As a seasoned government affairs and public relations professional in public health, Carolyn Mullen is a dynamic leader who has greatly influenced health policy and advocacy. As the Chief of Government Affairs and Public Relations at the Association of State and Territorial Health Officials (ASTHO), she works to create coalitions, advance policies, and increase funding to improve the health of communities across the country. While at ASTHO, Carolyn helped secured the largest increase in public health funding in over a decade, and educated senior public health officials about policy that influences public health.

Carolyn is currently the Past President for the Coalition for Health Funding, and throughout her career she held numerous positions on planning committees and boards. She is a graduate of Villanova University.
