We invite you to become a valued partner of Boston Farms Community Land Trust, as we turn vacant urban land into collective opportunity and support neighborhood farmers to grow the food that sustains us.

Boston Farms builds and protects urban farms across the neighborhoods of Roxbury, Dorchester, and Mattapan. Our farms help to generate income for neighborhood residents while also increasing access to fresh produce in under resourced neighborhoods. Boston Farms is a non-profit organization, supported by local businesses, foundations, and community members.

We are reaching out to a select number of local businesses to seek support as sponsors of our work. Sponsorship packages start at $1,200 annually, and are accompanied by a range of valuable benefits to ensure that we can adequately recognize your contribution. If instead you are able to provide direct, donated services, we would gladly recognize you at a corresponding sponsor level.

In this challenging time of economic uncertainty for our most vulnerable neighbors, your support to sustain this work would be greatly appreciated. We would welcome an opportunity to discuss our sponsorship program with you.

Our Farms

Glenway Farm | Dorchester
131 Glenway St, Boston
The Glenway Farm was developed by the City of Boston and City Growers in 2012-13 as part of a pilot project to explore the viability of commercial urban farming. The Urban Farming Institute has been farming the site since 2013.

Garrison-Trotter Farm | Roxbury
225-227 Harold Street, Boston
The Garrison-Trotter Farm was the first farm in Boston to be completed under Article 89, the zoning amendment passed by the City of Boston in 2013 that permits commercial urban farms. The site was developed by the Urban Farming Institute and the Trust for Public Land.

Tommy’s Rock Farm | Roxbury
1-3 Akron Street, Boston
The Tommy’s Rock Farm was designed by Regenerative Design Group and includes a greenhouse which was constructed by the Trust for Public Land in 2017. In 2022, it will become the first site made available directly to neighborhood farmers for commercial growing.

Astoria Farm | Mattapan
15 Flint Street, Boston
The Astoria Farm was designed by Regenerative Design Group and built in 2019. It was developed with support from the Community Preservation Act, the City of Boston, and YouthBuild Boston.

Westville (future farm)
100-106 Westville Street, Dorchester
Westville is the newest site to be developed into a neighborhood farm. The site is currently open space, with a history of growing food, and was donated to Boston Farms by the owner for use as an urban farm.
