Personal Assessments

Assess your skills to connect to and love your people and inspire continued growth.

“As a leadership coach working with both churches and businesses, I’m seeing that connecting with hearts might just be the most important issue in this season. I strongly believe that it is a practical need for any organization going forward because of the need to build deeply cohesive leadership teams that can adapt the organizations to a new and ever-changing future. The materials that Wellspring has put together meet this need.”
