Sat and Sun August 5 and 6
the 2nd annual Eastlake Fair at Rogers Field, Eastlake and Roanoke
...the two days filled with the selling of special-made wares, a soap-box, music, rummage sale and fashion show... all on the patch of green in our neighborhood.

Booths are still available.
...this year bigger and better...
An OUTSTANDING ACHIEVEMENT AWARD was given to Eastlake Community Council at the Central Seattle Community Council Federation Annual Dinner June 3. The award is for our efforts in keeping the Roanoke Reef off the lake and for working in building a sense of community in our neighborhood.

The award speaks to how well people have been working together, and how hard they've been working. It's an award to anyone and everyone who has contributed their time, energy, what-have-you toward our goals.

It speaks to the interest others have, as well as ourselves, in protecting shorelines, and to the interest other councils have in preserving a neighborhoods right to help determine what happens to them.

The award is a revolving one, to be awarded to the community council who next year contributes the most to the city.

The Federation is a collection of 18 councils and many individuals, working toward making Seattle a better place for people.

APPEAL STILL PENDING: No date set as yet.

The extent of the damage to the shoreline, the bay, and the view, and even a hint at the increase in traffic, is terribly apparent now, as the first floor level is going up. If you haven't already joined the fight, we're still accepting contributions in any amount.

The strength of our fight to preserve the lakeshore and water surface is in the number of people, besides those directly behind it, who are against such abuse of shoreline resource, against violation of law, and for a neighborhood's right to protect themselves and their property.

Call EA 5-9333 for more info.

Part of what helps us to relate to a place is to know the history of it. Do any of you know of anyone in Eastlake who has been here 30, 40, 50 or more years, or who know what it was like way back when?

Please call Anita Klapper at EA5-9333

You’ve experienced Eastlake Community Council’s Rummage

Sales before...this one (August 5 and 6 at the Fair) will top them all, but only if we have as great and glorious a collection of rummage as you usually provide us with. Please dig deeply...improve the quality of life by re-cycling what you no longer need.

Call Bonnie Brown, EA9-4659, or drop by one of the two major collection points: 2025C Fairview East or Trush's garage at 2305 Minor Ave. E.

MONITORS NEEDED -- 20 or 30 in number -- to take care of last minute details for the fair, and to see that things run smoothly during the fair, that kids are returned to lost parents, etc. -- to be host people. Please call Sue Sink EA 9-0235 or Anita Klapper EA 9-9333 to sign up. Providing transportation to the park would be a way to help out, also.

PAINTBRUSH WIELDERS: Come to a poster-paintin' and spread-the-word party on Saturday, July 29th at 9:30 in the morning at the de Grasses', 216 East Roanoke (the lions), phone EA 3-0926. This weekend before the Fair, we'll be concentrating on letting the neighborhood know about it. Half the fun of the Fair is getting ready for it. Join us.

There are still some booths left. Sign up for a space, and sell anything.

Fill out below, mail with $5 to Susan Sink, 2201 Fairview East, #10, 93102.

The Office of Human Resources, Division on Aging, has begun forming an elders' coalition "so that a strong force will come forward to speak with one immense voice for the needs of older people." The staff is asking that persons who are over the age of 55, and any others interested in working toward solutions to problems encountered by elder citizens, get in touch with the Human Resources Office.

As they see it, issues still unresolved for the elderly are transportation, social security, health needs, housing, tax relief, consumer protection—substantial issues that INDIVIDUALS WORKING TOGETHER can have influence on.

Write the Division on Aging, Office of Human Resources, 311 1st South, Seattle, 98104. The project needs your input.

PEOPLE POWER a television program that lets you talk back. Every Sunday at 4:00 p.m. on Channel 5 KING you'll see coverage of topics of lasting significance to people. The talk back part of the program is a questionnaire found in Sunday's PI, and others. It's a chance for people to have some say "bout how they'd like to see their cities run, or their neighborhoods made better, or their lives enriched.

Sponsored by Seattle King County Association of Community Councils, in conjunction with the Church Council, Central Area Motivation Project, Puget Sound Coalition, Anti-Defamation League, Seattle Public Schools, University YMCA, Seattle Parent-Teacher-Student Association and the City of Seattle.

Last Sunday, the 16th, "Zoning" was the topic, and our battle with Roanoke Reef was one of the subjects covered. Watch this timely and important series of programs.

COME CRUISING WITH

this saturday the 22nd

featuring EARL ROBINSON, an ex-Seattleite in a home coming.

It promises to be a very special afternoon, with Earl singing his songs to piano or guitar—songs for and about people.

Tickets will go on sale at 12:30 Saturday at the Virginia V (renamed the Portland for the Klondike Festival) dock at Fisherman's Wharf.

She sails at 2:00.

Pat Hemenway is home from the hospital now, back to 2019 Fairview East, with Art, her husband, Steinway, their black and white cat, flowerboxes, ducks, and a constant flow of friends and neighbors in and out as usual.

A slip of a lady with a warm compelling spirit.

So glad to have you home Pat.

How about your street on both sides, or your block, having a weekend barbecue—just for fun? It's informal, easy (potluck), and a way to get to know neighbors. Have it in your street, or pick a streetend park/

Talk to one or two others, and see what can happen...
