INTRODUCTION

BY GENERATION HOPE FOUNDER & CEO
NICOLE LYNN LEWIS

We are reminded daily that there are many more young parents in our community who need the academic, emotional, and financial support that Generation Hope provides.

Generation Hope set out in 2010 to do what few organizations across the country were doing -- to help teen parents become college graduates. In four years, Generation Hope has proven that we can make a tangible impact in the lives of D.C. metro area teen mothers and fathers, providing them with the tools that they need to be successful in college and beyond. Generation Hope is not just an educational organization. It is a family. It is a place where legacies of academic achievement are created. Perhaps most important, it strives to meet the needs of our region’s most vulnerable families. We have supported 46 teen mothers and fathers in college to date, and reached more than 300 expecting and parenting high school students through our outreach efforts, including our college-readiness workshops and annual Hope Conference. We are now poised for the most significant growth in our four-year history.

Our students serve as our inspiration. They are determined, ambitious, and resilient and are all united by a common purpose: to earn their degrees so that they can provide a better life for their children. We are reminded daily that there are many more young parents in our community who need the academic, emotional, and financial support that Generation Hope provides.

The D.C. region grapples with the issue of teen pregnancy. D.C. alone has the highest teen pregnancy rate in the nation. This means that thousands of young parents in our community are struggling to make it each day. Their needs are very real. The economic events of the past few years have hit young parents and their children particularly hard. Lack of education and unemployment have led to higher rates of homelessness, food scarcity, and more.

Generation Hope is dedicated to ensuring that young parents have access to educational opportunity and the resources to thrive academically. This is our mission, but it is also a must as our entire region looks to secure an economically stable future through education and workforce development. The goals identified in this strategic plan plot a path forward that will allow Generation Hope to reach more young parents, increase awareness of our work and collaborations to strengthen that work, and enhance our infrastructure to better serve students who are working to provide a better life for themselves and their children by becoming college graduates. The past five years have been incredible, and there are three exciting years ahead.

BACKGROUND AND HISTORY

BACKGROUND

The Board of Directors and staff of Generation Hope developed this strategic plan with assistance from Reginald Grant, a Capacity Building Specialist at Fair Chance, a nonprofit organization that specializes in organizational development, guided the board of directors and senior leadership in the creation of its three-year strategic plan.

Reginald facilitated the planning process using an adaptation of the strategic planning approach outlined by The Conservation Company (TCC), which included an internal and external scan and comprehensive organizational assessment. Using the Marguerite Casey Foundation Assessment Tool, an instrument that helps nonprofits identify capacity strengths and challenges and establishes capacity building goals, the results of the information collected and synthesized were shared with the Board. This allowed them to better assess both the challenges and opportunities the organization is likely to face over the next three years and set the context for the choices reflected in this strategic plan.

A Board authorized Strategic Planning Task Force, consisting of four board members and the CEO/Founder, was established to plan and design the strategic planning retreat; in addition to, interpreting and analyzing data which would allow the Board to make informed decisions during a two-day retreat.

Generation Hope’s staff was engaged in the development of this strategic plan and provided support and analysis in the completion of this plan. This strategic plan is designed to be used as a management tool for staff. The Board of Directors and staff will review progress quarterly and update the annual operation plan as needed.
HISTORY

Generation Hope began in March 2010 when Nicole Lynn Lewis, a former teen mother who attended the College of William & Mary while raising her infant daughter, decided to put her dream of helping more teen parents beat the odds in motion. She envisioned an organization that would encourage and support other teen parents in their pursuit of a college degree. Nicole's life -- and her daughter's life -- was truly transformed by graduating from college, and she wanted to help others realize their full potential and obtain stable and successful futures. Fueled by this passion, by November 2010, the organization was in full gear with two staff members, an eight-person Board of Directors, and filed Articles of Incorporation. The organization's official kick-off event took place on Thursday, April 28, 2011 in Washington, D.C. In its fifth year, Generation Hope has provided emotional and financial support to 46 teen parents as they pursue their college degrees. Generation Hope has also reached more than 300 expecting and parenting teens through college-readiness workshops in schools, churches, and organizations across the D.C. Metro area. Lastly, the Hope Conference provides a day-long intensive academic, professional, and life skills training for current Scholars as well as more than 30 expecting or parenting high school students.
DIRECTION AND RESULTS
The strategic direction and goals included in this plan are Generation Hope’s response to what its key internal and external stakeholders value most about the organization while identifying current opportunities and challenges for offering a high-quality system of support to teen parents who are in pursuit of their college degrees.

The three-year period of this strategic plan will be a time of assessing and codifying Generation Hope’s approach to its work, while continuing to build upon its momentum to demonstrate and measure its impact. Concurrently, Generation Hope will take more of a leadership role in working with a broader array of community resources, and will explore actively engaging experts, community partners and committed volunteers to support the implementation of this plan.

ORGANIZATION OF THE STRATEGIC PLAN
As noted above, this strategic plan is intended to be a management tool for Generation Hope with two key purposes. First, it presents the most comprehensive compilation of the plan and its component parts. It is a record of the strategic planning process and the decisions reached by the Board of Directors and staff. Second, it is a reference guide for strategic planning to be reviewed. In the future, Generation Hope may choose to produce a summary version of the plan for distribution to its primary and supporting partners and other stakeholders.

Successful implementation of this strategic plan will result in quality supports and services delivered to Generation Hope’s targeted population. The ultimate result Generation Hope aspires to achieve is beyond providing high-quality supports and services to teen parents. Generation Hope strives to position itself to be a leader in the community, thus helping to shape policy and perceptions of the limitations of teen parents while collectively working with all to create a world where teen parents have access to the supports and resources needed to reach their personal goals and achieve their academic aspirations.

PRIMARY CUSTOMERS
Generation Hope exists to support teen parents who are pursuing their college degrees. These individuals are the organization’s “primary customer.”
STRATEGIC DIRECTION

As a result of Generation Hope’s mission, primary customers, core values, and the opportunities and threats in the current environment, the next three years will be a time of assessing and deepening its services, strengthening and building its organizational infrastructure and capacity, while increasing the number of participants receiving services in its Scholar Program. Concurrently, Generation Hope’s leadership will be seen as a thought leader and advocate on issues impacting teen parents and will work with a broader array of community resources and partners to address the issues that impact its primary population.
ORGANIZATIONAL GOALS
The following goals are the Generation Hope’s response to the issues/themes identified in the environmental scan, which was conducted as part of the strategic planning process. The goals listed below provide a roadmap for fulfilling Generation Hope’s strategic direction for the next three years.
