About The Athens Roundtable

The Athens Roundtable on AI and the Rule of Law, co-founded in 2019 by The Future Society (TFS) and ELONtech under the auspices of the Presidency of the Hellenic Republic, is the premier international, multi-stakeholder forum on artificial intelligence and the rule of law, aiming to:

- advance fundamental rights, the democratic order, innovation and the rule of law in the age of AI through international dialogue and cooperation for better policies, greater capacities, and stronger evidence; and
- co-design initiatives with real-world practical impact for the trustworthy adoption of AI at a global scale - particularly for legal, justice, and compliance systems.

Since 2019, The Athens Roundtable has convened participative dialogues with more than 3,600 stakeholders from 120 countries. Participants come from a diverse intergovernmental community, including the European Parliament, UNESCO, Council of Europe, European Commission, the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers (IEEE), and OECD, as well as representatives from national governments, executives from the world's largest corporations, thought-leading academics, and civil society leaders. A full list of the initiative's speakers is available here.

Additionally, The Athens Roundtable -in accordance with its mission and through its working groups- brings together institutional partners under a shared AI challenge to co-design operational solutions. These have included:

- a Massive Online Open Course \(MOOC\) on AI and the Rule of Law
- a Manifesto on Enforcing Law in the Age of "Artificial Intelligence"
- an ongoing program for interoperable AI benchmarks

The goals of The Athens Roundtable are threefold:

Better Policies | Bridging AI policy and practice

- Build awareness of international legislative, regulatory, and standards developments related to AI; and design and facilitate cross-stakeholder dialogues promoting their effective implementation and enforcement across judicial, legal and compliance systems.

Greater Capacities | Building AI literacy and capacities

- Raise understanding of AI risks across judicial operators, legal actors, policymakers and other relevant stakeholders to be better equipped to uphold fundamental rights, the democratic order, innovation, and the rule of law.

Stronger Evidence | Developing and institutionalizing evidence that empowers citizens with essential tools to navigate AI risks

- Help build a robust evidence-base for AI governance, including a set of adoptable benchmark frameworks and protocols, to empower citizens with tools to make decisions on use of AI;
- Advance the institutionalization of evidence-based instruments for the trustworthy adoption of AI globally.

About The Organizers

The Future Society | The Future Society (TFS) is an independent non-profit registered in the United States and Europe, aiming to ensure AI systems are safe and aligned with our fundamental values—now and in the future. We recognize the need for better AI governance to reach this vision, so we focus on identifying the institutional challenges preventing policies from being implemented, and convening diverse communities of AI actors to break down these challenges and to co-shape operational institutional solutions.

ELONtech | The European Law Observatory on New Technologies (ELONtech) is an initiative of Law and Technology professionals and researchers who aim to explore the interface of the two fields, the challenges between regulation and innovation, as well as the transformation of law enactment and enforcement, the introduction of the decentralized organizations and the disruption that technology is having across all sectors of the economy.

About The Fourth Edition

After three successful editions, the fourth edition of The Athens Roundtable will advance and widen the global dialogue on:

- trustworthy adoption of AI in conformity with human rights and democratic values;
- effective enforcement of, and compliance with, laws and regulations pertaining to AI;
- implementation of AI international normative agreements; and
- coordinated efforts for AI measurement and evaluation.

A lot has changed in the world since the 2021 edition, including remarkable advancements in AI capabilities and their billowing deployment in societies worldwide. In some cases, such as in the proliferation of profiling and surveillance technologies or in the use of autonomous weapons, such rapid deployment has raised alarm for democracies and shared fundamental rights.

There has been a surge of national and international AI governance efforts to set the 'rules' for how AI systems are to be developed and deployed. Among others, these include the EU AI Act, UNESCO's Recommendation on the Ethics of AI, the Council of Europe's proposals on legal instruments for AI, the OECD Working Party on AI Governance (AIGO), the U.S. National Artificial Intelligence Advisory Committee, the U.S. Federal Trade Commission's commercial surveillance rule-making proceeding, the Multistakeholder Experts Group of the Global Partnership on AI (GPAI), and the U.S.-EU Trade and Technology Council Subgroup on AI.

The fourth edition will unpack these latest AI governance developments, including complementary legal, normative, and compliance governance measures. Bringing together officials and leaders from government, intergovernmental organizations, industry, legal and judicial systems, academia and civil society, it will facilitate a participative and action-oriented dialogue on their operationalization for the benefit of humanity.

The Athens Roundtable is organized by The Future Society and the European Law Observatory on New Technologies (ELONtech) in partnership with the Patrick J. McGovern Foundation. The dialogue will transpire under the patronage of H.E. the President of the Hellenic Republic Ms. Katerina Sakellariopoulou.

Proudly, it is co-hosted by the European Parliament, UNESCO, OECD, Council of Europe, IEEE, Cravath, and Amazon Web Services, and supported by the Jain Family Institute, Arnold & Porter, and Debevoise & Plimpton.
