On the site of the future Hotel Sebastopol, artist and MacArthur genius grant winner Ned Kahn has created a kinetic installation called the "Art Garden."

DESIGN

A Surprise Sculpture Garden

In downtown Sebastopol, artist Ned Kahn transforms an overlooked space with art that shimmers and reflects the breeze.

By Mary Callahan Photography by John Burgess

NED KAHN'S UNIQUELY ENGINEERED KINETIC ARTWORK—all hinged squares, flapping chain mail, patterns, and shapes—is displayed in public places around the globe and someday soon it could fly aboard the International Space Station. Though usually constructed on a grand scale—resulting in huge, reflective expanses that respond to wind and shifting air currents—Kahn's latest endeavor treats his Sebastopol neighbors to a temporary collection of smaller pieces right downtown, on Depot Street.

OUR GUIDE FOR GETTING OUT AND ABOUT

play

Gallerist Sydney Pfaff of Legion Projects in Healdsburg has an eye for new talent and often works with young artists of color.

Favorite new gallery

GALLERY OWNER Sydney Pfaff of Healdsburg's Legion Projects is bringing new energy to Healdsburg's art scene with exhibits of emerging contemporary artists. "I don't want to do what's expected," explains Pfaff, who says she's excited to introduce fresh voices to the Sonoma community.

Pfaff, who worked as a fashion journalist before launching an art career in 2013, curates contemporary shows that rotate about every six weeks. Her bright, streamlined space, with a huge mural on the wall outside (the mural also changes a few times a year) and a line of 40 lights unswitched during recent renovations, is tucked into a cluster of modern grey studios near Big John's Market, north of the Healdsburg Plaza.

Pfaff has quickly plugged into the local scene, exhibiting the work of artist and educator Jessica Martin (that's her mural in this photo) and collaborating with visionaries like Alice Warwick Sato of SUTRO Wise Co. and chef, like Playpalooza Soberano. In recent months, she's opened up her space for openings and events, which spill out onto a sunny, pop art mural and adjacent greenbelts. On view through August: rare figurative portraits of women of color by the late Oakland artist Taylor Small, paired with stunning abstract explorations in a summery palette of turquoise, mango, and coral by San Francisco's Anoshika Merchandani. —Alyson Peterson

A day with Petaluma artist and educator Orin Carpenter

By Megan McCrea Photography by Beth Schirker

AS ORIN CARPENTER TELLS IT, HIS ART CAREER BEGAN AT AGE 5, with painting on walls. He and his mother had just returned from the library, and he needed to paint. "This was one of those days where I ran out of paper. I was like, 'You know what? I gotta get this out.'" Seeing the white wall, he couldn't resist.

Carpenter's interests have led him from his native Memphis to the Bay Area, from graphic design into a career as an artist and educator. Today, he's a whirl of activity: teaching art at Marin Catholic, completing a doctorate in educational technology, leading workshops on art and racial justice, and, of course, making art in his studio. Recently, he's been immersed in two series: "Quarantine State of Mind," abstract paintings navigating this past year, and "In Danger Species," mixed-media meditations on the experience of being while Black in America. Carpenter had been mulling on the ideas behind the latter for some time. Then last year, when Ahmad Alshay was killed in Georgia, "I said, 'You know what? I can't sit on this anymore. I have to create.' It was more for me to express and have an outlet from the anger, you know? George Floyd and Breonna Taylor, the countless others. That gave the energy for that series."

Carpenter has just been named an artist in residence at MarinMOCA, where he'll have a solo exhibit this December, and shows his work at the Artix Gallery in Palm Springs. Carpenter has been sheltering-in-place—and teaching high school art remotely—from Petaluma, where he lives with his wife Mickle, son Kaleb, daughter Kyndall, and the family's two rescue cats, Lando and Phasma.

4:30 a.m. For an early riser I usually wake up somewhere from 4 to 5. Once I get up, I bring a Christian Pop and read devotions and head to church by 8 a.m.

6:00 a.m. Sometimes I start working here with my students, then head out to get out of the house, and being outdoors is a refresh for me.

7:00 a.m. Early on a weekend morning when it's quiet, I'll wander around downtown Petaluma, read or meditate, sketch there. If I go to Starbucks, get a white chocolate mocha, and maybe a chocolate croissant. If I'm not in a mood to go to Starbucks, I'll make a chocolate croissant. If I'm not in a mood to go to Starbucks, I'll make a chocolate croissant. If I'm not in a mood to go to Starbucks, I'll make a chocolate croissant.

VISITING ARTIST STUDIOS: EDUCATIONAL, RELAXING, & A LOT OF FUN!

AFTER SEVERAL YEARS OF VIEWING ART ON YOUR COMPUTER, THE SONOMA COUNTY ART TRAILS OPEN STUDIOS IS A PERFECT OPPORTUNITY TO ENJOY ART IN THE "REAL" WORLD AGAIN.

Dear Arts Enthusiast,

116 artists are opening their private studios for you!

Now is the time to plan your visit to our community of Art Trails artists. As a starting point for your studio tour, visit our preview exhibition at the Sebastopol Center for the Arts. Or, go to one of the mini preview shows in Santa Rosa, Fulton or Petaluma (see the back cover).

This collector's guide is the perfect tool to plan your visits. Select your favorite artwork and circle the locations on the included map – then follow the map and the blue signs! Many artists have demonstrations showing technique or skills involved. Check the artists' websites for details.

Is this your first-time visiting studios? In the artist's space, take plenty of time to look at the work and let it speak to you. An artist cannot be happier than when they feel your interest or love for the work. Can't do it all during the two weekends? Keep your catalog as a wonderful way to look up artists during the rest of the year. Many artists will welcome you by appointment.

Sebastopol Center for the Arts (SebARTS) also offers an open studio program in springtime. Art at the Source occurs annually the first two weekends of June. Sebastopol Center for the Arts is Sonoma County's cutting-edge arts institution that offers a broad range of artistic programs including.

- The Sebastopol Documentary Film Festival, an Academy Award qualifying festival.
- Always free to the public, our award winning gallery showing national and international artists. Every five weeks is another exhibition including our international book art show in September and juried Not Just Landscapes in November.
- We have a free open-air music series on our patio Sunday afternoons in summer.
- Sonoma County's poet laureate program lives at SebARTS. Elizabeth C. Herron is serving as the new Poet Laureate of Sonoma County. The theme of her tenure is Being Brave.

Indeed, we promote art in all its forms, from film to gallery exhibits, from music to education programs, a wonderful ceramics studio and more – Sebastopol Center for the Arts is truly the jewel of the Arts in Sonoma County and we are proud of it. We are not alone; you are our strong and faithful supporters. Please accept our deepest gratitude. Together we keep the Arts alive.

Enjoy your 2022 Sonoma County Art Trails adventure!

CREATE YOUR OWN ART ADVENTURE!

SONOMA COUNTY ART TRAILS ARTISTS WELCOME YOU TO...

EXPLORE BEAUTIFUL SONOMA COUNTY | Visit working artists' open studios

ENGAGE WITH ARTISTS | We'll welcome you "Where the magic happens!"

COLLECT ONE-OF-A-KIND ART | Create stories and memories of your adventure

Every year new artists are juried into Art Trails. Their work is assessed anonymously by a jury of five art professionals (which changes yearly). The jury looks for a consistent body of gallery-ready work. There are no quotas for how many artists or what kind of art they make. Look for the new artists.

With Sebastopol Center for the Art, Art Trails, builds professional development, an important part of the program with a strong selection of expert workshops and experienced mentoring. In addition, artists help each other by exchanging tips and experiences during artist salons before Open Studios.

We begin preparation of our art and studios months in advance of Art Trails. Much meticulous preparation and thought goes into welcoming you into our studios. We enjoy meeting art enthusiasts and sharing our creative process with those who appreciate our work. We welcome you to our studios and hope that you enjoy your Art Trails Adventure!

Art Trails is a part of the spectrum of programs offered by Sebastopol Center for the Arts, which also makes possible our sister program, Art at the Source, during the first two weekends in June.

IN REMEMBRANCE OF MICAH SCHWABEROW

Japanese block print master, painter, pioneer member of Art Trails, Micah Schwaberow has died. We will deeply miss him. His equitable, elegantly practical system for jurying the work of new applicants to Art Trails is only part of his legacy. The glowing ease of his work belied the multiple, meticulous steps it took to create them.

Always a problem solver, Micah offered gentle, respectful, firm guidance toward effective and responsible courses of action. A kind, loving man, he sought to bring harmony to those around him. Whether or not you were fortunate enough to share his great hugs, please honor Micah today by taking action, valuing each other and life more deeply, respectfully, empathetically, creatively.

RENEWAL

AN ART TRAILS RAFFLE BENEFITING ARTSTART

Art Trails

The Art Trails artist community is committed to supporting young Sonoma County artists.

Artists

Education team members have coordinated with art educators. Short-term apprenticeships have benefited both younger and experienced artists.

Giving Back

This year, we are excited to partner with ArtStart, an award-winning non-profit which empowers teens to explore their creativity and encourages them to engage with their communities, bringing beauty to the world around them.

& Paying it

Forward

ArtStart supports diversity, equality, and inclusion.

Three Art Trails artists have collaborated to create Renewal, a remarkable sculpture which will be raffled with the proceeds going directly to ArtStart. How fitting, that Sonoma County Art Trails and ArtStart will join in creativity!

The origin of Renewal is unique. Charlie Cobb helped exotic woods realize delightful and functional form. Before he passed away,

Art Trails is raffling off Renewal – on display at the Sebastopol Center for the Arts. Proceeds to benefit ArtStart. Raffle tickets are $25 each.

SCAN ME

Charlie entrusted the tall portion of Renewal to metal sculptor Rick Butler, who accented and expanded the piece with a cogged "halo" atop. Still, Renewal called for something more. Valerie Adams' graphic design and glass artistry brought the final stroke of genius to Renewal, the green glass that shines within the metal. The vision is complete now – except for its mission to link Art Trails in support of ArtStart's young artists.
