Inclusion Plan 2024 - 2027
Towards a more racially just FYEG

Introduction

While fighting for a diverse and feminist Europe, the Federation of Young European Greens (FYEG) allocates special efforts on developing its actions in line with its values of feminism, inclusion, and antiracism. These ongoing measures implemented at different levels make FYEG a feminist organisation that takes measures to counterbalance gender discrimination. This Inclusion Plan expands on the efforts that FYEG allocates to ensure its inclusion of racialised and ethnicised young greens and identifies room for improvement to make FYEG a truly antiracist, and racially- and culturally-inclusive organisation.

The proposals and objectives of this Inclusion Plan are the result of the joint work of the Racial Justice Task Force and FYEG’s Office, EC and MOs, as outlined in the Activity Plan 2023-24 approved in the General Assembly 2023.

The implementation of this plan is to be conducted taking into account that racialisation, ethnicisation and processes of minoritisation are not the same across all national and cultural contexts. Issues like ethnicity, culture, or nationality are included in the creation of the objective and suggested steps of the plan.

Following the principle “nothing about us without us”, this plan foresees the participation of racialised and ethnicised youth in its implementation. At the same time, all FYEGers need to be active agents of change and foster racial justice and antiracism in FYEG and its Members Organisations.

Offers of support and outreach to racialised youth are often equated with the substantive confrontation with racism. This can lead to racialised young greens being unintentionally turned into experts on racism and non-racialised young greens knowing too little about racism. Further, racialised young greens come to FYEG interested in a variety of other topics that they are keen on dealing with. They should not be made to feel like the burden of conducting FYEG’s anti-racist work is on them. Our aim is therefore to make a stronger distinction between anti-racist educational and structural work on the one hand and measures to support and address racialised young greens on the other hand. Anti-racist work is the work of all of us, because it concerns us all.

The implementation of this plan (through designing, enforcing, and evaluating its actions) should not be seen as the finalisation of the efforts to ensure that FYEG and its MOs act in line with their values of antiracism and racial justice.
Structural changes

1. Activity Plan and Strategy Plan

Activity Plan
FYEG will expand on and highlight its current and future efforts to focus on racial justice by creating a specific section in the Activity Plan that describes the planned actions in this field. This section should also include the measures planned to include racialised and ethnicised young greens and young participants in FYEG’s actions, educational activities, campaigns, etc.

FYEG will strive to ensure an intersectional focus in the planning stages, including programme design when applicable, on the actions (events, campaigns, educational events, capacity-building, lobbying and networking, etc.) described in the Activity Plan. In the ideation and planning of activities, there will be a specific section that describes how intersectionality will be taken into account.

Strategy Plan
The Strategic Plan (2025-2030) will incorporate inclusion more generally in its objectives. Further actions not described in this Plan can be included as Strategic Objectives, like currently implemented monitoring already present in the Strategic Plan 2022-2025 and/or updated or expanded versions of them.

The Strategy Plan and any other plans created and implemented during the validity of the Strategic Framework (like this one) should play strong complementary roles. The Strategic Plan will therefore preview the expansion of its strategic objectives in order to incorporate the assessment of the fulfilment of the Strategic Objectives to those described in other plans.

2. Racialised and ethnicised young green leaders
FYEG will proactively offer support and tools to people who self-identify as racialised or ethnicised that are considering running for any leadership position especially, but not limited to, the Executive Committee.

FYEG will provide technical, political and organisational support to these individuals by offering resources, for example:

- Access to online tools to support campaigning and being in touch with the membership base (like platforms for online calls)
- Access to software to produce campaign materials, like FYEG’s graphic design platforms, word processors and other digital tools
- Liaison with the members of the Advisory Committee to receive advice and input
- Liaison with relevant stakeholders of the Green Family, like staff or leaders of the EGP, GEF, or the Green Group in the EP to build Support from the Office in any other way etc.

Having access to these support will be proactively included and promoted in the call for positions, and the Office and members of the EC will also strive to ensure that all racialised and ethnicised young greens have priority on getting this support.
FYEG will also put special emphasis on promoting those candidates who self-identify as racialised or ethnicised. FYEG will send an email with all the candidates running for positions, and will highlight the and promote ethnicised and racialised candidates through different strategies.

FYEG will also be available to offer such support to young greens that are pursuing positions of leadership and responsibility in its MOs and/or mother parties.

Through the development and curation of this actions, FYEG aims to pave the way and encourage young greens of colour and minoritised groups to feel empowered and supported by the organisation in becoming leaders at the European and national levels.

During the process of writing the inclusion plan, our RJTF put forward the suggestion to include a racialised and ethnicised minority quota for elected bodies. This suggestion shall be critically assessed against potential impact, envisioned value, and its practicability.

3. Comprehensive Diversity, Equity and Inclusion policies

FYEG will create a Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) Framework covering the areas of hiring practices, office culture and monitoring.

This framework will be designed seeking to ensure that the inclusion work developed in FYEG’s activities and processes is also present in the Office, its configuration and internal processes. The Office and its members will be empowered and supported by the EC to play an active and conscious role in continuing making the Office a diverse space inclusive for all workers.

Better hiring practises

In order to ensure that FYEG is an equal opportunity employer, applicants should be informed of FYEG’s DEI Framework. Said Framework will be linked in vacancies in order for potential applicants to read prior to applying, and will inform the applicants of:

- The measures implemented by FYEG in the bodies involved in the recruitment process (Office and EC) to minimise biases during recruitment processes, including the interview panel.
- The steps taken by FYEG to foster an inclusive and welcoming environment for applicants and its workers, within the Office and between the members of the Office and the employer in the development of their task.
- Specific information about FYEG’s capacities and support on processes to apply for visa and/or work permit in Belgium. The DEI Framework will preview periodic training for the HR responsible in the office to ensure FYEG’s preparedness to take on this task.
- The right of any applicant to address complaints about biases during the hiring process, or any other instance of discrimination.
Such transparency and practices contribute to presenting FYEG as an inclusive employer that offers an inclusive work environment and seeks to encourage applicants from more diverse backgrounds to apply.

At the political level, FYEG will lobby its partners of the Green Family (EGP, Greens/EFA, GEF) to implement similar measures, especially taking into account that in general they count with greater capacities.

Inclusive office culture

The members of the Office will be empowered to be active actors in making their shared work space a safer space for expression of racialised and ethnicised staff and belonging to other marginalised communities.

With that aim, the members of the Office will be encouraged to take part on racial- and cultural-sensitivity training, without detriment to other training that the staff desires to undertake as per their right.

The Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Framework for an inclusive office culture could include:

- Processes for the monitoring of data on the Office members and on the facilitators/trainers on joint staff training (excluding the trainings pursued by the staff individually).
- The provision of allocated efforts to count with mediators who have experience with racial- and cultural- (and/or other relevant-)sensitivity to support mediation processes within the Office and beyond, especially to deal with disputes in which race, ethnicity, culture, and/or another identity has been a factor.

The DEI Framework will be included in the Office guide, and promoted particularly during the onboarding process of newly hired staff and in exit interviews.

The Office will make sure that the interns are also included in these processes as any other staff member, without detriment of the specific learning objectives established by the intern at the beginning of the programme.

The members of the Office are encouraged to come together and join a labour union and/or be in touch with other workers of the same sector or the Green Family and share good practices with other workers on pursuing more inclusive and welcoming working environments.

Monitoring

The Diversity, Equality, and Inclusion Framework will preview monitoring and assessment of the measures undertaken. On top of the data listed in the points above, and in order to have a better overview each year of the DEI framework and potential areas for improvement, a specific avenue for input from the members of the Office will be put in place to evaluate the work environment. Potential complains on the hiring process received through the allocated channel as previewed above will also be taken into account.
4. Inclusion reporting

Just as the Activity Plan is reported upon yearly at the General Assembly via the Activity Report, the Inclusion Plan should have an annual Inclusion Report which consist of (i) reporting specifically on the status of the implementation of the Inclusion Plan and (ii) general inclusion reporting.

Inclusion Plan reporting

The Inclusion Report should detail efforts that have been made to implement the recommendations of the Inclusion Plan, including both successful implementation as well as challenges, failures or mistakes in this implementation.

Where a recommendation cannot or can no longer be implemented, this should be explained in the Inclusion Report.

General inclusion reporting

Any Key Performance Indicator (KPI) evaluated in the context of the Strategy Plan that is related to inclusion will be included in the Inclusion Report.

The inclusion report will account also for:
- The advances in the creation of or changes and updated included in the Diversity, Equality and Inclusion Framework
- If applicable, challenges or takeaways in the fulfilment of the KPIs
- Other issues on inclusion that may be outside the specific recommendations or objectives of the Inclusion Plan or the Strategy Plan.

Intersectional inclusion data reporting

When reporting on the KPIs and other relevant data and statistics regarding DEI, wherever possible, reporting should include intersectionality. The creation of KPIs in the context of this Inclusion Plan or the Strategy Plan will, and the provision for their linked data collection, analysis, and interpretation will strive to include an intersectional manner.

Cultural changes

5. Safer Spaces Policy

The Safer Spaces Policy strives to create an inclusive, respectful, and supportive atmosphere. Effective implementation of a comprehensive Safer Spaces Policy can ensure the well-being and encourage the participation of racialised and ethnicised young greens and other marginalised young greens, through fostering a community free from discrimination, harassment, and violence. FYEG Safes Spaces Guidelines recognise the evolving nature of the document. These steps will be implemented regarding the Safes Spaces Policies in line with the objectives of this Inclusion Plan.
Proactive in addition to reactive

The educational content promoted in FYEG events will include tools for the participants in the events to increase their ability to identify instances of discrimination. The aim is to equip participants with the knowledge to be proactive co-responsible in the creation of an atmosphere of inclusion and respect. FYEG will therefore expand on the current opening sessions in its events to equip the participants with these knowledge and capacities. The corresponding materials (tool kit, session outline, or any other sort of document in the shape and support deemed more convenient) will be created with that aim.

Renovation of the anti-sexual harassment protocol
The anti-harassment protocol will be renewed to reflect the evolution of the structures it introduces and clarify a few existent inconsistencies.

Given the evolution of the protocol since the last Inclusion Plan to now tackle all forms of discrimination, the protocol and its guidelines will be rehauled accordingly. The guidelines in particular should incorporate racism and other forms of discrimination, harassment, islamophobia, antisemitism, and violence and where possible an intersectional explanation of intersecting oppressions, as well as guidance on support. Measures should be introduced obliging the Awareness Team to be familiar with these guidelines and the protocol prior to their appointment.

A living document subject to regular review

The Safer Spaces Policy should be a dynamic, evolving document, reflecting its evolving practice, in order to ensure effective implementation. It is thus necessary to regularly review and update it to reflect whether we meet the needs of marginalised communities, involving young greens of these communities in these processes. These updates and the processes undertaken to reach their conclusions should be clear and communicated transparently.

In addition to the document, the permanent awareness team is a valuable resource in ensuring internal processes are continually evolving. Due to working specifically on the aspects of safer space and inclusion, the awareness team will have a unique insight about the areas of inclusion where we are not doing enough, and it would therefore be valuable to use the work of the permanent awareness team to further ensuring our practices are evolving where we need it to, as well as reaching FYEG arenas.

6. Political education

FYEG provides its members with knowledge and skills in line with the values that bring us together to participate actively and effectively in democratic processes and civic life to build the world we believe in. It goes beyond enhancing individual understanding; it involves critically examining how the world works, both past and present, to empower young people to actively participate in shaping a better future. Through this process, youth can learn to question existing systems, understand the root causes of societal issues, and develop the skills and knowledge necessary to drive meaningful change.
In order to better educate young greens on issues of racism, decoloniality, islamophobia, anti-romani sentiments, antisemitism, and other issues affecting racialised and ethnicised communities, FYEG will partly or completely pursue:

MO trainings on antiracism

FYEG will integrate these issues within the MO training programmes, for example by ensuring at least one session on organisational inclusion and intersectionality, in order to provide MOs the tools to strengthen their efforts on inclusion and offering them important insights on intersectionality, race relations, the root causes and political manifestations of racism, and the need for a more inclusive organisation and society - which they can then carry on in their own efforts.

Education on antiracism at the start of events

FYEG will dedicate time at the start of its events to explain and discuss general principles of anti-racism and microaggressions, as described in the corresponding title of the “Safer Spaces Policies” above.

General political education in FYEG events
FYEG will use its educational activities and communications to educate and promote among young greens, and beyond to our broader audiences, intersectionality and social justice, and important concerns of racialised and ethnicised young greens, thus encouraging more awareness and sensitivity of young greens participating at events and in general.

FYEG will expand and enhance, based on past good practices, the incorporation of sessions on inclusion in its events. The expansion and enhancement should consolidate this good practice to become a requirement in all activities and to be expanded to sessions on other issues concerning racialised and ethnicised communities, and ensure an intersectional approach in the design, implementation and evaluation of said sessions.

7. Inclusive politics

FYEG will strive to include an intersectional approach in the creation of its actions, including educational programmes, actions, political positions and texts, campaign, etc.

Inclusive event and campaign organisation

Following the principle of “nothing about us without us”, FYEG will allocate efforts on gathering input from young greens of racialised and ethnicised communities and other marginalised communities in the creation of its actions, especially but never limited to, those that delve on issues related to racialised and ethnicised communities or other marginalised communities. Seeking further support and contact partner organisations, experts, NGOs and Civil Society Organisations, that work on the field of antiracism, racial justice, inclusion and diversity will also be a measure to ensure FYEG’s programmes and campaigns are in line with an intersectional and inclusive foundation.

Additionally, when inviting speakers, panellists, or other such guests, we will strive for inclusion of voices from racialised and ethnicised communities and other marginalised communities.
FYEG will update its service provider questionnaire to ensure the premises and equipment used in the activities are as inclusive as possible for people with disabilities.

Inclusive political content
FYEG’s political proposals and the actions to promote them through campaign and social media actions will reflect the efforts to include contributions of marginalised communities, including racialised and ethnicised communities, as detailed in the point above.

FYEG’s political positions are the meeting point of the political positions of the Member Organisations of the network. As such, FYEG’s political positions tackle the actions that are suggested to implement or promote at the European or International level to pursue liberation from oppression, by addressing systemic barriers to the full participation of marginalised communities in politics and society.
FYEG fosters providing support to its Member Organisations to become more diverse and include more young greens from racialised and ethnicised communities and other marginalised communities in the creation of their political positions young greens and young greens of other marginalised communities.

Solidarity and cooperation
FYEG will continue to work with organisations of different nature working on fostering racial justice and will expand and enhance the efforts so far, establishing objectives to diversify its partners in this field, also to organisations outside Europe.
Safety and wellbeing for all young greens activists
Activism is a fundamental part of FYEG politics. Racialised and ethnicised communities and other marginalised groups, especially those from migrant background, those who are in irregular administrative situation, people with gender-non-conformats identities and appearance, disabled people, and neurodivergent people is often targeted and especially criminalised by police and other “order” bodies of the state. FYEG will work on the creation of a comprehensive guideline to assess the safety and act on the protection of these groups in the context of actions of civil disobedience.

Capacity-sharing

8. Support to MOs in their efforts to become more inclusive and diverse
FYEG will provide support to its MOs in order to increase their inclusion and ensure the development of steps at the MO level to attract young people from racialised or ethnicised communities. With that aim, FYEG will at the request of any MO translate this Inclusion Plan for the leadership to reflect on potential steps that can be adopted at their national or regional level mirroring and adapting when needed the actions to the MOs context and its capacities. FYEG also encourages the bigger MOs to steer local branches to opt for this support.

This support will be promoted in FYEG events, including regional calls, educational events, and statutory activities.
FYEG will organise at least one session per year to foster exchange of good practices on inclusion and diversity within MOs.

9. Inclusion guidelines and criteria in grants to MOs

FYEG’s MO Grants Programmes will include specific reporting and evaluation on inclusion. FYEG will work on the creation of a template that complements the current data evaluation on gender mainstreaming to also include data and reporting on diversity and inclusion, striving to include an intersectional approach.

The MO Grants Programmes will also encourage the applicant organisations to work on and include topics linked to racial justice and antiracism, and incorporate partnership with organisations at their local level working on the same topics. The inclusion of said topics and/or said partnerships in an application will be positively taken into account in the evaluation phase of the proposed project.

Inclusion guidelines
The MOs will have access to inclusion guidelines on how they can approach event planning and organisation through an intersectional and inclusive approach. This will include a venue questionnaire that takes in consideration accessibility.

10. Accessibility for all participants

FYEG will put in place specific actions to further ensure and systematically mainstream the inclusion of all participants to its events.

Visa assistance
FYEG will continue to cover expenses to obtain visas to participate in events. FYEG will follow a more extensive timeline and invest extra efforts on ensuring enough prevision to ensure that all participants in need of visa can pursue the process in a timely manner so that they can participate in the FYEG activities. FYEG will create a guideline to mainstream and systematically kick-off this efforts when applicable, said guideline should undergo periodic updates to optimise Office’s efforts and ensure successful visa application processes.

Inclusion at events
FYEG will increase the efforts to raise awareness among the members of its bodies and among the participants to events about the need to ensure an inclusive and welcoming environment, also by using an accessible and common language. The outline for the first session of educational events will delve on the need to use easier language, avoid acronyms, etc.
