ARTIST STATEMENT

A common recurring image in my work is the human figure-the figure in isolation and the figure interacting with others. In Witness, I am interested in exploring how gender (females particularly), race, cultural and societal differences affect individual and group responses to traumatic events.

ABOUT THE ARTIST

Isolation and interaction is a common recurring idea in my work. I am interested in the complexities and the contradictions surrounding familial relationships as well as societal differences and how these variations affect individual and group responses to themes of Beauty, the Body, and Identity. My current work explores these ideas, addressing the process through which groups (specifically female) navigate these issues.

-Alicia Henry

Henry's work has been shown at the Frist Center for the Visual Arts, Cheekwood Museum of Art, Fisk University, and the Nashville International Airport in addition to the Carnegie Museum in Pittsburgh, and the Drawing Center and the Whitney Museum in New York. to photography as a medium.
