Ebb and flow of oil in the third scramble for Africa

Duncan Clarke, author of Crude Continent, tells Michael Bleby why the dark substance holds as much rich opportunity as it does danger for the continent.

The curse is not oil, the curse is politics and governance. The militias, the wars…

In a curve much considered, an arms supplier recently said how much the continent could lose if African problems did not get managed. The curve is not a line, the Militias, the wars and the ::.
