When I first learned of the Climate Finance competition, I knew it would be a great opportunity to study the issue of climate change in a business context, improve my financial modeling skills, and even potentially win a monetary prize. By participating in this competition, you will set yourself apart from other candidates applying to jobs or graduate school.

-Graham Haederle, Class of 23"