Meeting Room Policy
Effective June 2, 2022

General Statement
The Shelby County Public Library Board of Trustees is pleased to offer the use of the Carnegie East Wing meeting rooms and the main library meeting room to responsible local organizations and individuals. Note, however, that the library’s use of meeting rooms shall take precedence over all other uses. The use of rooms by non-profit or for-profit groups does not imply any endorsement of the group’s activities, beliefs, or policies by the Board of Trustees or by library staff members.

General Guidelines
• Groups and individuals who use the meeting rooms are guest of the library and their use of the space should reflect that understanding. Persons attending activities in the meeting room are subject to all library policies. Use of a meeting room should not disrupt other library patrons.
• All activities shall comply with the ordinances of the city of Shelbyville, state laws, and state regulations. The library director or supervising library employee may terminate any activity or use in progress that violates this policy, endangers the use of the facility, or general library operation.
• Smoking, alcoholic beverages, illegal substances, candles, and other fire-lit materials are not permitted on library property.
• Meetings should not be publicized in a manner that suggests library sponsorship or affiliation. Publicity notices promoting a meeting or event scheduled by an outside group or organization must include the following disclaimer: “this event is not sponsored by The Shelby County Public Library” Contact information for the organization should be included in all publicity. The library will not serve as liaisons for those using the meeting room.
• Some audio-visual equipment is available for program use, for an additional fee. Library staff can provide only very limited technical support, even for equipment that is rented from the library.
• If you need access to kitchenette facilities, please indicate this at the time the room is reserved.
• IN the event that two or more groups request the room for the same day and time, the smaller group will be asked to consider the foyer that is located in the Carnegie East Wing. Otherwise, assignments to the room are based on a first-come, first-serve basis.
• The application for room use is attached. Applications must be on file before the day of the event or program. Payment is due at the time a room is reserved. Tentative reservations may be made by phone and/or completed application.
• Any room reservation is considered tentative until payment has been received. Therefore, if someone else has payment in hand and wants to use a room that has been reserved but not paid for, the tentative reservation will be removed so the person ready to pay can duly establish a firm reservation.

- Any damage caused to the facility and/or equipment must be compensated for within 30 days at replacement cost and, if necessary, labor cost. A bill will be sent to the presiding officer of the organization and/or contact person. In the event that the organization refuses to reimburse the library, the contact person will be held responsible.

- The library reserves the right to cancel scheduled meeting room reservations for urgent library needs. Every effort will be made to give at least one week’s notice. If an organization or individual must cancel its meeting room reservation, the library should be notified as soon as possible for refund or rescheduling. If less than 48 hours notice is given, the library will not provide a refund. The organization will be refunded after the Board of Trustees Meeting, which are typically the first Thursday of the month. There will be a $5.00 charge for cancelling meetings and not rescheduling.

- The library reserves the right to close the library for impeding weather and will make every effort to contact the person or organization that reserved the room.
