Outreach Coordinator, Diabetes & Health Equity

QARI (Quincy Asian Resources, Inc.) is a not-for-profit social service organization dedicated to fostering and improving the social, cultural, economic, and civic lives of immigrants and their families. Through collaborations and partnerships, QARI provides culturally competent services, such as workforce development, adult education programs, youth development, and cultural events as well as information and referrals to public or other community partners. We are currently seeking a bilingual Outreach Coordinator with passion in community engagement work to join our team and help our immigrant clients to succeed through QARI’s programs and services. QARI is headquartered in Quincy, MA with operations in Greater Boston, New York City, and Providence, RI.

This role will support the development and implementation of a new health equity and diabetes prevention and management initiative focused on Asian communities. The ideal candidate will have a background in community health, public health, or outreach and a strong interest in engaging with communities to support their health and wellness.

The Outreach Coordinator will build positive relationships within the immigrant population and with our community partners, leading community engagement and outreach to the Chinese and/or Vietnamese communities in Greater Boston. The purpose of this project is to re-imagine, and disrupt, prevailing diabetes prevention and self-management practices; with the ultimate goal of partnering with community members and providing them with tools and resources to live healthy, productive, and joyful lives. This position requires a high level of organizational skills and to be proactive in outreach, marketing, and recruitment in order to deliver client centered solutions.

FLSA Status: Non-Exempt
