THE STUFF YOU CAN’T PUT A NUMBER ON.

Supporting Tourism Cares directly impacts tourism’s greatest assets – people and places.

Tourism Cares has a long history of bringing our industry together and mobilizing it to create change. What started with relief and revitalization efforts has grown into greater involvement and investment in social and environmental impact organizations. The work we are doing today provides real and sustainable change and many direct economic benefits for communities around the world.
Building your Membership Package

We know your work in sustainability is a journey, and every company in the Tourism Cares community has different goals and priorities. That’s why we’ve created a membership packet that gives the option for members to fund specific programs and initiatives.

Tourism Cares Members are recognized throughout the year by their “total giving.” By contributing to membership and adding on options like sponsorship or general grant funding support, companies will see their membership levels – and benefits – rise throughout the year.

Strategic Partners and Chairman’s Circle Members have the option to allocate 100% of their contribution to membership or spread your benefits out by allocating a percentage of your overall contribution to specific programs or initiatives.

A Tourism Cares team member will ensure this process is personalized, so that you may maximize your benefits this year.

We truly believe the Tourism Cares community can change the world through travel. Thank you for your support.

Stories of Impact with our Members

The Globus family of brands and Tourism Cares Partner on Grants

Tourism Cares has supported conservation efforts in many of our public lands and spaces. As part of our grant fund with The Globus family of brands, Tourism Cares supported a grant to the Vital Ground Foundation to support permanent protection of 10 acres adjacent to Glacier National Park in an area of high priority grizzly bear habitat. More than 3 million visitors traveled to Glacier in 2019, many of them passing through the now protected area to hike, float, fish or view wildlife. Beyond tourist pressure, Montana’s booming housing market poses an additional risk to open space and wildlife habitat, but land conservation projects like Glacier Gateway and waterway protections are helping to protect and conserve the natural ecosystems.

Supporting people of the Galápagos with Lindblad

Tourism Cares supported Lindblad Expeditions to provide matching grants that directly benefit the communities of the Galápagos Islands. The people of Galápagos, where 80% of the economy depends on tourism, were plunged into crisis when COVID-19 abruptly halted travel in March 2020. And now, a year later, the slow and protracted recovery has left families, businesses and the community at large struggling with profound and sustained hardship. With this economic devastation, conservation is threatened.

Our Meaningful Travel Summit is our legacy event connecting industry professionals with local changemakers in places around North America. By coming together in-destination, we actualize the power of travel. Our goal is to learn from one another, infuse more sustainability into our businesses with the knowledge we’ve gained and roll up our sleeves to volunteer in and with the local community.

A dedication to industry advancement + commitment to destination stewardship

The event is all about education on global topics impacting us all - climate change, sustainability, equity and inclusion - giving attendees the tools and resources to take what they’ve learned and apply it to their business. When we conclude on day 3, we solicit calls to action and work with attendees to realize their commitments long-term. Meaningful Travel Summits are hands-on, incorporating volunteer projects organized with local partners with local needs in mind. Projects are largely centered around conservation efforts - tree planting, trail maintenance, building and restoration - all projects that largely depend on volunteer support.

GIVE BACK AT IPW

Sponsorship
Los Angeles, 2024

Over the last six years, Tourism Cares has worked with U.S. Travel Association’s IPW and its host destination in activating conference attendees to make a difference in the communities where they’re visiting.

In 2024, IPW will bring travel professionals from around the world together to conduct business and renew relationships globally. As the leading inbound travel trade show, past IPWs have generated more than $5.5 billion in future travel by connecting U.S. travel exhibitors with travel buyers and media to promote their product and negotiate future business, securing America’s position as a foremost global travel destination and showcasing the best of what the U.S. has to offer.

By reaching out to local stakeholders in the IPW host community of Los Angeles, CA, Tourism Cares will design an event tailored to the needs of their specific community – whether that be focused on conservation, food security, homelessness, or other pressing issues, we prioritize giving the local community a voice in how we “give back”.

GRANT PROGRAMS

A vital part of the Tourism Cares mission is to award capacity-building and infrastructure grants to nonprofit organizations and social enterprises for projects/programs at tourism-related cultural, historic, and natural sites around the world. Members can allocate funding in any amount to a grant fund of their choosing, but we also offer the following benefits at the levels outlined below.

We currently offer three grant funds to support our mission-driven work:

The Destination Disaster Recovery Fund focuses on restoring and rebuilding tourism resources and infrastructure that have been impacted by disasters. Our strategy revolves around recovery investments to rebuild tourism assets and help bring back quality of life at a destination once tourism begins to recover.

The Impact Tourism Fund focuses on investing in the resiliency of destinations through community-level tourism initiatives. This fund creates a sustainable value chain by investing in organizations that create social and environmental impact around tourism destinations.

Diversity in Tourism Grants directly support programs and activities that increase diversity, equity and inclusion within travel, build capacity for underrepresented markets and amplify voices representative of the entire travel and tourism industry. The industry’s greatest asset remains the cultural diversity of the destinations and communities it visits.

To support at a higher sponsorship level, please contact the Tourism Cares team to review any additional benefits available.

We are developing guide and entrepreneurship training programs that will specifically recruit, train, and place BIPOC (Black, Indigenous, People of Color) candidates with tour operators to lead authentic escorted group experiences. This workforce development program is designed to align with core fundamental thinking of many large and small tour companies to promote diversity, equity and inclusion in our industry.

Diversifying voices that deliver authentic and diverse stories is critical for creating greater racial equity, preserving history, increasing cultural understanding and embracing sustainable practices in the tourism industry. Tourism Cares, TripSchool, and the Media Arts Institute of Alabama have joined together to launch the Tourism Pathways Project, a workforce development initiative designed to recruit, train and place individuals from under-represented communities and diverse cultural backgrounds in positions as Tour Directors, Tour Guides, Cultural Heritage Interpreters, Storytellers, and Tourism Entrepreneurs.

Meaningful Travel Map User Feedback

“Explore Edmonton is very excited to be participating in the creation of this Meaningful Map as we’re a destination focused on encouraging responsible travel. Having an awareness of where and how your dollars are being spent as a traveler is incredibly important, and we’re glad to see that this is becoming a more commonly shared value amongst travelers. This map allows tour operators to easily seek out meaningful travel experiences for their clients and hopefully discover opportunities that they didn’t know existed.”
