SNACKS

We’re All Wonders teaches us that everyone is a little bit different in his or her own way—but everyone gets hungry! Treat your guests to some out-of-this world snacks that even Plutonians would enjoy.

- Ever heard a rumor that the moon is made of cheese? Cut cheese into fun space shapes like the moon and the stars. Serve with crackers or crescent moon–shaped apple wedges.
- Create rocket ship fruit skewers. Cut the green tops off strawberries and skewer the fruit on for the point of your rocket ship. Layer thin slices of banana and kiwi for the body and then cut cantaloupe into triangle shapes and add them to the bottom of your skewer to prepare your rocket for blastoff!
- Bake planet Earth sugar cookies. Split premade sugar cookie dough in half and mix half with a few drops of green food coloring and half with a few drops of blue. For each cookie, roll a small piece of each color together into a ball and place on a cookie sheet to bake. Bake according to the directions on the mix for a delicious treat that represents our big, beautiful planet.

Remember—everyone has their own tastes, so be sure to serve a variety of healthy snacks that everyone can enjoy!

CRAFTS AND GAMES

MAKE YOUR OWN TELESCOPE

With a telescope, you can more easily see how big the universe around us is. For this craft, you’ll need:

- Cardboard tubes (left over from paper towel or toilet paper rolls)
- Construction paper
- Rubber bands
- Markers

How to create your telescope:

1. Roll a piece of construction paper over your cardboard tube and attach with rubber bands.
2. Make your telescope one-of-a-kind by drawing upon or decorating it with your own unique design.
3. When you’re finished, just pull the construction paper tube to make your telescope even longer.

To amp up the fun, encourage your guests to try creating an extra-long telescope with a wrapping paper roll or by connecting several smaller cardboard rolls.

GO ON A HUNT FOR MOON ROCKS!

Paint large stones or plastic Easter eggs silver and hide them around your event space. Encourage your guests to explore the moon and search for the hidden treasure. If you’re using plastic eggs, consider filling with candy or other favors for your guests to win when they’ve found each moon rock.

FIND OUT WHAT MAKES YOUR GROUP WONDERFUL!

Encourage all of your guests to sit in a circle. Start the game by gently tossing a beanbag or soft ball to someone in the circle and asking a question at the same time—“What’s your favorite color?” or “What’s your favorite holiday?” The person who catches the beanbag/ball must answer the question and then throw it on and ask the next person a new question. Encourage everyone to share something unique about themselves to demonstrate how many WONDERful qualities we all have that make us special!
What Makes You WONDERful?

We're All Wonders reminds us that everyone is a wonder in his or her own way. In the box below, draw some of the things that make you special! Maybe you have a special talent for drawing, or you're a great singer, or you help your parents at home.

Discover the WONDER of Reading Together

Sharing a favorite book is a great way to bring families and friends together! And with so many different books in the world of Wonder you may find yourself with a group of children of all ages. If you have a nice mix of older and younger readers, consider putting them into groups to discuss one or two of the following:

- Illustration tells much of the story in picture books. Have the groups look over the illustrations in We’re All Wonders. How is the boy different? Which illustration reveals how lonely and sad he feels?
- Suggest to older readers that they do a two-minute book talk about Wonder after reading We’re All Wonders with their younger friends and siblings. Then have them come up with ways to help someone like Auggie feel as though he belongs. When everyone is done, have them present their ideas.

If your group is full of readers of different ages, here are some suggestions for reading with children of all ages together.

Thoughts and Questions for Younger Readers:

- What makes Auggie different? Why does it hurt Auggie’s feelings when people talk about him behind his back? Not all children are exposed to people with physical differences, but all children have experienced feeling different in some way. Let people share why they may feel not ordinary and suggest that Auggie may feel this way all the time because we can see his differences. It’s natural to be curious, and opening a discussion this way can easily transition into a conversation about inclusiveness and the importance of kindness.

- What kinds of things does Auggie do that you do, too? Auggie may be different in some ways, but he is “ordinary” when it comes to the activities he loves to do. In many ways, Auggie is just like you and me!

- What makes you a wonder? What is not ordinary about you, and how can we celebrate that? We’re all unique in our own ways and we should love ourselves for it.

- What should you do if you hear someone say something mean to someone else? It’s always good to end the conversation with a reminder to be kind and thoughtful. Sometimes being a wonder means standing up against bullying when you see it.
Discussion Topics for Older Readers:

Define ordinary. In what way is Auggie an ordinary kid? How is he extraordinary? Auggie may have visible physical differences from "ordinary" kids, but what does "ordinary" really mean? Is anyone truly ordinary? What makes all of us extraordinary?

Take a look at the pictures of Auggie's classmates. Describe each student. How are they all different? What might they have in common? We're All Wonders is a celebration of individuality and acceptance. We're all unique, but we're all connected by our love for each other.

Follow the bird throughout the story. Explain why the bird is in flight at the end of the book when Auggie says, "We're all wonders." What do you think the bird represents in this story?

Explain what Auggie means by, "People just need to change the way they see." Older readers know that we can't literally change the way we see, but we can change the way we judge what we see.

Dear Parents,

This year is the 50th anniversary of the global celebration of Earth Day, and there is no better way to mark the occasion than with Dr. Seuss’s The Lorax! Through this book and others, Dr. Seuss challenges young readers to be knowledgeable, curious, and thoughtful about the world around them. As new generations begin to learn about environmental protection, the Lorax’s message gets even more relevant: “UNLESS someone like you cares a whole awful lot, nothing is going to get better. It’s not.”

This brochure provides many activities to teach your children about how they can protect the Earth—with the Lorax as their guide! Sharing The Lorax with your children is an excellent and easy way to start a conversation about protecting the environment and caring for our surroundings!

Your friends,

Make Your Own Dragon Puppet

Here is what you will need:
• Paper bags (one for each child)
• Glue
• Crayons and/or markers
• Tissue paper — red, orange, or yellow (not necessary, but for added effect!)

Follow these steps to create your puppet:
• Make black-and-white copies of this page, one printout per child.
• Encourage the children to color in their dragon however they’d like! They can color their bags if they’d like as well.
• Have an adult help cut out Dragon’s head, and glue it onto the paper bag flap.
• If you’d like, cut out a square of tissue paper and attach it under the flap of the bag to look like flames.

LEARN EVEN MORE ABOUT PURPLE PEOPLE BY GETTING YOUR OWN BOOK!
People in the Middle Ages used different words than people do today. Can you guess what the below words mean?

Answers:
- Privy — Bathroom
- Good Morrow — Good Morning
- Lily-Livered — Coward
- Most Beauteous — Most Beautiful
- How Fare Thee? — How Are You?
- Buffoon — Fool
- Prithee — Please
- Huzzah! — Hooray!
People had lots of different roles during the Middle Ages. There were kings, queens, knights, stablemen, writers, troubadours, milkmaids, seamstresses . . . and maybe even wizards and sorcerers!

If you lived in the Middle Ages, what would you have wanted to be? What would you do in that job? Tell your story below! For extra fun, draw the cover for a book about your adventures.
Max & the Midknights is a story told in both words and pictures. Look at the pictures below. What are they foreshadowing, or signaling will happen? What do you think happens next? Draw your own pictures and use words to finish the story!
In the Middle Ages, knights represented themselves with coats of arms. These were shield-like designs made to represent knights’ personalities, names, or great successes. Some examples of images on coats of arms include a lion, dragon, castle, tree, or flower.
Uncle Budrick is a troubadour, which is another name for a traveling musician. Troubadours in the Middle Ages sang about everyday events and told stories in song. You can write your own troubadour song! Use a tune of another song you know, but write your own words. Start with a line like “Gather ’round, boys and girls, to hear” or “Lend me your ears.” Then tell the story of something that happened to you recently—in rhyme!

Popsicle Stick Dinosaur
Create your own “pet” dinosaur with this craft idea!

WHAT YOU’LL NEED:
• Popsicle sticks
• Green paint
• Glue
• Card stock or heavy paper
• Scissors
• Colored pens, pencils, markers or crayons

Ask your parent’s permission before using scissors!

STEP 1:
Paint three popsicle sticks green and let them dry. Once they are dry, glue them into a triangle.

STEP 2:
Create a body for your dinosaur. With your paper, have your parents help you cut these shapes:
• A large triangle for the body
• A long oval for the tail
• A few small, triangular spikes for the back
• Rectangles for the legs
• An L-shape for the head

STEP 3:
Glue the large triangle representing the body onto the back of the popsicle sticks. Then glue the head, tail, legs, and spikes onto the dinosaur and let the glue dry.

STEP 3:
Once dry, use drawing utensils of your choosing to draw a face and a design on your dinosaur. Now you’ve made a dinosaur that is one for the (prehistoric) ages!

Warrior Charades

Jack and Annie have learned so much about warriors on their adventures! Now it’s time to see what you have learned with a game of charades!

STEP 1:
First, print out the words below and cut them out. If you do not have a printer, you can write the words down on scraps of paper. Then shuffle the papers and lay them facedown.

STEP 2:
Choose a player to start the game. The first player to take a turn should choose a paper. Without speaking, this player acts out the word or phrase on their paper while the rest of the players take turns guessing. The first player to guess correctly gets a point!

STEP 3:
Once a point is scored, have a new player act out a word. Continue until all words are chosen.

Keep track of the number of points each player receives. The player with the most points at the end wins!

What are unicorns made of?

Let your attendees name the different body parts marked on the image below and then read the provided descriptions when they give the right answers!

1. Horn—Their horns are glittery and shiny because they’re full of magic! If you’re lucky, they can even grant a wish with a bow of their head.

2. Mane—Their manes glimmer in moonlight because they’re made of stardust. If you ever meet a unicorn, its mane will be so soft you’ll want to use it as a pillow!

3. Eye—Unicorn eyes are bright with sunshine and sparkle even at night. Must be hard to fall asleep with your eyes so bright!

4. Heart/Chest—Unicorn hearts are the strongest magic of all! They love everyone they meet and get so excited when they’re with their friends that they have to jump up and down!

5. Stomach—Unicorns love to eat sweets! They love candy, cake, pie, cotton candy, cupcakes, chocolate sauce, doughnuts, whipped cream, chocolate frosting, ice cream—well, you get the idea.

6. Hooves—It’s really easy to track down a unicorn because their hooves are covered in gold glitter! If you ever see any glittery hoofprints, make sure you follow them so you can find a unicorn.

7. Tail—Unicorns have the fluffiest, cloudiest, poofiest tails in the whole animal kingdom! Their tails bounce when they walk and leave trails of stardust behind. Wow! Unicorns are so messy!
Decorate the cake!

Imagine you have a unicorn coming over for dinner—and everyone knows that unicorns only eat sweets! Photocopy the image below so that your guests can decorate their own cakes with sugar and icing and anything sweet they can think of to please their magical guest.

What You’ll Need!

- Scrapbook paper or cardstock
- Paper punch or scissors
- Glue
- Twine, fishing wire, or string
- Material to create a frame—hangers or embroidery hoops work well!

Directions:

- First, print and cut out all the art located on the next page—pair the matching mirrored images so that your mobile can be double-sided.
- Punch a hole in the top and add string to each ornament.
- Using your discretion, space out the ornaments around your frame.
- You can use more yarn or fishing wire (if you want something clear) to connect the mobile to the ceiling. Hanging it on a simple hook is probably the easiest route. Then enjoy!
