The Role of Universities in Addressing the Impacts of War on Health, Human Rights, and the Environment

Barry Levy, MD, MPH
Adjunct Professor of Public Health
Tufts University School of Medicine
Author, “From Horror to Hope: Recognizing and Preventing the Health Impacts of War”

Leonard Rubenstein, JD, LLM
Professor of the Practice
Bloomberg School of Public Health
Johns Hopkins University
Author, “Perilous Medicine: The Struggle to Protect Health Care from the Violence of War”

Jennifer Leaning, MD, SMH
Senior Fellow and Former Director
FXB Center for Health and Human Rights
Harvard University

Debby Guha-Sapir, PhD
Professor and Former Director
Centre for Research on Epidemiology of Disasters
Université Catholique de Louvain
Senior Fellow
Johns Hopkins University

Ella Watson-Stryker, MIA
Humanitarian Representative to the United States
Doctors Without Borders / Médecins Sans Frontières (MSF)

Les Roberts, PhD
Professor
Mailman School of Public Health
Columbia University

Stephanie Kayden, MD, MPH
Associate Professor
Harvard T.H. Chan School of Public Health and Harvard Medical School
Core Faculty
Harvard Humanitarian Initiative

Tuesday April 4
1:00 pm - 4:00 pm, EDT
5:00 pm - 8:00 pm, GMT
To register: click here.

Support provided from the Office of Global Health, Medical College of Wisconsin