THE BLACK FUTURE CO-OP FUND IS SEEKING A DIRECTOR OF PARTNER ENGAGEMENT & INVESTMENT TO JOIN IN BUILDING A NEW PHILANTHROPIC ORGANIZATION THAT PROMOTES LIBERATION AND GENERATIONAL PROSPERITY WITH BLACK WASHINGTONIANS.

Washington state’s first cooperative philanthropy created by and for Black Washingtonians, the Black Future Co-op Fund aims to ignite Black wealth, health, and well-being over generations. The Fund’s vision: A Washington state, working cooperatively, where all Black people are liberated, prosperous, and self-determined to fully live their lives.

Black people have long been vital contributors to Washington communities and the growth of the economy in industries, such as aerospace, maritime, and technology. Black people have undeniably innovated and driven popular culture that has local, national, and global impact. Yet, anti-Black racism has purposely and persistently undermined the opportunity for Black people to build wealth over generations. Discriminatory policies and the systemic devaluing of Black lives have perpetuated unequal and adverse life outcomes for Black people. Black communities are forging new pathways to self-determination, as America reckons with racism and racial injustice.
ABOUT THE BLACK FUTURE CO-OP FUND

Inspired by the uprising for racial justice, four Black women who are social change leaders came together to launch the Black Future Co-op Fund in June 2020. Through networking and investing in Black communities across Washington, the Fund elevates and empowers Black-led solutions that foster Black wealth, health, and well-being.

The Fund’s four primary areas of impact include:

- CONNECTING BLACK COMMUNITIES FOR COLLECTIVE POWER.
  Creating a statewide network of Black-led organizations and groups to support each other in healing, to share ideas, and to advance a common agenda for change.

- PROMOTING A TRUTHFUL BLACK NARRATIVE.
  Recognizing and uplifting true stories of Black people through media, research, advocacy, and more.

- INVESTING IN BLACK-LED SOLUTIONS FOR GENERATIONAL PROSPERITY.
  Funding the pursuits of Black communities and Black-led organizations and providing multiyear general support that strengthens economic, education, civic engagement, and health opportunities with Black people.

- SHIFTING THE PARADIGM OF PHILANTHROPY.
  Fashioning a new model of philanthropy that centers Blackness, follows the lead of Black people, and intentionally values and invests in Black communities.

As a new philanthropic endeavor, the Black Future Co-op Fund will be filing to become an independent nonprofit organization in 2022. In the meantime, the Urban League of Metropolitan Seattle is serving as the administrative home for the Fund and staff will be contracted by the Urban League, while the Seattle Foundation is serving as the fiscal sponsor and managing the financials of the Fund.
