

Detroit Free Press

Published August 18, 2024

JD Vance messed with childless cat ladies. Now, it's grandma

On JD Vance's sentiment that the whole purpose of the postmenopausal female is to help raise kids, voiced on a 2020 podcast, I just have this to say: Don't even, bruh.

You thought childless cat ladies were tough? "Grandma" is a demographic that will chew you up and spit you out.

We're old enough to have seen some stuff, and lived through it. We can handle anything, and, surprise to you, we have lives full of our own interests and agendas — we're not just here to take care of the next generation.

So don't mess, son. You're out of your league when you go after grandmas.

Linda Falcao, Esq.

North Wales, Pennsylvania