The New York Times

U.S. DEATHS NEAR 100,000, AN INCALCULABLE LOSS

Matteson, Ill., loved reading, especially for empathy and for travel and knowledge.

Irvin Herman

York City, college basketball assistant coach for the New York Knicks, 58, died of cancer.

Oddisee

Rapper and entrepreneur, 37, known as Big Momma to all who loved him, died in his sleep.

Leroy Perryman Jr.

Son of Shamrock Salvage & Appraisal, 52, died of complications from COVID-19.

Marcia Alario

Educator and tennis coach, 57, known for her business making detailed pins.

Cornelius Lawyer

MBA, 73, San Juan, Puerto Rico, advocate for disability rights.

Martin Schlesinger

Pianist, 72, New York City, had a passion for social justice.

John B. Lynch

Legist with a generous spirit, 59, New York City, was a vocal critic of the Trump administration.

Ellis Marsalis

Musician and father, 84, New Orleans, was a mentor to generations of jazz musicians.

Tommie Matthew

Pianist, 59, Washington, D.C., was a stalwart church gospel singer.

Josephine Posnanski

Artist with a generous spirit, 57, New York City, was known for her artwork and her advocacy.

Merrick Dowson

Communicator and author, 52, Chicago, wanted every conversation to be valuable.

Joseph Migliucci

Veteran and city councilman, 94, Saddle River, N.J., was a lifetime pacifist.

Richard Kaplan

Writer and critic, 84, Beverly Hills, Calif., was known as Big Momma to all who loved him.

Florencio Almazo Morán

Charter member of the American Legion in many parts of the U.S., 73, Nebraska, was known for his work in the community.

Kamal Ahmed

Artist and writer, 97, Danbury, Conn., was a leader of the Novominsker Hasidic dynasty.

Samuel Kramer

Bicycle activist and small-business owner, 94, Saddle River, N.J., was known for his biker buddies.

Barbara Yazbeck

Community activist and mother, 48, New York City, was known for her work in the community.

Robert A. Pollak

Organist and composer, 80, China Township, Mich., was known for his exacting work and strong opinions.

William H. Miller III

Organist and composer, 87, Waunakee, Wis., was known for his biker buddies.

Kevin John Cahill

Toonist and an expert on musicals, 33, New York, was known for his work in the community.

Patrick E. Taub

Writer and editor, 66, New York City, was known for his work in the community.

Joseph M. Franklin

Veteran and councilman, 52, Chicago, was known for his work in the community.

Richard在 a vibrant New York City, loved reading, especially for empathy and for travel and knowledge.

Irvin Herman

York City, college basketball assistant coach for the New York Knicks, 58, died of cancer.

Oddisee

Rapper and entrepreneur, 37, known as Big Momma to all who loved him, died in his sleep.

Leroy Perryman Jr.

Son of Shamrock Salvage & Appraisal, 52, died of complications from COVID-19.

Marcia Alario

Educator and tennis coach, 57, known for her business making detailed pins.

Cornelius Lawyer

MBA, 73, San Juan, Puerto Rico, advocate for disability rights.

Martin Schlesinger

Pianist, 72, New York City, had a passion for social justice.

John B. Lynch

Legist with a generous spirit, 59, New York City, was a vocal critic of the Trump administration.

Ellis Marsalis

Musician and father, 84, New Orleans, was a mentor to generations of jazz musicians.

Tommie Matthew

Pianist, 59, Washington, D.C., was a stalwart church gospel singer.

Josephine Posnanski

Artist with a generous spirit, 57, New York City, was known for her artwork and her advocacy.

Merrick Dowson

Communicator and author, 52, Chicago, wanted every conversation to be valuable.

Joseph Migliucci

Veteran and city councilman, 94, Saddle River, N.J., was a lifetime pacifist.

Richard Kaplan

Writer and critic, 84, Beverly Hills, Calif., was known as Big Momma to all who loved him.

Florencio Almazo Morán

Charter member of the American Legion in many parts of the U.S., 73, Nebraska, was known for his work in the community.

Kamal Ahmed

Artist and writer, 97, Danbury, Conn., was a leader of the Novominsker Hasidic dynasty.

Samuel Kramer

Bicycle activist and small-business owner, 94, Saddle River, N.J., was known for his biker buddies.

Barbara Yazbeck

Community activist and mother, 48, New York City, was known for her work in the community.

Robert A. Pollak

Organist and composer, 80, China Township, Mich., was known for his exacting work and strong opinions.

William H. Miller III

Organist and composer, 87, Waunakee, Wis., was known for his biker buddies.

Kevin John Cahill

Toonist and an expert on musicals, 33, New York, was known for his work in the community.

Patrick E. Taub

Writer and editor, 66, New York City, was known for his work in the community.