

The Doctor is In: Thoughts from Dr. Studwell

When I founded ExoConsulting in an apartment in Norman, Oklahoma, I never dreamed of what it has become. Three years later, what was once one company has now evolved into three distinct divisions – Chesapeake Analytics, EC Sports Management, and RaceWeather.

As we have grown and stretched our limits – some may argue overextended – we have learned and improved ourselves. What began as a stray idea at the beginning of the pandemic has grown into a team of eleven employees and regular contributors – we truly couldn't do it without them. Our global reach now spans 33 countries and four continents. ExoConsulting's three divisions represent over twenty football (soccer) players, seven race car drivers, five coaches, three race teams, two weather companies, and an eSports platform – no, we don't have a "partridge in a pear tree."

"Never not working"

As a company, we are driven by the mission of finding our clients and employees the right opportunities to grow and thrive. Our challenge is to find the right club for our footballers, the best sponsors to keep our drivers and teams on track, and the right challenges for our employees to expand their horizons and skill sets. ExoConsulting's success stems from that of our clients.

Today and every day, I am thankful for the support and contributions of everyone who has played a role in ExoConsulting over the past three years. I look forward to seeing what this year brings as we continue to grow as a company and as individuals.
