The Aurora Colony Historical Society promotes interactive lifelong learning by inspiring curiosity about, and preservation of, the heritage of the Aurora Colony.

GROUND BROKEN & NAME ANNOUNCED FOR NEW WILL FAMILY PRESERVATION & RESEARCH CENTER

The August 25 Occasion at the Octagon presented the perfect opportunity to hold a symbolic groundbreaking for the Aurora Colony Historical Society’s new preservation and research facility and to announce its name. With their gifts and pledges totaling $500,000, Lee & Connie Kearney earned the right to name the building. They decided to honor Lee’s Colony ancestors from the Will family by naming the building The ACHS Will Family Preservation & Research Center (P&R).

Lee announced the name to approximately 100 attendees at the Occasion at the Octagon on August 25 as he and Board President Spud Sperb used golden shovels to turn the first ceremonial scoops of dirt.

The ACHS Board of Directors and its P&R Committee have been working steadily throughout the past two years to bring this project forward. Most recently, the committee interviewed three construction firms and selected Pence Northwest, a Salem contractor, to build the facility for a cost of $1.26 million. President Spud Sperb signed the contract just before Christmas, and construction is set to begin in March 2019. “Substantial” construction is due by November 2019 according to the contract, which puts us in good position to have an occupancy permit in hand by April 2020. That’s the deadline to meet the conditions of a $400,000 grant from the Oregon Legislative Assembly, which made the first significant contribution that helped push this project from dream to reality.

Current contributions for the project stand at just over $1 million, with another $500,000 to $700,000 needed to complete the project according to plan. We need about $250,000 just to meet actual construction costs for the building, but those costs do not... include the special shelving system that is planned or the building technology that would make the facility function well. In addition, the board would like to restore funds to the account ACHS used to purchase the building site.

How you can help

You can help by donating to the building fund for this project. ACHS will recognize donations of $1,000 and above on a donor wall at the building entry. Naming rights for rooms such as the library or the textiles room are available at levels of $100,000 and above. ALL donations will be recognized in this newsletter. Best of all, each donor will have the satisfaction of knowing that the documents, research, and treasured artifacts of the Aurora Colony are preserved for future generations.

During November and December $69,195 was donated to the Preservation and Research Building Fund, the highlight being a gift of $50,000 from Barbara Giesy, whose late husband Jerry was a great grandson of colonist John Giesy.

Up to January 3rd, 2019, 35 individuals or organizations have made at least a $1,000 donation. Innovative ways of giving have included a group gift of $1,000 from the Aurora Colony Handspinners’ Guild, a $1,000 Intel match to a larger gift from Cathy & Tom Harper, and a stock gift from Brady & Diane Kocher Downs, which allowed them to bypass capital gains taxes. (This can also work with 401Ks and IRAs.) Other gifts have been pledged through multi-year installments. One way or another, it all adds up, and means that soon our building will be a reality. Thank you for your support. Please feel free to discuss giving options with Patrick Harris, 503.678.5754.

The charming and mysterious Octagon Building was once again the setting for our 8th annual fundraising dinner, the Occasion at the Octagon, on August 25. The event raised just over $20,000 and will provide crucial support for the ongoing operations and programs of the Aurora Colony Historical Society.

Brian Asher and Nancy Nishimura chaired this year’s event with the support of the ACHS Board. Dinner featured planked salmon grilled over charcoal. Featured wines included some German-style wines from local Christopher Bridge Winery. Auction and basket raffle items include fine wines, dinners in historic Aurora homes, artwork, and event tickets. There was also a quilt raffle. Special thanks to all our donors, who are listed below.

The 2019 fundraising dinner will be August 24, 2019. Current plans place it in the museum courtyard, as the Octagon site will be a construction staging area for the new ACHS Will Family Preservation and Research Center.

Thank You

EVERY PICTURE TELLS A STORY—ACHS HIGHLIGHTS FROM 2018

Aurora Colony Day— The Friday night Beer Garden drew a friendly local crowd to the Octagon Building. Patrick Harris and Spud Sperb rode our Moline Wagon in Saturday’s parade. Museum activities included a make it/take it project assisted by Ken Hartley and Aiden Leder.

46th Annual Old Aurora Colony Quilt Show

Guests were SEEING STARS at the 2018 Quilt Show. Clockwise from right: Featured quilter was Charlotte Wirfs, who also donated numerous quilts from her own collection to sell as a fundraiser for Colony quilt preservation—a much-appreciated gift! One of the People’s Choice awards went to this Feathered Star by Iris Bingham. Below, owner Thomas proudly displays the star-themed quilt made for him by his mom, museum volunteer Samantha Bonser.

Special thanks to Cheryl Burks and Annette James for their weeks of work setting up the special Colony Store during the Quilt Show! They say this is their last year organizing the store, so if you are interested in stepping into their shoes, contact Christina at 503.678.5754.

Aurora Colony Handspinners’ Guild Dye Day—

We enjoyed hosting the Aurora Colony Handspinners’ Guild for their Dye Day on July 21 and appreciate how willing they are to share their knowledge with museum visitors.

Winning Quilt Blocks—Rhapsody in Blue for 2019

Scrub a dub

A July 23 work party brought out Bill Bennett, Ken Hartley, Dale Rushton, Aiden Leder, Claire Leder, and Bob & Luana Hill to dust, scrub, and spruce up the artifacts in the tie shed and wash down some of the museum buildings and fences.

Let there be light

Victor Leder generously donated his time and talent to install new LED light fixtures on the ox barn, and he did it in 100 degree heat, with a smile.

Can you dig it?

Jan (pictured) and Ken Becker have been working on our grounds, installing a drip irrigation system, removing overgrown sections and planting more appropriate and manageable plants. Here is a picture of Jan at work.

175th Oregon Trail Anniversary in Oregon City

Patrick Harris and Bob Hill prepped the Moline wagon for a tow to the End of the Oregon Trail Interpretive Center 175th anniversary celebration for their 2-day event. Regular desk volunteer Cathy Harper and her husband Tom represented Aurora as historic interpreters. Cathy shared her knowledge of period quilting while Tom demonstrated cooper skills by making buckets. Patrick Harris gave a talk on Sunday on the Aurora Colony story.

Christmas Candlelight Tour

Eight members of Dr. Joe Young’s family and nearly 50 other cheery volunteers staged a series of vignettes in the museum buildings for the 2018 Candlelight Tour. Heartstrings provided the beautiful period holiday music.
FARM & VILLAGE PROGRAMS READY FOR 2019. CAN YOU VOLUNTEER?

Another 4,000 4th grade students are headed to the Stauffer Will Farm and the Old Aurora Colony Museum Village to experience pioneer life this spring! Christina Leder, Kathy Hardman and Jan Becker will be on hand with a dedicated crew of volunteers to help the children make dinner rolls, quilt blocks, candles, candle holders, and wood projects. Christina, who is both our volunteer coordinator and farm program coordinator, reports that available school time slots are almost completely filled at both locations. All that’s needed are volunteers! We provide the training, and there are almost always dinner rolls to eat at lunch. It’s a great volunteer experience. If you are interested or just want more information, contact Christina at 503.678.5754 or 253.324.1582, email christina@auroracolony.org. She’ll be emailing volunteers soon to work out the volunteer schedule.

FARM PROGRAM
March 4 & 5, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Clean up days at the farm. Soup will be provided, or BYO lunch.
March 11, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Training for new interpreters or those who want to learn a new station. This will be the only day for people to watch a presenter as they present a station. Soup and rolls will be provided, or BYO lunch.
March 12, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Training for all. At this meeting, we will discuss presentation techniques, managing groups, discipline, policies & procedures, and have a Q&A for each station. Soup or sandwiches will be provided—or BYO lunch.

EDITH “EDIE” C. TORGESON

Edith Crisell Torgeson, longtime ACHS member, died August 28 at the age of 97. Edie became especially active with the museum in recent years as a contributor to our exhibits on the connection of the Aurora Colony to the French Prairie settlers. She was a descendant of 1847 pioneers Robert & Rachel Bird and William & Elizabeth Whitney. In 2008 she arranged for the donation of the Whitney family goose platter. Here is a snippet from her memoirs:

“Mr. Robert Southwick greeted us warmly in the fall of 1926. There were no preschools or kindergartens and since my birthday came just two days ahead of the January cut-off date, I was enrolled as a petite five-year-old first grader. That September was the beginning of the Union Hill school district consolidation with Aurora. It was a revolutionary step for the mid 1920s. Especially so since Union Hill was located in Clackamas County and students were to be transported across the Marion County line to a newer four room school. Aurora voters had turned down building their own high school and so some people considered their having a modern grammar school a surprisingly progressive step.

“My two older brothers, William and Glenn, and two older cousins, Roberta and Elmer Crisell, often talked about how much fun they had had at school but in the summer of 1926 they thought it would be different. A man would be the principal. He had been a soldier in the world war and probably would be a lot meaner than any of the lady teachers they had previously.

“We would be riding to school in a new bus and Mr. Southwick was not only the principal he was also the bus driver. He told me that my first grade teacher had the same name as mine, Edith. She was his wife. Several years would pass before Oregon school boards stopped hiring married women under the premise that men with families or single men and women needed the job more than a woman with a husband did.

“I recall the bus rides home. On a fall day Mr. Southwick stopped the bus and asked the “big boys” to pick apples for everyone from a windrow tree near Ernie Becke’s home. No apple ever tasted any better.”

BOARD REPORT

The Board of Directors has directed much of its activity in recent months to fundraising, interviewing contractors, planning for the new preservation and research facility, and working through the many special events that take us from summer into fall into winter.

The next order of business is to hold the annual meeting of the Society on February 9, 2019, where a balanced budget will be presented and at least two new board members will be elected. Should you be interested in serving on the board, there are still some openings. Contact Patrick Harris, 503.678.5754.
