Think of a person in your class who is very different from you (keep the name to yourself). First, think carefully about all the things that are different, then all the things that are similar. Which box is more full?