Purposes and Objectives of the American Artists Professional League

To advance the cause of fine arts in America through the promotion of high standards of beauty, integrity and craftsmanship in painting, sculpture and the graphic arts.

To emphasize the importance of order and coherent communication as prime requisites of works of art through exhibitions and publications.

On to the sea.

*The roaring, dashing, crashing sea.
Into the sea of life I plunge
All body, mind and soul.
Into future destiny I fling my puny hands.
And with God's help I hope and pray
I, too, may make a stand.
And when my time has come
I may look back and say
I plunged into the sea of life
And emerged victoriously.*

Meet the Judges

We are pleased to introduce Brandon Soloff and Samuel Adoquei, both distinguished professional artists who together selected the winners for the AAPL Grand National Exhibition 2016:

Brandon Soloff is a classically trained oil painter classically specializing in nudes, portraits and landscapes. He paints from life, believing a strong rapport with each subject or model is critical for a unique rendering on canvas. Studying extensively in Italy, France and the United States, Mr. Soloff concentrated on drawing and painting with Charles H. Cecil and D. Jeffrey Mims, fresco with Ben Long on the Transamerica Fresco Dome, and sculpture with Martine Vaugel. He continued in the atelier tradition as an instructor at Mims Studios, Charles H. Cecil Studios, Martine Vaugel Sculpture Studio, the Washington Art Association, Atelier Brunelli, Studio 126 and Studio415ny. He currently teaches at the Art Students League of New York, The National Academy School in NYC and Chelsea Classical Studio. Mr. Soloff has completed commissioned portraits of several distinguished society, business, collegiate, and political personalities, and his work is on permanent display at several institutions, including Dartmouth College and Westmont College. His website is: <http://brandonsoloff.com>.

Samuel Adoquei was born in Ghana, West Africa and has painted all his life. He completed his fine arts education at the Ghanatta College of Fine Arts and after graduating, he traveled extensively around Africa and Europe before moving to the United States. Mr. Adoquei is the first African artist to serve on the faculty of all the major academic art institutions of New York City: The National Academy School of Fine Art, the New York Academy of Figurative Arts, the Art Students League of New York and the Educational Alliance. Today Mr. Adoquei teaches at the National Academy of Design and also takes on apprentices for intensive one-on-one training. His career includes many honors, including a Portrait Award from The Artist’s Magazine annual competition, and a Gold Medal in Oil Painting and Best Traditional Oil Painting at the 42nd and 43rd annual Knickerbocker Exhibitions. Sam Adoquei is the author of Origin of Inspiration and How Successful Artists Study. Mr. Adoquei’s artworks have been exhibited at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington D.C., and at other galleries and museums and his portraits are in the collections of The Harvard Club, Columbia University, The National Museum of Naval Aviation, and in many other private collections.

The American Artists Professional League INC.

In January 1928, F. Ballard Williams, Assistant Treasurer of the National Academy of Design in New York, called a meeting of fifteen members of the Salmagundi Club. The purpose: to discuss the need for a national organization to meet the increasing interests in traditional realism in American art. Most attending were prominent academicians of their day. The attendees all agreed that an organization designed to protect artists' interests and promote traditional American art was necessary and The American Artists Professional League (AAPL) was born.

The AAPL first focused on the issue of obtaining commissions of official portraits for American Artists. By using its national stature, the AAPL influenced a rider to a Congressional Bill stipulating that all official portraits paid for with taxpayers' dollars were to be painted by American artists, a fact that remains in effect to this day.

Another milestone for the organization was the improvement of the chemical and physical purity of artists' pigments. By securing a fund from the Carnegie Corporation Endowment Fund, a program of color pigment research was established for the AAPL. It was completed in 1932, making the AAPL the country's leading authority on artists' pigments at that time. The AAPL was also instrumental in establishing and securing the U.S. Bureau of Standards original set of government-sponsored standards for artists' colors, updated in 1962.

In its ongoing effort to promote and encourage artists specializing in realistic art forms, the AAPL has staged a Grand National Exhibition for over 70 years. Each year, hundreds of applicants from all 50 states in all media submit their work for review by a selection committee consisting of professional artists in the fields of oil, watermedia, pastel and graphics and sculpture.

By Board resolution in 1958, the AAPL created the American Artists Fund, an arm of the organization specifically designed for educational and charitable purposes. Through private and corporate donations and contributions to the Fund, the AAPL sponsors its Grand National Exhibition and awards scholarships to college level students studying American art.

The AAPL, is headquartered at the Salmagundi Club, 47 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York 10003. Tel. (212) 645-1345, e-mail: office@aaplinc.org
