The editors of University of California Press’s open-access journal Advances in Global Health, in conjunction with the African Forum for Research and Education in Health (AFREhealth), are pleased to offer a half-day writing workshop for early stage investigators (ESI) from low- and middle-income countries (LMICs) attending the Consortium of Universities for Global Health’s CUGH 14th Annual Global Health Conference. Ideal candidates for the writing workshop are those working in global health who are presenting abstracts at the conference, either oral or poster, and currently writing manuscripts.

The workshop will feature short didactic sessions followed by small group exercises facilitated by the Advances in Global Health editorial team, where workshop participants will be able to discuss and address some of the main challenges of writing manuscripts about inter- and transdisciplinary research.
