

Standing at Death's Door

I have stared at death and was not afraid
I asked him to leave, he asked me to stay.
We stood in the doorway
and neither gave way.

The eyes of death, I know them well.
Am I cold inside, is it Heaven or Hell?

Do I care that little, or is it I see how good the afterlife can really be?