Living Legends

3 Pinnacles of Educational Greatness

In this powerful series, some of the world’s top educationalists will share three concepts or pieces of work that they think have had the greatest impact on education. Join WES co-founders, Stephen Cox and Anne-Marie Duguid, as they do a deep dive into the life’s work of some of education’s greatest thinkers.

Pioneers of Equity and Equality

Equality, Diversity & Inclusion is now accepted and a welcome aspect of the workplace, but it was not always so. Diana Osagie speaks to Living Legends about their lived experience of life before the vocabulary of EDI was commonplace.

The Future of Assessment

Tuesday 19th

All Day

This special feature led by Professor Tim Oates of Cambridge Assessment delves into the future of assessment, unpacking the fashions, phobias and evidence in reforming education systems and the real impact of evidence from international surveys – exploring the robustness of PISA – its use and misuse at system level.

Illuminate the “knowledge vs competence” debate, explore learning theories and pedagogical strategies. Asking questions such as:

- Does Chat GTP make the grade?
- What are the gaps in educational outcomes?
- What about the rise and rise of Early years?
- What of sustainable futures in education?
