CRC is the fourth most common cancer in the United States, with the fourth-highest mortality rate.

- Black Americans and American Indians/Alaska Natives are disproportionately impacted by CRC.
- Men are significantly more likely to be diagnosed with and die from CRC.

By Race:

- Non-Hispanic Black
- American Indian/Alaska Native
- Non-Hispanic White
- Hispanic/Latino
- Asian/Pacific Islander

CRC Incidence Rates by Race (2012-2016):
- Non-Hispanic Black: 45.7 per 100k people
- American Indian/Alaska Native: 43.3 per 100k people
- Non-Hispanic White: 38.6 per 100k people
- Hispanic/Latino: 34.1 per 100k people
- Asian/Pacific Islander: 30.0 per 100k people

CRC Mortality Rates by Race (2013-2017):
- Non-Hispanic Black: 19.0 per 100k people
- American Indian/Alaska Native: 15.8 per 100k people
- Non-Hispanic White: 13.8 per 100k people
- Hispanic/Latino: 11.1 per 100k people
- Asian/Pacific Islander: 9.5 per 100k people

By Sex:

- Male: CRC Incidence 44.4 per 100k people
  - Mortality: 16.6 per 100k people
- Female: CRC Incidence 34.0 per 100k people
  - Mortality: 11.7 per 100k people

By Income:

- Counties with Persistent Poverty Rates: 20.1 per 100k people
- Counties with Non-Persistent Poverty Rates: 17.1 per 100k people

Highest and Lowest Rates:

- Highest rate: CRC incidence Mississippi 46.7 per 100k people
- Mortality Mississippi 17.7 per 100k people
- Lowest rate: CRC incidence Utah 28.5 per 100k people
- Mortality Connecticut 10.2 per 100k people