My name is Emily (she/her) and I am the President & CEO for the academic 2022-2023 year. I am a 4th year Health Sciences student and I manage ResSoc and represent this organization to ResLife and many other departments at Queen’s University to ensure that our student population is represented. I also oversee the operations, flow and dynamic of this corporation. This past Fall 2022 semester in term has been eventful for myself, for our staff, and for the resident student population. This year has been full of learning and growth.

The summer term went faster than expected! Yet this ResSoc team was still able to develop new initiatives for the student population. August training was a wonderful experience for our staff members to work and learning alongside staff from Residence Life & Services. Our staff members supported students moving into residence on September 3rd, by selling residence specific building t-shirts.

Shirts were yet again sold during the Sidewalk sale to first year students and upper year students who previously lived in residence. Our staff members also had the opportunity to talk to students about intern and floor representative opportunities in their building as a method to gain leadership experience.

We partnered with the TriColourClassics (TCC) and subsidized tickets for first year students in residence to attend the inaugural Commerce vs. Engineering basketball game. This event was extremely successful for TCC and for ResSoc as we were able to support our students experience a once in a lifetime opportunity.

Residence Facilitator events have occurred, and our staff have been able to foster relationships with students. It has been a great semester with success and learning opportunities. This is only half of the goals we have accomplished and are looking forward to accomplishing more initiatives and projects in Winter 2023. Have a wonderful break, good luck on your finals, and I will see you all in the New Year!
OUR GOALS

The core executives came up with three pillars to achieve this upcoming year; support, revitalize, and transparency.

Support
- ResSoc would focus on receiving student feedback to guide events and projects within residence spaces.
- ResSoc would host and develop professional development programs for students and staff this upcoming year. This would allow students to develop skills sets required for applying for summer or intern positions within their academic specialty.
- ResSoc would advocate, acknowledge, and educate the organization’s staff and student population it serves for the upcoming year.

Revitalize
- ResSoc will work towards increasing the organization’s awareness by the student population living in residence.
- By increasing the organization’s awareness, we hope to increase the number of opportunities for students in the near future and expand the operations of ResSoc.

Transparency
- Within the internal organization and with the student population, ResSoc plans to increase transparency on the budget, expenses, and flow of the operations.

RF manual
This semester, ResSoc re-developed the RF manual for the 2022-2023 academic year. This project was spearheaded by VPRO Abby White and included an overview of the Residence Society, Executive Introductions, the roles and responsibilities as an RF, the ResSoc conduct system, building team expectations, RAFTR communications, contact information, and resources.

Residence Wide Shirts
During the summer, the executive team planned selling residence wide shirts to students during move-in day, September 3rd, 2022. Logos were spearheaded by Programs & Marketing Officer Juliana Sin. Shirts were given to residence staff in ResLife, H6A and, ResSoc.

Academic Bursary
ResSoc developed a new bursary called the academic bursary which, allows students in residence an opportunity to receive financial aid for their academic textbooks once per semester. The bursary is a maximum of $125 and is designed to cover part of the students textbook expenses. This project was spearheaded by VPSO Helen Wang and Finance Officer Hunter MacKinnon. For Winter 2023, the application for this bursary will be February 28, 2023.

Partnership with the TriColour Classics
This year, ResSoc sponsored TCC by subsidizing tickets for students living in residence. This provided an opportunity for students to attend an event to make connections, experience a University event, and donate to fund further research in pediatric cancer. ResSoc shirt and cardholders were also given to students during the game.

Indigenous Dedication Ceremony
ResSoc worked in collaboration with Housing & Ancillary, and the Office of Indigenous Initiatives at Queen’s University. to host a dedication ceremony for the newly constructed Indigenous courtyard in Albert St. Residence on October 21st. This was an exciting event for all campus as the space is intended for enjoying quiet reflections, performances, teachings, and community building. Artist David R. Maracle from the Mohawks of the Bay of Quinte designed the space and performed music during the dedication ceremony. Indigenous-inspired food was offered at the opening ceremony.

New Equipment Purchases for Students
ResSoc has bought new pool table and ping-pong equipments for Victoria Hall, McNeill House, Leggett Hall, and Waldron Tower. This is truly exciting for our staff and students as they will be able to use these equipment for recreational purposes in Winter 2023. ResSoc will also be re-felting the pool table in Victoria Hall and purchasing new pool tables for Leggett Hall and McNeill House in the New Year.

The equipment in Waldron Tower will be given to students based on an honour system. ResSoc will be providing all equipment in containers and students will be able to access these equipments within their building. Students will be asked to return the equipment into the containers. If equipment is missing, they will not be replaced in Winter 2023. Hence, we ask all students to protect their residence space.

Equipment in Victoria Hall will be monitored by staff at Lazy Scholar. Equipment in McNeill House and Leggett Hall are still undergoing consultation to determine if they will be given through an honour system or if students will be required to pick the items from the Victoria Hall front desk.

Residence Advisory Committee
This was the first year the Residence Advisory Committee (RAC) commenced. RAC serves as a consultative group, advising on decisions directly affecting students in residence, helping to ensure student life in residence promotes the well-being of students and is complementary to the attainment of academic excellence. RAC provides a forum to voice opinions and ideas between students, housing staff and other student support services. Input and feedback are welcome on various matters pertaining to housing services, programming for students, resources and departmental budget priorities. Thank you RF Nathan Beckner-Stetson and Human Resources Officer Alison Wong for being ResSoc representatives on RAC! Looking forward to the great work next semester.

Cooking Initiative
The President and President Intern have been hosting a pilot initiative called, ResSoc’s Cooking Series. This series will include recipes, ingredients, and hands-on experience within different residences this academic year. Below are the four locations for the cooking events and each event will include different recipes.
- In November, it will take place in Addy-Ban Residence
- In January, it will be in Albert St. Residence
- In February, it will take place in Smith House
- In March, it will take place in Jean Royce Hall

All hands-on experience events are near the end of each month on Saturdays. Each event requires students to sign up due to the limited spaces in common rooms. Thank you intern Anna Lou for her hard work.

Professional Development
