

The Bower Award and Prize for Achievement in Science

The Bower Award celebrates pioneering achievements in science, engineering, and industry – and the brilliant people from across the globe who make them.

Paul Slovic won the 2022 Bower Award and Prize for Achievement in Science.

Slovic won in the category of Computer and Cognitive Science for his research on understanding perceptions of individual and societal risk, and cognitive and emotional factors affecting preference.

Scan this to learn more about this year's Bower award