COLLABORATIVE SCHOOL PARTNERSHIPS

We work collaboratively with school and organization leaders to ensure that art is an integral part of every child’s education.

Studio artist instructors lead a sequenced art program that includes drawing, painting, printmaking, collage, sculpture, 2D design, and media-tech lessons.

Placing a dedicated professional artist in a school residency allows for sustainable visual arts programming that promotes deeper engagement and skill development throughout the school year.

Artists also work closely with classroom teachers to help them make meaningful curriculum connections to support their students’ creative and intellectual growth in academic subjects.

Long-term residencies include professional development for educators, a family engagement art-making workshop for the school community, and an art exhibition featuring student work.

We are currently offering long-term artist residency programs at the Clara E. Westropp and Mary B. Martin schools in the Cleveland Metropolitan School District.

SHORT-TERM RESIDENCY PROGRAMS

Our flexible Artist Residency Programs are an excellent way to bring visual arts programming into Pre-K through 8th Grade classrooms in schools or in community-based settings.

Depending on the needs of the organization, we can create a customized, short-term visual arts program that features a choice of units of open-ended exploration, including painting, collage, wood sculpture, clay, puppetry, and printmaking.

We are currently offering a short-term artist residency program at Garfield Elementary School in the Cleveland Metropolitan School District.
