You consider yourself a spiritual, rather than a religious person

You have concerns about war and the death penalty

You believe in social, political and economic justice for all

You don’t feel the need to rely on clergy or creeds

You believe in the common humanity and equal treatment of all people

You believe spirituality is an ongoing process

You like quiet time to reflect on your life and the world

You think it is important to live your beliefs, not just talk about them

You want to put your faith into direct action in the world

To learn more, visit us at quakersbucks.org or contact the Bucks Quarter Coordinator at quakersbucks@gmail.com

Front: Peaceable Kingdom, by Edward Hicks, c. 1834, American painting, oil on canvas. Hicks painted 62 versions of this work.