult" - he stood up because he is a man who really really loves God. The Bible is powerful and God's Holy spirit is beyond human. I would like to see this become the quiet peaceful safe place it use to be - full of grief yes - but there was comfort here for those who grieve. And they do get on with their lives, in their own time as long as it takes them to do it. This pushing, for some results, quicker, faster is the same bs that the WTS does to jw studies/members. I see alot of the jw mentality coming thru from alot of people here - to hate the WTS, to be a quick study, bombard with lots of facts, overwhelm with information about the new truth about The Truth, - it is one thing to talk about your own process, it is another thing to demand someone else to process this the way you want them to or your way. It is very jw-ish - very watchtowery same tactics that WTS teaches. I respect Bill Bowen, the Anderson's and every single silentlamb who refuses to be silent about a crime.soapbox*I need to chill out!

Soapbox: Thanks for the information on Franz whoooosh, it is interesting information. I agree the also about the doctrine, I guess I bash too in my own way. I just can't seem to get the anger out, as I said I still have nightmares about my inlaws LOL I always wondered the deal with apostates I remember one of my first conventions in Rhode Island I was having a great spiritual talk with someone in the lobby and my father in law who weighed well over 300 pounds cornered me in the elevator as I went to our room in the Biltmore (my husband, myself and two children got to sleep on the floor LOL) He was screaming about the "apostate" I was talking too hmmm She seemed fine to me. The same convention a elderly beautiful sister came off the elevator and her bra was exposed, she had NO idea her top had gotten caught in it and the entire right side of her was there for the world to see ALLL the witnesses watched her walking across this lobby headed for a convention FILLED with strangers and NO ONE was saying anything. I ran up to her, found she spoke a little English she was German and kinda whispered gestured to her SHE WAS mortified and thanking me. I have never forgot the lack of love that showed that they wouldn't tell someone. One afternoon I spent hours talking to a priest in the park I'm sure I would have been strangled by my in-laws for this, mu husband thought it was neat. We had the most beautiful talk, I can't remember what all we spoke of but sitting here oh 13 or 14 years latter I remember it with a sense of peace and love. I think what I'm trying to say is that we need to govern our life in two ways (This is how my husband has taught me to feel)and two ways only whether buddist or born again To love our neighbor as ourself* This means would we want to be embarrassed NO then we act and not let our brother be and Two to love God, this is where everyone has missed the boat I think. Would we want our child abused no then DON'T TOUCH ANOTHER CHILD, would we want someone in the congregation that hurt our child NO then don't include them. They should be disfellowshipped with extinquishing circumstances meaning THEY are monsters and therefore if they wish to worship they can get a phone hook up and listen from the house. Most I feel wouldn't bother because they can't sit and hold some unsuspecting publishers child on their creepy laps then... The organization teaches you to TRUST your brother, I know I always felt horrible if I didn't want certain ones holding my children. I was SOOOO sure they would tell me if someone was a perv. Now I know those men that seemed a little to thrilled with holding my children may have been sexual predetors and I want to hurl. I know there are those that just love kids, but if we were protected by the organization we now wouldn't have to wonder. Sheila

_For the victims_ The world is so much like a rose, varying layers. It takes time to see, what the true colors may be. Yes, there are thorns, some small and needle sharp. Seems those on the most beautiful, are like knives. Sometimes, while tending them, after being pricked again and again. I worry that the wounds will become infected, or that they may scar. I wonder why I bother. There are other things I could tend. But none as beautiful, none that smell so sweet. So, I put up with the needles, I live with the knives. Because I tend the roses, not the thorns. Sheila Madonia Roses are the world and it's wonders Thorns are the abusers and their enablers.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Watchtower society for all you have done for me. Thank you for splitting my family into pieces and then convincing others of the wisdom of ignoring a mother till she died on the operating table. Hi All I've been watching this site for quite a while now with great interest. I too, an a victim of going over the elders heads and going to the police with info on a child molester. I was told it would be handled from "within". I just couldn't take that after seeing the crime on a 7 yr old girl first hand. I want to thank Bill for all his work in bringing this subject to the public and authorities. Perhaps this will bring some kind of end to the Org. hiding these criminals. I have been df since 1974 so I have been living with this wrong for a long time. I still believe and worship in my own way. I'm sure Jehovah understands. If he doesn't, then the hell with religion. If anyone wants to talk, you can reach me at kdh3238@hotmail.com Thanks for reading....k

Has anyone seen the Serta Mattress commercial. The Sheep show up to be counted, but the new mattress owner doesn't need them anymore. One of sheep gets so angry he rips the Do Not Remove Tag Under Penalty of Law and they end up in jail. They feel threaten by their tough bully looking cell mate so when asked them what are they in for and one of the sheep says with a fierce face and tough voice "for tearing a man apart" LOL - funny! I can't help but think of the Silentlamb-in a good way. Got "caught" doing nothing wrong and then having to act tough to survive the bullies.

You can e-mail Bill Bowen with a more detailed story and that will help him in his endeavor to get results. You must have seen CNN - ??? Welcome to Silentlambs. Sheila: Thank you for all your thoughts! I have experienced and observed the lack of love sooooo many times too...just ordinary common consideration. Here I thought this was God's congregation of people, thought I was being too judgemental because I saw so much meaness, and lack of love & care. I thought I had to get tougher to handle being with these people - I just never could do it. Always thought it was me!Your father-in-law sounds mean, big and mean. Regarding the pedophiles - don't you think that if a pedophile was truly repentant he would offer to stay home and use the phone and would Not want to go out in service so as to not bring reproach on Jehovah's name???? Not one JW pedophile, or elder who cover this up has posted here to help mend some of this - Not One!*Thank you for hearing me about the mood of this place lately. We have had so many new people posting that have been hurt, or are supportive of SL- and they are being ignored. I have tried to welcome each one briefly- I haven't been leaving my name. I just know how important Silentlambs has been for me spiritually - I was so alone and SL saved my sanity this last year. All the different stories, and each one I can relate a similair story either observed or experienced. I have been angry too and I express it. The SL is for this anger. This is the safe place to let this anger out. There is a difference between expressing a justified anger out of our own experience and sharing that experience with others and between trying to convert JW's, or convincing them to leave the WTS.*The apology that your received from Rich the JW I believe was wonderful and from the heart. When anyone comes here they should be reading the hurtfulness of all of this not a bible battle marathon!!!! It is the heart, not the head that needs to be reached. Real lives, real people have been tragically harmed and this is the only place they can expressed it safely. Usually we discourage the mockers quickly - and they leave quickly. They are rude to come here and we usually are very firm with them, if not rude back. While doctrine is a huge part of this mess - fighting it with more doctrine doesn't work. Fighting doctrine with the reality of how it effects lives, and families, spirituality and meaningfulness of life our belief & Faith in God is powerful. Anyway Sheila - enjoy your wonderful garden. I call flowers the face of God - little faces of God. Love, Claudine aka soapbox

Hello from the UK. I am not disfellowshipped, having just drifted away after seeing so much hypocrisy after being a sister for 19 years up until 1990 or so. I admire what you have done. I think that The Watchtower and Bible Tract Society is as far removed from God as is possible to be. I want to help and have thought hard for many months as to help I feel I will need to disassociate myself - I wanted to do this anyway after reading Raymond Franz's book last year - I will loose some of my JW friends but it will be worth the price to offer support to those needing it. Any suggestions as to what I can do here in the UK will be welcome. I am able to listen, I also have admin skills and a fully-equipped office and some spare time as I work from home. I was abused physically by my mother (not a JW) and I ran away from home age 16. I was featured on Esther Ranzen "Childline" (the very first programme as Childline was being set up) and it took me years, until I was in my early 40's to realise I was a worthwhile human being. I am in touch with Bill and Julia occasionally. Heather Harrison.

IN NEUTRAL: thanks for your comment. with me, its just a case of being true to myself. if i cant be true to myself then i certainly cant be true to God. i understand what you say about Holy Spirit and other 'forces'. i've experienced and heard many accounts to give me some sort of understanding that probably few people here would believe or few JWs would want to acknowledge. i know of a family that are unbaptised publishers that are being attacked physically by demons. only two in the family arent being attacked or affected by them, funnily enough these two arent interested in being a JW. i'm not saying that this case suggests that it would only happen because this family were associates of JWs. someone said a few weeks ago that maybe there's bigger 'monsters' in the KH, but Jesus plainly said that if Satan was against himself, then how would satans kingdom stand? with risk of being called a superstitious nut again, i'll just say that people can read into that situation how they want, after all its only my word, but i know how i read into these things and if i'm comfortable with that, then that should be fine.  i think Bill would be glad to know that i'm at the KH being true to myself, as he was and is being true to himself. no, i dont get harassed for having a skin head, not one of my elders has said 'you cant have that hairstyle', and they've not said anything about it as regards field ministry. but i know in other congs i wouldnt get treated so well. unfortunately i havent met that many JWs, especially of my age who can actually deeply discuss scriptures, or can talk about that things that can deeply affect them without them 'switching off', changing the subject or giving a WT one-liner to try and end the discussion. that sort of thing makes me feel sad, because it just goes to show how spiritual they are. to me they're just living a lifestyle that they were brought up in and told to believe. their ways of defending that lifestyle comes from the WT. if anything thats said makes it hard for them to tow the 'party line', then they just switch off. thats as deep as it goes for them. if thats how they want be, then thats it. if they cant think for themselves and research what this world is really about, then thats their problem.  the most important thing i've ever done of the past 2 years is read the New Testament, i try to read it as often as i can. its gave me a lot of freedom to think and express myself, and to really discern whats right and whats wrong. BUT i'll just give you an example of what the WTS say as regards studying the bible. this was printed in this months KM 'for Britain'(i've always notice how they always deliberately omit the full title Great Britain) SET SPIRITUAL GOALS --- Bible Study: do you prepare for each congregation meeting? if so, do you allow time for research and meditation when you study? for example, when preparing for the weekly watchtower study and congregation book study, do you just underline the answers or do you look up cited scriptures and also ponder the reasons for explanations given? could you make it you goal to do research on a few points each week from assigned bible reading for the theocratic ministry school? such spiritual digging takes time and effort, but it yields rich rewards.  nothing was mentioned there about personal bible study, reading scriptures in context and reading the bible regularly. also in the rest of the article, nowhere does it mention anything about personal prayer, the most important spiritual thing you can do. that sort of thing annoys me, the article was more interested what people can do to support the arrangements in place and a showy display of a 'spiritualness' than what it really means to be spiritual and how that can be worked on. Rich can anyone help me with regard to any WTS connections with freemasonry. i noticed in their reorganisation, one of the new parts was called 'the religious order of jehovahs witnesses', a very masonic title if ever i heard one. i've read all about Russel, but i want something current. Rich

Good morning everyone, this is Linda Thoman. Although I realize this site is mainly for child molestations/rapes within the Org, please allow me to venture off the subject a bit. My heart is broken, my soul is torn to shreds, and I feel on the verge of a very long cry. Please bear with me here as I explain. I was raised in the Org from birth; my entire family (except for one brother) are still JW's and have no contact with me since '95 when I left and was df'd. For the first couple of years I didn't want to hear anything religious or spiritual in nature, it made me feel physically sick to my stomach. But, for the last year or so, I've visited numerous churches, listened to sermons of various beliefs, and even for a time became a member of a non-denominational church and was in the choir, until I moved away from that area.
For the last month or so I've been doing alot of research into the beliefs I was raised with, doing as was always said over the platform....Make sure that what you believe is true and from God, and not to blindly accept what you're told to be the truth, etc. Well, my research has been.....literally speaking......devastating to me. I feel as though I've been brainwashed all my life. I'm now 42, and I want to know what is truth and what isn't. My research has brought me to discover that the New World Translation Writing Committee ALTERED many verses in the Bible to make it appear as if there is no "trinity". That for me was extremely devastating, it tore me into pieces. I've always felt that there are "basic truths" which are the foundation of other beliefs, beliefs built upon like a pyramid. My entire foundation has been crushed and broken. I can't even begin to express here with words what happened to me mentally and emotionally these last couple of weeks making this discovery. My hands are shaking now just trying to get these thoughts typed out. I've been lied to all my life about God. About Jesus. Perhaps about everything I've ever believed in my life. I don't know where to turn, I'm at a complete and total loss. With so many various churches, beliefs etc.....Where do I find the real, honest to goodness, TRUTH? So many emotions are running through me. I've lost my entire family over lies. I've lost my mother, my father, my brothers, my cousins, aunt and uncles, and all my previous friends over lies. I'm not physically dead, but they think of me as dead. Damn.....I'm crying. Shit!!!!!!!!! My parents have gotten old, they're in their 70's now. My father has always been the P.O. ever since I was a little girl. Hopes that he and the rest of my family will somehow come out of this disgrace of a religion and see the light, I don't believe it will ever happen. My parents will die of old age, and I'll be fortunate to be allowed at their funeral. Damn, this is sooooo hard!!!!!!! Here I'm planning my wedding for next May to a wonderful, loving man, and I can't even share this with my family. You current JW's, don't even attempt to say a word to me. You are all blinded by lies, and you just don't even know it. To the rest of you..........someone please........write to me at Linthoman@hotmail.com I feel so broken. I know God is there, I believe in Him. I want to know where the truth really is. Is there a church that teaches the real truth, honest truth, nothing but the truth?????? Do all churches teach just some truths and some lies too? I prayed Friday night for the first time in so many years. Is there REALLY Heavenly hope when the time comes when I die? Is there REALLY something about "Being Saved"? Please don't tell me to visit the discussion groups either, like jw.com etc. I've already done that, and posted my comments and questions, and all I got was people being sarcastic, and telling me to just relax and stop searching for the truth. I WANT TO KNOW!!!!!!!!!!! I'm sorry this is not on the site's main topic, but I know some of you are honest and sincere people, and many of you have read my history posted on June 7th and my story of abuse, and I know some of you will write to me. In advance, thank you. To you current JW's.....do what the Org tells you over the platform....Make SURE that EVERYTHING you believe is the truth about God, not what you are told over the platform, in some magazines, etc. Use the brain God gave you, and use

Not too many things leave me sick with outrage, but this did the trick. I am truly appalled that such a sick, twisted organization can be allowed to exist. I honestly cannot believe that there are certain people out there who would willingly aid and abet sexual abuse of children and LIE about it. I can't help but think that these are the same sorts of people who helped run Stalin's Soviet Union. If there's anything I can do to help, feel free to contact me at libertas@goldmail.ru

I was a witness for 14 years and disassociated in 1984. My daughter, 8 years old at the time, was molested by a member of the congregation. Her Mother and I sought some recourse but were rebuffed. I have since divorced and remarried. My daughter is still a Witness and now has (4) children of her own. She talks often about how the molestation affected her and her life. I know this problem is great, but the Watchtower leadership refuses to deal with it. The scriptures say that "Pride precedes a crash." I think that one is coming soon for this organization. Thanks for your efforts to bring this matter to attention. John Martens e-mail: qball_xx00@yahoo.com

I responded to Linda's cry for help - here is a little bit of what I said: The MAIN TOPIC is exactly what Linda is going thru right now!!! The injustice, lies, manipulation, the shunning and dfing for speaking out and how it effects real lives and real people.my "advice" for what it is worth is: leave your core beliefs alone for now, you need them to process your experiences. Find the essence of your core beliefs that comfort you and trust that they are not a lie and if they are God will reveal it to you only when you are ready. God is never going to leave you without comfort.*For Linda who grew up in the "truth" has no other way to process. We cannot rip away core beliefs, if there were no other "core beliefs" before. This is the difference between someone who became a JW as an adult and one who grew up in it It is abusive to even try and rip open a persons core beliefs.I realize this moment that this is what the mole is dealing with too. *Cult book readers - you know that one of the tools of helping someone come out of a cult is to get people to go back in thought and memory to who they were BEFORE THE CULTthese poor people, the ones who grew up in the truth, don't have that luxury. Their whole core belief system is in the WTS. Core beliefs keep us sane!!!!! Even if they are a LIES>they keep us sane. Love Claudine aka soapbox

here are in inner-conflict with their core beliefs and the realization that the WTS is absolutely dead wrong to "say" they require two witnesses to pedophilia and they don't even do something when there is!!! Inner conflict is good - shaking up our own core beliefs because we see a crime is being committed is growth. Never ever do I condone protecting core beliefs that harm other people, not in myself or others. * This was addressed to the ones who know right from wrong and are here because of it therefore, their whole spiritual belief system is shaken to the core. There is never ever an excuse to harm a child - or cover it up. I don't care what someone "believes" - that is where I draw the line. The folks that don't know right from wrong - I can't deal with don't want them here. This pedophilia in the congregations is a wake up call for all those who are striving for true spirituality and it will shake up core beliefs - it has to, no other way out. But This has to be a safe place to come with this inner-conflict. All this media coverage is shaking up alot of peoples core belief system - this is good. But they need support and help in the process. It was core beliefs that kept so many ones victims, but until Bill Bowen spoke out they thought they were alone in their perceptions of reality - should they stop calling God Jehovah, that is up to them. If God's name is important to them honor it. God's name isn't the issue - it becomes the issue because these poor folks have been lied to about everything so that even truth is a suspected lie. When one has been lied to constantly by those we trusted, we don't trust ourselves to even know truth. Right from wrong is obvious - but God's name or Jesus is God is not a moral issue. I was married to a liar and it become so painful because even when he told me the truth I thought he was lying - it was big time crazy-making. Pedophilia is a crime - one of the sickest there is and the WTS is lacking in spiritual leadership completely and to use it as a "spiritual test" of faith is about as sick as it gets and a lie of deception, a manipulation and a big con. There is only hope for those who have an inner-conflict, a spiritual crisis and they need a safe place to land and process thru. They don't need to be beaten up anymore. * When a core belief system cannot recognize or distinguish right from wrong it is not sanity that is being preserved but the status quo so insanity rules. The core belief of Top Dog is not a spiritual core belief - but an ego exerting power and control and believing they have the right to control you. *soapbox**

All I have to say is, I know personally that what the society wrote regarding "wrongdoing" and how the body of elders handles it is a God Damn Fucking Lie. My father, who was an ELDER, was ACCUSED by an outsider (a worldly person) of smoking one cigarette in front of him during the transaction of business in his home. (My father owned a construction company). The "body of elders" wrote to the society- and while I was young at the time, I DO remember them putting him on "ice." He could not give talks nor was he allowed to speak from the platform. It was horrible and did much to destruct our family infracture and faith in the Jehovah's Witnesses. Quiet is kept, it turned out, finally, after what seemed like an excrutiating year, that my father was exonerated of the charges. We moved far away from that congregation, Jehovah's Witnesses and the whole bullshit, within a few short years, thereafter. NEVER to return. Not one of us. The accusation and actions of the society showed my father finally, that these "people" did not have the, "truth". No way in hell is it the "truth". Truth doesn't make you feel bad toward others nor treat them like vermin. The actions of the elders killed my father, who was a very strong Jehovah's Witness. I only wish I could SUE to get back the thousands of dollars a year my father donated to that contemptuous organization. I know JW's today would call this a, "test" of one's faith. Just like 1975 was a, "purging" of the organization. So many lies, so many years, so many lives wasted and destroyed in this horrendous abomination of religion and worship called, "Jehovah's" Witnesses. An organization started by a old crazy white man who said the "truth" was not "for" the black man. The society's twisted, distorted staunch view and interpretation of the scriptures and of God is wrong. Jehovah is not some sadistic, blood-thirsty son-of-a bitch as the society paints Him. All I can say is, I know the "society" will be exposed for what they are, simply because there IS a God. I'd rather just put the whole ugly brainwashing experience of JWism behind me and live my life of freedom. Freedom from the chains of small-minded men, whose rigid outlook on the scriptures and intense pronouncements of condemnations kills. The society KILLS. It kills, murders, rapes, fornicates, lies... everything it accuses other religions of? They are 10 times more guilty of. And money loving? You show me one Witness who doesn't love money. I haven't met ONE. Sincerely, Eve Faith Radcliff Formerly of Elyria East Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses

Eve Faith Radclif: Your words are a reality check that the JW's should read when they come here. I know I am so ashamed of ever being associated with them myself and saw that many would stoop to such pettiness to harm people. I am so sorry too for your pain and what this did to your family. This is the place to let it out - anytime you want! You are very articulate in expressing your justified rage.Claudine

Becky - just keep coming back here. Read Ray Franz's books. You can call 800-why-1914 - excellent people. Call Bill's hotline if you need personal help - he is there. Go back and read all the months of posts. Someone here will always reach out to you here if your are confused, depressed, rageful - it takes a few months for it all to come together. Silentlambs was a lifesaver for me. I was scared that Jehovah hated me - because I couldn't go along with the program of lies.Claudine

John Martens - so sorry that you know first hand how destructive the WTS can be if your child is touched. Please write your story in Abused Lambs - this helps All the Silentlambs. Has your daughter seen CNN or Dateline?? Does she talk with you about it at all? The Lambs need to learn to growl....and bare their teeth.Claudine

John Marten: Whoops missed the part that your daughter does talk about it!!!!!!!!!!!! Copy some of the letters for her to read from Abused Lambs or some of the posts if she won't come here herself. There are alot of letters that will reflect the same experience she had. It is sooooooo good that she talks about it to you.claudine

The problem of abuse is something that goes way back for the WT society. I was disfellowshipped in 1991 for exposing the actions of an elder that allowed a particular deviate "brother" make it though the JW ranks to eventually become an elder. This deviate "bother" tried to have "loose conduct" with my wife. Even though the affair was handled in house by this one elder, years later questions started to fly as to how this deviate brother could have become an elder, and did other elders know this mans past. Apparently not. For taking on this mishandling of events I was eventually disfellowshipped in a similar fashion like Bill Bowen. I have later found out that this "brother" had done some sexual things with his own step children. He still remains a faithful JW even though not an elder at this time. The same pattern of keeping things "in house" as they say, existed then and now but maybe less thanks to the efforts of Bill Bowen to expose this mishandling of sexual abuse cases by inept JW elders and a corrupt organizational structure. For those interested in seeing how behind closed doors judicial meetings are held, I would suggest what happened to my brother back in 1996. I secretly recorded his judicial meeting. Upon reading the transcript or listening to the meeting you will see how the elders back then heard ample information on this sexual deviate brother but failed to go to the authorities or deal with the situation in a more serious manner than they did. Even though my brother's judicial meeting had other issues the issue of sexual deviation of another "brother" in the congregation came up and was discussed. Unfortunately it was put on the back burner, after all the WT is more concerned with apostasy than they are any sexual sins. Transcript of Jim Rizoli's judicial meeting http://www.jesus-witnesses.com/jimriz.htm Audio version here http://jwinfoline.com/Page/audio.htm Thank God that Bill Bowen and others have risked everything to expose this organization. May he and those silentlamsbs continue to do what they do knowing full well that others know what they are going through. I feel afraid and alone, I talked to the Elders about my child abuse issues, now I find myself shunned and alone from my wife, son parents and brother and sister, it all started after I wrote a letter to the elders in my hall telling them of the abuse I suffered as a child, after that my world fell apart, Why am I being punished for speaking the truth.? natespool@wmconnect.com

Natespool: Wow, there was a lot in those two or three sentences. I think you'll get a pretty good outpouring of supporting sentiment here. Its one thing when it is between adults that should know better. But the children ... if I felt that my relationship with my young son was in jeopardy, I have no idea what I would do. At the risk of speaking presumptuously, I would guess that you brought something to the elders and they could/would do nothing - too long ago, or you couldn't produce a witness. Did you not let it just go at that? Were you so sure that in a Christian congregation the committed and loving leadership would be there to help? So you're on the outside looking in. Right now I wish I could offer some advice. Some of the others here will have some nice things to say. Perhaps some will have concrete and useful ideas. Someone may ask for some details that you can share without compromising your situation. So the only advice I would pass along is check in here a few more times. Post an update, I hope it will be good news. - Buster

LOOKING FOR A STUFFED TOY LAMB TO BUY to either take WITH YOU or to send in your place (if you cannot go) to the SILENT LAMBS MARCH on 9/27/02???? ----- If so, here are some links to places I found on the net that sell stuffed toy lambs and sheep. I HAVE NO FINANCIAL CONNECTION OR INTEREST IN ANY OF THESE MERCHANTS. And, rather than post the info here due to the Guestbook having no formatting, it will be easier to read if you merely click on this, as I posted it here, too: Topic, "Stuffed Toy Lambs-Where To Buy": <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=34918&site=3> ----- How's everyone doing? VERY INTERESTING??????????????????????????ANY COMMENTS ANYONE??????????CAN'T WAIT TO HEAR THEM????????LET ME GUESS, ITS NOT TRUE, WELL I AM SURE YOU WILL COME UP WITH SOME TYPE OF EXCUSE.........I'LL BE BACK WITH ADDITIONAL QUESTIONS AND INFORMATION SHORTLY ............. I HAVE BEEN AWAY FOR AWHILE , RESEARCHING SOME THINGS..............I'LL POST MY QUESTIONS AND COMMENTS SHORTLY.................. "Plot Thickens: SilentLambs Now Has Silent Partner Approximately one month ago, it was discovered that William Bowen, president and founder of child advocacy group SilentLambs Inc., had entered into a partnership with a German citizen, who agreed to host and translate the group's website into the German language. German supporters of SilentLambs were shocked at this news, since Bowen's German partner is a former Jehovah's Witness who is known to own pornographic websites, in addition to websites that publish anti-Watchtower material of questionable accuracy. Conscientious supporters of SilentLambs were disillusioned by Bowen's weak response when this fact became public knowledge. Bowen's response did not seem to indicate surprise with his partner's business activities, nor did he seem overly concerned with having his child advocacy group linked with a known pornographer. Bowen initially indicated that he planned to proceed with the partnership. However, Bowen now says that the German version of the SilentLambs website will not be hosted by the same ISP that hosts the two pornographic websites referenced above. It seems that Bowen hopes that it will be assumed from this switch in ISPs that he is no longer partners with the pornographer. However, SilentLambs supporters strongly suspected that the move to a different ISP is nothing more than misdirection intended to deceive supporters, with the German pornographer continuing to provide financing, and working behind the scenes as a silent partner."

Just a little "filked" ditty that has been running through my mind the past few days. Thought it might amuse you: On the subject of The Governing Body's "handling" of the child abuse scandals. (to the tune of "Then They Will Know")

Silent Partner Reporter: Looks like you are quoting some source, but don't cite it. (Not an unusual WT practice) I would rather not be associated with a pornographer. I doubt Bill would enter into such an agreement knowingly. The risk to credibility would be too great to justify a German translation. But I'll make a point again: You attack the messenger to discredit the message. Now I ask you, do you have reason to disbelieve the reports in this web site? If so lets discuss them. If you believe them, then lets discuss the reports' impact on you and your impression of the Society and its policies. - Buster

This PORN SITE smear tactic has been used off and on by JW defenders. I assume they must be pretty desperate to use such underhanded schemes. Don't encourage the spreading of this lie. From an earlier JW Forum thread: Hi Doug: . . I see you were spamming Canadian news reporters with a false story about Bill Bowen being linked to a German porn dealer. You told the reporter that friends of Silent Lambs are becoming disillusioned with Silent Lambs because of this supposed affiliation. My understanding is that the Silent Lambs are in no way connected with any porn dealer what so ever and are on a completely different ISP. I have asked my newspaper friends to investigate the story thoroughly to show them what kind of smear tactics that are used by people like you. http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/thread.asp?id=34491&site=3

Let me guess, you are DougC, and this is the actual spam you used to send to the press? Thought you would try it here today? I heard this rumor: A large religious organization headquartered in Brooklyn NY sells info to porn dealers. It seems the reason they have their older men interrogate victims of sex abuse and people who have committed fornication is to get all the juicy details. The elders keep notes and then sell the info to porn dealers. Heard that rumor? Want to comment on it? Sorry I read it on the Internet but don't have all the particulars. Your rumor is slander.

I do not believe that Mr. Bowen would associate with a known pornographer but I just received an answer from the WT Society. In my letter to them I told them they destroyed my family and asked them to release my family from the Cult trap and compensate us for the damages. They said that if I am not aware than I should know that they don’t communicate with the DFD persons. The letter came stamped "Watchtower Bible and Tract society". No personal signature of anybody. Now isn't that Satanic?rmk

i think what is going on with these two girls who have been abused is absolutely appalling. the jw church is covering up what the rapist did, and threatening the 2 innocent girls. i cannot believe that any parent would continue to go to a church that would allow this to happen to their daughters. and how can they also cover up his crime, and say they will not speak to their daughters if they go to the police. thank god for william bowen he is the only help these two girls have. i think god sent them an angel, and it is william bowen. more power to him. and if i can help him in anyway i will. anytime, anyway these girls should be taken away from their parents. this is child abuse if i ever saw it. joanspell@msn.com

Well, you got my attention and my vote too. This is what I wrote: Bill Bowen is an ANGEL!!! He is the one who started the Silentlambs.org site. He has opened the eyes of THOUSANDS of Jehovah's Witness who thought they were alone in an everyday nightmare. Sexually abused survivors now have a place to go to and find healing, and he has stood up against the Jehovah's Witnesses Headquarters demanding a change in their policy. I never knew the problem was worldwide. I thought it was only my congregation, and so did every other sexual abuse victim. Because of Bill Bowen, we know we are not alone and been able to come together and not be silent anymore, now we have the courage to fight back!!!!!!!!!!!!!!! I think Bill deserves this award cause it will be used to help more victims and keep silentlambs available to so many more who need it. Thank you Jesika Thoman I took a couple sentences off cause I needed to. But that is the basic idea of what i wrote. I am going to see if this is posted on silentlambs, if not I will pass on the idea. GREAT IDEA!!!!!!!!!!!!!! HI everyone long time no see. I just wanted to check in and let you know that I have not forgotten about any of you, I have been taken up alot of time helping with abuse victims here. (as I told you before I am involved in a case locally, not a JW, and that is taking my attention right now) But I did go to the oprah site that someone posted and nominated Bill. Here is the note I attached. To Oprah I would like to nominate Bill Bowen, of www.silentlambs.org, for his ongoing crusade against the child molestations within the Jehovah's Witness organization. His selfless dedication has gotten him into some pretty hot water, including being excommunicated from this organization. His self sacrifice exceeds all that I have seen in my lifetime. Keeping you all in my prayers, thank you Silent Lambs, for everything you continue to do and have done in the past. Thank you Bill and Shelia. Thank you to all the "brothers and sisters" that are coming forward and letting the truth be known. Take care,Kathy bajem23@earthlink.net

I hopt that this is okay!!//I would like to nominate Bill Bowen for the life award. Mr. Bowen was confronted with the worse possible crime, child abuse. As an elder of the Jehovah Witnesses he did as required of the church and called the legal Department. The phone call devastated him, he was told that if there were not two witnesses to the abuse and the alleged abuser did not admit to the abuse then he (Mr. Bowen) was to 'walk away', 'leave it alone' 'let Jehovah take care of it in HIS time'. This legal advice was not acceptable to Mr. Bowen as there was a child and possibility of other children involved. Mr. Bowen stepped down as an Elder, started a website www.silentlambs.org in order to have a place that victims of child abuse within the Jehovah's Witness religion might go for support and assistance. Mr. Bowen has gotten the issue of pedophilia within the Witness organization out into the open, in the media in order to try and get the policies changed. For all of his heartfelt efforts he was disfellowshipped, (kicked out of the organization), in order to force him to conform to the policies. Now 6 million Jehovah Witnesses are to consider him 'dead', they are not to speak to him, even his family are to consider him dead! Instead of conforming Mr. Bowen is continuing in the 'lamb' crusade in order to help those who are now to consider him dead! Mr. Bowen along with the battered and abused 'lamb' survivors is going to have a peaceful march against the Witness organization in New York on September 27, 2002. Mr. Bowen has shown great compassion for his brothers and sisters to the point of giving up his position within an organization who is using GODS name to aid and hide pedophiles. Mr. Bowen deserves this award as no other does! Please consider him for this award and in doing so assist him in standing up against child abusers! Thank you for your consideration, bonnielyn nmk: I don't think they ever sign their letters with a personal name. It may be personal, however, I don't think so. It's that they don't sign with a name. Have your lawyer write a letter to them. I'm sure they'll answer her/him -- but I'm not sure they'll sign with a name.

Bill being DF'd proved the hypocrisy of the two witnesses - two so called witnesses to pedophilia, none for Bill - no one came forward saying Bill was causing divisions - unless I missed something. The WTS added to their own lack of creditability by dfing Bill without any witness. There are other stories of the same. The beauty of this is Bill is publically documenting this and showing those who will watch that a pedophile has more chance of remaining in good standing than one who speaks out against the very policy that keeps the pedophile's life unchanged and in good standing. Bill's dfing proved without a doubt that the two witness policy is arbitrary (sp)? they use it when they want only! &&&&&&&&&&&&&&&No I think Bill was pleased about getting Df'd without two witnesses - am I wrong or did I miss something???? This puts much more weight on the claim the the two witness policy is the sham that it is. It was brilliant! Claudine

You're adamant. That in itself doesn't mean you're accurate. Why do you think what you are saying is true John? Why does everyone have to listen to you but we're not supposed to reason on what anyone else has to say?

One thing is for sure, this sight has struck a nerve not only to abuse victims but to those who are negligent in there duties to protect them, However I do not blame the elders, I Blame the WBTS for empowering simple men with no formal education (like myself & all those raised as a JW) to Govern in such an important place in society, an to be given absolute power in peoples lives, To the victims and future victims it is simply about boundries, if you let someone in your life and they harm you, then it falls on you for giving them the power in the first place. I say that if the country or state you live in allows punishment for this behavior than use it, don't be ignorant and brainwashed, do what is right in God's eyes. recoveringlamb@wmconnect.com P.S. Hello everyone, this is Linda Thoman again. I want to thank each and every one of you who have written to me since my recent post. I have received many emails, from many different people, and I really appreciate all of them. This has been a real tough time for me as you all know. I'm feeling better, the devastation I described has worn away. I've been encouraged by your comments, encouragement and support. Bill Bowen has also written to me, with a "homework assignment" which he feels will help me alot. I now understand that there is no earthly "true religion", no building/church where only truth is taught. They are all right in some areas, and wrong in others. All I can do, all any of us can do, is read the Bible and search for answers with God's help. I feel compelled, as though I'm being literally pulled by the hand, to continue my research and find whatever answers are available to find. Whatever subjects of doctrine that I cannot prove to myself through my research, or help from others (you?), I will let rest until God chooses to enlighten me. Something that seems very strange happened to me over the weekend, while I was in the midst of my emotional turmoil. I was talking on the phone with my very good friend (who is also to be my Maid Of Honor) about my research and the evidence I found about the NWT being altered etc. No one else was in the room, no one could possibly have heard me talking. Yet, when I got off the phone and went into the livingroom, there was a knock on the door. It was my fiance's father's girlfriend. She walked in the door, immediately came over to me and put a book under my nose for me to take. My stomach did summersaults when I saw the title. It was entitled, When God Speaks To You. I literally shook all over, and felt dizzy. It was a real, literal experience, and I can't get over how eery that seemed. There was no way that she could have heard me talking, she had just arrived! I still sit and shake my head at that, wondering......I took the book, but haven't looked at it yet, I'm not ready. Where this research will lead me, I can't answer. Whether it will lead me to a church of some kind, of some denomination or a non-denominational one, I just don't know. I feel good listening to contemporary christian radio stations when I'm in my car. I've only recently been doing that, and some of the songs really hit me hard in the stomach. I also have several cd's of Cece &
Bebe Winan that I really love to listen to. This may sound odd to some or most of you but, I feel like someone.........is trying to tell me something, but my head is so full of mucky-muck right now, I can’t seem to hear clearly. After receiving so many emails from all of you, I suddenly felt as though a door was beginning to crack open. The door was only open slightly, but I could see there was a very bright light beaming through the crack. I feel like I’m on the verge of something scary, wonderful, liberating, and completely awesome. Yet, I’m very afraid too. I’m trying very hard to focus on my wedding plans, rather than dwelling on my pain. I’ve also been playing alot on Ebay, finding wonderful stuff for our wedding. That is a great distraction, lemme tell ya! LOL I’m trying to keep my wits about me, and not feel like I’m drowning. Thank you everyone for all your encouragement and emails. I hope to keep in touch with many of you. Linda Thoman Linthoman@hotmail.com and Linthoman0705@aol.com

IF SILENT LAMBS IS AGAINST CHILD MOLESTATION AND CHILD ABUSE, HOW CAN YOU SUPPORT AND ASSOCIATE WITH SOMEONE THAT RUNS PORNOGRAPHICewebsites????????????????????????????????????????????????????SOUNDS LIKE A SCANDAL TO ME........I WONDER HOW YOU WILL COVER THIS ONE UP............................................JUST ONE WORD TO DESCRIBE THIS...HYPOCRITES.................................

"Plot Thickens: SilentLambs Now Has Silent Partner Approximately one month ago, it was discovered that William Bowen, president and founder of child advocacy group SilentLambs Inc., had entered into a partnership with a German citizen, who agreed to host and translate the group's website into the German language. German supporters of SilentLambs were shocked at this news, since Bowen's German partner is a former Jehovah's Witness who is known to own pornographic websites, in addition to websites that publish anti-Watchtower material of questionable accuracy. Conscientious supporters of SilentLambs were disillusioned by Bowen's weak response when this fact became public knowledge. Bowen's response did not seem to indicate surprise with his partner's business activities, nor did he seem overly concerned with having his child advocacy group linked with a known pornographer. Bowen initially indicated that he planned to proceed with the partnership. However, Bowen now says that the German version of the SilentLambs website will not be hosted by the same ISP that hosts the two pornographic websites referenced above. It seems that Bowen hopes that it will be assumed from this switch in ISPs that he is no longer partners with the pornographer. However, SilentLambs supporters strongly suspected that the move to a different ISP is nothing more than misdirection intended to deceive supporters, with the German pornographer continuing to provide financing, and working behind the scenes as a silent partner."

This is for all the JW’S entering this sight. I would like you to know that as a third generation witness (inactive perhaps) but none the less gives me the right to say this... your comments are as a small chid being threatend with the removal of there toys and taken out of the sand box and sent to your rooms,It shows your complete lack of dignity and humility wich will surely be the downfall of us all, please don't play these child like games when the nature of this subject is so sensitive in nature, in may fly in the Kingdom Hall but you are in the real world now, Please don't take away what little dignity we have on the subject of abuse by kindly keeping your mouth shut. ( if you don't have anything nice to say don't say anything at all.) I tried to put it in terms we can all understand.

ATTENTIONI NEED YOUR HELP!!!!!!!!!!!Ok, I usually don't write very long posts but I need to say something I feel is important. I just got back from seeing my lawyer today and was inspired and at the same time disgusted. In the state of TX the stat. of limitations is 2yrs after you turn 18 to report sexual abuse. I think this is insane!!!!!!!!!!! What about the people with supressed memories or the ones who are still in the borg that are afraid and don't have the courage to come forward untill many yrs later? What I want to do is maybe find sexual abuse survivors/victims in Tx and maybe start up a support group solely for abuse. I have been out 11yrs and have no interest in discussing doctrine or whether or not I should celebrate Christmas. There is nothing wrong with that, don't get me wrong, but abuse is a whole other ballpark. I also what to see if I can get enough people in Tx to at least write a letter that I can present to possibly change the limitations. California has extended it 10yrs and Minnesota is pushing to erase limitations on sexual abuse completely. How do I find these people, some if not most are still on the "inside" and are told not to read apostate material or look places like this one. I need you guys help for ideas on how to get this out or if you know someone to please put them in contact with me to talk. I want to change this soooooooooooooooo bad for those who will come after me and hope that I can at least give them more time to do something about it. If I can get enough people in Tx to come forward on the basis that it isn't enough time because of reasons of mind control or memory repression than I think I will at least be heard. What is your input?????? Do you know anyone in Tx or how I can get JW's to possibly see there is another way and it can make a difference?? I thought about maybe putting it on a billboard by the highway or on the side of a bus, so that way they can't ignore it and maybe there are victims who just don't know who to talk to see the ph# and just might call!!!!!!!!!!!! Input needed--- --------thanx Love Jesika Thoman Dallas,Tx------contact me through my aunt Linda at linthoman@hotmail.com !!

RMNK, RMNK, RMNK... when will you learn? Just when I thought I was done posting here, you jack everything up and give me the irresistible urge to first laugh, then reply to your (all of your) nonsense. You replied to nameless that John knows his stuff. Does he? Did you read his posts? Jesus died on a cross??? Do you know what the origins of what has been adopted as the official symbol of Christianity are? Maybe John can help with his research. Tell him to explain to you what PAGAN means.... Oh, but you say he is knowledgeable without a formal education, how do you know he is uneducated? I'm sure he completed at least SOME grade school. Don't degrade him that way. I love John too, because I needed some comedy since they cancelled Seinfeld, and I found it here! He does come out every now and then with something so comical that you end up kinda liking him for some bizarre reason. I picture him in his truck, library card dangling from his neck, looking for witnesses instead of working. He bounds out of the truck while it is still moving and whacks some unsuspecting pioneer in the head with a WT book from 1923. And yelling "Freedom in Christ!!!!" as he is being led away in handcuffs. Remember the one about JW's doing bubbas laundry? C'mon now, you didn't laugh?? I did. It was a little crude, though, for a man of God, don't you think? Oh, that's excusable, you say. Have you realized that you are the one that is painfully obvious???? Linda Thoman – Why don't you share with us the homework assignment Bill Bowen gave you? Is it classified information? I'm sure it isn't. We want to know if Bill supports the trinity, or if he doesn't. This will be very interesting. P.S. I'll tell you what the downfall of the JW's could be: inactive JW's coming to the defense of apostates. If everyone here followed your advice, there would be two people left posting here.

RE: German Porn site. Let me guess, you are DougC, and this is the actual spam you used to send to the press? You write that stuff yourself and then pretend it's a real report, don't you? How clever of you! Thought you would try it here today? I heard this rumor: A large religious organization headquartered in Brooklyn NY sells info to porn dealers. It seems the reason they have their older men interrogate victims of sex abuse and people who have committed fornication is to get all the juicy details. The elders keep notes and then sell the info to porn dealers. Heard that rumor? Want to comment on it? Sorry I read it on the Internet but don't have all the particulars. Your stupid PORNO post is slander and I hope you are as good at hiding IP addresses as you are at writing that crap.

This website is a wonderful place for people to get together and talk about their lives and they have bonded into somewhat of a family each sharing the others burdens. I was shocked and very saddened by all the terrible things young children must endure inside the KHs around the world. Since I am a member of "Christendom" you may regard me as an evil person. Having been a teacher for many years, I saw the sorrow of many abused children. I am well aware it happens in all walks of life and in all religious backgrounds. A dear friend of mine was sexually abused for years by her father who was a minister. She has spent years in therapy to try and understand the father who was supposed to love and care for her could do such a thing. She asked him these questions just before he died. Sadly, he gave her NO answer. I hope in some small way that I can lend my voice with yours in the SilentLamb march with a donation to help those who need to get to New York. It isn't much, but my heart goes out those who have been so terribly treated by the very people who should help, the elders, the congregations, parents, and the Governing Body. Jesus Himself gave us the greatest commandment, " To Love each other as He loved us" after all He died so we could have everlasting life. I know my Bible is different from the JW's, but if you search hard enough you will find the words are there. I have nothing but praise for Bill Bowen, my prayers also. I pray each day that these men in authority will turn their hearts to the Truth for Jesus said I am the Truth. When you discover that fact all else falls into place. I Love you all. In the Love of our Lord Jesus Christ I bid you good night. BJdockery@charter.net

THANK YOU to Bjdockery@charter.net for your kindness and compassion and most of all your understanding, your prayers. That also is especially nice of you to donate something. I'm sure it will be used as you wish, to help some of the lambs to be able to go to the March in NY on 9-27-02. Thanks for posting. IS EVERYONE SAVING their posts? This Part 2/August Page has gone over the 1mb mark. You know what they say, "Better to Be Safe than Sorry."! Just a suggestion/SLC

IN LESS than 2 hours i got a response from hillary clinton office. be it only a prerecorded answer i see that at least she has intrest in people who e mail her. with a blitz of email i feel she might move on molesters . so all you jw defenders who don't like my spelling . why don't you correct it in a letter to mrs. clinton . and tell her how you hate child molesters.. john

LOL to John and his prophecies! I think you may be right about what's coming. Big things on the horizon for the WT, but the insiders who KNOW are not letting the cat out of the bag yet. /SLC
Soapbox, great idea about the goat for the yard! LOL! --- I read at the other forum that people are having stickers made up (like little address stickers) which say: www.silentlambs.org -- and then sticking them on all WT mags they see round about their neighborhoods, etc. Just another idea. --- Others are making flyers and printing them up, and sticking them on other church's bulletin boards, grocery store bulletin boards, at the mall, etc. --- As for the porn-partner of B.Bowen... I have no idea if the man that made the German translated-SL-website is a former JW/porn dealer or not. Maybe he has repented? Maybe it's all a big lie. Anybody wanna ask Bill directly and find out? Either way, this USA SL site is NOT A JOKE. So I'm still SLC! /SLC

Claudine: Re: you wondering if you "missed something" and whether there were two witnesses produced by the JC against B.Bowen for df'ing: No, there were no witnesses ever produced. This is from his 7-29-02 letter to his JC requesting an appeal of the df'ing: "I wish to appeal the decision made to disfellowship me. The reason is because of an error in judgment due to the deceptive manner which the judicial committee operated in the face of my flat denial of any wrongdoing. I have not committed any sin against God or the organization. The judicial committee failed to produce any eye-witnesses to back up their allegations, thus they have no case against me." --- Merely FYI! Love ya/SLC

Re: the UN SEX ABUSE SCANDAL: Sickening! NO WONDER the WTS wanted to become an NGO with the UN!!! STRANGE BEDFELLOWS in more sick ways than one! PERVERTS ARE TAKING OVER THE PLANET! Here's a quote from that UN article/link above: QUOTE: "Observations in the report highlight the problems victims face. In order for a refugee to make a report, they would have to go through the same persons who themselves are perpetrators of sexual exploitation. Most staff appear to connive to hide the actions of other staff. (subtitle: Sickening Double Standard, and the article continues): So let's see: Senior U.N. officials knew of the widespread pedophilia. Not only did they not take action against the perpetrators, they covered up the atrocities." END QUOTE ---- Sound familiar, eh???? From C.Church Cardinals to WTS elders/co's/do's/GB, to Senior UN Officials! What's next? Looks to me like the TOP ECHELON in the biggest political and religious orgs on the planet have been EXPOSED. I think the Nephilim must BE BACK, more wicked that ever! "WHEN THE WICKED ONES SPROUT AS VEGETATION, AND ALL THE PRACTICERS OF WHAT IS HURTFUL BLOSSOM FORTH, IT IS THAT THEY MAY BE ANNIHILATED FOREVER." Amen! HI Natespool! (Buster, what a sweetie you are!) Nate: Getting VALIDATION for your abuse is one of the first steps to healing; and obviously you got NONE from your spiritual leaders/elders. I AM SO SORRY! It should NOT be this way! Of ALL people, THEY SHOULD REACH OUT TO COMFORT YOU! Is this not what the WTS keeps SAYING it does? (Hypocrites!) As Buster or realsimple wrote: Please write to help@silentlambs.org, and depending on where you live, Bill may be able to put you in touch with someone in your immediate area. If you need counseling right away, look in your phone book for the nearest Rape Crisis Center. It is NOT just for women. And it is NOT just for rape. It is for ALL FORMS OF SEX ABUSE. They WILL help you. I know because I used them about 10 years ago for child sex abuse issues, and they gave me 12 free counseling sessions! Hang in there and, like Buster wrote, let us know how you're doing. Love/SLC (sorry guys, I don't want to put my email addy on the guestbook. I'll figure something out one of these days).

To Beckynailclinic@aol.com & others who may be having their "core beliefs" shaken up (as Claudine wrote/thanks CE!) A very good forum where you can discuss that is called Channel C. It is a very quiet mild respectful forum where many JW's and xJW's discuss this very thing. Keep praying for God (Jehovah if you prefer) to give you his holy spirit to find the truth. Re-read the gospels, Jesus words. Holy Spirit is our Helper and teacher, not the WTS (Jesus said so). It's a start. /SLC <http://www.channelc.org/cgi-bin/eboard30/index.cgi>

GOOD POINT Claudine: "Core beliefs keep us sane!!!! Even if they are a LIES>they keep us sane. Love Claudine aka soapbox" --- I went thru a FEAR/PANIC PERIOD maybe about a month ago. Fear that this is NOT really the truth? Then what is? etc. etc. Even tho out of the "org" for a long time, I always still felt it was "the truth." So even to think it might NOT be, that truly is very SCARY. Then somehow, I guess thru reading reading reading, the fear subsided. The hard part will be "starting over from scratch" which, I have to admit, I haven't even begun to begin re-reading the Bible WITHOUT my WT-blinders-on. But I think that's the next step... ask for Holy Spirit to guide you, and then start reading. From what I hear, it works wonders! Hang in there Linda/Claudine, everybody going thru this wobbly period, like a toddler just learning to walk, all wobbly. That's kinda like what it feels like. Love/SLC

I still cannot believe the calous buildup that is on the backs of some responders to this sight, they cannot put there egos to the side for even one minute and respond to these terrible events starring them in the face, and that is "CHILDREN ARE BEING HURT" maybe some of them are pedophiles & there only escape is to quote scripture and type line after line of mind numbing garbage to once again keep those who need help from finding it. no name left intended...

I'm doing things backwards tonight (reading posts from the bottom up - rather than from where I left off last time and going downward... kinda like I used to read the Awake! magazines, from the back to the front!) Anyway... I just now got to Linda's post, where she says, "I feel so broken. I know God is there, I believe in Him. I want to know where the truth really is. Is there a church that teaches the real truth, honest truth, nothing but the truth????? Do all churches teach just some truths and some lies too?" ---- I'm so sorry LT, I wish I had a clear-cut answer for you, re: church v. church. Since I am home alot, when I feel a spiritual longing to 'congregate,' I will turn on the religious channel, and it is shocking how someone always says the RIGHT ON THING that I needed to hear at that moment. It happens all the time. Over a year or so I have picked some of my favorite speakers on the TV who I like more than others. But if I'm in the mood, I will watch whoever is on. Now, would I go out and go to that specific church ever? Probably not, but I think it's GREAT GOD DOES USE TV to provide comforting info. It helps me "get by." -- The other thing, like I wrote already in another post, is I really think that no specific church is necessary, but that all of us are supposed to ask the HELPER, the holy spirit, to guide us in what to believe. Then we can, over time, begin to congregate with others who are Christian -- keeping in mind that everyone may not think EXACTLY THE SAME WAY about every single scripture, but that's okay, too. The scripture in Acts about "house to house" really means 'HOMES.' So the early Christians gathered together in their homes to encourage each other. There may ALREADY BE some people in your vicinity you could meet with, but you don't know it yet. When you're ready, and if that is what would feel good to you, I'm sure Jehovah will show you the way (yes, I still say Jehovah for now, 'cuz it's all I know, though FATHER is not far behind). Have you gone to Channel C forum? It is NOTHING LIKE the J-W.com. The people at Channel C are totally DIFFERENT, spiritual, calm, respectful. You really should go there and check it out. I think you will LIKE it, and it would help. Love/SLC

RICH: Re: your question about WTS and the masons... Thanks for that bit of insight about the title "Religious Order of JW's" sound very "masonic like." Hmmmm.... I know there were some threads a few months back at Channel C Forum about this topic. There are some heavy duty researchers at Channel C. You go go as a visitor and read older threads (I THINK). Look for the ones entitled "Watchtower Conspiracy" or something like that. Or, as a "guest," you can post a New Question. So post your question there, and ask them to tell you which prior threads. Also, have you done a search on the internet? Type in: Jehovah's Witnesses - Freemasonry --- and see what comes up (just put a dash in between the two phrases in your search engine). ---- Also, go here and put in the Search Window "Freemasonry." I just did and there are 89 threads that came back using that word - Lots to read! Hope this helps! /SLC <http://www.jehovahs-witness.com/forum/search.asp?site=3>

Claudine, I LOVED THIS WHAT YOU WROTE: "I call flowers the face of God - little faces of God." --- THAT IS BEAUTIFUL!!!! You write the NEATEST THINGS!!! I hope you jot these things down. We should put together a book of Favorite Sayings and poems specifically for silent Lambs! Hey, now that's an idea! --- Here's a flower story: When living in the Rockies for five years back in the late 70's, we had to cross the Continental Divide now and then to get out of town (it is closed in the winter, so you can only drive it in the summer). The top of the Continental Divide is way way ABOVE the timber line. It looks like outer space way up there, big bald-headed mountains, barren and vast, yet AWESOME, as your eye can see forever. (The hairpin turns are nerve-wracking, though!) Anyway, one year my Mom came out and we drove across the Divide, and stopped for a change, to walk around, take pictures. And way up there, at the TOP OF THE EARTH, where there is NOTHING - NO TREES - just bald-headed rocky mountains -- well, guess what IS THERE? You got it: The teeniest, tiniest little lavender flowers, as small as can be, no bigger than a nickel in size, peeping out of the ground. I remember being floored by this... that way Up Here, are these Teeeny Tiny flowers. How humorous God is! What a contrast! Your sweet saying above made me remember this: These tiny flowers, thousands of feet up in the high altitude, and here are little "faces of God." NEAT!!! Thanks for the memories! Love/SLC

Good story/example about helping the German sister whose bra got messed up. I had a JW-friend who was like that, she was very unique and not like most JWs. I've written about her before (she went to night classes, she helped people go to AA for alcoholism, etc. stuff "normal JWs" would never fathom doing). But she was ALWAYS the one to be the first to tell you if you had lipstick on your teeth, or your slip was showing or whatever (not picking on you, but kindly letting you know so you didn't have to end up embarrassed to death). She was really GUTSY about everything. I did admire her for that. I do wonder what she would say about all this info that is being exposed these days... Oh well, I can't talk to her. I don’t see where anybody posted it, so I will, because it was a BEAUTIFUL HEART-FELT LETTER. It is the letter Bill’s wife wrote (Sheila) to the GB. It was sent around via the Silent Lambs email list. I wrote and asked Bill if I could send it to Oprah., and he said please do, so I already did. If anyone does not believe Bill Bowen himself, they should sit up and take notice at what his wife writes! Three Cheers for Sheila! /SLC --------- silentlambs of (info@silentlambs.org) wrote on 8/14/02 11:25 AM: --- 8-11-02 -- Governing Body, 25 Columbia Heights Brooklyn, New York 11201 -- Dear Brothers, -- Its been over a year and a half since I last attended a meeting at the Kingdom Hall. I quit attending after a special talk was given before the entire congregation including my children, saying that the person who went to the press (referring to my husband, Bill) had spoken against God and that what he said was untrue. I knew differently and couldn’t believe what I was hearing! The congregation had no idea that they were being lied to. -- I have endured countless lies and slander against my husband and others who have spoken out on this issue, originating from so-called worshipers of the true God. I lost my parents and many lifelong friends (all JWs) because they believed the lies they were told. I truly believe that the victims and what has happened to them is what’s most important though and I know my pain means nothing compared to theirs. -- I have patiently watched this horrifying nightmare unfold before my eyes, always feeling very helpless, always hoping that the religion I was raised in would rise to the occasion and do what was right and in the best interest of the children. Instead, I was constantly shocked at the low down dirty levels this organization has stooped to in order to hide the truth from the public and its own members! -- have had a Watchtower Child Abuse Hotline (1-877 WT- ABUSE) ringing into my home for over a year now so I know the real truth about what’s going on here. Countless Jehovah's Witness Child abuse victims have called in and continue to do so. Their stories haunt me each and every day of my life! If you would just open your eyes, ears and hearts they would haunt you too! -- The stories are almost always the same. They tell of unspeakable sexual crimes committed against them when they were minors, of how they went to their body of elders for comfort, shelter and protection. Instead, they weren’t believed because they didn’t happen to have an audience of at least two witnesses to the molestations. These elders were following your directions, the Governing Body of Jehovah’s Witnesses! With a rule like that you should see that very few molesters ever get reported to the authorities or any one else for that matter! Sadly, these predators are free to prey on children in Kingdom Halls all over the world. -- These victims tell of how they were intimidated into silence with guilt and threats of disfellowshipping if they didn’t stay silent. Most succumb to this blackmail like tactic because to disobey would cost them their entire lives! All of their Jehovah's Witness family and friends would view them as dead spiritually and would not even speak to them anymore. Most of them don’t have enough strength left after what they have been through to face something of this magnitude nor should they have to be faced with it in the first place! Some have been banished or cast out into the world for reporting crimes committed against them and trying to protect others from the same fate, all of this at the direction of the Governing Body! -- When my husband (Bill Bowen) founded www.silentlambs.org <http://www.silentlambs.org/> these survivors finally had a place to go for the comfort and support. They could tell their stories and be believed. The elders were supposed to fill this role and direct them to the proper authorities but instead they proved themselves to be wolves in sheep’s clothing! By disfellowshipping my husband, you stripped these JW victims of the only support system they ever had. They cannot come to Silent Lambs any more because in doing so they risk everything. You heartlessly victimized them again! Shame on you! -- My husband has been hauled up on false charges in front of a kangaroo court! He has committed no sin against God and he has caused no divisions in the congregation. Bill is standing up for what is right, exposing a policy that hurts children and helping those who need it most. I proudly support him and his cause. -- Watchtower policy is what has divided this organization. So put the blame where it belongs, the Governing Body and their harmful policies! I find it appalling and completely unacceptable for you to attempt to protect the Watchtowers image at all cost! Your actions are criminal in my opinion! You will all have to stand before the God you claim to worship and try to justify your actions and I can assure you there is no justification. There is, however consequences. -- In the past year and a half, have observed enough to know that I am ashamed and embarrassed for the public to know that I was ever one of Jehovah's Witnesses! Until the day I see this religion living up to its claims of being the only true religion on earth and representing God, I will not claim to be one of Jehovah's Witness. -- Mrs. William H. Bowen -- cc: The Draffenville Body of Elders, Appeal Committee

I SHOULDN'T, but I WILL: This is a post from a (public) JW yahoo group that really got my goat. Posting it will only get people riled up, but I would like to see some of the "brains" here or on J-W.com do an essay, with scriptures, of why the WTS is WRONG WRONG WRONG! We already KNOW in our HEARTS they are wrong, but I'd like to see a really good written-out expose refuting what this Self-Righteous * person wrote. So here it is: QUOTE:

Molested children? We'll I was raped when I was a child. You assume much, I am saying Bill Bowen and his problem lays with Moses and Paul, who wrote what God said under, what was this Holy spirit? Inspiration? God required corroboration from two independent accounts for any crime. -- So its easy let the kids report, bill bowen by what he has done, they way he went about it has divided Gods congregation, and he wants the witnesses to change the bibles rules about witnesses, and forgiveness. -- Not very christian to second guess the bible. he still hasn't suggested anything. So what do we got here, a man who pinned brother against brother. A man who had no class and spilled dirty laundry all over international TV. AND a man who dares call himself a christian, but when the bible is inconvenient for him. Its time to toss it out. -- If we as witnesses require less proof to act on these matters then their own local governements. How is that the witnesses fault? -- It's the governments for not enforcing more stringent laws. -- This has very little to do with raped kids, who the vast marjority grow up fine just like me, and not let this previous event destroy their entire future. This is about money and control, Those people suing are not wanting to change the congregation, they want punitive damages ie money, and a lot of it. -- They don't want changes, cause they know the witnesses did everything legally and morally in their abilities to do :) They just want a purse, milk the proverbial cow. --- END QUOTE. ----- Ok. I'm not looking for profanity as a reply. I'd like some concrete biblical reasoning. Anybody? Thanks/SLC

JOHN – Jesus died on a cross? Hmmmm, before I begin, does anyone else here agree with him? Also, does finding a cross with the name "Jesus" mean that he died on it? Is that your evidence? And you want ME to do my homework, without WT books? I have a homework assignment for you, Einstein: Supplement your research with the Encyclopedia Britannica and look and see how the cross pre-dates Christianity, and how Christianity adopted this pagan symbol as THEIR official symbol. What? Oh I see, a JW must have written the Encyclopedia Britannica. I'll be very interested in how you dress this one up. If you don't do a good job of explaining why this non-WT source is wrong, I'll never validate your posts with a response again. Also, why should I post a name, since you are all so good with name calling? I figured I'll save myself the trouble. Nameless: You are a real demagogue! Who is saying that Cross did not exist before Christian era? The Romans used what they had at hand for executing criminals. Cross. Ofcourse the British encyclopedia is right and proves the point John makes. You are muddling up clear waters Nameless. This is a typical demagou of the WT tactics. Please leave that wonderfull girl Slc alone. Why do you find fault with her also? Is it that hard for you to accept the truth that she and all of us write about? We are trying to benefit you as well. Please think.RMK

Re: flag salute article. I don't know if anything has changed but it sure has gotten more complicated! Let's see if I have this straight: you can stand for the flag salute if everyone else is standing and reciting, BUT you have to sit if they're just standing and listening. If you're already standing for the anthem you can keep standing BUT if you're sitting down you stay seated UNLESS everyone is singing and then you can stand just to show respect. Sounds pretty Pharisaic to me - next thing you know they'll have bathroom monitors to make sure we all wash up to the elbows before leaving the loo.

_For the victims_ The world is so much like a rose, varying layers. It takes time to see, what the true colors may be. Yes, there are thorns, some small and needle sharp. Seems those on the most beautiful, are like knives. Sometimes, while tending them, after being pricked again and again. I worry that the wounds will become infected, or that they may scar. I wonder why I bother, There are other things I could tend. But none as beautiful, none that smell so sweet. So, I put up with the needles, I live with the knives. Because I tend the roses, not the thorns. Sheila Madonia (Roses are the world and it's wonders Thorns are the abusers and their enablers) Slc, Soapbox: Thanks for the kind thought about the above poem (format is off due to how the guest book loads)and the many other comments. MY latest idea is our lambs should be like the little monkeys with hands covering their ears, a gag stuck in their mouth and a blindfold covering their eyes LOL I think I have convinced my husband to write a letter to disassociate himself YEA He was told by the Elders that they would sue us for slander if Chris talked about the research etc. he had done LOL After seeing that he is't the ONLY one that has done research I think he is ready to totally sever the ties with them. He still has so much anger but he won't come here to get it out, I am trying though. I was hoping since we can't get to New York that we could have a demenstration here in Kansas City wouldn't that be great if each city had a core of those that can't attend the larger march!!!! Well, I gotta go but to all those new posts were here we understand and YES THEY ARE WRONG to not support you over a pedophile, so keep strong. Sheila M

Muddling up clear waters? John made the statement that Jesus died on a cross, and he could prove it with his homework. He didn't. Neither have you. We all know that torture stakes and crosses were used in the past to execute criminals. That wasn't my point. My point was that John believes that because he says so, it is so. Like he's some kind of authority. The fact that Jesus did not die on a cross can be proven, but that is not the main issue here. The main issue is that if he wants his comments to have some academic value, he must understand who Jesus is, who Jehovah is, and the relationship between the two. Research will help him do that, and if he did his research and still venerates Jesus, then I can no longer validate his comments. As for SLC, I'm sure she's a nice woman, just confused. Also - Are you suggesting that I am not concerned about abused children? For the record, I HATE child molesters. If something happened to my child, it is my primary responsibility to go to the police, not the elders GOT THAT? Can you accept that? They are not part of the American Justice System. OK? Can you comprehend? They may be required by law to report in certain states, but don't blame them if YOU don't go to the police if your child is abused.

For Immediate Release August 16, 2002 Attacks on religious freedom decried by American Embassy KASPI, Georgia—In its press release of August 16, 2002, the American Embassy reported that "the American ambassador sent a political officer to observe the peaceful gathering of Jehovah's Witnesses" who later reported that "a private dwelling, the meeting facilities, and literature of the Georgian Jehovah's Witnesses had been completely destroyed by heavy objects and fire. The press release further stated that "the American Embassy decries attacks on religious freedom" and "is doubly concerned that the Jehovah's Witnesses were violently prohibited from meeting peacefully in accordance with Georgian law and international standards to which Georgia adheres." A convention of Jehovah's Witnesses planned for today was cancelled after police allowed religious extremists to ransack the convention site, demolish equipment, and burn the benches yesterday night. Meanwhile, other extremists carried out a similar attack on a meeting place of Jehovah's Witnesses in the city of Gori, with one victim being hospitalized. According to eyewitnesses, the attacks were carried out by followers of renegade Orthodox priest Vasil Mkalavisvili and members of "Jvari," an ultra-Orthodox extremist organization. Among those identified was Petre (Gia) Ivanidze, who along with Vasil Mkalavisvili has been charged with attacks of a similar nature, but has never been arrested despite his open ongoing participation in such attacks. I wrote to Oprah to nominate Bill. Wrote to Hillary and rec'd a form letter in 2 min. saying they do not accept requests from other states, only NY so in future letters I would think it is important to emphasize that the problem IS in NY> As far as what her husband did, that is irrelevant. She has been an advocate for other children's issues so she may take notice of this. Also, ARE WE GETTING BACK ON DOCTRINE AGAIN INSTEAD OF HELP FOR SURVIVORS AND SUPPORT FOR SILENTLAMBS. Hi SLC: I have enjoyed your comments above on the subject of "truth" and other topics. You seem to be a person, a JW who always looks for scriptural backing and support for your beliefs, which I think is good and much like myself. *I want to make a few comments on finding real Biblical Truth. The Journey and what it takes to find it. *First, when it comes to finding real Bible "truth", which I think is quite an elusive quest, we must be prepared to put forth real painstaking effort to find it. We are told to search, search, and search till we find it, like searching for gold or silver. Why? Because Jehovah is the "God of truth". And Jesus said we must "worship God in spirit and in truth". (John 4:24) He made it a requirement. So real "truth," is vitally important and should be to all servants of God. Real "truth" should be uppermost in all of our minds, like the sister expressed above you spoke with. *I myself, like so many others here, thought for a long time the WTS had it, real truth that is. But of course, they didn't. So since that time, I've been forced to continued my search for "truth" WITHOUT THEM. And I must say, along the way, I've learned many things. *One thing I've learned in my search for "truth", is when you find it or what you think is "truth", now you must "TEST IT", to make sure it is from God. "Test it". Prove its worth. Prove its validity. Prove whether it, the message of truth, from God Himself. To do this, we must make good use of the Bible. All of a sudden, I found out we as former students of the WTS, must become skilled Bible students. Better than the WTS. Better. We can no longer depend upon the WTS, their erroneous, dishonest SCHOLARSHIP to inform us of all things. Just like we see the church people do when they depend upon their "pastors" to teach them what is right. You see, we really had it so easy before, just do what the WTS says and everything will work out well for us. So we thought. But we were wrong. I found we were just like all the other "church-people", blindly following their "leaders". Being completely dependent upon them. But Jehovah said the "man of God should be fully competent, completely equipped for every good work," himself. But, we were not anything of the sort as faithful followers of the WTS! The only thing we were was Watchtower Disciples, Magazine Salespersons, and certainly not "completely equipped" to teach someone else, as recommended. (2 Tim. 2:15, 24; 3:16, 17)I agree with your comments above concerning truth to the person inquiring. One must earnestly "search", "seek" out truth. The word "search" is a very key factor. That's the first thing. Search, search, and search. Jesus said "everyone seeking, finds..." Its that simple. (Prov. 2:4, 5; Matt. 7:7, 8)But secondly, sometimes in diligent "search", when we are rewarded for our "search", and we find truth, we may discover the real "truth" may shock us. It may surprise us. Thats because, like the saying goes: sometimes "truth" proves to be stranger than fiction. And thats a fact. Why? One reason is because we've been separated from it for so long. Its foreign to us. Its like walking into a bright light for the first time after being in a dark room. We walk out, and the truth blinds us its so bright. So in the say way, if and when we find real truth, we might be tempted to react unfavorably to it. Because its strange to us. The ideas seem somehow too foreign and distant to us. But using God's Word, that Jehovah has mercifully provided, we now proceed to step #2 and we can "test the inspired expression", to see if it comes from God. We need to know, if this message is really FROM GOD or not. (John 7:17; 1 John 4:1) Using God's Word, no matter what anyone says to us, we can "cross-examine" the teachings using God's Word for ourselves, to make sure what we are hearing, the message, though it may sound so strange, still, is backed up and validated by God Himself. We must discover whether the message presented AGREES WITH God's written Testimony or Word. (cross-examined found at Proverbs 18:17 Oxford Annotated Bible) *In this way, we "test" the expression, like the first century christians did, and in this way we can distinguish a truth-speaker from one who is "proved a liar" by God's Word. Something very important for our day, with so many false prophets and false teachers around. (Prov. 30:5,6; Rev. 2:2) So just as Paul said, we must "test everything". (1 Thess. 5:21 NIV) *So then along with the key thought of "searching", an experienced servant of God, must also learn HOW TO "TEST" THE MESSAGE, using God's Word. Just like the "Beroeans" did. And in so doing, we ask ourselves, no matter what the message says, does the message have actual scriptural backing and support for what it says. This is the real "litmus", "acid test" for detecting Bible "Truth" or not. This is how one determines if "the message is from God or not". In fact, Jesus recommended this course for his followers. (John 7:17; Acts 17:11) *I've found this to be the case with many Biblical topics. Some things when I first learned them, were initially shocking to me, but I found to be quite biblically substantiated and supported within Holy Scripture. *For example, the subject of Jesus' second coming. Of course the way the WTS taught it is wrong. All wrong. But I've found a viewpoint more closely aligned with real Godly "truth", I think. Here's the link. After reading it, if you think this viewpoint is real "truth", scripturally backed up, then please write me at bjc2read@yahoo.com. I think a person like yourself will enjoy the INNOVATIVE and PROVOCATIVE thoughts suggested in this scriptural essay or treatise. It gives us a whole new approach to the subject of Jesus' Second Coming and what the scriptures actually teach. (Some of these thoughts were suggested by Carl O. Jonnson, a former JW from Sweden who wrote "Gentile Times Reconsidered" disproving 1914 and the phony WT Chronology. He sent his info on correct chronology to the WT in Aug. of 1977 for examination. The WTS thanked him by disfellowshipping him. No surprise there.) Here is the link, and I hope you enjoy the material...bjc2read@yahoo.com. to no name 2 yrs ago i did alot of research on the cross thing .including what the wt said . i found many cases were the wt misquoted various sources. etc. i had a lot of this on paper. with references but my father put all my reseach in the garbage. because he hated when i showed him how the wt misquoted many historians. keep in mind the wt believed in the cross till the 30,s .at that time with all the problems rutherford had with all the top people in the wt who left. when they didn,t believe in the 1925 crap. the house of princes and all jws were to go to heaven in 1932. etc. rutherford changed the name to jehovah witnesses. trying to get away from all old false prophecies. and russell teachings. and to take followers minds off of all the false prophecies .he said jws should not have children.jesus died in a stake, the angels tell him what to print.not believing rutherford is the same as not believing in god .aluminum foil kills people etc. go to the jw reasearch page and see the things the wt was teaching at that time. then i think it,s 1-1-95 wt were the wt sayes that the golden age mag .printed incontravertable facts. i,ll tell you it,s hard to believe the wt after all the lies i have found ....i don,t think you ever tested wt referances because if you did you find they misquote them 90% of the time.....john

I don't think John and his supporters should be on the march in September because they do not have abuse issues. They are just plain antagonists and will NOT help this matter. They already don't respect the REPEATED REQUESTS from VICTIMS here to stop their religious debates as this is not the place for them and they show no respect for that. It seems that this can be because they don't have anywhere else to go to be heard. Actually, I don't blame anyone for not listening to or even trying to talk with John or his friends/supporters. They're not rational and they want to only consider THEIR information. Yes, I believe they ARE that stupid that they think everyone else is that stupid, too. Not all JW's are uneducated and easily led along. That's a very erroneous assumption John and his friends/supporters are making. I don't feel I'm being helpful if I don't say it as it is: John and anyone who supports him or comes up with more of your "facts" that are outrageous in light of LEGITIMATE LITERATURE and HISTORY, are all a bunch of idiots. Be mad if you want to. If it was up to me, you'd be kicked out of here so fast, you'd have to be given smelling salts to come to and you'd still be dumphounded as to what just happened to you. Quite simply, you do not belong here. You're NOT a HELP. You're hogging space because no one wants you anywhere else. This open forum was a good idea in the beginning, however, for it to be a genuine support group that respects the confidentiality of its members, it should be one that each person has to sign-up for and there should be a moderator. THEN, if the likes of John and his friends/supporters tries to subvert the support group, they can be kicked out. John and your friends/supports, you DESERVE to get a few "bumps on your heade" -- maybe your right sense will come back again.

Like we've been taught in the TMC.....could you KEEP YOUR COMMENTS BRIEF.....!!! I can't read the 10-50 lines of dialog. I doubt many do. Re: the lambs....I would not spend 50 cents to put down a lamb at the WT door. BUT how about buying a real lamb, and laying it at the foot of their door. Of course I would not want the lovely animal to suffer so I would sew up it's mouth AFTER it was dead. It could be strangled.....no blook to clean.

No one is putting down the victims. The request is to respect the victims and to keep this a support group. If one cannot do that, they should leave VOLUNTARILY on their own if they won't stop abusing this support group. Some who are posting are NOT posting because they have abuse issues. They're posting to find a forum for themselves without consideration at all to the victims' pleas to STOP. THAT is clear abuse on the part of the posters that keep detracting from the purpose of this group. It's not putting someone down for coming to the lambs. THEIR behavior reveals them to be antagonists with a selfish and unsympathetic purpose. They're riding on the backs of the victims and they have no place here. They're cruel and inhuman to use this site for their personal purposes.

This site is just a part of the huge changes facing the WBTS in these modern times (this is just my opinion mind you) It is not only change that comes to them but all Religions are feeling the changes as well. Look around it isn't just the WBTS having it's members coming out of the dark ages, society in general has a new generation ready to fight for this century's rebellion against abuse, We didn't like it and were talking about it. So anyone in positions of autthority or Sheperding over a flock of innocents better buck up and listen to our voice, think of how we can make changes in our policies, our attitudes (get off your high horses)quit trying to insist that you are always right even when you are wrong. I have been involved with this problem for years, thinking I was the only one that didn't like it ,and tired of the excuses why we can't talk about it, we heal through our mouths remember that. We are sick and tired and were not going to take it anymore. Praise Jehovah for bring this out in his time. Even if some of us did have to wait 35 years for his time,.....remember this could make you or break you. Free at Last.

To All Ex and Present Witnesses in the UK!!! A bit off topic but important nether the less. Take a look at the Charity commission.gov.uk/registeredcharities/search.asp?searchby=keyword&keyType=N&limit=200&area_of_op=&position =2&OpArea=K&WORDS=jehovah+witnesses&pageno=1 Look at the figures for Gross income! Does this truly

The figures you mention when discussing finances on Thursday nights meetings? When I was at my congregation I heard figures of 40,000 pounds, plus! They even bought a metal fence like Colditz for 2 to 3 thousand, lent money to other congregations for building halls, and had extensions added or rebuilt! Of course I'm not in it now, so I don't have access to financial figures, but it seems way off for my particular congregation. A congregation with 120 publishers, deeds of covenant, donations on regular basis, and money left from the deceased would amount to more than the average 6000 that the figures seem to be in a lot of them! Surely. Most of them have classification unknown. It's an interesting read if nothing else. It also begs the question are they a charity. If each congregation was sued for the amount they claim to have to give to victims of paedophiles in their congregation, presumably they would run out of money to pay their bills? and be shut down. Can't see the society bailing them out! from me.

John* I don't know why you would want it but the back page of the May 22, 1989 Awake has a crowd of people jammed together with a text box over them saying Millions Now Living Will Never Die. Under that is a coupon offering both Watchtower and Awake subscription for $10 a year. If you have the bound volumes that page would not be there. I see that you try to reason with people by using old society literature. If the people you talk to throw away old magazines and depend on the cd-rom for their research material, what you tell them is in the older publications and what is on the cd-rom are not always the same. The WTS alters the older information to fit what they want the people to believe. sad but true. I tried for years to find something written in a Watchtower. I knew that I had read it. I knew that I was not imagining it. But I had moved and threw away all the single copies of the magazines. After all I had the bound volumes. Come to find out it really was in a 1986 Watchtower but not in the bound volume. That really made me mad. All that time thinking that maybe I was going crazy! Anyway, take care. Love Y'all, Loris

I just read the St Petersburg Times article. One and a half pages! It's great! I don't have a scanner at work. I will have to wait till I get home to scan it. The reporter did not use me in it. She found someone local who had a better story to relate. I was priviledged to just be behind the scenes to be able to give background information to the reporter. She did a fantastic job reporting about the little known shunning practices of the WTS. And Bill looked so good standing in front of his former KH. This is great. The more publicity we can generate the better. The article in the paper mentioned about the protest march on headquarters in the '80's. I had just recently heard about it. I didn't know somebody else tried to call the GB to account. I think this time there will be so much media attention everyone will know. They can not run and they can not hide. Love Y'all, Loris

Hi All I too am a victim of the WT. I was df in 1974 for going to the police against the "advice" of the elders about a 7 yr old girl being abused by an elder. He is still in the same cong. and an elder today after being convicted of his crime and serving time. I want so badly to attend the march in Sept. but I am totally disabled and am on Social Security. I just don't have all the funds needed to go. If anyone could help in anyway please contact me. You can reach me at kdh3238@hotmail.com Thank you for any help.........

To the person that wants John and others out of the forum: Yes, I agree debating doctrine is NOT what this site is about, it's about healing. But I too am guilty of a few rants now and again. What worries me is the "witness" way of regulating free speech, if they can't come here and speak there mind???? Are we tying to shun them, to have the nerve to say they have no right to march for the children?? I think the "disfellowshipping" of people that want to write here is not for us. Are we to shun those we don't want to deal with??? Are we not then like those we are trying to break away from?? If you DON'T like to read the constant irrelevant doctrine and name calling I use my lil mouse and SCROLL past the debaters. WE ARE NOT THE GOVERNING BODY NO ONE SHOULD BE SHUNNED HERE>>>WE ALTHOUGH SHOULD RESPECT THE VICTIMS AND WHEN TOLD WE ARE UPSETTING THEM (clearing my throat for a point JOHN and others) WE SHOULD NOT CONTINUE THE CONSTANT DEBATES ON DOCTRINE COMPREHENDENewe are others forums to discuss the mute point of whether were doctrine is right or wrong...my belief is we all find out in the end right so why argue LOL With much respect to all Sheila Madonia.

Hi! I am so grateful for this website. To know there are others with similar circumstances. I've been in recovery for 18 years dealing with abuse issues concerning my daughters and myself. Being abused in the organization. That I am not alone. Because all these years My stories have been shared with others outside of the organization. I've appreciated their support. But need connection with those truly understand the pain.

I'm sending this request to the DALLAS MORNING NEWS today. Maybe some of you would like to send a similar request to your local paper . . . . . . . . . Jehovah's Witnesses use extreme forms of shunning to force compliance to their rules. This shunning is keeping the sexual abuse of many children a secret in the Jehovah's Witness Communities. Would you consider doing some research and publishing articles about Jehovah's Witnesses and Child Abuse? Dateline, Connie Chung on CNN and the BBC Panorama, the NY Times and St Petersburg Times have done so recently. http://www.sptimes.com/2002/08/22/Floridian/Spiritual_shunning.shtml

great post when you have a car (chruch) thats beyond repair call me and i will junk it for you. that car (wt)is rusted and blows out foul smoke(wt teachings)as it goes down the street(pioneers)choking all in its path . and a satanic back seat if it could talk would tell dirty tales (molested children). and no reverse gear ( to say we made a mistake) and no steering to keep it self running into pedestrian(silent lambs) and no brakes to stop on a pier (courts) the last stop is a watery funeral in the east river!!!!!!!!!!!!john

LORIS thank you i,m well aware that whats in some mag,s will never be found in the bound volumes. thank you i did not know about 5 22 89 i,m going to try it on my pop. i have a 10 page list of wt quotes not found on the CD. it,s http://quotes.jehovahswitnesses.com/channel.htm check it out . the one i,m talking about was on a back page of an wt or awake in 2001 or maybe 2000 it was talking about the present day and said we can now say that millions now living will never die . the point is it,s a prophecy heres the line i used on jws on this article . if a baby was born today and lived to 100 years old this article is saying that the world would have to end in his life time. i twisted many jws on this one. thats why i want to find it . i asked my father today to look it up. and he knows what i,m talking about ,we had many conflicts on this article. what i like about it is when it came out . I busted them on the spot it was not old light .....john

thank you SHIELA for the words if wisdom and how that i,m back to work . i will continue to stop AND ASK JWS if they know about jw molesters etc. and i,m still going to the march .and i have a big mouth i,ll be bringing up the rear. sorry no name you will have to stand in the corner till you do your HOMEWORK.....i don,t care how much you CRY AND BANG YOUR HEAD AGAINST THE WALL. i will not respond to you as all can see you will say any thing for your god in bklyn. !!!!!back to the lambs i have left my e mail before here. if there,s anything i can do for you at the march feel free to contact me . i,m sorry i asked people to call on soapbox with out her permission...john p.s. i just heard in the news 6 jws were killed for teaching lies. in the phillipines. i guess now they are part of the 144000 . i prophecise it will be in the wt in the next month or so.....sad very sad. ......john

thank you FREE AT LAST ,YOU MADE A FINE POINTS HOW PEOPLE IN GENERAL HATE CHILD
MOLESTATION.UNLESS ONES WHO THINK THEY ARE FOLLOWING GOD SAY OTHERWISE. THANX AGAIN FOR YOUR COMMENTS!!!!!!!JOHN

Hi Everyone - it is me soapbox aka claudine - been gone for a couple of days catching up on the posts. I can see life goes on without me here...I still haven't figured out who "won" was it a stake or the cross!!!!????LOL I also see lots of new ones who need acknowledgement. I will be back to read further and more deeply. Caught a bit of the part about sending stuff to me first and then to John - but that would be double postage...we have to have a better idea than that. Bill Bowen had suggested to me a month ago to send them to the WTS but I think they would just throw them away. Got an email from Bill regarding doing some volunteer work...has anyone replied yet?????? Also, I read part of the email from Bill regarding letter "to the Stone Hearts" - from P.G. On the money as to who is dividing and from whom. Anyone who is not receiving email from Bill Bowen should request it from him. *I feel really cut off when my email is down and I miss you guys. I think that my computer is fixed now ..soapbox

Hi. I hope the march goes well. I was thinking of coming but going alone by car from so far is just too expensive and tiring for me as I am on a small pension and not feeling very well lately. I realy pray from my heart for great succes of this event.The Lambs must be protected. The Wt policy regarding child abuse must be changed.The GB must be disdelfowshipped and made responsible for crimes to humanity. I will be with all of you in spirit. I heard about those killed in Philipines from a friend. Why was I so deeply troubled and sad the whole day of today? I did not cry just because I had to prevent it. My loved ones are there! The WT is more precious to them than me their own father. I am so hurt.. it is unbelievable.RMK PS. The article in the St.Petersburg's paper was exellent. Thank you Bill.
LOL! LOLOL JOHN!!! What a creative imagination you have. Hi RMK: Sorry to hear you are not feeling well. I would never be able to go to the March for the same reasons as you, health and finances. We can send little stuffed lambs with a note, though, which is better than nothing (along with being there in the spirit)! --- Do you have JW relatives in the Philippines? Is that what you meant? I WOULD NOT SEND THEM TO WTBTS!!! As if JR Brown would actually SAVE THEM FOR US and then take them out to the MARCH on 9-27-02??!! I would NOT think so!!! (Sorry Bill, I gotta disagree!) If anyone is DRIVING TO THE MARCH and has room in their trunk, that would be good if they would please OFFER??? OR, if someone LIVES in NY nearby, and would be willing to accept them in the mail from us, and then deliver them to the March??? ANYONE? Thanks/SLC
Claudine asked: "Got an email from Bill regarding doing some volunteer work...has anyone replied yet?????" ---- REPLY: No, haven’t replied yet, but I intend to. I don’t have ALL of the qualifications for any of the Titles, but I have ONE or TWO qualifications as listed in most ALL of the Titles, so not sure if that will do any good, but I plan to offer anyway. Love/SLC

LORIS!! Great job you did "behind the scenes" providing background info for the St. Pete Times! Thanks for your efforts! As for the 1980 protect march, it was news to me, too, even tho I had heard it mentioned briefly at the Beacon-Room email group. Oddly enough, I was baptized in the fall of '80, and I never even heard about the 1980's March on the HQ. I wonder what month it occurred in 1980? I remember hearing about the shake-up at HQ (Ray Franz, etc.) and I remember (as a newbie) being horrified at such "demon like apostates." Sheweeeesh, such a scam. Anyway, I agree with your last sentence, Loris: "I think this time there will be so much media attention everyone will know. They can not run and they can not hide." AMEN TO THAT! /SLC

URGENT! URGENT! "ENTERING THE WORLD OF A CHILD MOLESTER" ---- EVERYONE READ THIS!! SET YOUR VCR FOR FRIDAY, 8/23/02, ABC, 4-5 PM, and/or FIND A TV TO WATCH OPRAH TOMORROW (Friday), as the entire show is going to be about THE MINDS/HABITS/WORLDS OF CHILD MOLESTERS! THIS SHOULD BE VERY EDUCATIONAL FOR EVERYONE!! SPREAD THE WORD to all the other forums, email groups, your friends and neighbors! WE DON'T WANT TO MISS THIS! /SLC (PS: I already zapped it to B.Bowen).
EXCELLENT THOUGHTS "Free At Last"!!! Well said! The Sleeping Giants (lambs) have WOKEN UP, and there is NO turning back! /SLC

BrokenChild: A LIVE LAMB at the 9-27-02 PEACE MARCH would be great! Do we have any FARMERS OUT THERE??? ---- I have to respectfully disagree with you about BRIEF POSTS. We ALL have a MOUSE, and we can SCROLL past whatever posts do not interest us. I agree with Sheila on this. If you receive any kind of magazine in the mail, and you are only interested in one short article, what do you do with the rest of the articles? YOU FLIP PAST THEM. Same with the TV. We all IGNORE the commercials and/or FAST FORWARD thru them. Same with THIS FORUM/Guestbook and all other email groups and forums. There are NO RULES HERE that you have to read all the posts. JUST SCROLL BABY SCROLL. ---- And as for the other No Name Person and others still complaining about the posts: I again agree with Sheila, and others who have explained this before: All issues of the WTS DO affect the Lambs. So a little doctrine discussion I don't see as a bad thing. Now when it turns into nothing else, then maybe it is time to change things around. But so far the owner of this Site is not complaining. And I still see LOTS & LOTS of newbies and supporters posting all the time. There is NO LIMIT BEING STATED as to HOW MANY POSTS this site can accommodate, is there? So I wish everyone would take responsibility for themselves and if they do not like a post, SCROLL PAST IT! Just my Two Cents. /SLC (PS: As far as the TMS, do we have to set up a kitchen-TIMER next to our computers and set them to FIVE MINUTES and then DING DING DING??? Or how about the brother in the front row TAPPING HIS PENCIL on the chair to let you know your TIME IS UP??? Is that what you guys want here???)

NOW THIS POST JUST TICKS ME OFF! WHO IS THIS SELF-RIGHTEOUS PERSON? IT HAS TO BE A CURRENT JW TO BE TALKING THIS WAY! WHAT RIGHT DO YOU HAVE TO JUDGE WHO AND WHO CAN NOT SUPPORT THE LAMBS? ONE DOES NOT -- AND I REPEAT -- DOES NOT HAVE TO BE AN ABUSE VICTIM OR KNOW ONE FIRST HAND TO SUPPORT THIS ISSUE. YOU ARE WAY OFF BASE, AND OUT OF LINE. IF YOU WANT A MODERATED GROUP, GO CREATE ONE YOURSELF! I OFFERED TO CREATE ONE TWO MONTHS AGO, AND NOT ONE SINGLE PERSON POSTING HERE SHOWED ANY INTEREST WHATSOEVER. SO THAT TELLS ME PEOPLE WOULD RATHER COME HERE AND DO THEIR POSTING. THIS IS AN OPEN FORUM/GUESTBOOK. REPEAT -- OPEN OPEN OPEN! JOHN HAS AS MUCH RIGHT TO BE HERE TO SUPPORT THE LAMBS AS ANYBODY. AND WE HAVE ASKED HIM TO TONE DOWN THE PROFANITY AND HE HAS. THIS IS A GUESTBOOK, NOT A PRIVATE SUPPORT GROUP. THAT MEANS ANYONE ANYWHERE ANYTIME CAN POST HERE AND GIVE THEIR OPINIONS. THAT IS WHAT A GUESTBOOK IS FOR, AND JOHN IS ALSO WELCOME AT THE MARCH ON 9-27-02 JUST LIKE ANYONE ELSE. I AM SURE HE WILL BE A GENTLEMAN. --- AND, LIKE JOHN REPLIED, WHAT SUPPORTERS DOES HE HAVE? ARE YOU TALKING ABOUT ME BECAUSE I'VE STUCK UP FOR HIM? MAYBE YOU SHOULD GO READ YOUR BIBLE AND REMEMBER THAT WE SHOULD "CONTINUE PUTTING UP WITH ONE ANOTHER." --- YOU DON'T EVEN LEAVE A CODE NAME SO WE CAN KNOW WHO THEY HEY YOU ARE! HOW UNPROFESSIONAL IS THAT (Unprofessional in the Internet World). --- ALSO, IT IS OBVIOUS YOU DO NOT KNOW WHAT YOU ARE TALKING ABOUT WHEN YOU SAY TO JOHN THAT HIS FACTS ARE OUTRAGEOUS "IN LIGHT OF LEGITIMATE LITERATURE AND HISTORY." I CAN ONLY PRESUME YOU ARE SPEAKING OF WATCHTOWER LITERATURE & HISTORY, in which case you HAVE A LOT TO LEARN. ---
RE: HOGGING SPACE: HAS THE SITE OWNER PUT A LIMIT ON HOW MANY PEOPLE CAN POST? OR A LIMIT ON HOW MANY TIMES A PERSON CAN POST? OR A LIMIT ON HOW LONG ANY GIVEN POST CAN BE???

ANSWER: NO! SO YOU ARE OUT OF LINE. --- YOU ARE ALSO WRONG TO SAY THAT NO ONE WANTS JOHN HERE. I THINK HE HAS A GREAT SENSE OF HUMOR. YOU HAVE NO SENSE OF HUMOR AT ALL IT APPEARS! --- PLEASE GET OFF YOUR HIGH HORSE WHOEVER YOU ARE AND GO CREATE YOUR MUCH-DESIRED PRIVATE GROUP. NO APOLOGIES FROM ME. /SLC

NO NAME COMPLAINER WROTE: "I don't think John and his supporters should be on the march in September because they do not have abuse issues. They are just plain antagonists and will NOT help this matter. They already don't respect the REPEATED REQUESTS from VICTIMS here to stop their religious debates as this is not the place for them and they show no respect for that. It seems that this can be because they don't have anywhere else to go to be heard. Actually, I don't blame anyone for not listening or trying to talk with John or his friends/supporters. They're not rational and they want to only consider THEIR information. Yes, I believe they ARE that stupid that they think everyone else is that stupid, too. Not all JW's are uneducated and easily led along. That's a very erroneous assumption John and his friends/supporters are making. I don't feel I'm being helpful if I don't say it as it is: John and anyone who supports him or comes up with more of your "facts" that are outrageous in light of LEGITIMATE LITERATURE and HISTORY, are all a bunch of idiots. Be mad if you want to. If it was up to me, you'd be kicked out of here so fast, you'd have to be given smelling salts to come to and you'd still be dumpfounded as to what just happened to you. Quite simply, you do not belong here. You're NOT a HELP. You're hogging space because no one wants you anywhere else. This open forum was a good idea in the beginning, however, for it to be a genuine support group that respects the confidentiality of its members, it should be one that each person has to sign-up for and there should be a moderator. THEN, if the likes of John and his friends/supporters tries to subvert the support group, they can be kicked out. John and your friends/supports, you DESERVE to get a few "bumps on your heads" -- maybe your right sense will come back again."

READ HERE --- ARTICLE IN THE ST. PETERSBURG TIMES Newspaper, Thursday, 8-22-02: ---
Witnesses excommunicate, or "disfellowship," a member, even the closest human ties can be severed without question. --- By SHARON TUBBS, Times Staff Writer © St. Petersburg Times published August 22, 2002 --- [Times photo: James Borchuck] After 20 years as a Jehovah's Witness, Shirley Jackson of St. Petersburg was "disfellowshipped," or excommunicated, in 1995. Family members and friends still in the religion are forbidden to have contact with a shunned individual. ----- ST. PETERSBURG -- As far as her children and 6-million people around the world are concerned, Shirley Jackson is as good as dead, has been for seven years. --- In 1995, Jackson, a home health care worker and a nanny who lives in St. Petersburg, was "disfellowshipped," or excommunicated, from Jehovah's Witnesses. Disfellowshipping is among the Witnesses' highest forms of discipline, reserved for those who disobey religious teachings and will not repent. --- Witnesses are told to immediately shun the disfellowshipped, who are said to be certain to die at Armageddon. Witnesses must pass them on the street without so much as a hello. Sons, daughters, mothers and fathers are expected to cut off relatives, making exceptions only in cases of family business or emergency. --- "No matter what they tell you, you will always be my daughter and I will always love you," Jackson recently wrote in a letter to her daughter, to no avail. Rather than strengthen families, Jackson says, the Witnesses tear them apart. --- Disfellowshipping is little known to outsiders, who recognize Witnesses only as the people who pass out magazines on Saturday mornings. But scandal in the denomination has opened a door to its core beliefs and operations. --- In recent months, at least three Witnesses were disfellowshipped after talking to Dateline NBC about church leaders' handling of child molestation allegations. The action made national headlines and spurred former Witnesses worldwide to step forward with their stories. --- Jehovah's Witnesses believe disfellowshipping is an act of love, intended to inspire sinners to change their ways so they eventually can apply to be readmitted to the faith. --- The sanction is based on I Corinthians 5, which directs Witnesses to "remove the wicked from among yourselves" and is necessary, said Witnesses national spokesman J.R. Brown, to preserve the religion's "moral integrity and cleanliness" in a corrupt world soon to be destroyed by God Jehovah. * * * Jehovah's Witness elders -- all are men -- are the equivalent of ministers in other religions. Though unpaid, they take on responsibilities such as teaching Bible lessons and passing on denomination policy. They also investigate Witnesses accused of committing crimes against other Witnesses. In some of these cases, the police are never called. --- Among the elders' primary tasks is serving on small judicial committees that hear confessions and decide whether an offense is worthy of excommunication. --- Excommunications are announced to the congregation, but elders never say why a person was expelled. Witnesses can only guess from a long list of offenses that range from smoking cigarettes to manslaughter. Homosexuality, fornication, drunkenness, slander, fraud, gambling, apostasy, fits of anger and violence, and adultery are others. --- The excommunication announcement tells members to begin shunning that person. If they don't, they, too, risk being disfellowshipped. Fear of being disfellowshipped is gripping for many Witnesses. Because they believe that only Witnesses will be saved from death, many don't associate with non-Witnesses. --- Being disfellowshipped, then, means losing your circle of friends, not to mention family members who remain in the faith. --- Elders disfellowship 50,000 to 60,000 Witnesses around the world each year, Brown said. --- "It's not an unusual occurrence, as far as we're concerned," he said. * * * Jackson, 54, had been a Witness for nearly 20 years when she began having doubts. --- In 1993, she said, her husband gathered his belongings in the middle of the night and abandoned her as she and her children slept. She said he had been violent, and she decided to divorce him. But Witnesses told her the only biblical justification for divorce is adultery, which she could not prove he had committed. --- Jackson was also on shaky ground with the Witnesses because she had close friends who were not in the faith, she said. In interviews, Jackson and several others said Witnesses are not allowed to socialize with non-Witnesses unless they are proselytizing. --- Brown, the Witnesses' spokesman, said this is not true, although differing interests sometimes make such relationships difficult. --- After her husband left her, Jackson continued going to the Kingdom Hall five times a week and performing 10 hours of door-to-door service each month, but she didn't feel very spiritual. One day while going door to door, Jackson mentioned to another Witness, "When I go into a Kingdom Hall, I don't feel God's presence is there." --- She became even more disillusioned in the mid 1990s when, she said, elders dismissed her suspicions that a fellow Witness was sexually abusing his 8-year-old daughter. No one called the police. --- But law enforcement authorities eventually got involved, and the girl was found in a trashed home, having eaten ketchup sandwiches to quell hunger, Jackson said. Some months later, Kenneth Donald Weaver was arrested and placed on community control in 1995 for sexual activity with a child. Weaver, who has a lengthy criminal history, is now in prison. --- Wavering in her beliefs, Jackson decided not to attend an annual assembly for Witnesses. --- Her daughter was upset and told elders. They went to her home for a visit. They had charges against her, Jackson said: One charge was "speaking out against a brother" with regard to the child molestation, she said. She said they told her to stop cavorting with her non-Witness friends. And someone had told them what she had said about not feeling God's presence in the Kingdom Hall. --- The elders told her she had 24 hours to change her ways, Jackson said. She refused to comply and was disfellowshipped, her name announced in front of the congregation. She was not present. --- Her daughter was 17 at the time. She moved out to live with other Witnesses, has not held a conversation with Jackson since and is now married and living in Alabama. --- Two of Jackson's three sons are also Witnesses and don't speak to her, she said. --- * * * [AP photo] William Bowen, a former Jehovah's Witness elder, stands near the Kingdom Hall in Marshall County, Ky., where he worshipped before he was disfellowshipped for criticizing the church's handling of child sex abuse allegations. ----- As with the Catholic Church, child molestation cases have brought the inner workings of Jehovah's Witnesses to the forefront. One case in Kentucky prompted former elder William Bowen to start asking questions. --- At the center of the cases is the two-witness rule. The Witnesses abide strictly by their Bible, the New World Translation. The translation is published by the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, the nonprofit organization in Brooklyn, N.Y., that acts as the Witnesses' headquarters and overseer. Deuteronomy 19:15: No single witness should rise up against a man respecting any error or any sin, in the case of any sin that he may commit. At the mouth of two witnesses or at the mouth of three witnesses the matter should stand good. As far as the Watch Tower is concerned, that means Witnesses can't take action against someone unless at least two people can verify an offense happened. That standard is difficult to meet in cases of child molestation, where often only the victim and perpetrator are present. About two years ago, Bowen began to suspect that a fellow elder in his congregation near Paducah was abusing the elder's daughter. In a review of Witness files, Bowen found that the elder had previously been accused of molesting someone else. Bowen says he got further proof that the daughter might also have been molested. In keeping with Witness policy, he called the Watch Tower's legal department in Brooklyn for guidance. The department is staffed with lawyers who are Jehovah's Witnesses. When Bowen described the situation, he says, he was told there was nothing to be done -- the man had denied it, so there weren't enough witnesses. He would have to "leave it in Jehovah's hands." Other former Witnesses who served as elders around the nation have since reported similar experiences. Disgusted, Bowen resigned as an elder and started a nonprofit organization and a Web site for Witnesses who were victims of molestation. Thousands logged onto his "silent lambs" site, he says. Many told stories of abuse that elders did not believe. Bowen, 45, went public with his story. He and several other Witnesses were featured on Dateline NBC. One woman, Barbara Anderson, had worked in the Watch Tower's research department and was concerned that the organization wasn't following up on abuse cases. Bowen contends that tipsters told him the organization keeps a database with the names of 23,000 accused molesters. Brown, the Witnesses' spokesman, would not discuss specific cases, but he scoffed at allegations that Witnesses protect child molesters. Yes, Witnesses believe in the two-witness rule, he said, but that's not the only way wrongdoers can be caught. "It cannot be said that we will do nothing unless there are two witnesses," Brown said. He said Witnesses are not required to report crimes to elders before calling civil authorities. Victims and their families are free to call police at will, he said, although some don't choose to. Elders' investigations work hand-in-hand with what Witnesses sometimes call "Caesar's law," Brown said. "We're not handling the criminality of this," he said. "We're handling the sin." The Watch Tower does keep records of people accused of molestation, but the number in the database is far fewer than 23,000, he said, declining to give a specific figure. Watch Tower officials use the database to ensure that a person against whom a credible allegation of molestation is made won't be elevated to positions of authority. Also, Brown said, if a person is accused in separate incidents, Witness officials have a record of that history and will look into the matter seriously. After the Dateline program aired in May, Bowen, Anderson and Anderson's husband were disfellowshipped. A couple who said their daughter had been abused by a Witness were also threatened with excommunication. The modern Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society began with a small group of Bible students near Pittsburgh and was incorporated in 1884. Back then, about 50 believers traveled door-to-door full time, spreading their beliefs. They were largely successful in the next few years in convincing people that the end of the world, or Armageddon, was imminent and that only Jehovah's Witnesses would survive. Witnesses don't believe in a burning hell. Non-Witnesses will simply be killed in the end. The vast majority of Witnesses will live forever on Earth, which will become a paradise once rid of the evil perpetrated by a society of nonbelievers. A select group of Witnesses -- 144,000, to be exact -- will live in heaven with Jesus Christ. This, based on a passage in the Book of Revelation, is referred to as "the heavenly hope." The denomination's governing body and a workforce of other Witnesses operate a massive and well-organized religious base with a legal department, publishing house and printing facilities that ship Witness literature and Bibles all over the globe. The Watch Tower keeps detailed accounts of the number of hours each Witness goes door-to-door, the number of home Bible studies completed and records of those who have been disfellowshipped. The governing body also establishes policy for Witnesses to live by that it says is based on the Bible. Witnesses cannot vote, receive blood transfusions or salute the flag, among other restrictions. Not even the marriage bed is beyond the Watch Tower's purview. Bowen said Witnesses believe that sexual activity between men and women should "follow the normal course" of things. "We feel that oral or anal intercourse would go beyond that." Couples are often counseled accordingly before marriage. Brown said. Guilt-ridden Witnesses have gone before judicial committees to confess wayward sex acts with their spouses. The Watch Tower predicted several times in the 1900s that Armageddon would occur. The organization grew as people were baptized Witnesses, hoping to join the only "true" religion before it was too late. Joseph F. Rutherford, once the Watch Tower's president, was convinced that 1925 would mark the year that forefathers Abraham, Isaac and Jacob would return to earth. Rutherford had a large mansion built in California so they would have a place to live. The mansion was later sold. Decades passed. Then Witnesses declared that the end would arrive in 1975. Some sold their homes, packed up and hit the road, going door-to-door to recruit as many people as they could. Young adults refused to go to college. Couples put off having children. Diane Gholson of Spring Hill was among those anticipating Armageddon. In 1974, she feverishly wrote letters to her husband's Baptist relatives, begging them to become Witnesses before it was too late. "When it didn't come, my husband said, 'Maybe they're off by a year,'" she said. They waited. And waited. By 1980, Gholson said, they'd had enough. In 1982, they were part of a group of Witnesses who participated in a march at Watch Tower headquarters. Watch Tower leaders, they charged, were nothing more than "false prophets." Gholson was disfellowshipped. Shirley Jackson, who had been baptized in 1974 in case the end did come, was unwavayed, however. She accepted the Watch Tower's explanation that the "light" of God's word was getting brighter.
* * * Brown says disfellowshipping inspires wrongdoers to come back to the religion. Those who want to reapply can do so, but they must adhere to Witnesses' policies. They are allowed inside the Kingdom Halls but are ignored by the other congregants until readmitted to the faith. --- Each year, Brown said, 30,000 to 40,000 are reinstated, having "come back to their spiritual senses." --- Jackson now goes to Glad Tidings Assembly of God church in St. Petersburg. She is happy there and says she can sense God's presence in the sanctuary. She regrets ever believing what the Witnesses taught her. --- Only her youngest child, a 17-year-old son, was not baptized a Witness. He lives with Jackson and her new husband. --- "It hurts," Jackson said of her broken family. "But I'm not bitter. I want to help people who are going through this." --- -- Times researcher Cathy Wos contributed to this report.

HERE IS THE LETTER WRITTEN TO HEARTS OF STONE (on behalf of Silent Lambs and B. Bowen written by a SILENT LAMB) ----- 8/10/02 ----- To the Appeal Committee on behalf of Bill Bowen --- Dear Elders, --- There is only one point that I feel needs to be made. I understand that Bill Bowen is being charged with "causing divisions in the organization." That charge is preposterous. --- I believe that the issue is a much graver one than that. --- I see the real and true issue to be "Who is causing divisions between Jehovah God and his precious little children?" --- Yes, "Who is putting a stumbling block between the little children who are victims (as well as the adults that they become) and their Heavenly Father?" --- To whom is Jesus speaking in Matthew 18:4, 5, 6, 10, 14 about the little children? --- Who "stumbles one of these little ones who put faith in me?" Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? Jesus said, "it is more beneficial for him to have hung around his neck a millstone such as is turned by an ass and to be sunk in the wide, open sea." (NWT) --- Who has become "an obstacle to bring down one of these little ones who have faith in (Him)?" Has Bill Bowen? Or, has the Governing Body? --- Jesus said he "would be better off drowned in the depths of the sea with a great millstone around his neck." (Jerusalem Bible) --- It is not my Father's will that even one of these little ones should perish. (Living Bible) --- Who "causes one of these little ones who trusts in me to lose his faith?" Is it Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? Jesus said "it would be better for you to have a rock tied to your neck and be thrown into the sea." (Living Bible) --- Who "is a hindrance to one of these little ones who believe in me?" Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? Jesus said it would be "better for him to have a great millstone hung round his neck and be sunk in the deep sea." (A New Translation by James Moffatt) (Also, compare Matthew 23:13) --- Who is Jesus warning in verses 10 & 14 when he says, "Beware that you don't look down upon a single one of these little children. For I tell you that in heaven their angels have constant access to my Father...Just so, it is not my Father's will that even one of these little ones should perish." (Living Bible) Is it Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- And again, who is Jesus warning, "See to it that you men do not despise one of these little ones; for I tell you that their angels in heaven always behold the face of my Father who is in heaven...Likewise it is not a desirable thing with my Father who is in heaven for one of these little ones to perish." (NWT) Is it Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is putting the little ones' present and eternal lives in danger with the "Child Protection Policy?" Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- In my 40+ years as one of Jehovah's Witnesses I never once heard about the Society's "Child Protection Policy!" I never once saw any mention of it in print! That is, until now! In fact, until the 1/1/97 Watchtower article "Let Us Abhor What Is Wicked" there has never been a discussion about child molesters among Jehovah's Witnesses. It was only in "other" religions, never ours! Why is it all of a sudden being offered to all of us? Any thinking person can see right through it. --- This so-called "Child Protection Policy" is nothing more than an effort to whitewash what is very filthy, an effort to prevent and stop the exposure of this evil practice among Jehovah's Witnesses and to prevent the rescue of our vulnerable and innocent children from the practitioners of this rank evil! --- Who is giving children the impression that God does not care about them and that He will not protect them or believe them? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is making them feel that He does not want to listen to them? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is making it more difficult for the little ones to trust and believe that their prayers to God are even heard by Him?...so that they may even question whether to pray to God at all? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is making these innocent little victims believe that Jehovah loves the bad guy more than He loves them? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is breaking the tender hearts of Jehovah God's and Christ Jesus' "little ones"? Is it Bill Bowen? Or, is it the Governing Body? --- Who is it that is EXHIBITING A SHAMELESS DISREGARD FOR THE LIVES OF THOSE ENTRUSTED TO THEIR CARE? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is destroying the faith of "these little ones" in Jehovah God, breaking their connection with Him? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is stripping Jehovah's "little ones" of the hope that is their rightful inheritance, even making many of them want to die? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body? --- Who is guilty of causing "absolute endangerment of spirituality" to these children and adult survivors? (Compare w11/1/88 p22 par 11) Is it Bill Bowen? Or, is it the Governing Body? --- Who has abandoned Jehovah's "little ones" and protected the perpetrators? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body?...THROUGH YOU! --- Who is damaging their spirituality, perhaps irreparably? Bill Bowen? --- Or, the Governing Body?...THROUGH YOU! --- Who is doing ALL of this incredible damage, Brothers, to Jehovah's "little ones"? Bill Bowen? Or, the Governing Body?...THROUGH YOU! --- Is this the reason you became elders? I would hope not! --- I AM ONE OF THOSE "LITTLE ONES." I have personally experienced what I am talking about! I was raped by someone who enjoys mighty privileges today. My spirituality was put in grave danger by the elders and by their treatment of me over this very issue of childhood abuse. My heartfelt appeals to the Society and to the Governing Body for help fell on deaf ears. --- My prayers have finally been answered! But, it hasn't been through the elder bodies or the Society or through the Governing Body. It has been through Bill Bowen and Silentlambs. I no longer feel alone and isolated as a victim/survivor, "divided" off from others. I am witness to Jehovah's blessing on Silentlambs, on Bill, on Barbara and on myself. My faith in God has been strengthened as a result. I am no longer afraid to speak out about what happened to me for fear of retribution from those who hurt me and from all of you. --- Any loss of connection (or so-called "division") with the organization and the Governing Body is a direct result of THEIR disconnect from me and THEIR abandonment of me FIRST AND FOREMOST. Their conduct toward me forced me to have to choose between them and Him. It shouldn't have if they were truly faithful to Him, should it? I chose Him then and I choose Him now. I choose to remain connected to Him first and foremost at all costs. --- In all honesty I cannot understand how you can say that you love Jehovah while loyally standing by those who hurt children like this...I cannot understand how you can be DISLOYAL to Jehovah God and to Jesus Christ and to the children who LOVE HIM. These are the children They seek to protect and save as evidenced by the verses quoted above. --- I have only one suggestion for you all. It is found at Acts 5:34-39. --- You know it well. "Men of Israel (Elders, Governing Body), pay attention to yourselves as to what you intend to do respecting these men (Bill Bowen, Joe and Barbara Anderson, Carl and Barbara Pandelo, Pat Garza, and others...). And so, under the present circumstances, I say to you, Do not meddle with these men, but let them alone; (because, if this scheme or this work is from men, it will be overthrown; but if it is from God, you will not be able to overthrow them;) otherwise, you may perhaps be found fighters actually against God." --- When you take sides with the organization and the Governing Body against innocent little children and against those who, like Bill Bowen, try to protect them, you put yourself in direct opposition to Jehovah God and to Jesus Christ. There is no mistake about it. There is no way that you are acting in harmony with the Holy Spirit. Rather you are joining the Governing Body in fighting the Holy Spirit's leading. --- There's only one other side that you can be on, heaven forbid. We know who's side that is. The only one you can be aligning yourselves with is the one who hates those who love The Father. Only Satan can be so evil and devious as to destroy the faith of "these little ones" in their Heavenly Father. You don't want to be on his side, do you? --- I pray that you get it straight and very soon for the sake of the children and for your own sakes...for your eternal destiny as well as theirs. --- What are your consciences telling you during the night? If they are feeling sick you better change sides real quick before it is too late to extricate yourselves from a very, very sick and dangerous position. --- (Compare Rev. 18:5) Quit shutting down to what Jehovah's Holy Spirit is trying to wake up in you! --- One last time I need to illustrate the point of my letter quite graphically. This is the stand that I personally see you men as taking if you refuse to make a change right away: --- When I was a child my family was involved in a Satanic cult. A man, David Allen Napfino, tried to rescue me. He lost his life instead. They grabbed him and held him down while another grabbed a knife and stabbed him through the heart killing him instantly. I was tied up and forced to watch. --- Are you not doing the same thing? Why are you trying to force me and others to stand back and watch while you hold down Bill Bowen, Barbara and Joe Anderson, and others while the Governing Body deliberately and knowingly thrusts the knife into their hearts and murders them? 'Slander is murder.' (Lev. 19:16) Disfellowshipping is total cutting off, supposedly unto eternal destruction. You are guilty of murder if you disfellowship this innocent man. --- Yes, you are just as guilty in my eyes as my family members are; and I have no doubt, whatsoever, that you will be just as guilty in Jehovah's eyes if you do not act decisively to protect the children NOW "while it is in the power of your hand to do so." If, as you say, you are true shepherds of His sheep you 'OWE IT' to His "little ones." (Pro. 3:27) --- Your personal guilt will be made manifest to the world if you still proceed to disfellowship Bill Bowen, if you continue to stand by the Governing Body on this issue and if you do not help to restore the good names and reputations, which you have slandered, of Bill, Barbara and others. --- Jehovah is watching, Jesus is watching, the world is watching and I am watching to see what you will do on this most urgent and important matter! You cannot hide what you choose to do from this day forward and...
From this day forward I refuse to allow the organization's policies to "tie me up" and silence me. (Compare Gal. 5:1) I refuse to follow the Society's demands to stand quietly by as more children are put at risk and molested. This time you WILL NOT prohibit me from speaking out and telling what I know. I will advocate for them to the greatest extent possible. I will make a shout big enough that it reaches up to heaven and it WILL be with Jehovah's help. Just wait and see. --- Sincerely, P G

"FROM THIS POINT FORWARD WE HAVE DECIDED TO MAKE A NEW GUIDELINE FOR ANYONE DISFELLOWSHIPPED FOR ABUSE ISSUES. WE MAKE OUR OWN [DF'ig] ANNOUNCEMENT." (Written by B.Bowen in his "My Disfellowshipping" email sent around last Friday, 8-16-02; and posted in this Guestbook last week). ----- SLC says: WAY TO GO BILL!! I never yet commented on this NEW GUIDELINE, and I think it is an EXCELLENT IDEA; and not only that, but YOU'VE got to be THE MOST GUTSY JW I EVER HEARD OF!!! What a BRAVE MOVE IT WAS for you to stand up right there in your congregation and SPEAK YOUR HEART and YOUR POSITION AGAINST the DF'ING DUE TO YOUR PART IN FREEING THE LAMBS FROM THEIR BONDAGE OF SECRECY!!!! A very belated CONGRATULATIONS for DOING THAT! You got more guts than I'd ever have. I also forgot to tell you that even some of the JW's on Just JW's @ MSN even wrote how CLEVER they thought you were for writing to the GB re: DISFELLOWSHIPPING THE GOVERNING BODY due to their CRIMES. They were Astounded and had never heard of anyone thinking or doing that before. BRAVO for being a "PIONEER" in the TRUE SENSE OF THE WORD, like Daniel Boone, going where no man has gone before (or is that Star Trek?) ;-) Sincerely, SLC

Cheerleader\:\: Thanks for reminding me to email St.Petersberg Post - best darn article yet!!!!! We will be receiving new posts here soon - be prepared. * About the ones locked in the trunk - so true. This is what at least half of this is about...for the ones out and alone, and the other half are the ones in who need Clarity so then they can make the decesion to leave or at least protect themselves & children if they choose to stay.******
Regarding the Job Description - I believe that each separate task would be performed by one separate person - as a team under one Job Description. So there might be six of us under one heading.... We will have to ask Bill!!!!! I appreciate all your posts SLC - you have alot of warmth and very vital information to give as always....I agree with whoever disagreed with keeping our posts short and comparing it to a magazine & T.V. - such a reasonable reply to an unreasonable requestI am in California, long ways from NY and I have PTS and I am self-employed AND CAN'T GO TO NY...I would love to go for the march as well as to NY just to see NY....I too will have to go in spirit and send my lambs without me..... Stitching the mouths close is a great idea!!!! Got lots to do...Love,soapbox

Ohhhh My!!! POOR LORIS!!!! I've been sitting here with old Watchtower & Awake! magazines (individual copies) from back to mid-to-late 1960s thru July of this year 2002 when they axed the subscriptions! We don't want you "going nutty" over the mysterious old issues v. bound volumes! If I had known, you could have zapped me and I could have looked it up for you! If anyone ever needs me to look up a SPECIFIC issue (give me the date of the issue or at least a good guestimate, as I can't go rummaging through 30 years worth of magazines), but I'd be happy to get out the individual copy and let you know. (I am only missing about 1-2-3 issues from each full year). John, it's on my To-Do List to look thru the 2000 and 2001's I have, but I always poop out before I get around to it (after checking/replying to regular email, checking/replying to this Guestbook, and checking/replying to the J-W.com, I am wiped out!) If your father doesn't find it for you, I promise I will look within the next few days! /SLC ----- (Loris had written: "I tried for years to find something written in a Watchtower. I knew that I had read it. I knew that I was not imagining it. But I had moved and threw away all the single copies of the magazines. After all I had the bound volumes. Come to find out it really was in a 1986 Watchtower but not in the bound volumes. That really made me mad. All that time thinking that maybe I was going crazy! Anyway, take care. Love Y'all, Loris")

DEAR KDH3238! HUGS & WELCOME. HOW BRAVE YOU WERE to go to the police in 1974 on behalf of the 7-year-old child! And J.R. BROWN ARE YOU LISTENING?????? YOU ARE A LIAR WHEN YOU SAY YOUR ELDERS DO NOT DF PEOPLE FOR GOING TO THE POLICE!!! EAT YOUR WORDS JR!!! KDH: I, like you, am in the same boat, on SSD and disabled, and don't see how in the world I could get to the March in Sept. I never stop thinking about it though. We'll have to CHEER THEM ON from the sidelines here at home. Take care and thanks for your story! (If any of us had the GUTS that B.Bowen had, wouldn't it be great if everyone who was previously DF'd for going to the police or whoever, went BACK INTO THEIR HALLS ONE NIGHT and stood up and made a statement how they were WRONGFLY DF'D! I know I know, it would take ALOT OF GUTS. Just dreaming here.) Agape/SLC

LOL! to whoever wrote re: "leaving the loo." :-) Make me laugh! So true about the flag salute/anthem thing... it's like being strangled in a knarled web. Just like the blood thing... it's getting so complicated even the doctors can't figure it out. If the WTS wants to make rules, it should just be flat-out: Yes or No, Period. --- Speaking of blood, it was okay for hemophiliacs to receive blood but not the rest of the JW gang. Because hemophiliacs need blood to survive everyday life. But if you get in an accident on ONE day out of your life, and need blood to survive, that doesn't count.... go figure.)

JW-Defender obviously has not been reading the MANY POSTS throughout this ENTIRE website (Abused Lambs/Battered Lambs sections; and 1.5 years worth of Guestbook posts), where dozens, even hundreds of people have clearly stated that WHEN THEY DID GO TO THE POLICE, THEY WERE REPRIMANDED BY THE ELDERS, and/or DF'd! WAKE UP! (Obnoxious wrote: "If something happened to my child, it is my primary responsibility to go to the police, not the elders GOT THAT? Can you accept that?) ----- Additionally, if the elders are not part of the American Justice System, then WHY DO THEY ACT LIKE IT, GIVING "THEIR LAW" THAT IT SHOULD BE KEPT "WITHIN" the cong rather than the police?? Again I say unto you, WAKE UP!!! Read KDH's post just yesterday! These people and their stories are coming out in droves! /SLC (Defender also wrote: "They are not part of the American Justice System. OK? Can you comprehend? They may be required by law to report in certain states, but don't blame them if YOU don't go to the police if your child is abused.")

I've lurked in the corners and watched this group. I'm an abuse victim but there's no way that I would share my story with you people. You don't display the spirit, motivation, or intent that I care to get involved in. You all sound like a bunch of children who are having tantrums because you can't get your way. I agree with others who have said this is not a support group but a means to bash and argue. Although I'm an abuse victim, I also know that I can't live the rest of my life blaming and hating as is being done here. You're not a positive influence and it makes me sicker when I come here and read your propaganda. You won't be seeing me here again. I'm sure you'll be glad because you have no respect for REAL victims and REAL comfort and support. Yes, I'm a "no name" and proud of it because there's no way I'd associate my name with you all.

Hey Hey Hey Soapbox!!! You're welcome on the St. Pete reminder... I have finally learned that if I do not send a Thank You right away (soooo many articles lately), that I never get around to it. So I'm learning! --- QUESTION: What do you mean by this mysterious statement: "We will be receiving new posts here soon - be prepared." You got me curious! I've heard "big hints" over at J-W.com that "something BIG is brewing." Well, I am sitting on the edge of my chair in suspense! ;-) --- Agree, the ones who are "still in" definitely NEED to protect themselves since the GB's rules say NO ONE CAN TALK ABOUT IT if they know of a pedophile in their midst. WATCH OPRAH THIS AFTERNOON, FRIDAY, 8-23-02, 4-5 PM, ABC!!! It will be covering the MIND & THINKING OF PEDOPHILES! IT WILL BLOW EVERYONE'S MIND if you have not seen this show before!! ----- Thanks for the TIP about the Job Titles/Descriptions. I was thinking those 1-6 descriptions meant the person had to be able to do all of those things.
Glad to hear that is not necessarily the case! --- Thanks for the kind words, CE! Not all deserved all the time but I'll accept them graciously nonetheless! ;-) --- I had no idea you were way out there in CALIF!!! I'm jealous! I was there in '98 (first time since '75). In '98 was briefly in Pacifica/San Mateo/Penngrove and I LOVED IT! I desperately wanted to move out there, but you know, $$$, older car, sagging health, etc. etc. It took me a year to get over it. That's how much I LOVED IT out there, the weather especially (NO HUMIDITY! Luscious!) --- As far as getting to NY from CA -- it totally (dare I say?) SUCKED flying that far (in '98). It was a killer physically, 12 hours on a plane. In the old days (when younger) I drove all over creation, from here to the West and back and everywhere in between, and loved every second of it. Ahhhh, Those Were The Days of Yore & Youth! ;-) --- If I already knew or read previously about your PTS, I forgot (sorry!) I understand that one definitely! --- Is being self-employed tough? I heard a saying once that went like this: "The Two Things Which Are HIGHLY OVER-RATED are owning your own business and being pregnant." LOL! --- Yes, I agree: STITCH SHUT the mouths of the stuffed toy lambs! That's the MAIN POINT as this website is so well named. Later girl! Love ya/SLC

I have been shocked by what I have read, but glad that this organisation exists - tho' of course it is a terrible indictment on the JW organisation that it has to. I am a Christian, and have heard some similar things about other sects too; in the view of many mainstream denominations the JWs belong to a sect - no intention to upset anyone here. "Truth is always on the scaffold, while untruth sits upon the throne." (And who sits on the JW Throne and Speaks With Forked Tongue?) Here's the poem by poet James Russell Lowell in 'The Present Crisis' -1844): ----- Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide, In the strife of Truth with Falsehood, for the good or evil side... Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne, Yet that scaffold sways the future, and, behind the dim unknown, Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above his own. ----- As Lowell says, Truth is always under attack, yet it is Truth that will decide the future, since God is on the side of Truth. TO PROUD & LURKING IN THE CORNERS: If you REALLY ARE an abuse victim, then it appears you have not learned too much in your recovery process. If you REALLY ARE an abuse victim, you would have COMPASSION for people in the SAME BOAT AS YOU but who may EXPRESS THEMSELVES, RECOVER and HEAL IN A WAY DIFFERENT FROM YOU. Are you so "WELL" now that you don't remember how horrible YOU YOURSELF have acted in the past? WHY ARE YOU THROWING STONES at people with similar history as you? HOW LOVING IS THAT???? ----- Remember the movie BAMBIE? Remember the famous line in that movie (we all remember it from when we were five years old). Bambie's mother told him (or was it a "her"?), "If you can't say anything nice, DON'T SAY ANYTHING AT ALL." What's my point in sharing that with YOU? POINT IS THIS: WHY COME HERE AND
CONDEMN & BEAT YOUR FELLOW LAMBS? THAT IS THEEEEEEE MEANEST THING I'VE READ SO FAR. I will bestow upon you the MEANEST QUEEN/KING OF THE DAY (even worse than the Haughty JW-Defenders, No Names, etc.). ----- I ESPECIALLY take issue with what you said here: (Lurker wrote: "You all sound like a bunch of children who are having tantrums because you can't get your way.") YOU ARE MISSING SOMETHING BIG HERE: After having been OPPRESSED & SUPPRESSED for DECADES (in some cases) by SO-CALLED SPIRITUAL ELERS, THIS IS THE FIRST TIME that these JW abused lambs have HAD A PLACE TO OPEN UP, SPEAK OUT, VENT, RAGE for all of their PAIN & ATROCITIES committed against them. And they are SAFE HERE to express what they want. ----- You remind me of an EX-Smoker. EX-smokers are the most haughty self-righteous and condemnatory people on the planet. They go around condemning those still addicted by saying, "Well, I WAS ABLE TO QUIT! What's YOUR problem???" ---- And that is exactly what you are doing. At least we KNOW you are a JW because of that exact attitude, but whether you are really an abuse victim is questionable. HOW HAUGHTY & UNLOVING CAN ONE GET than to condemn their fellow victims? You really ARE a sad sack of potatoes if I ever saw one. I'd rather see angry people who are at least HONEST about their emotions than a Super-Self-Righteous & Haughty Person like yourself, lurking in the corners and hiding behind "nameless names." ----- The REAL PROBLEM YOU ARE HAVING is clearly stated in these words of yours: "You're not a positive influence and it makes me sicker when I come here and read your propaganda," OPERATIVE WORD: PROPAGANDA. That tells us a lot, i.e.: You are still a JW, and have yet to learn anything at all about the behind-the-scenes TRUE workings of the FDS/GB, so you are still in "spiritual darkness" regarding these things. Therefore, when you see such subjects discussed here, you are horrified and immediately go into COMPLETE DENIAL, and you LASH OUT. We've got your number CORNER-LURKER: You are just another JW-IN-DENIAL. That is probably what Buster meant when he said look around, and then come back. Yes, by all means, LOOK AROUND here and elsewhere. When you finally "see the light," do come back, hopefully with a more HUMBLE lamb-like attitude! We will greet you with open arms (but STONE-THROWING at your FELLOW ABUSED-LAMBS is a Big No No!) ----- Sign Me: PROUD Silent Lambs CHEERLEADER, PROUD to be part of this group, PROUD to know the people who post here regularly, PROUD to be in their company. I am passing on a piece of history, in the late 1980’s a sister worked on abuse issues with Wt before Barbara was assigned to do research on the subject. She was later shoved to the side, but the essay below was written in an attempt to offer assistance to those within. Watchtower was well aware of this information as they were submitted a copy. THEY KNEW well before Barbara Anderson came on the scene something terrible was afoot as this commentary points to that end. Barbara’s research along with others took it to the very laps of the entire Governing Body, we know the result. As you read this you will see there was much insight given to not only understanding but also how to address this problem. History has shown nothing was done, while WT knew all along children were being raped. bill ---

HELP FOR WITNESSES HANDLING ISSUES OF ABUSE AND VICTIMIZATION IN THEIR LIVES ---

Moving Forward Page 2 --- The breakdown of family life in the time of the end has taken a terrible toll on this generation. More and more of our brothers and sisters are facing the fact that their mental and emotional damage from growing up with family dysfunction and child abuse is deeper and deeper and longer lasting than ever imagined. As they realize that their childhood experiences may not only have influenced but dictated the pattern of their adult lives, they begin to come to terms with issues of trust and intimacy that effect all their relationships. The following information is presented to help their friends and spiritual shepherds understand the spiritual and moral consequences they endure. It is hoped that this will enable them to express their love for the victims in the most helpful way, and specific suggestions are included as to how this can be done. ---

The author is a Christian sister whose self-observations provide insight into the thinking of someone facing these issues in her own life. The author would like to stress that, though this is a personal account, the thoughts and feelings expressed herein are common to victims of abuse. It is offered with love and the expectation that the empathy of our friends and Jehovah’s spirit will accompany us into recovery. ---

I grew up in south Florida where long days at the beach are a taken-for-granted part of summer. Walking under the palms in the grassy area near the beach is safe for bare feet.
But, the sun heats the open sandy beach itself above a temperature tolerable to the touch. One day I forgot and ran toward the water, heedless of my unprotected soles. When I realized I was being burned, I stopped, hopping on alternate feet to look back and decide whether I would endure less pain dashing back to the grass or racing ahead to the ocean. I was equal distance from both, and since the reason I had come to the beach was to get in the water, I rushed on and in moments immersed my burned feet in the soothing sea water. The problem with life is always the same. To go ahead is painful, to go back is painful and to stand still is intolerable. We have to remember that we came to the beach to get in the water, we came to life to live it, in order to plunge on ahead. ---

Who are the people for whom life is so painful that a real danger exists they may decide not to live it? I don’t know them all, but I know some of them. And I am qualified to write about them because I am one of them. We are adults who were hurt as children and are still hurting. I am writing this to help you, our friends and spiritual shepherds, recognize some of the patterns of behavior and personality that identify us and provide some insight into the moral and spiritual problems we face. This may help you feel more confident in dealing with us. ---

One elder, himself a victim of sexual abuse, commented that “Satan was the first child molester.” Satan picked the youngest and most vulnerable of Jehovah’s children to seduce. The resulting corruption of life’s character, including the guilt reaction, set the pattern for all future child abusers/molesters. ---

follow the command "love your neighbor as yourself." How attractive to me are people who operate from a center of health and self-assurance? I wonder what it would be like to love my neighbor as I loved myself. What it would be like to look out on the world from an inner room of peace and confidence? Sometimes I'm almost there. Oh God! How I want to be like that! --- If we hate and despise ourselves, how can we ever love our neighbor? Blessedly, we have an inspired definition of love, not as a feeling, but rather, action. By training in the application of Bible principles, even those of us who are badly damaged by the abuse can learn to show love to others. This engenders in others a loving response which, over time, can begin to build ourself-esteem and heal us. --- Our interpersonal relationships are affected by our unclear self-identity and low self-esteem, and our relationship with Jehovah is also affected. Until recently, I held the delusion that I could hide part of myself from Jehovah. I was sure that, if I revealed myself completely, Jehovah would hate me as much as I hated myself, condemn me as I condemn myself. What despair lay behind these thoughts! So, I maintained my delusion in spite of the clear, intellectual knowledge that Jehovah knew everything about me, better than I knew myself. --- One thing we are good at is mental gymnastics. We are good at thinking one thing while feeling another, perceiving one thing while believing another. Of all the precious benefits being in therapy and recovery have brought me so far, the breaking down of barriers to freeness of speech in prayer is the one I treasure the most. --- Sexual abuse produces in the victim a profound sense of shame. This is compounded by the fact that, on a physical level, some forms of abuse are pleasurable to the victim. Youngsters who have a healthy childhood naturally experience a coming alive of sexual feeling in adolescence, but for some of us those sensations were overwhelmingly the major feelings of our childhood. Even with mature, loving parental guidance, young men and women find their awakening to sexuality confusing and hard to handle. Yet they have had thirteen or fourteen or so years to develop coping mechanisms such as self-control, communication skills, delayed gratification etc. What skills does an infant or young child possess to cope with the intensity sexual feelings? Little or none. At the same time, the abuse itself retards the development of other emotions and qualities of character and personality. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 4.....
What is abuse? Abuse takes many forms. All parents mistreat their children sometimes; that comes with imperfection. What damages a child is a pattern of family life where the child's need for unconditional love is generally unmet. This can occur without overt physical or sexual abuse in a dysfunctional family. Anyone who grew up in a family with an addicted parent grew up in a dysfunctional family. But sexual abuse is such an overpowering violation of self-hood that just one incident may have tragic consequences. Rather than over-dramatizing, many victims minimize the incident(s), and many who were abused do not recognize that what happened was abusive, even when they fully recollect it. --- People who suffer from shame, low self-esteem, lack of self-identity and compulsive/obsessive behavior were victims of abuse, whether they recall it or not. How do we manage to function at all? How do we, with our damaged spirituality and emotions, carry on for years as participating members of the congregation of God's people? To answer that, it would be helpful to have a working definition of what constitutes mental/emotional health. The following explanation (provided by a brother who is a mental health professional) is elegantly simple, immediately applicable and totally in harmony with the bible. --- When someone is mentally/emotionally healthy, the person they are on the outside, which they present to others, their personality (including their practices) is a reflection of what they are on the inside. What a person is on the inside is what the bible calls "the secret person of the heart." When someone is mentally/emotionally sick, the person they are on the outside, which they present to others, their personality (including their practices) hides or conceals what they are on the inside. There can be two reasons why someone would hide who they really are. They may be evil and be putting on a false front like Satan does when he "transforms himself into an angel of light." Or the person may have been so badly hurt when young that they have built up layers of defenses to keep the secret person of the heart from being wounded anymore. If these layers of defenses are strong enough and complex enough, they may try to form an alternate personality that is very different from what the person truly is inside. --- What is it like for someone to be locked away inside the defensive barriers? I always felt disconnected and unreal, as though I did not exist in the "real world" with everyone else. The barrier was almost palpable, like a curtain or wall. I envisioned myself tearing it apart or knocking it down and stepping through to the other side. Sometimes I even reached my hands out to do so, but there was nothing there that I could grab hold of or beat down. Now, after some therapy, I feel like I am at last, finally here. But who is the "I" that is really here? I don't know who I am. I have no clear edges. My boundaries are fuzzy. I can't tell exactly where I leave off and someone else begins. This makes it hard for me to set limits on my own behavior and picture. --- As my layers of defenses come down, I feel fragile. Sometimes I'm so thin I might break apart, or so insubstantial I'm afraid I'll disappear back inside. But I like being here. So I fight to get myself in focus, to feel my edges, to feel solid and whole. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 6.....
with many genuine (though often frantic) accomplishments, none of which nourish our inner self. We may seem arrogant or egotistical, while inside we feeling inadequate or worthless. The elder previously mentioned said he can spot the victims who are always smiling and pretending to be fine, because they have a "haunted look in their eyes." -- When you are dealing with victims of abuse, try to remember that many unpleasant personality traits we exhibit do not reflect the person we are inside. Even wrong practices may be part of our defense mechanism. This is because we behave compulsively. We do not make choices; we do not know ourselves enough to ask, "What do I want?" We are controlled, not in control. Compulsive behaviors include refraining from or overindulging in the following: --- FOOD: Food may be equal to nurturing. This is a favorite compulsion for victims of abuse. In some cases, the nature of sexual abuse may develop a desire to control what is put in the mouth. Because ethyl alcohol is similar chemically to sugar, children of alcoholic parents may be biologically predisposed to addiction to sugar as well as alcohol. Symptoms of malnutrition in a sister who has a family origin history of alcoholism may indicate a binge-purge (bulimia) or anorexia eating disorder. --- SEX: Compulsive sexual misconduct ranges from masturbation to promiscuity. Many female victims end up as prostitutes. Women whose personal boundaries are unclear are vulnerable to sexual advances that healthier women would reject automatically. They may literally not know how to say "no." For sisters who have this problem, a commitment to uphold Jehovah's sovereignty by following His moral standards is their only protection. Precocious (early) sexual behavior in children or compulsive (repeated or multiple partners) misconduct in teenagers should be considered a red flag that may warn of a dysfunctional family with possible sexual abuse. --- WORK: Many companies depend on a core of workaholics as the engine of their success. Healthy people find job satisfaction; a workaholic never does. This problem may be misdiagnosed as materialism. Even the most sublime work available to humans today - kingdom evangelism - can be engaged in compulsively. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 7...

" MOVING FORWARD" ----- CONTINUED FROM ABOVE ----- Moving Forward Page 7 --- MONEY: Money is representative. It's value is not inherent but attributed. This means we can hang all kinds of psychic baggage on money. Someone who is behaving compulsively with money may spend (shop) or may hoard. Severe and re-curring disagreements about money between married people may represent power struggles and/or sexual problems. --- SUBSTANCE ABUSE: Alcohol and drugs are a major compulsion problem. This problem can't exist in a family without causing the family system to become dysfunctional. As with sexual misconduct, substance abuse by a young of feelings, or which encourages people to pretend that things are not as they really are, fosters mental illness within. The most important rule is: Don't Talk! Any cultural, organizational or familial system that prevents any honest expression within the source of life. Our lack of self-control/esteem/identity results from our being taught not to trust our own perceptions. Our feelings were denied rather than validated. One sister remembers: "When my father finished beating me in one of his rage-a-holic fits, I went crying into my room. My mother followed me in and I turned to her cheek. She moves away from him, falling in line with other students as he pursues her. They are out of my sight for a few seconds, but when they reappear, his arm is around her shoulder and she is leaning against him as they walk. My stomach churns. Her future is my past. In my recognition of her, and in my compassion, I have a sign of my progress toward health. --- Our obsessions and compulsions represent a lack of self-control. The ultimate loss of control is in death, so obsessions/compulsions are a pathway to death. They are mini-suicides robbing us of control bit by bit, and may lead us to actual suicide. On the other hand, self-control is a fruitage of the spirit of God, who is the source of life. --- Our lack of self-control/esteem/identity results from our being taught not to trust our own perceptions. Our feelings were denied rather than validated. One sister remembers: "When my father finished beating me in one of his rage-a-holic fits, I went crying into my room. My mother followed me in and I turned to her and said, "I hate him!" and she replied, "No, you don't really feel that way." --- Victims internalize a set of rules: We don't feel what we feel. We don't think what we think. We don't see what we see. We don't hear what we hear. --- The most important rule is: Don't Talk! Any cultural, organizational or familial system that prevents any honest expression of feelings, or which encourages people to pretend that things are not as they really are, fosters mental illness within... its' members. --- As young children, we take on the role of protecting and defending our abusers. This is the beginning of Co-dependency. Even with all of these problems, we may function within normal parameters. We get married, raise families, work, carry out congregational responsibilities, preach, etc. Many of us have some rough times as teenagers, then settle down in our twenties into an apparently stable life. But, something goes wrong later on. We have some unfinished work to do. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 9...

" MOVING FORWARD" ----- CONTINUED FROM ABOVE ----- Moving Forward page 9 --- At first, we don't know what's going on. We increase our compulsive behavior as our internal controls start to break down. We think: "This can wait until after armageddon. I don't have time for this now." Coping mechanisms we used in youth suddenly reappear. Our out-of-control thoughts and behaviors cause guilt and shame. We feel like we are falling apart. We may believe, or others may tell us we have a spiritual problem that can be solved by more field service, personal study etc. When this doesn't work, we may start to think that our faith has failed us or that we have failed our faith. --- Some of us have flashbacks of childhood experiences. This is a symptom o post-traumatic stress disorder. We try to put the lid back on. Some of have litanies, a phrase to repeat until we get back on top. I sat for hours saying to myself: "Don't think, don't think, don't think" over and over. If we cannot squelch the memories, we may begin to, or go back to, using drugs or alcohol to drown them out or numb the pain. --- A real spiritual problem can develop if substance abuse goes on unchecked. We get depressed and thoughts of suicide begin to seduce us. We need: 1. Exoneration. 2. Acceptance and Approval. 3. Respect. --- (1) Exoneration: We need to be freed from guilt and shame. We need to be told that we were victims, that what happened to us was not our fault, that we were not to blame. We may need to hear this message over and over. Remember, it has to get through the defenses to the secret person of the heart. --- We don't just feel guilty because of the abuse, we feel guilty because of the ways we coped with it; we are ashamed of our compulsive behaviors. We need to be told that whatever we did to survive was o.k. We had a right to survive. Recovery cannot occur unless survival comes first. --- Guilt and shame are not synonymous. Guilt is healthy, shame is not. The internal messages are different. The message of guilt is: "I have done something bad." The message of shame is: "I am bad." Guilt motivates us, shame debilitates us. Shame has to do with self-worth and may have no connection with conduct. --- We did not go through the normal stages of emotional development. Some of us were trained in immorality from infancy. We feel shame because of the bizarre, intrusive, confusing, furtive or frightening nature of our first sexual experiences. Some of us have discovered perverted desires in ourselves and we are ashamed of these. We are responsible for our behaviors. Most of us have triumphed over Satan's programming of us. All of us can. --- (2) Acceptance and Approval: If you stand for a moment in the shoes of a victim of sexual abuse and feel the depth and intensity of our self-loathing, you would be shocked and shaken. One addictive disorders counselor said: "I fwe did to others what we did to ourselves, we would be sued, imprisoned and scorned by society." We have figured out ways to pay for our "crimes" that truly constitute cruel and unusual punishment. But we are experts at enlisting others to punish us too. We especially enjoy the services of authority figures in this, and elders fall into that category. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 10...

" MOVING FORWARD" ----- CONTINUED FROM ABOVE ----- Moving Forward page 10 --- Once we recognize ourselves as victims, we have taken the first step toward recovery. Now we need to learn who we are, we need to define ourselves. Your acceptance and approval affirms what is good is us. It takes many positive messages to counteract the negative ones we have stored in our heads. --- We are almost psychic when it comes to reading other people's feelings. We have been tuning into others and blocking out our own feelings all our lives. This starts with having to read what kind of mood our parents were in so we would know how safe we were from minute to minute. This ability may make us seem overly sensitive. We can't help it. With our ill-defined boundaries, a flicker of irritation across someone's face may assault us like a blow. (If you are trying to help a victim and you cannot truly accept and approve of them forget it. You are not not the man for the job.) --- As I start recovery, I find I am hungry to hear good things about myself. Some elders seem afraid to offer praise to me. Others are warmly supportive. From them upbuilding and encouraging words just flow. When I get better, stronger, I will be able to say good things about myself. I will gradually replace the negatives tapes in my head with positive ones. I will apply myself consciously and systematically to the task. I have already begun, but in the meantime, the acceptance and approval of others is important to my recovery. It is where I am right now, and I accept that I am where I am. --- If you are trying to help a victim, do not hold back your affirmations of their personal worth. Do not be afraid that your praise will make us "puffed-up." Remember how low our self-esteem is. Accepting me means accepting my feelings. Denial of the validity of feelings is a form of emotional abuse. Never tell someone "you shouldn't feel that way." A feeling is a fact. I feel the way I feel. It's easy to accept positive feelings, but negative emotions may push the wrong buttons in you. Keep it in perspective, remembering who is sick and who is well. Don't take things personally. Many of us have repressed anger. It may leak out and hurt those around us, even those who are trying to help us. We need to TALK ABOUT OUR FEELINGS. Victims who deny they are angry may be more for you to deal with than those who are feeling and expressing anger. But, the latter are further along in recovery. We are emotionally retarded and confused. We may come across as rude, selfish, arrogant, demanding, cold or indifferent. Don't be fooled; we are terrified. --- Female victims are usually co-dependent, fearful and angry with men, yet craving their acceptance and approval. We may need to be encouraged to do a reality check. Question whether we are responding to a here and now situation, or re-enacting something from the past. It may even help to say, "I am not the man who hurt you, I am not going to hurt you." --- Male victims are just as fearful as female victims, but they tend to be as afraid of their own potential to hurt others as they are afraid of others. One Christian brother went into severe isolation and depression when his first child was born because of his fear that he would, like so many male victims, become an abuser. Men who are adult children of alcoholics (ACOA'S) may have intense needs to control and dominate others. This is a reaction to the unpredictable conditions of their early life. They may be more difficult to reach than female victims because of reluctance to express emotions, fear of appearing --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 11...
childhood stuff, and then come to see the pattern of abuse is continuing. --- If we are living with an addict, we are co-dependent. Healthy people will not put up with what we tolerate. We will endure anything. I always thought, "if I could stand it, it must be o.k." It never occurred to me that life was to be lived, not just survived. Co-dependency is the normal response of someone --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 12...

"MOVING FORWARD" ------ CONTINUED FROM ABOVE ------ Moving Forward page 12 --- who lives for an extended time in an abnormal situation. Everyone engages sometimes in co-dependent behavior. But for some of us, co-dependency is an illness that has taken on a life of its own. It is a progressive, fatal condition. Recovery is ongoing, it is between sickness and health, it is between the process of the illness and the process of recovery. --- What if you recognize a victim before the victim recognized himself or herself? It is very difficult to help a victim who is in denial. I read plenty of articles, including the ones in the Watchtower and Awake! about mental illness, child abuse, battered wives, etc. But, while I was in denial, I never believed any of this stuff applied to me. You will have to wait for the person to get ready to go through the process. Ultimately, our lives become manageable. You can put yourself on standby, let them know: "if you ever want to talk about this, I am willing to listen." --- Be prepared; once the damn breaks and the friend starts to talk, they may not be able to stop until it is all out. Provide appropriate avenues for them to express themselves and listen, listen, listen, accept, accept, accept. (Of course, if the person is engaging in immorality, child abuse, spousal abuse, drunkenness, drug abuse, or criminal activities, the disciplinary function of the congregation provides intervention as well as leverage to encourage treatment.) --- For the victim who is ready but is having trouble remembering, some things that can help are: conversations with siblings, looking at old photographs, visiting childhood sites, listening to or reading other's experiences. Reading this paper may help someone recognize their underlying problem. Writing as therapy is highly recommended. One therapist said that writing communicates what is learned by one part of us to another part of us. I found that writing put my intelligence and creativity in charge of me towards health. --- How do you know whether or not professional help is required? You don't. But the victim probably will. We can tell in which direction we are headed. Since issues of domination, control, or free will may be involved, we should be encouraged to make our own decisions, and, as much as possible, direct our own recovery. This applies to people whose illness is the result of childhood abuse, but whose brain functions are otherwise normal. --- Professional evaluation should be sought for those who are severely depressed, suicidal, or whose coping abilities have broken down, so that medical treatment can be used where it would be helpful. One sister, for example, is being treated for a problem with brain chemistry, manic depression, and is also having talking therapy to deal with childhood issues. Just as people can have more than one physical illness or injury at a time, they can have more than one mental illness at a time. --- Thousands of people are moving into recovery by reading, writing, talking and listening, without individual therapy by a professional. Many others use a therapist to orient them to the task and then get on with it with the help of a support group. A support network is also very important. Some witnesses are getting this within their own congregation, while others are finding it elsewhere. --- Some of you elders may hesitate to get involved with people going through some of those things. You may not have a choice. Some of you are married to victims. Some of you feel unqualified and afraid. You can overcome that by education. Your best source of information will probably be the friend you are trying to help. We are often very clued in to what we need and if you listen, we will tell you. --- CONTINUED ON PAGE 13...

"MOVING FORWARD" ----- CONTINUED FROM ABOVE ----- Moving Forward page 14 --- Maybe the next time the kids make a mistake, I'll stand them against the wall and shoot them. The ludicrousness of the whole thing is becoming clear. I decided I have had enough of this feeling and that when I turn the corner, I am going to stop feeling this way. I will forgive myself and everyone else, and I do. --- My head is a minefield and I never know when something is going to blow up. But if I walk and run and stomp and dance around in there long enough, I'll get rid of them. That is why my recovery has to be a major priority in my life. --- I am not alone on this journey, nor is the path uncharted. Many others have already been here and their stories give me hope and show me where I am headed. I've got some tough stuff to do real soon, family of origin work and healing my inner child. I've had glimpses of how excruciating this is going to be. My personality has been shredded, now I have to rebuild it piece by piece. But I have Jehovah, the friends, my support group and my own courage. I'll make it as those who came before me did, and as those who follow me will, too. --- We can move into positions of power in our lives. We can do amazing things. More impressive than the widow who gave all she had and earned Jesus’ praise, some of us have managed to give our children what we never had, self-esteem. What more could anyone give than to give what was never given them? This is a triumph!! --- Please listen to us, give us your exoneration, acceptance, approval and respect. Then, as our layers of defenses peel away to reveal who we really are inside, someone precious and lovable, we will come to have your affection as well. --- THE END OF "MOVING FORWARD."

Well, I could have NEVER said it so well myself! Lambs themselves already KNOW these things, but EVERYONE ELSE (who was fortunate enough to NOT have ever been abused) should find the above "MOVING FORWARD" letter extremely educational. PART ONE: A CRITIQUE OF COMMENTS by JR BROWN in THE ST. PETERSBURG TIMES' article by SLC. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Jehovah's Witnesses believe disfellowshipping is an act of love, intended to INSPIRE sinners to change their ways so they eventually can apply to be readmitted to the faith," ----- SLC: How INSPIRING is it when there is no one to help you. Your former JW friends cannot talk to you, nobody will study with you. It's "all on your own" or forget it. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Elders disfellowship 50,000 to 60,000 Witnesses around the world each year, Brown said. 'It's not an unusual occurence, as far as we're concerned, he said. ----- SLC: That struck me as funny! If DF'ing is not an "unusual occurrence," what does that say about the society itself? ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "In interviews, Jackson and several others said Witnesses are not allowed to socialize with non-Witnesses unless they are proselytizing. Brown, the Witnesses' spokesman, said this is not true..." ----- SLC SAYS: Brown is a flat out FIBBER. The PRESSURE and CLEAR IMPLICATION taught at the K.Hall and in all of the WTBTS literature is that having any "wordly friends" is a BIG RISK and a BIG "NO NO" because you will become spiritually weak; or you will pick up their bad habits; or they will draw you away from the JW religion. If you have any worldly friends, and the JWs know it, you will be LOOKED DOWN UPON as being "weak." No 'ifs' 'ands' or 'buts' about that. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "She became even more disillusioned in the mid 1990s when, she said, elders dismissed her suspicions that a fellow Witness was sexually abusing his 8-year-old daughter. No one called the police. ----- SLC AGREES: THIS IS RAMPANT ALL OVER THE COUNTRY & THE WORLD. JR BROWN IS A LIAR WHEN HE SAYS CHILD ABUSE IS INVESTIGATED AND HANDLED. Sure, they "investigate," and find out the only "witness to it" is the one child, and then they say, "Tough Stuff, nothing we can do about it," and that is how it is "HANDLED." More like MAN-HANDED, Over & Out! ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "One charge was 'speaking out against a brother' with regard to the child molestation, she said. She said they told her to stop cavorting with her non-Witness friends. And someone had told them what she had said about not feeling God's presence in the Kingdom Hall. ----- SLC SAYS: SEE? These elders told her to stay away from her worldly friends, which is the exact OPPOSITE of what JR Brown (Media PR MAN for the WTBTS) said above! ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "As far as the Watch Tower is concerned, that means Witnesses can't take action against someone unless at least two people can verify an offense happened. ----- SLC SAYS: The WTBTS "strains out the gnat (ABUSE VICTIM) but gulps down the camel (MOLESTERS)" by picking and choosing which of the Hebrew laws it wishes to use. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "That standard is difficult to meet in cases of child molestation, where often only the victim and perpetrator are present." ----- SLC SAYS: Yes, can you imagine Jesus himself, after being approached by a child telling Jesus of being abused/molested -- can you see Jesus telling the child, "Run along now. There's nothing I can do about that, because you are the only one saying it. Go on back home now with your [abuser] and suffer some more, and come back and see me when you can PROVE
IT at the mouth or two or three of your little playmates once they also have been RAPED." ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "When Bowen described the situation, he says he was told there was nothing to be done -- the man had denied it, so there weren't enough witnesses. He would have to "leave it in Jehovah's hands." ----- SLC SAYS: I believe Jehovah God expects us to help children when we hear of it. This "leave it in Jehovah's hands" is another way of saying, "Don't ruffle feathers. Don't make any waves for us." Does Jehovah God expect us to take out own garbage out of our houses and put it on the street for the garbage man to collect? Then why would we expect that Jehovah would not want us to get the GARBAGE OUT of the congregations and put them on the STREET for COLLECTION by the AUTHORITIES? Or should we say, "I am waiting on Jehovah to come INTO MY HOUSE and take out MY garbage for ME." Well, that is exactly what the WTBTS has done... waited and waited... decade after decade, while the atrocities of child rape and molestation continued to grow and spread, like PILED-UP Garbage! And now we can only hope the authorities WILL GO INTO THE HOUSE (of the WTBTS) and TAKE OUT THEIR GARBAGE all the way to jail (i.e., demand they turn over the names of the 23,000 abusers on file at headquarters, etc.). ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Brown, the Witnesses' spokesman, ... scoffed at allegations that Witnesses protect child molesters." ----- SLC SAYS: JR BROWN is full of baloney. The 5,000+ individuals who have contacted Bill Bowen and Silent Lambs PROVES BROWN IS A LIAR. In other words, no support and ENCOURAGEMENT, but "keep it quiet, there were NOT two eyewitnesses, so if you speak of this to anyone, you will be disfellowshipped for slander." There are hundreds of accounts of this very thing at this website and thousands more who have contacted Bowen directly. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "The Watch Tower does keep records of people accused of molestation, but the number in the database is far fewer than 23,000, he [Brown] said, declining to give a specific figure. ----- SLC ADDS: Funny how Brown had no qualms with stating Specific Figures for how many are Disfellowshipped each year (50,000-60,000). And he had no qualms about stating how many "come back to the truth" each year (30,000-40,000). So why is JR SHY about telling the real figure of Molesters on File at HQ? If the number is so much LOWER, then WHY HIDE IT????? Wouldn't you think Brown would be EAGER to tell this Much Lower Number??? I find this VERY ODD. The man can NOT BE TRUSTED. He speaks with a FORKED TONGUE. ----- CONTINUED IN NEXT SECTION...

PART TWO: A CRITIQUE OF COMMENTS by JR BROWN in THE ST. PETERSBURG TIMES' article by SLC. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "After the Dateline program aired in May, Bowen, Anderson and Anderson's husband were disfellowshipped. A couple who said their daughter had been abused by a Witness were also threatened with excommunication." ----- SLC ADDS: If you're speaking of the Pandelos, they WERE disfellowshipped. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "The denomination's governing body and a workforce of other Witnesses operate a massive and well-organized religious base with a legal department, publishing house and printing facilities that ship Witness literature and Bibles all over the globe." ----- SLC ADDS: And please don't forget the PUBLIC RELATIONS DEPARTMENT! (Which is basically a SCHMOOZE DEPARTMENT for the media and the current JWs who have little contact with the outside world or the internet, so they still believe whatever HQ & Brown tells them). ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "The governing body also establishes policy for Witnesses to live by that it says is based on the Bible. Witnesses cannot vote, receive blood transfusions or salute the flag, among other restrictions" ----- SLC ASKS: Wasn't JR Brown quoted in the not-too-distant past as saying that that voting was a matter of conscience? Or was that military service? As far as blood transfusions, there are certain parts of blood that now ARE ALLOWED. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Brown said Witnesses believe that sexual activity between men and women should "follow the normal course" of things. "We feel that oral or anal intercourse would go beyond that." ----- SLC ASKS: I THOUGHT THE WTBTS FINALLY DECIDED TO GET OUT OF THE BEDROOM A NUMBER OF YEARS AGO? ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "By 1980 ... a march at Watch Tower headquarters. ... nothing more than "false prophets." ----- SLC ADDS: Make that False PROFITS. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Brown says disfellowshipping INSPIRES wrongdoers to come back to the religion. Those who want to reapply can do so, but they must adhere to Witnesses' policies. They are allowed inside the Kingdom Halls but are IGNORED by the other congregants until readmitted to the faith." ----- SLC SAYS: Who in their RIGHT MIND thinks BEING IGNORED EQUALS INSPIRATION? WAIT! I'm having a REVELATION!! NEW Scriptural Light: Jesus said, "IGNORE your neighbor as YOURSELF." And this New Scripture: "There is MORE HAPPINESS in IGNORING than there is in LOVING." Or how about this one: "Truly I tell you, the ANGELS IN HEAVEN before my Father REJOICE over one sinner who is IGNORED." And this: "TOUGH LOVE (IGNORING) promotes FINE WORKS." Or this one: "For God LOVES a CHEERFUL IGNORER." Or! Another one just popped into my head: "Broad and Spacious is the road leading off to the IGNORERS, and MANY are participating in it; but narrow and cramped is the road of the IGNORER, and few if any are putting up with it." (Hey, these are getting better all the time. JW-Defender are you here? I am TRANSLATING SCRIPTURE AGAIN!) Seriously, how did things go for JR or anyone else for that matter, when they IGNORED THEIR MATE, IGNORED THEIR BOSS, IGNORED THEIR KIDS, IGNORED THEIR DOG, for any length of time? Yes, it works WONDERS when we IGNORE people! Great Human Relations Tactic! The WTBTS should get the Nobel Peace Prize for that bit o’ T.L.C. Wisdom. ----- ST. PETE WROTE: "Each year, Brown said, 30,000 to 40,000 are reinstated, having ‘come back to their spiritual senses.’” ----- SLC SAYS: Yes, and those that do, do it WITH NO HELP and NO THANKS, THANK YOU, from their "TRUE CHRISTIAN" Brethren who are supposedly KNOWN BY such LOVING FRUITS of IGNORE IGNORE IGNORE, while we SNORE & SNORE & SNORE. -- Seriously, who believes that number? 50,000-60,000 are DF’d each year, yet 30,000-40,000 turn right back around and go back in? With the advent of the internet, I bet that figure is much less. --- -- END OF COMMENTARY by SLC.

I personally was abused by Bill. Which makes me wonder why he is on this crusade. Perhaps, it to cover his own inadequacies. Maybe it's to make it seem like he was never guilty of abuse or that he should turn himself in to the authorities. The abuse cannot truly be defined as sexual molestation but to some it could it was abuse never-the-less. There are others I know who Bill has gotten disfellowshipped and thus ruined their lives too. There was advice he gave that prevented me from getting the necessary education I would need to succeed financially. Also he went along with the attitude of why should I pursue anything in this system of things when it was coming to an end anyway or why have children in the wicked system. If you think I'm lying go ahead and ask him if he ever committed adultery in his heart. Ask him if he thinks he ever ruined anyone's life because he was responsible for disfellowshipping them resulting even in threatening other family members of disfellowshipping if they even said hello to them. Be careful of him, he is a Wolf in Sheep's clothing and a hypocrite himself.

To: LR - Barcelona, Spain You say these lambs are "subtly" branded as demonized. My experience was not subtle. I could not be disfellowshipped, as I was never baptized, so instead I was 'disassociated' and anyone seen talking to me was informed that I was demonized. All because I spoke out about what happened to me and refused to take the blame for being abused. I am still branded as demonized, decades later. I have learned to 'wear the brand' with pride. I know that God is with me and loves me. The hateful god who is blindly followed by JW's is not the true God found in scripture. CJV - Ontario, Canada

To the person who said he was 'abused' by Bill. If what you say is true, it is an example of how controlled we are by the WTS. As an elder, he would have to support what the WTS mandated or 'strongly suggested.' We all know how the WTS feels about higher education. When I was 53, I went back to school as I was divorced and having a hard time supporting myself. Even at my age, remarks were made about me returning to school. Bottom Line all of this is JUDGEMENTAL. Usually it takes something dramatic to 'wake JW's up' to the mind control, etc. The child abuse did it for me ...however most JW's I know just won't believe it. Their lives are too encompassed by the WTS and their minds are so controlled and conditioned that they just will not allow themselves to believe it. How can elders who have children accept the WTS policy of protecting molesters? MIND CONTROL!! In fact, HIGH MIND CONTROL. How can we as parents become aware of molestation (our own child or someone else's) and not even think of going to the authorities? MIND CONTROL! I know because I did it. I knew of a young girl being molested by her father and I went to the elders. When they told me that he denied it and I was to not talk about it to anyone or I could be guilty of slander, I shut up. When I look back at it (10 yrs ago) I can not believe I did that. So whatever Bill did as an elder; disfellowshipping, bad advice, etc. was done as a good follower of the WTS. And if you followed his advice, you were doing what you were supposed to be doing as a JW. It took an issue like child abuse to open his eyes, take the blinders off, and examine the WTS policies. === I hope you have found happiness and peace in your life now. === The above is my opinion about the situation ...I don't even know Bill but I have been a JW for almost 35 yrs. so I think I am qualified to speak on how most JW's think...for the most part they don't...at least about the WTS. jazbug55

To no name who accuses B. Bowen of sexual abuse, I may agree with one part of what you said, that he probably was involved in DF'ing people, but the fact is that when it came to the subject of child molestation he took a stand and was DF'd those are facts, the rest of your comments sound to me to be nothing more than Kingdom Hall ankle biting policy Your ability to shut people up to hide your unethical treatment of people does not fly, we are not morons like those you seek...NP

Anyway, the idea is that putting this on the envelopes of letters we just happen to be mailing in to pay our monthly bills etc will cause more people to become aware of the Watchtower Society's abetting pedophilia to the harm of victims. Just a thought from one of the ones on the JW.com board and I thought it was a great idea.

TORONTO, INDIANA, MICHIGAN ANYONE?? From SILENT LAMBS, 8-30-02: Joe and Barbara Anderson will be representing Silentlambs.org at the Victoria Boer sexual child abuse trial in Toronto, Canada that will begin on Sept. 9th. The Andersons need a place to stay for approximately one night in Toronto during the trial where Barbara will be called to testify against the Watchtower. In addition, if they could find a place to stay somewhere near Northern Indiana or Michigan, on the way from Tennessee to the trial, and a place to stay when they return, it would save Silentlambs motel costs. It takes approximately ten hours for them to drive to South Bend, Indiana, from where they live in Tennessee. They would like to spend their first night somewhere an hour or two closer than South Bend, maybe eight hours into the trip to Toronto. The Anderson's plan on entering Canada through Detroit. At this time, the date for Barbara to testify is unscheduled, but will most likely be during the second week in September, any day from the 13th on. She should know the exact date when the trial opens on Sept. 9th. Hoping to cut down on expenses, the

TWO NEWSPAPER ARTICLES TODAY, TORONTO!!! Here's the First One. /SLC ----- The Toronto Sun --- http://www.canoe.ca/TorontoNews/29n1.html September 1, 2002 --- Storm in the hall --- Jehovah's Witnesses deny secrecy in dealing with family sexual abusers --- By Brodie Fenlon --- Toronto Sun --- Jehovah's Witnesses vehemently condemn child abuse. But several victims from within the sect have gone public in recent months claiming that "monsters" are hiding behind the church's policy on handling child abuse. --- Critics say the policy favours secrecy and the redemption of the sinner at the expense of victims. --- The policy creates "a pedophile paradise," said Bill Bowen, of Kentucky, a former senior minister with the Watchtower and Bible Tract Society, who left in protest after 43 years. --- "There's a sly, devious evil that's happening ... and Witnesses are not even aware of it," said Bowen, who launched a victim support group in 2000 called Silent Lambs. --- Clive Thomas, spokesman for the Canadian church, said the accusations are unfair. While the church is concerned about the spiritual well-being of abusers, he said, "We care about children. We do not condone or take a soft view of child sexual abuse or any other abuse." --- Bowen said he's already heard from more than 5,000 victims of abuse since he set up his Web site (www.silentlambs.org/). --- The church keeps a database of all members accused of abuse at its world headquarters in Brooklyn, N.Y. Bowen said church sources have told him the database holds more than 23,700 names from the U.S., Canada and Europe. The church admits the database exists, but won't give a specific tally, saying only that the number is much lower. --- Some of the victims' stories -- of betrayal and cover ups at the hands of church leaders -- have grabbed headlines in the U.S. and Britain. Bowen said the American church is facing seven lawsuits over the handling of claims of abuse. --- As The Toronto Sun has learned, the Canadian church is not immune to the growing scandal. --- A New Brunswick woman is scheduled to take the stand in a Toronto court next week in her lawsuit against the Canadian branch and two elders over allegations they concealed abuse she suffered when she approached them years later as an adult. The church denies the allegations. --- The Canadian church also keeps a database. Though Thomas wouldn't say how many are on it, he confirmed 12 abusers have been identified in Ontario in the last two years. --- In his book, Father's Touch, Donald D'Haene describes how he was repeatedly sodomized, fondled and abused in what his father called "a game." --- In 1973, a family member shared the secret with an elder in the family's Jehovah's Witness congregation in Alymer. Following church protocol, elders investigated and spoke to the D'Haene children. The questions they asked were "cold, blunt, and matter of fact," D'Haene, 41, recalls in the book. --- His father confessed. The elders announced to the congregation that he was "disfellowshipped," or excommunicated from the church, but no reason was given. D'Haene's mom was also publicly rebuked for failing to come to church leaders. --- No one called police or Children's Aid. --- Donald D'Haene went to police several years later. In 1982, his father was convicted of three counts of gross indecency for what the judge called "indescribably vile acts." --- "Religion doesn't create monsters," D'Haene said. "Monsters use religion." --- Winnipeg's Shirley Hardiman was 11 in 1963 when she says her mom's boyfriend sexually abused her. Her mom reported it to elders of their Montreal congregation. --- "They told my mother to keep it quiet, to send me away," she says. --- Hardiman spent the next five years in foster care until she was reunited with her mother at age 16. Her abuser, who died 10 years ago, was never reprimanded by the church, she said. --- "There's this really strong belief that you can not do or say anything that brings shame on the organization," said Hardiman, 50, who now works as an abuse counsellor. --- Times have changed. Church elders in Canada are required by law to report allegations of sexual abuse to

http://www.canoe.ca/TorontoNews/04n1.html --- September 1, 2002 --- Woman sues church --- Claims Jehovah's Witnesses hid sex abuse --- By BRODIE FENLON -- Toronto Sun --- A New Brunswick woman claims two Jehovah's Witness elders and the Canadian church hid the sexual abuse she says she suffered at the hands of her father. --- The woman, whose trial begins next Monday in Toronto, is suing the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of Canada and two elders of her former congregation in Shelburne, just north of Orangeville, for $700,000. --- The church and elders Brian Cairns and Steve Brown deny any wrongdoing and plan to fight the action in court. --- The 31-year-old stay-at-home mom, whom The Sun won't name, says in her statement of claim that she was sexually abused by her father from age 11 to 14. The abuse was never reported. --- Years later, while working in Toronto as a live-in nanny, the woman claims she suffered from guilt and severe depression. --- She approached the elders in her Jehovah's Witness congregation, who turned for advice to church headquarters in Georgetown. --- INTERNAL HANDLING --- She says in her statement of claim that the main branch advised the case be dealt with internally by the Shelburne congregation and "advised the Toronto congregation three times not to report the abuse to the Children's Aid Society (CAS)." --- In her claim, the woman says that Cairns, Brown and the Watchtower Society: --- · Refused to report suspicions of child sex abuse to the CAS as required by Ontario law. --- · Conspired to hide or bury the charge internally. --- · Told the woman she didn't need psychiatric or psychological counselling as "God's way alone would be beneficial." --- · Forced the woman to confront her abuser and relive the abuse through repeated interrogation that caused her "permanent emotional injury." --- Church spokesman Clive Thomas said that while the church has sympathy for her case, the lawsuit is misdirected. --- "The elders were trying to provide her with spiritual help during a difficult time and the elders feel that she is basically blaming the helping hand," he said. --- In their statement of defence, the defendants insist the elders "were instrumental in ensuring the matter was reported" to CAS by the father. No charges were ever laid. --- No one hindered the woman from seeking help from psychologists or psychiatrists, the statement of defence says. --- As well, the church argues the woman never sued her father, and never complained to the elders or church about how her case was handled until the lawsuit was filed in 1998. --- None of the allegations in either the claim or defence have been proven in court. --- 'READY TO FIGHT THEM' --- "I have so much anger ... that I'm ready to fight them until the end," the woman said in an interview with The Sun. --- "They don't realize the damage that they have done to people and to myself," she said. "I don't care if you want to be a Jehovah's Witness. All I'm saying is that the way they deal with child abuse is wrong and it has to be stopped."

We can keep the SILENT LAMBS CAUSE & ISSUES in the public eye by following up with LETTERS to the EDITORS for the above newspapers. HERE'S AN IDEA OF WHAT YOU CAN SAY (copied from J-W.com) SLC ----- Thank them for the time and space they have given this issue, and amplify on the topic of pedophiles being free to engage in the house-to-house work. The public - their readership - has a right to know about this. It's this kind of education about the WTS that's going to cause a public outcry for politicians to take action. ----- So get some Letters to the Editor going!! The more we shout, the more we help every "silent lamb" heal.

To the person that claimed to be abused by Bill: We have recently been talking about Libel, which is very akin to what you said. Putting accusations in print that are not substantiated. I personally think that your just trying to muddy the waters. Bill was an Elder, obviously he never has claimed to be perfect. As an Elder he must have strongly believed in what he did in order to stay in that position so long. What happened is what we in society call an epiphany and epiphany is when you have a sudden "putting together of the jig-saw puzzle of life". At that time to continue after KNOWING is wrong, but Bill didn't he stepped down and has worked to call attention to the problem. Another way to think of it is to be say Pro-choice and after seeing your baby on the sonogram to have an "Epiphany" that moves you to change your perspective 180° from what it was. Bill has many to back him up and records to substantiate his crusade. If you feel wronged contact Bill, tell him how you feel. But I think thou protest to much. As for him commenting adultery in his heart I don't know of One PERSON I know that hasn't in that sense of the definition. I know if Sean Connery (actor) came driving up, I've already told my husband bewared I'm gone LOL So that is such a petty thing to accuse him of. You are I believe speaking of his abuse of power, well he wasn't the only elder now was

Everyone... Print this information out and distribute this as much as you can, in grocery stores, community bulletin boards, libraries, on cars, etc. Help get the word out! >>>>Child Molesters are Knocking At Your Door The next time a Jehovah's Witness comes to your door you should be aware of the fact that many child molesters are encouraged by this religion to engage in door-to-door evangelizing. Be sure to look for the re-run of the Dateline NBC television show addressing this problem. It concerns the Jehovah's Witnesses and their ludicrous child molestation policy. It has also been publicized in a recent TIME Magazine article too. To learn more about the thousands of sexually abused children in the Jehovah's Witness religion go to: www.silentlambs.org or call 1-877-WT-ABUSE

This site is great for people who wish to let the world know that child abuse seems to have been covered up, and individual witnesses penalized for informing the authorities of the criminal acts. But: If the governing body does a U turn, re-admits Bill bowen and reinstates an innocent man, as he has not broken any of Gods laws, only mans, and all the other witnesses who left because of it are reinstated, then what. Would all the people including Bill return to be active Jehovah's witnesses again, or have the people here lost their faith in the WT society completely. Does the other evidence now take over, and this site has turned into an ex witness social event. I lost my faith in the society, the individual witnesses, but now have my own beliefs and don't believe any religion serves god but that a few individuals find the truth, but stand alone, waiting. Having no faith in organized religion. I created my own site www.antijehovahswitness.com to reveal what i feel are the problems, lies and inaccuracies of a religion i thought was the truth, i know why i have my site. So what will this site turn or evolve into. I also created my site to reveal what i had learnt and where to look to find god again. I don't think if the child abuse situation gets sorted that people here will then be happy. I think not only have lots of people here been silent lambs, but you are also Lost Lambs having lost a religion and not found the substitute and answers you are looking for, so maybe there should be a sister site to this,for people who just want to air their grievances. What do you think any comments can be posted here or sent to my email address webmaster@antijehovahswitness.com thanks Bas.
Hi Lambs: Wanted to check in with you all to let you know my love and prayers are with you in your healing process. I noticed the post here bashing BILL kinda reminds me of when JESUS was questioned. Trying to find fault, when, when none was there. To the TROLLS posting here you do have my sincere sympathy, there was a time when I was likewise brainwashed. The only thing that will help you see the real truth is JEHOVAH GOD. Only HE can open your eyes, if you want the TRUTH. Just to let you know, I have been in a lot of chat rooms, getting the word out especially, in the spiritual ones people are more willing to listen there. My love to you all, may GOD bless. Searchin50@aol.com

I guess I just need a place to let my feelings out. I usually go to JWD and post my feelings there, but I just feel this is the place to say a few things. I was raised JW and my father was an elder, he was abusive, many beatings, punishments, verbal abuse and mind games to lower my self esteem. My husband thinks that he may have done other forms of abuse that I have yet to admit to myself, but the profile is so clear I can't deny it. I still can't say the words, I have no clear memory, but I can say that something was very wrong in our home. My mother was addicted to prescription drugs and we had a strained relationship since I was a very little girl. I felt she was jealous of me and I tried to make her happy but she seemed to hate me. I often wonder now if she knew something about my dad's obsession with having complete power over my mind and actions. I can not ask her this now, she killed herself when I was 18. She was abused by my dad in a mental way, and abused by the JW organization. She was put in rehab for the drug abuse problem and they disfellowshipped her for smoking, and they never, never, tried to help her about the drugs. They swept it under the rug so dad could stay an elder. I speak the truth, I have no reason to hurt them, my parents, because they are both dead to me now, because of their own actions. I just wonder if Silentlambs has a support group for those who think of suicide because of being disfellowshipped? Someone told me that my mother was a silentlamb, and I broke down crying admitting that, that was the truth. I was a silentlamb, just for the abuse of the beatings and what I can remember that was done to me as a little girl. I am filled with rage, and I don't know how to make it go away. How do you get over both of your parents abusing you in such ways? I know some will say get on with your life, but I have, I have a wonderful family. I have concluded that this is how I will always feel, it has been 16 yrs since my mom died and it still hurts. I just guess the only way I can deal with this is to help others. Just to be a friend, to listen, to be there for them. I will do anything to stop someone who may feel so alone and sad that they want to take their own life. I feel that if I could help someone, I would be saving my mom, I was so young, 18, when it happened I didn't see it coming. I just think the WT should stop disfellowshipping people and destroying families and lives. This is not what Jesus would do at all. If anyone ever wants to talk, my email is ddb300@hotmail.com anytime....

WOW! ddb300@hotmail.com It's is heartwarming to find someone willing to help. Someone who is kind and caring in spite of their own abuse. May you be blessed!

In my opinion their is no one more dangerous then a person with nothing to loose, This WT shunning has gone to far, It has been reported that shunning a person will help him in some way, can someone please explain to me how this works, or does it do more to Quite some members that have something important to say, In my case I started out speaking out against Child Abuse, For this I have been hurt beyond repair by the wbts, Now I'm mad and I say to you, Watch Your Backs!!!...NP jgibson@hamburg.heartland.net: You wrote. "Flee, flee to what....Who else has the teachings of life? Will Jehovah not stand up and settle this matter?" You are quoting the followers of Christ as they assured him that they would stay with him. Do you even notice that you are insinuating the WTS for Christ in your question? You want everyone to think that criticizing this man-made org. is the same as turning one's back on Christ. In your mind this substitution justifies standing back and allowing such travesties to occur. Jehovah will take care of it? You must be kidding. Do you worship a God that doesn't require you to do your best to help? I'll bet you don't even feel a little bit overly indoctrinated? - Buster

the mole to all, i think now i must move on. my words have fallen to deaf ears. i have explained the methods employed regularly the judicial committees formed by the elders. they would not be worthy of courts systems, but they employ great frequency to deal with those not in total agreement with what they say. the family i mentioned were not removed but out right df'd. this site has become trivial to the needs of witnesses who need insight and warning to the dangers of evil that come in with sly intentions, but now slander, abusive words come into this site. i have more info from another letter from brother franz but i will not share it since this site has lost its way.>................the mole*********

Bill, here is another [poem] based on a few words of yours --- A pedophile paradise --- A pedophile paradise. How can that be? Gods organization is pedophile free. We refuse to believe it. We don't want to know. So abuse defenders know where to go. The angry apostates just make up their lies, Pretend to be honest but it's just a disguise. Deserve what they got It's Satan they follow To their debauched level they want us to wallow. To protect the abusers Ignore all their pain That's how we protect our God's name. It's only a few elders who made a mistake So a new policy we will not make. So block up our ears Put our heads in the sand Disfellowship them all, is the Watchtower command. Now listen you brothers Oh hear me you must Do you know who it is, you can trust? The witness policy Allows abusers to go free Lets them take your child to sit on their knee. Please watch them with care Confidentiality a must Do you know who it is, you can trust. The witness policy Allows abusers to go free Lets them take your child to sit on their knee. Please watch them with care Confidentiality a must Do you know who it is, you can trust. (found this one also at J-W.com -- Great poem!!!)

The Mole has smelled the rats in this guestbook. It is my opinion that he has determined that you guys stink as much as the JW's you are bashing. Who's better than who, the JW's and their kangaroo courts or this kangaroo guestbook? <<<Forever your troll>RJ

It is interesting to note that Bill will tell the media (at least those who decide to give him the time of day) that there are 5000 accounts that he can corroborate with the anonymous posts made on this site (or those posts that are accompanied only by 2 initials) but only one newspaper reporter showed up to his df'ing. Also, interesting to note that on 02 Sep 2002 16:47:30 he was the only one so far that was scheduled to attend his news conference. I'm sure a couple more will show up by the time 9/9 rolls around, but geez, where are the 5000? Where are the 15 regulars that come here? Mole, where are you?? Oh, wait, he bailed out before the press conferences. Buster, are you going? No? Why not? You're too busy attending dodge the questions school? Sheila, I KNOW you will be there, right? Oh oh wait, you have to work. By the way Sheila, when will YOU have an epiphany? How about you John? Do they even want you there? You may jack everything up, if you blow up and smack someone upside the head with your holy cross bible. I thought you were shunning…. Please go back to shunning pretty please? And SLC? She might forget to show up because she'll be responding to 300 posts that weren't even directed at her, and oversleep. Get real people.

Sheila Carpenter Cclarioncall@aol.com Thank you very much for your excellent website. You are in tune with the heart of God. We are to love what He loves and to hate what He hates.

LAMBS in EVANGELICALS NOW article, September 2002 Issue, FRONT PAGE ARTICLE: --- JW silent lambs protest --- September 27 2002 is a day the Watchtower Society is likely to remember. --- Protest marchers are due to walk just seven city blocks in Brooklyn, New York to 25 Colombia Heights, the headquarters of the Jehovah’s Witnesses, now considered one of the world’s wealthiest religions. --- Compared with most protest marches the participants will be few in number. Some will be JWs or ex-JWs, other people may have no religious affiliation at all. Yet the marchers will be united by a common theme: they will all have experienced or been eye-witnesses of the machinations of the secretive Governing Body running the cult, which, it seems, has allowed Watchtower policy to physically harm and emotionally ruin children. --- Woolly lambs --- Outside the headquarters individuals will speak briefly about the hurt they have either witnessed or personally experienced. It is intended that each individual should carry a small toy woolly lamb, to represent themselves or another person. The event will be unique as, although protest marches among JWs are very rare, protest marches against the Governing Body are totally unheard of. --- The lambs are not just for ornament. They have become a symbol for a rapidly-growing group of people who have suffered at the hands of the Watchtower Society. This group, calling itself ‘Silentlambs’, was begun by Bill Bowen, a JW of 43 years’ standing, 20 of them as an elder. While an elder Bill had become aware that a fellow-elder had abused a child several times. Bill wanted to notify the police, but found the matter was being covered-up in his local Kingdom Hall. Eventually he telephoned the legal desk at the Watchtower headquarters, and was told not to get involved. Stunned and profoundly shocked, he resigned from his eldership and went public. But how to reach out and help those abused ones? --- Bill had no idea where they were or how many might be suffering. So was born the website ‘Silentlambs’. Bill may have expected a trickle of emails, but he suddenly found himself inundated. Many months later he still gets emails every day, and has had over 27,000 visitors to the site. --- Silentlambs became for so many hurt souls their first chance to write and tell of their personal grief and pent-up guilt and anger. Some, incapable of speaking openly of their ordeals in the cult, chose to write poems. Again and again the themes were played out in the emails, as abusers were often believed, but the children were branded as liars by disbelieving elders. The correspondence confirmed to Bill that the cover-up mentality was not just a local one, it was endemic in the entire cult. As he expressed it, the movement was a ‘paradise for paedophiles’. Since the group began Bill Bowen estimates that he has received around 1,000 stories while another 5,000 people have emailed or contacted him via the internet or by telephone. In May members staged a candle-lit vigil outside the Kingdom Hall in Benton, Kentucky. --- BBC Panorama --- When the BBC’s Panorama investigated the problem in mid-July it dealt with cases in the UK and the USA. Following the programme the Silentlambs website logged around 200 emails in the first 24 hours. By the end of July around 50 new cases of abuse had been reported over the net. Interest in the programme can be gauged by the email response of over 1,000 letters to the BBC, the second highest the Panorama programme has ever received. --- The responses to the programme were split 50/50, with JWs in the main stressing there were no serious problems, but others telling a rather different story. Viewing figures indicate this was the most-watched Panorama of the past ten productions. --- Sara Poisson --- Particularly tragic was the story of Sara Poisson. A battered wife, with daughters whom she suspected were being abused by her JW husband, she went to the elders at her Kingdom Hall for help. Rather than dealing with the problem they told her to go home, pray more and be a better wife. As time passed and the evidence of ongoing abuse continued to mount, Sara went again and again to plead for help and protection. Still she was turned away - with the same instructions. As she was totally dominated by the eldership it never occurred to her to seek outside help. --- Eventually, when the school reported substantial bruising on her children, social workers stepped in. The ultimatum was clear: leave your husband or your children go into care. Knowing that to leave him would see her cast out of the local congregation she did just that. This left her homeless, penniless and shunned by all her former JW friends. --- Some time later, Holly, one of the abused daughters, went to the police and told them all that had happened at the hands of her father. It was another four years before the father, Paul Berry, was charged with 17 charges of aggravated sexual assault. Even then, after the testimony of the family to the court, some two dozen JWs came forward to offer character witness for the accused. --- Phone-in --- Following the Panorama presentation the BBC ran a phone-in programme on Radio 5. Again and again individuals called in (often using assumed names) to relate their own experiences of child abuse in the Watchtower cult. Running through the narratives was a theme of guilt and pain combined with an eldership that often seemed not to believe or did not want to believe the facts presented to them. --- The response of the JW movement is that for someone to be found guilty of anything there must have been two witnesses present. This may be well and good, but it must be admitted that paedophiles do not usually operate with bystanders about, unless they are fellow paedophiles. --- It goes without saying that the vast majority of JW parents are loving, kind people who cherish their children and the idea of abuse is total anathema to them. The Watchtower movement is not unique in having this problem. Yet it is also very plain that something is seriously wrong with any organisation that cannot face the reality of what is going on inside it. The Panorama programme noted the reticence of some elders to co-operate with police even when individuals were reported by their victims. --- One officer spoke of elders as being 'criminally negligent' when they failed to pass information to the police. In some cases recorded on the Silentlambs website, Jehovah's Witnesses who reported abusers to the police have been excommunicated from the cult. --- Sorry? --- One thing was very noticeable in the Panorama presentation: the lack of the simple word, 'sorry'. No one from the movement expressed any regrets to the poor traumatised individuals who painfully told their experiences. If we take the material on the Silentlambs website, there are many hundreds of people whose lives have been wrecked and defiled at the hands of evil individuals. What of those elders who have disbelieved suffering children? Can we expect apologies from them? Or does an external sanitised version of the cult come before truth and justice? --- Is it possible that when that little band of sufferers stand outside the Brooklyn headquarters in late September at least someone will come out to them and say 'sorry'. It would be a kindness to do so but the Watchtower has a very long history of not apologising for its errors. It is doubtful if it will do so now. --- Richard E. Mole. On 8/12 I said that you should keep doing what you do; Here, there, where-ever. Thanks for your intellect here at SL. It did NOT go unnoticed. I hope you find success in all you do. I am still trying to accept two thoughts. (1) Ignore the 100 people that do not hear your message it is the one that does that is so sweet. (2) If 100 people hear your message don't become bogged with the one or 2 that refuse to change their position. Both are hurdles for me.- Jayson

has sent me personal emails regarding other JW molestation stories I have sent him. People EMAIL this story to YOUR LOCAL PRESS. My favorite excerpt: . . . . Although the January 1, 1997 Watchtower stated that a "known" molester "would not qualify for congregation privileges," such as becoming an elder or ministerial servant (deacon), a SECRET LETTER to all bodies of elders three months later, on March 14, 1997, quietly backpedaled: "An individual 'known' to be a former child molester has reference to the perception of that one in the community [emphasis ours] and in the Christian congregation." . . . . UNKNOWN TO THE FAITHFUL, who had taken the January 1st Watchtower at its word, PEDOPHILES COULD REMAIN in positions of authority, under this don't-ask don't-tell policy, at all levels of the organization. . . . . the contents of that letter, leaked on the Internet, REMAIN, to this day, a SECRET TO THE RANK AND FILE.

Comments HERE'S the BARBARA ANDERSON ARTICLE IN FULL --- An Unlikely David: Barbara Anderson's struggle to stop predatory pedophiles in the cloistered world of Jehovah's Witnesses --- By Michael Morris --- http://www.toasted-cheese.com/ezine/2-3/morris.htm --- While the Catholic Church is forced to publicly wrestle its demons of pedophilia, Jehovah’s Witnesses refuse to acknowledge any similar problems in their midst. Barbara Anderson, a former insider from the uppermost echelons of the secretive sect, has stepped forward to reveal that such problems have been a source of denial, debate and division at the highest levels of the organization for at least a decade. While Witness leaders insist that sexual abuse of children is not tolerated or concealed in their congregations, as a former Jehovah’s Witness, and as a parent who recently discovered my own children’s molestation within the group, I strongly disagree.

--- In the patriarchal world of Jehovah’s Witnesses, Barbara Anderson of Normandy, Tenn., a sharp-witted lady from New York, rose to a level of influence that was unheard of for a woman. She assisted in compiling the official history of the group, and wrote articles that serve to instruct the 6 million Jehovah’s Witnesses worldwide, including the 1 million in the United States (though her gender, under Witness rules, would not allow her to read aloud in a Kingdom Hall the very words that she wrote). She regularly rubbed shoulders with members of the Witnesses’ elite governing body, a committee that currently consists of 11 men, charged with overseeing the group. --- Anderson was also privy to the many letters and phone calls coming into the group’s Brooklyn Heights headquarters from members of the faith, responding to published articles, or inquiring about various topics that had not been addressed in print. This feedback was reviewed in meetings among the writers to shape the content of future publications. For Jehovah’s Witnesses, the printed word from headquarters provides a pharisaical canon, an ever-shifting lens through which to see more clearly the word, and will, of God. --- The formerly taboo subject of child sexual abuse was entering the public discourse in the late 1980s and early 90s, and the correspondence coming into headquarters reflected the angst of those who now felt comfortable coming forward with their own recollections of abuse in the insular communities of the Witnesses. These abuse survivors were turning to their congregation elders for guidance, and these elders, too, were writing to headquarters, seeking guidance. --- Parents of most denominations would not hesitate to call police first when sexual abuse of their child is reported. But to the Witnesses, all outsiders — even police and social workers — are co-conspirators with Satan, part of the condemned world soon to be destroyed by God. As a Witness, when dealing with any wrongdoing “you go to elders first, and then elders make the decision for where you go [from there]. To bypass the organization would be treason,” said Anderson. --- But these same elders “volunteer, and are essentially untrained clergy,” according to a Jehovah’s Witness spokesman in the Paducah Sun. They attend no seminary, and have no minimum education requirements, beyond basic literacy. They are equipped for nothing more than enforcing organizational guidelines, delivering biblical platitudes and offering a moment of prayer. When encountering a case of child sexual abuse for the first time, their instructions are first to “call the Legal Department” at the group’s headquarters. --- The list of mandated reporters of suspected child abuse varies by state. Church spokesmen assert that in those jurisdictions that include clerics as mandatory reporters, the elders are instructed by the Legal Department to make such reports. A recent fax to the BBC in response to a program exposing sexual abuse among the Witnesses noted that “it can be quite a challenge to keep abreast of the reporting requirements, but our Legal Department makes every effort to do so.” It should relieve their lawyers to know that The National Clearinghouse on Child Abuse and Neglect Information is funded by the US government and tasked with maintaining a web site with just such information, which shows that only 16 states require reporting by clerics. The hand of divine justice apparently is cut short by a lack of supporting legislation in other jurisdictions. --- The assertion that such reports are made by elders when called for by the law has been called into question. Two lawsuits recently lodged against the Witnesses claim that mandatory reporting laws were disregarded, and the abuse continued. In one case, a member is said to have been expelled for making such a report against the advice of the elders, after the elders failed to act. A taped telephone conversation from early 2001, between an elder reporting sexual abuse and headquarters, featured on a recent episode of NBC’s Dateline, documented an official from the group advising the elder to “walk away from it,” and to “leave it for Jehovah,” even though the elder was calling from a state that mandates reporting by clerics. --- Some particularly conscientious elders sought to step outside their restrictive bounds as spiritual counselors in seeking to assist those traumatized by abuse. They were holding sessions that amounted to group therapy with victims of abuse, but this was quickly ended by a March 23, 1992 letter to all bodies of elders in the United States, stating that elders are not to hold such sessions nor “spend time reading secular publications dealing with worldly psychology or psychiatry.” --- Jehovah’s Witnesses are a government that operates within all of the governments of the world. I believe that is the big issue here. They want to decide who is guilty or not guilty,” said Barbara Anderson. Witnesses are well known for their defiance of secular governments. The Encarta World English Dictionary includes in its definition of Jehovah’s Witnesses that the group “rejects secular law where it appears to conflict with the divine.” --- So, the investigation of the alleged abuse and the deciding who is guilty or not guilty, falls on the local elders. The burden of proof, barring a confession, is that there must be two members of the faith who can serve as eyewitnesses to the crime, no matter what the infraction. Otherwise, the accused is exonerated and the abused is admonished to treat the accused as innocent in God’s eyes and not to repeat the charge to anyone else — even other potential victims, like younger siblings -- or face expulsion from the congregation and shunning by fellow members, including friends and family. Needless to say, child molesters don’t usually seek an audience. So the cycle of abuse continues, while the victim, who summoned the monumental courage to come forward, is now forced back into silence by their spiritual leaders. --- All members are guided by the two principal publications of the group, the Watchtower and Awake! journals. Each had different editors, with differing opinions, in the 90s, which can be problematic for a group that points to its unity of belief as a sign of exclusive divine favor. Awake!, on whose staff Anderson served, often presented the group’s softer side, while the Watchtower delivered stern doctrinal dissertations. “They would sometimes contradict each other, especially on societal issues,” said Anderson. --- Barbara Anderson and other senior staffers knew that the age and cloistered lives of the governing group gave them no frame of reference to empathize with the plight of the abused and their families. Something more than arbitrary application of ancient edicts was required. --- Stories of the disastrous results of similar policies awaited Anderson on her summer vacation in 1991. The Witnesses choose to apply certain Old Testament rules literally, such as the command that a woman who does not scream during a rape should be considered a fornicator. "I was gravely disturbed hearing accounts of Witness women who were disfellowshipped (expelled and shunned) for not screaming while being raped. To illustrate: A Jehovah's Witness came back to his house unexpectedly while his house was being cleaned by a woman who also was a Witness. The trauma of his raping her at that time was so severe that she completely blocked out the experience until she discovered she was pregnant. It was then she faced what had happened and went to the congregation elders. She accused her spiritual brother of raping her; however, he denied it until tests confirmed he was the father of the child. Then he said it was consensual sex. She denied it. Nonetheless, she was disfellowshipped because she couldn't remember if she screamed during the rape and her attacker said she didn't. So, when I came back from vacation, I went in to see the man in the Writing Department who I was working with and told him what I had heard. To me it was horrendous that this girl was disfellowshipped. She was victimized twice." --- The implications of such policies were clear to Anderson. "I began to see how pedophiles could act easily within the congregations and get away with it," she said. --- Members of the Writing Department began pushing for change. The October 8, 1991 Awake! on child abuse seemed to reverse earlier feelings against psychotherapy and against "repressed memories," there was widespread confusion. When congregation elders called headquarters for clarification "they [the Service Department, in charge of the elders] did not go along with that," said Anderson.
"That article was viewed as a mistake. There was a battle going on at Bethel [headquarters] between these two fractions. The man who was the head of the Service Department and the man who was head of the Writing Department -- both members of the governing body -- didn't agree on these things." said Anderson. --- An avalanche of phone calls and letters came in response to the October 8, 1991 Awake!. Even the cloistered governing body became aware of the widespread claims of abuse, not only abuse being perpetrated by lay members, but by church leaders as well. "The governing body knew in '92 that this was a very real problem, that men in authority were molesters, and they were molesting children. The accusations that were coming to them were not merely against average attendee's, but against men in authority, and you couldn't get the Service Department to recognize that.
They were having a terrible time," recalls Anderson. --- Barbara Anderson and her husband would leave headquarters at the end of '92, after serving there for ten and a half years. She continued to support the writing staff as an outside researcher until '97. "It was during my last year at headquarters while doing research for a senior Awake! writer that I learned to my horror that the organization had severe problems with sexual child abuse. I knew when I left that it was understood that I would continue to send information in on child abuse. This was to try to influence the governing body to change their policies." --- Anderson was also aware of the implications of such policies for those outside of the organization. Accusations of child molestation, even a known history of criminal child rape, would not preclude a member from engaging in the Witnesses door to door preaching work. "I begged [governing body member and friend] Lloyd Barry, begged him by letter in July of 1993, not to allow molesters to go do door to door." said Anderson. Lloyd Barry, now deceased, never responded. Instead, some three and a half years later, speaking of a molester who may have recently been released from prison, the Watchtower of January 1, 1997 states "if he seems to be repentant [to the untrained elders], he will be encouraged to make spiritual progress [and] share in the field ministry [door to door preaching]." --- Neither would a history of child molestation disqualify a member from being appointed as an elder, a leader and exemplar in the congregation. Although the January 1, 1997 Watchtower stated that a "known" molester "would not qualify for congregation privileges," such as becoming an elder or ministerial servant (deacon), a secret letter to all bodies of elders three months later, on March 14, 1997, quietly backpedaled: "An individual 'known' to be a former child molester has reference to the perception of that one in the community [emphasis ours] and in the Christian congregation." And as for determining whether those already in a position of authority had a history of molestation, the letter directed that "The body of elders should not query individuals." Unknown to the faithful, who had taken the January 1st Watchtower at its word, pedophiles could remain in positions of authority, under this don't-ask don't-tell policy, at all levels of the organization. One is left to wonder who pushed for such a change, what they had to hide, and why the contents of that letter, leaked on the Internet, remain, to this day, a secret to the rank and file. --- "I can't go to my grave knowing what I know." Anderson's struggle for change from within the group ended when a letter from a member of the headquarters staff in early '97 indicated her that such symbolic changes were in response to a rising tide of litigation, not out of concern for the welfare of children. "I couldn't go to the Kingdom Hall and hear all of the bragging about how wonderful this organization was from the platform, and sit there and listen. I thought "I can't go to my grave knowing what I know." She resolved to continue to push for change from outside the walls of the Kingdom Hall. --- Barbara Anderson came to be among five members disfellowshipped from the group in recent months, following a spate of media attention, for speaking out about rampant sexual abuse and cover-ups among Jehovah's Witnesses. "I had a very, very interesting life as a Jehovah's Witness. My husband and I brought eighty people into this organization," she remembers. While she takes exception to the policies of the leadership that harm children, she holds out hope that the voices that pushed for change in the mid-'90s may prevail. Among those voices are the group's powerful Legal Department, which pushed for a uniform reporting policy among congregations in all 50 states and the District of Columbia --- perhaps to be relieved of the arduous task of keeping track of all those laws -- only to be shot down by the governing body.
Anderson also cites a group of elders in Dallas, Texas, which worked with a local mental health facility to tailor care for Jehovah's Witnesses, only to be removed from their positions en masse by the leadership. And there were those elders who sought to bring a little therapy into their shepherding. To be sure, there were kindhearted people easily found in the group. "They are good people. I am not going to say they weren't and they aren't dear people to us," she said. --- Perhaps if these people had succeeded in moving the organization to adopt a call-police-first policy in handling cases of child sexual abuse, just as they advise members to seek the help of a physician when ill, or of a fireman during a fire, there would not have been the chance for children, such as mine, to have been abused, their lives forever changed. Instead, we, like so many others, are left to fight a difficult and emotionally painful legal battle against a coy perpetrator in a position of authority, with the backing of his church. --- In our case, the alleged abuser continues, to this day, to beam piously from the platform and to hold children on his lap during the services at our former suburban Philadelphia congregation, even as criminal and civil actions are pending, to the full knowledge of the local body of elders. --- But it seems the short-sighted preservation of the image of the group has been the priority of the governing body, over the welfare of their flock. Better, they seem to think, to silence the victims, shun the whistle blowers, deny, deny, deny. I recall that Jehovah's Witnesses are expert in itemizing the sins of the Catholic Church, including the harboring of pedophiles. Perhaps now they will have the humility to turn that scrutiny inward, protect the victims in their midst, adopt a call-police-first policy everywhere, and stop allowing a de facto conspiracy of silence to protect pedophiles in their congregations, and on our doorsteps. --- Michael Morris grew up a Jehovah's Witness punk rocker in the suburbs of Philadelphia in the 1980s. He spent several years serving as a full-time preacher in the Witnesses' door-to-door preaching work, unwittingly learning much about life and faith from those whom he presumed to teach. E-mail <mailto:mikepence@yahoo.com> . --- Michael posts at Toasted Cheese as Dances with Cactus. "An Unlikely David" was first posted at What I Tell You Three Times Is True, our non-fiction critique forum.

John- you sound like a violent man, not a man of God. You have absolutely no credibility whatsoever, no matter how much credit WT detractors give you. You are a disgrace to all Christians. Jesus preached his message with love not hate or veiled threats like you do. It just goes to show what a mock of a sham of a joke this site has become, with you as it's main spokesman. I suggest you take a step back and look at what example you are setting. I highly doubt Jesus approves what you are doing. No, you are NOT doing the Lord's work.

Hi I have been reading this site for months. Thank you SLC for helping me find Ray Franz. The reason I started reading this site was because we too have been silentlams. What I would like now is someone who is serious about looking into the scriptures and finding or verifying the truths that we already know. My faith in Jehovah has never wavered, an apostate I am not. Putting faith in the GB is an act of foolishness. After I found out that they were part of the UN for 10 years, that isn't an ups that is a, as they would put it. Repeated offence for many years. Did we hear any sort of repentance from them as they demand from any other (offender). I am like so many others my life as I know it has been tied up with witness's and because of it I have no friends outside. I am busy as I am raising my grandson, partly thanks to the LOVE OF THE BROTHERS, NOT!!!!!!!!!!! But be that as it may. I am trying to look at the rose and not the thorns. jgibson@hamburg.hearland.net PS For all of those who read the posting accusing Bill of abuse. Sir when you address John with overwhelming force you are suspect yourself .I don't agree with the way John expresses himself from time to time but you are using him to deride this page. I suggest to you that you think about this and recognize the validity of our grievances with the WT Society. Do not mix the style of some with the substance of the topic we are discussing here. By the way you did not sign your post. That puts you in the category of WT Borg Zombies. Draw close to God, and he will draw close to you.-- Jas. 4:8. If we live according to God's Word, we receive Jehovah's holy spirit. We cultivate a Christlike personality, characterized by such appealing qualities as mercy and compassion. (Eph. 4:24, 32) God's spirit also produces in us its fruitage--love, joy, peace, long-suffering, kindness, goodness, faith, mildness, and self-control. (Gal. 5:22, 23) As we harmonize our lives with God's will, we strengthen our relationship with Jehovah. Our conviction grows that he understands and loves us. We learn through experience that he supports us during difficult times. (Ps. 18:18) We discern that he really listens to our prayers. (Ps. 65:2) We come to rely on his guidance, confident that it will benefit us. And we have the wonderful hope that in due time God will bring his faithful ones to perfection and bestow upon them his gift of everlasting life. -- Rom. 6:23. w 7/1/01 14, 15 Excerpt from "Examining the Scriptures Daily 2002". © 2001 WatchTower Bible & Tract Society of PA

To: All persons involved with child rape issues within JW's RE: Maintaining Perspective In The Face Of Organizational Failure Perspective: To look through, see clearly. The interrelation in which a subject or its parts are mentally viewed. The capacity to view things in their true relations or relative importance. (Webster's Dictionary) Serious Questions JWs who are aware of Watchtower (WT) leadership's failure in the matter of fixing it's child rape case-handling policies are faced with tough questions: 1. How is it possible that the religious framework that represents the True God Jehovah is insensitive to the plight of children being raped? 2. How can conscientious individuals continue to associate and support such a framework — knowing what they know is happening? Bible accounts provide the key “… all the things that were written aforetime were written for our instruction, that through our endurance and through the comfort from the Scriptures we might have hope.” JWs faced with the child rape crisis now raging within the WT organization clearly are in need of some comfort. The endurance part is a hard sell when persons have no hope. To date WT leadership has stripped away all hope in this matter and it doesn't look good for this to change anytime soon. Romans 15:4, alluding to “things that were written aforetime”, not only provides needed hope, but solid answers. A close and meditative consideration of the “things written” is the only way for thinking JWs to answer the above questions and be able to maintain association with JWs and faith that Jehovah can allow this tragedy to be happening. Past Examples The “things written” shows clearly that the True God allows evil and good to exist side by side within the earthly ranks of God's chosen channels. Never has there been a period in ancient times when there were no bad guys along with the good guys. During the period of the kings of Israel God allowed child sacrifice on the high places of false gods. Manasseh and others filled the land with innocent blood. Reformers like Hezekiah were few and far between, and even they had their failings. The case can be made that Hezekiah's much cited “good example” of trusting in God when faced with extermination by Chaldea was only because he had no way out of his jam. Before and after being delivered by God, Hezekiah used statecraft to impress the enemy by showing off the temple riches and even giving the door to the temple away as a bribe. What kind of good example is that? We must not overlook that “all” the things that were written must be there for a very good reason. If we accept those ancient ones as examples of faith, then we accept them with the bad as well. Evidently God does because they are listed as example in the book of Hebrews. Thus, if there is one thing this “instructs”, its that leaders are all every one a mixed bag. That's the lesson — JWs and JW leadership in modern times ARE NO DIFFERENT from ancient ones! They are a mixed bag. Ask: Have JWs and JW leadership been used in a wonderful way to carry out the preaching the good news in all the earth? Is there any other organization that has achieved love amongst themselves as Jesus said would be the case? If there are where are they? A Way Forward Understand clearly the reality happening here.
Lock and load mentally to not let the reality push you out. Read the ancient accounts to get a perspective on this mess. Persons can conscientiously stay within the ranks of JWs. As with Elijah and others of old, ones may be hounded and even “killed” via df'ings. As with Elijah’s day, God knows the exact headcount of ones who have not “bent the knee to Baal” - by going along with leadership’s lead in this awful child rape matter. In Elijah’s day it was exactly 7,000. Today it is millions. Like Ahab and Jezebel's case, God will judge the ones perpetrating the rape of children within the modern day organization. Satan doesn't care why a person leaves and/or looses faith in God, just that they leave. This policy has been fomented by Satan himself, exactly the same way as a sex and murder policies were used in ancient times. SG

RJ, knock it off this isn't a joke. Call yourself a troll not the rest of us JW's. My comments regarding John still stand, I think he is dangerous and a menace to those who don't agree with him. He is vulgar and offensive, yet endearing to most of you in spite of his crude behavior. Jesus would NEVER approve of someone that likes to talk about stuffing things in peoples orifices and suggesting what I think he did when he described the old lady in the window. It's an utter disgrace, and you know it.

I too am a victim along with 3 other siblings! I now know as an adult, that something should of been done when our situation was reported to the elders in the congregation. After many years we took our molester to court. May all children feel safe from danger!! No longer a silentlamb!! Iris irisclifford@hotmail.com

steam that was needed and I don't look down on those that show there anger like I do at times, I realize it is an important step in the healing process, (as long as they don't become violent, this is as bad as sexual abuse in my opinion) but your post really did hit home for me today because I was not comfortable with being angry at the WTS but I was. Your words on standing beside the evil doers make since, I feel there will be a need for someone that has been there and done that, I believe now that the power is being taken out of this Taboo subject and being put in our hands to deal with, if the WTBTS is afraid to stick its neck out its up to its members to share there Experience, Strength, and Hope to these abused lambs, even if it means sitting amongst some of the Evil ones, I believe after reading your post this is a good that can come out of all of this, it would make Jehovah happy and not destroy the good people and things that happen there. I think that is what we are meant to do now. Has there been any feedback from any of the Asian country's on this subject or is this just an American European problem...NP

Another great article: http://blogs.salon.com/0001138/2002/09/04.html . . . . . . My Favorite Excerpt . . Unknown to the faithful, who would have taken the Watchtower as gospel, molesters could remain in positions of authority at all levels of the organization. The contents of that letter, though leaked on the Internet, remain a secret to the lay members of the group. It was explained to the elders, said Brown, and it is not a part of our standard way of handling things to always inform every detail of matters to the congregation in general. What is stated there [in the January 1, 1997 Watchtower] and the way its stated there, without the clarification, is certainly what happens most of the time. . . .End of Quote. I'm just curious but doesn't the Governing Body think it is patently dishonest, immoral and unethical to have the congregation study an article and then send out SECRET LETTERS to the Body of Elders? Honestly, my God is not this stupid.

NP, I want to answer your Asian country question. We have a friend from Korea and he heard about the Dateline story as he often watches American Television in his country. My husband and I had been determined not to mention it to him as he is a very staunch witness. He spent the two years in prison and the whole nine yards. Well, anyway, he hears about the abuse accusations and he totally believes it is true. He didn't tell us why, but apparently there are things that have occurred in Korea to make him believe it's truthfulness.

cosmicjill@planetkc.com/// I want you to know that I sent your address to the FBI, if you want what you are asking for they can contact you. This is not a game. What if what is claimed to go on here is real. Do you really feel powerful to mock someone who has been violated or beaten? Come on man I know you don't.-

John's Detractor: It is true that John has ideas that are quite dangerous to those that disagree with him. He is passionate, and I believe he does his own research, first-hand. As for your speech on behalf of Christ's opinions, you're wrong there too chief. Can you imagine how vulgar it seemed to the establishment when Christ went in and tossed the money changers from the temple? Do you think he went in and asked nicely? Was he apologetic and never wavering from trying to reason with them? He kicked butt and got some attention when his cause needed it. Oh yeah, and more than a bit sarcastic when he wanted to be too: "You yourself say it" - to Pontius Pilate! It is so presumptuous of you to speak for Christ. Though you are to be forgiven, 'for you do not know what you are doing.' - Buster

I just read the Barbara Anderson Report, AWESOME... There can be no question now, in my mind that somewhere along the line Satan has sent his agents to sit in OUR HOUSE and put in a position to Govern and abuse his true followers. We need to stand up and write letters to the Governing Body asking them to step down and find competent God Fearing Worshipers of Jehovah to oversee this to be done... I would like to nominate Barbara Anderson and I am writing my letter to the WTBTS asking this to be so...Well isn't that the way WTBTS hands injustice to their witnesses, they have everyone write a letter isn't that so...I'm Serious...NP

Hi JOHN: I loved your story your uncle used to tell you (lady in window with dog paws on her shoulders), and I also liked your application of it. Probably very true, but we all will feel better for doing our part, no matter how heartless the GB continues to act! /SLC
