About the Haskins Award

Since its formation in 1971, the Haskins Commission, now the Haskins Foundation has been devoted to amateur golf and the presentation of the Haskins Award. This coveted trophy honors the year's outstanding college golfer and the memory of Fred Haskins, a club professional that spent his life nurturing and mentoring amateur golfers. The Foundation, based in Columbus, Ga., oversees the voting conducted among college golfers, coaches and golf media.

The Haskins Award has name plaques that rival some of the most well known Majors and PGA tournaments. It started with Ben Crenshaw winning the inaugural Haskins Award in 1971 and then followed it up the next two years again. Phil Mickelson was also a three-time winner. Tiger won in 1996 right before his first PGA Tour victory. Incredibly, Jay Haas and son, Bill Haas were both winners. Faxon, Cink, Duval, Kuchar, Cantlay and Thomas are just some of the household names we've seen shine in their professional careers. In all, Haskins Winners have gone on to win 323 PGA Tournaments and 33 Major Championships.

About Fred Haskins

Fred Haskins was born in Hoylake, England, on May 1, 1898. In 1921, he came to Atlanta's East Lake Country Club, where he became a close friend of Bobby Jones. A year later, it was Jones who recommended Haskins for the head golf professional position at the Country Club of Columbus. Haskins' greatest impact was in teaching and inspiring junior golfers.

As a tribute to his teaching abilities, his young pupils went on to win more than 150 championships. In 1922, Haskins also started the Country Club of Columbus Invitational, now held annually as the Southeastern Amateur. Haskins retired in 1952 after 34 years of service as the golf professional, but remained at the Country Club of Columbus as golf course superintendent until 1971. Also in 1971, the Fred Haskins Award was established to honor his lifelong dedication to golf and his teaching accomplishments. The Haskins Trophy, which is nationally regarded as the Heisman of college golf, is presented annually to honor the most outstanding collegiate golfer in the United States. Haskins died on April 5, 1981.

AWARD RECIPIENTS

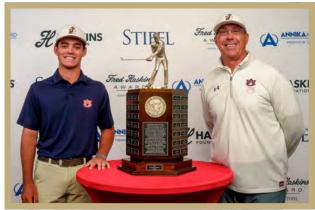

Jackson Koivun

2024 RECIPIENT // AUBURN MEN'S GOLF

One of the top ranked players in the World Amateur Golf Ranking and No. 3 in Clippd rankings, Jackson Koivun of Auburn University received a great number of votes to win the 2024 Haskins Award presented by Stifel. Koivun recorded two victories in the 2023-2024 season including the 2024 SEC Men's Golf Championship Individual Title along with 11 top-10 finishes in 12 events. He also completed 25 rounds under par in a single season. By accomplishing this, Koivun is now the third player in SEC history to capture both the SEC Freshman of the Year and SEC Golfer of the Year in the same season. In addition to his many accolades, Koivun became the first Haskins Award winner from Auburn as well as the first Freshman since Justin Thomas in 2012 to win the Haskins Award.
