Greetings ____________________

I am reaching out to introduce you to the Makhosi Foundation and the integral work that they do. After taking a look into this organization you’ll understand why.

They are in deep alignment with the core values of your ________________________.

The Makhosi Foundation is a sanctuary dedicated to preserving indigenous cultural knowledge & conscious spiritual traditions. In short – they are Indigenous Shamancic Healers Unifying Ancient Traditions.

They started as a small team of diasporic healers who were called back to their ancestral traditions through the ancient arts of initiation to transform into cultural therapists, advocates, and wisdom keepers in our communities.

Their aim is to raise African indigenous wisdom traditions to the setting of an ashram, temple, or monastery through educational programming as a form of transformative social justice, cultural reclamation, & restoration of human dignity.

Their roots and lineage are planted in the indigenous wisdom of Ubuntu & Ubungoma.

Ubuntu is the cultural value and philosophy that defines an authentic individual human being as part of a larger and more significant relational, communal, societal, environmental, & spiritual world. It encompasses the belief in a universal bond of sharing that connects all humanity. Ubuntu = interconnectedness.

Ubungoma means to be with song. The song is a diverse web of ancient and cultural practices traditionally used by Southern African people. As a tradition, it has been passed down from generation to generation through experiential learning, art, song, dance, oral stories & cosmology, rites of passages, and a sustainable relationship to plants and nature.
